Editor's Note.—The amendment of 1935 changed the date from "prior to the fourth day of March, 1908" to "prior to the fifteenth day of January, 1935." It also validated registration on the order of deputies or assistant clerks.

§ 3344. Probates before interested notaries.—The proof and acknowledgment of instruments required by law to be registered in the office of the register of deeds of a county, and all privy examinations of a feme covert to such instruments made before any notary public on or since March eleventh, one thousand nine hundred and seven, are hereby declared valid and sufficient, notwithstanding the notary may have been interested as attorney, counsel or otherwise in such instruments. (Ex. Sess. 1908, c. 105, s. 2.)

§ 3345. Probates before officer of interested corporation.—In all cases when acknowledgment of proof of any conveyance has been taken before a clerk of superior court, justice of the peace or notary public, who was at the time a stockholder or officer in any corporation, bank or other institution which was a party to such instrument, the certificates of such clerk, justice of the peace, or notary public shall be held valid, and are so declared. (Rev., s. 1015; 1907, c. 1003, s. 1.)

Although a grantee in a chattel mortgage is not qualified to take the acknowledgment thereof, a chattel mortgage to a bank will not be declared void because the acknowledgment thereof was taken by its cashier. Bank of Duplin v. Hall, 203 N. C. 570, 166 S. E. 526.

Editor's Note.—The Act of 1929 inserted the above section in lieu of the one formerly appearing. The catchline to the section has been changed to conform to the amendment. See § 3366(g2).

§ 3347. Clerk's deeds, where clerk appointed himself to sell.—All deeds made by any clerk of the superior court of any county or his deputy, prior to the first day of January, one thousand nine hundred and five, in any proceeding before him in which he has appointed himself or his deputy to make sale of real property or other property are hereby validated. (1911, c. 146, s. 1.)

§ 3348. Certificate of wife's "previous" examination.—All probates of deeds, letters of attorney or other instruments requiring registration to which married women were parties, had and taken prior to the fourteenth day of February, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-three, in which probate it appears that such married women were "previously examined" instead of "privately examined," are hereby validated and confirmed. (Rev., s. 1016; 1893, c. 130.)

§ 3349. Probates of husband and wife in wrong order.—All probates prior to the sixth day of March, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-three, of instruments executed by a husband and wife in which the probate as to the husband has been taken before or subsequent to the privy examination of his wife are validated. (Rev., s. 1017; 1893, c. 293.)

See section 998 as to order of acknowledgment being immaterial.

Rights of Third Parties Acquired before Statute Cannot Be Divested.—If third parties acquired rights, as by liens, against the grantor or conveyances from him, registered before the curative act, though with notice of such defectively probated instruments, the rights of such third parties could not be divested or impaired by this curative statute. Robinson v. Willoughby, 70 N. C. 358; Smith v. Castrix, 27 N. C. 318; Gordon v. Collett, 107 N. C. 362, 12 S. E. 332; Long v. Crews, 113 N. C. 256, 18 S. E. 499; Williams v. Kerr, 113 N. C. 306, 18 S. E. 501; Quinnerly v. Quinnerly, 114 N. C. 145, 19 S. E. 99; Barrett v. Barrett, 120 N. C. 127, 129, 26 S. E. 691.

Husband's Deed Acknowledged or Subscribed by Witnesses. —The Curative Act, 1893, chap. 293, made valid probates where the wife's privy examination was had prior to the husband's "acknowledgment," and under this provision it was held that this embraces, in the true intendment of the act, cases in which the execution of the deed by the husband was proved by a subscribing witness, and not by his technical acknowledgment. Barrett v. Barrett, 120 N. C. 127, 130, 26 S. E. 691. The wording of the present section seems to cover both situations,—Ed. Note.

§ 3350. Probates of husband and wife before different officers.—Where, prior to the second day of March, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-five, the probate of a deed or other instrument, executed by husband and wife, has been taken as to the husband and the wife by different officers having the power to take probates of deeds, whether both officers reside in this state or one in this state and the other in another state, or foreign country, the said probate, in the cases mentioned, shall be valid to all intents and purposes, and all deeds and other instruments required to be registered, and which have been ordered to registration by the proper officer in this state, and upon such probate or probates, and have been registered, shall be taken and considered as duly registered, and the word "probate," as used in this section, shall include privy examination of the wife. This section does not affect actions pending January 25, 1907. (Rev., s. 1018; 1895, c. 120; 1907, c. 34, s. 1.)

§ 3351. Wife free trader; no examination or husband's assent. — In all cases prior to the twenty-fourth day of September, nineteen hundred and thirteen, where a married woman who was at the time a free trader by her husband's consent has executed and delivered a deed conveying her land, without her privy examination having been taken, and without the written assent of her husband other than his written assent contained in the instrument making her a free trader, such deed shall be valid and effectual to convey her land as if she had been, at the time of the execution and delivery of such deed, a feme sole. This section does not validate such deed where it would affect the title to land or property of purchasers or their grantees or assignees from such married woman and free trader subsequent to the execution of such deed. Ex. Sess. 1913, c. 54, s. 1.)

Section 2515 Not Affected.—This section does not affect section 2515, requiring the additional certificate in deed of wife of her separate realty to her husband. Foster v. Williams, 182 N. C. 632, 109 S. E. 834.

Application to Deed to Husband.—It is not within the meaning or intent of this section purporting to insure defective execution of deeds of married women, free traders, that it should apply to deeds made directly to the husband, or annul the requirement that the probate officer certify that it was not unreasonable or injurious to her; but this should only apply to such conveyances made to third persons in respect to the husband's assent, etc., coming within the provisions of the section referred to, when the grantor is a free trader. Foster v. Williams, 182 N. C. 632, 109 S. E. 834. See notes of this case under section 2515.

§ 3352. By president and attested by treasurer under corporate seal.—All deeds and conveyances for lands in this state, made by any corporation of this state, which have heretofore been proved or acknowledged before any notary public in any other state, or before any commissioner of deeds and affidavits for the state of North Carolina in any other state, and sealed with the common seal of the corporation and attested by the treasurer, are hereby ratified and declared to be good and valid deeds for all purposes. Where such deeds have been executed for the corporation by its president and attested, sealed and acknowledged or probated as aforesaid, and the acknowledgment or probate has been duly adjudged sufficient by any deputy clerk and ordered registered, the acknowledgment, probate and registration are ratified, and said deed is declared valid. Such deeds, or certified copies thereof, may be used as evidence of title to the lands therein conveyed in the trial of any suits in any of the courts of this state where the title of said lands shall come in controversy. (Rev., s. 1028; 1905, c. 307.)

For a curative act related to this subject, see sec. 1134.

§ 3353. By president and attested by witness before January, 1900.—All deeds and conveyances for land in this state, made prior to January first, one thousand nine hundred, by the president of any corporation duly chartered under the laws of this state, and attested by a witness, is hereby declared to be a good and valid deed by such corporation for all purposes, and shall be admitted to probate and registration and shall pass title to the property therein conveyed to the grantee as fully as if said deed were executed according to provisions and forms of law in force in this state at the date of the execution of said deed. This section does not apply to suits pending March 8, 1909. (1909, c. 859, s. 1.)

§ 3354. Corporate name not affixed, but signed otherwise prior to January, 1927.—In all cases prior to the first day of January, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-seven, where any deed conveying lands purported to be executed by a corporation, but the corporate name was in fact not affixed to said deed, but same was signed by the president and secretary of said corporation, or by the president and two members of the governing body of said corporation, and said deed has been registered in the county where the land conveyed by said deed is located, said defective execution above described shall be and the same is hereby declared to be in all respects valid, and such deed shall be deemed to be in all respects the deed of said corporation. (1919, c. 53, s. 1; 1927, c. 126.)

§ 3355(a). Certificate alleging examination of grantor instead of witness. — Wherever any deed of conveyance registered prior to January first, eighteen hundred and eighty-six, purports to have been attested by two witnesses and in the certificate of probate and acknowledgment it is stated that the execution of such deed was proven by the oath and examination of one of the grantors in said deed instead of either of the witnesses named, all such probates and certificates are hereby validated and confirmed, and any such deed shall be taken and considered as duly acknowledged and probated: Provided, this section shall not affect litigation pending Feb. 27, 1925. (1925, c. 84.)

§ 3356. Proof of corporate articles before officer authorized to probate.—All proofs of articles of agreement for the creation of corporations which were, prior to the eighteenth day of February, one thousand nine hundred and one, made before any officer who was at that time authorized by the law to take proofs and acknowledgments of deeds and mortgages are ratified. (Rev., s. 1027; 1901, c. 170.)

For a curative section, see section 1134.

§ 3357. Before officials of wrong state.—In all cases where the acknowledgment, examination and probate of any deed, mortgage, power of attorney or other instrument required or authorized to be registered has been taken before any judge, clerk of a court of record, notary public having a notarial seal, mayor of a city having a seal, or justice of the peace of a state other than the state in which the grantor, maker or subscribing witness resided at the time of the execution, acknowledgment, examination or probate thereof, and such acknowledgment, examination or probate is in other respects according to law, and such instrument has been duly ordered to registration and has been registered, then such acknowledgment, examination, probate and registration are hereby in all respects made valid and binding. This section applies to probate and acknowledgments of deputy clerks of other states when such probate and acknowledgment has been attested by the official seal of said office and adjudged sufficient and in due form of law by the clerk of the court in the state where the instrument is required to be registered. This section does not affect any suit pending March 6, 1905. (Rev., s. 1013; 1905, c. 505.)

§ 3358. Before notaries and clerks in other states.—All deeds and conveyances made for lands in this state which have, previous to February fifteenth, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-three, been proved before a notary public or clerk of a court of record, or before a court of record, not including mayor's court, of any other state, where such proof has been duly certified by such notary or clerk under his official seal, or the seal of the court, or in accordance with the act of congress regulating the certifying of records of the courts of one state to another state, or under the seal of such courts, and such deed or conveyance, with the certificate, has been registered in the office of register of deeds in the book of records thereof for the county in which such lands were situate at the time of such registration, are declared to be validly registered, and the proof and registration is adjudged valid. All deeds and conveyances so proved, certified and registered, or certified copies of the same, may be used as evidence of title for the lands on the trial of any suit in any courts where title to the lands come into controversy. (Rev., ss. 1022, 1023; Code, ss. 1262, 1263; 1883, c. 129, ss. 1, 2; 1885, c. 11; 1915, c. 213.)

For registration of certified copies and their value as evidence, see sec. 3319.

Deed Probated in Tennessee in 1869. — When no vested rights are impaired, a deed dated in 1869 is not incompetent evidence upon the ground of a defective probate, showing the acknowledgment of the grantor and his wife, and her privy examination, taken before the clerk of a certain county court of Tennessee, with the seal of that court affixed to, apparently the seal of his office, the same being validated by this section. Penland v. Barnard, 146 N. C. 378, 59 S. E. 1109.

Registry of Deed Upon Certificate of Commissioner of Deeds from Another State.—A deed registered in the proper county upon the certificate of a commissioner of deeds from another state must have the fiat from the clerk ordering it to be registered, or the registration will be invalid. This defect is not cured by this section. Cozard v. McAden, 148 N. C. 10, 61 S. E. 633. See section 3362.

Constitutionality.—The Legislature has the constitutional right to enact statutes making valid deeds theretofore invalid by reason of defective probate, when no vested rights are impaired. Penland v. Barnard, 146 N. C. 378, 59 S. E. 1109.

§ 3359. Acknowledgment by resident taken out of state.—When prior to the ninth day of March, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-five, a deed or mortgage executed by a resident of this state has been proved or acknowledged by the maker thereof before a notary public of any other state of the United States, and has been ordered to be registered by the clerk of the superior court of the county in which the land conveyed is situated, and said deed or mortgage has been registered, such registration is valid. (Rev., s. 1019; 1895, c. 181.)

§ 3360. Before deputy clerks of courts of other states.—Where any deed or conveyance of lands in this state, executed prior to January first, one thousand nine hundred and thirteen, has been acknowledged by the grantor or the privy examination of any married woman has been taken before the deputy clerk of a court of record of any other state, and the certificate of acknowledgment and privy examination is otherwise sufficient under the laws of this state, except that it appears to have been signed in the name of the clerk of said court, by the deputy clerk, and the seal of the court has been affixed thereto, and such certificate has been duly approved by the clerk of the superior court of this state in the county where the lands conveyed are situated and the instrument ordered to be recorded, such certificate and probate and the registration made thereon is validated, and the conveyance, if otherwise sufficient, is declared valid. This section does not apply to any litigation pending March 6, 1913. (1913, c. 57, ss. 1, 2.)

§ 3361. Sister state probates without governor's authentication. — In all cases where any deed concerning lands or any power of attorney for the conveyance of the same, or any other instrument required or allowed to be registered, has been, prior to the twenty-ninth day of January, one thousand nine hundred and one, acknowledged by the grantor therein, or proved and the private examination of any married woman, who was a party thereto, taken according to law, before any judge of a supreme, superior or circuit court of any other state or territory of the United States where the parties to such instrument resided, and the certificate of such judge as to such acknowledgment, probate or private examination, and also the certificate of the secretary of state of said state or territory instead of the governor thereof (as required by the laws of this state then in force) that the judge, before whom the acknowledgment or probate and private examination were taken, was at the time of taking the same a judge as aforesaid, are attached to said deed, or other instrument, and the said deed or other instrument, having said certificates attached, has been exhibited before the former judge of probate, or the clerk of the superior court of the county in which the property is situated, and such acknowledgment, or probate and private examination have been adjudged by him to be sufficient and said deed or other instrument ordered to be registered and has been registered accordingly, such probate and registration shall be valid. Nothing herein contained affects the rights of third parties who are purchasers for value, without notice, from the grantor in such deed or other instrument. (Rev., s. 1014; 1901, c. 39.)

§ 3362. Before commissioners of deeds.—Any deed or other instrument permitted by law to be registered, and which has prior to the third day of March, one thousand nine hundred and thirteen, been proved or acknowledged before a commissioner of deeds, is validated; and its registration is authorized and validated. Nothing in this section affects litigation pending March 3, 1913. (1913, c. 39, s. 2.)

Does Not Interfere with Vested Rights.—This section is remedial in character and beneficient in purpose—making for the saving of titles, and not their destruction—yet they will not be permitted to impair or to interfere with the vested rights of others. Champion Fibre Co. v. Cozard, 183 N. C. 600, 611, 112 S. E. 810. See notes of this case under section 3305

Same—Purchasers at Execution Sale.—This section cannot have the effect of impairing vested rights of purchasers at an execution sale under judgment, or those holding the land under his deed. Champion Fibre Co. v. Cozard, 183 N. C. 600, 112 S. E. 810.

§ 3363. Foreign probates omitting seals.—In all cases where the acknowledgment, privy examination or other proof of the execution of any instrument authorized or required to be registered has been taken by or before any ambassador, minister, consul, vice consul, vice consul general or commercial agent of the United States in any country beyond the limits of the United States, and such instrument has heretofore been recorded in any county in this state, but the official before whom it was taken has omitted to attach his seal of office, or it does not appear of record that such seal was attached to the instrument, or such official has certified the same as under his "official seal" or seal of his office, or words of similar import, and no such seal appears of record, then all such acknowledgments, privy examinations or other proof of such instruments, and the registration thereof, are hereby made in all respects valid, and such instruments, after the ratification hereof, shall be competent to be read in evidence. This section does not apply to suits pending March 7, 1913. (1913, c. 69, s. 1.)

§ 3364. Before consuls general.—Any deed or other instrument permitted by law to be registered, and which has prior to the thirteenth day of October, nineteen hundred and thirteen, been proved or acknowledged before a "consul general," is validated; and its registration is authorized and validated. This section does not affect litigation pending October 13, 1913. (Ex. Sess. 1913, c. 72, s. 2.)

§ 3365. Before vice consuls and vice consuls general.—The order for registration by the clerk of the superior court and the registration thereof of all deeds of conveyance and other instruments in any county of this state prior to January first, one thousand nine hundred and five, upon the certificate of any vice consul or vice consul general of the United States residing in a foreign country, certifying in due form under his name and the official seal of the United States consul or United States consul general of the same place and country where such vice consul or vice consul general resided and acted, that he has taken the proof or acknowledgments of the parties to such instruments, together with the privy examinations of married women parties thereto, are hereby, together with such proof and acknowledgments, privy examinations and certificates, validated. (Rev., s. 1024; 1905, c. 451, s. 2.)

Application to Right Prior to Statute—Person Not Claiming from Same Grantor Not Protected.—This section validating acknowledgment of deeds in foreign countries before "vice consuls and vice consuls general," though not valid against a deed from the same grantor duly registered or a lien against the grantor acquired before the validating act, is good as against a person not claiming under the grantor therein. Powers v. Baker, 152 N. C. 718, 68 S. E. 203.

§ 3366. Before masters in chancery.—All probates, acknowledgments and private examinations of deeds and conveyances of land heretofore taken before masters in equity or masters in chancery in any other state are declared to be valid, and all registrations of such deeds or conveyances upon such probates, acknowledgments and private examinations, or any of them, are hereby declared to be sufficient. All such deeds and conveyances and registration thereof, and all certified copies of such registations, shall be received in evidence or otherwise used in the same manner and with the same force and effect as other deeds and conveyances with probates, acknowledgments, or private examinations made in accordance with provisions of statutes of this state in force at the time and as registrations thereof and certified copies of such registrations. This section does not apply to any suit pending in the courts of this state or of the United States on February 15, 1911. Nothing in this section contained shall have effect to deprive any one of any legal rights acquired, before its passage, from the grantors in such deeds or conveyances subsequently to their execution, where the deeds or conveyances by which such rights were acquired have been duly acknowledged or probated and registered. (1911, c. 10.)

§ 3366(a). Validation of probate of deeds by clerks of courts of record of other states, where official seal is omitted.—In all cases where, prior to the first day of January, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-one, the acknowledgment, privy examination of a married woman, or other proof of the execution of any deed, mortgage, other instrument authorized to be registered has been taken before a clerk of a court of record in another state, and such clerk has failed or neglected to affix his official seal to his certificate of such acknowledgment, privy examination, or other proof of execution, of such deed, mortgage or other instrument, or where such court had no official seal and no official seal was affixed to such certificate by reason of that fact, and such deed, mortgage, or other instrument has been ordered to registration by the clerk of the superior court of any county in this state and has been registered, the probate of any and every such deed, mortgage, or other instrument authorized to be registered shall be and hereby is to all intents and purposes validated: Provided, that this section shall not apply to litigation pending February 5, 1921. (1921, c. 15, ss. 1, 2.)

§ 3366(b). Validation of probates by different officers of deeds by wife and husband.—In all cases where, prior to the second day of March, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-five, the acknowledgment, privy examination of a married woman, or other proof of the execution of any deed, mortgage, or other instrument, authorized to be registered, executed by husband and wife, has been taken as to the husband and wife in different states and by different officers having power to take acknowledgments, any and every such acknowledgment, privy examination of a married woman, or other proof of execution, and the probate of any and every such deed, mortgage or other instrument shall be and hereby is, to all intents and purposes validated. This section shall not apply to litigation pending February 5, 1921, or to vested rights. (1921, c. 19, ss. 1, 4.)

§ 3366(c). Registration without formal order validated.—In all cases where the acknowledgment, privy examination of a married woman, or other proof of the execution of any deed, mortgage or other instrument, authorized to be registered, has been taken before a commissioner in another state appointed by the probate judge of any county of this state, under the provisions of section twenty of chapter thirty-five of Battle's Revisal, during the time said chapter remained in force and effect, and such commissioner has certified to such acknowledgment, privy examination or other proof, and has returned such deed, mortgage or other instrument to said probate judge, with his certificate endorsed thereon, and such deed, mortgage or other instrument, together with such certificate, has been registered, without any adjudication or order of registration by such probate judge, the probate and registration of any and every such deed shall be, and hereby is, to all intents and purposes validated. This section shall not apply to litigation pending February 5, 1921, or to vested rights. (1921, c. 19, ss. 2, 4.)

§ 3366(d). Same.—In all cases where any deed, mortgage or other instrument has heretofore been acknowledged or probated in accordance with the provisions of this law, and such deed, mortgage or other instrument has been registered, without any order of registration by the probate judge or clerk of the superior court appearing thereon, the probate and registration of any and every such deed, mortgage or other instrument shall be, and hereby is to all intents and purposes validated. This section shall not apply to litigation pending February 5, 1921, or to vested rights. (1921, c. 19, ss. 3, 4.)

§ 3366(e). Validation of acknowledgments taken by notaries public holding other office.—In every case where deeds or other instruments have been acknowledged before a notary public, when the notary public, at the time was also holding some other office, and the deed or other instrument has been duly probated and recorded, such acknowledgment taken by such notary public is hereby declared to be sufficient and valid: Provided, this section shall not affect vested rights or litigation pending February 3, 1921. (1921, c. 21.)

§ 3366(f). Validation of certain probates of deeds before consular agents of the United States.—In all cases where the acknowledgment, privy examination of a married woman, or other proof of the execution of any deed, mortgage or other instrument authorized or required to be registered has been taken before any consular agent of the United States, during the time chapter thirty-five of Battle's Revisal remained in force and effect, and such acknowledgment, privy examination, or other proof of the execution of such deed, mortgage, or other instrument is in other respects regular and in proper form, and such deed, mortgage, or other instrument has been duly ordered to registration and registered in the proper county, the acknowledgment, probate, and registration of any and every such deed, mortgage, or other instrument is hereby validated as fully and to the same effect as though such acknowledgment, privy examination, or other proof of execution had been taken before one of the officers named in subsection five of section two of said chapter thirty-five of Battle's Revisal. No litigation pending March 8, 1921, shall be affected by this section. (1921, c. 157.)

§ 3366(g). Probates before stockholders and directors of banks.—No acknowledgment or proof of execution, including privy examination of married women, of any mortgage, or deed of trust executed to secure the payment of any indebtedness to any banking corporation, taken prior to the first day of January, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-three (1923), shall be held invalid by reason of the fact that the officer taking such acknowledgment, proof, or privy examination was a stockholder or director in such banking corporation: Provided, that this section shall not affect litigation pending February 7, 1923. (1923, c. 17.)

Editor's Note.—A provision for a similar purpose to that of this section is found in section 3345.

This section is summarized in 1 N. C. Law Rev. 302.

§ 3366(g 1). Acknowledgments taken by stockholder, officer, or director of bank.—No acknowledgment or proof of execution, including privy examination of married women, of any mortgage or deed of trust executed to secure the payment of any indebtedness to any banking corporation taken prior to the first day of January, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-four, shall be held invalid by reason of the fact that the officer taking such acknowledgment, proof, or privy examination was a stockholder, officer, or director in such banking corporation: Provided, that this act shall not affect litigation pending August 22, 1924. (1924, c. 68.)

§ 3366(g2). Acknowledgment and registration by officer or stockholder in building and loan association.—All acknowledgments and proof of execution, including privy examination of married women, of any mortgage or deed of trust executed to secure the payment of any indebtedness to any building and loan association prior to the first day of January, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-nine, shall not be, nor held to be, invalid by reason of the fact that the clerk of the Superior Court, justice of the peace, notary public, or other officer taking such acknowledgment, proof of execution or privy examination, was an officer or stockholder in such building and loan association; but such proofs and acknowledgments of all such instruments, and the registration thereof, if in all other respects valid, are hereby declared to be valid.

Nor shall the registration of any such mortgage or deed of trust ordered to be registered by the clerk of the Superior Court, or by any deputy or assistant clerk of the Superior Court, be or held to be invalid by reason of the fact that the clerk of the Superior Court, or deputy, or assistant clerk of the Superior Court, ordering such mortgages or deeds of trust to be registered was an officer or stockholder in any building and loan association, whose indebtedness is secured in and by such mortgage or deed of trust. (1924, c. 108; 1929, c. 146, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—The Act of 1929 made this section applicable to acknowledgments and registrations prior to Jan. 1, 1929, instead of Aug. 10, 1924 as formerly provided. The act does not apply to pending litigation.

§ 3366(h). Acknowledgments taken by notaries interested as trustee or holding other office.—In every case where deeds and other instruments have been acknowledged and privy examination of wives had before notaries public or justices of the peace prior to January first, one thousand nine hundred thirty-one, when the notary public or justice of the peace at the time was interested as trustee in said instrument or at the time was also holding some other office, and the deed or other instrument has been duly probated and recorded, such acknowledgment and privy examination taken by such notary public or justice of the peace is hereby declared to be sufficient and valid: Provided, this section shall not affect litigation pending March 1, 1923. (1923, c. 61; 1931, cc. 166, 438.)

Editor's Note.—It is suggested in 1 N. C. Law Rev. 302, where it is analyzed, that this section should be considered as an addition to section 3344.

The first 1931 amendment, which amended this section by inserting the words "prior to January first, one thousand nine hundred thirty-one," provided that it should not affect litigations pending January thirty-first, one thousand nine hundred thirty-one. The other 1931 amendment inserted the words "or justice of the peace."

§ 3366(i). Validation of instruments registered without probate.—In every case where it shall appear from the records in the office of the register of deeds of any county in the state that any instrument of writing required or allowed by law to be registered prior to January first, eighteen hundred and sixty-nine, without any acknowledgment, proof, privy examination, or probate, or upon a defective acknowledgment, proof, privy examination, or probate, the record of such instrument may, notwithstanding, be read in evidence in any of the courts of this state, if otherwise competent. This section shall not apply to suits pending March 6, 1923, or affect any vested rights. (1923, c. 215, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—It is suggested in 1 N. C. Law Rev. 302, where this section is summarized, that it probably means that the registration must have been made prior to 1869, and that this and section 3366(j) should be considered as amendments or additional sections to ch. 35 Art. 2, secs. 1751-1778, and ch. 65, Art. 4, secs 3329-3366.

For act relating to validation applicable to Graham and Cherokee counties only, see Public Laws of 1935, chapter 92.

§ 3366(i)1. Validation of corporate deed with mistake as to officer's name.—In all cases where the deed of a corporation executed before the first day of January, 1918, is properly executed, properly recorded and there is error in the probate of said corporation's deed as to the name or names of the officers in said probate, said deed shall be construed to be a deed of the same force and effect as if said probate were in every way proper. (1933, c. 412, s. 1.)

§ 3366(j). Registration on defective probates beyond state.—In every case where it shall appear from the records in the office of the register of deeds of any county in this state that any instrument required or allowed by law to be registered, bearing date prior to the year one thousand eight hundred and thirty-five, executed by any person or persons residing in any of the United States, other than this state, or in any of the territories of the United States, or in the District of Columbia, has been proven or acknowledged, or the privy examination of any feme covert taken thereto, before any officer or person authorized by any of the laws of this state in force prior to the said year one thousand eight hundred and thirty-five to take such proofs, privy examinations and acknowledgments, and the said instruments has been registered in the proper county without the certificate of the governor of the state or territory in which such proofs, acknowledgments or privy examinations were taken, or of the secretary of state of the United States, when such certificate or certificates were required, as to the official character of the person taking such acknowledgment, proof or privy examination, as aforesaid, and without an order of registration made by a court or judge in this state having jurisdiction to make such order, then and in all such cases such proofs, privy examinations, acknowledgments and registrations are hereby in all respects fully validated and confirmed and declared to be sufficient in law, and such instruments so registered may be read in evidence in any of the courts of this state. This section shall not apply to suits pending March 6, 1923, or affect any vested rights. (1923, c. 215, ss. 2, 3.)

§ 3366(j1). Certificate of clerks without seal.—All certificates of acknowledgment and all verifications of pleadings, affidavits, and other instruments heretofore executed by clerks of the Superior Court of the State and which do not bear the official seal of such clerks, are hereby validated in all cases in which the instrument bearing such acknowledgment or certification are filed or recorded in any county in the State other than the county in which the clerk executing such certificates of acknowledgment or vertifi-cations resides, and such acknowledgments and verifications are hereby made and declared to be binding, valid and effective to the same extent and in the same manner as if said official seal had been affixed. (1925, c. 248.)

See note to preceding section.

§ 3366(j2). Acknowledgments taken by officer who was grantor.—In all cases where a deed or deeds dated prior to the first day of January, one thousand nine hundred and ten, purporting to convey lands, have been registered in the office of the Register of Deeds of the county where the lands conveyed in said deeds are located, prior to said first day of January, nineteen hundred and ten, and the acknowledgments or proof of execution of such deed or deeds has been taken as to some of the grantors by an officer who was himself one of the grantors named in such deed or deeds, such defective execution, acknowledgment and proof of execution and probate of such deed or deeds thereon and the registration thereof as above described, shall be, and the same are hereby declared to be in all respects valid, and such deed or deeds shall be declared to be in all respects duly executed, probated and recorded to the same effect as if such officer taking such proof or acknowledgment of execution had not been named as a grantor therein, or in anywise interested therein. (1929, c. 48, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—By express provision this section does not affect actions and proceedings pending at the time of its ratification which was on the 21st of February, 1929.

§ 3366(j3). Seal of acknowledging officer omitted; deeds made presumptive evidence.—In all cases where deeds appear to have been executed for land prior to January 1, 1900, and appear to have been recorded in the offices of the registers of deeds in the proper counties in this state, and the same appear to have been acknowledged before commissioners of affidavits (or deeds) of North Carolina, residing in the District of Columbia or elsewhere in the different states, or appear to have been recorded without any certificate being recorded on the record of such deed or deeds, such record or records shall be presumptive evidence of the execution of such deed or deeds by the grantor or the grantors to the grantee or grantees therein named for the lands therein described, and the record of such deed or deeds may be offered or read in evidence upon the trial or hearing of any cause in any of the courts of this state as if the same had been properly probated and recorded. Provided, however, that nothing herein contained shall prevent such record or records from being attacked for fraud, and provided further that this act shall not apply to creditors or purchasers, but as to them the same shall stand as if this act had not been passed, neither shall it apply to pending suits, and shall only apply to deeds executed prior to January first, nineteen hundred. (1929, c. 14, s. 1.)

§ 3366(j4). Absence of notarial seal. — Any deed executed prior to the first day of January, nineteen hundred and ten, and duly acknowledged before a North Carolina notary public, and the probate recites "witness my hand and notarial seal," or words of similar import, and no seal was affixed to the said deed, shall be ordered registered by the clerk of the superior court of the county in which the land lies, upon presentation to him: Provided, the probate is otherwise in due form. Such registration shall not impair vested rights and shall not affect any suit, action or proceeding pending in the courts of this State prior to March 26, 1935. (1935, c. 130.)

§ 3366(j5). Acknowledgments of notary holding another office.—In every case where deeds or other instruments have been acknowledged before a notary public, when the notary public at the time was also holding some other office, and the deed or other instrument has been duly probated and recorded, such acknowledgment taken by such notary public is hereby declared to be sufficient and valid: Provided, this section shall not affect vested rights or pending litigation. (1935, c. 133.)

Art. 5. Registration of Official Discharges from the Military and Naval Forces of the United States

§ 3366(k). Book for record of discharges in office of register of deeds; specifications.—There shall be provided, and at all times maintained, in the office of the register of deeds of each county in North Carolina a special and permanent book, in which shall be recorded official discharges from the military and naval forces of the United States. Said book shall be securely bound, and the pages of the same shall be printed in the form of discharge papers, with sufficient blank lines for the recording of such dates as may be contained in the discharge papers offered for registration. (1921, c. 198, s. 1.)

§ 3366(l). Registration of official discharge or certificate of last discharge; fee.—Upon the presentation of any official discharge, or official certificate of lost discharge, from the army, navy, or marine corps of the United States, and the payment of a fee of twenty-five (25) cents therefor, it shall be the duty of the register of deeds of the several counties of the state to record such discharge in the book provided for in the preceding section. (1921, c. 198, s. 2.)

§ 3366(m). Inquiry by register of deeds; oath of applicant.—If any register of deeds shall be in doubt as to whether or not any paper so presented for registration is an official discharge from the army, navy or marine corps of the United States, or an official certificate of lost discharge, he shall power to examine, under oath, the person so presenting such discharge, or otherwise inquire into its validity; and every register of deeds to whom a discharge or certificate of lost discharge is presented for registration shall administer to the person offering such discharge or certificate of lost discharge for registration the following oath, to be recorded with and form a part of the registration of such discharge or certificate of lost discharge:

"I, ..., being duly sworn, depose and say that the foregoing discharge (or certificate of lost discharge) is the original discharge (or certificate of lost discharge) issued to me by the Government of the United States; and that no alterations have been made therein by me, or by any person to my knowledge.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this ..... day of ....., 19 ...." (1921, c. 198, s. 3.)

§ 3366(n). Forgery or alteration of discharge or certificate; punishment. — Any person who shall forge, or in any manner alter any discharge or certificate of lost discharge issued by the Government of the United States, and offer the same for registration or secure the registration of the same under the provisions of this article shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined or imprisoned in the discretion of the court. (1921, c. 198, s. 4.)

PROHIBITION AND REGULATION OF INTOXICATING LIQUORS

Art. 1. Manufacture and Sale of Intoxicating Liquors

§ 3367. Unlawful to manufacture or sell.—It is unlawful for any person, firm or corporation to manufacture or in any manner make, or sell, or otherwise dispose of, for gain, any spirituous, vinous, fermented or malt liquors or intoxicating bitters within the state of North Carolina: Provided, that wines and ciders may be manufactured or made from grapes, berries or fruits, and wine sold at the place of manufacture only, and only in sealed or crated packages containing not less than two and one-half gallons per package; but no wine, when sold, shall be drunk upon the premises where sold, nor shall the package containing the same be opened on the premises: Provided further, that nothing herein contained shall be construed to prevent the sale of cider, in any quantity, by the manufacturer from fruits grown on his lands within the state of North Carolina; nor to prevent the sale of wine to any minister of religion or other officer of a church to be used for religious or sacramental purposes. (Rev., ss. 2058, 2058(b), 2061; 1908, c. 71, ss. 1, 5; 1915, c. 97, s. 8.)

Editor's Note.—A perusal of the general, special and local laws regulating the sale of intoxicating beverages prior to 1908 shows the growth and development of the desire on the part of the people of North Carolina to restrict, and in many sections, as evidenced by local acts, to wholly prohibit the sale thereof. The final climax of this growing tendency for restriction came in 1908 with the enactment of the prohibition law.

Since the Act of 1908 the Legislature has, session after session, amended and added to the prohibition law. The more important additions coming in Laws 1911, cc. 35, 45, 133, Laws 1913, c. 44, Laws 1915, cc. 97, 197, Laws 1919, c. 151, Laws 1919, cc. 4, 241. In all of these acts the intent was to strengthen the bonds of prohibition, by enlarging the scope and effect of the law, and providing more effective machinery for the enforcement thereof.

Later legislation has evidenced a weakening of prohibition influence. See sections 3411(dd)-3411(mm), 3411(1) et seq. And certain counties have been exempted from the provisions of the prohibition law. See sections 3411(38) et seq.

Same—The Turlington Act.—The Turlington Act, Laws 1923, c. 1, is intended to make the state law conform in a substantial manner to the Federal Volstead Act. In doing this a number of very important changes in the law were made. Sections 3368, 3387 are changed by section one of the act, now 3411(a) of this Code, which defines the words "intoxicating liquor," and "liquor" to include generally any spirituous, vinous, malt, or fermented liquors, liquids, and compounds, containing one half of one per centum or more of alcohol by volume.

Section 3411(b), prohibiting the manufacture, sale, transportation, etc., of intoxicating liquors materially changes sections 3367, 3373, 3374, 3375, 3376, 3378, 3379, 3384, 3385, and 3386.

Section 3411(e) is substantially the same as section 3370; section 3411(f) providing for the seizure of liquor or conveyance, arrests, and sale of property, is much more in detail than sections 3403, 3404, and 3405. It is interesting to note here that one of the evils of the former law is remedied by protecting the property rights of innocent third parties whose vehicles are seized. Section 3411(g) is a practical re-enactment of section 3406. Section 3411(h) changes section 3369 by providing that in case of a sale where the delivery is by carrier, the venue for the prosecution may be in either the county of sale, the county of shipment, or the county of delivery.

Section 3411(j) changes sections 3379, 3384, 3385, 3386. While it is true that the rule as to prima facie evidence is the same, the amount in possession is not limited as formerly. Section 3380, which embodied the search and seizure law, is changed by section 3411(l), to conform to the new regulation prohibiting the possession of any quantity of liquor. Section 3411(q) is a substantial re-enactment of section 3390; section 3411(n) does not differ materially from section 3372; section 3411(o) and section 3377 requiring transportation companies to keep records are quite similar; section 3411(r) and section 3391 are practically identical; section 3411(s) follows section 3392 in allowing grain alcohol to be used for scientific and medicinal purposes; section 3393 insuring to the Church vinous liquors for sacramental purposes, is re-enacted as section 3411(t); sections 3411(v) to 3411(x) still require sheriffs to seize and destroy stills, and fixes the fees therefor, as was formerly provided in sections 3398, 3399, and 3401. Sections 3411(z), 3411(aa) provide the same punishment for violations of the law as found in sections 3409, 3410.

Liberal Construction.—Our prohibition act was passed in pursuance of Article 1, § 2, of the State Constitution providing that all political power is vested in and derived from the people, and the approval of the people of this statute as expressed in the elections requires a liberal construction of the statute to carry out its intention as gathered from its related parts and clearly expressed. State v. Hickey, 198 N. C. 45, 46, 150 S. E. 615.

State Enforcement of Eighteenth Amendment.—The defendant was convicted of having liquor in his possession for the purpose of sale in violation of sec. 3379. He appealed on the ground that the statute was repealed by the Eighteenth Amendment to the Constitution of the United States. The court sustained the conviction. State v. Campbell, 182 N. C. 911, 110 S. E. 86 (1921).

"The Eighteenth Amendment gives to Congress and to the several states 'concurrent power' to enforce its provisions by 'appropriate legislation.' Since this is the only place in the Constitution where this identical expression is used in a similar connection, the construction of this phrase has given rise to a new problem. See 33 Harv. Law Rev. 968. Does the Amendment mean that the joint action of both Congress and the state legislatures is necessary to the enactment of enforcement provisions? Interpreting the word 'concurrent' as meaning 'running together, having joint and equal authority,' the phrase may mean that the laws of neither sovereign are supreme over those of the other and that the united action of state and nation is necessary to the validity of any legislation on the subject. See National Prohibition Cases, 253 U. S. 350, 392, 407, 64 L. Ed. 946, 40 S. Ct. 486, 588 (1919), dissenting opinions. Or, does the term 'concurrent power,' contemplate that each sovereignty may enact such legislation as is actually an enforcement of the Amendment? By this theory the words are held to imply that the power exists in both at the same time, each being independent of the other. This view is adopted by the courts. National Prohibition Cases, 253 U. S. 350, 64 L. Ed. 946, 40 S. Ct. 486, 588 (1919); Powell v. State, 90 So. 138, 18 Ala. App. 101, (Ala. 1921); Palmer v. State, 191 Ind. 683, 133 N. E. 388 (Ind. 1921). But the same authorities hold that, where there is a conflict between the national and state laws on this subject, the state laws must yield. Each state may then make such laws as it pleases within its jurisdiction so long as such acts contemplate the enforcement of the Amendment and are not inconsistent with the existing federal statutes on the same subject." Ex parte Volpi, 199 Pac. 1090 (Cal. 1921). See 34 Harv. Law Rev. 317. See also, State v. Barksdale, 181 N. C. 621, 107 S. E. 505.

"Thus all of the prohibition laws of North Carolina, whether passed prior to or after the adoption of the Amendment, if not in conflict with the federal enforcement provisions, are to this extent valid. State v. Fore, 180 N. C. 744, 105 S. E. 334 (1920); State v. Muse, 181 N. C. 506, 107 S. E. 320 (1921). Moreover, one act may be a violation of the laws of both sovereigns, state and nation. See 19 Mich. Law Rev. 647. Therefore, a conviction under the laws of one is not a bar to a subsequent prosecution for the same act under the laws of the other. That is to say, such a proceeding does not constitute double jeopardy. U. S. v. Holt, 270 Fed. 639 (W. D., N. Dak. 1921); Bryson v. State, 27 Ga. App. 230, 108 S. E. 63 (Ga. 1921)." 1 N. C. Law Rev. 60.

Meaning of "Sale" and "Sell."—The words "sale" or "sell" used in the general prohibition law, have a well-known legal signification and in the absence of anything to the contrary appearing in the statute, that is assumed to be the one intended. State v. Colonial Club, 154 N. C. 177, 69 S. E. 771. Barter and exchange are included. State v. Mitchell, 156 N. C. 659, 72 S. E. 632. But there must be an actual transfer for valuable consideration. State v. Colonial Club, 154 N. C. 177, 69 S. E. 771.

To constitute a sale under the statute against retailing, there is no necessity for a manual separation and delivery of the parcel by the retailer to the customer, but it will be a delivery sufficient in law if the keg, decanter, or other vessel be so placed or prepared as that the customers can or may, with the consent of the owner, draw for himself; and so, likewise, the price paid on completing the sale need not be paid into the hands of the proprietor, but it will be equivalent if it be deposited for him in a place of his appointment. State v. Kirkham, 23 N. C. 384; State v. Bell, 47 N. C. 337; State v. Simmons, 66 N. C. 622; State v. Poteet, 86 N. C. 612; State v. Taylor, 89 N. C. 577; 1 Mechem on Sales, sec. 1. State v. Colonial Club, 154 N. C. 177, 182, 69 S. E. 771.

For illustrative cases, see State v. Denton, 154 N. C. 641, 70 S. E. 839; State v. Neis, 108 N. C. 787, 13 S. E. 225.

Warrant Charging Separate Sales.—Where the warrant for the unlawful sale of intoxicating liquors charges several separate sales at various times, the defendant's motion that the State elect between the evidence of the different sales will be denied. State v. Cardwell, 166 N. C. 309, 81 S. E. 628.

Vendor Cannot Recover Purchase Price.—A seller of intoxicating liquor sold in violation of our prohibition law cannot recover the purchase price in the courts of this State. Pfeifer & Co. v. Love's Drug Co., 171 N. C. 214, 88 S. E. 343.

Exemption of Cider.—For a case under the prior law, see State v. Williams, 172 N. C. 973, 90 S. E. 905.

Allegation and Proof.—Conforming to the usual rules of procedure the allegation and proof in liquor prosecutions must correspond. State v. Ray, 92 N. C. 810; State v. Wilkerson, 164 N. C. 431, 444, 79 S. E. 888.

Evidence of Possession of Intoxicating Liquor.—Where a defendant is indicted for violating our State prohibition law, evidence that he had in his possession one-half gallon of "liquor" is interpreted as being an intoxicating beverage having the prohibited quantity of intoxicant, or containing more than one-half of one per centum of alcohol by volume, when there is no evidence to the contrary. State v. Hickey, 198 N. C. 45, 46, 150 S. E. 615.

§ 3368. Intoxicating liquors defined.—All liquors or mixtures thereof, by whatever name called, that will produce intoxication shall be construed and held to be intoxicating liquors within the meaning of this article: Provided, that medicinal preparations manufactured in accordance with formulas prescribed by the United States Pharmacopœia and National Formulary which contain no more alcohol than is necessary to extract the medicinal properties of the drugs contained in such preparations, and no more alcohol than is necessary to hold the medicinal agents in solution, and which are manufactured and sold as medicines and not as beverages, shall not be held or construed to be or to come within the meaning or provisions of this article. (1908, c. 71, s. 2.)

Editor's Note.—Section 3411 (a), which is section one of Turlington Act of 1923, defines intoxicating liquors, and would seem to supersede this section. The definition there laid down is almost identical with the definition found in the Federal Volstead Act. Indeed, it was the intention of the Legislature to arrive at this result, i. e. to bring the State Act into conformity with the Federal Act. It is now declared that generally beverages containing one half of one per cent alcohol come with that forbidden and abolished circle classed as "intoxicating liquors." See 1 N. C. Law Rev. 303.

"Spirituous Liquors" as Used in Local Acts.—See State v. Giersch, 98 N. C. 720, 4 S. E. 193.

§ 3369. Place of delivery place of sale. — The place where delivery of any intoxicating liquors is made in the state of North Carolina shall be construed and held to be the place of sale thereof, and any station or other place within the state to which any person shall ship or convey any intoxicating liquors for the purpose of delivering or carrying the same to a purchaser shall be construed to be the place of sale. (Rev., s. 2080; 1908, c. 71, s. 4; 1915, c. 97, s. 8.)

Editor's Note.—This section is changed by section 3411(h), section 7 of the Turlington Act. While it is declared by this section that the place of delivery is the place of sale, the Act of 1923 provides the venue for the prosecution may be in either the county of sale, the county of shipment, or the county of delivery. See 1 N. C. Law Rev. 304.

Constitutionality.—Under the section making the place of delivery to the purchaser of intoxicating liquors the place of sale, an indictment at the place of delivery is not prohibited by the Sixth Amendment to the Constitution of the United States. State v. Patterson, 134 N. C. 612, 47 S. E. 808; State v. Herring, 145 N. C. 418, 58 S. E. 1007.

§ 3370. Unlawful to solicit orders for liquor.— It is unlawful for any person, for himself or as agent or traveling salesman for any person, firm or corporation, to solicit orders or proposals of purchase of intoxicating liquors by the jug or bottle or otherwise within the state of North Carolina. (1908, c. 118, s. 1.)

As to the effect of section 3411 (e) on this section, see Editor's Note, section 3367.

§ 3371. Unlawful sale through agents. — If any person unlawfully and illegally procures and delivers any spirituous or malt liquors to another, he shall be deemed and held in law to be the agent of the person selling said spirituous and malt liquors, and shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be punished in the discretion of the court. When the solicitor of any judicial district has good reason to believe that liquor has been manufactured or sold contrary to law within any county in his district, and believes that any person has knowledge of the existence and establishment of any illicit distillery, or that any person has sold liquor illegally, then it is lawful for the solicitor to apply to the clerk of the superior court of the county wherein the offense is supposed to have been committed to issue subpœnas for the person so having knowledge of said offenses to appear before the next grand jury drawn for the county, there to testify upon oath what he may know touching the existence, establishment and whereabouts of said distillery or persons who have sold intoxicating liquors contrary to law, and shall give the names and personal description of the keepers thereof, and such evidence when so obtained, shall be considered and held in law as an information on oath upon which the grand jury shall make presentment, as provided by law, in other cases. If any officer shall fail or refuse to use due diligence in the execution of the provisions of this section, he shall be guilty of laches in office and such failure be cause for removal from office. (Rev., ss. 3526, 3534; 1905, c. 498, ss. 6, 7, 8.)

As to the effect of section 3411(m) (Laws 1923, c. 1, section 13), upon this section, see Editor's Note under section 3367.

For cases under the former law, see State v. Colonial Club, 154 N. C. 177, 69 S. E. 771; State v. Whisnant, 149 N. C. 515, 63 S. E. 91.

What Constitutes One an Agent.—Revisal, section 3534, now this section, making it unlawful for any one to procure for and deliver spirituous liquors to another, and making such person, in law, the agent of the seller, and punishable, though its meaning is not plain, makes the one procuring liquor by purchase from an illicit dealer, and delivering it to another, the agent of the seller, and subjects him to the punishment prescribed therein, as a principal in the misdemeanor. State v. Burchfield, 149 N. C. 537, 63 S. E. 89.

If one buys whisky for another from an illicit dealer in prohibited territory, without being interested in the sale otherwise than as agent of the purchaser, to whom he delivers it, and pays the money to the seller for the buyer, it is a wrongful procuring of the whiskey for another within the meaning of Revisal, section 3534, now this section, and his testimony, that he was acting solely as agent for the buyer, cannot change the character of the act from that intended by the statute. State v. Burchfield, 149 N. C. 537, 63 S. E. 89.

§ 3372. Social clubs using liquors. — No corporation, club, association, or person shall directly or indirectly keep or maintain, alone or by association with others, or by any other means, or shall in any manner aid, assist, or abet others in keeping or maintaining a clubroom or other place where intoxicating liquors are received, kept, or stored for barter, sale, exchange, distribution, or division among the members of any such club or association or aggregation of persons, or to or among any other persons by any means whatever, or shall act as agents in ordering, procuring, buying, storing, or keeping intoxicating liquors for any such purpose: Provided, this section shall not apply to churches using wines for sacramental purposes, or to hospitals or asylums keeping intoxicating liquors for medical purposes. (1911, c. 133, s. 1; 1915, c. 97, s. 8.)

See section 3411(n).

Art. 2. Sale of Near-Beer and Other Specified Drinks

§ 3373. Unlawful to sell near-beer and other mixed drinks.—It is unlawful for any person, firm or corporation to sell or dispose of, for gain, near-bear, beerine, or other spirituous, vinous, or malt liquors, or mixtures of any kind, and under whatsoever name called, that shall contain alcohol, or cocaine, or morphine, or other opium derivative, except as herein provided. (1911, c. 35, s. 1.)

This section is now materially changed by section 3411(b). See Editor's Note, section 3367.

§ 3374. Must allow package to be taken away. —It is unlawful for any person, firm or corporation, who is engaged in the sale of any kind of drinks, to refuse to allow any person to carry away from the place where such drinks are being sold or offered for sale, any package or quantity of any size of the drink which has been bought and paid for; and if any person, firm or corporation shall refuse to allow the package or quantity of such drink to be carried away from the place of sale, it shall be prima facie evidence of the violation of this article. (1911, c. 35, s. 2.)

As to effect of Turlington Act, section 3411(b) of this Code, upon this section, see Editor's Note, section 3367.

§ 3375. Construction of article. — This article shall not be construed to forbid the sale of cocaine or morphine or other opium derivative to any registered pharmacist, or to forbid the sale of cocaine, morphine, or other opium derivative by a licensed pharmacist upon a written prescription by a regularly licensed physician or surgeon. This article shall not apply to the sale of domestic wines when sold in quantity of not less than two and one-half gallons in sealed packages or crated, on the premises where manufactured, or to the sale of cider in any quantity by the manufacturer from fruits grown on his land within the state of North Carolina, or to the sale of wine to any minister of religion or other officer of a church when such wine is bought for religious or sacramental purposes, or to the sale of flavoring extracts or essences when sold as such, or to the sale of medical preparations manufactured in accordance with formulas prescribed by the United States Pharmacopœia and National Formulary which contain no more alcohol than is necessary to extract the medical properties of the drug contained in such preparations, and no more alcohol than is necessary to hold the medical agents in solution, and which are manufactured and sold as medicines and not as beverages, or to the sale of any medical preparation which is manufactured, sold, and used as a medicine and not as a beverage, or to the sale of carbonated drinks that contain no more than one-tenth of one per cent of alcohol, and in which drinks a flavoring agent is used, in the manufacture of which flavoring agent alcohol is used to dissolve and hold in solution or to extract from the crude material the flavoring agent. (1911, c. 35, s. 3; 1915, c. 97, s. 8.)

Time Not of the Essence.—The time of offense of selling intoxicating liquors, contrary to the statute, is not of its essence and failure to allege that the sale took place in the county, may only be taken by plea in abatement. State v. Hicks, 179 N. C. 733, 102 S. E. 388.

Judicial Notice.—Wine is an intoxicating liquor, and the courts will take judicial notice of the fact. State v. Piner, 141 N. C. 760, 53 S. E. 305.

Sale of Domestic Wines.—The sale of domestic wines on the premises where manufactured, when made from fruits grown on the lands of the manufacturer within this State, is lawful, under this section. State v. Hicks, 174 N. C. 802, 93 S. E. 964. But see section 3411(a), and Editor's Note under catch line "General Considerations," section 3367.

Same—Need Not Be Set Out in Indictment.—The proviso is a matter of defense, which deed not be set out in the indictment, and must be shown in proof by the defendant as a matter of defense. State v. Wainscott, 169 N. C. 379, 85 S. E. 380, citing State v. Moore, 166 N. C. 284, 81 S. E. 294; State v. Hicks, 174 N. C. 802, 93 S. E. 964; State v. Hicks, 179 N. C. 733, 734, 102 S. E. 388.

Possession of Wine.—Findings of the trial judge, in imposing a sentence on the defendant under a suspended judgment, that the defendant had manufactured and had in his possession 150 gallons of wine and had bought grapes therefor in another county, and persons had been coming from his place intoxicated, are insufficient for the imposition of the sentence, the manufacturer of wine from grapes not being prohibited by the State law § 3367, and the mere possession, unless for the purposes of sale, being lawful.

Nor is it prima facie evidence of guilt if the wine had been manufactured from grapes grown on the owner's premises. State v. Hardin, 183 N. C. 815, 112 S. E. 593.

"Flavoring Extracts."—This chapter dealing with the subject of prohibition, provides by art. 2, sec. 3373, an amendment theretofore enacted in 1911, that it is unlawful to sell or dispose of intoxicating liquors for gain, "except as hereinafter provided," followed in this section, with the proviso, excepting "flavoring extracts when sold as such." By express terms of the statute, the amendment of 1911, placed in art. 2 of ch. 66, "flavoring extracts when sold as such" were excluded from the operation of the general law; and any other interpretation would leave the language of the exception altogether without meaning and contravene the manifest purpose of the Legislature. State v. Barksdale, 181 N. C. 621, 107 S. E. 505.

Same—"Imitation Extracts."—Where an agent is indicted for violating our State prohibition law, section 3367, and there is evidence tending to show that though he had sold flavoring extracts containing 40 per cent alcohol, they came within the exception of this section, the mere fact that the bottles containing it are labeled "imitation extracts" does not preclude him from establishing his innocence by showing that the word "imitation" had reference alone to the flavor they were endeavoring and intending to produce. State v. Barksdale, 181 N. C. 621, 107 S. E. 505.

Same—Question for Jury.—Where the State satisfies the jury beyond a reasonable doubt that the defendant has violated section 3367, by selling or offering for sale intoxicating liquors, or those containing alcohol sufficient to make men drunk, the defendant so indicted must be convicted under the provisions of our prohibition law, ch. 66, unless he has satisfied the jury with his evidence that the liquors he has sold or offered for sale were in fact and truth flavoring extracts and sold or offered for sale as such. State v. Barksdale, 181 N. C. 621, 107 S. E. 505.

Same—Evidence.—Where the evidence offered by the State is sufficient to convict the defendant under the provisions of section 3367, of selling or offering for sale an intoxicating liquid sufficient to make men drunk, and there is evidence on the defendant's behalf that the liquid was in truth and fact a flavoring extract coming within the exception of this section and only sold or offered for sale as such, the question of guilt or innocence of the defendant depends upon the verdict of the jury upon the conflicting evidence, and it is error for the trial judge to direct a verdict of guilty upon the issue, as a matter of law. State v. Barksdale, 181 N. C. 621, 107 S. E. 505.

Same—Volstead Act.—The Volstead Act, section 4, recognizes and provides for the lawful sale of flavoring extracts, when they are unfit for use as a beverage or for intoxicating beverage purposes, and is not in conflict with this section when such extracts are unfit for drinking purposes. State v. Barksdale, 181 N. C. 621, 107 S. E. 505.

Same—Federal Permit—Agricultural Department Standard.—Where there is sufficient evidence on the part of the State to show that the defendant was guilty of offering for sale or selling intoxicating liquor prohibited by section 3367, and also on defendant's behalf that the liquid was a flavoring extract coming within the exception of this section and only sold or offered for sale as such, it is competent for the defendant to introduce in evidence the permit of the Federal prohibition officer allowing the manufacture of the formula for the extracts the defendant was selling, also the standard as to the use of alcohol in flavoring extracts established by the Agricultural Department, as tending to show his good faith and that the liquid so offered by him was what it purported to be, a flavoring extract, and not sold for a beverage. State v. Barksdale, 181 N. C. 621, 107 S. E. 505.

A loan of intoxicating liquor upon a promise that it should be returned in kind is a violation of our prohibition law, and where there is further evidence that the buyer had promised to pay in money, rejection of testimony as to whether the defendant had eventually been paid is immaterial either the barter or the promise to pay being sufficient. State v. Lemons, 182 N. C. 828, 109 S. E. 27.

Sufficient to Sustain Conviction.—Where the defendant has been arrested and eight quarts of spirituous liquor found in a suit-case he was carrying into the house of another, its possession is prima facie case of the unlawful purpose of sale, sufficient to convict him thereof; and, also, for unlawfully transporting the same. State v. Simmons, 183 N. C. 684, 110 S. E. 591.

Same—Burden of Proof.—The possession of the specified quantity of spirituous liquors sufficient to make out prima facie evidence of an unlawful purpose is only sufficient to sustain a verdict of guilty, and does not shift the burden upon the defendant to show his innocence, and an instruction to that effect is reversible error. State v. Helms, 181 N. C. 566, 107 S. E. 228.

Where the possession of the specified quantities of intoxicating liquors under our statute, sec. 3385, has made out prima facie evidence of guilt, and the defendant has not introduced evidence, an instruction to the jury placing the burden on the defendant to establish his innocence is reversible error, being equivalent to directing a verdict, which is not permissible in a criminal case. State v. Helms, 181 N. C. 566, 107 S. E. 228.

Necessity for Search Warrant.—Where the prima facie case of unlawful sale of spirituous liquor arises from the possession, its capture by the officers is not illegal, and its being given to the jury for them to taste and smell, in corroboration of the other evidence, is not erroneous; and the liquor being the corpus delicti, such evidence would be competent had it been unlawfully seized, or in the illegal possession of the officers. State v. Simmons, 183 N. C. 684, 110 S. E. 591.

The defendant was seen entering with a suit-case the house of another and when followed by officers he endeavored to escape, and eight quarts of liquor were discovered in the suit-case. Under such circumstances a search warrant was unnecessary. State v. Simmons, 183 N. C. 684, 685, 110 S. E. 591.

Art. 3. Manufacture and Sale of Malt

§ 3376. Unlawful to make or sell malt.—It is unlawful for any person, firm or corporation, or any agent, officer or employee thereof, to manufacture or sell malt, such as is used in the manufacture of spirituous liquors, in the state of North Carolina. (1915, c. 91, s. 1.)

This section is now superseded by section 3411(b). See Editor's Note, section 3367.

§ 3377. Transportation companies to keep record.—All express companies, railroad companies, or other transportation companies, doing business in this state, are required to keep a separate record of all shipments of such malt, in which shall be entered, immediately upon receipt thereof, the name of the person to whom shipped, the amount of each shipment, the date when received and the date when delivered, and by whom delivered, and to whom delivered, which record shall be open for the inspection of any officer of the state, county or municipality any time during business hours of the company. (1915, c. 91, s. 2.)

Cross References.—As to general provision requiring carriers to keep record of shipments under "Search and Seizure Act," see section 3382; as to malt liquors defined, see section 3387; as to effect of section 3411(o) on this section, see Editor's Note, section 3367.

Art. 4. Search and Seizure Law

§ 3378. Handling liquor for gain.—It is unlawful for any person, firm, corporation, or association, by whatever name called, to engage in the business of selling, exchanging, bartering, giving away for the purpose of direct or indirect gain, or otherwise handling spirituous, vinous or malt liquors in the state of North Carolina. (1913, c. 44, s. 1.)

As to present governing law, see section 3411(b).

Constitutionality.—Chapter 44, Laws 1913, now this Article, known as the Search and Seizure Law, is constitutional and valid. State v. Cathey, 170 N. C. 794, 87 S. E. 532.

Jurisdiction of Recorder's Court.—The recorder's court has jurisdiction over offenses committed under the act of 1913, ch. 44, now this article, known as the "Search and Seizure Act," relating to intoxicating liquors, etc., making the possession of certain specified quantities of the various kind prima facie evidence of guilt. State v. Denton, 164 N. C. 530, 80 S. E. 401.

§ 3379. Keeping liquor for sale; evidence.—It is unlawful for any person, firm, association or corporation, by whatever name called, to have or keep in possession, for the purpose of sale, any spirituous, vinous or malt liquors, and proof of any one of the following facts shall constitute prima facie evidence of the violation of this section:

1. The possession of a license from the government of the United States to sell or manufacture intoxicating liquors; or

2. The possession of more than one gallon of spirituous liquors at any one time, whether in one or more places; or

3. The possession of more than three gallons of vinous liquors at any one time, whether in one or more places; or

4. The possession of more than five gallons of malt liquors at any one time, whether in one or more places; or

5. The delivery to such person, firm, association or corporation of more than five gallons of spirituous or vinous liquors, or more than twenty gallons of malt liquors within any four successive weeks, whether in one or more places; or

6. The possession of intoxicating liquors as samples to obtain orders thereon. Provided, that this section shall not prohibit any person from keeping in his possession wines and ciders in any quantity where such wines and ciders have been manufactured from grapes or fruit grown on the premises of the person in whose possession such wines and ciders may be. (1913, c. 44, s. 2; 1915, c. 97, s. 8.)

This section is now materially changed by sections 3411(b), 3411(h).

See 13 N. C. Law Rev., 315.

Constitutionality.—The section is constitutional and valid. State v. Randall, 170 N. C. 757, 87 S. E. 227.

And is not in contravention of the Federal Constitution. State v. Brown, 170 N. C. 714, 86 S. E. 1042.

"Prima Facie" Defined.—The words "prima facie evidence" are defined in Webster's International Dictionary as meaning "evidence sufficient, in law, to raise a presumption of fact or establish the fact in question, unless rebutted." It must presume that the Legislature had such meaning in mind when such words were used in the statute. State v. Russell, 164 N. C. 482, 490, 80 S. E. 66.

Effect of the Presumption.—This (prima facie evidence) neither conclusively determines the guilt or innocence of the party who is accused nor withdraws from the jury the right and duty of passing upon and deciding the issue to be tried. The burden of proof remains continually upon the State to establish the accusation which it makes, as prima facie evidence does not change or shift the burden. State v. Russell, 164 N. C. 482, 487, 80 S. E. 66, citing Com. v. Williams, 72 Mass. (6 Gray). The evidence is not conclusive. Id.

Same—Sufficient to Sustain Verdict.—While the prima facie case, unexplained, is sufficient to sustain a verdict of guilty, yet the defendant is not required to show, by the greater weight of evidence, that the whiskey was in his possession for lawful purposes, for such, in effect, would require him to establish his own innocence, and relieve the State of the burden of the issue, which is placed upon it. State v. Wilkerson, 164 N. C. 431, 79 S. E. 888.

Same—Power of Legislature to Change Rule of Evidence.—See full discussion in State v. Wilkerson, 164 N. C. 431, 440, 79 S. E. 888.

U. S. Government License as Defense.—For cases under the former law, see Pfeifer v. Drug Co., 171 N. C. 214, 88 S. E. 343; State v. Dowdy, 145 N. C. 432, 58 S. E. 1002; State v. Boynton, 155 N. C. 456, 71 S. E. 341.

Possession Means Actual or Constructive.—This section making the "possession of certain specified quantities of spirituous, vinous, or malt liquors" prima facie evidence of its violation, intends that the "possession" shall be construed as either actual or constructive; so that the possession of such quantities by the agent will be deemed the possession of the principle for the purpose of the act. State v. Lee, 164 N. C. 533, 80 S. E. 405.

The possession of the agent, for the one accused of violating our prohibition law, of more than one gallon of intoxicating liquor is sufficient to make out a prima facie of guilt, under the provisions of this section. State v. Blauntia, 170 N. C. 749, 87 S. E. 101.

Possession for Use of Owner.—The mere possession of spirituous liquor in the home for the use of the owner, his family and their guests on the premises in the absence of a count in the indictment charging that it was for prohibited purposes, is not made unlawful by our prohibition statutes. State v. Mull, 193 N. C. 668, 137 S. E. 866.

Evidence.—Where there is evidence that the defendant, indicted under this section had in his possession sufficient spirituous liquors to raise the prima facie presumption that it was for the purpose of sale, it is competent to show this intent, and in furtherance of the presumption, that soon thereafter, about two months, he was found working on a copper still on his premises, and had copper enough to make two of them; and that, upon his premises being searched, he had falsely denied the possession and had attempted to shoot the officer making the search. State v. Simons, 178 N. C. 679, 100 S. E. 239.

Effect of Turlington Act.—The Turlington Act repeals all conflicting laws and makes the possession of any intoxicating liquors for the purpose of sale unlawful, unless such liquors are for the private use and in the residence of the possessor; and the prior statute making the possession of more than one gallon thereof prima facie evidence of the purpose of unlawful sale is not in conflict therewith or repealed thereby. State v. Foster, 185 N. C. 674, 116 S. E. 561. Applied in State v. Potter, 185 N. C. 742, 117 S. E. 504. See Editor's Note, section 3367, and sections 3411(b), 3411(h).

§ 3380. Search and seizure upon complaint and warrant.—Upon the filing of complaint, under oath, by a reputable citizen, or information furnished under oath by an officer charged with the execution of the law, before a justice of the peace, recorder, mayor, or other officer authorized by law to issue warrants, charging that any person, firm, corporation or association, by whatever name called, has in possession, at a place or places specified, more than one gallon of spirituous or vinous liquors or more than five gallons of malt liquors for the purpose of sale, a warrant shall be issued commanding the officer to whom it is directed to search the place or places described in such complaint or information, and if more than one gallon of spirituous or vinous liquors or more than five gallons of malt liquors be found in any such place or places, to seize and take into his custody all such intoxicating liquors described in the complaint or information, and seize and take into his custody all glasses, bottles, kegs, pumps, bars or other equipment used in the business of selling intoxicating liquors which may be found at such place or places, and safely keep the same subject to the orders of the court. The complaint or information shall describe the place or places to be searched with sufficient particularity to identify the same, and shall describe the intoxicating liquors or other property alleged to be used in carrying on the business of selling intoxicating liquors as particularly as practicable, and any description, however general, that will enable the officer executing the warrant to identify the property seized shall be deemed sufficient. All spirituous, vinous or malt liquors seized under this section shall be held and upon acquittal of the person so charged shall be returned to such person, and upon conviction, or upon default of appearance, shall be destroyed. (1913, c. 44, s. 3.)

As to the effect of section 3411(l) upon this section, see Editor's Note, section 3367.

For obsolete case holding wines and cider exempt, see State v. Williams, 172 N. C. 973, 90 S. E. 905.

§ 3381. Unlawful to handle draft connected with receipt for liquor.—It is unlawful for any bank incorporated under the laws of this state, or national bank, or any individual, firm or association, to present, collect or in any wise handle any draft, bill of exchange or order to pay money, to which draft, bill of exchange or order to pay money is attached a bill of lading, or order, or receipt for intoxicating liquors, or which draft is enclosed with, connected with, or in any way related to, directly or indirectly, any bill of lading, order, or receipt for intoxicating liquors. (1913, c. 444, s. 4.)

§ 3382. Transportation companies to keep record.—All express companies, railroad companies, or other transportation companies doing business in this state are required hereby to keep a separate book in which shall be entered immediately upon receipt thereof the name of the person to whom the liquor is shipped, the amount and kind received, and the date when received, the date when delivered, by whom delivered, and to whom delivered, after which record shall be a blank space, in which the consignee shall be required to sign his name, or if he cannot write, shall make his mark in the presence of a witness, before such liquor is delivered to such consignee, and which book shall be open for inspection to any officer or citizen of the state, county, or municipality any time during business hours of the company, and such book shall constitute prima facie evidence of the facts therein and will be admissible in any of the courts of this state. Any express company, railroad company, or other transporation company or any employee or agent of any express company, railroad company, or other transportation company violating the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor: Provided, upon the filing of a certificate signed by a reputable physician or two reputable citizens that the consignee is unable, by reason of sickness or infirmities of age, to appear in person, then the company is authorized to deliver any package to the agent of the consignee, and the agent shall sign the name of the consignee, and his own name and the certificate shall be filed of record. (1913, c. 44, s. 5.)

See State v. R. Co., 169 N. C. 295, 84 S. E. 283.

§ 3383. Indictment and proof.—In indictments for violating the first section of this article, it shall not be necessary to allege a sale of a particular person, and the violation of law may be proved by circumstantial evidence as well as by direct evidence. (1913, c. 44, s. 6.)

Sufficiency of Indictment.—In a bill of indictment for retailing intoxicating liquor, the words "willfully and unlawfully," or words of equivalent import, should be used, though such language is not found in the statute. State v. Powell, 141 N. C. 780, 53 S. E. 515.

An indictment is sufficient which simply charges the unlawful and willful sale of vinous liquors without naming the person to whom sold. State v. Hicks, 179 N. C. 733, 734, 102 S. E. 388.

The validity of an indictment for the unlawful sale of intoxicating liquors does not depend upon a charge of a sale to any particular person or to persons unknown. State v. Lemons, 182 N. C. 828, 109 S. E. 27.

Objection to a bill of indictment on account of duplicity comes too late after verdict, and where it is to the charge of two separate offenses in the same bill, one under section 3407 for unlawfully permitting a still to be set up for operation on the defendant's land; and the other for unlawfully manufacturing spirituous liquors, section 3409, and there is sufficient evidence on the latter count, a judgment upon the verdict on that count will be sustained. State v. Mundy, 182 N. C. 907, 110 S. E. 93.

Amendment of Warrant. — Upon appeal, the Superior Court judge has authority, after the jury has been impaneled, to permit an amendment to a warrant issued under the "search and seizure law," being chapter 44, Laws 1913, now this article, so as to charge that the defendant had spirituous, etc., liquors "for the purpose of sale." State v. Lee, 164 N. C. 533, 80 S. E. 405.

Evidence — Sale to Unknown Persons.—To convict under an indictment of sale of intoxicating liquors "to some person to the jurors unknown," it is as necessary to offer evidence of an actual sale to the unknown person as if his name had been inserted in the indictment. State v. Watkins, 164 N. C. 425, 79 S. E. 619.

Same—Other Sales.—The rule of evidence that one illegal sale of intoxicating liquors should not be received as any evidence that another such sale had been made, applies where the sales are entirely separated and distinct transactions, the one having no fair or reasonable tendency to establish the other, but inapplicable when it tends to show that the defendant, accused of violating the prohibition law at a certain city number, with evidence tending to show such violation there, kept the spirituous liquor elsewhere in the city, or under his control, for the purpose of making illegal sales. State v. Boynton, 155 N. C. 456, 71 S. E. 341.

Same—Liquors on Hand.—Upon trial on indictment for the sale of intoxicating liquors at a certain city number, testimony that the accused had and kept liquors on hand in other portions of the city is a relevant circumstance tending to show that he had it on hand and was prepared and equipped to make the illegal sale charged in the bill of indictment, and to be considered by the jury with other evidence tending to show that he had sold such liquor at the place charged in the indictment. State v. Boynton, 155 N. C. 456, 71 S. E. 341.

Upon indictment for violating the prohibition law, the possession of liquors by the accused, at the time of the offense charge, is always a circumstance admissible against him, and in general the circumstances under which liquors are kept, and even that they are kept at other places or in other rooms, may be shown. State v. Boynton, 155 N. C. 456, 71 S. E. 341.

Same—Photographs.—Photographs are admissible in evidence. Butler v. State, 142 Ga., 286, 82 S. E. 654; Wade v. R. R., 89 S. C. 280, 71 S. E. 859; Griffith v. Coal Co., 75 W. Va. 686, 84 S. E. 621; Spencer v. Looney, 116 Va. 767, 82 S. E. 745; Prok v. R. R., 75 W. Va. 697, 84 S. E. 568; Napier v. Little, 38 L. R. A. (N. S.), (Anno. Cases, 1913 A, 1013); Shaw v. State, 83 Ga. 92, 9 S. E. 768; and in State v. O'Reilly, 126 Mo., 597, A 29 S. W. 577, where it is said: "It has always been permissible to use diagrams in the trial of causes, both civil and criminal, and especially in the latter class to use diagrams, if shown to be correct, to illustrate the position of persons and places and to better enable the witnesses to properly locate them. If, then, a diagram may be used for such a purpose, we can see no good reason why a photograph may not be, by which is presented to view everything within the range of the camera at the time the photograph was taken." State v. Jones, 175 N. C. 709, 713, 95 S. E. 576.

Same—Conversation between Accused and Wife.—Where the husband is on trial for violating the prohibition law, it is competent for a third person to testify as to the conversation between the defendant and his wife, with statements by the latter tending to fix the former with guilt of the offense charged. State v. Randall, 170 N. C. 757, 87 S. E. 227.

Same—General Bad Reputation.—Where there is substantive evidence tending to show the guilt of the defendant in having spirituous liquor for sale in violation of section 3378, and his defense, supported by his evidence, is that some one else had taken the jugs and bottles of whisky to his home in his absence, without his knowledge, where the officer had found them, the general bad reputation of the defendant for unlawfully selling whisky may be shown as a circumstance in corroboration of other evidence tending to show guilt. State v. McNeill, 182 N. C. 855, 109 S. E. 84.

Upon the criminal trial for having in possession spirituous liquors for the purposes of sale, section 3379, and for unlawfully receiving more than one quart within fifteen consecutive days, section 3385, evidence of the reputation of the defendant's place as being bad for selling liquor is unauthorized by this section, and it is purely hearsay and incompetent; and testimony of this character, admitted on the trial over the defendant's objection, and submitted in the charge as an independent circumstance to show guilt under defendant's exceptions, constitutes reversible error. State v. Springs, 184 N. C. 768, 114 S. E. 851.

Sufficiency of Verdict.—Where the defendant is tried for violating our prohibition law, and indicted under the provisions of sec. 3379, with possession of spirituous liquor for purposes of sale; section 3385 with receiving more than a designated quantity; section 3386, with receiving such liquor more than one quart at a time within fifteen consecutive days; section 3384, with shipping and transporting the same, a verdict upon the evidence "that the defendant is guilty of receiving more liquor than allowed by law, and not guilty of receiving and transporting liquor," is a finding of guilty of violating the provisions of sec. 3385; and defendant's motion to set aside the verdict as unresponsive to the issues or the counts set out in the bill of indictment, is properly denied. State v. Brame, 185 N. C. 631, 116 S. E. 164.

Art. 5. Delivery and Receiving Regulated

As to effect of sections 3411(b), 3411(h), on this section, see Editor's Note, section 3367.

Purpose.—Chapter 97, Laws 1915, now this article, was passed primarily to regulate the shipments of spirituous, vinous, or malt liquors. State v. Williams, 172 N. C. 973, 90 S. E. 905.

Liquor on Persons.—Where the defendant has been arrested for violating our prohibition law, and at his own request he is not searched, but voluntarily produces five pints of spirituous liquor concealed in different places on person, before the committing magistrate, the question of search and seizure without a warrant and the Federal constitutional question predicted thereon does not arise; and he may be convicted under this section by the provisions of section 4548, relating to an arrest without a warrant for offenses committed in the presence of the officer, etc. State v. Campbell, 182 N. C. 911, 110 S. E. 86.

When Conviction Not Sustained.—A conviction for the unlawful transportation of liquor, chapter 97, Laws 1915, now this article, cannot be sustained when the defendant was transporting his own liquor, but not for the purpose of sale, and only gave the package to his companion to take a drink. State v. Coleman, 178 N. C. 757, 101 S. E. 261.

§ 3385. Amount received restricted. — It is unlawful for any person, firm or corporation at any one time, or in any one package, to receive at a point within the state of North Carolina for his use of any person, firm or corporation, or for any other purpose, any spirituous or vinous liquor or intoxicating bitters in a quantity greater than one quart or any malt liquors in a quantity greater than five gallons. (1915, c. 97, s. 2.)

As to present law governing, see section 3411(b), and section 3411(j).

Purpose.—Considering the language of this section with the history of legislation relating to prohibition, it is held that its controlling intent and purpose is to make it unlawful for any person to acquire and take into his possession within the State at any one time or in any one package, spirituous or vinous liquors, etc., in a quantity greater than one quart, without restricting the meaning of the word "receive" to "accepting from another"; and evidence tending to show that the defendant had walked straight to the place where the prohibited quantity was concealed and taken it from its hiding place, is sufficient to show that he knew it had been hidden there for his benefit, and sustain a conviction. State v. Snipes, 185 N. C. 743, 117 S. E. 500.

Unlawful Purpose Essential.—The unlawful purpose of sale of spirituous liquors is the offense made indictable by our statutes, whether the indictment be under this section or 3386, and not the possession thereof, for lawful purposes, though the possession of the specified quantities is prima facie evidence of the illegal purpose, and does not establish a prima facie case of guilt. State v. Helms, 181 N. C. 566, 107 S. E. 228.

Evidence Sufficient to Sustain Verdict.—Evidence that half a gallon of whisky, in a fruit jar, and one pint thereof, in a bottle, were found concealed in defendant's overcoat hanging in his store, and of his breaking the jug and bottle in the officer's presence and saying, "Damn it, if I can't drink it, I guess you won't get to drink it either," is sufficient to sustain a verdict that the defendant was guilty of receiving more than one quart of spirituous liquor at one time, or in a single container or package, as prohibited by this section. State v. Bradshaw, 184 N. C. 680, 114 S. E. 161.

Effect of Sec. 3379.—Where the judge has withdrawn from the consideration of the jury the question of prima facie guilt of violating the statute from the possession of more than one gallon of spirituous liquor, sec. 3379, a conviction under this section in having more than one quart thereof in possession, will be sustained when supported by competent evidence. State v. Campbell, 182 S. E. 911, 110 S. E. 86.

Federal Statutes Not in Conflict.—This section is to prohibit the receiving of more than specified quantities of spirituous or malt liquors, and is an aid to the enforcement of the Volstead Act, passed in pursuance of the Eighteenth Amendment to the Constitution of the United States; and the Federal amendment giving concurrent jurisdiction to the Federal and state courts in the enforcement of the prohibition law, does not take from that of the state court the enforcement of a state statute on the subject not in conflict with the Federal statute, whether the state statute was passed before or after the amendment to the Federal Constitution. State v. Brame, 185 N. C. 631, 116 S. E. 164.

Same—Volstead Act Not Applicable.—The Volstead Act, title 2, sec. 25, has no application to an action in the State Court wherein the possession of specified quantities of intoxicating liquors under our statutes, makes out prima facie evidence of guilt, and an instruction that it made a prima facie case sufficient to place the burden on the defendant to establish his innocence is reversible error. State v. Helms, 181 N. C. 566, 107 S. E. 228.

Same—The IVth and Vth Amendments to the Federal Constitution are limitations upon the Federal Government and do not affect the validity of this section, making unlawful the possession of more than one quart of spirituous liquor, or section 3384 making the carrying and delivery thereof unlawful. State v. Campbell, 182 N. C. 911, 110 S. E. 86.

§ 3386. Fifteen days between receipts.—It is unlawful for any person, firm or corporation, during the space of fifteen consecutive days, to receive any spirituous or vinous liquors or intoxicating bitters in a quantity or quantities totaling more than one quart, or any malt liquors in a quanity greater than five gallons: Provided, that the provisions of this and the two preceding sections shall not apply to the receipt by a common carrier for transportation to a point in another state where delivery is not forbidden by the laws of such state. (1915, c. 97, s. 3.)

This section is superseded by the Turlington Act, sections 3411(b), 3411(j) of this Code. See Editor's Note, section 3367.

See State v. Snipes, 185 N. C. 743, 117 S. E. 500.

§ 3387. Malt liquors defined. — The words "malt liquors" as used in this article shall be construed to include only such malt liquors as contain not to exceed five per centum of alcohol, and any malt liquors containing more than five per centum of alcohol shall be held to be "spirituous liquors" within the meaning of this article. (1915, c. 97, s. 4.)

Cross References.—As to unlawful manufacture or sale of malt, see section 3376; as to requirement that transportation companies keep records of malt shipped, see section 3382; as to definition of "intoxicating liquors," see section 3341(a). See "Editor's Note," section 3367, for general effects of Turlington Act.

§ 3388. No order in fictitious name or in name of another.—It is unlawful for any person to order in a fictitious name or in the name of another any spirituous or vinous or malt liquors or intoxicating bitters or to receive for himself any spirituous or vinous or malt liquors or intoxicating bitters so ordered or shipped. (1915, c. 97, s. 5.)

§ 3389. To allow use of name forbidden.—It is unlawful for any person to allow or in any way permit the use of his name in the ordering for another or the delivery to another of any spirituous or vinous or malt liquors or intoxicating bitters. (1915, c. 97, s. 6.)

§ 3390. To serve liquors with meals forbidden.—It is unlawful for any person, firm or corporation to serve with meals, or otherwise, any spirituous, vinous, fermented or malt liquors or intoxicating bitters where any charge is made for such meal or service. (1915, c. 97, s. 7.)

As to the effect of section 3411(q) of this section, see Editor's Note, section 3367.

See Felia v. Belton, 170 N. C. 112, 86 S. E. 999.

§ 3391. Sale by druggists.. prohibited.—All laws authorizing or allowing the sale of spirituous, vinous, or malt liquors or intoxicating bitters by any medical depository, druggist or pharmacist are hereby repealed, and it shall be unlawful for any medicial depository, druggist or pharmacist to sell or otherwise dispose of for gain any spirituous, vinous, fermented or malt liquors or intoxicating bitters. (1915, c. 97, s. 8.)

As to the effect of section 3411(r) of this section, see Editor's Note, section 3367.

§ 3392. Application of provisions of this article.—The provisions of this article shall not apply to grain alcohol received by duly licensed physicians, druggists, dental surgeons, college, university and state laboratories, and manufacturers of medicine, when intended to be used in compounding, mixing, or preserving medicines or medical preparations, or for surgical purposes, when obtained as hereinafter provided: Provided, however, that nothing contained in this article shall prohibit the importation into the state of North Carolina and the delivery and possession in the state for use in industry, manufactures, and arts of any denatured alcohol or other denatured spirits, which are compound and made in accordance with the formula prescribed by acts of congress of the United States and regulations made under authority thereof by the treasury department of the United States and the commissioner of internal revenue thereof, and which are not now subject to internal revenue tax levied by the government of the United States: Provided further, that this article shall not apply to wines and liquors required and used by hospitals or sanatoria bona fide established and maintained for the treatment of patients addicted to the use of liquor, morphine, opium, cocaine, or other deleterious drugs, when the same are administered to patients actually in such hospitals or sanatoria for treatment, and when the same are administered as an essential part of the particular system or method of treatment and exclusively by or under the direction of a duly licensed and registered physician of good moral character and standing. (1915, c. 97, s. 9.)

As to the effect of section 3411(s) on this section, see Editor's Note, section 3367.

§ 3393. Vinous liquors for sacramental purposes.—It shall be lawful for any duly ordained minister of the gospel who is in charge of a church and at the head of a congregation in this state, to receive in the space of ninety consecutive days a quantity of vinous liquors not greater than three gallons for use in sacramental purposes only, and it shall be lawful for him to receive same in one or more packages or one or more receptacles. (1919, c. 241.)

This section was reenacted as section 3411(t). See Editor's Note, section 3367.

§§ 3394 to 3397.—Repealed by Public Laws. (1921, c. 204.)

As to effect of general prohibition laws upon local statutes, see section 3411, and annotations thereto.

Art. 6. Seizure and Forfeiture of Property

§ 3398. Duty of sheriff to seize distilleries. — It is the duty of the sheriff of each county in the state and of the police of each incorporated town or city in the state to search for and seize any distillery or apparatus used for the manufacture of intoxicating liquors in violation of the laws of North Carolina, and to deliver the same, with any materials used for making such liquors found on the premises, to the board of county commissioners, who shall confiscate the same and shall cause the distillery to be cut up and destroyed, in their presence or in the presence of a committee of the board, and who may dispose of the material, including the copper or other material from the destroyed still or apparatus, in such manner as they may deem proper. (Rev., s. 3533; 1905, c. 498, s. 2; 1907, c. 807, s. 1.)

§ 3399. Duty of officers to destroy liquor and arrest offenders.—It is the duty of the sheriff and other officers mentioned in the preceding section to seize and then and there destroy any and all liquors which may be found at any distillery for the manufacture of intoxicating liquors in violation of law, and to arrest and hold for trial all persons found on the premises engaged in distilling or aiding or abetting in the manufacture or sale of intoxicating liquors. (Rev., s. 3533; 1905, c. 498, ss. 4, 5; 1909, c. 807, s. 2.)

§ 3401. Fee for seizure.—For every distillery seized under this article the sheriff or other police officer shall receive the sum of twenty dollars, which shall be allowed by the commissioners of the county in which the seizure is made: Provided, that the commissioners shall not pay this amount if they are satisfied, after due investigation, that the seizure of the distillery was not bona fide made. (1909, c. 807, s. 3; 1911, c. 45, s. 1.)

See § 3402(a).

Editor's Note.—This section was amended as to Surrey county only by the Laws 1925, c. 173 by striking out, after the word "every," in line one, the words "distillery seized" and in lieu thereof inserting the words "copper still seized and destroyed."

Public Laws 1931, c. 91, which amended this section by adding at the end thereof the following: "Provided the provisions of this act shall not apply to Nash County," provided that "the commissioners of Nash County shall not hereafter pay the sheriff or other officer any sum whatsoever for seizing distilleries in Nash County."

Public Laws 1933, c. 246 provides that this section shall not apply to Moore and Lenoir counties. Public Laws 1933, c. 230 provides that the sum received by the officer in Warren county shall not exceed five dollars.

By the Public Laws of 1935, chapter 253, Moore county was eliminated from the exception made by Public Laws 1933, chapter 246.

Effect of Local Act Abolishing Fees.—Where the fees incident to a sheriff's office for the seizure and destruction of illicit distilleries, are excluded by a public-local law applicable to a certain county, subsequenty enacted, but prior to the commencement of the term of the incumbent, wherein it is provided that the sheriff shall turn over to the county treasurer all moneys collected from fees, and receive a specified sum as a salary in lieu of his fees, with exception only of certain fees allowed to the township deputy in certain instances, the duty to seize the illicit distilleries is the same as any other required of him as sheriff of the county. Thompson v. Comr's., 181 N. C. 265, 107 S. E. 1.

§ 3402. Claimant may sue for fee.—The person making the seizure may institute an action before the proper court for the amount claimed under and by virtue of the seizure; then the matter may be inquired into on its merits and judgment rendered accordingly. (1911, c. 45, s. 2.)

See § 3402(a).

§ 3402(a). Sections 3401 and 3402, repealed, as to still rewards; counties excepted. — Sections three thousand four hundred and one and three thousand four hundred and two of article six, chapter sixty-six of the consolidated statutes of North Carolina, are hereby repealed: Provided the county commissioners of Surry, Avery, Northamption, Greene, Alamance counties shall pay the sum of ($5.00) five dollars for the capture of each distillery captured in said counties: Provided the commissioners of Radkin county may in their discretion pay not exceeding ($5.00) five dollars: Provided that the county commissioners of Graham and Jackson counties be allowed to pay, not to exceed, the sum of ($5.00) five dollars for seizure of a distillery: Provided that this section shall not apply to the counties of Caswell, Chowan, and Wilson counties.

This section shall not repeal any public-local law. (1933, c. 480, s. 1.)

§ 3403. Seizure of vehicle used in conveying liquor.—If any person, firm or corporation shall have or keep in possession any spirituous, vinous or malt liquors in violation of law, the sheriff or other officer of any county, city or town, who shall seize such liquors by any authority provided by law, is hereby authorized and required to seize and take into his custody any vessel, boat, cart, carriage, automobile and all horses and other animals or things used in conveying, concealing or removing such spirituous, vinous or malt liquors, and safely keep the same until the guilt, or innocence of the defendant has been determined upon his trial for the violation of any such law making it unlawful to so keep in possession any spirituous, vinous or malt liquors, and upon conviction of a violation of the law, the defendant shall forfeit and lose all right, title and interest in and to the property so seized; and it shall be the duty of the sheriff having in possession the vessel, boat, cart, carriage, automobile and all horses and other animals or things so used in conveying, concealing or removing such spirituous, vinous or malt liquors, to advertise and sell same under the laws governing the sale of personal property under execution. (1915, c. 197, s. 1.)

As to the effect of section 3411(f) upon this section, see Editor's Note, section 3367.

Strict Construction.—The principle requiring a strict construction of a statute creating a forfeiture or in derogation of a common-law right applies to this section, requiring a seizure and sale of the defendant's right, title, or interest in an automobile unlawfully used in liquor traffic, and such seizure may not be extended by implication to apply to the seizure of an automobile, owned exclusively by some person other than the defendant, and who is innocent of the offense or complicity therein. State v. Johnson, 181 N. C. 638, 107 S. E. 433.

Only Defendant's Interest Forfeited.—Under the provisions of this statute, the automobile or property itself is not condemned and forfeited, but only the right, title, and interest of the defendant in and to the property so seized. State v. Johnson, 181 N. C. 638, 641, 107 S. E. 433.

In Motor Co. v. Jackson, 184 N. C. 328, 331, 114 S. E. 478, the court said: It is contended that the Court's construction of the statute in Skinner v. Thompson, 171 N. C. 98, 103, 87 S. E. 976, (that this section does not affect the rights of innocent third person) affords such opportunity for collusion as will destroy the purpose of the law in its practical operation. But we cannot accept such possibility as a ground for extending the terms of the statute to cases not within the contemplation of the Legislature; it is our duty to declare the law, not to make it.

Innocent Owner.—Where the driver of an automobile has been indicted for the unlawful use of the owner's automobile in the liquor traffic, and the owner himself establishes his innocence of the offense, upon interpleader, the statute, (this section) does not deprive him of title to the machine exclusively owned by him, and a conviction would have the effect of condemning him of committing the offense without affording him a trial thereof. State v. Johnson, 181 N. C. 638, 107 S. E. 433.

Same—Responsibility for Drivers.—Where the owner of automobiles for hire has instructed his drivers not to use them in connection with the traffic in spirituous liquors, and one of them, without his knowledge, has disobeyed the order, the doctrine of qui fecit per alium, or respondeat superior, does not apply, and he may intervene, where the driver is alone tried and convicted, and regain possession of the automobile and establish his title thereto. State v. Johnson, 181 N. C. 638, 107 S. E. 433.

Innocent Mortgagee—Failure to Register Mortgage.—This section creating a forfeiture of an automobile used in the unlawful transportation of intoxicating liquors, and providing for its sale, etc., by its express terms relates only to the interest therein of the violator of the law upon his conviction, and cannot be extended by legal construction to include the interest of a mortgagee of the automobile who is entirely ignorant and innocent of the unlawful act of which the defendant has been convicted; nor will the failure of registration of the mortgage affect the matter under our registration laws enacted for the protection of creditors and purchases for a valuable consideration, etc. Motor Co. v. Jackson, 184 N. C. 328, 114 S. E. 478.

§ 3404. Notice to owner to claim property. — In the event the sheriff or other officer shall, at the time of seizing spirituous, vinous or malt liquors, fail to capture or arrest the owner or party in possession and so using the vessel, boat, cart, carriage, automobile and all horses and other animals or thing to convey, conceal or remove such spirituous, vinous or malt liquors, he shall advertise for the owner to come forward and institute the proper proceeding to secure possession of the property, and upon the failure of any person to so come forward and surrender himself to the sheriff to the end that the question of whether the property was used as set out in this article, and upon the failure of such person to come forward, if an individual, in person, and make such claim within thirty days after such notice shall have appeared in at least one issue of some newspaper published in the county where such seizure was made, and after such notice and time the sheriff shall advertise such property so seized for sale and sell as provided in the preceding section. (1915, c. 197, s. 2.)

As to effect of section 3411(f) on this section, see Editor's Note, section 3367.

Premature Appeal.—An appeal is premature and will not lie from an order that the sheriff hold the proceeds of sale of property seized under the section. Richardson v. Hobgood, 170 N. C. 37, 86 S. E. 709.

§ 3405. Proceeds of sale applied to school fund.—The proceeds derived from the sale of such property, after paying for the reasonable expense of such sale, shall be paid by the sheriff to the county treasurer, and be applied by the treasurer to the credit of the public school fund of the county. (1915, c. 197, s. 3.)

As to effect of section 3411(f) upon this section, see Editor's Note, section 3367.

Art. 7. General Provisions

§ 3406. No witness privileged. — No person shall be excused from testifying on any prosecution for violating any law against the sale or manufacture of intoxicating liquors, but no discovery made by such person shall be used against him in any penal or criminal prosecution, and he shall be altogether pardoned for the offense done or participated in by him. (1913, c. 44, s. 7.)

As to effect of section 3411(g) upon this section, see Editor's Note, section 3367. See notes to section 3411(g).

Validity.—The section is constitutional and valid. State v. Randall, 170 N. C. 757, 87 S. E. 227.

§ 3407. Allowing distillery to be operated on land.—If any person shall knowingly permit or allow any distillery or other apparatus for the making or distilling of spirituous liquors to be set up for operation or to be operated on lands in his possession or control, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be punished in the dicretion of the court. (Rev., s. 3533; 1905, c. 498, s. 2.)

See State v. Jones, 175 N. C. 709, 712, 95 S. E. 576.

§ 3408. Federal license as evidence. — The possession of a license or the issuance to any person of a license to manufacture, rectify or sell, at wholesale or retail, spirituous or malt liquors by the United States government or any officer thereof in any county, city or town where the manufacture, sale or rectification of spirituous or malt liquors is forbidden by the laws of this state shall be prima facie evidence that the person having such license, or to whom the same was issued, is guilty of doing the act permitted by such license in violation of the laws of this state. On the trial of any person charged with the violation of any such laws, it shall be competent to prove that such a license is in the possession of or has been issued to such person, by the testimony of any witness who has personally examined the records of the government office where the official record of such licenses is kept. (Rev., s. 2060; 1905, c. 339, s. 5; 1907, c. 931.)

As to Federal license as prima facie evidence of keeping liquor for sale, see section 3379.

§ 3409. Manufacturing liquor a felony. — It is unlawful for any person to distil, manufacture, or in any manner make, or for any person to aid, assist, or abet any such person in distilling, manufacturing, or in any manner making any spirituous or malt liquors or intoxicating bitters within the state of North Carolina; but this shall not be understood as prohibiting the manufacture of wines and cider in the manner and under the conditions which are now or may hereafter be provided by law. Any person or persons violating the provisions of this section shall, for the first conviction, be guilty of a misdemeanor, and, upon conviction or confession of guilt, punished in the discretion of the court; for the second or any subsequent conviction said person or persons shall be guilty of a felony, and, upon conviction or confession in open court, shall be imprisoned in the state prison for not less than one year and not exceeding five years, in the discretion of the court. (1917, c. 157; 1919, c. 4.)

See note under § 7738.

Process of Manufacturing Need Not Be Complete.—It is not necessary for a conviction under the provisions of Public Laws 1917, chap. 157, now this section, making the distilling or manufacturing, etc., of spirituous or malt liquors or intoxicating bitters within the State unlawful, including within its express terms those who aid, assist, or abet therein, that the liquor should have been actually manufactured or the product finished; and where there is evidence tending to show that such manufacture had been in progress, but had been suspended by the arrest of the prisoner, and that he was aiding or assisting therein, it is sufficient to be submitted to the jury and to sustain conviction of the offense charged. State v. Horner, 174 N. C. 788, 94 S. E. 291.

When Question for Jury.—Where there is evidence of defendant's guilty knowledge in aiding in the distilling or manufacturing of intoxicating liquor prohibited by Public Laws 1917, chap. 157, now this section, by hauling it away, and also consistent with his innocence in merely hauling away the remnants after the illegal purpose had been accomplished or frustrated, without intention of taking part or aiding in its manufacture, the question of his guilt or innocence is one for the jury, under proper instructions. State v. Horner, 174 N. C. 788, 94 S. E. 291.

Second Degree.—Upon a charge in an indictment for manufacturing liquor, etc., under this section, the defendant may be convicted of the second degree of the offense—i. e., aiding or abetting its manufacture. State v. Horner, 174 N. C. 788, 94 S. E. 291.

Accessories Equally Guilty.—The defendant, guilty of aiding and abetting the unlawful manufacture of liquor, is equally guilty with those who actually operated the still. State v. Clark, 183 N. C. 733, 110 S. E. 641.

The appellant, convicted on his trial of aiding or abetting in the manufacture of whiskey on one count of the indictment, under this section, may not complain because he was tried on another count of the same bill for the unlawful manufacture of liquor and acquitted, there being sufficient evidence to sustain a conviction on each one. State v. Smith, 183 N. C. 725, 110 S. E. 654.

Presumption Regarding Previous Conviction.—The first conviction of manufacturing or aiding and abetting in the manufacture of spirituous, etc., liquors is a misdemeanor, and the second is a felony; and where the indictment does not charge a previous conviction it will be presumed that the defendant has not heretofore been convicted of the offense charged. State v. Clark, 183 N. C. 733, 110 S. E. 641.

Irrelevant Testimony.—The rejection of evidence as to the quantity of cotton or corn the defendant, tried for the unlawful manufacture of liquor, etc., under this section, had raised on his farm that year, is of irrelevant testimony, and its exclusion not erroneous. State v. Smith, 183 N. C. 725, 110 S. E. 654.

Evidence Sufficient for Conviction.—See State v. Smith, 183 N. C. 725, 110 S. E. 564; State v. Grier, 184 N. C. 723, 114 S. E. 622; State v. McMillan, 180 N. C. 741, 105 S. E. 403.

§ 3410. Other violations a misdemeanor. — Any person violating any of the provisions of this chapter, except as specified in the preceding section, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined or imprisoned, or both, in the discretion of the court. (1908, c. 71, s. 8; 1908, c. 118, s. 2; 1911, c. 35, s. 3; 1911, c. 133, s. 1; 1913, c. 44, ss. 1, 4; 1915, c. 91, s. 3; 1915, c. 97, s. 13.)

§ 3411. Local laws not repealed. — Nothing in this chapter shall operate to repeal any of the local or special acts of the general assembly of North Carolina prohibiting the manufacture or sale or other disposition of any of the liquors mentioned in this chapter, or any laws for the enforcement of the same, but all such acts shall continue in full force and effect and in concurrence herewith, and indictment or prosecution may be had either under this chapter or under any special or local act relating to the same subject. (1908, c. 71, s. 7; 1913, c. 44, s. 8.)

For complete review and consideration of this section, see State v. Johnson, 170 N. C. 685, 86 S. E. 788.

Art. 8. National Liquor Law, Conformation of State Law.

§ 3411(a). Definitions.—When used in this article—

(1) The word "liquor" or the phrase "intoxicating liquor" shall be construed to include alcohol, brandy, whisky, rum, gin, beer, ale, porter, and wine, and in addition thereto any spirituous, vinous, malt or fermented liquors, liquids, and compounds, whether medicated, proprietary, patented, or not, and by whatever name called, containing one-half of one per centum or more of alcohol by volume, which are fit for use for beverage purposes: Provided, that the foregoing definition shall not extend to dealcoholized wine nor to any beverage or liquid produced by the process of which beer, ale, porter, or wine is produced, if it contains less than one-half of one per cent of alcohol by volume, and is otherwise denominated than as beer, ale, or porter, and is contained and sold in, or from, sealed and labeled bottles, casks, or containers, and is made in accordance with the regulations set forth in Title II of "The Volstead Act," an act of Congress enacted October twenty-eight, one thousand nine hundred and nineteen, and an act supplemental to the National Prohibition Act, "H. R. 7294," an act of Congress approved November twenty-third, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-one.

(2) The word "person" shall mean and include natural persons, associations, copartnerships, and corporations. (1923, c. 1, s. 1.)

As to the effect of this act upon the prior law, see the Editor's Note under section 3367. For a summary review of this statute, see 1 N. C. Law Rev. 303.

As to counties exempted from the provisions of this and the succeeding sections of this article, see § 3411(38) and note.

Editor's Note.—This article is popularly known as the Turlington Act and is often referred to as such in the cases.

Similarity to Volstead Act.—This and the following section are, in many respects, the same as "The Volstead Act," although more stringent. State v. Sigmon, 190 N. C. 684, 690, 130 S. E. 854.

An act by our Legislature to make the State law conform to the "Volstead Act" passed by Congress, is valid, and in some respects more stringent than the Congressional act. State v. Hickey, 198 N. C. 45, 46, 150 S. E. 615.

Same—Power of State to Pass Stricter Regulation.—The State has the power through legislation to further regulate and control the manufacture, sale, etc., of intoxicating liquor beyond the restrictions contained in a Federal statute upon the subject, the latter prevailing in interstate regulations in case of conflict; and the State statute may consistently give further effect or efficiency to the Federal statute upon the subject as it relates to State regulation. State v. Hammond, 188 N. C. 602, 125 S. E. 402.

Effect upon Existing Legislation.—This act, with certain reservations as to existing State laws, establishes the rule now prevailing on the subject of prohibition and it applies to the extent that it is inconsistent with former legislation and is in conformity with valid Federal statutes on the subject where interstate regulation is concerned. State v. Hammond, 188 N. C. 602, 125 S. E. 402.

Beverages Not Enumerated.—It may be shown in evidence as a fact that other beverages than those defined by this section as intoxicating and prohibited are intoxicating in fact and come within the intent and meaning of the statute. State v. Fields, 201 N. C. 110, 159 S. E. 11.

Cited in State v. Dowell, 195 N. C. 523, 525, 143 S. E. 133.

§ 3411(b). Manufacture, sale, etc., forbidden; construction of law; nonbeverage liquor.—No person shall manufacture, sell, barter, transport, import, export, deliver, furnish, purchase, or possess any intoxicating liquor except as authorized in this article; and all the provisions of this article shall be liberally construed to the end that the use of intoxicating liquor as beverage may be prevented. Liquor for nonbeverage purposes and wine for sacramental purposes may be manufactured, purchased, sold, bartered, transported, imported, exported, delivered, furnished, and possessed, but only as provided by Title II of "The Volstead Act," act of congress enacted October twenty-eighth, one thousand nine hundred and nineteen, an act supplemental to the National Prohibition Act, "H. R. 7294," an act of congress approved November twenty-third, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-one. (1923, c. 1, s. 1.)

See the annotations under sections 3411(f), 3411(j).

Constitutionality.—The State in its inherent and reserved power preserved to it by the Tenth Amendment to the Federal Constitution may enact valid laws relating to prohibition when not in conflict with the Eighteenth Amendment to the Federal Constitution, or congressional legislation, and this section, making the purchase of intoxicating liquor a criminal offense, is valid and enforceable. State v. Lassiter, 198 N. C. 352, 151 S. E. 721.

Effect of Acquiring Possession Prior to Act.—Evidence tending to show that the defendant had intoxicating liquor in his possession before the efficacy of this act, is not a defense under the provisions of this act for the defendant's possession a year thereafter, upon the trial for violating the prohibition law. State v. Knight, 188 N. C. 630, 125 S. E. 406.

Effect on Recovery under Compensation Act.—The mere fact that an applicant for compensation under the provisions of the Workmen's Compensation Act had in his possession whiskey contrary to this section does not alone prevent the recovery of compensation. Jackson v. Dairymen's Creamery, 202 N. C. 196, 162 S. E. 359.

When Receipt Prohibited.—There is no provision in this act which in express terms prohibits one from receiving intoxicating liquors. Except as embraced and included by the acts which are prohibited in the statute, the mere receiving of intoxicating liquors is not forbidden. State v. Hammond, 188 N. C. 602, 608, 125 S. E. 402.

It is bad pleading to make the mere receipt of liquor the subject of a separate and independent count; and the charge that the mere receipt of same, though only in the home of the recipient, and kept there only for a lawful purpose, is forbidden, is not warranted by any proper construction of the statute that has been suggested to us. State v. Hammond, 188 N. C. 602, 608, 125 S. E. 402.

Section Liberally Construed—What Amounts to Possession.—This section was expressly to be liberally construed to prevent intoxication, and makes it unlawful for one to possess intoxicating liquor, with restricted qualifications; and a conviction will be sustained under a verdict of guilty upon evidence tending to show that the defendant received a bottle of intoxicating liquor from another, took a drink therefrom, and handed the bottle back to the one from whom he had received it, neither of them being upon his own premises. State v. McAllister, 187 N. C. 400, 121 S. E. 739.

Character of Possession Necessary.—The possession may, within this statute, be either actual, or constructive. State v. Meyers, 190 N. C. 239, 243, 129 S. E. 600. See also State v. Norris, 206 N. C. 191, 173 S. E. 14.

A prima facie case of the unlawful sale of intoxicating liquors may be established by circumstances sufficient to show that the defendant had in his constructive possession large quantities of whiskey not on his premises, in the possession of others who held it for him. State v. Pierce, 192 N. C. 766, 136 S. E. 121.

If a man procures another to obtain liquor for him and put it in a given place, and the other performs this agreement and places the liquor, then the possession is complete. A person may be in the possession of the article which he has not at the moment about his person. The constructive possession, as well as the actual possession, is in the contemplation of the statute. State v. Pierce, 192 N. C. 766, 769, 136 S. E. 121; State v. Meyers, 190 N. C. 239, 129 S. E. 600.

Transportation as Including Possession.—Where the evidence is sufficient to convict the defendant of transporting whiskey under this and the following section, the transportation of spirituous liquor includes the possession. State v. Sigmon, 190 N. C. 684, 130 S. E. 854.

Where an indictment for violating our prohibition law contains a count as to the unlawful possession and also unlawfully transporting spirituous liquor, an acquittal upon the first is not inconsistent with a conviction on the second issue. They are two distinct offenses under the statute. State v. Sigmon, 190 N. C. 684, 130 S. E. 854.

Purpose of Possession.—Upon the trial for transporting intoxicating liquors in violation of our statute, the purpose of the possession of the intoxicants, or that they were for the purpose of profit, are immaterial, and the fact that the person accused is carrying them from one place to another is sufficient. State v. Sigmon, 190 N. C. 684, 130 S. E. 854.

Possession—Admissibility of Evidence.—Where on a trial for unlawful possession of intoxicating liquor there is evidence tending to show that on the premises of the defendant's gasoline station two barrels partly containing whiskey were found concealed, buried in the ground and encased in concrete of the same character and material as the filling station, etc., testimony of the officer that the barrels, from the indication, had thus been there since the building of the station is competent as tending to show that the possession of the whiskey was for an unlawful purpose. State v. Hege, 194 N. C. 526, 140 S. E. 80.

Same—Evidence Sufficient to Go to Jury.—On a trial for the unlawful possession of intoxicating liquors, evidence of the State tending to show that the defendant had several gallons of whiskey concealed on the premises of his gasoline station held, sufficient to take the case to the jury on defendant's motion to dismiss upon the State's evidence. State v. Hege, 194 N. C. 526, 140 S. E. 80.

Same—Defense.—Where the defendant is indicted for the unlawful possession of whiskey under this section, evidence of its possession before the enactment of the statute is no defense. State v. Hege, 194 N. C. 526, 140 S. E. 80.

Purchase and Transportation for Use in Home.—It is unlawful to purchase and transport intoxicating liquor under this section even though it is intended for use in the home under section 3411(j). State v. Winston, 194 N. C. 243.

Separate Offenses Charged in Same Warrant.—The offenses of delivering, and of keeping for sale, are separate offenses under this act and although charged in the same warrant, they will be treated as separate counts. State v. Janett, 189 N. C. 516, 127 S. E. 590.

Sufficiency of Evidence—To Convict of Transporting. — Where a car, parked with the rear to the road and with the tail light concealed by a cap but with the front lights on, and the rear of the car smelled of liquor, and empty jugs, and a funnel which smelled of liquor, were found on the ground near, and someone ran through the field as the officers approached the car, and the officers arrested the defendant who came up after their arrival, carried him to jail, and upon return to the place found the jug and funnel gone, and a car which passed ran up the road a piece turned around and came back, it was held that the facts were sufficient to justify a finding "beyond a reasonable doubt that not only defendant was transporting liquors, but he had confederates and had been getting the liquor and had sold out and gone back to them to get another load. He had all the implements of a blind-tiger transporting liquor. The officers caught him before he had gotten his new supply." State v. Sigmon, 190 N. C. 684, 130 S. E. 854.

Same—To Deny Nonsuit.—Evidence in this case tending to show that the defendant lived in a part of his filling station used as a residence, where was found a quantity of empty bottles smelling of whisky, and that in the vicinity was a used roadway leading to several places where cartons with bottles of whisky were concealed, etc., was sufficient to deny defendant's motion as of nonsuit. State v. Pierce, 192 N. C. 766, 136 S. E. 121.

A motion for nonsuit upon the evidence on the trial for a violation of the prohibition law, will be denied when, though circumstantial, it is sufficient upon the question of possession and unlawful transportation of intoxicating liquor. State v. Meyers, 190 N. C. 239, 129 S. E. 600.

Where the man went to feed his hogs, the wife ran out of the house with liquor and hid it; the boy took some and ran and spilled it as he ran; the daughter covered up an old 30-gallon drum, the evidence as to violation of this section and section 3411(d) was sufficient to refuse a nonsuit. State v. Norris, 206 N. C. 191, 197, 173 S. E. 14.

General Verdict Sufficient for Conviction.—A general verdict of guilty, under evidence tending to show that the defendant unlawfully had in his possession, when not in his private dwelling, intoxicating liquor, under an indictment therefor, as well as for the unlawful receiving and transportation, is sufficient to sustain a conviction upon the count of possession prohibited. State v. McAllister, 187 N. C. 400, 121 S. E. 739.

Same—Erroneous Charge as to Separate Count Harmless. —Where a general verdict of guilty has been rendered against the defendant, upon competent evidence, tending to show that he unlawfully had spirituous liquor in his possession, an erroneous charge as to receiving and transporting it, is harmless error. State v. McAllister, 187 N. C. 400, 121 S. E. 739.

Sentence of Two Years Constitutional.—A sentence of two years for violating this Act will not be held as inhibited by our State Constitution as cruel and unusual, by reason of the fact that the judge after the trial and before sentence made inquiry into the character of the defendant, the sentence imposed being in conformity with the provisions of the statute. State v. Beavers, 188 N. C. 595, 125 S. E. 258.

Cited in State v. Dowell, 195 N. C. 523, 525, 143 S. E. 133; State v. Scoggins, 199 N. C. 821, 155 S. E. 927.

§ 3411(c). Advertisements, signs, and billboards.—It shall be unlawful to advertise, anywhere or by any means or method, liquor, or the manufacture, sale, keeping for sale or furnishing of the means, or where, how, from whom, or at what price the same may be obtained. No one shall permit any sign or billboard containing such advertisement to remain upon one's premises. (1923, c. 1, s. 3.)

Editor's Note.—This section is partly repealed or superseded by section 3411(37).

§ 3411(d). Advertising, etc., of utensils, etc., for use in manufacturing liquor.—It shall be unlawful to advertise, manufacture, sell, or possess for sale any utensil, contrivance, machine, preparation, compound, tablet, substance, formula, direction, or receipt advertised, designed, or intended for use in the unlawful manufacture of intoxicating liquor. It shall be unlawful to have or possess any liquor or property designated for the manufacture of liquor intended for use in violating this article, or which has been so used, and no property rights shall exist in any such liquor or property. (1923, c. 1, s. 4.)

Possession of Property Designed for Manufacture.—An indictment charging the defendant with a violation of this section, in that he had in his possession property designed for the manufacture of intoxicating liquor is not identical with a charge of an attempt to commit a crime. State v. Jaynes, 198 N. C. 728, 153 S. E. 410.

"Designated."—In the interpretation of this section making it unlawful to possess any property "designated" for use in manufacturing intoxicating liquor, the word "designated" is construed to mean "designed," and so used it is held in this case that evidence of the defendant's guilt of possessing parts of a still designed and intended for the purpose of manufacturing intoxicating liquor was sufficient to be submitted to the jury and to sustain their verdict of guilty, and the fact that the parts had not been assembled into a distillery is immaterial under the language of the statute. State v. Jaynes, 198 N. C. 728, 153 S. E. 410.

§ 3411(e). Soliciting orders for liquor.—No person shall solicit or receive, nor knowingly permit his employee to solicit or receive, from any person any order for liquor or give any information of how liquor may be obtained in violation of this article. (1923, c. 1, s. 5.)

the law shall discover any person in the act of transporting, in violation of the law, intoxicating liquor in any wagon, buggy, automobile, water or air craft, or other vehicle, it shall be his duty to seize any and all intoxicating liquor found therein being transported contrary to law. When ever intoxicating liquor transported or possessed illegally shall be seized by an officer he shall take possession of the vehicle and team or automobile, boat, air or water craft, or any other conveyance, and shall arrest any person in charge thereof. Such officer shall at once proceed against the person arrested under the provisions of this article in any court having competent jurisdiction; but the said vehicle or conveyance shall be returned to the owner upon execution by him of a good and valid bond, with sufficient sureties, in a sum double the value of the property, which said bond shall be approved by said officer and shall be conditioned to return said property to the custody of said officer on the day of trial to abide the judgment of the court. The court, upon the conviction of the person so arrested, shall order the liquor destroyed, and, unless the claimant can show that the property seized is his property, and that the same was used in transporting liquor without his knowledge and consent, with the right on the part of the claimant to have a jury pass upon his claim, shall order a sale by public auction of the property seized, and the officer making the sale, after deducting the expenses of keeping the property, the fee for the seizure, and the cost of the sale, shall pay all liens, according to their priorities, which are established, by intervention or otherwise at said hearing or in other proceeding brought for said purpose, as being bona fide and as having been created without the lienor having any notice that the carrying vehicle was being used for illegal transportation of liquor, and shall pay the balance of the proceeds to the treasurer or the proper officer in the county who receives fines and forfeitures, to be used for the school fund of the county. All liens against property sold under the provisions of this section shall be transferred from the property to the proceeds of the sale of the property. If, however, no one shall be found claiming the team, vehicle, water or air craft, or automobile, the taking of the same, with a description thereof, shall be advertised in some newspaper published in the city or county where taken, or, if there be no newspaper published in such city or county, in a newspaper having circulation in the county, once a week for two weeks and by handbills posted in three public places near the place of seizure, and if no claimant shall appear within ten days after the last publication of the advertisement, the property shall be sold, and the proceeds, after deducting the expenses and costs, shall be paid to the treasurer or proper officer in the county who receives fines and forfeitures, to be used for the school fund of the county: Provided, that nothing in this section shall be construed to authorize any officer to search any automobile or other vehicle or baggage of any person without a search warrant duly issued, except where the officer sees or has absolute personal knowledge that there is intoxicating liquor in such vehicle or baggage. (1923, c. 1, s. 6.)

Constitutionality.—The provisions of this section do not contravene the provisions of the State Constitution, Art. I, secs. 11 and 15. State v. Godette, 188 N. C. 497, 125 S. E. 24.

Arrest without Warrant.—An arrest may not be lawfully made by the properly authorized officers of the law for the violation of our prohibition law, for the transportation of intoxicating liquors upon mere unfounded suspicion arising from information received that the supposed offenders would thus transgress the law on a future occasion, and an arrest so made, not upon an offense committed in the officers' presence or to their personal knowledge as to the particular offense, and without a search warrant, is unlawful and entitles the plaintiff in his action therefor, to recover damages. State v. DeHerrodora, 192 N. C. 749, 136 S. E. 6.

It follows that for an officer to fire upon a passing automobile with only an erroneous suspicion that the occupants thereof were thus unlawfully engaged, is without warrant of law, and the unintentional killing of one of those suspected as a result, is manslaughter at least, and a verdict thereof under conflicting evidence will be sustained on appeal. State v. Simmons, 192 N. C. 692, 135 S. E. 866.

But where there is evidence that acting upon information previously received that intoxicating liquors are being unlawfully transported, the proper officers of the law lie in wait for and follow automobile, and can see containers and smell the liquor, they have a right to arrest without warrant and seize the vehicle. State v. Godette, 183 N. C. 497, 125 S. E. 24.

Same—Evidence Not Excluded.—The arrest by the officer of the law without a warrant, being valid under the provisions of our statute, it may not successfully be maintained that evidence thereof should have been excluded. State v. Godette, 188 N. C. 497, 125 S. E. 24.

A search warrant is not necessary to search a suitcase for intoxicating liquor when carried by the defendant after arrest, when under the circumstances the officer had reasonable grounds for belief that it contained intoxicating liquor, and these conditions do not fall within the intent of this section. State v. Jenkins, 195 N. C. 747, 143 S. E. 538.

The "baggage" of the proviso of this section, refers to baggage accompanying or in the vehicle transporting the intoxicating liquor. State v. Jenkins, 195 N. C. 747, 750, 143 S. E. 538.

By "baggage" is understood such articles of personal convenience or necessity as are usually carried by passengers for their personal use, and not merchandise or other valuables, though carried in the trunk of a passenger, but which are not, however, designed for such use, but for other purposes, such as sale and the like. State v. Jenkins, 195 N. C. 747, 751, 143 S. E. 538.

A suitcase or traveling bag with four one-half gallon cans of contraband liquor in it is not baggage, under the definition in this section. State v. Jenkins, 195 N. C. 747, 751, 143 S. E. 538.

"Other Vehicle"—Suit Case.—A suitcase carried in one's hand along a public highway would not be an "other vehicle" within the meaning of this section. State v. Jenkins, 195 N. C. 747, 750, 143 S. E. 538.

Search without Warrant.—Officers have no authority to search a car without a warrant, under this section where they do not see or have "absolute personal knowledge" that there is intoxicating liquor in his car. State v. Simmons, 192 N. C. 692, 135 S. E. 866; State v. Godette, 188 N. C. 497, 125 S. E. 24; State v. DeHerrodora, 192 N. C. 749, 753, 136 S E. 6.

Forfeiture of Property Used.—See article in 2 N. C. Law Rev. 126 for a review of the cases and statutes.

Rights of License on Automobile Forfeited and Sold.—This section expressly transfers the lien upon an automobile seized and sold for the unlawful transportation of liquor to the proceeds of the sale, and does not deprive the lienor of his property in conflict with Const., Art. 1, § 17, or with the Due Process Clause of the Federal Constitution, the statute prescribing notice by publication, and the mode of giving notice being peculiarly a legislative function. C. I. T. Corporation v. Burgess, 199 N. C. 23, 153 S. E. 634.

One claiming a lien under an unregistered mortgage on an automobile seized and sold under the provisions of this section, after notice by publication required by the statute, may not successfully maintain his action for possession of the car against the purchaser at the sale had in conformity with law, though he may not have been aware of the proceedings and had no knowledge of the unlawful use of the automobile at the time of its seizure. C. I. T. Corporation v. Burgess, 199 N. C. 23, 153 S. E. 634.

Liability of Sheriff for Destruction of Vehicle.—In a case arising prior to this section it was held that where the sheriff took an automobile in custody under a corresponding statute and while he was holding it in a storage garage according to law, it was destroyed by fire through no fault of his, he was not liable on his forthcoming bond. There were two dissenting opinions filed. Motor Co. v. Sands, 186 N. C. 732, 120 S. E. 459.

§ 3411(f1). Use of seized property forbidden.—It shall be unlawful for any State, county, township or municipal officer to use or cause to be used for any purpose whatsoever any automobile or other article of personal property seized by said officer for the reason that the owner of said property or one in possession thereof at time of seizure has violated the terms of the State or Federal prohibition laws, or any other laws, until the respective rights of the owner, or person in possession at time of seizure, or mortgagee if one should intervene, are passed upon by the proper court, and final order is made as to proper disposition of said personal property so seized.

It shall be the duty of the officer seizing said automobile or other personal property to store same in a safe and suitable place, until final disposition is ordered.

Any officer or officers violating the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined not to exceed fifty dollars or imprisoned not to exceed thirty days. (1927, c. 18.)

§ 3411(g). Witnesses; self crimination; immunity.—No person shall be excused, on the ground that it may tend to incriminate him or subject him to a penalty or forfeiture, from attending and testifying, or producing books, papers, documents, and other evidence in obedience to a subpœna of any court in any suit or proceeding based upon or growing out of any alleged violation of this article, but no natural person shall be prosecuted or subjected to any penalty or forfeiture for or on account of any transaction, matter, or thing as to which, in obedience to a subpœna and under oath, he may so testify or produce evidence; but no person shall be exempt from prosecution and punishment for perjury committed in so testifying. (1923, c. 1, s. 7.)

Immunity Must Be Claimed Under Section.—The immunity from punishment of an offender against our prohibition law when testifying against others charged with the same offense, must be claimed by him under the provisions of this section which supersede sec. 3406, so as to make our statute conform to the Federal Act, whereunder no discovery made by such person shall be used against him and he shall be altogether pardoned for the offense done or participated in by him. State v. Luquire, 191 N. C. 479, 132 S. E. 162.

Voluntary Testimony of Offender.—The evidence in criminal prosecutions that may not be received from the offender, is such as is compulsory, and does not apply to one volunteering his testimony and willingly giving it. State v. Luquire, 191 N. C. 479, 132 S. E. 162.

Same—Waiver.—An offender against the criminal law relating to prohibition, may waive his constitutional right not to give evidence that would tend to incriminate himself by his voluntary act in so doing. State v. Luquire, 191 N. C. 479, 132 S. E. 162.

Testimony at Former Trial.—Where a witness on a former trial for violating the prohibition law against the manufacture or sale of intoxicating liquor has voluntarily testified as to matters which may tend to incriminate him, claiming no exemption or immunity when called upon to testify, it is competent for witnesses to testify thereto at the second trial, who were present and heard the testimony at the former one, the testimony not coming within the terms of this section. State v. Burnett, 184 N. C. 785, 115 S. E. 57.

§ 3411(h). Place of sale and delivery; place of prosecution.—In case of a sale of liquor where the delivery thereof was made by a common or other carrier, the sale and delivery shall be deemed to be made in the county wherein the delivery was made by such carrier or the consignee, his agent or employee, or in the county wherein the sale was made, or from which the shipment was made, and prosecution for such sale or delivery may be had in either county. (1923, c. 1, s. 8.)

§ 3411(i). Uniting separate offenses in indictment, etc.; bill of particulars; trial.—In any affidavit, information, warrant, or indictment for the violation of this article, separate offenses may be united in separate counts, and the defendant may be tried on all at one trial, and the penalty for all offenses may be imposed. It shall not be necessary in any affidavit, information, warrant, or indictment to give the name of the purchaser or to include any defensive negative averments, but it shall be sufficient to state that the act complained of was then and there prohibited and unlawful; but this provision shall not be construed to preclude the trial court from directing the furnishing the defendant a bill of particulars when it deems it proper to do so. (1923, c. 1, s. 9.)

§ 3411(j). Possession prima facie evidence of keeping for sale.—The possession of liquor by any person not legally permitted under this article to possess liquor shall be prima facie evidence that such liquor is kept for the purpose of being sold, bartered, exchanged, given away, furnished, or otherwise disposed of in violation of the provisions of this article. But it shall not be unlawful to possess liquor in one's private dwelling while the same is occupied and used by him as his dwelling only, provided such liquor is for the personal consumption of the owner thereof, and his family residing in such dwelling, and of his bona fide guests when entertained by him therein. (1923, c. 1, s. 10.)

For a discussion of the wisdom of permitting proof of possession to raise a presumption of unlawful handling for gain, see 5 N. C. Law Rev. 302.

Liberal Construction.—This section is to be liberally construed to prevent the use of liquor as a beverage; and the possession of such liquor is made prima facie evidence of the violation of the law, but allowing the possession thereof for the personal consumption of the owner and bona fide guests, etc. State v. Hammond, 188 N. C. 602, 125 S. E. 402.

Section 3379 Not Repealed.—The prior statute making the possession of more than one gallon, prima facie evidence of the purpose of unlawful sale is not in conflict with or repealed by this section. State v. Foster, 185 N. C. 674, 116 S. E. 561.

Possession as Evidence of Sale.—If one had possession of liquor as disclosed by this record it was prima facie evidence that he had it for sale. If not in his private dwelling, if he had actual constructive possession, whether for sale or not, it is a violation of law. State v. Pierce, 192 N. C. 766, 770, 136 S. E. 121; State v. McAllister, 187 N. C. 400, 121 S. E. 739; State v. Knight, 188 N. C. 630, 125 S. E. 406.

But the prima facie case so established may be rebutted by showing that possession was lawful under the statutory qualification, the burden remaining with the State to show guilt beyond a reasonable doubt. State v. Hammond, 188 N. C. 602, 125 S. E. 402.

However, the mere possession unrebutted is sufficient to carry the issue to the jury. State v. Hammond, 188 N. C. 602, 607, 125 S. E. 402.

Prima Facie Evidence Applies to Possession in Private Dwelling.—The prima facie evidence arising under this section from the possession of liquor applies to possession in a private dwelling or elsewhere. State v. Dowell, 195 N. C. 523, 143 S. E. 133.

Keeping in Home.—As shown in this section one is not allowed "to manufacture, sell, barter, etc., or possess intoxicating liquors," except as heretofore explained and modified, but if received only in one's home (without violation of the acts as specified and prohibited in the statute), and is kept there only for the consumption of the owner and his family and the bona fide guests entertained by him, this constitutes no breach of the present statute, though received since the same was enacted. State v. Hammond, 188 N. C. 602, 608, 125 S. E. 402.

Such possession in the absence of a count in the indictment charging that it was for prohibited purposes, is not made unlawful by our prohibition statutes. State v. Mull, 193 N. C. 668, 137 S. E. 866.

When Possession in Private Dwelling Unlawful.—Under this section the possession of liquor in the private dwelling of defendant, for any other purpose than stated in the exception, is unlawful. State v. Dowell, 195 N. C. 523, 143 S. E. 133.

Purchase and Transportation to Home Unlawful.—While this section does not make it a criminal offense for one to have intoxicating liquor in his own dwelling for his own personal use or that of his family and friends, it is a violation of the criminal law, by the express provisions of section 3411(b), for him to either purchase it elsewhere or carry it there. State v. Winston, 194 N. C. 243.

Burden of Proving Proper Purposes.—Where the defendant, charged with the violation of our prohibition law, seeks to defend himself under the provisions of this act, allowing the possession of intoxicating liquors in his house for his own purposes, he must plead and show that the liquor was for the purpose allowed by the act. State v. Foster, 185 N. C. 674, 116 S. E. 561. See the discussion in 5 N. C. Law Rev. 302.

Under this section the State is not required to allege or prove that the case does not fall within the exception allowing possession for personal use, etc. This being a matter of defense, must be alleged and proven by the defendant. State v. Dowell, 195 N. C. 523, 143 S. E. 133.

Same—Rebuttal by Proof of Large Quantity.—The possession of a large quantity of whisky in the home of the defendant raised the prima facie case of her guilt, permitting the inference from the method of its being bottled, etc., that it was for the purpose of an unlawful sale, or that it had been received for unlawful purposes, defendant's motion as of non-suit thereon was properly denied. State v. Hammond, 188 N. C. 602, 125 S. E. 402.

Charge Negativing Proper Purpose Unnecessary. — Where the indictment sufficiently charges the offense of the unlawful possession of whiskey under this section, a charge negativing the exception making it lawful to have such possession for family purposes, etc., as provided in § 3411(j) is unnecessary to a conviction. State v. Hege, 194 N. C. 526, 140 S. E. 80.

§ 3411(k). Summons on citizens having interest in property.—In all cases wherein the property of any citizen is proceeded against or wherein a judgment affecting it might be rendered, and the citizen is not the one who in person violated the provisions of the law, summons must be issued in due form and served personally, if said person is to be found within the jurisdiction of the court. (1923, c. 1, s. 11.)

§ 3411(l). Search warrants; disposal of liquor seized.—Upon the filing of a complaint under oath by a reputable citizen or information furnished under oath by an officer charged with the execution of the law, before a justice of the peace, recorder, mayor, or other officer authorized by the law to issue warrants, that he has reason to believe that any person has in his possession, at a place or places specified, liquor for the purpose of sale, a warrant shall be issued commanding the officer to whom it is directed to search the place or places described in such complaint or information; and if such liquor be found in any such place or places, to seize and take into his custody all such liquor, and to seize and take into his custody all glasses, bottles, jugs, pumps, bars, or other equipment used in the business of selling intoxicating liquor which may be found at such place or places, and to keep the same subject to the order of the court. The complaint or information shall describe the place or places to be searched with sufficient particularity to identify the same, and shall describe the intoxicating liquor or other property alleged to be used in carrying on the business of selling intoxicating liquor as particularly as practicable, and any description, however general, that will enable the officer executing the warrant to identify the property seized shall be deemed sufficient. All liquor seized under this section shall be held and upon acquittal of the person so charged shall be returned to such person, and upon conviction, or upon default of appearance, shall be destroyed. (1923, c. 1, s. 12.)

§ 3411(m). Grand jury, witnesses before; effect of evidence.—When the solicitor of any judicial district has good reason to believe that liquor has been manufactured or sold contrary to law within a county in his district, and believes that any person has knowledge of the existence and establishment of any illicit distillery, or that any person has sold liquor illegally, then it is lawful for the solicitor to apply to the clerk of the superior court of the county wherein the offense is supposed to have been committed to issue a subpœna for the person so having knowledge of said offense to appear before the next grand jury drawn for the county, there to testify upon oath what he may know touching the existence, establishment, and whereabouts of said distillery, or persons who have sold intoxicating liquor contrary to law, who shall give the names and personal description of the keepers thereof, and of any person who has sold liquor unlawfully; and such evidence, when so obtained, shall be considered and held in law as an information on oath upon which the grand jury shall make presentment, as provided by law in other cases. If any officer shall fail or refuse to use due diligence in the execution of the provisions of this section he shall be guilty of laches in office, and such failure be cause for removal from office. (1923, c. 1, s. 13.)

§ 3411(n). Clubrooms and other places for keeping, etc., of liquor.—No corporation, club, association, or person shall directly or indirectly keep or maintain, alone or by association with others, or by any other means, or shall in any manner aid, assist, or abet others in keeping or maintaining a clubroom or other place where intoxicating liquor is received, kept, or stored for barter, sale, exchange, distribution, or division among the members of any such club or association or aggregation of persons, or to or among any other persons by any means whatever, or shall act as agents in ordering, procuring, buying, storing, or keeping intoxicating liquor for any such purpose. (1923, c. 1, s. 14.)

§ 3411(o). Records of transporation companies; evidence.—All express companies, railroad companies, or other transportation companies doing business in this state are required hereby to keep a separate book in which shall be entered immediately upon receipt thereof the name of the person to whom liquor is shipped, the amount and kind received, and the date when received, the date when delivered, by whom delivered, and to whom delivered, after which record shall be a blank space, in which the consignee shall be required to sign his name, or, if he cannot write, shall make his mark in the presence of a witness, before such liquor is delivered to such consignee, and which book shall be open for inspection to any officer or citizen of the state, county, or municipality any time during business hours of the company, and such book shall constitute prima facie evidence of the facts therein and will be admissible in any of the courts of this state. Any express company, railroad company, or other transportation company, or any employee or agent of any express company, railroad company, or other transportation company violating the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. (1923, c. 1, s. 15.)

§ 3411(p). Indictments; allegations of sale; circumstantial evidence.—In indictments for violating any provisions of this article it shall not be necessary to allege a sale to a particular person, and the violation of law may be proved by circumstantial evidence as well as by direct evidence. (1923, c. 1, s. 16.)

§ 3411(q). Serving liquor with meals.—It is unlawful for any person to serve with meals, or otherwise, any liquor or intoxicating bitters, where any charge is made for such meal or service. (1923, c. 1, s. 17.)

§ 3411(s). Grain alcohol for use in medicine or surgery; manufacture or sale of cider.—The provisions of this article shall not apply to grain alcohol, received by duly licensed physicians, druggists, dental surgeons, college, university, and state laboratories, and manufacturers of medicine, when intended to be used in compounding, mixing, or preserving medicines or medical preparations, or for surgical purposes, when obtained as hereinbefore provided: Provided, however, that nothing contained in this article shall prohibit the importation into the state of North Carolina and the delivery and possession in the state for use in industry, manufactures, and arts of any denatured alcohol or other denatured spirits which are compounded and made in accordance with the formulae prescribed by acts of Congress of the United States and regulations made under authority thereof by the Treasury Department of the United States and the commissioner of internal revenue thereof, and which are not now subject to internal revenue tax levied by the Government of the United States: Provided further, that this article shall not apply to wines and liquors required and used by hospitals or sanatoriums bona fide established and maintained for the treatment of patients addicted to the use of liquor, morphine, opium, cocaine, or other deleterious drugs, when the same are administered to patients actually in such hospitals or sanatoriums for treatment, and when the same are administered as an essential part of the particular system or method of treatment and exclusively by or under the direction of a duly licensed and registered physician of good moral character and standing: Provided, further, that this article shall not prohibit the manufacture or sale of cider or vinegar. (1923, c. 1, s. 19.)

§ 3411(t). Wine for sacramental purposes. — It is lawful for any ordained minister of the gospel who is in charge of a church and at the head of a congregation in this state to receive in the space of ninety consecutive days a quantity of vinous liquor not greater than five gallons, for use in sacramental purposes only, and it shall be lawful for him to receive same in one or more packages or one or more receptacles. (1923, c. 1, s. 20; 1935, c. 114.)

Editor's Note.—By the amendment of 1935 the quantity which could be received was increased from three to five gallons.

§ 3411(u). Sheriffs and police to search for and seize distilleries; confiscation; disposal of property.—It is the duty of the sheriff of each county in the state and of the police of each incorporated town or city in the state to search for and seize any distillery or apparatus used for the manufacture of intoxicating liquor in violation of the laws of North Carolina, and to deliver same, with any materials used for making such liquor found on the premises, to the board of county commissioners, who shall confiscate the same and shall cause the distillery to be cut up and destroyed, in their presence or in the presence of a committee of the board, and who may dispose of the material, including the copper or other material from the destroyed still or apparatus, in such manner as they may deem proper. (1923, c. 1, s. 21.)

§ 3411(v). Destruction of liquor at distillery; persons arrested.—It is the duty of the sheriff and other officers mentioned in the preceding section to seize and then and there destroy any and all liquor which may be found at any distillery for the manufacture of intoxicating liquor in violation of law, and to arrest and hold for trial all persons found on the premises engaged in distilling or aiding or abetting in the manufacture or sale of intoxicating liquor. (1923, c. 1, s. 22.)

§ 3411(x). Rewards for seizure of still.—For every distillery seized under this article the sheriff or other police officer shall receive such sum as the board of county commissioners of the county in which the seizure was made shall, in the discretion of such board, allow, which sum shall not be less than five dollars nor more than twenty dollars: Provided, that the commissioners shall not pay any amount if they are satisfied, after due investigation, that the seizure of the distillery was not bona fide made: Provided further, that when the sheriff of a county captures a distillery he shall receive the fee for his own use, regardless of whether he be on fees or salary. (1923, c. 1, s. 24.)

Editor's Note.—By Public Laws 1935, chapter 253, Moore county was eliminated from the exception made by Public Laws 1933, chapter 246, which provided that this section should not apply in Moore and Lenoir counties.

For an amendment of this section applicable in Burke county only, see Public Laws 1933, c. 136.

§ 3411(x1). Same—In certain counties.—The Board of Commissioners of the several counties in the State, hereinafter named, shall pay by way of reward to the sheriff or other officers in the various counties for the capture and destruction of stills used in the manufacture of spirituous liquors, the sum of twenty dollars ($20.00) and no more, upon the production of a certificate from the Clerk of the Superior Court or other court having final jurisdiction, that one or more operators of the still captured and destroyed were by the sheriff or other officer apprehended, captured and have been convicted and that no appeal has been taken from the judgment rendered, which said twenty dollars ($20.00) shall be in lieu of any and all other rewards authorized by law to be paid for the capture and destruction of stills to the sheriff or other officers in the counties hereinafter named.

This section shall apply to the following counties only: Alleghany, Ashe, Avery, Bladen, Buncombe, Caswell, Catawba, Chowan, Craven, Duplin, Forsyth, Beaufort, Hyde, Hoke, Lee, Lenoir, Lincoln, Mecklenburg, New Hanover, Onslow, Pamlico, Pender, Perquimans, Richmond, Rockingham, Sampson, Union, Vance, Wake, Washington, Watauga, Wilkes, Wilson and Yancey. (1927, c. 42.)

§ 3411(y). Officers given power to compel evidence; effect of evidence; process; immunity to witnesses.—When any justice of the peace of magistrate, recorder, mayor of a town, or judge of the superior courts or supreme court shall have good reason to believe that any person within his jurisdiction has knowledge of the unlawful sale of liquor or the existence and establishment of any place where intoxicating liquor is sold or manufactured contrary to law, in any town or county within his jurisdiction, such person not being minded to make voluntary information thereof on oath, then it shall be lawful for such justice of the peace, magistrate, recorder, mayor, or judge to issue to the sheriff of the county or to any constable of the town or township in which such place where intoxicating liquor is sold or manufactured contrary to law is supposed to be, a subpœna, capias ad testificandum, or other summons in writing, commanding such person to appear immediately before such justice of the peace, magistrate, recorder, mayor, or judge, and give evidence on oath as to what he may know touching the existence, establishment, and whereabouts of such place where intoxicating liquor is sold or manufactured contrary to law, and the name and personal description of the keeper thereof, or person selling or manufacturing liquor. Such evidence, when obtained, shall be considered and held in law as an information under oath, and the justice, magistrate, recorder, mayor, or judge may thereupon proceed to seize and arrest such keeper or person selling, manufacturing, or having liquor contrary to law, and issue process as is provided by law. No discovery made by the witness upon such examination shall be used against him in any penal or criminal prosecution, and he shall be altogether pardoned of the offense so done or participated in by him. (1923, c. 1, s. 25.)

§ 3411(z). Distilling or manufacturing liquor; first offense misdemeanor.—It is unlawful for any person to distill, manufacture, or in any manner make, or for any person to aid, assist, or abet any such person in distilling, manufacturing, or in any manner making any spirituous or malt liquors or intoxicating bitters within the state of North Carolina. Any person or persons violating the provisions of this section shall, for the first conviction, be guilty of a misdemeanor and, upon conviction or confession of guilt, punished in the discretion of the court; for the second or any subsequent conviction, said person or persons shall be guilty of a felony, and upon conviction or confession in open court shall be imprisoned in the state prison for not less than four months and not exceeding five years, in the discretion of the court. (1923, c. 1, s. 26.)

§ 3411(aa). Misdemeanor; punishment; effect of previous punishment by federal court. — Any person violating any of the provisions of this article, except as otherwise specified in this article, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined or imprisoned, or both, in the discretion of the court: Provided, that no person shall be punished who has been previously punished for the same offense by a federal court. (1923, c. 1, s. 27.)

§ 3411(bb). Laws repealed; local laws.—All laws in conflict with this article are hereby repealed, but nothing in this article shall operate to repeal any of the local acts of the general assembly of North Carolina prohibiting the manufacture or sale or other disposition of any liquor mentioned in this article, or any laws for the enforcement of the same, but all such acts shall continue in full force and effect and in concurrence herewith, and indictment or prosecution may be had either under this article or under any local act relating to the same subject. (1923, c. 1, s. 28.)

§ 3411(cc). Effect of partial invalidity of article.—If any provision of this article shall be held invalid, it shall not be construed to invalidate other provisions of this article. (1923, c. 1, s. 29.)

Art. 9. Legalization of Sale of Beverage with Not More than 3.2% Alcoholic Content.

§ 3411(dd). Sale of beer and light wines in state allowed.—On an after the passage of this article it shall be lawful for any person, firm, or corporation to sell, barter, trade, exchange, or dispose of beer, lager beer, ale, porter, fruit juices, and/or light wines, containing not more than 3.2% of alcohol by weight, or such other percentage as may conform to any act of the congress of the United States, within the domains of the state of North Carolina, subject, however, to payment of tax hereinafter imposed. (1933, c. 216, s. 1.)

See 11 N. C. Law Rev., 241, for comprehensive review of this section.

Editor's Note.—For local modifications prohibiting sales in or near certain specified places see Public Laws 1933, c. 454 (Quaker Children's Home and Wingate Junior College); c. 472 (Pelham M. E. Church, South); c. 395 (village of Macon); c. 396 (Montreat, Mars Hill and association grounds of Baptist assembly at Ridge Crest); c. 455 (Stumpy Point voting Precinct, Dare County); c. 381 (Cane Creek Church and Sylvan High School in Southern Alamance County); cc. 369, 406 (Guilford College); c. 564 (Wake Forest College); c. 370 (Oak Ridge Military Institute); c. 416 (Town of Bakersville); c. 417 (Elon College); c. 313 (Davidson College); and c. 512 (village of Worthville). For other local restrictions, see note to § 3411(1).

§ 3411(ee). Tax $2 per barrel; on bottles, 2c.— There shall be levied and collected on all beer, lager beer, ale, porter, fruit juices, and/or other light wines, containing not more than 3.2% of alcohol by weight, by whatever name the same may be called, offered for sale in this state a tax of two dollars ($2.00) for every barrel containing not more than thirty-one (31) gallons and at a proportionate rate for barrels containing more than thirty-one (31) gallons: Provided, however, that if such beer, lager beer, ale, porter, fruit juices, and/or other light wines be offered for sale in bottles, there shall be levied and collected a tax of two cents for every bottle containing not more than twelve (12) ounces, and a proportionate rate for bottles containing more than twelve (12) ounces. (1933, c. 216, s. 2.)

§ 3411(ff). Revenue department to make regulations; revenue to general fund. — The North Carolina department of revenue is hereby authorized, empowered and directed to promulgate rules and regulations governing the sale and distribution of such beer, lager beer, ale, porter, fruit juices, and/or other light wines, and the payment of the taxes hereby levied, which revenue derived from the sale of the aforesaid sale of beer, lager beer, ale, porter, fruit juices, and/or other light wines shall be placed in the general fund of the state of North Carolina. (1933, c. 216, s. 3.)

§ 3411(gg). County license fee of $25.—It shall be unlawful for any person, firm, or corporation to sell beer, lager beer, ale, porter, fruit juices, and/or other light wines in North Carolina without first applying for and receiving a permit or license from the board of commissioners of the several counties of the state, which license fee shall be fixed at the sum of twenty-five ($25.00) dollars and placed in the treasury of the county, to be used in the payment of the public debt of said counties. (1933, c. 216, s. 4.)

§ 3411(hh). Tax for municipalities, $10.—Each and every incorporated city or town in North Carolina may levy a similar license tax on each dealer inside, or two miles outside the incorporated limits of such city or town not exceeding the sum of ten ($10.00) dollars, the license for incorporated cities and towns, and the funds derived therefrom shall be put in the general funds of the city or town, to be used in their debt-service fund. (1933, c. 216, s. 5.)

§ 3411(ii). Sale in places used expressly for purpose prohibited.—It shall be unlawful to sell, barter, exchange, dispose of or allow to be sold, bartered, exchanged, disposed of any such beer, lager beer, ale, porter, fruit juices and/or other light wines in any container in any place, building, edifice or structure primarily and expressly used, rented, occupied or maintained for the sole or primary purpose of selling such beer, lager beer, ale, porter, fruit juices and/or other light wines, and no county, city or town shall license the sale of any beer, lager beer, ale, porter, fruit juices and/or other light wines, and shall revoke any license heretofore granted when it shall be made to appear that the same is being sold in any place, building, edifice or structure primarily and expressly used, rented, occupied or maintained for the sole and/or primary purpose of selling such beer, lager beer, ale, porter, fruit juices, and/or other light wines. (1933, c. 216, s. 6.)

§ 3411(jj). Sale without license made misdemeanor.—It shall be unlawful for any person, firm, or corporation to sell, barter, exchange, dispose of, or allow to be sold, bartered, exchanged, or disposed of such beer, lager beer, ale, porter, fruit juices, and/or other light wines on which the tax hereby levied be not paid to the state, county, city or town, and any person, firm, or corporation so selling, bartering, exchanging, disposing of, or allowing to be sold, bartered, exchanged, or disposed of such beer, lager beer, ale, porter, fruit juices and/or other light wines, or who shall fail to keep accurate records of wholesale purchases, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined or imprisoned in the discretion of the court, for each offense. (1933, c. 216, s. 7.)

§ 3411(kk). Sale to minors under 18 made misdemeanor.—It shall be unlawful for any person, firm, or corporation to sell or give any of the products herein authorized to be sold to any minor under eighteen years of age; and any person violating the terms of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and punished for each offense in the discretion of the court. (1933, c. 216, s. 8.)

§ 3411(ll). Shipment into state of beer and light wines permitted.—It shall be lawful for any person, firm or corporation to transport and deliver beer, lager beer, ale, porter, fruit juices, light wines and/or other brewed or fermented beverages, containing not more than three and two-tenths (3.2%) per cent of alcohol by weight, or such other percentage as may conform to any act of the congress of the United States, within the domains of the state of North Carolina. (1933, c. 297, s. 1.)

§ 3411(mm). Laws prohibiting advertisement of beer and light wines repealed. — All laws and clauses of laws prohibiting newspaper, radio, billboard or other forms of advertising for sale of beer, lager beer, ale, porter, fruit juices and/or other light wines containing not more than 3.2 per cent of alcohol by weight, are hereby repealed. (1933, c. 216, s. 11, c. 229.)

Art. 10. Beverage Control Act of 1933

§ 3411(1). Title.—This article shall be known as the beverage control act of one thousand nine hundred and thirty-three. (1933, c. 319, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—For local restrictions on sale of beer and wine, see note to § 3411(dd). See also Public Laws 1933, c. 508, regulating sale in Yanceyville; c. 475 prohibiting sale in Frenches Creek Township; c. 398 restricting sale near Campbell College; and c. 358 prohibiting sale within mile of Pineland Junior College. See also note to § 3411(dd).

§ 3411(2). Definitions.—The term "beverages" as used in this article shall include beer, lager beer, ale, porter, wine, fruit juices and other brewed or fermented beverages containing not exceeding five per cent of alcohol by weight.

The term "person" used in this article shall mean any individual, firm, partnership, association, corporation, or other group or combination acting as a unit.

The term "sale" as used in this article shall include any transfer, trade, exchange or barter in any manner or by any means whatsoever. (1933, c. 319, s. 2; 1935, c. 134.)

Editor's Note.—By the 1935 amendment the maximum alcoholic content was increased from three and two-tenths per cent (3.2%) by weight to five per cent (5%) by weight.

§ 3411(4). Transportation.—The beverages enumerated in section 3411(2) may be transported into, out of or between points in this state by railroad companies, express companies or by steamboat companies engaged in public service as common carriers and having regularly established schedules of service upon condition that such companies shall keep accurate records of the character and volume of such shipments, the character and number of packages, or containers, shall keep records open at all times for inspection by the commissioner of revenue of this state or his authorized agent, and upon condition that such common carrier shall make report of all shipments of such beverages into, out of or between points in this state at such times and in such detail and form as may be required by the commissioner of revenue.

The beverages enumerated in section 3411(2) may be transported into, out of or between points in this state over the public highways of this state by motor vehicles upon condition that every person intending to make such use of the highways of this state shall as a prerequisite thereto register such intention with the commissioner of revenue in advance of such transportation, with notice of the kind and character of such products to be transported and the license and motor number of each motor vehicle intended to be used in such transportation. Upon the filing of such information, together with an agreement to comply with the provisions of his act, the commissioner of revenue shall without charge therefor issue a numbered certificate to such owner or operator for each motor vehicle intended to be used for such transportation, which numbered certificate shall be prominently displayed on the motor vehicle used in transporting the products named in section 3411-(2). Every person transporting such products over any of the public highways of this state shall during the entire time he is so engaged have in his possession an invoice or bill of sale or other record evidence, showing the true name and address of the person from whom he has received such beverages, the character and contents of containers, the number of bottles, cases or gallons of such shipment, the true name and address of every person to whom deliveries are to be made. The person transporting such beverages shall, at the request of any representative of the commissioner of revenue, produce and offer for inspection said invoice or bill of sale or record evidence. If said person fails to produce invoice or bill of sale or record evidence, or if when produced, it fails to clearly and accurately disclose said information, the same shall be prima facie evidence of the violation of this article. Every person engaged in transporting such beverages over the public highways of this state, shall keep accurate records of the character and volume of such shipments, the character and number of packages or containers, shall keep records open at all times for inspection by the commissioner of revenue of this state, or his authorized agent, and upon condition that such person shall make report of all shipments of such beverages into, out of or between points in this state at such times and in such detail and form as may be required by the commissioner of revenue.

The purchase, transportation and possession of beverages enumerated in section 3411(2) by individuals for their own use is permitted without restriction or regulation. The provisions of this section as to transportation of beverages enumerated in section 3411(2) by motor vehicles over the public highways of this state shall in like manner apply to the owner or operator of any boat using the waters of this state for such transportation, and all of the provisions of this section with respect to permit for such transportation and reports to the commissioner of revenue by the operators of motor vehicles on public highways shall in like manner apply to the owner or operator of any boat using the waters of this state. (1933, c. 319, s. 4.)

§ 3411(5). Manufacture.—The brewing or manufacture of beverages for sale as defined in section 3411(2) containing not more than five per cent (5%) of alcohol by weight shall be permitted in this State upon the payment of an annual license tax to the commissioner of revenue in the sum of five hundred dollars ($500.00) for a period ending on the next succeeding thirtieth day of April and annually thereafter. Persons licensed under this section may sell such beverages in barrels, bottles, or other closed containers only to persons licensed under the provisions of this act for resale, and no other license tax shall be levied upon the business taxed in this section. The sale of malt, hops, and other ingredients used in the manufacture of beverages for sale enumerated in section 3411(2) are hereby permitted and allowed: Provided, that it shall be lawful for any person to manufacture the wine, fruit juices and other fermented beverages made of fruit, described in section 3411(2) for his own use without obtaining the license required by this section. (1933, c. 319, s. 5; 1935, c. 315.)

Editor's Note.—The clause reading "containing not more than five per cent," etc., was inserted by the 1935 amendment.

§ 3411(6). Bottlers' license.—License to receive shipments of beverages enumerated in section 3411(2) in barrels or other containers and bottling same for sale to others for resale shall be issued by the commissioner of revenue upon the payment of an annual license tax of two hundred and fifty dollars ($250.00) for a period ending on the next succeeding thirtieth day of April and annually thereafter, and no other license tax shall be levied upon the business taxed in this section. Licensees under this section shall pay the tax of one cent per bottle levied in section 3411(16): Provided no tax shall be paid upon such beverages in barrels, where such beverages are to be bottled. (1933, c. 319, s. 6.)

§ 3411(7). Wholesalers' license.—License to sell at wholesale, which shall authorize licensees to sell beverages in barrels, bottles, or other containers in quantities of not less than one case or container to a customer, shall be issued as a statewide license by the commissioner of revenue. The annual license under this section shall be one hundred and fifty dollars ($150.00) and shall expire on the next succeeding 30th day of April. The license issued under this section shall be revocable at any time by the commissioner of revenue for failure to comply with any of the conditions of this act with respect to the character of records required to be kept, reports to be made or payment of other taxes hereinafter set out.

If any wholesaler maintains more than one place of business or storage warehouse from which orders are received or beverages are distributed a separate license shall be paid for each separate place of business or warehouse.

The owner or operator of every distributing warehouse selling, distributing or supplying to retail stores beverages enumerated in section 3411(2) shall be deemed wholesale distributors within the meaning of this article and shall be liable for the tax imposed in this section and shall comply with the conditions imposed in this article upon wholesale distributors of beverages with respect to payment of taxes levied in this article and bond for the payment of such taxes. (1933, c. 319, s. 7.)

§ 3411(9). Salesmen's license. — License for salesmen, which shall authorize the licensee to offer for sale within the state or solicit orders for the sale of within the state beverages enumerated in this article, shall be issued by the commissioner of revenue upon the payment of an annual license tax of twelve dollars and fifty cents ($12.50) to the commissioner of revenue, such license to expire on the next succeeding thirtieth day of April. License to salesmen shall be issued only upon the recommendation of the vendor whom they represent, and no other license tax shall be levied under this section. (1933, c. 319, s. 9.)

§ 3411(10). Character of license.—License issued under authority of this act shall be of two kinds:

(1) "On Premises" license which shall be issued for bona fide restaurants, cafes, cafeterias, hotels, lunch stands, drug stores, filling stations, grocery stores, cold drink stands, tea rooms, or incorporated or chartered clubs. Such license shall authorize the licenees to sell at retail beverages for consumption on the premises designated in the license, and to sell the beverages in original packages for consumption off the premises.

(2) "Off Premises" license which shall authorize the licensee to sell at retail beverages for consumption only off the premises designated in the license and only in the immediate container in which the beverage was received by the licensee.

In a municipality the governing board of such municipality shall determine whether an applicant for license is entitled to a "premises" license under the terms of this article, and outside of municipalities such determination shall be by the board of commissioners of the county. (1933, c. 319, s. 10.)

§ 3411(11). Amount of retail license tax.—The license tax to sell at retail under this article for municipalities shall be:

(1) For "On Premises" license fifteen dollars ($15.00).

(2) For "Off Premises" license ten dollars ($10.00).

The rate of license tax levied in this section shall be for the first license issued to one person and for each additional license issued to one person an additional tax of ten per cent of the base tax, such increase to apply progressively for each additional license issued to one person. (1933, c. 319, s. 11.)

§ 3411(12). Who may sell at retail.—Every person making application for license to sell at retail beverages enumerated in section 3411(2), if the place where such sale is to be made is within a municipality, shall make application first to the governing board of such municipality, and the application shall contain:

(1) Name and residence of the applicant and the length of his residence within the state of North Carolina.

(1½) That state, county or city shall not issue license under this article to any person, firm or corporation who has not been a bona fide resident of North Carolina for one year.

That no resident of the state shall obtain a license under this act and employ or receive aid from a non-resident for the purpose of defeating the above section.

The penalty for violating item one and one-half shall be a misdemeanor. All persons convicted shall be imprisoned not more than thirty days, nor fined more than two hundred dollars.

That this shall only apply to the following counties: Currituck, Camden, Pasquotank, Perquimans, Chowan, Hertford, Dare, Gates, Polk and Henderson.

(2) The particular place for which the license is desired, designating the same by a street and number if practicable; if not, by such other apt description as definitely locates him.

(3) The name of the owner of the premises upon which the business licensed is to be carried on.

(4) That the applicant intends to carry on the business authorized by the license for himself or under his immediate supervision and direction.

(5) A statement that the applicant is a resident of the state of North Carolina and not less than twenty-one years of age, that such applicant is of good moral character and has never been convicted of a felony involving moral turpitude or adjudged guilty of violating the prohibition laws, either state or federal, within the last two years prior to the filing of the application. The application must be verified by the affidavit of the petitioner made before a notary public or other person duly authorized by law to administer oath. If it appear from the statement of applicant or otherwise that such applicant has been convicted of a felony involving moral turpitude or adjudged guilty of violating the prohibition laws, either state or federal, within the last two years prior to the filing of the application, or within two years from the completion of sentence, such license shall not be granted, and if it shall afterwards appear that any false statement is knowingly made in any part of said application and license received thereon, the license of the applicant shall be revoked and the applicant subjected to the penalty provided by law for misdemeanors. Before any such license shall be issued, the governing body of the municipality shall be satisfied that statements required by subsections (1), (2), (3), (4) and (5) of this section are true. (1933, c. 319, s. 12, c. 444.)

§ 3411(13). County license to sell at retail.—License to sell at retail shall be issued by the board of commissioners of the county, and application for such license shall be made in the same manner and contain the same information set out in the preceding section with respect to municipal license. If the application is for license to sell within a municipality, the application must also show that license has been granted the applicant by the governing board of such municipality. The granting of a license by the governing board of a municipality shall determine the right of an applicant to receive a county license upon compliance with the conditions of this article.

If the application is for license to sell outside of a municipality within the county, the application shall also show the distance to the nearest church or public or private school from the place at which the applicant purposes to sell at retail. No license shall be granted to sell within three hundred (300) feet of any public or private school buildings or church building outside of incorporated cities and towns: Provided, the restriction set forth in this sentence shall not apply to unincorporated towns and villages having police protection.

The clerk of the board of commissioners of each county shall make prompt report to the commissioner of revenue of each license granted by the board of commissioners of such county. The county license fee shall be fixed at $25.00 and the same shall be placed in the county treasury, for the use of the county. (1933, c. 319, s. 13.)

§ 3411(14). Issuance of license mandatory; schools and churches protected.—It shall be mandatory that the governing body of a municipality or county issue license to any person applying for the same when such person shall have complied with the requirements of this article: Provided, no person shall dispense beverages herein authorized to be sold, within fifty feet of a church building in an incorporated city or town, or in a city or town having police protection whether incorporated or not, while religious services are being held in such church, or within 300 feet of a church building outside the incorporate limits of a city or town while church services are in progress. (1933, c. 319, s. 14.)

§ 3411(16). Revocation of license.—If any licensee violates any of the provisions of this article or any rules and regulations under authority of this article or fails to superintend in person or through a manager, the business for which the license was issued, or allows the premises with respect to which the license was issued to be used for any unlawful, disorderly or immoral purposes, or knowingly employs in the sale or distribution of beverages any person who has been convicted of a felony involving moral turpitude or adjudged guilty of violating the prohibition laws within two years or otherwise fails to carry out in good faith the purposes of this article, the license of any such person may be revoked by the governing board of the municipality or by the board of county commissioners after the licensee has been given an opportunity to be heard in his defense. Whenever any person, being duly licensed under this article, shall be convicted of the violation of any of the prohibition laws on the premises herein licensed, it shall be the duty of the court to revoke said license. Whenever any license which has been issued by any municipality, any board of county commissioners or by the commissioner of revenue has been revoked, it shall be unlawful to reissue said license for said premises to any person for a term of six months after the revocation of said license. (1933, c. 319, s. 15.)

§ 3411(17). State license.—Every person who intends to engage in the business of retail sale of the beverages enumerated in section 3411(2) shall also apply for and procure a state license from the commissioner of revenue, which license shall be issued by the commissioner of revenue upon information that license to such person has been issued by the board of commissioners of the county for the place at which such licensee proposes to sell, and if in a municipality that such license has been granted by the governing board of the municipality, and upon the payment to the commissioner of revenue an annual license tax as follows:

For the first license issued to each licensee five dollars ($5.00), and for each additional license issued to one person an additional tax of ten per cent (10%) of the five dollars base tax. That is to say, that for the second license issued the tax shall be five dollars and fifty cents ($5.50) annually, for the third license six dollars ($6.00) annually, and an additional fifty cents (50c.) per annum for each additional license issued to each person. (1933, c. 319, s. 16.)

§ 3411(18). Additional tax.—In addition to the license taxes herein levied a tax is hereby levied upon the sale of the beverages enumerated in section 3411(2) of three dollars ($3.00) per barrel of thirty-one (31) gallons, of the equivalent of such tax in containers of more or less than thirty-one (31) gallons, and in bottles of not more than twelve (12) ounces per bottle a tax of one cent (1c.) per bottle. (1933, c. 319, s. 17.)

§ 3411(19). Tax payable by wholesale distributors.—The tax levied in the preceding section shall be paid to the commissioner of revenue by the wholesale distributor or bottler of such beverages. The tax herein levied shall be paid by every wholesale distributor or bottler on or before the tenth day of each month for all beverages sold within the preceding month. As a condition precedent to the granting of license by the commissioner of revenue to any wholesale distributor or bottler of beverages under this article the commissioner of revenue shall require each such wholesale distributor or bottler to furnish bond in an indemnity company licensed to do business under the insurance laws of this state in such sum as the commissioner of revenue shall find adequate to cover the tax liability of each such wholesale distributor or bottler, proportioned to the volume of business of each such wholesale distributor or bottler but in no event to be less than one thousand dollars ($1,000) or to deposit federal, state, county or municipal bonds in required amounts, such county or municipal bonds to be approved by the commissioner of revenue. The commissioner of revenue may grant such extension of time for compliance with this condition as may be found to be reasonable. (1933, c. 319, s. 18.)

§ 3411(20). Payment of tax by retailers.—The granting of license by any municipality or county under this article to any person to sell at retail the beverages enumerated under section 3411(2) shall not be a valid license for such sale at retail until such person shall have filed with the commissioner of revenue a bond in a surety company licensed by the insurance department to do business in this state in such sum as the commissioner of revenue may find to be sufficient to cover the tax liability of every such person, but in no event to be less than one thousand dollars ($1,000). The commissioner of revenue may waive the requirement of this section for indemnity bond with respect to any such person who may file a satisfactory contract or agreement with the commissioner of revenue that such person will purchase and sell beverages enumerated in section 3411(2) only from wholesale distributors or bottlers licensed by the commissioner of revenue under this article who pay the tax under section 3411(18) upon all such beverages sold to retail dealers in this state. The violation of the terms of any such contract or agreement between any such retail dealer and the commissioner of revenue by the purchase or sale of any of the beverages enumerated in section 3411(2) from any one other than a licensed wholesale distributor or bottler under this article shall automatically cancel the license of any such retail dealer and shall be prima facie evidence of intent to defraud, and any person guilty of violation of any such contract or agreement shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. (1933, c. 319, s. 19.)

§ 3411(21). Books, records, reports.—Every person licensed under any of the provisions of this article shall keep accurate records of purchase and sale of all beverages taxable under this article, such records to be kept separate from all purchases and sales of merchandise taxable under this article, including a separate file and record of all invoices. The commissioner of revenue or any authorized agent, shall at any time during business hours have access to such records. The commissioner of revenue may also require regular or special reports to be made by every such person, at such times and in such form as the commissioner may require. (1933, c. 319, s. 20.)

§ 3411(22). No sales upon school or college grounds.—No license shall be issued for the sale of beverages enumerated in section 3411(2) upon the campus of property of any public or private school or college in this state. (1933, c. 319, s. 21.)

§ 3411(24). Administrative provisions.—The commissioner of revenue and the authorized agents of the state department of revenue shall have and exercise all the rights, duties, powers and responsibilities in enforcing this article that are enumerated in the act of the general assembly known as the revenue act in administering taxes levied in schedule B of said act, codified as sections 7880(30) et seq. (1933, c. 319, s. 23.)

§ 3411(25). Enforcement by commissioner of revenue of tax provisions; use of stamps, etc.—A discretion is herein vested in the commissioner of revenue to adopt such general rules and regulations as the commissioner may find expedient for the enforcement of the tax provisions of this article, and it is specifically authorized to require the use of stamps upon all packages containing beverages taxable under this article and evidencing the payment of the tax upon every such package, and with respect to beverages taxable under this article which may be either manufactured or bottled in this state may require the use of crowns to be furnished by the state evidencing the payment of the tax upon all such beverages manufactured and/or bottled in this state. The commissioner of revenue is authorized to promulgate rules and regulations governing the purchase, sale and distribution of crowns with which to seal said bottled drinks within this state. Said crowns shall carry design approved by the commissioner of revenue, the use of which crowns may be evidence of the payment of the license taxes provided in this article. The commissioner is authorized to purchase and furnish crowns to manufacturers and/or bottlers at the manufacturer's price for such crowns, plus all transportation charges to consignee at destination, and an additional charge of one cent (1c.) per crown, when to be used upon bottled drinks taxable under this article and in bottles containing not more than twelve ounces and at a proportionate rate upon bottles containing more than twelve ounces. Such crowns may be sold to manufacturers and/or bottlers at a discount of four per cent (4%), such discount to apply to the tax and not to the manufacturer's price or transportation cost. If the commissioner shall by regulations require that stamps be used on beverages taxable under this article and not manufactured or bottled in this state, such stamps may be sold at the same rate of discount provided herein upon the sale of crowns, and either crowns or stamps may be sold to licensed bonded manufacturers or wholesale distributors payable not later than the tenth of the next succeeding month. The commissioner of revenue by and with the consent and approval of the council of state may make arrangements with the state's prison to manufacture and distribute the bottle crowns authorized under this article, and in the event such arrangement is made, only such bottle crowns as are manufactured by the state penitentiary shall be used in the bottling of beverages sold under authority of this article. If either the use of crowns or stamps shall be provided for by regulations adopted by the commissioner of revenue under authority of this article, such regulations as to crowns shall have application to all beverages taxable under this article that may be manufactured and/or bottled in this state, and such regulations as to the use of stamps shall have application to all beverages taxable under this article that may be sold in this state and not manufactured or bottled in this state, and any violation of such regulations shall constitute a violation of this article and be punishable as other violations of this article.

In any case where license taxes have been collected in rates in excess of the rates provided in this act the commissioner of revenue is authorized and directed to refund so much of license taxes as are in excess of the rates provided in this article. (1933, c. 558, ss. 3, 5.)

§ 3411(26). Appropriation of 3% of revenue for administration.—For the efficient administration of this article an appropriation is hereby made for the use of the department of revenue in addition to the appropriation in the appropriation bill of a sum equal to three per cent (3%) of the total revenue collections under this article to be expended under allotments made by the budget bureau of such part or the whole of such appropriation as may be found necessary for the administration of this article. The budget bureau may estimate the yield of revenue under this article and make advance apportionment based upon such estimate, and to provide for the necessary expense of providing materials, supplies, and other expenses needful to be incurred prior to the beginning of the next fiscal year, July 1, 1933, the budget bureau may make such advance allotment from such estimate of revenue yield as it may find proper for the convenient and efficient administration of this article. (1933, c. 319, s. 24.)

§ 3411(27). Violation of article made misdemeanor.—Whosoever violates any of the provisions of this article, or any of the rules and regulations promulgated pursuant thereto, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof, be punished by a fine or by imprisonment, or by both fine and imprisonment, in the discretion of the court. If any licensee is convicted of the violation of the provisions of this article, or any of the rules and regulations promulgated pursuant thereto, the court shall immediately declare his permit revoked, and notify the county commissioners accordingly, and no permit shall thereafter be granted to him within a period of three years thereafter. Any licensee who shall sell or permit the sale on his premises or in connection with his business, or otherwise, of any alcoholic beverages not authorized under the terms of this article, unless otherwise permitted by law, shall, upon conviction thereof, forfeit his license in addition to any punishment imposed by law for such offense. (1933, c. 319, s. 25.)

§ 3411(28). Conflicting laws repealed. — All laws and clauses of laws in conflict with this article, including the provisions of sections 3411(dd)-3411(kk) of this code, if any are in conflict, are hereby repealed. (1933, c. 319, s. 27.)

Art. 11. Manufacture and Sale of Light Domestic Wines.

§ 3411(29). Manufacture of domestic wines permitted.—It shall be lawful for all person growing crops, either wild or cultivated, of grapes, fruits or berries to make therefrom light domestic wines or wines having only such alcoholic content as natural fermentation may produce, for the use of his or their family and guests. (1935, c. 393, s. 1.)

§ 3411(30). Growers of crops may make, sell and transport wines; sale in original packages.—Any grower of such crops may make such wines, sell and transport the same to any person, firm, or corporation in the State engaged either as wholesaler or retailer of food products, such wines to be sold in original packages not for consumption on the premises, except in hotels and bona fide restaurants engaged in selling food and serving meals. (1935, c. 393, s. 2.)

§ 3411(31). Manufacture by any person, firm or corporation authorized to do business in State. — Any person, firm or corporation authorized to do business in the State may, under regulations prescribed by the commissioner of agriculture and approved by the governor, engage in the business of manufacturing and producing wines and ciders by natural fermentation from the juices of fruits, grapes and berries grown within the State, and such wines and ciders shall be classified and recognized as food and distributed as such. (1935, c. 393, s. 3, c. 466, s. 1.)

of the governor, for the regulation of such wineries as may be established, and such rules and regulations shall have the force and effect of laws, after the same have been approved by the governor. (1935, c. 393, s. 4.)

§ 3411(33). Application for permit to sell at retail.—If any producer of wine or wines desires to sell his product at retail he may do so in any county where such sale is not prohibited by filing with the clerk of court of such county an application in which he shall describe the place, at which he desires to sell such wine, and the clerk of court shall keep a list of such applicants open to public inspection. (1935, c. 393, s. 5.)

§ 3411(35.) Information furnished farmers.—It shall be the duty of the department of agriculture to disseminate to the farmers of the State in an economical way the best information it can get of the best methods of cultivation of such crops, and the making of such light domestic wines. (1935, c. 393, s. 7.)

§ 3411(36). Fruit ciders included.—All the provisions of this article shall also apply to the manufacture, sale and transportaton of fruit ciders. (1935, c. 393, s. 7½.)

Art. 12. Advertising of Alcoholic Beverages

§ 3411(37). Advertising permitted in newspapers, magazines and periodicals.—It shall be lawful for newspapers, magazines and periodicals to accept and publish advertisements relating to wines, beers and other alcoholic beverages permitted to be sold and distributed under the laws of North Carolina. (1935, c. 465.)

Art. 13. Exemption of Certain Counties from Provisions of Article 8

§ 3411(38). Counties exempted from Turlington Act.—The provisions of article eight of chapter sixty-six, volume three, of the Consolidated Statutes of North Carolina, known as the Turlington Act, shall not apply to Pasquotank county, Carteret county, Craven county, Onslow county, Pitt county, Martin county, Beaufort county, Halifax county, Franklin county, Wilson county, Edgecombe county, Warren county, Vance county, Lenoir county, Rockingham county, Nash county and Greene county. (1935, c. 493, s. 1.)

As to local beverage control act exempting New Hanover County from the provisions of the Turlington Act, codified as §§ 3411(a)-3411(cc), see Public Laws 1935, c. 418.

§ 3411(39). Creation of county alcoholic beverages control boards and county liquor commissions.—There is hereby created a county liquor commission to be known and designated as the Pasquotank county alcoholic beverages control board. In Carteret county described in section 3411(38), there is hereby created a county liquor commission to be known and designated in said county by its name Carteret county alcoholic beverages control board. The board in said county shall consist of three members and except Pasquotank county in which the method of selecting said board and the members thereof as fully set forth in this section shall serve for a term of four years and be appointed in the following manner: The board of commissioners in Carteret county shall appoint the members of the county alcoholic beverages control board in said county. The Pasquotank county alcoholic beverages control board shall consist of three members, one of whom shall be chairman, and the persons composing said board for the first term hereinafter mentioned shall be W. D. Glover, chairman, F. G. Jacocks and Marvin Lister, and their successors to or vacancies in said board shall be appointed by the city council of Elizabeth City, North Carolina, and one by the board of commissioners of Pasquotank county. In the remainder of said counties, described in section 3411(38), there is hereby created, a county liquor commission to be known and designated in each of said counties by their respective names, the Pitt county, Beaufort county, Martin county, Lenoir county, Greene county, Warren county, Vance county, Halifax county, Craven county, Wilson county, Franklin county and Nash county alcoholic beverages control board. The board in each of said counties shall consist of three members and except Pasquotank county in which the method of selecting said board and the members thereof as fully set forth in this section, shall serve for a term of four years and be appointed in the following manner, viz.: The board of commissioners of each of said counties shall appoint the members of the county alcoholic beverages control board in their respective counties, with the exception of Halifax county, in which the board shall consist of three members, one of whom shall be chairman and the persons composing said board for the first term, hereinafter mentioned, shall be R. Hunter Pope, B. B. Everett, and W. A. Thorne, and their successors to or vacancy in said board shall be appointed by the board of commissioners of Halifax county. The term of the members above named and to be appointed as herein provided shall be for four years and their successors shall be elected as above provided for a term of four years. The members of the Pasquotank county alcoholic beverages control board shall give bond for the faithful performance of their duties to the city of Elizabeth City and the county of Pasquotank in the sum of five thousand dollars each, which bond as to form and execution shall be approved by the county attorney. The county of Pasquotank and the city of Elizabeth City shall pay the pro rata cost of said bonds of members of the board, on the basis of their taxable wealth. The main office of the board shall be located in Elizabeth City. The members of the respective boards in each of the counties described in section 3411(38), except in Pasquotank county, which is specifically hereinabove provided for, shall give bond for the faithful performance of their duties to each of their respective counties, in the sum of five thousand dollars ($5,000.00) each, which bond as to form and execution shall be approved by the county attorney. The main office of each of several respective boards shall be located in the county seat of the respective counties described in section 3411(38). (1935, c. 493, s. 2.)

§ 3411(41). Board members disqualified from having interest in manufacture of beverages.—No member, officer, agent or employee of the board shall directly or indirectly, individually or as a member of a partnership or of an association, or as a member, or stockholder of a corporation, have any interest whatsoever in the manufacture of or in the dealing in alcoholic beverages, or in any enterprise or industry in which alcoholic beverages are required, or receive any commission or profit whatsoever from, or have any interest whatsoever in the purchase of or sale of alcoholic beverages by the board, or by any other person whatsoever, or have any interest in or mortgage on any land or building where alcoholic beverages are manufactured for sale, kept for sale, offered for sale, or sold or any personal property used therein, or in any contract other than this contract of employment made with the board. (1935, c. 493, s. 4.)

§ 3411(43). Civil liability of board members restricted. — No member of the board may be sued civilly for doing or omitting to do any act in the performance of his duties as prescribed by this article, except by the county of Pasquotank or the city of Elizabeth City, in Pasquotank county, and by the counties in which each of the remaining respective boards are operating, and then in the courts. (1935, c. 493, s. 6.)

§ 3411(45). Disposition of monies collected. — All monies collected by the Pasquotank county alcoholic beverages control board shall be paid directly and promptly into a depository designated by the board of commissioners of Pasquotank county and the council of the city of Elizabeth City without any deductions on account of salaries, fees, costs, charges, expenses, refunds or claims of any description whatsoever. All monies collected by the board in each of the respective counties, in other than Pasquotank county, shall be paid directly into a depository, designated by the board of commissioners of each of said respective counties without any deduction on account of salaries, fees, costs, charges, expenses, refunds, or claims of any description whatsoever. Which sums shall be paid out on warrants issued and drawn in the manner required by the boards of commissioners in each of said counties described in secton 3411(38). The salary of the disbursing agent, and the amount of his bond shall be fixed by the board of commissioners, in each of said respective counties, the compensation however, to be proportionate to the amount of work required to be done by said disbursing agent. All monies so paid into the said depository shall be set aside and constitute a special fund for the payment of the salaries and remuneration of the members, officers, agents and employees of the board, and all costs and expenses incurred in the establishing and maintaining of county stores, purchasing stocks therefor and in the administration of the provisions of this article, and are hereby specificalley appropriated for such purposes, to be paid out on warrants issued and signed by the person designated by the board of county commissioners and the council of the city of Elizabeth City to issue such vouchers, and the board of county commissioners and the council of the city of Elizabeth City are hereby directed to promptly name such person as disbursing agent, to fix his salary and such bond as they shall deem necessary. (1935, c. 493, s. 8.)

§ 3411(46). Clerks and assistants; contracting for beverages.—The board is hereby authorized to employ such clerical and other assistance as may be necessary to carry out the provisions of this article and to stipulate the salaries to be paid, and the board is authorizd to purchase and contract for particular kinds of beverages in amounts, kinds and brands designated by the said board, and quantities contracted for shall be in the discretion of the said board. (1935, c. 493, s. 9.)

§ 3411(47). Other duties and powers of board. —The functions, duties and powers of the board shall include the following:

(a) To purchase, import, transport, receive, sell, deliver, and have in its possession for sale for present and future delivery alcoholic beverages in the manner set forth in this article.

(b) To purchase or lease upon the approval of the board of county commissioners of each of said counties described in section 3411(38) property, furnish and equip buildings, rooms and accommodations as shall be required for office space and storing alcoholic beverages for distribution to county stores; to rent and use rooms, accommodations and real estate for the purpose of retail sale of alcoholic beverages offered for sale in all localities permitted by the provisions of this article.

(c) To borrow sums of money, guarantee the payment thereof and of the interest thereon by the transfer or pledge of goods, or in any other manner required or permitted by law within the limitations herein prescribed; to issue, sign, endorse and accept checks, promissory notes, bills of exchange, and other negotiable instruments; to investigate and aid in the prosecution of every violation of this article, demand seizure of alcoholic beverages sold, kept, imported or transported in contravention thereof, and apply for the confiscation thereof whenever required by this article, and co-operate in the prosecution of offenders before any court of competent jurisdiction.

(d) To make such regulations as are necessary and feasible for carrying out the provisions of this article and to amend or repeal such regulations. Such regulations shall include provisions for assuring purity of alcoholic beverages and the true statement of its contents and the proper labeling thereof with regard to all forms of sale.

(e) To control, regulate, and prohibit any advertising by manufacturers, wholesalers, retailers of alcoholic beverages by the medium of newspapers, letters, billboards, radio or otherwise.

(f) To exercise all other powers, duties and functions conferred by this article, and all powers incidental, convenient or necessary to enable it to administer or carry out any of the provisions of this article.

(g) To license the use of alcohol for scientific, pharmaceutical and industrial purposes and to provide by regulation for the withdrawal thereof from warehouses, denaturing plants, and prescribe the manner in which the same may be used for scientific research, for hospitals and sanitoriums, in industrial plants and for other manufacturing purposes, tax free. (1935, c. 493, s. 10.)

§ 3411(48). Fixing prices.—The board shall have the power to and shall fix the prices at which alcoholic beverages containing over five per centum of alcohol by weight may be purchased from it. (1935, c. 493, s. 11.)

§ 3411(49). Establishment of stores and warehouses. — The board shall establish such stores and warehouses in such places in the county as in its judgment are required by public convenience or necessity for the sale of spirituous liquors, wines, and other alcoholic beverages containing over five per centum of alcohol by weight, in sealed containers not less than one pint in size, for consumption off the premises only, and shall keep on hand in such stores or warehouses established by it such quantities and kinds of alcoholic beverages as shall reasonably be required to supply the public demand. Any person qualified to purchase such beverages from said board as hereinafter provided shall have the right to present to the board or to any of its stores an application for any kind or brand of such alcoholic beverage which he may desire and which may be manufactured or obtainable in any place in the United States, and it shall be the duty of the board to obtain for and sell to such applicant such alcoholic beverage: Provided, however, that such person shall deposit in cash the required amount necessary to purchase such particular kind or brand of alcoholic beverage as may be requested to be purchased by such person. The said stores shall be closed on Sundays, election days and days established as legal holidays, and on week days between six o'clock p. m. and nine o'clock a. m.

The advertising of the sale of alcoholic beverages by the board or window displays in its stores hereby are expressly prohibited, except that the board may provide for appropriate signs on windows or front, denoting the fact that it is a store of the Pasquotank county alcoholic beverage control board, and may post within such store appropriate price lists and may otherwise provide for printed lists.

No person, firm or corporation shall purchase or import into the counties described in section 3411(38), except in the manner herein specified, for resale, any alcoholic beverage containing over five per centum of alcohol by weight, from any source except from or through the board, and any person so purchasing or importing alcoholic beverages in violation of this section shall be subject to the penalties hereinafter provided for: Provided, however, that this provision shall not prohibit an individual entering the state from having in his possession not to exceed four quarts of alcoholic beverages. In addition thereto, any person, firm or corporation so convicted shall forfeit the alcoholic beverages so purchased or imported to the board, and the board shall seize the alcoholic beverages so forfeited, which then shall become the property of the board. (1935, c. 493, s. 12.)

§ 3411(50). Management of stores. — Every county retail control store shall be conducted by a person appointed by the board as provided by this article, who shall be known as the "manager" and who shall under the directions of the board be responsible for carrying out the provisions of this article and the regulations adopted by the board under this article as far as they relate to the conduct of such store. (1935, c. 493, s. 13)

§ 3411(51). Official seal of board.—The board shall adopt an official seal for its use under the provisions of this article. The copy of the official seal as prescribed herein shall be attached in a conspicuous place to all packages to be sold at retail. (1935, c. 493, s. 14.)

§ 3411(52). Closing of unprofitable stores; additional stores in cities.—In the event the board shall find the operation of any county store established under this article to be unprofitable or in the event it shall appear to the satisfaction of the board that the operation of any established county store in any community fails to serve the purposes of this article, and fails to promote law enforcement, the said board in its discretion may discontinue the operation of such store after thirty days notice posted in the said store and two other public places in the town or county in which said store is operated; and if, in the opinion of the board, one store is inadequate to handle the trade in any city located in said county, it shall have the authority to open an additional store or stores. (1935, c. 493, s. 15.)

§ 3411(53). Advancement of county funds to carry article into effect.—In order to carry the provisions of this article into effect, county commissioners are authorized and directed to advance from the general fund of said county such sums as may from time to time be necessary to purchase stocks, fixtures and equipment, and to provide operating capital and expenses to carry out the provisions and enforcement of this article. (1935, c. 493, s. 16.)

§ 3411(54). Special fund; repayment of advances to general funds; profits; reserve for enforcement.—All monies derived from the sale of alcoholic beverages under the provisions of this article shall be placed in a special fund in the depository and designated as the alcoholic beverage fund, and out of such fund as the same may accumulate from time to time there shall be paid back to the general fund out of the profits which may arise all moneys which may have been expended out of the expenditures authorized in section 3411(53); and all profits in excess of the sums necessary to fully repay the expenditures made as above described, and carry the necessary stocks of alcoholic beverages for the purposes of sale and costs of operation, shall remain in said alcoholic beverage fund for distribution as hereinafter provided.

The profit arising from the sale of alcoholic beverages under the terms of this article shall be determined upon a basis of the profits of each individual store or unit operated under the provisions of this article, and on the first days of January, April, July and October of each year such store or unit shall be audited by an auditor designated by the city council of the city of Elizabeth City and the board of county commissioners in Pasquotank county, and in the remainder of said counties by the board of commissioners of each of the respective counties described in section 3411(38), who shall determine the profit of each unit as of the dates above set forth; and in Pasquotank county the profit so determined shall be paid to the county of Pasquotank and the city of Elizabeth City in proportion as the taxable value in the city of Elizabeth City bear to the taxable value to the remaining part of Pasquotank county, and in the remainder of said counties described in section 3411(38), the profits so determined shall be paid to each of the several respective counties described in section 3411(38): Provided, however, that before said distribution is made a sum equal to five per cent of said profits shall be set aside for the enforcement of this article. (1935, c. 493, s. 17.)

§ 3411(55). Restrictions on operation of stores.—The manager of each local liquor store shall operate said store under the following provisions:

(a) Shall sell only at retail such alcoholic beverages as shall be furnished him by the county alcoholic control board and at such prices as the county alcoholic control board shall direct.

(b) Shall perform any other acts required of him by this article and as required by the county alcoholic control board, not inconsistent with the provisions hereof.

(c) Shall open said stores after nine o'clock in the morning and close them at six o'clock p. m., unless otherwise ordered by the board.

(d) Shall not sell alcoholic beverages to minors or to any person convicted of being a liquor addict.

(e) Shall not sell alcoholic liquors to be drunk upon the premises nor permit the same to be drunk upon the premises.

(f) All county stores shall close on legal holidays and election days. (1935, c. 493, s. 18.)

§ 3411(56). Refusal to sell to individuals; amount limited to one buyer; illicit liquors prohibited; other violations. — Managers and/or employees of county stores may in their discretion refuse to sell alcoholic beverages to individual applicants; and may refuse to sell to any one purchaser an amount in excess of one quart in any one day, regardless of the amount applied for.

Manufacture, possession for sale, or sale of illicit liquors is hereby prohibited and such manufacture, possession for sale, or sale shall constitute a misdemeanor and shall be punished by a fine of not more than five thousand dollars or imprisonment for not more than two years, or both. Violation of the administrative features of this article by any store manager or employee shall constitute a misdemeanor, subject to dismissal from service and may be punished by the court as a misdemeanor.

If any person shall take a drink of alcoholic beverages or shall tender such a drink, whether accepted or not at the place of purchase, or on any public road or street, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. (1935, c. 493, s. 19.)

§ 3411(57). False representations made misdemeanor.—No person under the age of twenty-one years shall knowingly and falsely represent himself to be twenty-one years of age to a manager or employee of a county store for the purpose of purchasing any alcoholic beverages as defined in this article. A violation of the provisions of this section shall constitute a misdemeanor. (1935, c. 493, s. 20.)

§ 3411(58). Places of illegal sales made common nuisances. — All houses, boathouses, buildings, tents, club, fraternity and lodge rooms, boats and places of every description, including drug stores, where alcoholic beverages are manufactured, sold, dispensed, or used contrary to law by any scheme or device whatever, shall be held, taken, and deemed common nuisances. Any person who shall maintain, or who shall aid or abet or knowingly be associated with others in maintaining, such common nuisance shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, punishable by a fine not exceeding five hundred dollars, or imprisoned not exceeding six months, and judgment shall be given that such house, building, tent, boathouse, car, or other place, or any room or part thereof, be closed up, but the court may upon the owner giving bond in the penalty of not less than five hundred dollars, and with security to be approved by the court, conditioned that the premises shall not be used for unlawful purposes, or in violation of the provisions of this article for a period of five years, turn the same over to its owner, lessee, or person in possession. (1935, c. 493, s. 21.)

county, city or town where such a nuisance as is defined in section 3411(61) exists, or is kept or maintained, may, in addition to the remedies given in and punishment imposed by this article, maintain an action in the name of the state to abate and perpetually to enjoin the same. The superior courts shall have jurisdiction thereof, and in every case where the complaint charges, on the knowledge or belief of complainant, and is sworn to by two reputable citizens, that alcoholic beverages are manufactured, sold, dispensed, or used in any house, building, boathouse, club-room, fraternity room, lodge room, hotel, boarding house, apartment house, lodging house, boat, tent, or place contrary to the laws of this State; an injunction shall be granted as soon as the complaint is presented to the superior court judge in term or in vacation. The injunction shall enjoin and restrain the owners, tenants, their agents, employees, servants, and any person connected with said houses, building, or other place named in this section, and all persons whomsoever from manufacturing, selling, dispensing, or using alcoholic beverages in said house, building, boathouse, club-room, fraternity room, boat, tent, or other place named in this section, and shall also restrain all persons from removing any alcoholic beverages then on said premises until the further order of the court. Upon the hearing of the cause when it shall have been matured, and set for hearing as required by law, upon deposition of witnesses, documentary and oral evidence, if the judge shall be satisfied that the material allegations of the complaint are true, although the premises complained of may not then be unlawfully used, it or he shall continue the injunction against such house, building, or place for such period of time as the court may think proper, with the right to dissolve the injunction upon the application of the owner, leasee or person in possession of such house, building, or place if a proper case is shown for dissolution. (1935, c. 493, s. 22.)

§ 3411(60). Surety bonds of managers and employees.—All managers of county stores and all employees hereunder serving in any fiduciary capacity shall enter into bonds conditioned upon the faithful performance of their duties in such amounts as shall be fixed by the county alcoholic beverage control board and said bonds shall be in a form to be approved by the chairman of the board of county commissioners. (1935, c. 493, s. 23.)

§ 3411(61). Manufacture of liquors. — Nothing herein contained shall be construed so as to permit the manufacture of alcoholic beverages in North Carolina except in such manner as is now prescribed by law. (1935, c. 439, s. 24.)

§ 3411(62). Submission of question to voters of counties.—Provided, that this article shall not become effective until approved by a majority vote of the qualified voters of Pasquotank, Pitt, Beaufort, Martin, Halifax, Edgecombe, Carteret, Craven, Onslow, Wilson, Greene, Lenoir, Warren, Vance, Franklin and Nash counties participating in an election to be held in said counties upon the call of the board of county commissioners of said respective counties to be held within sixty (60) days from the ratification of this article, the same to be held under the same laws, rules and regulations as govern the election of members of the general assembly, and at said election those who favor said control act shall vote a ballot on which shall appear the words "for control act" and those opposed shall vote a ballot on which shall appear the words "against control act" and the county board of elections of each of said counties shall provide said ballots and conduct said election, and canvass the returns as provided by law in general elections: Provided, further, that this article shall become effective in the counties described in section 3411(38) if and when ratified by a majority of the qualified voters voting in said election in each of said counties. Provided that the elections herein provided for as to counties shall not be held in any county unless and until called by the board of county commissioners of that county and nothing herein contained shall be construed as compelling the board of county commissioners to call such an election and the provisions of this article as to the repeal of the Turlington Act shall not apply until such an election shall be held and determined as provided herein. (1935, c. 493, s. 24½.)

§ 3411(63). "Board" defined. — Wherever the word "board" is used in this article, it shall be construed to mean the plural or the singular and to refer to the board or boards in each or all of said counties as the necessity of such construction and interpretation shall demand, in order to effectuate the true intent and purposes of this article. (1935, c. 493, s. 24¾.)

§ 3411(64). Article applicable to Southern Pines and Pinehurst.—Should a majority of the qualified voters at the election herein provided for vote in favor of the sale of liquor under the provisions of this article, the board herein named for the enforcement of this article and to provide for the sale of liquor shall establish and maintain a store for the sale of liquor under the provisions of this article in Southern Pines and in the county of Moore when a petition requesting such establishment shall be presented to such board signed by a majority of the qualified voters of McNeills Township in Moore county; and shall likewise establish and maintain a store for the sale of liquor under the provisions of this article in Pinehurst in Moore county when a petition requesting such establishment shall be presented to such board signed by a majority of the qualified voters of Mineral Springs Township in Moore county. The finding by such board that such petition in either case is signed by a majority of such qualified voters shall be conclusive of such fact. (1935, c. 493, s. 26.)

RAILROADS AND OTHER CARRIERS

Art. 1. General Provisions

§ 3412. Application to existing railroads; special charters.—All existing railroad corporations within this state shall respectively have and possess all the powers and privileges contained in this chapter; and they shall be subject to all the duties, liabilities and provisions of this chapter not inconsistent with their charters. This chapter shall govern and control, anything in any special act of assembly creating a railroad corporation to the contrary notwithstanding, unless in the act of the general assembly creating the corporation the section or sections of this chapter intended to be repealed shall be specially referred to by number and, as such, specially repealed. (Rev., s. 2566; Code, ss. 701, 1982; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 45.)

Editor's Note.—Railroad companies are common carriers, receiving from the state a delegation of a portion of its sovereign powers for the public good; and being agents and, in the place and stead of the government, exercising public duties, they are therefore, subject to legislative as well as judicial control. The sections comprising this chapter are the result of the exercise of this power by the legislature of North Carolina.

To What Charters Applicable.—This section governs and controls all charters granted after its enactment. Durham, etc., R. Co. v. Richmond, etc., R. Co., 106 N. C. 16, 27, 10 S. E. 1041.

Does Not Affect Subsequent Legislation.—The section is like any other act of the legislature and is subject to any subsequent legislation, and is only useful in construing the meaning of subsequent legislation when it is doubtful. It cannot have the effect to prevent antagonistic legislation at a subsequent date. Watauga, etc., R. Co. v. Ferguson, 169 N. C. 70, 71, 85 S. E. 156.

Repeal by Implication Not Favored. — "This provision very plainly shows that it was the intention of the legislature that the general railroad act should apply, and that its important provisions should not be repealed, either by implication or by hasty legislation. It is but an affirmance of the principle that the repeal by implication of a general law by a private statute is not favored. But the statute goes a step further, and prescribes a rule of construction under which the private act, even if it be inconsistent with the provisions of the general law, shall not repeal them 'unless they are specially referred to by number, and, as such, specially repealed'." Durham, etc., R. Co. v. Richmond, etc., R. Co., 106 N. C. 16, 27, 10 S. E. 1041.

Consequently a provision of a charter that the railroad shall have the power to condemn land under the "same rules and regulations as are prescribed for the North Carolina Railroad Company," is invalid. Durham, etc., R. Co. v. Richmond, etc., R. Co., 106 N. C. 16, 10 S. E. 1041, cited as conclusive in Livermon v. Roanoke, etc., R. R. Co., 109 N. C. 52, 55, 13 S. E. 734.

Cited in Land v. Wilmington & Weldon R. Co., 107 N. C. 72, 12 S. E. 125; Rumbough v. Southern Improvement Co., 106 N. C. 461, 11 S. E. 528.

§ 3413. Roads not to be established unless authorized by law. — If any person or corporation, not being expressly authorized thereto, shall make or establish any canal, turnpike, tramroad, railroad or plankroad, with the intent that the same shall be used to transport passengers other than such persons, or the members of such corporation, or to transport any productions, fabrics or manufactures other than their own, the person or corporation so offending, and using the same for any such purpose, shall forfeit and pay fifty dollars for every person and article of produce so transported.

This section shall not apply to any narrow-gauge railroad, tramroad or toll road made and established and maintained solely by the owner of the lands upon which said road may be, the principal business of which is the transportation of logs, lumber and articles for the owners of such railroad or tramroad: Provided, that the corporation commission shall have power to authorize lumber companies, having logging roads, to transport all kinds of commodities other than their own and passengers and to charge therefor reasonable rates to be approved by said commission. (Rev., s. 2598; Code, s. 1717; R. C., c. 61, s. 37; 1874-5, c. 83; 1901, c. 282; 1907, c. 531; 1911, c. 160; 1915, c. 6.)

Editor's Note.—Public Laws of 1935, chapter 134, codified as secs. 1112(a)-1112(q), abolished the corporation commission and conferred its functions, powers, etc., upon the utilities commissioner.

Violation by Company Can Not Be Set Up as Defense.—A lumber company cannot avail itself of the defense, in an action for damages, that it was prohibited by this section, from building a standard-gauge railroad, in consideration of which it had obtained the plaintiff's timber at a less price than its actual value; for if the stipulation to construct the road is invalid, the plaintiffs, though they should be particeps criminis, are not pari delicto. Herring v. Cumberland Lumber Co., 159 N. C. 382, 383, 74 S. E. 1011.

§ 3414. Conductor and certain other employees to wear badges.—Every conductor, baggagemaster, engineer, brakeman or other servant of any railroad corporation employed on a passenger train, or at stations for passengers, shall wear upon his hat or cap a badge which shall indicate his office and the initial letters of the title of the corporation by which he is employed. No conductor or collector without such badge shall be entitled to demand or receive from any passenger any fare or ticket, or to exercise any of the powers of his office; and no officer or servant without such badge shall have authority to meddle or interfere with any passenger, his baggage or property. (Rev., s. 2604; Code, s. 1958; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 30.)

§ 3415. Actions for penalties to be in name of state. — All penalties imposed by this chapter may, unless otherwise provided, be sued for in the name of the state. (Rev., s. 2647; Code, s. 1976; 1885, c. 221.)

The penalty prescribed by section 3516 for failure to transport within a reasonable time is given directly to the party aggrieved, and an action therefor is not required to be brought in the name of the state. Robertson v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 148 N. C. 323, 62 S. E. 413.

§ 3416. Discrimination in charges misdemeanor.—If any common carrier shall directly or indirectly by special rate, rebate, drawback, or other device, charge, demand, collect or receive from any person a greater or less compensation for any service rendered or to be rendered in the transportation of passengers or property subject to the provisions of law than it charges, demands or collects or receives from any other person or persons for doing for him or them a like and contemporaneous service in the transportation of a like kind of traffic under substantially similar circumstances and conditions; or shall make or give any undue or unreasonable preference or advantage to any particular person, company, firm, corporation or locality, or any particular description of traffic in any respect whatsoever; or shall subject any particular person, company, firm, corporation or locality or any particular description of traffic to any undue or unreasonable prejudice or disadvantage in any respect whatsoever, such person or corporation shall be upon conviction thereof fined not less than one thousand nor more than five thousand dollars for each and every offense. (Rev., s. 3749; 1899, c. 164, s. 13.)

Cross References.—As to failure to receive and forward freight, see sections 3515, 3516. As to rules of utilities commissioner preventing discrimination, see section 1054. As to discrimination between connecting lines, see section 1107. As to preferences and discrimination by railroads generally see 2 Enc. Dig. 769 et seq. See, also, section 3475.

Editor's Note.—At common law it was an indictable offense for a common carrier to unjustly discriminate between members of the public; and by constitutional and statutory provisions in a number of states, including North Carolina by this section, unlawful discrimination makes the carriers subject to prosecution.

The sine qua non for a prosecution under this section is that the variance in charge constituting the discrimination must be for "a like and contemporaneous service in the transportation of a like kind of traffic under substantially similar circumstances and conditions." This language seems to be patterned after the Act of Congress of 1887, c. 104, section 2, U. S. Comp. Stat., 1901, p. 3155, which regulates the same subject in interstate commerce, and is found in substantially the same form in all of the state laws. For example the Kentucky statute is held not to apply to a discrimination in charges for the transportation of freight unless the shipments are of the same class from and to the same point and upon the same condition. See Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Com., 105 Ky. 179, 20 Ky. L. Rep. 1099, 48 S. W. 416, 43 L. R. A. 550.

Section Is Remedial.—"The statutes enacted for the enforcement of the duties of common carriers, imposing penalties, are not intended to simply penalize railroads, but to secure prompt, efficient service to all and not a favored few." Garrison v. Southern R. Co., 150 N. C. 575, 585, 64 S. E. 578.

It will be observed, as said by Clerk, C. J., in Lumber Co. v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 136 N. C. 479, 487, 48 S. E. 813, that this section is substantially like that portion of the English "Traffic Act" known as the "Equality Clause" and the "Interstate Commerce Act." The fundamental purpose underlying all of this legislation, both in England and this country, is, as said by Mr. Justice White, in R. R. v. Interstate Commission, 200 U. S. 361, that "Whilst seeking to prevent unjust and unreasonable rates, to secure equality of rates as to all, and destroy favoritism, these last being accomplished by requiring the publication of tariffs and by prohibiting secret departures from such tariffs, and forbidding rebates, preferences, and all other forms of unjust discrimination, to this extent and for these purposes, the statute is remedial, and is, therefore, entitled to receive that interpretation which reasonably accomplishes the great public purpose which it was enacted to subserve . . . . What was that purpose? It was to compel the carrier as a public agent to give equal treatment to all."

Declaratory of Common Law.—This section is declaratory of the common law and secures to every person the right to participate in the use of the facilities furnished, or which it is its duty to furnish, by a common carrier upon terms of equality, in regard to price, and otherwise, and free from unlawful discrimination. Lumber Co. v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 141 N. C. 171, 53 S. E. 823.

Recovery of Excess.—Where a higher freight charge was paid than that charged other shippers, the payment is not to be considered voluntary, and the excess may be recovered back upon account for money had and received, and it is not necessary that at the time of payment there should have been any protest. Lumber Co. v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 141 N. C. 171, 53 S. E. 823.

What Constitutes Unlawful Discrimination. — A common carrier is guilty of unlawful discrimination by the principles of the common law, and the terms of this section when it charges one person for service rendered a larger sum than is charged another person for like service under substantially similar conditions. Lumber Co. v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 141 N. C. 171, 53 S. E. 823.

A carrier cannot rightfully charge one shipper $2.50 per 1,000 feet for hauling his logs if it, at the same time, for the same service, under substantially similar circumstances, carried logs for other persons at $2.10 per 1,000 feet in consideration of the shipment of the manufactured products over its railroad. Lumber Co. v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 141 N. C. 171, 53 S. E. 823.

Embargoes Prohibited.—A common carrier cannot place an embargo on its customer or patron so as to discriminate against him or those dealing with him, and for such unjust discrimination the carrier is indictable under this section. Garrison v. Southern R. Co., 150 N. C. 575, 64 S. E. 578.

Allegations.—There are discriminations which require more explicit allegations, as for instance, illegal rebates upon freight charges, and the like, U. S. v. Hanley, 71 Fed. 672, but as the common carrier carries for hire, the allegation that it gave a person named undue preference by transporting him free ex vi termini alleges discrimination. State v. Southern Ry. Co., 125 N. C. 666, 671, 34 S. E. 527.

§ 3417. Discrimination by rebate or reduced charges, misdemeanor.—Any railroad company doing business in the state, or officer or agent thereof, who shall give to any person or shipper any advantage over another person or shipper under like circumstances, by way of any rebate or reduced rate not authorized by law or by the North Carolina corporation commission, or which shall make charges for shipments of freight in violation of the law as to railroad freight rates, contained in article 5 of the chapter Corporation Commission, or shall willfully discriminate in the matter of service in favor of one person or corporation against another in like circumstances, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and such corporation shall, upon conviction, be fined not less than one hundred dollars and such officer or agent shall be fined or imprisoned or both, in the discretion of the court; and any shipper or consignee of any freight in the state of North Carolina who shall knowingly accept any rebate or other consideration or service from any railroad company which is not allowed or given other shippers or consignees under like or similar circumstances, and which is not allowed by law, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and fined or imprisoned in the discretion of the court. (1907, c. 217, s. 2.)

§ 3418. Discrimination against connecting lines and violation of certain rules of the corporation commission misdemeanor. — If any common carrier shall not afford all reasonable, proper and equal facilities for the interchange of traffic between its respective lines and for the forwarding and delivering of passengers and freights to and from its several lines and those connecting therewith, or shall discriminate in its rates and charges against such connecting lines, of if any connecting line shall not make as close connection as practicable for the convenience of the traveling public, or shall not obey all rules and regulations made by the corporation commission relating to trackage, it shall be punished by a fine of not less than five hundred dollars nor exceeding five thousand dollars for each and every offense. (Rev., s. 3751; 1899, c. 164, s. 21.)

See Editor's Note to section 3413.
As to powers of the utilities commissioner to prevent discrimination between connecting lines see section 1107.

§ 3419. Discrimination against the Atlantic and North Carolina railroad misdemeanor; venue. —If any railroad in North Carolina shall discriminate against the freights received from the Atlantic and North Carolina railroad, or shall make rates by which, either directly or indirectly, by rebates or otherwise, freights may be delivered at less rates when received from other points than from points along the Atlantic and North Carolina railroad in proportion to distance hauled, it shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be punished by a fine of not less than one hundred dollars for each and every violation thereof. An indictment for the misdemeanor may be found and tried in the courts where the goods were either shipped or delivered, but the court in which the indictment for the offense is first found shall have exclusive jurisdiction. (Rev., s. 3750; 1889, c. 358.)

§ 3420. Articles of association; contents; signature; filing.—Any number of persons, not less than six, at least one of whom shall be a citizen and resident of this state, may form a company for the purpose of constructing, maintaining and operating a railroad for public use in the conveyance of persons and property, or for the purpose of maintaining and operating any unincorporated railroad already constructed for the like public use; and for that purpose may make and sign articles of association, in which shall be stated the name of the company, the number of years the same is to continue, the places from and to which the road is to be constructed or maintained and operated, the length of such road as near as may be, and the name of each county in this state through or into which it is made or intended to be made, the amount of the capital stock of the company, which shall not be less than five thousand dollars for every mile of road constructed or proposed to be constructed, and the number of shares of which the capital stock shall consist, and the names and places of residence of six directors of the company, at least one of whom shall be a citizen and resident of this state, upon whom legal process may be served, who shall manage its affairs for the first year, or until others are chosen in their places. Each subscriber to such articles of association shall subscribe thereto his name, place of residence, and the number of shares of stock he agrees to take in the company. On compliance with the provisions of the succeeding section, such articles of association may be filed in the office of the secretary of state, who shall indorse thereon the day they are filed, and record the same in a book to be provided by him for that purpose; and thereupon the persons who have so subscribed such articles of association, and all persons who shall become stockholders in such company, shall be a corporation by the name specified in such articles of association, and shall possess the powers and privileges granted to railroad corporations by this chapter. The articles of association of any company formed under the provisions of this chapter, or the charter of any railroad company formed under a special act, may be amended as provided in sections eleven hundred and thirty and eleven hundred and thirty-one, and said sections eleven hundred and thirty and eleven hundred and thirty-one are hereby made to apply to railroad companies: Provided, no amendment may be made changing the nature of the company's business extending its corporate existence or authorizing any powers other than those authorized by this chapter. (Rev., s. 2548; Code, s. 1932; 1871-2, c. 138; 1905, c. 187; 1907, c. 472, ss. 1, 2; 1921, c. 117.)

As to formation of corporations generally, see sections 1114 et seq.

Editor's Note.—The last sentence of this section with the proviso thereto relative to amendments of articles of associations and carriers, was added by the Public Laws of 1921.

Section Provides Exclusive Method of Creating.—The legislature has in this and the two following sections manifested a clear and positive intention that railroad corporations shall not be created by the action of associated persons otherwise than as provided in such sections. Bradley v. Ohio River & C. Ry. Co., 119 N. C. Appx. 918, 926.

Not Applicable to Continuing Existence.—This as the two following sections refer only to the mode and manner of creating railroad corporations, and not as to the methods of continuing the existence and operation of railroad franchises in the hands of purchasers at judicial sales. Bradley v. Ohio River & C. Ry. Co., 119 N. C. Appx. 918, 927.

Effect of Noncompliance.—The filing and recording by the secretary of state of articles of association of a proposed railroad company, if not such as required by law, is a nullity. Kinston, etc., R. Co. v. Stroud, 132 N. C. 413, 43 S. E. 913.

May Be Declared Void by Court.—Where the articles of incorporation of a railroad company are upon their face void, though not subject to collateral attack, the trial court will so declare in a proceeding to condemn land by right of eminent domain claimed thereunder. Kinston, etc., R. Co. v. Stroud, 132 N. C. 413, 43 S. E. 913.

§ 3421. Prerequisites of filing; stock subscription; affidavit of directors; payment of fees.—Such articles of association shall not be filed and recorded in the office in the secretary of the state until at least one thousand dollars of stock for every mile of railroad proposed to be made is subscribed thereto, and five per cent paid thereon in good faith, and in cash, to the directors named in the articles of association; nor until there is indorsed thereon or annexed thereto an affidavit made by at least three of the directors named in such articles, that the amount of stock required by this section has been in good faith subscribed and five per cent paid in cash thereon as aforesaid, and that it is intended in good faith to construct or to maintain and operate the road mentioned in such articles of association, which affidavit shall be recorded with the articles of association, as aforesaid; nor until said directors shall pay the taxes and fees provided for under the chapter Corporations, Article 11, entitled Taxes and Fees. (Rev., s. 2549; Code, s. 1933; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 2; 1905, c. 168.)

See notes to 3420.

§ 3422. Copy of articles evidence of incorporation.—A copy of any articles of association filed and recorded in pursuance of this article and of the record thereof, with a copy of the affidavit aforesaid indorsed thereon or annexed thereto, and certified to be a copy by the secretary of state, shall be presumptive evidence of the incorporation of such company, and of the facts therein stated. (Rev., s. 2550; Code, s. 1934; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 3.)

§ 3423. Opening of subscription books.—When such articles of association and affidavit are filed and recorded in the office of the secretary of state, the directors named in such articles of association may, in case the whole of the capital stock is not before subscribed, open books of subscription to fill up the capital stock of the company in such places and after giving such notice as they may deem expedient, and may continue to receive subscriptions until the whole of the capital stock is subscribed. (Rev., s. 2551; Code, s. 1935; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 4.)

§ 3424. How stock paid for; forfeiture for nonpayment.—The directors may require the subscribers to the capital stock of the company to pay the amounts by them respectively subscribed in such manner and in such installments as they may deem proper. If any stockholder shall neglect to pay any installment as required by a resolution of the board of directors, the said board shall be authorized to declare his stock and all previous payments thereon forfeited for the use of the company, but they shall not declare it so forfeited until they shall have caused a notice in writing to be served on him personally, or the same to be deposited in the postoffice, properly directed to him at the post office nearest his usual place of residence, stating that he is required to make such payment at the time and place specified in such notice, and that if he fails to make the same, his stock and all previous payments thereon will be forfeited for the use of the company, which notice shall be served as aforesaid at least sixty days previous to the day on which payment is required to be made. (Rev., s. 2554; Code, s. 1938; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 7.)

As to payment of subscriptions to corporations generally, see section 1159.

§ 3425. Increase of capital stock.—In case the capital stock of any railroad company is found to be insufficient for constructing and operating its road, such company may, with the concurrence of two-thirds in amount of all its stockholders, increase its capital stock from time to time to any amount required for the purposes aforesaid. Such increase must be sanctioned by a vote in person or by proxy of two-thirds in amount of all the stockholders of the company, at a meeting of such stockholders called by the directors of the company for that purpose, by a notice in writing to each stockholder, to be served on him personally or by depositing the same, properly folded and directed to him at the postoffice nearest his usual place of residence, in the post-office at least twenty days prior to such meeting. Such notice must state the time and place of the meeting and its object and the amount to which it is proposed to increase the capital stock. The proceedings of such meetings must be entered on the minutes of the proceedings of the company, and thereupon the capital stock of the company may be increased to the amount sanctioned by a vote of two-thirds in amount of all the stockholders of the company aforesaid. (Rev., s. 2555; Code, s. 1939; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 9.)

§ 3426. Liability for unpaid stock to laborers; notice to stockholder.—Each stockholder of any such company shall be individually liable to the creditors of such company to an amount equal to the amount unpaid on the stock held by him, for all the debts and liabilities of such company until the whole amount of the capital stock so held by him shall have been paid to the company, and all the stockholders of any such company shall be jointly and severally liable for the debts due or owing to any of its laborers and servants, other than contractors, for personal services for thirty days service performed for such company, but shall not be liable to an action therefor before an execution shall be returned unsatisfied in whole or in part against the corporation, and the amount due on such execution shall be the amount recoverable with costs against such stockholder. Before such laborer or servant shall charge such stockholders for such thirty days service he shall give them notice in writing within twenty days after the performance of such service that he intends to hold them liable, and shall commence such action therefor within thirty days after the return of such execution unsatisfied as above mentioned; and every such stockholder, against whom any such recovery by such laborer or servant shall have been had, shall have a right to recover the same of the other stockholders in such corporation in ratable proportion to the amount of the stock they shall respectively hold with himself. (Rev., s. 2556; Code, s. 1940; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 10.)

§ 3427. Liability of trustees and other fiduciaries holding stock.—No person holding stock in any such company as executor, administrator, guardian or trustee, and no person holding such stock as collateral security, shall be personally subject to any liability as stockholder of such company. The estates in the hands of such executor, administrator, guardian or trustee shall be liable in like manner and to the same extent as the testator or intestate or the ward or person interested in such trust fund would have been if he had been living and competent to act and hold the same stock in his own name, and a person pledging such stock shall be considered as holding the same, and shall be liable as a stockholder accordingly. (Rev., s. 2557; Code, s. 1941; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 11.)

§ 3428. Directors and presidents.—There shall be a board of six directors, one of whom shall be elected president, of every corporation formed under this article, to manage its affairs. The directors shall be chosen annually by a majority of the votes of the stockholders voting at such election, in such manner as may be prescribed in the by-laws of the corporation, and they may and shall continue in office until others are elected in their places. In the election of directors each stockholder shall be entitled to one vote personally or by proxy on every share held by him thirty days previous to any such election, and vacancies in the board of directors shall be filled in such manner as shall be prescribed by the by-laws of the corporation. The inspectors of the first election of directors shall be appointed by the board of directors named in the articles of association. No person shall be a director or president unless he shall be a stockholder owning stock absolutely in his own right and qualified to vote for directors at the election at which he shall be chosen; and at every election of directors the books and papers of such company shall be exhibited to the meeting, if a majority of the stockholders present shall require it. (Rev., s. 2552; Code, s. 1936; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 5.)

§ 3429. Appointment of officers and agents.—The president and directors shall appoint a treasurer and secretary and such other officers and agents as shall be prescribed by the by-laws. (Rev., s. 2553; Code, s. 1937; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 6.)

§ 3430. Officials to account to successors. — The president and directors of the several railroads, and all persons acting under them, are hereby required upon demand to account with the president and directors elected or appointed to succeed them, and shall transfer to them forthwith all the money, books, papers, choses in action, property and effects of every kind and description belonging to such company. (Rev., s. 2648; Code, s. 2001; 1870-1, c. 72, ss. 1, 3.)

Art. 3. County Subscriptions in Aid of Railroads

§ 3431. Counties may subscribe stock. — The boards of commissioners of the several counties shall have power to subscribe stock to any railroad company when necessary to aid in the construction of any railroad in which the citizens of the county may have an interest. (Rev., s. 2558; Code, s. 1996; 1868-9, c. 171, s. 1.)

Cross References.—As to bonds in general, see sections 324 et seq.; as to Municipal Finance Act, see sections 2918 et seq. For full treatment of the powers to incur indebtedness and expenditures, see 9 N. C. Enc. Dig. 569 et seq.; 15 N. C. Enc. Dig. 75 et seq.; as to subscriptions by townships, see sections 3436 et seq.; as to county aid to railroad generally see 3 N. C. Enc. Dig. 805 et seq.; 809 et seq.; 13 N. C. Enc. Dig. 526.

Editor's Note.—As this section appeared in the Code of 1883 it permitted subscription when necessary to aid in the completion of any railroad. This phraseology was the cause of some litigation as it was doubtful whether the section was applicable only to those railroads which were partially completed or whether it extended to all such companies. The Supreme Court of North Carolina adhered consistently to the former view, while the Federal Courts adopted the latter. The decisions of the Federal Courts were made statutory by the substitution in the Revisal of 1905, of the word "construction" for the word "completion." For the North Carolina cases prior to this substitution see Com'rs. v. Snuggs, 121 N. C. 394, 28 S. E. 539; Com'rs v. Payne, 123 N. C. 432, 31 S. E. 711; Graves v. Commissioners, 135 N. C. 49, 47 S. E. 134. For the controlling federal cases see Com'rs v. Coler, 113 Fed. 705; Wilkes County v. Coler, 190 U. S. 107, 47 L. Ed. 971, 23 S. Ct. 738; Stanly County v. Coler, 190 U. S. 437, 47 L. Ed. 1126, 23 S. Ct. 811.

Interest of Citizens of County.—The same state and federal cases which were in conflict upon the question of whether this section referred to all railroads or only those partially completed (see Editor's Note above) were also at variance upon the sufficiency of interest requisite to authorize the subscription. The state cases maintained the position that the interest must be direct and in and of the county subscribing, while the federal cases were decided on the theory that a public interest would suffice. The best statement of this rule is found in Coler v. Commissioners, 89 Fed. 257 where it is said: "The section does not require the citizens to have a direct pecuniary interest in the road, but a public interest, such as is created by the building of a railroad into the county, and the fixing of one of the termini therein, is sufficient to fulfill the condition and authorize a subscription to its stock by the county, and the issuance of bonds and levying of taxes to carry out the same." On reason and principle, this seems to be sound, and, in view of the United States Supreme Court decisions cited supra, should control future cases.

Burden of Proving Validity.—Where the recitals in railroad bonds are that they were issued under a particular act of the Legislature, the burden of validating them, as made under this section, is on the party alleging their validity. Graves v. Commissioners, 135 N. C. 49, 47 S. E. 134.

Constitution Requirements.—See Article II, section 14, and Art. VII, section 7 of the State Constitution.

§ 3432. Election on question of county aid. — The board of commissioners of any county proposing to take stock in any railroad company shall meet and agree upon the amount to be subscribed, and if a majority of the board shall vote for the proposition, this shall be entered of record, which record shall show the amount proposed to be subscribed, to what company, and whether in bonds, money or other property, and thereupon the board shall order an election, to be held on a notice of not less than thirty days, for the purpose of voting for or against the proposition to subscribe the amount of stock agreed on by the board of county commissioners. If a majority of the qualified voters of the county shall vote in favor of the proposition, the board of county commissioners, through their chairman, shall have power to subscribe the amount of stock proposed by them and submitted to the people, subject to all the rules, regulations and restrictions of other stockholders in such company: Provided, that the counties, in the manner aforesaid, shall subscribe from time to time such amounts, either in bonds or money as they may think proper. (Rev., s. 2559; Code, s. 1997; 1868-9, c. 171, s. 2.)

Cross References.—For a full treatment of the submission of the question of issue of bonds to popular vote, see 9 N. C. Enc. Dig. 585; 15 N. C. Enc. Dig. 78 et seq.

Editor's Note.—Section 2691 of this Code and Article VII, section 7 of the Constitution require a popular vote for the contraction of debts by cities and towns except in the case of necessary expenses; the constructions of these provisions which are also constructions of this section will be found under the section and Article of the Constitution cited.

Vote on Two Subscriptions.—Where the question of subscription to two different railway corporations is to be submitted to a vote, it is improper and irregular to submit them as a single proposition, at the same election and on the same ballot. Goforth v. Rutherford Ry. Constr. Co., 96 N. C. 535, 2 S. E. 361.

§ 3433. Conduct of election.—All elections ordered under the preceding section shall be held by the sheriff under the laws and regulations provided for the election of members of the general assembly. The votes shall be compared by the boards of county commissioners, who shall make a record of the same. (Rev., s. 2560; Code, s. 1998; 1868-9, c. 171, s. 3.)

As to conduct and control of elections for the issuance of bonds generally, see 9 N. C. Enc. Dig. 593 et seq.

§ 3434. Interest on bonds.—In case the county shall subscribe the amount proposed in bonds, the board of commissioners shall have power to fix the rate of interest, not to exceed the rate of six per cent, when the principal on said bonds shall be payable and at what place, and shall also fix the time and places of paying the interest, and shall also determine the mode and manner of paying the same; and also to raise by taxation, from year to year, the amount necessary to meet the interest on such bonds. (Rev., s. 2561; Code, s. 1999; 1868-9, c. 171, s. 4.)

No Estoppel by Payment of Interest.—The payment of interest from year to year on the bonds is not an estoppel, does not validate them. Commissioners v. Payne, 123 N. C. 432, 31 S. E. 711.

§ 3435. Collection and disposition of taxes authorized.—The taxes authorized by this article to be raised for the payment of interest or principal shall be collected by the sheriff in like manner as other state taxes, and be paid into the hands of the county treasurer, to be used by the chairman of the board of county commissioners as directed by this article. (Rev., s. 2562; Code, s. 2000; 1868-9, c. 171, s. 5.)

For collection of taxes generally, see sections 7972 et seq.

Art. 4. Township Subscriptions in Aid of Railroads

§ 3436. Townships may subscribe stock.—The board of commissioners of the several counties of the state shall have power to subscribe stock for the use and benefit of any township in their several counties, when necessary to aid in the construction of any railroad, which is now or may be hereafter incorporated under the laws of this state, in which the citizens of such county may have an interest. (1917, c. 64, s. 1.)

As to the power of municipal corporations to issue bonds and levy taxes to aid railroads, see 9 N. C. Enc. Dig. 583 et seq.; 616 et seq.

Editor's Note. — In Graves v. Com'rs, 135 N. C. 49, 47 S. E. 134, it was held that section 3431 did not apply to townships and that there existed no provision authorizing the aid from townships similar to that which might be afforded by counties under section 3431. The Supreme Court, however, has held in several cases, that, despite the absence of express statutory provisions townships may by observing the constitutional requirements, issue bonds to aid in the construction of railroads. Wood v. Oxford, 97 N. C. 227, 2 S.

E. 653; Brown v. Commissioners, 100 N. C. 92, 5 S. E. 178; Jones v. Commissioners, 107 N. C. 248, 12 S. E. 69; Wittkowsky v. Com'rs, 150 N. C. 90, 94, 63 S. E. 275. See also, McCracken v. Greensboro, etc., R. Co., 168 N. C. 62, 84 S. E. 30. It would seem that these latter cases are made statutory by the enactment of this article in 1917.

§ 3437. Election on question of township aid.—The board of commissioners of any county proposing to take stock, for the use and benefit of any township, as mentioned in the preceding section, shall meet and agree upon the amount to be subscribed for such township, and if a majority of the board shall vote for the proposition, this shall be entered of record, which record shall show the amount proposed to be subscribed, and for what township, to what company, and whether in bonds, money or other property; and thereupon the board shall order an election, to be held upon a notice of not less than thirty days, in each and every township for whose use and benefit such subscription is proposed to be made, for the purpose of voting for or against the proposition to subscribe the amount agreed on by the board of commissioners. If a majority of the qualified voters of the township for whose use and benefit such subscription is proposed to be made shall vote in favor of the proposition, the board of county commissioners through their chairman shall have power to subscribe the amount of stock proposed by them, and submitted to the voters, for the use and benefit of such township, subject to all rules, regulations, and restrictions of other stockholders in such railroad company: Provided, that the township, in the manner aforesaid, shall subscribe from time to time such amounts, either in bonds or money, as it may think proper. (1917, c. 64, s. 2.)

§ 3438. Conduct of election; canvass of votes.—All elections ordered under the preceding section shall be held by the sheriff of the county in which such township is located, under such laws and regulations as are now or may hereafter be provided for the election of members of the general assembly. The votes of each township for whose use and benefit subscription under this article is proposed to be made shall be compared and the results of such election determined by the board of commissioners of the county in which such township is located, who shall make a record of the same. (1917, c. 64, s. 3.)

§ 3439. Bond issue; special tax.—In case the township shall authorize, at the election herein provided for, a subscription of the amount proposed in bonds, the board of commissioners shall have power to fix the rate of interest, not to exceed the rate of six per cent, when the principal of such bonds shall be payable, and at what place, and shall also fix the time and place for paying interest, and shall also determine the mode and manner of paying the same. The board of commissioners shall, in order to provide for the payment of the bonds and interest thereon authorized to be issued by this article, compute and levy each year at the time of levying the county and state taxes a sufficient tax upon the property in any township authorizing the issuing of bonds under this article to pay the interest on the bonds issued on account of and for the use and benefit of such township, and shall also levy a sufficient tax to create a sinking fund to provide for the payment of such bonds at maturity. Such taxes shall be levied and collected annually and under the same laws and regulations as shall be in force for levying and collecting other county taxes. (1917, c. 64, s. 4.)

§ 3440. Levy, collection, and disposition of tax.—The tax authorized by this article to be raised for the payment of interest and principal shall be levied by the board of commissioners of the county in which such township is located, at such times as is now or hereafter may be fixed for levying state and other county taxes, against the taxable property located in such township, in addition to the regular state and county taxes assessable against such property. The tax shall be collected by the sheriff or tax collector or other collecting officer of the county in which such township is located in like manner as state taxes are collected, and shall be paid into the hands of the county treasurer, to be used by the chairman of the board of commissioners as directed by this article. (1917, c. 64, s. 5.)

§ 3442. Townships may subscribe to purchase of railroad corporations.—The board of commissioners of the several counties of the state shall have power to make subscriptions, for the use and benefit of any township in their several counties, for the purpose of purchasing or aiding in the purchase of any railroad corporation now or hereafter incorporated under the laws of this state which shall be dissolved or whose property and franchises are proposed to be sold privately or under execution, judicial decree, deed in trust, mortgage, or other conveyance, and all the provisions of this article shall apply as fully and as well to such subscriptions as they do to subscriptions to stock to aid in the construction of railroads. (1917, c. 64, s. 1; 1919, c. 130, s. 1.)

§ 3443. Election on question of purchase; proxies to represent stock.—The county commissioners shall, upon the petition of one-fourth of the qualified voters of any township mentioned in the preceding section, order an election and submit the question of such subscription according to the terms of the petition. At such election five persons shall be chosen as proxies to represent such stock, if the vote shall be in favor of the subscription, in all respects as fully as if private promoters, corporators or holders of such stock. They shall be eligible to the position of director or other office in the corporation. They shall hold office until the first Monday in December following the next general election and until their successors chosen at such general election shall qualify. Such proxies shall be chosen at the general election every two years as township officers are. They shall have authority, alone, if sole purchasers, and with the proxies from other townships and others participating in the purchase, if not acting alone, to purchase such railroad property and franchise, and shall constitute a new corporation upon compliance with law as in other cases of a dissolution and sale of railroad property and franchise. (1917, c. 64, s. 2; 1919, c. 130, s. 2.)

§ 3443(a). Increase of interest; procedure. — Whenever the board of county commissioners of any county has subscribed for the use and benefit of any township to any interest in any railroad or railroad corporation, as provided in said article, and the majority of the proxies chosen to represent the stock or interest of the township in such railroad shall certify to the board of commissioners that in their opinion the interest of the township in said railroad or railroad corporation should be increased, the board of county commissioners shall order an election to be held in such township, upon the petition of one-fourth of the qualified voters of such township, in the same manner as provided in said article and chapter, and if the majority of the qualified voters of such township shall vote in favor of the proposition contained in the petition, the county commissioners shall execute and deliver the bonds authorized, levy and collect in the township and dispose of the tax, as authorized in said article four, chapter sixty-seven of the Consolidated Statutes. (1924, c. 117, s. 1.)

§ 3443(b). Execution and sale of bonds for increase of interest.—Said bonds shall be executed by the chairman of the board of county commissioners of such county, attested by the clerk of said board, who shall affix the seal of the board, and deliver the same to the board of proxies representing said township.

The board of proxies shall advertise said bonds as provided by law, and faithfully apply the same to the purposes set forth in the petition for the election. (1924, c. 117, s. 2.)

§ 3443(c). Organization of proxies; report; vacancies.—The proxies chosen at each general election shall qualify and organize on the first Monday in December, elect a chairman, vice-chairman and secretary, and they shall annually in each year file with the board of county commissioners a copy of the report required by law to be made to the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Any vacancy occurring in the board of proxies shall be filled by the board of proxies until the next general election. (1924, c. 117, s. 4.)

Art. 5. Powers and Liabilities

§ 3444. Powers of railroad corporations enumerated. — Every railroad corporation shall have power:

1. To Survey and Enter on Land.—To cause such examination and surveys for its proposed railroad to be made as may be necessary to the selection of the most advantageous route; and for such purpose, by its officers or agents and servants, to enter upon the lands or waters of any person, but subject to responsibility for all damages which shall be done thereto.

As to the right of entry on land, see section 1707; as to the right of way generally, see 10 Enc. Dig. 675 et seq.; 15 Enc. Dig. 30 et seq.

Conflicting Locations.—As between two railroad companies the first location belongs to that company which first defines and marks its route and adopts the same for its permanent location by authoritative corporate action. Fayetteville Street Ry. v. Aberdeen & R. R. Co., 142 N. C. 423, 55 S. E. 345.

2. To Condemn Land under Eminent Domain.—To appropriate land and rights therein by condemnation, as provided in the chapter Eminent Domain.

As to condemnation by right of eminent domain, see sections 1706 et seq.

Editor's Note.—Since railroads are quasi-public corporations they are given by the state the power to take, by proper proceedings the necessary lands upon which to build their roads. Nor will the courts enjoin a railroad corporation from condemning land for a public purpose on the ground that the corporation was irregularly organized. In Powers v. Hazelton, etc., R. Co., 33 Ohio St. 429, it was held that a land-owner could not be permitted to prove, as a defense to condemnation proceedings instituted by a regularly organized railroad corporation, that the company was incorporated not for a public use, but for the private purposes of the corporators only, and that there was no public necessity for the road. See, also, Wellington, etc., R. Co. v. Cashie, etc., R. Co., 114 N. C. 690, 19 S. E. 646.

3. To Take Property by Grant.—To take and hold such voluntary grants of real estate and other property as shall be made to it to aid in the construction, maintenance and accommodation of its railroad; but the real estate received by voluntary grant shall be held and used for the purposes of such grant only.

Editor's Note.—Railroads can acquire real estate only by statutory authority. After the authority is granted, either by general legislation, charter or implied power, property may be acquired by purchase, grant, dedication, adverse possession, license or by condemnation under the power of eminent domain.

In 1 Elliott on Rys., sec. 390, the general principle is stated as follows:

"The rule is well established that a railroad corporation cannot acquire and hold lands for any purposes except such as are authorized by statute. The authority must be conferred by legislation or it does not exist. It is, however, not necessary that the authority should be expressly conferred. It may be implied." See Wallace v. Moore, 178 N. C. 114, 115, 100 S. E. 237.

Land May Be Taken from Another Railroad.—Land acquired by one railroad company under a legislative grant of the right of eminent domain, and not necessary for the exercise of its franchise or the discharge of its duties, is liable to be taken under the law of eminent domain for the use of another railroad company. North Carolina, etc., R. Co. v. Carolina, etc., R. Co., 83 N. C. 489.

4. To Purchase and Hold Property.—To purchase and hold and use all such real estate and other property as may be necessary for the construction and maintenance of its railroad and the stations and other accommodations necessary to accomplish the object of its incorporation.

See Editor's Note to par. 3.

5. To Grade and Construct Road.—To lay out its road, not exceeding one hundred feet in width and to construct the same; to take, for the purpose of cuttings and embankments, as much more land as may be necessary for the proper construction and security of the road; and to cut down any standing trees that may be in danger of falling on the road, making compensation therefor as provided in the chapter Eminent Domain.

Change of Grade.—A railroad company has a right to change the grade of its road-bed or to remove it to any point on its right of way. Brinkley v. Sou. R. Co., 135 N. C. 654, 47 S. E. 791.

Extending User of Right of Way.—While a railroad can use only the part of its right of way actually occupied, whenever the necessities of the company require it, it can extend its user of the right of way to the extent of the statutory right for additional tracks or other railroad purposes. Tighe v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 176 N. C. 239, 244, 97 S. E. 164; Atlantic, etc., R. Co. v. Bunting, 168 N. C. 579, 84 S. E. 1009; R. R. v. Olive, 142 N. C. 257, 264, 55 S. E. 263.

6. To Intersect with Highways and Waterways.—To construct its road across, along or upon any stream of water, water-course, street, highway, plankroad, turnpike, railroad or canal which the route of its road shall intersect or touch; but the company shall restore the stream or water-course, street, highway, plankroad or turnpike road, thus intersected or touched, to its former state or to such state as not unnecessarily to have impaired its usefulness. Nothing in this chapter contained shall be construed to authorize the erection of any bridge or any other obstruction across, in or over any stream or lake navigated by steam or sail boats, at the place where any bridge or other obstructions may be proposed to be placed, nor to authorize the construction of any railroad not already located in, upon or across any streets in any city without the assent of the corporation of such city.

Cross References.—See annotations under section 3449. As to the duty of railroads to construct and maintain bridges which it has necessitated building, see sections 3797 and 3900; as to their duty to provide cattle guards, see section 3454.

Editor's Note.—The right of railroad companies to cross highways is limited to the necessities of the crossing and no greater rights can be claimed than those reasonably necessary to accomplish the purpose of the crossing. It is the duty of a railway company constructing its line across a public highway, to do so in such a manner as to interfere with the right of the public to the use of the highway as little as possible and to restore the highway to as safe a condition for travel as before the crossing was made so far as it can reasonably and practicably be done. A railroad company that has constructed its line across a highway may lay such additional parallel tracks as are reasonably necessary for it in the transaction of its business.

Duty to Public.—While railroad corporations are given the right and power to construct their roads across streets, highways, etc., they must maintain a safe and convenient crossing there, making it, as far as they can, as safe and convenient to the public as it would have been had the railroad not been built. Raper v. Wilmington, etc., R. Co., 126 N. C. 563, 36 S. E. 115.

Whole Street Cannot Be Appropriated.—In Seaboard Air Line R. Co. v. Raleigh, 219 Fed. 573, 581, in construing this section it is said: "It is doubtful whether the language of the section can be construed to authorize the exclusive appropriation of the street. The sidewalk is a portion of the street appropriated to the use of pedestrians. To construe the grant of the right to construct its road 'across, along, or upon' a street, always of much greater width than a railroad track, and the cross-ties, as a grant of the right to occupy the entire street or sidewalk, is not permissible in the light of the recognized rule of construction of such grants of power. How is it possible to restore the street to 'its former state' if the track occupies its entire width? Statutes must be given a reasonable construction."

Assent of City an Essential Power.—The assent to the use of the street by a railroad company is often a most essential power, necessary to be used for the benefit of the people of the city. Griffin v. Southern R. Co., 150 N. C. 312, 314, 64 S. E. 16.

Court Cannot Review Grant.—The action of the board of aldermen in authorizing a railroad company to use a certain street for legitimate railroad purposes, the laying and use of tracks, etc., when the statutory power is given, is not reviewable by the courts at the instance of an owner of land on the street, claiming that some other street should have been so used. Griffin v. Southern R. Co., 150 N. C. 312, 64 S. E. 16.

Cited in Raper v. Wilmington, etc., R. Co., 126 N. C. 563, 567, 36 S. E. 115.

7. To Intersect with Other Railroads. — To cross, intersect, join and unite its railroad with any other railroad before constructed, at any point on its route, and upon the grounds of such other company, with the necessary turnouts, sidings and switches and other conveniences in furtherance of the object of its connections. Every company whose railroad is or shall be hereafter intersected by any new railroad shall unite with the owners of such new railroad in forming such intersections and connections and grant the facilities aforesaid, and if the two corporations cannot agree upon the amount of compensation to be made therefor, or the points and manner of such crossings and connections, the same shall be ascertained and determined by commissioners to be appointed by the court as is provided in the chapter Eminent Domain.

Editor's Note.—In Elliott on Railroads, p. 1687, the author says, "This provision (that the companies shall unite in agreement) has the effect of a condition precedent to the right to invoke the aid of the statute, and a complaint or instrument to condemn a crossing hereunder must show that the companies were unable to agree. If there is a waiver of an agreement or of an effort to agree, that fact should be alleged. Negotiations had with officers of the road sought to be crossed, who assume to act in its behalf, although they have no authority to so act, will be sufficient to constitute an effort to agree, unless the person with whom such officers' act has knowledge of their lack of authority. The burden of proof is upon the petitioner to show that there was a failure to agree. It must be made to appear before a crossing will be granted when so required by the statute authorizing the condemnation, that the crossing is necessary."

Railroad Decides Necessity of Intersection. — Where a railroad company has a right to condemn a way across the track of another company to manufacturing plants for a spur track to which the other company also has its siding, in competition for freight, the question whether it is necessary for the plaintiff company to build its spur is one in its discretion; and controversies as to whether the defendant could and would shift the plaintiff's cars on its own track advantageously to the plaintiff, and for a reasonable charge, are immaterial. Virginia, etc., R. Co. v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 161 N. C. 531, 78 S. E. 68.

No Restriction of Right Except Voluntary.—A railroad company having the power of condemnation across the road of another company should exercise this right with the regard to the convenience of both parties and with as little interference with the use of the other party of its own track as can be obtained without a great increase in its cost and inconvenience. But the courts cannot restrict this right to be exercised by a railroad to cases in which the courts may approve its reasonableness or expediency. Virginia, etc., R. Co. v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 165 N. C. 425, 81 S. E. 617.

Agreement or Condemnation Necessary for Entry. — Under this section one road cannot enter on the right-of-way of another for the purpose of connecting therewith without previous agreement, or condemnation proceedings. Richmond, etc., R. Co. v. Durham, etc., Ry. Co., 104 N. C. 658, 10 S. E. 659.

Parol Agreement Ineffectual.—A parol agreement to allow one railroad company to extend its track on the right-of-way of another, for the purpose of connecting therewith, is a mere license, revocable at the will of the licensor, and will not operate as an estoppel although the licensee has entered and made valuable improvements. Richmond, etc., R. Co. v. Durham, etc., Ry. Co., 104 N. C. 658, 10 S. E. 659.

8. To Transport Persons and Property.—To take and convey persons and property on its railroad by the power or force of steam, electricity or animals, or by any mechanical power, and to receive compensation therefor.

As to the railroads duty to transport see section 3475 and notes thereto.

Charter May Confer Right to Lease.—The charter of a railroad company conferring the right to transport passengers and freight, and giving the power to "farm out" the right of transportation, authorizes the company to execute a valid lease of its property and franchises to another railroad company. Hill v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 143 N. C. 539, 55 S. E. 854.

9. To Erect Stations and Other Buildings.—To erect and maintain all necessary and convenient buildings, stations, fixtures and machinery for the accommodation and use of its passengers, freight and business.

As to the power of the utilities commissioner to establish and regulate stations see section 1040 et seq.

10. To Borrow Money, Issue Bonds and Execute Mortgages.—From time to time to borrow such sums of money as may be necessary for completing and finishing or operating its railroad, and to issue and dispose of its bonds for any amount so borrowed, and to mortgage its corporate property and franchises and to secure the payment of any debt contracted by the company for the purposes aforesaid, and the directors of the company may confer on any holder of any bond issued for money borrowed, as aforesaid, the right to convert the principal due or owing thereon into stock of such company at any time under such regulations as the directors may see fit to adopt.

Corporation Has Power to Issue Bonds.—A railroad corporation has power to contract debts, and every corporation possessing such power must also have power to acknowledge its indebtedness under its corporate seal, i. e., to make and issue its bonds. Commissioners v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 77 N. C. 289.

11. To Lease Rails.—To lease iron rails to any person or corporation for such time and upon such terms as may be agreed on by the contracting parties, and upon the termination of the lease by expiration, forfeiture or surrender, to take possession of and remove the rails so leased as if they had never been laid.

12. To Establish Hotels and Eating Houses. —To purchase, lease, hold, operate or maintain eating-houses, hotels and restaurants for the accommodation of the traveling public along the line of its road. (Rev., ss. 2567, 2575; Code, s. 1957; 1887, c. 341; 1889, c. 518; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 29.)

§ 3444(a). Engaging in authorized business. —It shall be unlawful for any railroad company incorporated under the laws of this State, or any railroad company incorporated under the laws of any other state and operating one or more railroads in this State, to engage in any business other than the business authorized by its or their charter.

Any railroad company violating the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined in the discretion of the court. (1924, c. 80.)

§ 3445. Power to aid in construction of connecting and branch lines.—Any railroad or other transportation company shall have the right to aid in the construction of any railroad or branch railroad in this or an adjoining state connected with it directly or indirectly, if the construction of such railroad or branch railroad is authorized by law. (Rev., s. 2567, subsec. 12; 1885, c. 108, s. 1.)

§ 3446. Power to seize fuel.—If any railroad or other transportation company finds it necessary, in order to prevent delays in the transportation of freight or passengers, to take possession of coal, wood, or other fuel not its own property and convert it to its own use without an agreement with the owner thereof, it shall notify such owner within three days of such taking that his property has been appropriated, giving the date thereof, and shall, within a period of thirty days, pay for such coal, wood or other fuel at the invoice price at place of shipment, plus twenty-five per cent. Should the transportation company fail to notify the consignee or owner within such three days or pay for the coal, wood or other fuel at the invoice price at place of shipment, plus twenty-five per cent as above provided, within thirty days after converting the same to its own use, it shall in addition forfeit to the party aggrieved the sum of twenty-five dollars for the first day of failure to notify such consignee of the appropriation of the fuel, or its failure to pay for the same, and five dollars for each day thereafter in which it shall fail to notify such consignee or pay for the same. (Rev., s. 2617; 1903, c. 590, s. 4; 1907, c. 467.)

§ 3447. Agreements for through freight and travel.—The directors representing the stock held in the various railroad corporations are herby authorized and empowered to enter into such agreements and terms with each other as to secure through freight and travel without the expense of transfer of freight, or breaking the bulk thereof, at different points along the lines, and for this purpose may use the road or roads and the rolling stock of such corporations or companies on such terms as may be agreed upon by them. (Rev., s. 2640; Code, s. 1995; 1866-7, c. 105.)

§ 3448. Intersection with highways.—Whenever the track of a railroad shall cross a highway, turnpike or plankroad, such highway, turnpike or plankroad may be carried under or over the track, as may be found most expedient; and in cases where an embankment or cutting shall make a change in the line of such highway, turnpike, or plankroad desirable, then such corporation may take such additional lands for the construction of the road, highway, turnpike or plankroad on such new lines as may be deemed requisite by the directors. Unless the land so taken shall be purchased for the purposes aforesaid, compensation therefor shall be ascertained in the manner prescribed in the chapter Eminent Domain, and duly made by such corporation to the owners and persons interested in such land. The same when so taken shall become a part of such intersecting highway, turnpike or plankroad in such manner and by such tenure as the adjacent parts of the same highway, turnpike or plankroad may be held for highway purposes. (Rev., s. 2568; Code, s. 1954; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 26.)

Cross References.—See notes to succeeding section. See also section 3444 par. 6 and notes thereto; as to crossing highways generally see 10 Enc Dig. 686 et seq.; 13 Enc. Dig. 304 et seq; as to the power of the utilities commissioner to regulate crossings see section 1048.

§ 3449. Obstructing highways; defective crossings; failure to repair after notice misdemeanor. — Whenever, in their construction, the works of any railroad corporation shall cross established roads or ways, the corporation shall so construct its works as not to impede the passage or transportation of persons or property along the same. If any railroad corporation shall so construct its crossings with public streets, thoroughfares or highways, or keep, allow or permit the same at any time to remain in such condition as to impede, obstruct or endanger the passage or transportation of persons or property along, over or across the same, the governing body of the county, city, town, township or road district having charge, control or oversight of such roads, streets or thoroughfares may give to such railroad notice, in writing, directing it to place any such crossing in good condition, so that persons may cross and property be safely transported across the same. If the railroad corporation shall fail to put such crossing in a safe condition for the passage of persons and property within thirty days from and after the service of the notice, it shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be punished in the discretion of the court. Each calendar month which shall elapse after the giving of the notice and before the placing of such crossing in repair shall be a separate offense. This section shall in no wise be construed to abrogate, repeal or otherwise affect any existing law now applicable to railroad corporations with respect to highway and street crossings; but the duty imposed and the remedy given by this section shall be in addition to other duties and remedies now prescribed by law. (Rev., s. 2569; Code, s. 1710; R. C., c. 61, s. 30; 1874-5, c. 83; 1915, c. 250, ss. 1, 2.)

As to the power of the utilities commissioner to regulate crossings, see section 1048; as to accident at crossings see 10 Enc. Dig. 714 et seq.; 13 Enc. Dig. 313 et seq.

Editor's Note.—Section 1048 confers authority upon the utilities commissioner to abolish grade crossings by a railroad company when by the operation of the railroads they become dangerous or inconvenient to the public traveling along their highways or private ways.

Duty Required.—While railroad corporations are given the right and power to construct their roads across streets, highways, etc., they must maintain a safe and convenient crossing there, making it, as far as they can, as safe and convenient to the public as it would have been had the railroad not been built. Raper v. Wilmington, etc., R. Co., 126 N. C. 563, 36 S. E. 115.

Not Restricted to Public Highway.—This section does not restrict the defendant's duty to crossings of "public highways," but uses the broader and generic term "highways," which might include any road used by the public as a mill and church road and in going to town, as was this road. Goforth v. Southern R. Co., 144 N. C. 569, 570, 57 S. E. 209.

Same—Applies to Private Crossings. — An "established road or way" which a railroad company may not obstruct in crossing it with its tracks extends to those whose use is of a private nature, and not necessarily those dedicated to a public use, and in such instances, where the rights of a railroad and the rights of the public to the use of their roads or ways conflict, the former must give place to the latter. Tate v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 168 N. C. 523, 84 S. E. 808.

"Negligent Construction" Defined.—By "negligent construction" is meant such an improper construction of the crossing, whether arising from negligence, indifference, or motives of economy, as unnecessarily increases the danger of using the public highway. Raper v. Wilmington, etc., R. Co., 126 N. C. 563, 36 S. E. 115. But the mere fact that a crossing is dangerous does not necessarily impute negligence to the railroad company. Edwards v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 129 N. C. 78, 39 S. E. 730, 731.

Presumption That Crossing Is Safe. — One has the right to assume that a railroad company has discharged its duty to the public by keeping the crossing in safe condition. Tankard v. Railroad R., etc., Co., 117 N. C. 558, 23 S. E. 46.

Indictment.—An indictment charging a railroad company with obstructing a public road by the use of plank at a crossing, is fatally defective if it does not charge the manner of the misuse of the plank, as plank may be used for such a purpose. State v. Roanoke R. etc., Co., 109 N. C. 860, 13 S. E. 719.

It is a fatal variance in an indictment for obstructing a highway at a railroad crossing, to prove that the defendant permitted for some time a dangerous hole to remain in the crossing. State v. Roanoke R., Co., 109 N. C. 860, 13 S. E. 719.

When Injury Might Have Been Caused by Defective Crossing.—Under this section it is error for the trial court to sustain a motion of nonsuit on competent evidence from which the jury could have found that, if defendant's crossing over a neighborhood road had not been negligently left in a dangerous condition, plaintiff would not have been injured by the slipping and falling thereon of the mule upon which he was riding. Goforth v. Southern R. Co., 144 N. C. 569, 57 S. E. 209.

Cited in Bass v. Navigation Co., 111 N. C. 439, 455, 16 S. E. 402; Stone v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 197 N. C. 429, 149 S. E. 399.

§ 3450. Service of notice of defective crossings.—The notice required by the preceding section may be served upon the agent of the offending railroad located nearest to the defective or dangerous crossing about which the notice is given or it may be served upon the section master whose section includes such crossing. Such notice may be served by delivering a copy to such agent or section master, or by letter properly stamped, registered and addressed to either of such persons. (1915, c. 250, s. 1.)

§ 3451. Change in location of highways.—In order to prevent the frequent crossing of such road or ways, or in cases where it may be necessary to occupy the same, the corporation may change the roads and ways so as to avoid such crossing and occupation, and to such points as may be deemed expedient. (Rev., s. 2570; Code, s. 1711; R. C., c. 61, s. 31; 1874-5, c. 83.)

May Change County Road.—A railroad company may make a change in a county road that does not necessarily impair its usefulness. Brinkley v. Sou. R. Co., 135 N. C. 654, 47 S. E. 791.

§ 3452. Damages due to change in location.—For any injury done to the lands of persons by taking them under the preceding section, the value thereof shall be assessed in like manner as is provided for assessing damages to real estate for taking lands under the chapter Eminent Domain. (Rev., s. 2571; Code, s. 1712; R. C., c. 61, s. 32; 1874-5, c. 83.)

§ 3453. Old road not to be impeded until new road is made. — Before any part of an established road or way shall be impeded by any railroad corporation, the new road or way shall be prepared and made equally good with the portion proposed to be discontinued; and then the same shall be deemed a part of the original road or way, and shall be kept up and repaired as before the change. (Rev., s. 2572; Code, s. 1713; R. C., c. 61, s. 33; 1874-5, c. 83.)

§ 3454. Cattle-guards and private crossings; failure to erect and maintain misdemeanor.—Every incorporated company owning, operating or constructing, or which shall hereafter own, operate or construct, or any company which shall hereafter be incorporated and shall own, operate or construct any railroad passing through and over the land of any person now enclosed, or which may hereafter become enclosed, shall, at its own expense, construct and constantly maintain, in good and safe condition, good and sufficient cattle-guards at the points of entrance upon and exit from such enclosed land, and shall also make and keep in constant repair crossings to any plantation road thereupon. Every railroad corporation which shall fail to erect and constantly maintain the cattle-guards and crossings provided for by this section shall be liable to an action for damages to any party aggrieved, and shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and fined in the discretion of the court.

So far as this section relates to cattle-guards, the corporation commission is hereby authorized, directed and empowered to adopt such good and sufficient make of cattle-guard now upon the market as is best suited for turning stock. When such guard is selected, approved and authorized by the commission any company operating in this state which shall procure, install and maintain and keep in good and safe condition on its line of road such guard so selected by the commission shall be deemed and held in all suits, actions or proceedings in all the courts of this state to have complied with the conditions of this section in installing a good and sufficient cattle-guard: Provided, that any railroad company operating in this state may make application to the commission to adopt for its road any particular brand or make of cattle-guard, and if the commission shall approve and authorized the use of such guard, it shall, if kept and maintained in good and sufficient condition at all times by such railroad company, be deemed and held in all actions, suits or proceedings in any court of this state a good and sufficient cattle-guard. (Rev., ss. 2601, 3753; Code, s. 1975; 1883, c. 394, ss. 1, 2, 3; 1915, c. 127.)

See Editor's Note to section 3413.

As to the railroad's duty to provide safe crossings, see section 3449 and notes thereto.

Applies to Town Lot.—This section which requires railroads to construct cattle guards at the point of entrance upon and exit from enclosed lands, applies to a town lot as well as in the county. Shepard v. Suffolk & C. R. Co., 140 N. C. 391, 53 S. E. 137.

Adoption of Stock Law.—The adoption of the stock law does not abrogate this section in a locality. Shepard v. Suffolk & C. R. Co., 140 N. C. 391, 53 S. E. 137.

Joinder of Actions.—Where plaintiff's complaint contained two causes of action, one to recover damages alleged to have been caused by defendant ponding water back on plaintiff's land; the other to recover damages for a breach of duty on the part of defendant in not putting up sufficient cattle-guards as required by this section, this was an improper joinder of causes of action, the first being for injury to property, a tort, while the second arose "upon contract" for the breach of an implied contract to perform a statutory duty. Hodges v. Wilmington, etc., R. Co., 105 N. C. 170, 10 S. E. 917.

Cited in Allen v. Wilmington, etc., R. Co., 102 N. C. 381, 389, 9 S. E. 4. Concurring opinion of J. Avery in Allen v. Wilmington, etc., R. Co., 106 N. C. 515, 526, 11 S. E. 576, 826; Hinkle v. Richmond, etc., R. Co., 109 N. C. 472, 481, 13 S. E. 884; Carter v. Wilmington, etc., R. Co., 126 N. C. 437, 443, 36 S. E. 14.

§ 3455. Change of route of railroad.—The directors of any railroad corporation may by a vote of two-thirds of their whole number at any time alter or change the route, or any part of the route, of their road, if it shall appear to them that the line can be improved thereby, and they shall have the same right and power to acquire title to any lands required for the purposes of the company in such altered or changed route, as if the road had been located therein the first instance; but no such alteration shall be made in any city or town after the road shall have been constructed, unless the same is sanctioned by a vote of two-thirds of the corporate authorities of such city or town. In case of any alteration made in the route of any railroad after the company has commenced grading, compensation shall be made to all persons for injury so done to any lands that may have been donated to the company. When any route or line is abandoned in the exercise of the power herein granted, full compensation shall be made by the company for all money, labor, bonds or material contributed to the construction of the road-bed or its superstructure by those so interested by their contributions in the abandoned route or line. All the provisions of this chapter relative to the first location and to acquiring title to land shall apply to every such new or altered portion of the route. (Rev., s. 2573; Code, s. 1953; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 25; 1889, c. 391; 1893, c. 396, s. 3.)

Authority Necessary to Change Route.—While a railroad company has no power to change its route without legislative authority, it is not necessary that this power should be given in the charter or a direct amendment thereto, but it may be given by charter or by special enactment or by the general railroad laws of the State. Dewey v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 142 N. C. 392, 55 S. E. 292.

Original Rights May Be Retained.—Variations in a route over which a railroad may run, do not affect the identity of a corporate body that builds it, where subsequent acts are amendatory of the original charter and give permission for a deflection from the line first projected; and the right to exemption of property from tax granted in the original charter, is retained unimpaired. Cheraw, etc., R. Co. v. Commissioners, 88 N. C. 519. See notes to section 3459.

When Corporation Commission Orders Change.—This section requiring that a contemplated change in the route of a railroad in a city can only be made when sanctioned by a two-thirds vote of the aldermen, only applies where the railroad of its own volition, and for its own convenience, contemplates a change of route, and not to a case where the Corporation Commission, acting under express legislative authority and direction, require the railroad to make the change for the convenience of the general public. Dewey v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 142 N. C. 392, 55 S. E. 292.

See Editor's Note to section 3413.

Right to Change Grade.—A railroad company has a right to change the grade of its roadbed or to remove it to any point on its right of way. Brinkley v. Sou. R. Co., 135 N. C. 654, 47 S. E. 791.

Cited in North Carolina, etc., R. Co. v. Central. etc., R. Co., 83 N. C. 489, 494.

§ 3456. Forfeiture for failure to begin or complete railroad.—If any railroad corporation shall not within three years after its articles of association are filed and recorded in the office of the secretary of state, or the passage of its charter, begin the construction of its road and expend thereon ten per cent of the amount of its capital, or shall not finish the road and put it in operation in ten years from the time of filing its articles of association or passage of its charter as aforesaid, its corporate existence and powers shall cease. (Rev., s. 2564; Code, s. 1980; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 43; Ex. Sess. 1908, c. 142.)

See annotations under section 3420. As to what constitutes abandonment, see Carolina-Tennessee Power Co. v. Hiawassee Power Co., 175 N. C. 668, 96 S. E. 99; as to the dissolution of corporations generally see section 1182 et seq.

State Must Institute Forfeiture Proceedings.—The failure of a railroad company to organize under an act of incorporation within the two years prescribed, does not prevent a valid organization thereafter, unless forfeiture has been declared in proceedings instituted by the state. Railroad v. Olive, 142 N. C. 257, 55 S. E. 263.

The State alone, acting through the Attorney-General, may institute a proceeding against a railroad company to forfeit its charter under the provisions of this section for failure to begin construction of the railroad and complete the same within the two separate periods therein prescribed. Brummitt v. Snow Hill Ry. Co., 197 N. C. 381, 148 S. E. 444.

Same—Waiver of Forfeiture.—If the legislature knowing the ground of forfeiture deals with the corporation as if it were lawfully existing it thereby waives its right of forfeiture. Attorney-General v. Petersburg, etc., R. Co., 28 N. C. 456.

Where a railroad company has not commenced the construction of its road within three years after its charter has been granted as required by this section, and thereafter by statute the Legislature declares that certain bonds may be issued by a township to aid in the construction of the railroad shall be valid, and the county has acted in recognition of the existence of the corporation, the State by its acquiescence in the delay and by its recognizing the railroad company as an existing corporation has waived its right to insist on a forfeiture. Brummitt v. Snow Hill Ry. Co., 197 N. C. 381, 148 S. E. 444.

Same—Attorney-General Cannot Bring Action.—The attorney-general cannot of his own motion bring an action to vacate the charter of a corporation. Attorney-General v. Railroad, 134 N. C. 481, 46 S. E. 959.

Same—Cannot Be Attacked in Condemnation Proceedings.—The existence of a railroad corporation can not be attacked or questioned in an action brought by it to condemn land for its purposes. Wellington, etc., R. Co. v. Cashie, etc., R. Co., 114 N. C. 690, 19 S. E. 646.

Forfeiture for Failure to Comply with Either of Time Limits.—Construing this section as to the forfeiture of the charter of a railroad company when construction of the proposed road is not commenced within three years or completed and put into operation within ten years after its charter has been granted, to make the two provisions consistent it is held that they are not alternative, and upon the failure of a railroad to comply with either one of the provisions the suit of the Attorney-General will be maintained in the absence of acts or conduct upon the part of the sovereign that amount to a waiver of the default. Brummitt v. Snow Hill Ry. Co., 197 N. C. 381, 148 S. E. 444.

§ 3457. Secretary of state may extend time to begin railroad in certain cases.—In all cases where railroad companies have been chartered by the act of the general assembly or the charter of any railroad company has been amended by act of the general assembly, during or subsequent to the session of one thousand nine hundred and eleven, but where construction work has not begun in accordance with the provisions of preceding section, or having been begun such construction work has not been completed, the secretary of state may in the exercise of his sound discretion, upon application of any such railroad company and the payment to the state of the same fees as provided in section 1218 of the Consolidated Statutes, extend from time to time for periods of two years the time within which to begin or renew construction work as required by the preceding section; and the fact of extending the time by the secretary of state, as herein provided, shall for the period of such extension, fully and to all intents and purposes, renew corporate existence and corporate powers as fully as the same are conferred in the original charter. (1919, c. 19; 1921, c. 184; 1923, c. 245.)

Editor's Note.—In 1921, by Public Laws 1921, ch. 184, this section was amended so as to include railroads whose charters had been amended since 1911. At the same time the provision regarding construction work begun but not completed was added. By Public Laws 1923, ch. 245, the legislature made the granting of any extension of time for beginning, renewing or completing, work on railroads within the state discretionary with the secretary of state, instead of obligatory as heretofore.

§ 3458. Forfeiture for preferences to shippers.—In the event of any contract having been entered into by any railroad company in this state with any person or company, whereby preferences or exclusive rights of transportation, either in priority or in arrangements, are given to such person or company, the attorney-general is hereby instructed to institute proceedings against such railroad company for a forfeiture of its charter. (Rev., s. 2563; Code, s. 1969; 1865-6, resolution ratified December 14, 1865.)

As to actions brought by the attorney-general to forfeit the charters of corporations generally see sections 1187 et seq.

Art. 6. Lease, Sale, and Reorganization

§ 3459. Lessee of noncompeting railroad may acquire its stock; merger of lessor.—Any railroad corporation or its successors, being the lessee of the road of any other noncompeting railroad corporation, may take a surrender or transfer of the capital stock of the stockholders, or any of them, in the corporation whose road is held under lease, and issue in exchange therefor the like additional amount of its own capital stock at par, or on such other terms and conditions as may be agreed upon between the two corporations; and whenever the greater part of the capital stock of any such corporation shall have been so surrendered or transferred, the directors of the corporation taking surrender or transfer shall thereafter, on a resolution electing so to do, to be entered on their minutes, become ex officio the directors of the corporation whose road is so held under lease, and shall manage and conduct the affairs thereof as provided by law; and whenever the whole of such capital stock shall have been so surrendered or transferred, and a certificate thereof filed in the office of the secretary of state under the common seal of the corporation to whom such surrender or transfer shall have been made, the estate, property, rights, privileges and franchises of the corporation whose stock shall have been so surrendered, or transferred shall thereupon vest in and be held and enjoyed by the corporation to whom such surrender or transfer shall have been made, and as fully and entirely, without charge or diminution, as the same were before held and enjoyed, and be managed and controlled by the board of directors of the corporation to whom the surrender or transfer of such stock shall have been made in the corporate name of such corporation. But the property, rights, franchises and profits of every corporation so surrendered, transferred or leased shall hereafter always be liable to taxation, and shall never be exempt therefrom. The rights of any stockholder not so surrendering or transferring his stock shall not be in any way affected thereby, nor shall existing liabilities or the rights of creditors of the corporation where stock shall have been so surrendered or transferred be in any way affected or impaired by this section. (Rev., s. 2574; Code, s. 1994; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 57; Ex. Sess. 1908, c. 119, s. 2.)

Cross Reference.—For an excellent discussion of the right of railroads to lease property and formalities to be complied with, see Hill v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 143 N. C. 539, 55 S. E. 854. See, also, Reid v. Norfolk Sou. R. Co., 162 N. C. 355, 78 S. E. 306; Railroad v. Olive, 142 N. C. 257, 55 S. E. 263; as to sales and leases of railroads generally see 10 Enc. Dig. 692 et seq.; 13 Enc. Dig. 307.

Editor's Note.—The stockholders of the old corporation cannot be compelled to become stockholders of the new corporation without their consent and do not become such until they have actively participated in the transfer by exchanging their old stock for the new.

A railroad corporation has no power to consolidate with another railroad company so as to form a single corporation unless this authority is granted by legislative act. Under this section no consolidation can take place until one corporation holds all of the capital stock of another.

The sentence reserving the right of taxation is a saving clause to prevent the operation of Tennessee v. Whitworth, 117 U. S. 139, 29 L. Ed. 833, which held that all special privileges, including exemption from taxation, of the old corporation were inherited by the new. See notes to section 3455.

When New Corporation Formed.—Where a new corporation is formed out of two existing corporations, these latter ceasing thereafter to exist, the law forming the new corporation governs and controls its corporate functions and rights. Cheraw & Salisbury R. Co. v. Commissioners, 88 N. C. 519.

Legislative Act Authorizing Consolidation.—An act authorizing the consolidation of certain railroad corporations upon a vote of a majority of the stockholders and allowing a stockholder actual value for his stock in lieu of taking stock in the consolidated company, is valid. Spencer v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 137 N. C. 107, 49 S. E. 96.

§ 3460. Lease or merger of competing carrier declared a misdemeanor.—No railroad or other transportation company or its officers, now or hereafter doing business in this state, shall purchase, lease, absorb, take over, buy stock in, merge with or in any way secure an interest in a competing line of railroad or other transportation company, nor shall any railroad or other transportation company or its officers enter into any contract, agreement or understanding with a competing line of railroad or other transportation company calculated to defeat or which may defeat or lessen competition in this state. All such contracts, purchases or sales shall be void. Any violation of this section shall make the corporation or person so offending guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction the offender shall be fined in the discretion of the court. This section shall not prevent railroads independently owned and operated in this state, and not exceeding one hundred miles in length, from selling their roads and property. (Ex. Sess. 1908, c. 119, ss. 2, 3.)

§ 3461. Acquisition of interest in or lease of noncompeting branch or connecting lines.—Any railroad or other transportation company may acquire and hold or guarantee, or endorse the bonds or stocks of, or may lease any railroad or branch railroad, or other transportation line in this or adjoining state connecting with it directly or indirectly. But no railroad or other transportation company or its officers shall acquire, hold or guarantee the bonds or stock of, or lease or be leased to, or purchase or buy or consolidate with or be merged into, any parallel or competing railroad or other transportation company, nor shall any railroad or other transportation company or its officers sell any of its stock or bonds to any holding or voting company or its officers, whereby such consolidation or merger may be effected, and any such purchase, contract, merger or sale shall be void. This provision shall not prevent railroads independently owned and operated in this state, and not exceeding one hundred miles in length, from selling their roads and property. (Rev., s. 2567, subsec. 13; 1885, c. 108, s. 2; 1908, c. 119, ss. 1, 3.)

Lease Beyond Time Granted for Corporate Existence. — Where the term of a lease of property of a railroad company extends beyond the time fixed by its charter for the corporate existence of the lessor, such a lease is valid for the period of the corporate life of the lessor, and will extend beyond that period if the charter is renewed, and the lessor's corporate existence is thereby extended, and by this process it may endure for the full term. Hill v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 143 N. C. 539, 55 S. E. 854.

Lessor Responsible for Torts. — The lessor of a railroad is responsible for the torts committed by the lessee in the operation of the leased road, and in the exercise of its franchise. Mitchell v. Sou. R. Co., 176 N. C. 645, 97 S. E. 628; Hill v. Director-General, 178 N. C. 607, 610, 101 S. E. 376.

Same—Granting New Trial to Lessee Railroad.—When the lessor railroad company is sued jointly with its lessee company for damages caused by the alleged negligence of the lessee, and after verdict the lessor moves for judgment upon the verdict, but makes no motion for a new trial, while the lessee company moves for a new trial, and both motions are refused and both defendants appeal from the judgment rendered against them, the granting a new trial to the lessee is to vacate the judgment as to both defendants. Tillett v. Lynchburg, etc., R. Co., 115 N. C. 662, 663, 20 S. E. 480.

§ 3462. Purchaser at mortgage or execution sale of railroads may incorporate.—Whenever the purchaser of the real estate, track and fixtures of any railroad corporation which has heretofore been sold, or may hereafter be sold, by virtue of any mortgage executed by such corporation or execution issued upon any judgment or decree of any court, shall acquire title to the same in the manner prescribed by law, such purchaser may associate with him any number of persons, and make and acknowledge and file articles of association as prescribed in this chapter, Such purchaser and his associates shall thereupon be a new corporation, with all the powers, privileges and franchises and subject to all of the provisions of this chapter. (Rev., s. 2552; Code, s. 1936; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 5.)

Cross References.—See notes to the succeeding section; as to statutory provisions regarding the original organization see section 3428.

Railroad May Be Sold.—A railroad is the subject of private property, and in that character is liable to be sold, unless the sale be forbidden by the Legislature; not the franchise, but the land itself constituting the road. State v. Rives, 27 N. C. 297.

Corporation Not Dissolved by Sale.—A railroad corporation is not dissolved by the sale of its road. State v. Rives, 27 N. C. 297.

Purchaser Take Rights of Old Company.—On the foreclosure of a mortgage given by a railroad company, the purchaser takes the rights that the company had acquired in relation to its right of way under its charter. Barker v. Sou. R. Co., 137 N. C. 214, 49 S. E. 115.

Cited in Saluda v. Polk County, 207 N. C. 180, 184, 176 S. E. 298.

§ 3463. On dissolution or sale of railroads purchaser becomes a corporation.—When any railroad corporation shall be dissolved, or its property sold and conveyed under any execution, deed of trust, mortgage or other conveyance, the owner or purchaser shall constitute a new corporation upon compliance with law. (Rev., s. 2565; Code, s. 2005.)

See notes to the preceding section.

Corporate Existence Not Extinguished by Sale. — The sale of a railroad under a second mortgage and a conveyance thereunder, subject to the first mortgage upon its franchise and corporate property, did not extinguish the corporate existence of the company nor release it from liability to the public for the manner in which it is operated. James v. Western North Carolina R. Co., 121 N. C. 523, 28 S. E. 537.

Same—When Sale Effects Dissolution.—In order that the sale of the franchise and property of a railroad corporation under mortgage shall have the effect of a dissolution of such corporation another corporation must be provided, to take its place, and assume and discharge the obligations to the public growing out of the grant of the franchise, and until that is done the old corporation continues to exist and when it is done the new corporation will be a domestic corporation. James v. Western North Carolina R. Co., 121 N. C. 523, 28 S. E. 537.

Property Must Be Associated with Franchises.—The property of railroads must be kept in association with their franchises to preserve value; to give credit to such corporations; to secure creditors and keep railroads in operation for the benefit of the public. Bradley v. O. R. & C. Ry. Co., Appx. 119 N. C. 918, 927.

Same—Object.—The legislative purpose, as clearly manifested in this section, is that the property of railroads must be kept in association with their franchises, to preserve value, to give credit to such corporations, to secure creditors, and keep railroads in operation for the benefit of the public, which was the primary object of the legislature in bestowing such corporate franchises. Bradley v. Ohio, etc., Ry. Co., 78 Fed. 387, 393.

Sale under Second Mortgage.—The effect of the sale of a railroad company's franchises and property under a second mortgage, subject to a first mortgage which was assumed by the purchaser, is to place the purchaser in the place of the mortgagor in its relation to the trustee of the first mortgage, with the right to run and operate the road as agent of the mortgagor, but the old corporation was not extinguished, but is still in existence and liable for damages caused by the mal-administration of its agent which liability can be enforced against the property which it allows the purchaser to use. James v. Western North Carolina R. Co., 121 N. C. 523, 28 S. E. 537.

Art. 7. Liability of Railroads for Injuries to Employees

§ 3464. Common carrier defined.—The term "common carrier," as used in this article, shall include the receiver or receivers, or other persons or corporations charged with the duty of the management of the business of a common carrier. (1913, c. 6, s. 5.)

§ 3465. Fellow-servant rule abrogated; defective machinery.—Any servant or employee of any railroad company operating in this state who shall suffer injury to his person, or the personal representative of any such servant or employee who shall have suffered death in the course of his services or employment with such company, by the negligence, carelessness or incompetence of any other servant, employee or agent of the company, or by any defect in the machinery, ways or appliances of the company, shall be entitled to maintain an action against such company. Any contract or agreement, expressed or implied, made by any employee of such company to waive the benefit of this section shall be null and void. (Rev. s. 2646; 1897 (Pr.), c. 56; 1915, c. 256.)

Dig. 759, et seq.; as to a railroad liability for injuries generally see 10 Enc. Dig. 702 et seq.; 13 Enc. Dig. 311 et seq.

As to logging roads and tramroads see § 3470 and notes thereto.

I. EDITOR'S NOTE.

In Hobbs v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 107 N. C. 1, 12 S. E. 124, it was held that a railroad company was not liable for injury to its servants, resulting from the negligence of a fellow servant. In that case the attention of the legislature was called to the fact that many of the states had by legislative enactment abrogated the fellow servant rule in so far as it applied to railroad employees. Thereupon there ensued a strenuous discussion for and against the passage of a similar statute in North Carolina. In 1897 such a statute was passed and its constitutionality sustained in Hancock v. Norfolk, etc., Railway, 124 N. C. 222, 32 S. E. 679. By several decisions of the United States Court similar statutes in other states have been held not to be in violation of the Fourteenth Amendment to the Federal Constitution.

In Mott v. Southern R. Co., 131 N. C. 234, 237, 42 S. E. 601, it was sought to curtail and restrict this section so that it should apply to employees engaged in operating trains, but the court held the contrary and said: "The language of the statute is both comprehensive and explicit. It embraces injuries sustained by 'any servant or employee of any railway company . . . in the course of his services or employment with said company.' The plaintiff was an employee and was injured in the course of his employment."

However to come within the provisions of this section a railroad must be "operating" and not "under construction."

The succeeding section was passed after congress had passed a similar statute applicable to employees engaged in interstate commerce. It is not as broad as this section for it applies only to common carriers by railroad. See Editor's Note under that section.

The act applies only to employees who are engaged in duties connected with or incidental to the operation of railroads, logging roads or tramroads. Gurganous v. Camp Mfg. Co., 204 N. C. 525, 168 S. E. 833.

II. FELLOW-SERVANT RULE.

See Editor's Note under the succeeding section.

Abrogation of Fellow-Servant Rule.—This section is an unconditional abrogation of the kindred doctrines of Fellow Servant and Assumption of Risk as applied to railroad companies. Coley v. North Carolina R. Co., 129 N. C. 407, 409, 40 S. E. 195.

Rule Abrogated Only as to Railroads.—The law relating to the doctrine of fellow-servants has been only modified in regard to its application to those employed by railroad companies operating in this state. Robinson v. Ivey & Co., 193 N. C. 805, 138 S. E. 173.

Applies to Any Department of Railroad.—The provisions of this section apply to an injury negligently inflicted by a fellow-servant in any department of a railroad being operated. Buckner v. Madison County R. Co., 164 N. C. 201, 80 S. E. 225.

Applies to Street Railways.—This section applies to street railways. Brookshire v. Asheville Elect. Co., 152 N. C. 669, 68 S. E. 215; Hemphill v. Buck Creek Lumber Co., 141 N. C. 487, 54 S. E. 420.

Applicable to Logging Roads.—See section 3470 and notes thereto.

This section has been held to apply to logging roads. Moore v. Rawls, 196 N. C. 125, 144 S. E. 552.

Applies to Manufacturing Company Operating Spur Track.—This section applies to a manufacturing corporation which owns and operates a spur track on its grounds as incidental to its main business, with respect to servants employed in such service. United States Leather Co. v. Howell, 151 Fed. 444; Hairston v. United States Leather Co., 143 N. C. 512, 55 S. E. 847.

Does Not Apply to Railroad under Construction. — This section does not apply to an employee engaged in building a trestle for the extension of a railroad, at a point some miles from the track on which trains are being operated. Nicholson v. Railroad, 138 N. C. 516, 51 S. E. 40; Bailey v. Meadows Co., 152 N. C. 603, 68 S. E. 11.

Kind of Employment. — The provisions of this section applying to railroads do not require that the servant, at the time of the injury, should be engaged in the running or operation of a train, but applies to any other kind of service, whether more or less dangerous. Mincey v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 161 N. C. 467, 77 S. E. 673.

Applies to All Employees.—This section operates on all employees of the company, whether in superior, equal, or subordinate positions. Fitzgerald v. Southern R. Co., 141 N. C. 530, 54 S. E. 391; Bloxham v. Stave etc. Corp., 172 N. C. 37, 89 S. E. 1013.

Section Read into Contract.—Where a contract of service with the defendant railroad was made in this State, the provisions of this section must be read into the contract, and there being no evidence that the service was to be performed altogether in another State, it would seem that the relative rights and liabilities of the parties are fixed by the terms of the contract. Miller v. Railroad, 141 N. C. 45, 53 S. E. 726.

Injury When Duty Delegated to Another.—Where a railroad company delegated its duty of loading a car to a lumber company making a shipment, it is liable for any injury to its own employee caused by negligence of the employees of the lumber company in loading the car. Britt v. Carolina, etc., R. Co., 144 N. C. 242, 56 S. E. 910.

Injury in Loading Logs—Where a tram railroad is engaged in loading logs and a fellow-servant of the plaintiff engaged in the scope of his employment in loading the logs, negligently caused one of the logs to drop upon the plaintiff and injure him the defendant is liable in damages for the negligent injury proximately caused. Lilley v. Interstate Cooperage Co., 194 N. C. 250.

Injury by Falling Tree.—This section applies where an employee was injured by a tree falling upon him as he was riding on the car of defendant's logging road in the performance of his duties, a change of wind having deflected the tree from its expected course, so that it struck the tops of smaller trees and thence fell upon the plaintiff, the engineer should reasonably have seen the danger in time for him to have stopped the train and avoided the injury, after the course of the falling tree had been unexpectedly deflected. Bloxham v. Stave, etc., Corp., 172 N. C. 37, 89 S. E. 1013.

Defective Ladder.—Where two employees of a railroad company were instructed to do certain work, requiring the use of a ladder, and a discarded ladder, which proves defective, is selected from several supplied by the company, the others being sound, and one of the employees sustains a fall because of the defect and sues for damages therefor, this section applies. Mincey v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 161 N. C. 467, 77 S. E. 673.

Flagman at Crossing.—Where the plaintiff was employed by a railroad to warn pedestrians of approaching trains at a public crossing, and by signalling to the engineer, and the plaintiff was injured by the defendant's negligence when he had crossed the platform on this train and was on the lowest step of the car for the performance of his duty on the other side, the evidence is sufficient upon the question of employment to sustain a verdict in plaintiff's favor. West v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 174 N. C. 125, 93 S. E. 479.

Engineer Injured by Assistant's Negligence.—It was the duty of a railroad company to furnish its engineer, a competent person to assist him in fixing his locomotive, when such assistance is necessary from the character of the work being done; and the defendant is liable in damages when the assistant fails to exercise ordinary care to prevent an injury, such failure being the proximate cause of the injury. Horton v. Seaboard Air Line Railway, 145 N. C. 132, 58 S. E. 993.

Death by Fellow-Servant's Pistol. — Where a baggage agent of a railroad company, in the course of his employment in getting some baggage checks from a drawer to a desk in the baggage room, removes a pistol which he knew to be loaded, takes it in his hand, and in a careless manner opens another drawer to the desk, and in doing so causes the pistol to fire, and kills his assistant, his negligent acts are attributable to the company employing him. Moore v. Southern R. Co., 165 N. C. 439, 81 S. E. 603.

Catching Hand between Cross-Tie and Rail.—Where the plaintiff was employed by a railroad to replace the cross-ties under the rails of the road, while a tie was being depressed into position by his fellow servant his hand was caught between the end of the tie and the rail and injured; that the plaintiff had no explanation to make of the occurrence, except "he had his hand on the tie to bear it down, and it went over and the end flew up and caught his hand." The injury was the result of an accident in doing work of a simple nature, and a recovery should have been denied as a matter of law. Lloyd v. Southern R. Co., 168 N. C. 646, 85 S. E. 10.

Contracts Exempting Railroad from Liability. — Contracts attempting to exempt a railroad from liability under this section are void. See section 3469 and notes thereto.

III. ASSUMPTION OF RISK.

As to the assumption of risk generally see 9 Enc. Dig. 77 et seq.; 14 Enc. Dig. 775 et seq.

Editor's Note.—After the passage of a similar Federal Statute applying to employees engaged in interstate commerce this legislature enacted section 3468. It is not as broad as this section for it applies only to common carriers.

General Considerations. — The doctrine of assumption of risk is that an employee assumes the risk of accidents and injuries incident to the business properly operated. He does not assume the risk caused by the negligence of the company, in not furnishing proper appliances or in any other respect. Horton v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 175 N. C. 472, 474, 95 S. E. 883.

The employee assumes no risk in the proper use of defective appliance after notifying the employer thereof, who promises to remedy the defect; but he must use them with proper regard to their known condition, and, failing in this, he would be guilty of contributory negligence, which would bar his recovery. Britt v. Carolina, etc., R. Co., 144 N. C. 242, 56 S. E. 910.

It is not the mere working in the presence of an obvious defect in an appliance furnished by the master that will constitute contributory negligence on the part of the servant; and assurances on the part of the former that needed repairs will be made will frequently relieve the latter of this charge, which might otherwise bar his recovery of damages for an injury thereby sustained by him. Bissell v. Greenleaf-Johnson Lumber Co., 152 N. C. 123, 67 S. E. 259.

Defense of Assumption of Risk Eliminated.—In an action for negligence against a railroad company operating in this state, the defense of working on in the presence of a defective appliance or machine, usually dealt with under the head of assumption of risk, has been eliminated by this section; but if, apart from the element of assumption of risk, the plaintiff in his own conduct has been careless in a manner which amounts to contributory negligence, his action fails, except in extraordinary cases. Biles v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 143 N. C. 78, 55 S. E. 512.

Under the construction of this section assumption of risk is not available. Moore v. Rawls, 195 N. C. 125, 128, 144 S. E. 552.

Duty to Furnish Safe Tools.—It is the master's duty to furnish the servant such tools as are reasonably safe and suitable for the work in which he is engaged, and in general use. Eplee v. Southern R. Co., 155 N. C. 293, 71 S. E. 325; Bissell v. Greenleaf Johnson Lumber Co., 152 N. C. 123, 67 S. E. 259. If he fails to do so he exposes the servant to extraordinary risks. Moore v. Railroad, 141 N. C. 111, 53 S. E. 745.

Same—Acquiescence in Use.—The master's acquiescence in the use of an appliance for some purpose other than that for which it was intended puts him in the same position as if the appliance had been originally furnished for that purpose. Wallace v. Railroad, 141 N. C. 646, 54 S. E. 399.

Obviously Defective Machinery. — The use of machinery obviously defective will not prevent a person from a recovery for an injury resulting therefrom, unless the apparent danger is so great that its assumption would amount to a reckless indifference of probable consequences. Coley v. North Carolina R. Co., 129 N. C. 407, 40 S. E. 195.

When Plaintiff Causes Own Injury. — When under instructions from his superior officer the plaintiff, in repairing a piece of machinery, with knowledge of its defects, negligently caused as injury to himself in such manner as it was his duty in repairing to prevent, he cannot recover, and this section has no application. Mathis v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 144 N. C. 162, 56 S. E. 864.

Liability Not Affected by Act of Shipper.—The duty of the railroad company to have a crosspiece used to keep steady lumber on flat cars, secured in a reasonably safe manner for the use to which its servants customarily put it is not affected by the fact that the shipper puts it on in loading the car. Wallace v. Railroad, 141 N. C. 646, 54 S. E. 399.

Question for Jury. — Where the employee of a railroad company, in intrastate commerce, was ruptured while handling heavy baggage at the station by the unaided use of his personal strength, when the company had promised to furnish him a truck proper for the service, the use of which would have avoided the injury, it is for the jury to determine whether the defendant was negligent in failing to supply the truck, or whether the plaintiff assumed the risk in attempting to lift the trunk. Hines v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 185 N. C. 72, 116 S. E. 175; see also, Horton v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 175 N. C. 472, 95 S. E. 883; Wallace v. Tallahassee Power Co., 176 N. C. 558, 97 S. E. 611.

Failure to Equip Car with Automatic Couplers. — Where the jury found that the plaintiff was injured by the negligence of the defendant in failing to have its cars equipped with automatic couplers, the only defense open to the defendant, in the absence of any evidence of recklessness, was whether plaintiff was injured in the course of his service and employment. Hairston v. United States Leather Co., 143 N. C. 512, 55 S. E. 847.

Defective Coupler.—In an action for an injury alleged to have been sustained from a defective coupler the use of a defective coupler was a violation of a positive duty, and in connection with an express order of the superintendent to make the coupling was continuing negligence, and the causa causans of the injury. Liles v. Fosburg Lumber Co., 142 N. C. 39, 54 S. E. 795; Sears v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 169 N. C. 446, 86 S. E. 176.

Engine without Handhold Along Pilot Beam.—Where the plaintiff's evidence shows that he was at the time of the injury at the usual position provided for the purpose on the pilot of the engine by order of his superiors and in the necessary performance of his duties, and that he was thrown and injured because the engine did not have the usual handhold along the pilot beam and that he did not know it was lacking when he got on, and was guilty of no carelessness, his right of action is established. Biles v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 143 N. C. 78, 55 S. E. 512.

Exposed Screw or Power Drill.—A power drill furnished by the master to the servant for boring holes in iron plates, leaving an exposed set-screw thereon dangerous in operating the drill and which are usually covered or countersunk, is not a proper tool for the purpose, and the master is liable in damages proximately caused by the defect. Eplee v. Southern R. Co., 155 N. C. 293, 71 S. E. 325.

Improper Ladder—Where it is the custom of a railroad company to furnish ladders to its painters and one of them so employed had not been furnished with a proper ladder, but with an ordinary ladder that extended beyond the steep roof of the building upon which he was at work and the ladder fell over and struck the plaintiff, causing him to fall and the injury would not have occured if a proper ladder or appliance had been furnished the evidence was sufficient to take the case to the jury upon the issue of the defendant's actionable negligence. Jones v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 194 N. C. 227, 139 S. E. 242.

Defective Handcar.—Where plaintiff was injured in consequence of using a defective hand car which he had theretofore repeatedly reported to his employer as defective, and had been promised another, the railroad is liable. Boney v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 145 N. C. 248, 58 S. E. 1082.

Evidence.—Direct evidence of negligence is not required, but the same may be inferred from acts and attendant circumstances, and if the facts proved established the more reasonable probability that the defendant has been guilty of actionable negligence, the case cannot be withdrawn from the jury, though the possibility of accident may arise on the evidence. Fitzgerald v. Southern R. Co., 141 N. C. 530, 54 S. E. 391.

Cited in Stewart v. Black Wood Lumber Co., 193 N. C. 138, 140, 136 S. E. 385; Stamey v. Suncrest Lumber Co., 197 N. C. 391, 393, 148 S. E. 436; Hawkins v. Rowland Lumber Co., 198 N. C. 475, 476, 152 S. E. 169.

See notes to section 3465.

Editor's Note.—This section applies only to employees engaged exclusively in intrastate commerce. There is a federal statute similar in its provisions which applies to employees engaged in interstate commerce. See Barnes Federal Code, sec. 8069. Rights accruing under the latter statute may be enforced in the state courts as well as the federal courts.

There is a distinction between the state and federal statute as to the basis of the damage assessed. Under the State statute the damages are based upon the present worth of the net pecuniary value of the life of the deceased. Ward v. North Carolina R. Co., 161 N. C. 179, 186, 176 S. E. 717. Under the United States statute the damages are based upon the pecuniary loss sustained by the beneficiary. North Carolina R. Co. v. Zachary, 232 U. S. 248, 34 S. Ct. 305.

There is also a distinction as to the beneficiary. Under the State statute the jury assesses the value of the life of the decedent in solido, which is disbursed under the statute of distributions. Under the United States statute, the jury must find as to each plaintiff what pecuniary benefit each plaintiff had reasons to expect from the continued life of the deceased, and the recovery must be limited to compensation of those relatives in the proper class who are shown to have sustained such pecuniary loss. The personal representatives sue for the benefit of the next of kin. See Horton v. Sea Board Air Line R. Co., 175 N. C. 472, 477, 95 S. E. 883.

The difference between section 3465 and this section is very marked. The former applies to all railroads, while this section applies only to a common carrier by railroad. See Williams v. Kinston Mfg. Co., 175 N. C. 226, 227, 95 S. E. 366.

Under section 160 of this Code none of the amount recovered in action for death by wrongful act belongs to the estate of the deceased and none of it is liable for the payment of his debts.

"Common Carrier" Defined.—A common carrier is one who, by virtue of his calling, undertakes for compensation to transfer personal property from one place to another for all persons as choose to employ him. Williams v. Kinston Mfg. Co., 175 N. C. 226, 227, 95 S. E. 366.

Statute Applicable.—The federal and state courts have concurrent jurisdiction and the question of which statute will apply depends upon whether or not the employee was engaged in interstate commerce. West v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 174 N. C. 125, 93 S. E. 479; Renn v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 170 N. C. 128, 86 S. E. 964. See also Capps v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 178 N. C. 558, 101 S. E. 216.

When Interstate Question Immaterial. — In an action brought by a switchman of the defendant's train crew to recover damages for alleged negligence of the defendant in providing an improper coupler on a train made up and ready to start for a destination beyond the State, the question whether the train was an interstate one, or the plaintiff was at the time engaged in interstate commerce, is not material, since the enactment of this section which, in this respect, is substantially identical with the Federal statute. Sears v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 169 N. C. 446, 86 S. E. 176.

As to the time within which the action must be brought, under the federal act, see Belch v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 176 N. C. 22, 96 S. E. 640; King v. Norfolk-Southern R. Co., 176 N. C. 301, 97 S. E. 29.

Effect of Nonsuit in Action under Federal Act.—A judgment as of nonsuit upon the merits of an action brought by the administratrix of an injured employee of a railroad company under the Federal Employers' Liability Act will not operate as a bar to the same cause brought under the laws of this State, §§ 3466, 3467, the law and facts applicable to the first not being identical with those applicable to the second. Fuquay v. A. & W. Ry. Co., 199 N. C. 499, 155 S. E. 167.

Cited in Stamey v. Suncrest Lumber Co., 197 N. C. 391, 393, 148 S. E. 436.

§ 3467. Contributory negligence no bar, but mitigates damages.—In all actions hereafter brought against any common carrier by railroad to recover damages for personal injury to an employee, or where such injuries have resulted in his death, the fact that the employee may have been guilty of contributory negligence shall not bar a recovery, but the damages shall be diminished by the jury in proportion to the amount of negligence attributable to such employee: Provided, however, that no such employee who may be injured or killed shall be held to have been guilty of contributory negligence in any case where the violation by such common carrier of any statute enacted for the safety of employees contributed to the injury or death of such employee. (1913, c. 6, s. 2.)

As to contributory negligence generally see 9 Enc. Dig. 88 et seq.; 14 Enc. Dig. 77 et seq. See notes under §§ 567, 3470.

See 13 N. C. Law Rev., 256.

Editor's Note.—The provisions of this section apply only to employees engaged exclusively in intrastate commerce. There is a similar federal statute which applies to employees engaged in interstate commerce. See Barnes Federal Code, section 8071. See also, the Editor's Note under the preceding section.

In an action brought in a court of common law there could be no recovery for negligence by a plaintiff whose default contributed to the injury. The common law rule was that there could be no recovery for injuries where it appeared that the person injured was guilty of contributory negligence, or, in other words, where the injury was the result of the united, mutual, concurring and contemporaneous negligence of the parties to the tranaction. This section abolishes the common law rule and substitutes the doctrine of comparative negligence, reducing the damage but not barring the action.

There is a vital difference between contributory negligence and assumption of risk, which is thus stated, 1 Labatt on Master and Servant, secs. 305 and 306, as follows: "Assumed risk is founded upon the knowledge of the employee, either actual or constructive, of the risks to be encountered, and his consent to take the chance of injury therefrom. Contributory negligence implies misconduct, the doing of an imprudent act by the injured party, or his dereliction in failing to take proper precaution for his personal safety. The doctrine of assumed risk is founded upon contract, while contributory negligence is solely matter of conduct." This distinction has often been approved by the United States Supreme Court in cases under the Employers' Liability Act. Seaboard Air Line Railway v. Horton, 233 U. S. 492. 58 L. Ed. 1062, 34 S. Ct. 635; Yazoo, etc., R. Co. v. Wright, 235 U. S. 376, 59 L. Ed. 277, 35 S. Ct. 130.

In General.—The doctrine of comparative negligence is only recognized by our courts in instances coming within the meaning of the Federal Employers' Liability Act, and this section, and then only for the purpose of mitigating the damages or as a partial defense. Moore v. Chicago Bridge, etc., Works, 183 N. C. 438, 111 S. E. 776.

Contributory Negligence Question for Jury.—Under this section, the plaintiff is entitled to have his cause submitted to the jury, for, as herein provided, contributory negligence is no longer a bar to an action by an employee against the railroad for injuries sustained during his employment and the assumption of risk were for the jury, the burden of proof being upon the defendant. Hines v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 185 N. C. 72, 75, 116 S. E. 175.

In Hines v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 185 N. C. 72, at p. 75, 116 S. E. 175, it is said: "Assumption of risk is also a matter of defense analogous to contributory negligence to be passed upon by the jury who are to say whether the employee voluntarily assumed the risk; it is not enough to show merely that he worked on, knowing the danger. Lloyd v. Hanes, 126 N. C. 359; the numerous cases cited thereto in the Anno. Ed.; C. S., 3468." West v. Fontana Mining Corporation, 198 N. C. 150, 155, 150 S. E. 884.

When Jury Fails to Allow for Contributory Negligence.—Where the plaintiff's complaint demands damages in a certain amount in his action involving the issues of negligence and contributory negligence, and the application of the rule of comparative negligence under the provisions of this section the fact that the jury has rendered a verdict for damages to the full amount demanded in the complaint under a proper instruction does not alone show that the jury had failed to follow the rule of damages prescribed in such instances, and the verdict will not on that ground be disturbed on appeal. Brooks v. Suncrest Lumber Co., 194 N. C. 141, 138 S. E. 532.

Effect of Intent.—The plaintiff's contributory negligence will not bar his recovery of damages in his action when the defendant has inflicted the injury with either actual or constructive intent, but it is otherwise if it is admitted that he had not this intent, and his contributory negligence will bar his recovery. Ballew v. Askeville, etc., R. Co., 186 N. C. 704, 120 S. E. 334.

Evidence Raising Issue for Jury.—In an action for a deceased employee's negligent death, the fact that it was caused by a head-on collision on defendant railroad company's trestle, in broad daylight, with another of its cars, is some evidence that the defendant's negligence proximately caused the employee's death, and, raises the issue for the determination of the jury though the intestate might have been guilty of contributory negligence. Hinnant v. Tidewater Power Co., 187 N. C. 288, 121 S. E. 540.

The section applies only to employees who are engaged in duties connected with or incidental to the operation of railroads, logging roads or tramroads. Gurganous v. Camp Mfg. Co., 204 N. C. 525, 168 S. E. 833.

Negligence in Obtaining Improper Ladder.—The failure of a railroad company to furnish an employee engaged in the scope of his employment in painting a station house, a proper ladder or appliance which caused the injury in suit comes within the provisions of this section, and the contributory negligence of the plaintiff is not a complete bar to his recovery, but only to be considered by the jury in diminution of the damages. Jones v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 194 N. C. 227, 139 S. E. 242.

Motion to Nonsuit.—Where plaintiff, while performing his duty coupled a car attached to defendant's locomotive, while not in motion, and the injury was caused by the sudden movement of the locomotive by the engineer, without a signal from the plaintiff, contrary to practice, though there was evidence of contributory negligence, its establishment would not be complete defense, under this section, and upon a motion to nonsuit, evidence that the engineer properly acted on the signal of another employee will not be considered. Lamm v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 183 N. C. 74, 110 S. E. 659

Logging Roads and Tramroads.—See § 3470 and notes thereto.

Federal Statute.—The rule under the federal statute is substantially the same as that prescribed by this section. Contributory negligence is not a complete bar to the recovery of damages by an employee of a railroad company caused by the latter in interstate commerce, in an action brought under the Federal Employers' Liability Act, the admeasurement being that of comparative negligence by which the jury, under conflicting evidence, reduces the recovery in accordance with the relative negligence of the employee. Cobia v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 188 N. C. 487, 125 S. E. 18; Hinnant v. Tidewater Power Co., 187 N. C. 288, 121 S. E. 540; Ballew v. Asheville, etc., R. Co., 186 N. C. 704, 120 S. E. 334; Moore v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 185 N. C. 189, 116 S. E. 409.

Applied in Byers v. Boice Hardwood Co., 201 N. C. 75, 159 S. E. 3; Bateman v. Brooks, 204 S. C. 176, 167 S. E. 627.

Cited in Ingle v. Southern R. Co., 167 N. C. 636, 83 S. E. 744; Stamey v. Suncrest Lumber Co., 197 N. C. 391, 393, 148 S. E. 436; Hawkins v. Rowland Lumber Co., 198 N. C. 475, 476, 152 S. E. 169.

§ 3468. Assumption of risk as defense.—In any action brought against any common carrier under or by virtue of any of the provisions of this article to recover damages for injuries to, or the death of, any of its employees, such employee shall not be held to have assumed the risk of his employment in any case where the violation by such common carrier of any statute enacted for the safety of employees contributed to the injury or death of such employee, or the death or injury was caused by negligence. (1913, c. 6, s. 3.)

Editor's Note.—Section 3465 is an earlier section similar in its import. It applies to all railroads in North Carolina while this section applies only to common carriers. See note to that section. As to the assumption of risk generally see 9 Enc. Dig. 77 et seq.; 14 Enc. Dig. 775 et seq.; as to the distinction between assumption of risk and contributory negligence see the Editor's Note under the preceding section.

Cited in Ingle v. Southern R. Co., 167 N. C. 636, 83 S. E. 744; Stamey v. Suncrest Lumber Co., 197 N. C. 391, 393, 148 S. E. 436.

§ 3469. Contracts and rules exempting from liability void; set-off.—Any contract, rule, regulation or device whatsoever, the purpose and intent of which shall be to enable any common carrier by railroad to exempt itself from any liability created by this article, shall to that extent be void: Provided, that in any action brought against such common carrier, under and by virtue of any of the provisions of this article, such common carrier may set off therein any sum it has contributed or paid to any insurance or relief benefit, or indemnity that may have been paid to the injured employee, or the person entitled thereto, on account of the injury or death for which such action was brought. (1913, c. 6, s. 4.)

See notes to section 3465.

Accepting Benefit from Relief Department.—A relief department of a railroad for providing hospitals for employees contributed to by the employees and the company under the control and management of the company, it but an agency of the company; and a stipulation in the contract with its employee that in the case of accident he must accept the benefit of the contract and release the company from liability, is prohibited by the provisions of this section. Borden v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 152 N. C. 318, 67 S. E. 971; Herring v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 168 N. C. 555, 84 S. E. 863.

§ 3470. Provisions of this article applicable to logging roads and tramroads.—The provisions in this article relating to liability for damages shall also apply to logging roads and tramroads. (1919, c. 275.)

See note under § 567.

Editor's Note.—Before the enactment of this section provisions of section 3465 were held, by judicial construction, to apply to logging roads and tramroads. See Roberson v. Greenleaf-Johnson Lumber Co., 154 N. C. 328, 70 S. E. 630; Buckner v. Madison County R. Co., 164 N. C. 201, 80 S. E. 225.

However, in Williams v. Kenston Mfg. Co., 175 N. C. 226, 95 S. E. 366. (decided in 1918) it was held that a logging road was not a common carrier within the meaning of section 3467 and that the doctrine of comparative negligence was not applicable to actions for injuries sustained by employees of such roads. This decision seems to have engendered the legislative enactment enunciated by this section which was passed in 1919.

In a recent decision, Lilley v. Interstate Cooperage Co., 194 N. C. 250, the rule of the section, as to tram railroads, applied, and it is held that section 3467 is operative as to such railroads.

The provisions of §§ 3467, 3465, are applicable to tram or logging roads under the provisions of this section. Sampson v. Jackson Bros. Co., 203 N. C. 413, 166 S. E. 181.

The employee must be engaged in duties connected with or incidental to the operation of such roads. Gurganous v. Camp Mfg. Co., 204 N. C. 525, 168 S. E. 833.

Comparative Negligence Rule Applies.—Under this section contributory negligence is no longer a bar to injuries received in the operation of a logging road, but such negligence mitigates damages. In other words, comparative negligence is now, under the law, applicable to logging roads. Moore v. Rawls, 196 N. C. 125, 129, 144 S. E. 552, citing McKinish v. Lumber Co., 191 N. C. 836, 133 S. E. 163.

Narrow-Gauge Logging Road. — A small narrow-gauge road running through the woods and used for the purpose only of transporting logs to the defendant's sawmill, with the cars loaded with logs pulled up a grade by means of a steam skidder, the wire cables operating around a drum upon the skidder, is logging road within the intent and meaning of this section and an employee negligently injured by such company is not barred of his right to recover damages when caused by a fellow-servant; and contributory negligence is only considered in determination of the amount of damages the injured employee has sustained. Stewart v. Blackwood Lumber Co., 193 N. C. 138, 136 S. E. 385; Brooks v. Suncrest Lumber Co., 194 N. C. 141, 138 S. E. 532.

Applied in Bateman v. Brooks, 204 N. C. 176, 167 S. E. 627.

Cited in Hawkins v. Rowland Lumber Co., 198 N. C. 475, 476, 152 S. E. 169; Stamey v. Suncrest Lumber Co., 197 N. C. 391, 393, 148 S. E. 436.

Art. 8. Construction and Operation of Railroads

§ 3471. Map of route to be served with summons for condemnation.—Whenever it shall become necessary to condemn any land for the purposes of a railroad, at the time that the summons for such condemnation is served there shall also be served by the railroad company a map showing how the line of the road is located on the land sought to be condemned, and a profile showing the depth of the cuts and the height of the embankments on the land so sought to be condemned, and at what points on such land such cuts and embankments are located. This section shall not apply to street railways. (Rev., s. 2599; Code, s. 1952; 1893, c. 396, s. 2; 1901, c. 6, s. 3; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 24.)

Section Mandatory. — These conditions must be complied with before any company can construct any part of its road. Durham, etc., R. Co. v. Richmond, etc., R. Co., 106 N. C. 16, 23, 10 S. E. 1041.

Same—Defect May Be Cured by Amendment.—The failure to serve a map and profile with the summons in condemnation proceedings as required this section may be cured by amendment. State v. Wells, 142 N. C. 590, 55 S. E. 210.

§ 3472. Map of railroad to be made and filed.—Every railroad corporation shall, within a reasonable time after its road shall be constructed, cause to be made a map and profile thereof, and of the land taken or obtained for the use thereof, and shall file the same in the office of the corporation commission. Every such map shall be drawn on a scale and on paper to be designated by the corporation commission, and shall be certified and signed by the president or engineer of such corporation. (Rev., s. 2600; Code, s. 1977; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 41.)

Purpose of Section.—By this section railroad corporations are required, within a reasonable time after their road is constructed, to file a map and profile of their route and of land condemned for its use with the Corporation Commission. But this is for the information of that body and is not required as a part of a correct and completed location. Fayetteville Street Railway v. Railroad, 142 N. C. 423, 55 S. E. 345.

Survey Unnecessary When Old Road-Bed Adopted. — Where the line of a railroad is clearly defined by the existence of an old road-bed which is entered on and staked out by the agents of the company, and the route so marked is approved and adopted by the directors as its permanent location, in such case a survey by engineers is not essential. Fayetteville Street Railway v. Railroad, 142 N. C. 423, 55 S. E. 345.

Profile Must Show Fills and Cuts.—The profile required to be filed must show whether there will be any "fills" or "cuts" on the land sought to be condemned. Kinston, etc., R. Co. v. Stroud, 132 N. C. 413, 43 S. E. 913.

Railroad Completed before Section Passed. — Where the railroad was completed through the locus in quo prior to the passage of this section, it was not necessary to the validity of the location that a map of the route should be filed. Purifoy v. Richmond, etc., R. Co., 108 N. C. 100, 12 S. E. 741.

§ 3473. Joint construction by railroads having same location.—Whenever two railroad companies shall, for a portion of their respective lines, embrace the same location of line, they made by agreement provide for the construction of so much of said line as is common to both of them, by one of the companies, and for the manner and terms upon which the business thereon shall be performed. Upon the making of such an agreement, the company that is not to construct the part of the line which is common to both may reduce its capital to a sum of not less than five thousand dollars for each mile of the road proposed to be construed. (Rev., s. 2602; Code, s. 1983; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 46.)

§ 3474. Construction of part of line in another state.—Whenever after due examination it shall be ascertained by the directors of any railroad company that a part of the line of railroad proposed to be made between any two points in this state ought to be located and constructed in an adjoining state, it may be so located and constructed by a vote of two-thirds of all the directors. The sections of such railroad within this state shall be considered a connected line, and the directors may reduce the capital specified to such amount as may be deemed proper, but not less than the amount required by law for the number of miles of railroad to be actually constructed in this state. (Rev., s. 2603; Code, s. 1984; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 47.)

§ 3475. Carriage must be according to public schedule.—Every railroad corporation shall start and run their cars for the transportation of passengers and property at regular times to be fixed by public notice, and shall furnish sufficient accommodation for the transportation of all such passengers and property as shall, within a reasonable time previous thereto, be offered for transportation at the place of starting and the junction of other railroads and at usual stopping places established for receiving and discharging way passengers and freights for that train, and shall take, transport and discharge such passengers and property at, from and to such places, on the due payment of the freight or fare legally authorized therefor, and shall be liable to the party aggrieved, in an action for damages, for any neglect or refusal in the premises. (Rev., s. 2611; Code, s. 1963; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 35.)

Editor's Note.—Railroads are great public service corporations and are public agents in the sense that they are created for the purpose of transporting goods and passengers. In accepting the grant of rights and franchises from the state the railroad corporation impliedly assumes the duties of a common carrier. Because their functions are public they have no right to choose their passengers and customers but must under substantially similar conditions treat all those who seek transportation alike. This is a common law duty and is only reaffirmed in this section. It applies alike to individuals, receivers and trustees.

The carrier is not bound to accept every person as a passenger. It may make reasonable rules and regulations and require those who would become passengers to conform to such rules. Prima facie every person is entitled to be carried as a passenger but a railroad company may refuse to accept a person by showing that because of his condition or conduct, or even because of his character he is not a fit person to enter the train with other persons. See Elliott on Railroads, sections 1577 et seq.

Similarly, a railroad company is not bound to accept all freight that is offered it for transportation. It is only a common carrier as to those goods which are of the kind usually or professedly carried. Goods may properly be refused which are dangerous or which are in an unfit condition for transportation. See Elliott on Railroads, sec. 1466.

Reaffirmance of Common Law Rule.—The requirement to furnish accommodations within a reasonable time is but a reaffirmance of the common law (leaving the courts to say what time was reasonable). Alsop v. Southern Exp. Co., 104 N. C. 278, 285, 10 S. E. 297.

Duty to Provide Transportation.—It is the duty of a common carrier to provide sufficient means of transportation for all freight and passengers which its business naturally brings to it, and an unusual occasion by which a greater demand upon it is temporarily made will not relieve it of the obligation if, by the use of reasonable foresight, it could have been provided for. Purcell v. Richmond, etc., R. Co., 108 N. C. 414, 12 S. E. 954, 956.

When Contract of Carriage Begins. — The contract of carriage by a common carrier begins when a passenger comes upon the carrier's premises or conveyance with the purpose of buying a ticket, within a reasonable time or after having purchased a ticket; and the relation, once constituted, continues until the journey contracted for is concluded and the passenger has left or has had reasonable time to leave such premises. Hansley v. Jamesville, etc., R. Co., 115 N. C. 602, 20 S. E. 528.

Trains Need Not Stop at All Stations.—It is a reasonable regulation of the defendant that certain trains shall not stop at all stations, provided there are enough to serve the purposes of local travel. Hutchinson v. Railroad, 140 N. C. 123, 52 S. E. 263.

Schedule Is Offer.—Under this section, the printed schedule of trains is an offer, which is accepted by a person when he asks for a ticket, and he has the right to be transported by the first train stopping at his destination. Coleman v. Southern R. Co., 138 N. C. 351, 50 S. E. 690.

Passenger on Baggage Car. — A person who gets on a blind baggage car, though having a ticket, but not having told the conductor that he had it, and the conductor not having seen it, is not entitled to recover as a passenger for injuries received by being pulled off the train by the conductor. McGraw v. Southern R. Co., 135 N. C. 264, 47 S. E. 758.

Ticket Not Good on Particular Train. — It is the duty of the defendant to have an agent at the gate to examine the tickets and allow no one to get upon a train which does not stop at his destination. Not having done this, but having received the plaintiff into the train, without objection, with a ticket calling for a regular station, as her destination, and nothing on its face to show it was not good on that train, and she not knowing that that train did not stop there, it was the duty of the defendant to stop the train at that point for her. Hutchinson v. Railroad, 140 N. C. 123, 52 S. E. 263.

Where Conductor Fails to Return Ticket.—Where plaintiff purchased through transportation to a destination to reach which it was necessary to change, and the conductor on the first train neglected to return passenger's ticket, he having no money, and, when the conductor of the second train asked for his fare, vainly attempted to borrow from men who had been on the first train with him, it was negligence on the conductor's part not to have satisfied himself by inquiring of such men whether plaintiff had been on the train with them prior to reaching the changing point, before ejecting plaintiff. Sawyer v. Norfolk, etc., R. Co., 171 N. C. 13, 86 S. E. 166.

Injury Caused by Misdirection of Agent. — The plaintiff, who missed his train by misdirection of the defendant's agent and his refusal to sell him a ticket, can recover for any injury proximately caused by being put out of the station into the cold weather while waiting for the next train. Coleman v. Southern R. Co., 138 N. C. 351, 50 S. E. 690.

Ejected Passenger Has Right of Action.—Under this section a passenger, ejected from train of defendant road for failure to pay again fare which he had paid once upon purchasing ticket, has a right of action. Sawyer v. Norfolk, etc., R. Co., 171 N. C. 13, 86 S. E. 166.

Same—Passenger Need Not Pay Additional Fare to Prevent Ejection. — Under this section where a passenger is about to be wrongfully ejected from a train, having paid his fare thereon, but being unable to produce his ticket, it is not incumbent on him, by paying money which the conductor has no right to exact, to avoid ejection from the train, as he is not required to buy again his right to remain on the train to his destination. Sawyer v. Norfolk, etc., R. Co., 171 N. C. 13, 86 S. E. 166.

Duty to Stop Train at Passenger's Station.—A passenger on a railway train is entitled, as a matter of right, to have the train stop at a station to which he has purchased his ticket; and where his destination is a flag station at which the train fails to stop, attributable to the neglect of the conductor in failing to take up the passenger's ticket in time, the railroad company is answerable for the consequent damages. Elliott v. Norfolk Southern R. Co., 166 N. C. 481, 82 S. E. 853.

Carrier under No Duty to Delay Trains.—A common carrier of passengers is under no obligation to delay the departure of its trains, or to look after the safety of persons who attempt to enter them, when they have been stopped long enough to allow passengers to embark and disembark; but it may be liable for injuries incurred by one who, by the invitation or command of persons in charge of the trains, attempt to get on or off while the cars are in motion. Browne v. Raleigh, etc., R. Co., 108 N. C. 34, 12 S. E. 958.

Failure to Transport Passenger. — Where the plaintiff purchased a ticket from defendant's agent at a regular station before the time advertised for the arrival and departure of its trains at that place, and was in readiness to get aboard, but the train ran by, making no effort to stop, although it had room in its cars for plaintiff; the plaintiff was entitled to punitive damages, in the absence of sufficient excuse shown by the defendant. Purcell v. Richmond, etc., R. Co., 108 N. C. 414, 12 S. E. 954, 956.

Action May Be Brought in Tort or Contract.—A person who has sustained injuries by reason of the failure of a railroad company to provide proper means of transportation or operate its trains as required by this section may bring an action on contract, or in tort, independent of the statute. Pursell v. Richmond, etc., R. Co., 108 N. C. 414, 12 S. E. 954, 956.

Same—Damages.—It the tort is the result of simple negligence, damages will be restricted to such as are compensatory; but if it was willful, or committed with such circumstances as show gross negligence, punitive damages may be given. Purcell v. Richmond, etc., R. Co., 108 N. C. 414, 12 S. E. 954, 956.

Where a railroad company, negligently and by reason of defective and inadequate equipment, failed to carry a passenger to whom it had sold an excursion ticket back to its starting point, but no personal injury or indignity was inflicted upon him, the passenger's right of action is ex contractu and not in tort, and hence exemplary or punitive damages cannot be recovered. Purcell v. Richmond, etc., R. Co., 108 N. C. 414, 12 S. E. 954, which was overruled in Hansleys v. Jamesville, etc., R. Co., 115 N. C. 602, 20 S. E. 528, is reinstated, but the ground of the judgment is changed. Hansley v. Jamesville, etc., R. Co., 117 N. C. 565, 23 S. E. 443, 32 L. R. A. 551, 53 A. S. R. 600.

If a train arrives after its schedule time, or misses connection, or delays a passenger at his destination after the schedule time, unless the delay is caused by no fault of the carrier, the passenger has a right to recover compensation for the loss of time and actual expenses. Coleman v. Southern R. Co., 138 N. C. 351, 50 S. E. 690.

Failure to Stop at Flag Station.—Where plaintiff went to a flag station on a railroad a reasonable time before the arrival of a train on which he intended to take passage and, by reason of absence of the agent and the failure of the engineer to see his signal, the train did not stop for him, the railroad is liable for the actual damages sustained by the plaintiff. Thomas v. Southern R. Co., 122 N. C. 1005, 30 S. E. 343.

Same—Stepping Off Moving Train at Conductor's Suggestion.—Where a train on which plaintiff was a passenger, did not stop at the station to which he had paid his fare, and the conductor agreed that he would slow up the train at a safe place for plaintiff to alight the plaintiff consented to jump off and went upon the platform as the train slowed up, but seeing a "go ahead" signal from the rear, did not step for that reason; and then, feeling the increased motion of the train, he stepped off believing he was at a safe place and relying upon the conductor's promise to put him off at a safe place, and was injured, the evidence of the defendant's negligence was sufficient to be submitted to the jury. Cable v. Southern R. Co., 122 N. C. 892, 29 S. E. 377.

Same—When Punitive Damages Allowed. — It is only when the railway engineer actually sees the signal of an intended passenger at a flag station and wilfully passes him by that punitive damages will be allowed in an action for damages, and the burden of showing the reckless disregard of plaintiff's rights is upon the latter. Thomas v. Southern R. Co., 122 N. C. 1005, 30 S. E. 343.

Passenger Carried by Station.—Under this section when a passenger is carried by his station, he is entitled to damages, and this, though there is no bodily harm, or actual damages. If it is done recklessly or wilfully he is entitled to punitive damages. Hutchison v. Railroad, 140 N. C. 123, 52 S. E. 263, overruling Smith v. Wilmington, etc., R. Co., 130 N. C. 304, 41 S. E. 481.

Under the well settled rules of law, and plainly under this section a railroad company is liable for nominal damages for its negligence in failing to stop its train at and conveying a passenger beyond the destination to which he had paid his fare, it being a regular station on the line. Cable v. Southern R. Co., 122 N. C. 892, 29 S. E. 377.

Basis of Exemplary Damages.—The true ground for allowing exemplary damages in an action against a railroad company for damages on account of its negligence is personal injury, or (in the absence of personal injury) insult, indignity, contempt, etc., to which the law imputes bad motive towards the plaintiff. Hansley v. Jamesville, etc., R. Co., 117 N. C. 565, 23 S. E. 443.

Carrier May Demand Prepayment of Freight.—A common carrier has a right to demand the prepayment of charges for transportation before receiving freight for shipment to one individual, although it may have an established custom to accept shipments to its other patrons without such prepayment. Allen v. Cape Fear, etc., R. Co., 100 N. C. 397, 6 S. E. 105.

Same—May Demand It of Particular Shipper.—A common carrier may demand prepayment of freight charges before shipment to any station, and from one shipper, though not required of others. It should appear, however, that a plaintiff had notice of such regulation. Randall v. Richmond, etc., R. Co., 108 N. C. 612, 13 S. E. 137.

§ 3477. Unauthorized manufacture or sale of switch-lockkeys misdemeanor.—It shall be unlawful for any person to make, manufacture, sell or give away to any other person any duplicate key to any lock used by any railroad company in this state on its switches or switch tracks, except upon the written order of that officer of such railroad company whose duty it is to distribute and issue switch-lock keys to the employees of such railroad company. Any person violating the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be fined or imprisoned, or both, in the discretion of the court. (1909, c. 795.)

§ 3478. Willful injury to railroad property misdemeanor.—If any person shall willfully do or cause to be done any act or acts whatever whereby any building, construction or work of any railroad corporation, or any engine, machine or structure or any matter or thing appertaining to the same shall be stopped, obstructed, impaired, weakened, injured or destroyed, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. (Rev., s. 3756; Code, s. 1974; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 39.)

§ 3479. Headlights on locomotives on main lines.—Every company, corporation, lessee, manager or receiver owning or operating a railroad in this state is hereby required to equip and maintain and use upon every locomotive in operation in railroad service on main lines in the state an electric or power headlight of at least one thousand five hundred candlepower, measured without the aid of a reflector. This section shall not apply to locomotive engines regularly used in switching cars or trains, to locomotive engines used exclusively between sunup and sundown, and to locomotive engines going to and returning from repair shops when ordered in for repairs; neither shall this section apply to independently owned and operated railroad companies in this state whose mileage of road in this state is one hundred and twenty-five miles or less, nor to railroad companies having only lines extending into this state, no one of which is one hundred miles in length in this state. The corporation commission may relieve from the operation of this section such locomotives and roads, or parts or sections or branches of roads, upon which the said corporation commission may deem electric or power headlights not advisable. Should an engine start on a trip with the headlight in good working condition, and from some unavoidable cause such headlight becomes disabled and cannot be repaired on the line of the road on which such run is being made, there shall be nothing in this section to prevent such engine from continuing on its trip, and the railroad company shall not be liable for prosecution on acount of such failure to repair. Any company, corporation, lessee, manager or receiver violating the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. (1909, c. 446.)

See Editor's Note under section 3413.

Proximate Cause of Death.—Evidence failing to show how deceased was killed, whether walking along railroad tracks or at platform, and showing that he was intoxicated at the time, does not show that the violation of this section was the proximate cause of death. Owens v. Southern Ry. Co., 33 F. (2d) 870.

Burden of Proof.—It is negligence for a railroad company not to equip its locomotives with electric headlights, with the burden on the company to plead and prove that it had one in use at the time complained of or that its use was excepted by the statute, when relevant to the inquiry, Barnes v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 168 N. C. 512, 84 S. E. 805, citing Powers v. Norfolk Southern R. Co., 166 N. C. 599, 82 S. E. 972. But see McNeill v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 167 N. C. 390, 83 S. E. 704.

§ 3480. Operation of trains on Sunday misdemeanor; exceptions. — No railroad company shall permit the loading or unloading of any freight car on Sunday; nor shall it permit any car, train of cars or locomotive to be run on Sunday on any railroad, save in case of accident, except such as may be run for the purpose of transporting the United States mails, passengers with their baggage and ordinary express freight in express cars exclusively, and except such as may be run for the purpose of transporting fruits, vegetables, livestock and perishable freights. Where there are not sufficient cars of livestock or other perishable freights to make a complete train, or section of a train, the company may add other cars to complete the same. Solid trains, made up of through freight cars, reaching on Sunday any point upon any railroad in North Carolina and destined for some point or points beyond the limits of the state of North Carolina, may be continued as a solid through freight train along the line of such railroad through the state of North Carolina, without stopping the train for other purposes than to take on fuel and receive necessary running orders. The word Sunday in this section shall be construed to embrace only that portion of the day between sunrise and sunset. Trains in transitu, having started on Saturday, may, in order to reach the terminus or shops, run until nine o'clock a. m. on Sunday, but not later, nor for any other purpose than to reach the terminus or shops. Any railroad company violating the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor in each county in which such car, train of cars, or locomotive shall run, or in which any such freight car shall be loaded or unloaded, and upon conviction shall be fined not less than five hundred dollars for each offense. (Rev., ss. 2613, 3844; Code, s. 1973; 1879, cc. 97, 203; 1885, c. 92; 1897, c. 126; 1901, c. 444; 1909, c. 285.)

Constitutionality.—The setting aside of Sunday as a day of rest and quiet is not a religious, but a police regulation, necessary to the health and welfare of the people, and it applies to railroads, including logging roads, by this section, to the employees therein engaged; and the provisions of our Constitution requiring religious liberty have no application. State v. Suncrest Lumber Co., 186 N. C. 122, 118 S. E. 882.

This section contains nothing in its provisions suggestive of a purpose to interfere with interstate traffic, or indicative of any intent other than to prescribe a rule of civil conduct for persons in the territorial jurisdiction of the Legislature; and, although to some extent and indirectly affecting interstate commerce, so far as it relates to trains engaged in carrying freight from one State to another on Sunday, it is not unconstitutional. State v. Southern R. Co., 119 N. C. 814, 25 S. E. 862.

Lumber Railroad.—A lumber railroad, over which steam locomotives haul logs, comes within the provisions of this section, whether it transports freight or passengers, for hire or otherwise, and it is immaterial whether it was for the sole purpose of supplying its extensive lumber manufacturing plants on Monday. State v. Suncrest Lumber Co., 186 N. C. 122, 118 S. E. 882.

Running to Preserve Health of Crew.—On an indictment for violating this section when the railroad defends on the ground that it was necessary to run latter than the hour fixed by the statute in order to preserve the health or save the lives of the crew, it was incumbent upon the defendant to prove that the unlawful act was done under the stress of such necessity. State v. Southern R. Co., 119 N. C. 814, 25 S. E. 862.

Does Not Affect Time Allowed for Transportation. — Though by this section freight trains are prohibited from running on Sunday within certain hours, Sundays are not excluded from the reasonable time in which railroads are given to transport freight, except when Sunday is the last day in computing the time. Davis v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 145 N. C. 207, 59 S. E. 53; Watson v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 145 N. C. 236, 59 S. E. 55.

What State Must Show.—Upon a trial under an indictment against a railroad company for loading and running a freight train on Sunday, in violation of the provisions of this section, the State must show, beyond a reasonable doubt, that the defendant had permitted the offense to be done; but when the State has shown the wrongful act, it is sufficient for the jury to find that it was done with defendant's permission. State v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 149 N. C. 470, 62 S. E. 755.

Cited in Keeter v. Wilmington, etc., R. Co., 86 N. C. 346, 348.

§ 3481. Operation of fast mail trains; discontinuance of passenger service.—The corporation commission is hereby empowered, whenever it shall appear wise and proper to do so, to authorize any railroad company to run one or more fast mail trains over its road, which shall stop only at such stations on the line of the road as may be designated by the company: Provided, that in addition to such fast mail train such railroad company shall run at least one passenger train in each direction over its road on every day except Sunday, which shall stop at every station on the road at which passengers may wish to be taken up or put off: Provided further, that nothing in this section shall be construed as preventing the running of local passenger trains on Sunday. The corporation commission, or its successor, however, shall have and it is hereby vested with the power in any case in which the convenience and necessity of the traveling public do not require the running of passenger trains upon its railroad to authorize such railroad company to cease the operation of passenger trains as long as the convenience and necessity of the traveling public shall not require such operation: Provided that this section and any ruling hereafter made by the corporation commission, or its successors, shall not be construed as abrogating or repealing the provisions of any charter or franchise requiring such common carrier to furnish daily freight service over its lines, nor cause the discontinuance of daily freight service where now maintained. (Rev., s. 2614; 1893, c. 97; 1933, c. 528.)

See Editor's Note under section 3413.

Editor's Note.—Public Laws 1933, c. 528, added the last sentence of this section relating to discontinuance of passenger service.

As to injuries to animals by railroad generally see 10 Enc. Dig. 780 et seq.; 13 Enc. Dig. 331 et seq.

Editor's Note.—Several of the earlier cases notably Doggett v. Richmond, etc., R. Co., 81 N. C. 459, and Durham v. Wilmington, etc., R. Co., 82 N. C. 352, stated that, where the facts are known and show there was no negligence on the part of the railroad, the presumption created by this section does not apply. But the language used by the Court in these cases is calculated to produce an erroneous impression and it would have been much more accurate to have said that the prima facie case here created is rebutted where the undisputed facts show there was no negligence on the part of the defendant, than to say the statute did not apply to such a case. There is no exception in the statute. It is in terms general and applies alike to all cases of killing stock by a railroad. The rule is thus stated in the later cases. See Hardison v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 120 N. C. 492, 494, 26 S. E. 630.

In some of the early decisions it was said that when livestock were injured by the engine or cars of a railroad company and an action thereon was brought within six months, this section raised a presumption of negligence and cast upon the defendant the burden of rebutting such presumption, Bether v. Raleigh, etc., R. Co., 106 N. C. 279, 10 S. E. 1045; Carlton v. Wilmington, etc., R. Co., 104 N. C. 365, 10 S. E. 516. But it is now the established rule, as settled by the later and prevailing cases, that "prima facie evidence of negligence" means no more than evidence sufficient to carry the case to the jury, and to justify, but not compel, a verdict as for a negligent wrong.

Plaintiff Must Prove Case.—Where a railroad train runs into, kills or injures livestock and turkeys of the owner along its tracks, and he brings his action for damages within the statutory six months, the prima facie case of negligence raised by the statute is sufficient to take the case to the jury, but does not change the burden of proving the issue of negligence from the plaintiff. Ferrell v. Norfolk Southern R. Co., 190 N. C. 126, 129 S. E. 155.

Section Applies When Facts Known. — The presumption of negligence in killing live stock, when the action is brought within six months, applies where the facts were known. Hanford v. Southern R. Co., 167 N. C. 277, 279, 83 S. E. 470.

Applies When Stock under Control of Person. — The statutory presumption of negligence for killing live stock, when the action is brought within six months, is not rebutted by showing that the live stock were under the control of a person at the time. Randall v. Richmond, etc., R. Co., 104 N. C. 410, 10 S. E. 691.

Same—When Horse Hitched to Buggy. — The statutory presumption of negligence of a railroad company in killing live stock, when the action is brought within six months, applies whether a horse, the subject of the action, was hitched to a buggy at the time or running at large. Hanford v. Southern R. Co., 167 N. C. 277, 83 S. E. 470.

Where it is proven or admitted that cattle had been killed by the train of a railroad company within six months before the action was brought, there is a presumption that the killing was caused by the negligence of such company, and this presumption arises from the fact of killing, where the animal is hitched to a wagon or cart, as well as where it is straying at large when killed. Randall v. Richmond, etc., R. Co., 107 N. C. 748, 12 S. E. 605.

Does Not Apply to Fowls.—No presumption of negligence against a railroad company is raised by the mere fact of killing fowls, etc., upon its track in the operation of its trains. This section makes it prima facie evidence of negligence in respect only to "cattle and other live stock," which does not include "geese" or other fowl within its terms. James v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 166 N. C. 572, 82 S. E. 1026.

Same—Nor to Dogs.—The killing of a dog by a street railway is not prima facie evidence of negligence. Moore v. Charlotte Elect. R., etc., Co., 136 N. C. 554, 48 S. E. 822.

Same—Nor When Horses Run into Trestle.—In an action against a railroad company for damages for injuries to horses, where the evidence showed that the horses were injured by running into a trestle, and that the train was 100 yards from the trestle when they were injured, and stopped 100 feet from the trestle this section does not apply. Ramsbottom v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 138 N. C. 38, 50 S. E. 448.

How Presumption Rebutted.—In an action against a railroad company for killing certain mules of the plaintiff, where negligence is established by force of this section, it can only be rebutted by showing that by the exercise of due diligence the stock could not have been seen in time to save them. Pippen v. Wilmington, etc., R. Co., 75 N. C. 54.

This rule can only be rebutted by showing that the agents of such railroad company used all proper precautions to guard against damage. It is not sufficient to prove that there was probably no negligence. Battle v. W. & W. Railroad, 66 N. C. 343.

Same—Presumption Not Repelled. — Where plaintiff's horse had been injured on a railroad by the running of a train against it, and it was doubtful from defendant's testimony whether the brakes had been applied to the wheels of the train after the animal was discovered to be on track, the prima facie case of negligence made by this section was not repelled. Clark v. Western North Carolina Railroad, 60 N. C. 109.

Same—Instructions. — Where the killing of stock by a railroad is admitted or proven, the trial judge may instruct the jury that a certain state of facts, if believed by them, would rebut the presumption of negligence, but not that certain evidence, though uncontradicted, would do so. Baker v. Roanoke, etc., R. Co., 133 N. C. 31, 45 S. E. 347.

When Owner Permits Cattle to Stray on Railroad Track. —If the owner of cattle permit them to stray off and get upon the track of a railroad and they are killed or hurt, the railroad company is not liable unless the train was being carelessly run, or by the exercise of proper care after the animals were discovered the injury could have been avoided or prevented. Doggett v. Richmond, etc., R. Co., 81 N. C. 459.

Effect of Local Stock Law.—The prima facie evidence of negligence on the part of a railroad company in a suit for damages for killing stock is not impaired by a local act requiring stock to be fenced in, but the defendant must repel the presumption by satisfactory proof to the jury. Roberts v Richmond, etc., R. Co., 88 N. C. 560.

No Duty to Cut Down Weeds.—A railroad company is not negligent in failing to cut down bushes or weeds on the right-of-way beyond the portion over which it is exercising actual control for corporate purposes, though a horse is killed as a result of the engineers inability to see him on account of the weeds. Ward v. Wilmington, etc., R. Co., 109 N. C. 358, 13 S. E. 926.

Measure of Damages.—The measure of damages when a cow is killed by a train is the difference in the value of the cow and that of the beef. Roberts v. Richmond, etc., R. Co., 88 N. C. 560.

When Judge May Direct Verdict.—This section applies to all cases of killing stock by a railroad and while the presumption of negligence arising from the killing may be rebutted, it is only where the undisputed facts show there was no negligence that the trial judge should direct a verdict for the defendant. Hardison v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 120 N. C. 492, 26 S. E. 630.

Defendant Not Entitled to Nonsuit. — Where a plaintiff makes a prima facie case by suing for the killing of a cow within six months, the defendant is not entitled to nonsuit the plaintiff on the ground that such prima facie case is rebutted by the evidence of the defendant. Davis v. Railroad Co., 134 N. C. 300, 46 S. E. 515.

Art. 9. Railroad Police

§ 3483. Railway conductors and station agents declared special police.—All passenger conductors of railroad trains and station or depot agents are hereby declared to be special police of the state of North Carolina, with full power and authority to make arrests for offenses committed in their presence or view, or for felony, or on sworn complaint for misdemeanor, except that the conductors shall have such power only on board of their respective trains or their railroad right of way, and the agents at their respective stations; and such conductors and agents may cause any person so arrested by them to be detained and delivered to the proper authority for trial as soon as possible. Nothing contained in the provisions of this section shall have the effect to relieve any such railroad company from any civil liability now existing by statute or under the common law for the act or acts of such conductors, station or depot agents, in unlawfully exercising or attempting to exercise the powers herein conferred. (1907, c. 470, ss. 3, 4.)

Conductor Has Power of Peace Officer.—A conductor on a railroad passenger train is held to a high degree of care in looking after and protecting passengers on his train, and he is clothed, to some extent, with the powers of a peace officer. Brown v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 161 N. C. 573, 77 S. E. 777.

§ 3484. Governor may appoint and commission railroad police; civil liability of railroads.—Any corporation operating a railroad on which steam or electricity is used as the motive power or any electric or water-power company or construction company or manufacturing company may apply to the governor to commission such persons as the corporation or company may designate to act as policemen for it. The governor upon such application may appoint such persons or so many of them as he may deem proper to be such policemen, and shall issue to the persons so appointed a commission to act as such policemen. Nothing contained in the provisions of this section shall have the effect to relieve any such railroad company from any civil liability now existing by statute or under the common law for the act or acts of such policemen, in exercising or attempting to exercise the powers conferred by this section. (Rev., ss. 2605, 2606; Code, ss. 1988, 1989; 1871-2, c. 138, ss. 51, 52; 1907, c. 128, s. 1; 1923, c. 23; 1933, c. 61.)

Editor's Note.—This section was amended by Public Laws 1923, ch. 23, so as to include manufacturing companies.

Public Laws 1933, c. 61, added the last sentence of this section providing that it shall not relieve the railway from civil liability.

A railroad policeman appointed pursuant to this section, is prima facie a public officer, but the question of whether a particular act is done as an employee of the railroad company or as a public officer is a question to be determined from the nature of the act, whether it relates to vindication and enforcement of public justice or whether it is in the scope of duties owed to the company by reason of employment. Tate v. Southern Ry. Co., 205 N. C. 51, 169 S. E. 816.

Cited in Stanley v. Southern R. Co., 160 N. C. 323, 76 S. E. 221.

§ 3485. Oath, bond, and powers of railroad police.—Every policeman so appointed shall, refore entering upon the duties of his office, take and subscribe the usual oath. Such oath, with a copy of the commission, shall be filed with the corporation commission and a certificate thereof by its clerk shall be filed with the clerk of each county through or into which the railroad for which such policeman is appointed may run or in which the company may be engaged in work, and in which it is intended he shall act, and such policemen shall severally possess within the limits of the county all the powers of policemen in the several towns, cities and villages in which they shall be so authorized to act as aforesaid: Provided, that every policeman appointed under this and the preceding section shall, before entering upon the duties of his office, enter into bond in the sum of five hundred dollars, payable to the state of North Carolina, conditioned for the faithful performance of the duties of his office, with good and sufficient surety, to be passed upon and accepted by and filed with the corporation commission. (Rev., s. 2607; Code, s. 1990; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 53; 1907, c. 128, s. 2; 1907, c. 462.)

See note to § 3484.

§ 3486. Railroad police to wear badges.—Such railroad police shall, when on duty, severally wear a metallic shield with the words "Railway Police" and the name of the corporation for which appointed inscribed thereon, and this shield shall always be worn in plain view except when such police are employed as detectives. (Rev., s. 2608; Code, s. 1991; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 54.)

§ 3488. Police powers cease on company's filing notice.—Whenever any company shall no longer require the services of any policeman so appointed as aforesaid, it may file a notice to that effect in the several offices in which notice of such appointment was originally filed, and thereupon the power of such officer shall cease and be determined. (Rev., s. 2610; Code, s. 1993; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 56.)

Art. 9A. Joint Rates

§ 3488(a). Carriers permitted to establish joint rates. — Any operating railroad company is authorized and directed to enter into arrangements for the establishment of joint rates and through routes with common carriers by water and with other such railroad companies for the transportation of persons and/or property transported wholly within the State of North Carolina by such carrier by water and such railroad company. (1931, c. 195.)

Art. 10. Carriage of Passengers

§ 3489. Railroad passenger rates established.—No railroad company doing business as a common carrier of passengers in the state of North Carolina shall, except as herein provided, charge, demand or receive for transporting any passenger and his or her baggage, not exceeding in weight two hundred pounds, from any station on its railroad in North Carolina to any other station on its road in North Carolina, a rate in excess of three cents per mile: Provided, however, that independently owned and operated railroad companies in North Carolina whose mileage of road in said state is one hundred miles or less may charge a rate twenty per cent higher than the rate above specified; but this proviso shall not extend to branch lines of railroad companies controlling over one hundred miles of road, whether chartered in or out of the state: Provided further, this section shall not apply to railroads hereafter built less than fifty miles in length. For transporting children under twelve years and over five years old, one-half of the rate above prescribed. For transporting children under five years old, accompanied by any person paying fare, no charge whatever shall be made. Where the amount of the ticket at the prescribed rate would amount to any figure between two multiples of five, the price of the ticket shall be the multiple of five which is nearest the price of the ticket at the rate above mentioned; or, in the event that the amount is equidistant between the multiples of five, the price charged for the ticket shall be on the basis of the higher of those two multiples of five. No charge less than ten cents shall be required. Independently owned and operated railroad companies in North Carolina, whose mileage of road in this state is one hundred miles or less, may charge a rate not exceeding three cents per mile; and independently owned and operated railroad companies in North Carolina, whose mileage of road in the state is ten miles, or less, may charge the same rate which is now in existence on such roads. This provision shall not extend to branch lines of railroad companies controlling over one hundred miles of road, whether chartered in or out of the state. Newly constructed railroads, or the portion of railroad which may be newly constructed, shall be exempt from the operation of this section for two years after completion, to the extent that they may charge a rate in no case to exceed three cents per mile. A charge of fifteen cents may be added to the fare of any passenger when the same is paid on the train, if the ticket might have been procured within a reasonable time before the departure of the train. (Ex. Sess. 1908, c. 144, s. 1; Ex. Sess. 1920, c. 51, s. 1.)

Dig. 851 et seq.; 13 Enc. Dig. 143 et seq.

Editor's Note.—Formerly the maximum charge allowed by this section was two and one-half cents per mile. This section was amended by Public Laws 1920, Ex. Sess., ch. 51, sec. 1, and the maximum rate allowed raised to three cents per mile. At the same time the proviso allowing a twenty per cent higher rate for railroads less than one hundred miles in length was added.

Federal Control of Rates.—The provisions of this section apply only to fixing rates for intrastate carriers, and cannot be applied to interstate carriers, as control of the rates charged by the latter is vested in the Interstate Commerce Commission. The Interstate Commerce Commission in fixing rates cannot by their order fix rates between points that are remotely internal and from which no prejudice to interstate commerce can arise. But it can fix rates on intrastate carriers where such rate as fixed by the State is a discrimination against interstate or foreign commerce. See R. R. Comm. v. C. B. & Q. R. R. Co., 257 U. S. 563, 66 L. Ed. 236, 42 S. Ct. 232.

Right to Put Off Child on Train with Parent.—Where a conductor has taken up the ticket of a person traveling with his child for whom a half ticket is required, but has not been purchased, and who is unable to pay the fare of the child with the extra fare allowed when a ticket has not been regularly purchased, his right to put the child off the train is dependent upon the return of the ticket he has collected from the father, or its equivalent. Landford v. Southern R. Co., 165 N. C. 653, 81 S. E. 998.

§ 3490. Rates on leased or controlled lines.—In the case that any railroad company operating as a common carrier of passengers in the state of North Carolina is owned, controlled or operated by lease or other agreement by any other railroad company doing business in the state, the rate for carrying passengers thereon shall be determined for such railroad company by the rate prescribed by the preceding section for the railroad company which owns, controls or operates the same. (Ex. Sess. 1908, c. 144, s. 2.)

§ 3491. Violations of passenger rates misdemeanor.—Any railroad company violating any of the provisions of the two preceding sections, or counseling, ordering or directing any employee, agent or servant to violate any of such provisions, by charging, demanding or receiving any rate greater than that fixed by such section, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction shall be fined not less than five hundred dollars nor more than five thousand dollars; and any agent, servant or employee of any railroad company who shall violate either of the two preceding sections shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction shall be fined or imprisoned, or both, in the discretion of the court. (Ex. Sess. 1908, c. 144, s. 3.)

For a similar provision applying to freight rates see section 3519. For decisions under the act of 1907, see State v. Southern R. Co., 145 N. C. 495, 59 S. E. 570; Ex parte Wood, 155 Fed. 190; as to persons entitled to free carriage, see section 1710.

§ 3492. Accepting or giving free transportation illegally misdemeanor.—Any persons, except those permitted by law, who accept free transportation shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction shall be fined or imprisoned, or both, in the discretion of the court; and any railroad, or its employees or agents, giving free transportation of any kind whatsoever, except that permitted by law, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction shall be fined not less than five hundred dollars nor more than two thousand dollars for each offense. (Ex. Sess. 1908, c. 144, s. 4.)

For cases arising previous to the enactment of this section see State v. Southern R. Co., 122 N. C. 1052, 30 S. E. 133; McNeill v Railroad Co., 135 N. C. 682, 47 S. E. 765.

§ 3493. Powers of corporation commission over rates limited.—The corporation commission shall have no power to change, alter, modify or in any way affect the enforcement or operation of any of the provisions of the preceding sections of this article, except as the same shall be therein specifically authorized, or the enforcement of any penalties for violating the provisions thereof. (Ex. Sess. 1908, c. 144, s. 7.)

See Editor's Note under section 3413.

§ 3494. Separate accommodations for different races.—All railroad and steamboat companies engaged as common carriers in the transportation of passengers for hire, other than street railways, shall provide separate but equal accommodations for the white and colored races at passenger stations or waiting-rooms, and also on all trains and steamboats carrying passengers. Such accommodations may be furnished by railroad companies either by separate passenger cars or by compartments in passenger cars, which shall be provided by the railroads under the supervision and direction of the corporation commission: Provided, that this shall not apply to relief trains in cases of accident, to Pullman or sleeping cars, or through express trains that do not stop at all stations and are not used ordinarily for traveling from station to station, to negro servants in attendance on their employers, to officers or guards transporting prisoners, nor to prisoners so transported. (Rev., s. 2619; 1899, c. 384; 1901, c. 213.)

Cross Reference.—As to the duty and power of the ultilities commissioner to see that separate waiting rooms are provided for the white and colored races, see section 1043. See § 2613(p).

See Editor's Note under section 3413.

Conductor Directing White Passengers to Colored Coach.—When a railroad company has furnished equal and separate accommodations on its train for the white and colored races, no penalties may be recovered by reason of the conductor merely directing a few white passengers to take the coach set apart for the colored people. Merritt v. Atlantic Coast Line R., 152 N. C. 281, 67 S. E. 579.

Sheriff with Colored Prisoner.—Where the conductor of a train requires a white sheriff to go into the coach provided for colored people with a colored prisoner in his custody, traveling with him on the train, without any evidence that he did so in a harsh or abusive manner, or that the accommodations furnished were unequal to those of the other coach, damages sought by the sheriff will be denied as a matter of law. Huff v. Norfolk Southern R. Co., 171 N. C. 203, 88 S. E. 344.

Power of Corporation Commission to Require Bus Lines to Provide Equal Separate Accommodations for Races.—The Corporation Commission is given plenary power by statute to require bus lines operating between points within the State in carrying passengers for hire, which are public-service corporations, to provide indiscriminatory separate accommodations for the carriage of white and negro passengers, and for their separate accommodations at the bus stations, the working out of the plans or details for the purpose being vested largely within the discretion of the Commission, and where this is done without racial discrimination it is not objectionable as being in contravention of Thirteenth and Fourteenth Amendments to the Federal Constitution. Hotels, theatres, etc., distinguished from public-service corporations, and the policy of our State with regard to the equal treatment of the negro race discussed by Mr. Justice Clarkson. Corporation Commission v. Transportation Committee, 198 N. C. 317, 151 S. E. 648.

§ 3495. Certain carriers may be exempted from requirement.—The corporation commission is hereby authorized to exempt from the provisions of the preceding section steamboats, branch lines and narrow-gauge railroads and mixed trains carrying both freight and passengers, if in its judgment the enforcement of the same be unnecessary to secure the comfort of passengers by reason of the light volume of passenger traffic, or the small number of colored passenger travelers on such steamboats, narrow-guage railroads, branch lines or mixed trains. (Rev., s. 2620; 1899, c. 384, s. 2; 1901, c. 213.)

See Editor's Note under section 3413.

§ 3496. Use of same coach in emergencies.—When any coach or compartment car for either race shall be completely filled at a station where no extra coach or car can be had, and the increased number of passengers could not be foreseen, the conductor in charge of such train may assign and set apart a portion of a car or compartment assigned for passengers of one race to passengers of the other race. (Rev., s. 2621; 1899, c. 384, s. 3.)

§ 3497. Penalty for failing to provide separate coaches.—Any railroad or steamboat company failing to comply in good faith with the provisions of the three preceding sections shall be liable to a penalty of one hundred dollars per day, to be recovered in an action brought against such company by any passenger on any train or boat of any railroad or steamboat company which is required by this chapter to furnish separate accommodations to the races, who has been furnished accommodations on such railroad train or steamboat only in a car or compartment with a person of a different race in a violation of law. (Rev., s. 2622; 1899, c. 384, s. 5.)

§ 3498. Facilities for exchange of mileage required.—All railroad companies of one hundred miles of more in length doing business in whole or in part in the state of North Carolina are hereby required to provide and keep at all depots in cities or towns of two thousand and over in population, as fixed by the United States census of the year one thousand nine hundred and ten, two windows opening in the waiting-room for passengers of the race using the greatest amount of mileage or coupon books, for the sale or exchange of fares on all passenger trains in North Carolina. One of such windows shall be used for the sale of cash fares exclusively, and the other for the sale and exchange of mileage or coupon books. Each window is to be attended by an agent whose duty it shall be to wait upon the traveling public, during the hours now prescribed, for the sale of cash-fare tickets and the sale and exchange of mileage or coupon books. Over each such window shall be kept a sign, painted in plain letters, "Mileage Exchange" and "Cash Fares," respectively: Provided, that the provisions of this section shall not apply to any railroad company in North Carolina, as aforesaid, selling mileage or coupon books at a rate of not more than two cents per mile and pulling or taking the same on the train: Provided further, that all the provisions of this section shall not apply to the following railroad junctions in this state, irrespective of population, namely: Dunn Selma, Maxton, Hamlet, Norlina, and Sanford. (1911, c. 41, s. 1.)

Railroad Must Furnish Opportunity for Exchange.—The railroad selling mileage books must furnish reasonable opportunity for the holder to exchange it for a ticket. Mason v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 159 N. C. 183, 75 S. E. 25; Dorsett v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 156 N. C. 439, 72 S. E. 491.

Same—When No Opportunity to Exchange Mileage.—It is the duty of a conductor on a passenger train to accept mileage of a person traveling thereon when the railroad company has not afforded him time to get it exchanged for a ticket at its station. McNairy v. Norfolk, etc., R. Co., 172 N. C. 505, 90 S. E. 497.

§ 3499. Application of requirement for exchange of mileage.—The corporation commission shall upon complaint, and in its discretion, apply the provisions of the preceding section to railroad junctions not named in the second proviso of that section and to depots in cities and towns of less than two thousand population. The commission may in like manner exempt, in its discretion, depots in cities and towns of over two thousand population from the operation of that section. When the requirements of the preceding section are so applied by the commission, then all of the provisions of this article having to do with the sale and use of mileage-books shall extend to and include all railroad companies thereby affected, and such companies shall be subject to all of the penalties prescribed for a failure to comply with such provisions. (1911, c. 41, s. 2.)

See Editor's Note under section 3413.

§ 3500. Penalty for failure to provide mileage-exchange facilities. — Any railroad company failing to comply in good faith with the provisions of the two preceding sections shall be liable to a penalty of fifty dollars per day for each city or town where such failure occurs that is covered by the provisions of those sections, or taken in by the corporation commission as therein provided, to be recovered by any passenger demanding cash-fare or mileage tickets at any depot in any such city or town in an action brought by such passenger. (1911, c. 41, s. 3.)

See Editor's Note under section 3413.

§ 3501. Right to check baggage on mileage books.—Any legal holder of a mileage book shall be privileged to have his baggage checked before the exchange of mileage for a ticket entitling such holder to transportation upon the surrender of the baggage slip forming a part of such mileage-book for the requisite number of miles and the payment of all proper excess-baggage charges. (1911, c. 41, s. 4.)

§ 3502. Corporation commission may regulate the checking of baggage on mileage tickets.—The corporation commission is hereby empowered and directed to take into consideration the provisions of the preceding section and promulgate such rules and regulations, with regard to checking baggage on mileage tickets, as, in the opinion of the commission, shall be necessary and proper to safeguard and protect both the convenience of passengers and the rights of railroad companies; and such rules and regulations of the commission, when so promulgated, shall have the same force and effect as if they were a part of such section. (1911, c. 124, s. 1.)

See Editor's Note under section 3413.

§ 3503. Unused tickets to be redeemed.—When any round-trip ticket is sold by a railroad or other transportation company, it shall be the duty of such company to redeem the unused portion of said ticket by allowing to the holder thereof the difference between the cost thereof and the price of a one-way ticket between the stations for which such round-trip ticket was sold. Whenever any one-way or regular ticket is sold by a railroad or other transportation company, and not used by the purchaser, it shall be the duty of the company selling the ticket to redeem it at the price paid for it. All railroad and other transportation companies shall redeem in money all mileage tickets known as five-hundred, thousand and two-thousand mile tickets, sold by them, if presented within a year from the date of the sale, when as much as fifty per centum of such ticket has been used by the purchaser, by paying the same price per mile paid for it, or shall allow the original holder to ride it out. (Rev., s. 2627; 1891, c. 290; 1893, c. 249; 1895, c. 83, ss. 2, 3; 1897, c. 418.)

§ 3504. Ticket may be refused intoxicated person; prohibited entry misdemeanor.—The ticket agent of any railroad, steamboat or other transportation company shall at all times have power to refuse to sell a ticket to any person applying for the same who may at the time be intoxicated. The conductor, captain or other person in charge of any railroad car, steamboat or other conveyance for the use of the traveling public shall at all times have power to prevent any intoxicated person from entering such car, boat or other conveyance. If any intoxicated person, after being forbidden by the conductor, captain or other person having charge of any such railroad train, steamboat or other conveyance for the use of the traveling public, shall enter such train, boat or other conveyance, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. (Rev., ss. 2625, 2626, 3757; 1885, c. 358, ss. 1, 2, 3.)

When Exemplary Damages Allowed.—In an action for damages for refusal to allow a person with a ticket to board a train before he was intoxicated, exemplary damages will be allowed if such refusal was made with malice, undue force, or insult. Story v. Norfolk, etc., R. Co., 133 N. C. 59, 45 S. E. 349.

Cited in Stanley v. Southern R. Co., 160 N. C. 323, 76 S. E. 221.

§ 3505. Entering cars after being forbidden misdemeanor.—No person shall enter any railroad passenger car, baggage car, mail car or caboose car, or go upon the platform of such cars, after being forbidden so to do by the conductor, his assistants, the baggage-master or other person in charge of such cars, unless the person enter such cars or go upon such platforms as a passenger or in some official capacity authorized by law, or on business with a passenger or some official or employee of the railroad, or for some other like purpose. Any person violating this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be fined not exceeding ten dollars. (Rev., s. 3752; Code, s. 1979; 1883, c. 351.)

§ 3506. Riding in first-class cabin with second-class ticket misdemeanor.—If any passenger purchasing or holding a second-class ticket, after being requested or directed by any captain or other officer in charge of any steamboat in this state, riding in any first-class cabin, refuses to pay the difference between a first-class and a second-class fare or rate, or refuses to go into the second-class cabin, when there shall a comfortable second-class cabin on such steamboat, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be fined not exceeding fifty dollars or imprisoned not exceeding thirty days. Any justice of the peace in the county where such offense is committed shall have jurisdiction of the offense, upon sworn complaint of any officer of such steamboat company. (Rev., s. 3761; 1903, c. 795.)

§ 3507. Passenger refusing to pay fare and violating rules may be ejected.—If any passenger shall refuse to pay his fare, or violate the rules of a railroad corporation, it shall be lawful for the conductor of the train and servants of the corporation to put him and his baggage out of the cars, using no unnecessary force, at any usual stopping place or near any dwelling house, as the conductor shall elect, on stopping the train. (Rev., s. 2629; Code, s. 1962; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 34.)

As to ejection of passengers generally see 2 Enc. Dig. 901 et seq.; 13 Enc. Dig. 357 et seq.

Permission to Ride in Express Car. — Where a party shipped horses by express with an agreement that he should ride in the same car he cannot ride in the passenger coach without paying his fare. Teeter v. Southern Exp. Co., 172 N. C. 616, 90 S. E. 761.

Ejecting Person on Baggage Car.—A person who gets on a blind baggage car, though having a ticket, but not having told the conductor that he had it, and the conductor not having seen it, is not entitled to recover as a passenger for injuries received by being pulled off the train by the conductor. McGraw v. Southern R. Co., 135 N. C. 264, 47 S. E. 758.

Mileage Book Holder Must Comply with Terms. — The holder of a mileage book must comply with its terms if reasonable opportunity is given, as he may be ejected. McNairy v. Norfolk, etc., R. Co., 172 N. C. 505, 90 S. E. 497; Mason v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 159 N. C. 183, 75 S. E. 25.

Ejection of Party Refusing to Show Mileage Book.—When a purchaser of a mileage book from a railroad company is riding on an exchange ticket, and refuses, without excuse, to show his mileage book, in connection with the ticket, to the conductor on the train, he is not regarded as a passenger, and the conductor has the right to eject him from the train. Mason v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 159 N. C. 183, 75 S. E. 25.

Evidence of Drunkenness Inadmissible.—In an action for wrongful ejection from a train, evidence of drunkenness of plaintiff is not admissible, where the answer simply denies the wrongful ejection alleged in the complaint. Raynor v. Wilmington Seacoast R. Co., 129 N. C. 195, 39 S. E. 821.

Ejection by Failure of Conductor to Return Ticket. — Where the conductor failed to return ticket to passenger to be used on another train, and the passenger was ejected therefrom for lack of the ticket the railroad is liable for all damages attending the ejection. Sawyer v. Norfolk, etc., R. Co., 171 N. C. 13, 86 S. E. 166.

How Conductor May Eject Passenger.—The conductor of a railroad train is authorized to expel without using unnecessary force one who refuses to pay regular fare, at any point where he may safely get off provided it be "at any usual stopping place or near any dwelling house, as the conductor shall elect, on stopping the train"; and provided further that the ejected person is not willfully and wantonly exposed to danger of life or limb. Rosmean v. Carolina Cent. R. Co., 112 N. C. 709, 16 S. E. 766.

Person Must Be Ejected Near Station or House. — The railroad company owed a duty to plaintiff ejected from its train to put her off the train at a suitable and proper place, either at a station or near a house, even though she had not been rightfully a passenger. Bullock v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 152 N. C. 66, 67 S. E. 60.

Flag Station Not a Usual Stopping Place.—A place along a railroad company's track is not a usual stopping place within the meaning of this section when it is merely a flag station without shelter, and the nearest dwelling three-quarters of a mile away; and where one traveling on the train has been put off at such place at 9 o'clock in the night for failure to exchange his mileage for a ticket, and was informed by the conductor that it was "a rather poor place to spend the night," it does not preclude his recovery, for the company's violation of the statute, that he again boarded the train and complied with the conductor's demand in paying the additional charge required of those who have no ticket. McNairy v. Norfolk, etc., R. Co., 172 N. C. 505, 90 S. E. 497.

Carrier Not Liable for Unusual Results. — A conductor requiring an intoxicated man to leave the train for nonpayment of fare does not render the carrier liable for the death of the man from exposure, where the conductor did not have reasonable ground to believe that the man was unable to find his way or walk to the nearest house or to the railroad station, or even to his own father's house, which was not far away. Roseman v. Carolina Cent. R. Co., 112 N. C. 709, 16 S. E. 766.

Reliance on Agent's Statements.—The purchaser of a ticket may rely upon the statements of the railroad agent as to trains, connection, validity of ticket, etc., and if the passenger is ejected as a result of the agent's mistake the railroad is liable. Creech v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 174 N. C. 61, 93 S. E. 453; Hallman v. Southern R. Co., 169 N. C. 127, 130, 85 S. E. 298.

§ 3508. Beating way on trains misdemeanor; venue.—If any person, other than a railroad employee in the discharge of his duty, without authority from the conductor of the train or by permission of the engineer, and with the intention of being transported free and without paying the usual fare for such transportation, rides or attempts to ride on top of any car, coach, engine or tender, on any railroad in this state, or on the draw-heads between cars, or under cars, on truss rods, or trucks, or in any freight car, or on a platform of any baggage car, express car or mail car on any train, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be fined not exceeding fifty dollars or imprisoned not more than thirty days. Any person charged with a violation of this section may be tried in any county in this state through which such train may pass carrying such person, or in any county in which such violation may have occurred or may be discovered. (Rev., s. 3748; 1899, c. 625; 1905, c. 32.)

Effect on Liability of Insurance Co.—A policy of accident insurance that excepts from the company's full liability diseases contracted before the date of the policy, "nor for sickness due to immorality or the violation of law," does not of itself exclude such liability for an injury caused by the plaintiff stealing a ride on a railway train, made a misdemeanor by this section, unless the plaintiff's act was so reckless as to withdraw it from the class of accidents covered by the policy. Poole v. Imperial Mut. Life, etc., Co., 188 N. C. 468, 125 S. E. 8.

§ 3509. Injury while on platform or in other prohibited places.—In case any passenger on any railroad shall be injured while on the platform of a car or on any baggage, wood or freight car, in violation of the printed regulations of the company posted up at the time in a conspicuous place inside its passengers cars then in the train, such company shall not be liable for the injury: Provided, such company at the time furnish room inside its passenger cars sufficient for the proper accommodation of its passengers. (Rev., s. 2628; Code, s. 1978; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 42.)

Effect of Posting Notice.—When this section has been complied with, a rule of a railroad company prohibiting passengers from going on the platform while the train is in motion, is given the force and effect of a state law, and barring a recovery for injuries sustained under such circumstances. Shaw v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 143 N. C. 312, 55 S. E. 713.

Notice Need Be Only in English.—This section requires only that the notice to be placed by a railroad company in its coach, relieving the company from liability to a passenger injured while riding on the platform, etc., shall be in English, and the fact that such passenger cannot read that language is immaterial. Bane v. Norfolk Southern R. Co., 176 N. C. 247, 97 S. E. 11.

Riding on Platform Prima Facie Negligence. — It is prima facie negligence for a passenger to voluntarily ride on the platform of a rapidly moving train. Wagner v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 147 N. C. 315, 61 S. E. 171.

Same—Not Applicable When Passenger Alighting.—This section is for the protection of passengers and should be reasonably construed, and no application when the injury complained of has been received as the passenger was alighting at a regular station after the train had stopped for that purpose, though he may have ridden in violation of the statute before the train had stopped. Kearney v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 158 N. C. 521, 74 S. E. 593.

Same—When Getting on. — One who is on the passenger platform of a railroad company at its station with the purpose of becoming a passenger on its expected train is entitled to the protection due a passenger from dangerous conditions and usages there. Thomas v. Southern R. Co., 173 N. C. 494, 92 S. E. 321.

§ 3510. Checking baggage; liability for loss.—A check shall be affixed to every parcel of baggage when taken for transportation by the agent or servant of any railroad corporation, if there is a handle, loop or fixture so that the same can be attached upon the parcel or baggage so offered for transportation, and a duplicate thereof given to the passenger or person delivering the same on his behalf; and if such check be refused on demand, the corporation shall pay to such passenger the sum of ten dollars, to be recovered in a civil action; and further, no fare or toll shall be collected or received from such passenger, and if such passenger shall have paid his fare the same shall be refunded by the conductor in charge of the train, and on producing the check, if his baggage shall not be delivered to him, he may, by an action, recover the value of such trunk or baggage. (Rev., s. 2623; Code, s. 1970; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 36.

See notes to section 3523.

§ 3511. Cars and toilets to be kept clean.—Every person or railroad company, whether incorporated or not, engaged in the regular business of carrying passengers on his or its railroad cars in this state, shall have such cars cleaned, brushed, dusted and the windows washed, if needed, at least once each day, and shall in each car, in which male and female passengers are carried, have therein a toilet-room for each sex, and have the same kept clean and decent. Any person or corporation engaged in the business aforesaid who shall willfully or negligently fail or refuse to give orders to his or its agent in charge of such cars to comply with the requirements of this section, shall forfeit twenty dollars for each day of such failure or refusal, to be recovered by any person suing therefor. (1907, c. 474, ss. 1, 2.)

As to exception to requirements of this section, see section 3497(1).

§ 3512. Evidence of failure to order cleaning of cars; violation of orders misdemeanor.—The willful or negligent refusal or the failure on the part of the conductor or manager of any passenger car named in the preceding section to comply with such section shall be received as evidence of failure or refusal of such person or railroad company to give the orders therein provided for. Moreover, such conductor or manager shall be guilty of a misdemeanor if he fail or refuse to carry out such orders of the persons or company mentioned in the preceding section. (1907, c. 474, s. 3.)

§ 3512(a). Surcharge on Pullman car transportation.—It shall be unlawful for any railroad or Pullman car company doing business in North Carolina to collect from any person within the boundaries of North Carolina any surtax or surcharge for Pullman car transportation from one point to any other point within the bounds of the state of North Carolina; but nothing in this section shall be construed to affect in any way the charge which any railroad or Pullman car company may require for transportation on interstate travel. (1923, c. 147.)

Editor's Note.—It was said in 1 N. C. Law Rev. 305, that the power exercised in this section is clearly within the power of the state, and has been observed by carrier's since its passage.

Art. 11. Carriage of Freight

§ 3513. Freight rates to be posted.—It shall be the duty of every railroad or other transportation company to keep posted in a conspicuous place in its depots or other places where freight is received for shipment a list of its charges for carrying freight, specifying name of places, class of freight and charge for carrying the same. Such charges shall not be increased without giving fifteen days notice. Any company represented by an agent who refuses to comply with this section shall be liable to a penalty of not less than fifty nor more than one hundred dolars. (Rev., s. 2630; Code, s. 1965; 1879, c. 182, s. 2.)

As to the requirement of the utilities commissioner for the publication of rates, see section 1074.

Interstate Commerce.—In Virginia-Carolina Peanut Co. v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 166 N. C. 62, 82 S. E. 1, it was held that the posting of interstate freight charges, required by a similar provision of the Interstate Commerce Commission, was not necessary to the effectiveness of the schedule of rates, such provision being merely for the convenience of the public. See also Hardware Co. v. Seaboard Air Line, 170 N. C. 395, 86 S. E. 1025.

Effect of Private Agreements.—The rates of transportation allowed are established by the Interstate Commerce Commission, and the State Corporation Commission, which may not be affected by any agreement to the contrary between the carriers or their agents or employees and the shipper; and, notwithstanding such agreement, the carrier may demand and enforce the rates established by law. Southern R. Co. v. Latham, 176 N. C. 417, 97 S. E. 234.

§ 3514. No charge in excess of printed tariffs; refunding overcharge; penalty.—No railroad, steamboat, express or other transportation company engaged in the carriage of freight and no telegraph company or telephone company shall demand, collect or receive for any service rendered or to be rendered in the transportation of property or transmission of messages more than the rates appearing in the printed tariff of such company in force at the time such service is rendered, or more than is allowed by law. In case of any overcharge, contrary to the provisions of this section, the person aggrieved may file with any agent of the company collecting or receiving greater compensation than the amount allowed a written demand, supported by a paid freight bill and an original bill of lading or duplicate thereof for refund of overcharge, and a maximum period of sixty days shall be allowed such company to pay claims filed under this section. Any company failing to refund such overcharge within the time allowed shall forfeit to the party aggrieved the sum of twenty-five dollars for the first day and five dollars per day for each day's delay thereafter until said over charge is paid, together with all costs incurred by the party aggrieved: Provided, the total forfeiture shall not exceed one hundred dollars. (Rev., ss. 2642, 2643, 2644; 1903, c. 590, ss. 1, 2.)

Cross References.—As to power of the utilities commissioner to fix rates, see section 1066; as to powers of the Interstate Commerce Commission to fix rates on interstate railroads, see Barnes' Federal Code, section 7884; as to excessive charges generally, see 2 Enc. Dig. 841 et seq.; 13 Enc. Dig. 339. See also, notes to section 3518.

Constitutionality of Section.—This section is not unconstitutional as in violation of the Fourteenth Amendment to the Federal Constitution, or the Commerce Clause of said Constitution, and the acts passed in pursuance thereof. Efland v. Southern R. Co., 146 N. C. 135, 59 S. E. 355; Iron Works v. Southern R. Co., 148 N. C. 469, 62 S. E. 595; Hardware Co. v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 170 N. C. 395, 86 S. E. 1025.

Not Applicable to Interstate Shipment.—Under the Interstate Commerce Act, as amended, Congress, in the exercise of the constitutional powers conferred on it, has taken entire control of rates upon interstate shipments of goods, and this section is inoperative, as to such shipments. Hdw. Co. v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 170 N. C. 395, 86 S. E. 1025.

For earlier cases holding contra, see Macon County Supply Co. v. Tallulah Falls R. Co., 166 N. C. 82, 82 S. E. 13; Thurston v. Southern R. Co., 165 N. C. 598, 81 S. E. 785.

Burden of Proof.—The burden is upon the plaintiff to show that a freight rate charged and collected by the carrier on an interstate shipment was in excess of its tariff required of the carrier to be published, when he seeks to recover this excess and the State statutory penalty; and where the shipment has been routed over one line of connecting carriers and the tariff filed by the carrier over another route is shown, it affords no evidence as to the rate of the actual route of the shipment, and, in the absence of further evidence, a judgment as of nonsuit should be granted. Hdw. Co. v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 170 N. C. 395, 86 S. E. 1025.

Penalty Enforceable though Charges Small.—The penalty fixed by this section to enforce the duty of the carrier in regard to proper charges for transporting freight and refund of overcharges, and which cannot in any event exceed $100, is enforceable for a default established against defendant, though the particular transportation charges may appear disproportionately small. It is on failure to return small amounts wrongfully overcharged that penalties are especially required. In large matters the claimant can better afford the cost of litigation. Efland v. Southern R. Co., 146 N. C. 129, 59 S. E. 359.

Rates Need Not Be Same for Both Directions.—In shipments to a great distance, special circumstances, such as flow of traffic, may justify a higher rate between two points in one direction than in the opposite; and in an action for the recovery of the penalty under this section, it is error for the judge below in effect to charge the jury that such tariff rate published between the two points for freight moving in an opposite direction to that of the shipment in question was conclusive, and that they should be governed in their verdict as to the overcharge accordingly. Scull & Co. v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 144 N. C. 180, 56 S. E. 876.

Agent as Party Aggrieved.—Where under agreement with his principal the agent of a manufacturer is obligated to pay the freight charges on shipments made to him, and upon demand of the carrier he has paid its unlawful charges on a shipment, he is the party aggrieved, and may maintain his action to recover the excess, and also the penalty when settlement has not been made within sixty days, when he has filed written demand supported by the original freight bill and the original or duplicate bill of lading, etc. Tilley v. Southern R. Co., 172 N. C. 363, 90 S. E. 309.

Freight Charge on Undelivered Shipment.—Where the defendant collected freight charges for an entire shipment, as invoiced and originally billed, and 96 cents was paid as freight on that part of the shipment which was "short" and not delivered, this was an overcharge, and failure to refund such overcharge after the 60 days allowed for investigation rendered the defendant liable for the penalty denounced by this section. Cottrell v. Carolina, etc., R. Co., 141 N. C. 383, 54 S. E. 288.

What Demand Must Specify.—Where the carrier has demanded and received an unlawful freight charge for a shipment, and the party aggrieved has made written demand of the carrier for payment of the overcharge, required by the statute, it is not necessary for him, in order to maintain an action for the penalty imposed upon the carrier failing to settle in sixty days, that the written demand specify the penalty, or that demand therefor was made in the justice's court or alleged in the complaint filed on appeal therefrom. Tilley v. Southern R. Co., 172 N. C. 363, 90 S. E. 309.

Same—Separate Demand in Same Envelope.—The mere fact that the plaintiff, inclosed separate written demands in the same envelope and gave an aggregate amount thereof in a letter accompanying them, does not affect the demands being specific, when the overcharges were separate and distinct, the demand made specifically as to each, accompanied separately with the paid freight bill and duplicate bill of lading, and each demand was complete in itself; and such is a compliance with the provisions of this section. Efland v. Southern R. Co., 146 N. C. 129, 59 S. E. 359.

§ 3515. Penalty for failure to receive and forward freight tendered.—Agents or other officers of railroad and other transportation companies whose duty it is to receive freight shall receive all articles of the nature and kind received by such company for transportation whenever tendered at a regular depot, station, wharf or boat landing, and every loaded car tendered at a sidetrack, or any warehouse connected with the railroad by a siding, and shall forward the same by the route selected by the person tendering the freight under existing laws; and the transportation company represented by any person refusing to receive such freight shall forfeit and pay to the party aggrieved the sum of fifty dollars for each day such company refuses to receive such shipment of freight, and all damages actually sustained by reason of the refusal to receive freight. If such loaded car be tendered at any siding or warehouse at which there is no agent, notice shall be given to an agent at the nearest regular station at which there is an agent that such car is loaded and ready for shipment. (Rev., s. 2631; Code, s. 1964; 1903, cc. 444, 693.)

Cross Reference.—As to the power of the utilities commissioner to prevent discrimination see section 1054; as to the carrier's duty to receive and transport goods, see 2 Enc. Dig. 796 et seq.

This section is constitutional as applied to intrastate shipments. Corbett v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 205 N. C. 85, 170 S. E. 129.

Section Strictly Construed.—This is a penal statute and must be strictly construed. Cox v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 148 N. C. 459, 62 S. E. 556.

Intrastate Shipments.—The penalty imposed by this section is not a burden upon interstate commerce when shipments are intrastate. Wampum Cotton Mills v. Carolina, etc., R. Co., 150 N. C. 612, 64 S. E. 588.

Interstate Shipments.—In Reid v. Southern R. Co., 150 N. C. 753, 64 S. E. 874, it was held that the penalty provided for by the provisions of this section would apply to interstate shipments, the same not being a burden on interstate commerce. In reviewing the same case the United States court reversed this decision and held that the section could not apply to interstate shipments. Southern Ry. Co. v. Reid, 222 U. S. 424, 32 S. Ct. 140.

Requisites of Valid Tender.—This section provides that the tender be made at a regular station and that the articles tendered be of the nature and kind received by the carrier for transportation, and it is necessary in an action for the penalty to show that the character of the shipment and place of tender are such as fall within its provisions. Olive v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 152 N. C. 279, 67 S. E. 583.

Same—Sufficiency of Complaint.—A complaint alleging that plaintiff tendered to a carrier at a certain station a certain quantity of loose lumber for shipment, etc., which the defendant wrongfully and unlawfully refused to receive, states a good cause of action, since it would be inferred, to be thereafter shown by proof, that this station referred to was a regular station, and that loose lumber was an article usually received by the carrier. Olive v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 152 N. C. 279, 67 S. E. 583.

Meaning of "Whenever Tendered."—The words "whenever tendered" can only be qualified by supplying the ellipsis "within the usual hours adopted by the public for the transaction of such business at the place where the tender is made." Alsop v. Southern Express Co., 104 N. C. 278, 10 S. E. 297.

Requisites for Daily Penalty.—In order for the daily penalty to attach to the carrier for continually refusing to accept freight for shipment under the provisions of this section, it is necessary for actual or constructive tender thereof to be made to the carrier each day; and where cattle are the subject of shipment, evidence that the shipment had been refused and that the shipper kept the cattle near the depot and told the defendant's agent thereof, and that he would deliver them when notified that the company would receive them, is insufficient except as to the first penalty. Bane v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 171 N. C. 328, 88 S. E. 477.

When the common carrier permits a shipper to load a car with his goods and refuses to receive it for shipment or to issue a bill of lading, it is a refusal to receive the goods for shipment, under this section; and when the shipper leaves the goods in the car, with request for shipment, and by his conduct, understood by the railroad, makes his tender continuous, each day's delay is a separate refusal, within the meaning of the statute, to which the penalty will apply. Garrison v. Southern R. Co., 150 N. C. 575, 64 S. E. 578.

Same—Placing Goods in Depot.—Placing a shipment of goods in the depot of the carrier, prepared for and with request for shipment, and thus leaving them there, makes each day's delay by the carrier "a refusal to ship," under this section, and the carrier, thus refusing, is responsible for the penalty. Burlington Lumber Co. v. Southern R. Co., 152 N. C. 70, 67 S. E. 167.

Money Tendered After Regulation Hours.—Where money was tendered to the agent of an express company at a regular station for shipment at 2 o'clock P. M., and the trains carrying express freight in the direction of the place to which it was to be consigned passed only at 12:55 o'clock each day. A regulation of the company that money would be received for shipment only on the morning before the train on which it was to be transported passed, would not protect the company in an action brought to recover a penalty incurred by violation of this section. Alsop v. Southern Express Co., 104 N. C. 278, 10 S. E. 297.

Meaning of "Under Existing Laws."—The words "under existing laws," in this section, qualify the word "forward," and are used in reference to the rules governing the legal relations of consignor, consignee and the connecting lines. Alsop v. Southern Express Co., 104 N. C. 278, 10 S. E. 297.

Who Is the "Party Aggrieved."—The shipper of the goods is the "party aggrieved," and is the one entitled to sue for the penalty prescribed in this section which arises from the wrongful refusal of the carrier's agent to accept them for transportation. Reid v. Southern R. Co., 149 N. C. 423, 63 S. E. 112.

Same—Consignee of Goods Shipped on Approval.—A consignee to whom goods are shipped on approval owes it as a duty to the consignee to return them if they are unsatisfactory, and he must do so to relieve himself of liability to the consignor; and he is the party aggrieved, under this section, and may maintain his action thereunder for the penalty prescribed upon the refusal of the carrier to accept them for shipment. Burlington Lumber Co. v. Southern R. Co., 152 N. C. 70, 67 S. E. 167.

Same—Agent of Attaching Creditor.—The penalty prescribed by this section is for the person who is interested in having the goods shipped, and whose legal right in respect thereto is denied; and a person may not maintain an action for the penalty, as the party aggrieved, who has no right or interest in the goods tendered by him for shipment, except as agent or attorney for an attaching creditor and surety on his attachment bond, after the debt has been paid and the goods released. McRackan v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 150 N. C. 331, 63 S. E. 1042.

Goods Not Delivered to Carrier.—When the plaintiff did not deliver the goods to the carrier because they could not be transported by a train then getting ready to leave the station, but carried it back and shipped it the next day, a nonsuit should be allowed. Cox v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 148 N. C. 459, 62 S. E. 556.

No Penalty for Refusal to Accept Loose Hay.—Where the Corporation Commission has authorized and fixed and approved the charges for the transportation of baled hay, without expressly requiring its acceptance by the carrier when unbaled or loose, and by express provision it does not require the carrier to receive "cotton or other merchandise and warehouse the same unless the articles offered are in good shipping condition, etc., the carrier is not liable, for the penalty prescribed by this section, for refusing to receive for shipment a car-load of loose hay, such shipments evidently being of such a character as to endanger the property, not only of the carrier, but that of others received by the carrier for shipment. Tilley v. Norfolk & Western R. Co., 162 N. C. 37, 77 S. E. 994.

Embargo on Consignee's Freight. — A railroad company may show, in defense to an action for refusal to receive goods for shipment when tendered, such matters as would excuse its failure to do so at common law, unavoidable conditions then existing, over which it had no control; when a carrier has refused a shipment of the nature and kind it was its business to receive, and which it could have received at the point tendered without working a hardship or oppression, it is no defense for it to show that, for the reason of the consignee's blocking the freight yards at destination, an embargo had been placed by the railroad for shipments tendered to be forwarded to him there. Garrison v. Southern R. Co., 150 N. C. 575, 64 S. E. 578.

Embargo by Connecting Carrier.—The penalty imposed by this section is enforcible against a railroad company refusing to receive freight when tendered, though to reach destination it was necessary for another road to receive and transport it beyond the junctional point; and it is no valid excuse that the connecting line had laid an embargo on the consignee, for it was the duty of the initial carrier to transport the goods and make a tender to the connecting line to be relieved of the penalty. Wampum Cotton Mills v. Carolina & Northwestern R. Co., 150 N. C. 612, 64 S. E. 588.

When Rate Unknown.—Where the defendant carrier refused to receive for shipment goods tendered to it, basing its right to refuse upon the ground that it was necessary for the shipment to go over lines of connecting carriers in order to reach its destination and that no joint rate had been made, the plaintiff offered to prepay the freight, and asked for a bill of lading, it was the duty of the defendant, to accept the shipment, forward it to its connecting line; and to use reasonable means of ascertaining the rate of freight, by wire if necessary, for the issuance of a through bill of lading. Reid v. Southern R. Co., 153 N. C. 490, 69 S. E. 618.

In an action to recover the penalties alleged to have been incurred under this section, for refusing to receive freight for transportation, where the plaintiff delivered freight for shipment at the defendant's station and tendered the charges, and an agent received the freight for storage, but refused to give a bill of lading because he did not know the freight rates, and kept the freight twelve days there was a refusal "to receive for transportation," and the action is brought under the proper statute. Twitty v. Southern R. Co., 141 N. C. 355, 53 S. E. 957.

Mismarking of Part of Shipment.—In an action to recover a penalty against a carrier for failing to ship one of four packages consigned for shipment under a single bill of lading, the defendant is estopped to claim as a defense that the mismarking of three of the packages was a sufficient excuse for failing to ship the fourth. Grocery Co. v. Sou. R. Co., 136 N. C. 396, 48 S. E. 801.

Freight Not Consigned to Regular Station.—A refusal of the carrier's agent to receive, at its depot, freight, and transportation charges therefor, destined for a point on the carrier's road which was only a siding, and was not a regular station, is wrongful, and subjects the carrier to the penalty prescribed by this section when the refusal is on the ground that the agent did not know where the given destination was, and it appears that he could have ascertained that freight was ordinarily shipped there on way bills made out to a regular station on the carrier's road some two miles distant therefrom. Reid v. Southern R. Co., 149 N. C. 423, 63 S. E. 112.

Tender of Freight Eight Minutes before Train. — Where the plaintiff tendered to the defendant thirty crates of strawberries at a small station requiring only one agent to attend to the various duties of express, telegraph, and railroad agent, when the train for which the shipment was intended was seen approaching the depot, and about eight minutes before its arrival there; a charge of the court that it was for the jury to determine whether, under the circumstances, the tender of the shipment for that train was in time was not open to plaintiff's objection. Shaw v. Southern Express Co., 171 N. C. 216, 88 S. E. 222.

Need Not Accept Express for All Trains.—An express company is not liable for damages, and the statutory penalties of this section for refusing to receive a shipment of thirty crates of strawberries for a certain train not carrying accommodations for shipments of this character, though it had taken, on occasion, a few berries thereon for the plaintiff, when it so advertised, the shipper knew of it, and accommodations on other daily trains were specially provided. Shaw v. Southern Express Co., 171 N. C. 216, 88 S. E. 222.

Conclusiveness of Referee's Findings.—Where in an action to recover the prescribed penalties under this section the referee finds upon ample evidence in a hearing in which no error of law is committed, that the shipment came within a certain classification, and that the shipper tendered the correct amount for such classification, and the finding is approved by the trial court, such finding is conclusive on appeal, and the carrier may not successfully contend that the shipment came within another classification for which higher freight charges were prescribed, and where a higher tariff has been charged on one shipment the shipper is entitled to recover the excess paid. Corbett v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 205 N. C. 85, 170 S. E. 129.

Sufficiency of Evidence.—Evidence that shipper's contract to deliver certain merchandise was canceled because of carrier's wrongful refusal to accept the merchandise for shipment is sufficient to support the referee's finding of actual damages, profits which would have been certainly realized but for carrier's wrongful refusal of the shipment being recoverable under this section. Corbett v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 205 N. C. 85, 170 S. E. 129.

§ 3516. Penalty for failure to transport within reasonable time.—It shall be unlawful for any railroad company, steamboat company, express company or other transportation company doing business in this state to omit or neglect to transport within a reasonable time any goods, merchandise or other articles of value received by it for shipment and billed to or from any place in the state of North Carolina, unless otherwise agreed upon between the company and the shipper, or unless the same be burned, stolen or otherwise destroyed, or unless otherwise provided by the North Carolina corporation commission.

Any company violating any of the provisions of this section shall forfeit to the party aggrieved the sum of fifteen dollars for the first day and two dollars for each succeeding day of such unlawful detention or neglect where such shipment is made in carloads lots, and in less quantities there shall be a forfeiture in like manner of ten dollars for the first day and one dollar for each succeeding day, but the forfeiture shall not be collected for a period exceeding thirty days.

In reckoning what is a reasonable time for such transportation, it shall be considered that such transportation company has transported freight within a reasonable time if it has done so in the ordinary time required for transporting such articles of freight between the receiving and shipping stations. A delay of two days at the initial point and forty-eight hours at one intermediate point for each hundred miles of distance or fraction thereof over which such freight is to be transported shall not be charged against the transportation company as unreasonable and shall be held to be prima facie reasonable, and a failure to transport within such time shall be held prima facie unreasonable. This section shall be construed to refer not only to delay in starting the freight from the station where is it received, but to require the delivery at its destination within the time specified: Provided, that if such delay shall be due to causes which could not in the exercise of ordinary care have been foreseen, and which were unavoidable, then upon the establishment of these facts to the satisfaction of the justice of the peace or jury trying the cause, the defendant transportation company shall be relieved from any penalty for delay in the transportation of freight, but it shall not be relieved from the costs of such action. In all actions to recover penalties against a transportation company under this section, the burden of proof shall be upon the transportation company to show where the delay, if any, occurred. (Rev., s. 2632; 1903, c. 590, s. 3; 1905, c. 545; 1907, cc. 217, 461.)

As to delay in transportation of freight, generally, see 2 Enc. Dig. 782 and 811 et seq.; 13 Enc. Dig. 312, and 321 et seq.

See Editor's Note under section 3413.

Editor's Note.—Under this section as it formerly prevailed, a penalty was imposed for unreasonable delay in the transportation of goods. Construing the statute in Alexander v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 144 N. C. 93, 56 S. E. 697 the Court held that the term "transportation" did not include a delivery to consignee at the point of destination, and if goods shipped by a carrier had been properly placed at the point of destination, no penalty was incurred under this section for a negligent delay in delivery from the car or warehouse of the company. Subsequently the Legislature amended the statute so as to include delays in delivery after transportation had ceased.

For a review of the history of legislative penalties for the refusal of railroads to transport freight, see Grocery Co. v. Sou. R. Co., 136 N. C. 396, 48 S. E. 801.

Constitutionality of Section.—This section is in the nature of a police regulation and is constitutional and valid. Owens v. Hines, 178 N. C. 325, 100 S. E. 617; Davis v. Southern R. Co., 147 N. C. 68, 60 S. E. 722.

It does not deny to the carrier the equal protection of the laws. Rollins Seaboard Air Line Railway, 146 N. C. 153, 59 S. E. 671; Grocery Co. v. Sou. R. Co., 136 N. C. 396, 48 S. E. 801.

Common Law Duty.—This section does not supersede or alter the duty of a carrier at comon law, but merely enforces an admitted duty and superadds a penalty. Meredith v. Seaboard Air Line Ry. Co., 137 N. C. 478, 50 S. E. 1.

Section Strictly Construed.—This is a penal statute and must be strictly construed. Alexander v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 144 N. C. 93, 56 S. E. 697.

Does Not Apply to Interstate Shipments.—A penalty may not be recovered of the carrier of an interstate shipment for negligent delay in transportation, under this section. Bivens Bros. v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 176 N. C. 414, 97 S. E. 215. See, also, Hickory Marble Co. v. Southern R. Co., 147 N. C. 53, 60 S. E. 719.

Same—Although Both Terminal Points in State.—A penalty under this section cannot be recovered for the failure of a railroad company to transport freight within a reasonable time, when the initial and terminal points are within the State, but the shipment necessarily passes into another State in transitu. Such is interstate commerce and cannot be interferred with by the State. Shelby Ice, etc., Co. v. Southern R. Co., 147 N. C. 66, 60 S. E. 721.

Two Days Allowed at Initial Point.—Under this section, the carrier is allowed two days at the initial point for the transportation of freight instead of the one day allowed by general statute section 922. Wall-Huske Co. v. Southern R. Co., 147 N. C. 407, 61 S. E. 277.

Same—No Deduction for Receipt and Delivery.—Under this section the two days at the initial point are allowed for the purpose of giving a reasonable time to begin the transportation; the forty-eight hours at each intermediate point are allowed for the necessary change of cars or unloading and loading; and it is not a reasonable construction of the statute to deduct the day of the receipt and the day of delivery from the time thus fixed. Watson v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 145 N. C. 236, 59 S. E. 55.

Deductible Time Allowed Applies to Actions for Penalty as Well as Damages.—The deductible time allowed by this section in computing "reasonable time," to wit, "two days at the initial point and forty-eight hours at one intermediate point for each hundred miles distance or fraction thereof," applies to actions brought to recover the penalty given by said section and fixing the amount thereof, and not to actions for damages only. Talley v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 198 N. C. 492, 493, 152 S. E. 390.

"Intermediate Point" Defined.—An "intermediate point" for which time is allowed under this section, in transporting freight is only where the freight is transferred to another road. Davis v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 145 N. C. 207, 59 S. E. 53.

In shipment of less than car-load lots a point where they are ordinarily transferred from one car to another in transit, at a junctional point on the same road, is an intermediate point, within the meaning of this section. Blue Ridge Collection Agency v. Southern R. Co., 147 N. C. 593, 61 S. E. 462.

Same—Transfer at Carrier's Distributing Point.—When a car-load intrastate shipment necessarily is transferred without breaking bulk from one road of the carrier's system to another thereof at a general distributing point in the carrier's system in order to reach destination, the carrier is allowed thereat the statutory time for transportation at such point as an intermediate point. Wall-Huske Co. v. Southern R. Co., 147 N. C. 407, 61 S. E. 277.

"Ordinary Time" a Question for Jury.—The question of "ordinary time" for the transportation of freight by the carrier, in a suit for a penalty for failure to transport, under this section, is a question of fact for the jury. Wall-Huske Co. v. Southern R. Co., 147 N. C. 407, 61 S. E. 277; Shelby Ice, etc., Co. v. Southern R. Co., 147 N. C. 66, 60 S. E. 721.

In an action for the recovery of a penalty under this section, it was for the jury to find what was "ordinary" time, under the surrounding circumstances, and whether the defendant transported freight within such time; also, the amount of recovery after allowing for the "lay days," etc., provided by this section. It is error for the trial court to instruct the jury, if they believed the evidence, to answer the issue in a certain way or in a sum certain. Davis v. Southern R. Co., 147 N. C. 68, 60 S. E. 722.

Same—No Fixed Rule.—This section does not fix a "hard and fast" rule in defining reasonable time. From the "ordinary time" within which the jury find the goods should have been transported and delivered, the court must deduct two days at the "initial point" and forty-eight hours at each "intermediate point," and for all time in excess thereof the statutory penalty may be recovered. Jenkins v. Southern R. Co., 146 N. C. 178, 59 S. E. 663.

Same—Burden of Proof.—When the evidence discloses that the time taken by the railroad company for transporting goods, etc., was prima facie reasonable as fixed by the statute, the question of reasonable time is one for the jury to measure by the statutory standard, the burden of proof being upon the plaintiff. Alexander v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 144 N. C. 93, 56 S. E. 697.

Same—Evidence.—In an action to recover the penalty given by this section, the burden of proof is on the plaintiff to show that the carrier failed to transport and deliver the goods within a reasonable time, which is defined to be the "ordinary time" required to transport and deliver. This may be shown by proving the distance over which the goods are to be transported and the time consumed therein. From this evidence the jury may, as a matter of common knowledge and observation, draw the conclusion whether, in view of the usual speed of freight trains, the time consumed, the distance, and other conditions the carrier has failed to transport and deliver within a reasonable time. Jenkins v. Southern R. Co., 146 N. C. 178, 59 S. E. 663.

Same—Illustrations.—When there is evidence that the time in transporting a certain shipment from one station to another on the same railroad, leading directly to the point of destination, and only 25 miles apart, was twelve days, the jury will be permitted, from their common observation and experience, to consider and determine the question of ordinary time between the two points, and in the absence of explanation by defendant, fix the amount of wrongful delay. Rollins v. Seaboard Air Line Railway, 146 N. C. 153, 59 S. E. 671.

When it is admitted that certain articles were received by defendant, to be transported and delivered to plaintiff, the party aggrieved, both points being in the State, the distance separating them 58 miles, with but one intermediate point between the place of shipment and destination, and that they were not delivered to plaintiff within twenty-one days, the delay was unreasonable. Watson v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 145 N. C. 236, 59 S. E. 55. The official headnote to this case is misleading.—Ed. Note.

Computation of Time.—The time in which railroads shall transport freight shall be computed by excluding the first day and including the last, except when the last day falls on Sunday. Davis v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 145 N. C. 207, 59 S. E. 53.

When the carrier was allowed two days time for a shipment at an intermediate point, and therefore could not deliver it before Sunday, delivery on the next succeeding day was a compliance with the law. Blue Ridge Collection Agency v. Southern R. Co., 147 N. C. 593, 61 S. E. 462.

In a suit for penalty against the carrier for failure to transport freight, under this section, the defense that the last day, being Sunday, should not be counted, under section 3480, is unavailable when it is made to appear that the delay chargeable began to run and to be counted from the Saturday preceding; for the charge for delay having once begun to run, it continues to run without deduction for Sundays or holidays. Wall-Huske Co. v. Southern R. Co., 147 N. C. 407, 61 S. E. 277; Watson v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 145 N. C. 236, 59 S. E. 55.

Issues.—An issue which presupposes a failure on defendant's part in its duty to transport freight, in an action for penalty, under this section, is objectionable. Davis v. Southern R. Co., 147 N. C. 68, 60 S. E. 722.

Who Entitled to Recover.—The real "party aggrieved" is entitled to recover the penalty, under this section, irrespective of the question of knowledge of or notice to the defendant. Cardwell v. Southern R. Co., 146 N. C. 218, 59 S. E. 673.

Who Is "Party Aggrieved."—The plaintiff may maintain his action against the defendant railroad company, under this section, for wrongful failure to transport certain goods received by the latter, and bill of lading issued by it to plaintiff, when it appears that plaintiff shipped the goods to be for his benefit sold by the consignee, and that he (the plaintiff) was the one who alone acquired the right to demand the service to be rendered by the defendant, and was the party aggrieved. Rollins v. Seaboard Air Line Railway, 146 N. C. 153, 59 S. E. 671.

When the consignor ships goods to be sold for his own benefit, he is the "party aggrieved," under this section, and the proper party plaintiff. Robertson v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 148 N. C. 323, 62 S. E. 413.

Same—Party Whose Legal Right Denied.—The plaintiff is entitled to recover the penalty as the "party aggrieved," under this section, for the defendant's wrongfully failing to transport freight within a reasonable time, where the facts show that, from the attendant circumstances or terms of the agreement, he is the one whose legal right is denied and who is alone interested in having the transportation properly made. Cardwell v. Southern R. Co., 146 N. C. 218, 59 S. E. 673.

Same—Goods Not to Be Paid for until Delivery.—When the consignor had agreed with the consignee that the latter was only required to pay for the intrastate shipment when it reached its destination, the consignor may maintain his action for delay in transitu, as the party aggrieved. Davis v. Southern R. Co., 147 N. C. 68, 60 S. E. 722.

When, by the contract or agreement between a vendor and vendee of goods, the goods are to be "received, inspected and weighed" by the vendee before any part of the purchase price is payable, the title does not vest in the vendee, and the vendor is the "party aggrieved" under the meaning of this section. Elliott v. Southern R. Co., 155 N. C. 235, 71 S. E. 339.

Same—Notice Immaterial.—When it is shown that the plaintiff is the "party aggrieved," under this section, it is of no importance and bears in no way on the justice of plaintiff's demand or of defendant's obligation, whether defendant knew who was the party aggrieved, either at the inception of the matter or at any other time. Rollins v. Seaboard Air Line Railway, 146 N. C. 153, 59 S. E. 671.

Action Not Brought "on Relation of State."—Under this section, the action for penalty is given directly to the party aggrieved, and is not required to be brought "on relation of the State." If it were, that would be a mere informality, which could be remedied by amendment. Robertson v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 148 N. C. 323, 62 S. E. 413.

No Right to Hold Freight Full Time Limit.—This section providing that a carrier shall not allow any freight to remain at any "intermediate point" for more than forty-eight hours, does not authorize the carrier to hold it at each of such points the extreme limit, without any necessity for detaining it at all. Meredith v. Seaboard Air Line Ry. Co., 137 N. C. 478, 50 S. E. 1.

When Transportation Ceases.—Transportation ceases when the duty of the carrier as a warehouseman commences, and in respect to freight transported in carload lots, when the car reaches destination and is placed for unloading. What particular parts of the carrier's tracks and freight yards may be used for such purposes must of necessity be left to its discretion, but the car must be reasonably accessible and placed for delivery before transportation is fully ended. Brooks Mfg. Co. v. Southern R. Co., 152 N. C. 665, 669, 68 S. E. 243.

Transportation does not cease when a car-load is placed by the carrier within the yard limits of the point of destination. Wall-Huske Co. v. Southern R. Co., 147 N. C. 407, 61 S. E. 277.

Delivery Does Not Have to Be on Private Tracks.—This section does not apply to a delivery on the private tracks of a consignee; but to avoid the penalty it is required of the carrier to place for delivery a carload shipment on its track at destination at a place reasonably accessible. Brooks Mfg. Co. v. Southern R. Co., 152 N. C. 665, 68 S. E. 243.

When Goods Travel over Several Lines.—When the initial carrier delivers goods to its connecting carrier, necessary for them to be by it further transported to their destination, and an unreasonable delay occurs, without evidence as to which carrier was responsible for the delay, the defendant, the initial carrier, is liable for the entire delay, the burden of proof being upon it as the party having the evidence peculiarly within its own knowledge or possession. Watson v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 145 N. C. 236, 59 S. E. 55.

Same—Parties to Action.—Where an intrastate shipment of goods is transported over connecting lines to its destination, it is proper for the trial court to make both roads parties to an action to recover the penalty for the failure to transport safely and within a reasonable time, the burden being upon each defendant to show that it had not failed in its duty. Sellars Hosiery Mills v. Southern R. Co., 174 N. C. 449, 93 S. E. 952.

When Bill of Lading Not Presumptive Evidence.—When it was the consignor's duty to load a car for shipment, which had been placed at its mill by the carrier, and the carrier's agent gave a bill of lading upon the statement of the consignor that the car had been loaded, without being required to verify the statement, the bill of lading is not presumptive evidence of the receipt of the contents of the car, and the question is an open one for the jury in a suit by the consignee for the penalty for failure to deliver under this section. Peele v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 149 N. C. 390, 63 S. E. 66.

As to bills of lading, generally, see section 280 et seq.

Negligent Default in Delivery.—This section extends the penalty to cases of negligent default in the carrier's making delivery of the freight to the consignee. Mitchell v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 183 N. C. 162, 110 S. E. 859.

Duty to Notify Consignee.—Where a shipment of goods is delivered to a railroad company for transportation, the title vests in the consignee, with the duty resting upon the carrier on the arrival of the goods at destination to notify the consignee and make delivery. This principle applies to a side-station when notification of arrival should have been given from a nearby station, and the inquiring consignee was there misinformed as to the arrival, and the car in the meanwhile was broken into and the shipment stolen. Acme Mfg. Co. v. Tucker, 183 N. C. 303, 111 S. E. 525.

Burden of Proof as to Destruction of Goods.—The burden of proof is on the carrier to show that it is relieved of the penalty prescribed by this section, under the provision thereof, because the goods were "burned, stolen or destroyed." That the goods were placed in defendant's car by the initial carrier, that search had been made therefor, without stating how thorough, and the absence of evidence that the goods had since been seen, is no evidence that they were "burnt, stolen or destroyed." Robertson v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 148 N. C. 323, 62 S. E. 413.

Verdict Incomplete.—Where it is established by the jury that a consignment of goods was carried to the delivering point by the carrier, its failure to deliver to the consignee, or to notify him, and the goods are lost while in its possession, the verdict is incomplete when there was no issue submitted as to whether the carrier, who is a party to the action, was in default in not delivering it to the consignee. Acme Mfg. Co. v. Tucker, 183 N. C. 303, 111 S. E. 525.

Sufficiency of Evidence on Motion for Nonsuit.—Where a shipment of various articles was transported by the carrier to destination, and all were received by the consignee, except one of them, which was missing, and remained in the carrier's warehouse beyond the statutory reasonable time the motion for nonsuit was properly denied. Mitchell v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 183 N. C. 162, 110 S. E. 859.

Joinder of Actions.—An action for damages against a carrier for a lost shipment, and one for the penalty for unreasonable delay given by this section, do not merge into each other. They arise on contract and may be joined in the same action. Robertson v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 148 N. C. 323, 62 S. E. 413.

Regulation of Dangerous Article.—The Corporation Commission is given the power to make orders and regulations for the safety, etc., of shippers or patrons of any public-service corporation, and particularly to regulate the shipment of articles rendering transportation dangerous, such as inflammable articles of freight. Tilley v. Norfolk & Western R. Co., 162 N. C. 37, 77 S. E. 994.

Applied in Alexander v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 144 N. C. 93, 56 S. E. 697.

For special law as to Duplin County, see Public Laws 1911, c. 214.

§ 3518. Freight charges to be at legal rates; penalty for failure to deliver to consignee on tender of same.—All common carriers doing business in this state shall settle their freight charges according to the rate stipulated in the bill of lading, provided the rate therein stipulated be in conformity with the classifications and rates made and filed with the interstate commerce commission in case of shipments from without the state and with those of the corporation commission of this state in case of shipments wholly within this state, by which classifications and rates all consignees shall in all cases be entitled to settle freight charges with such carriers; and it shall be the duty of such common carriers to inform any consignee of the correct amount due for freight according to such classification and rates. Upon payment or tender of the amount due on any shipment which has arrived at its destination according to such classification and rates, such common carrier shall deliver the freight in question to the consignee. Any failure or refusal to comply with the provisions hereof shall subject such carrier so failing or refusing to a penalty of fifty dollars for each such failure or refusal, to be recovered by any consignee aggrieved by any suit in any court of competent jurisdiction. (Rev., s. 2633; 1905, c. 330.)

See Editor's Note under section 3413.

Cross Reference.—As to filing and adjustment of claims, see section 3524 and notes thereto; as to the bill of lading, see sections 280 et seq.; as to the power of the utilities commissioner to fix freight rates, see section 1066. For present established rates, see section 1080; as to the power of the utilities commissioner to regulate the delivery of freight, see section 1053; as to the carrier's duty to deliver goods, see 2 Enc. Dig. 796; as to the carrier's duty in making delivery, see 2 Enc. Dig. 810 et seq.; 13 Enc. Dig. 319 et seq.

Constitutionality of Section.—The penalty for failure of a common carrier to deliver freight, as prescribed by this section, shipped from beyond the State, after it has been unloaded from its cars and while in the depot, is constitutional and not a burden upon interstate commerce. Hockfield v. Southern R. Co., 150 N. C. 419, 64 S. E. 181; Jeans v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 164 N. C. 224, 80 S. E. 242.

A railroad company owes it as a common-law duty to deliver freight upon tender of lawful charges by the consignee, and, in the absence of a conflicting regulation by Congress, this section, imposing a penalty upon default of the railroad company therein, is constitutional and valid, and is an aid to, rather than a burden upon, interstate commerce. Harrill Bros. v. Southern R. Co., 144 N. C. 532, 57 S. E. 383.

Foreign Corporation Bound to Obey Laws.—Where a railroad corporation chartered by another state, leases a railroad chartered by this state, it is bound to observe and obey all laws of this state regulating the business of transportation. Hines v. Wilmington, etc., R., 95 N. C. 434.

Intrastate Rebilling of Interstate Shipment.—An interstate shipment of goods which was missent, bill of lading lost, and rebilled from one point in the State to another therein, is an intrastate shipment, and upon the carrier's violating the provisions of this section, the penalty therein accrues. Hockfield v. Southern R. Co., 150 N. C. 419, 64 S. E. 181.

Section Not Cumulative.—This section imposes only one penalty for the refusal of the railroad company to deliver freight upon demand and tender of charges, and it is not cumulative upon more than one demand for the same offense. Harrill Bros. v. Southern R. Co., 144 N. C. 532, 57 S. E. 383.

Consignee Must Produce Bill of Lading.—A consignee must produce, upon the carrier's demand, a bill of lading for a prepaid shipment of goods in the carrier's possession. Jeans v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 164 N. C. 224, 80 S. E. 242; as to the bill of lading, generally, see section 280 et seq.

Insufficient Notice to Consignee.—Notice given by a carrier of the arrival of goods to a transfer company in the habit of hauling consignor's goods from the depot is not of itself sufficient notice to the consignee. Hockfield v. Southern R. Co., 150 N. C. 419, 64 S. E. 181.

Burden of Proof.—Where the consignee brings his action to recover the value of a shipment of goods from the carrier, shows that the shipment was addressed to him, was prepaid, in the carrier's possession at destination, and a demand for delivery, the burden is on the carrier to show a valid reason for its refusal to deliver the shipment. Jeans v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 164 N. C. 224, 80 S. E. 242.

No Liability for Unlawful Shipment.—A druggist who has not received a valid license to sell intoxicating liquors for the purposes and in the manner indicated, may not recover of the carrier the penalty by this section, for the failure to deliver such liquors to him for the purpose of sale, for such are unlawful and prohibited. Smith v. Southern Express Co., 166 N. C. 155, 82 S. E. 15.

Carrier Cannot Collect Storage for Illegal Detainment.—A carrier cannot enforce collection of storage charges arising from its wrongful refusal to deliver goods to consignee. Hockfield v. Southern R. Co., 150 N. C. 419, 64 S. E. 181.

Agent Ignorant of Amount of Charges.—It is no defense to an action to recover a penalty for refusing to deliver shipment upon tender of freight charges by the consignee, for the defendant company to show its agents did not know the correct amount of the charges because of the defendant's failure to file its schedule of rates. Harrill Bros. v. Southern R. Co., 144 N. C. 532, 57 S. E. 383.

Rate When Smaller Cars Furnished.—Where a consignor requested two cars of a certain standard size and the carrier furnished four cars of a smaller size the rate for the shipment must be the same. Yorke Furniture Co. v. Railroad, 162 N. C. 138, 78 S. E. 67.

§ 3519. Charging unreasonable freight rates misdemeanor.—If any railroad company doing business in this state shall charge, collect, demand or receive more than a fair and reasonable rate of toll or compensation for the transportation of freight of any description, or for the use and transportation of any railroad car upon its track or any of the branches thereof or upon any railroad in this state which has the right, license or permission to use, operate or control the same, it shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be fined not less than five hundred nor more than five thousand dollars. (Rev., s. 3768; 1899, c. 164, s. 12.)

For a similar provision applying to passenger rates, see section 3491. See, also, section 1082, forbidding railroads from receiving greater rates than these established by section 1080.

§ 3520. Allowing or accepting rebates or pooling freights misdemeanor. — If any person shall be concerned in pooling freights or shall directly or indirectly allow or accept rebates on freights he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined not less than one thousand dollars or imprisoned not less than twelve months. (Rev., s. 3762; Code, s. 1968; 1879, c. 237, s. 2.)

Cited in McGwigan v. Wilmington & W. R. R., 95 N. C. 428, 445.

§ 3521. Partial charges for partial deliveries. —Whenever any freight of any kind shall be received by any common carrier in this state to be delivered to any consignee in this state, and a portion of the same shall not h ve been received at the place of destination, it shall not be lawful for the carrier to demand any part of the charges for freight, or transportation due for such portion of the shipment as shall not have reached the place of destination. The carrier shall be required to deliver to the consignee such portion of the consignment as shall have been received upon the payment or tender of the freight charges due upon such portion. But nothing in this section shall be construed as interferring with, or depriving a consignor, or other person having authority, of his rights of stoppage in transitu. (Rev., s. 2641; 1893, c. 495.)

See section 3514 and notes thereto.

§ 3522. Placing cars for loading.—Whenever any person, firm or corporation intending to ship freight makes a written application to any railroad company for cars to be loaded in carload lots with any kind of freight embraced in the tariffs of the company, stating in the application the character of the freight, the number of cars wanted, the station, depot, siding, wharf or boat-landing on the line of the company whence the shipment is to be moved, and its final destination, the railroad company shall furnish the cars within four days from seven o'clock a. m., the day following such application. The application must be delivered to the agent of the railroad company at the station at or nearest the point of shipment. Any railroad company failing to furnish the cars named in such written application shall be subject to a penalty of five dollars per car per day for each car not furnished, to be recovered by the person, firm or corporation making application: Provided, that the railroad company, before furnishing the cars upon such application, may require the person, firm or corporation applying for the same to deposit five dollars for each car so demanded at the time the application is made, which deposit of five dollars for each car may be retained by the said railroad company as a forfeit for trackage in case the car or cars are not loaded within forty-eight hours after notice of the placement of car or cars in accordance with demand: Provided, that the corporation commission may excuse from the penalties imposed by this section independent lines not owned, operated, or controlled by any other line or system when trackage is less than one hundred miles. (1907, c. 217, s. 3.)

See Editor's Note under section 3413.

As to the power of the utilities commissioner to make rules for the loading of cars and demurrage, see section 3522.

Carrier Entitled to Notice.—The carrier is entitled to reasonable notice from the shipper for placing a car to be loaded, and when written notice is required by its rules, the rule may be waived or abandoned by a verbal agreement. Futch v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 178 N. C. 282, 100 S. E. 436.

Same—No Liability for Penalty unless Four Days Notice Given.—A railway company is not liable for the penalty for failure to furnish cars to those who apply in writing when the company is not allowed the four days therein specified within which to furnish them, notwithstanding the railway company did not furnish them for twenty-three days. McDuffie v. Seaboard Air Line Ry., 145 N. C. 397, 59 S. E. 122.

When Action Not Brought for Penalty.—Where the recovery of the penalty is not sought, but the action is to recover damages for the carrier's failure to receive and ship the goods, a written demand for the cars is not required, and a verbal one is sufficient. Bell v. Norfolk Southern R. Co., 163 N. C. 180, 79 S. E. 421.

Failure to Furnish Ventilated Cars.—When a railroad company fails in its duty to furnish the shipper a ventilated car for transporting his fruit, and furnishes a box car instead, the company is not relieved from liability solely by the fact that the shipper knew his fruit was forwarded in a box car. Forrester & Co. v. Southern R. Co., 147 N. C. 553, 61 S. E. 524.

Interstate Shipment.—An action may be brought in the state courts to recover damages for failure to furnish cars to be used in interstate commerce. Smart v. Tallulah Falls R. Co., 173 N. C. 650, 92 S. E. 929.

Cited in Pinehurst Peach Co. v. Norfolk Southern R. Co., 201 N. C. 176, 159 S. E. 359.

§ 3523. Baggage and freight to be carefully handled.—All railroad and steamboat companies shall handle with care all baggage and freights placed with them for transportation, and they shall be liable in damages for any and all injuries to the baggage or freight of persons from whom they have collected fare or charged freight, while the same is under their control. Upon proof of injury to baggage or freight in the possession or under the control of any such company it shall be presumed that the injury was caused by the negligence of the company. (Rev., s. 2624; 1879, c. 46.)

As to the power of the utilities commissioner to regulate the delivery of freight and baggage, see section 1053.

Delivery Necessary.—To fix the responsibility for lost baggage upon a railroad company, either as a common carrier or warehouseman, a delivery, actual or constructive, including an acceptance by the company, is necessary; and in order to a valid delivery the general rule is that when baggage is taken by others to the station, and to places where baggage is usually received, some kind of notice must be given to the agent authorized to receive it. Williams v. Southern R. Co., 155 N. C. 260, 71 S. E. 346.

Same—Estoppel.—The requisites of the general rule to affect delivery of baggage of a passenger to a railroad company in order to hold the company liable may become modified by a custom of the latter to consider and treat baggage as received when left at a given place, without further notice. Williams v. Southern R. Co., 155 N. C. 260, 71 S. E. 346.

Stipulations Limiting Liability.—Stipulations upon a railroad ticket, limiting the liability of the carrier in a specified sum "unless a greater value has been declared by the owner and excess charges paid thereon at the time of taking passage," and similar provisions in a bill of lading for the transportation of freight, are void as an attempt on the part of the carrier to contract against its own negligence. Cooper v. Norfolk Southern R. Co., 161 N. C. 400, 77 S. E. 339.

A common carrier cannot contract with a passenger against the loss of baggage by its negligence. Thomas v. Southern R. Co., 131 N. C. 590, 42 S. E. 964.

Liability for Non-Personal Baggage.—While the obligation of a carrier of passengers is limited to ordinary baggage, yet if it knowingly permits a passenger, either with or without payment of an extra charge, to take articles as baggage which are not properly such, it will be liable for their loss or for damage to them, though it may have been without any fault. Trouser Co. v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 139 N. C. 382, 51 S. E. 973.

When Liability as Carrier Ceases.—When the baggage has arrived at its destination and has been deposited at the usual or customary place of delivery and kept there a sufficient time for the passenger to claim and remove the same, the company's liability as a common carrier ceases, and it is thereafter liable only as a warehouseman, and bound to the use of ordinary care. Trouser Co. v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 139 N. C. 382, 51 S. E. 973.

Liability When Passenger Not Carried.—When there is no partnership arrangements between connecting lines of railroads, and a passenger buys a through ticket from a carrier to his destination on a connecting line, checks his trunk through to his destination and voluntarily returns to the starting point without going upon the road of the connecting lines, the latter carrier is not liable as insurer of the contents of the trunk from larceny by reason of taking the trunk to its destination, storing it there in its baggage room until its return was requested and then forwarding it to the junctional point, without compensation. Kindley v. Seaboard Air Line Ry. Co., 151 N. C. 207, 65 S. E. 897.

Baggage Not on Same Train.—The passenger's right to a limited amount of baggage as a part of the consideration for the price of his ticket is upon the condition that the baggage accompany the passenger on the same train; and where without any default on the part of the carrier, its agent, without further charge, has the baggage forwarded on a later train, the carrier's liability is not that of an insurer, but of a gratuitous bailee, under the rule of the prudent man, and attaches only in instances of gross negligence. Perry v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 171 N. C. 158, 88 S. E. 156.

§ 3524. Claims for loss of or damage to goods; filing and adjustment.—Every claim for loss of or damage to property while in possession of a common carrier, including every express company, firm or corporation doing an express business within the state, shall be adjusted and paid within ninety days in case of shipments wholly within the state and within four months in case of shipments from without the state, after the filing of such claim with the agent of such carrier at the point of destination of such shipment, or point of delivery to another common carrier, by the consignee, or at the point of origin by the consignor, when it shall appear that the consignor was the owner of the shipment: Provided, that no such claim shall be filed until after the arrival of the shipment, or some part thereof, at the point of destination, or until after the lapse of a reasonable time for the arrival thereof.

In every case such common carrier shall be liable for the amount of such loss or damage, together with interest thereon from the date of the filing of the claim therefor until the payment thereof. Failure to adjust and pay such claim within the periods respectively herein prescribed shall subject each common carrier so failing to a penalty of fifty dollars for each and every such failure, to be recovered by any consignee aggrieved (or consignor, when it shall appear that the consignor was the owner of the property at the time of shipment and at the time of suit, and is, therefore, the party aggrieved), in any court of competent jurisdiction: Provided, that unless such consignee or consignor recover in such action the full amount claimed, no penalty shall be recovered, but only the actual amount of the loss or damage, with interest as aforesaid; and that no penalty shall be recoverable under the provisions of this section where claims have been filed by both the consignor and consignee, unless the time herein provided has elapsed after the withdrawal of one of the claims.

Causes of action for the recovery of the possession of the property shipped, for loss or damage thereto, and for the penalties herein provided for, may be united in the same complaint. (Rev., s. 2634; 1907, c. 983; 1911, c. 139.)

As to requirement of notice of loss, see 2 Enc. Dig. 831 et seq.; 13 Enc. Dig. 330 et seq.; as to the failure to adjust claims, see 2 Enc. Dig. 788 et seq.; 13 Enc. Dig. 312 et seq.; as to the loss or injury to goods, generally, see 2 Enc. Dig. 820 et seq.; 13 Enc. Dig. 339 et seq.

Section Strictly Construed.—This is a penal statute, and in order to recover, the plaintiff must bring his case strictly within its terms. Watkins v. American Ry. Express Co., 190 N. C. 605, 130 S. E. 305.

Section Must Be Followed.—The penalty imposed by this section is to enforce obedience to the mandate of the law by punishment of the carrier, and the statute must be strictly construed, requiring the consignee to bring his case clearly within its language and meaning; and in order to recover the penalty, the consignee must file his claim with the agent as the statute directs, and the filing thereof with another of the carrier's agents is insufficient. Eagles Co. v. East Carolina Ry., 184 N. C. 66, 113 S. E. 512.

Who May Bring Action.—Ordinarily the title to a shipment of goods by common carrier passes to the consignee upon their acceptance by the carrier, and he may sue for damages thereto in transit; but when it is shown that the consignee refused to accept the damaged goods, and that the sale has been canceled by consent, the consignor may maintain his action against the carrier for damages. Aydlett v. Norfolk Southern R. Co., 172 N. C. 47, 89 S. E. 1000.

Joinder of Causes of Action.—A recovery of the value of a shipment of goods and the penalties for the refusal of the carrier to deliver and for the failure to settle the claim within the statutory period, may be united in the same action. Jeans v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 164 N. C. 224, 80 S. E. 242.

Same—Issues Separate and Distinct.—In an action against a railroad company to recover damages to a shipment of goods and the penalty for the failure of defendant to pay the same within 90 days, as allowed by this section, the issues raised are entirely separate and distinct from each other, and the trial judge may set aside the verdict on the second issue, and retain that on the first one, for a retrial. Hussey v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 183 N. C. 7, 110 S. E. 599.

Carrier Cannot Contract against Own Negligence.—A common carrier may relieve itself from liability as an insurer upon a contract reasonable in its terms and founded upon a valuable consideration, but it cannot so limit its responsibility for loss or damage resulting from its negligence. Everett v. Norfolk, etc., R. Co., 138 N. C. 68, 50 S. E. 557; Mitchell v. Carolina Cent. R. Co., 124 N. C. 236, 32 S. E. 671.

Owner Cannot Refuse Damaged Goods.—Damages to a shipment of goods by a railroad company, caused by the carrier's negligence, does not justify the owner in refusing to accept them on that account, unless the damages are sufficient to render the goods practically worthless. He must accept the goods and sue for the damages upon the refusal of the carrier to pay them. Whittington v. Southern R. Co., 172 N. C. 501, 90 S. E. 505.

Prima Facie Case.—In an action against the carrier for damages for the destruction of a shipment of freight by fire, a prima facie case is made out when the plaintiff shows the receipt of the freight for transportation and its nondelivery. Osborne v. Southern Ry. Co., 175 N. C. 594, 96 S. E. 34; Everett v. Norfolk, etc., R. Co., 138 N. C. 68, 50 S. E. 557.

Same—Limited Liability.—In cases of limited liability, proof of shipment and loss or injury makes a prima facie case for the shipper, and then the burden is upon the carrier to show that the circumstances of the loss bring it within the excepted causes, and when this is shown, the burden still rests upon the carrier of showing that the loss or injury was not due to its own negligence. Mitchell v. Carolina Cent. R. Co., 124 N. C. 236, 32 S. E. 671.

Connecting Carriers—Duty Assumed by Carrier.—Where a carrier accepts goods for transportation, in the absence of a special contract, it assumes the duty of safely carrying, within a reasonable time, the goods to the end of its line, and delivering them in like condition to the connecting carrier. Meredith v. Seaboard Air Line Ry. Co., 137 N. C. 478, 50 S. E. 1.

Same—When Duty of Safe Carriage Attaches.—The duty of safe carriage attaches as the goods pass into the custody of each company, and ceases only when they are safely delivered to its successor. Lindley v. Richmond, etc., R. Co., 88 N. C. 547.

Same—Burden of Proof as to Safe Delivery.—On proof that a carrier received goods in good condition, the burden of proof rests upon such carrier to show delivery in the same condition to the next carrier or to the consignee, such proof being peculiarly within its power. Meredith v. Seaboard Air Line Ry. Co., 137 N. C. 478, 50 S. E. 1.

Same—Evidence.—To show that the freight was in good condition when it was delivered by the defendant to a connecting line, evidence that it is the custom of agents of such lines to examine freights before receiving them, and if found in good condition to forward them, and that such examination was made and forwarding was done, is admissible. Knott v. Raleigh, etc., R. Co., 98 N. C. 73, 3 S. E. 735.

Same—Prima Facie Case.—Where a shipment of goods is received by the consignee from the final carrier in bad condition, and there is evidence that this carrier received the goods from its connecting carrier in good condition, a prima facie case of negligence is made out against the delivering carrier, and presents sufficient evidence thereof to be submitted to the jury, with the burden of proof on it. Lyon v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 165 N. C. 143, 81 S. E. 1.

Same—Presumption of Damage.—Among connecting lines of railway, that one in whose hands goods are found damaged is presumed to have caused the damage and the burden is upon it to rebut the presumption. Gwyn Harper Mfg. Co. v. Carolina Central R., 128 N. C. 280, 38 S. E. 894; Mitchell v. Carolina Central R. Co., 124 N. C. 236, 32 S. E. 671; Morganton Mfg. Co. v. Ohio, etc., R. Co., 121 N. C. 514, 28 S. E. 474.

Same—Goods Found Damaged at Destination. — When goods are shipped over several connecting lines of carriers and are found in a damaged condition at destination, there is a presumption that the injury was negligently inflicted by the last carrier subject to be rebutted by evidence. Boss v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 156 N. C. 70, 72 S. E. 93. This in on the principle that as the carrier is peculiarly in a position to know the facts, the burden of proof should rest on it. Beville v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 159 N. C. 227, 74 S. E. 349.

Same—Liability for Negligence of Connecting Carrier.—A railroad company whose line is one of several connecting roads between places from and to which freight is shipped, in the absence of a special contract, or proof of copartnership by which each of the connecting lines will become liable for the contracts of the others, is not responsible for damages for negligence occurring beyond its terminus. Knott v. Raleigh, etc., R. Co., 98 N. C. 73, 3 S. E. 735.

But where two or more common carriers unite in forming an association creating a through line for the transportation of freight, payment of tariff charges to be made at the beginning or end of the transportation, with through bills of lading, the freight charges to be divided according to the respective mileage of the companies, they become a copartnership and each line is liable for any damage resulting from delay or otherwise on any part of the through line, notwithstanding a provision in the bill of lading that each company shall be liable only for loss or damage occurring on its own line. Rocky Mount Mills v. Wilmington, etc., R. Co., 119 N. C. 693, 25 S. E. 854.

Same — Interstate Shipments. — The Interstate Commerce Act and Carmack Amendment placed the entire regulation of interstate commerce under Federal control, and the penalty provided for by this section for failure of a carrier to pay a claim in the time prescribed does not apply to interstate shipments. See Morphis v. Express Co., 167 N. C. 139, 83 S. E. 1. These acts made the initial carrier liable for damages to a shipment made over connecting lines. However this does not relieve the intermediate or delivering carrier of responsibility for its own negligence, or prevent the state court from requiring the carriers to show which is responsible for the damage. See Aydlett v. Norfolk Sou. R. Co., 172 N. C. 47, 89 S. E. 100. And notice of damages to the initial carrier of an interstate shipment of goods is sufficient notice to the connecting carrier. Gilikin v. Norfolk Southern R. Co., 174 N. C. 137, 93 S. E. 469.

While the initial carrier may also be held liable for damages to a shipment, made over connecting lines, a direction of the court relieving it from liability does not necessarily relieve the carrier whose negligence caused the damages. Gilkin v. Railroad, 174 N. C. 137, 93 S. E. 469.

As to connecting carriers, generally, see 2 Enc. Dig. 834 et seq.; 13 Enc. Dig. 333 et seq.

Parol Agreement to Ship Sufficient.—When a carrier has received goods for transportation over its own and a connecting line which were not delivered, and upon consignor's parol request it has them reshipped to the initial or starting point, the latter agreement for reshipment, though resting in parol, is sufficient in an action for damages to the goods occurring while in the carrier's possession. Lyon v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 165 N. C. 143, 81 S. E. 1.

Filing of Claim Prerequisite to Penalty.—A consignor of a shipment of goods is required by this section to file his claim with the agent of the common carrier at the point of its origin, and this he must have done to maintain his action against the carrier for the penalty prescribed for its failure to settle for its loss, or damage thereto, within ninety days, etc. Hamlet Grocery Co. v. Southern R. Co., 170 N. C. 241, 87 S. E. 57.

Same—Carrier May Regulate.—A stipulation in a bill of lading denying the carrier's liability for damages unless written notice of such claim be filed within a specified period is in derogation of the common law, and while it will be upheld if reasonable, the burden of proof is on the carrier to show that it is. Phillips v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 172 N. C. 86, 89 S. E. 1057.

A stipulation that they must be filed in four months is reasonable. Culbreth v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 169 N. C. 723, 86 S. E. 624. An allowance of sixty days is reasonable. Gwyn-Harper Mfg. Co. v. Carolina Central R., 128 N. C. 280, 38 S. E. 894. But an allowance of thirty days is unreasonable. Gwyn-Harper Mfg. Co. v. Carolina Central R., 128 N. C. 280, 38 S. E. 894.

Same—Notice to Agent.—Where the second carrier in the connected line of shipment causes damages to the shipment by improperly loading it, it may not defeat an action to recover such damages, when the required notice within four months has been filed with and accepted without comment by it, on the ground that such notice had not been filed with the initial or final carrier under the terms of the contract of carriage. The doctrine of notice to the agent is applicable here. Aydlett v. Norfolk Southern R. Co., 172 N. C. 47, 89 S. E. 1000.

Same—Omission of Amount of Loss. — It is not required that a claimant state the amount of his loss, in his claim for damages against a carrier. McRary v. Southern Ry. Co., 174 N. C. 563, 94 S. E. 107.

Same—Interstate Shipments.—The Federal statutes, while recognizing the right of the carrier to stipulate for the filing of claims within a reasonable period, provide that if the loss or damage is due to a delay in transit by negligence no notice shall be required as a condition precedent to recovery. Mann v. Transportation Co., 176 N. C. 104, 96 S. E. 731.

Same — By Mail.—The essential things for the proper filing of the claim against the common carrier for damages, and for the penalty under the provisions of this section, being its delivery to and acceptance by the carrier's designated agent, such filing is not restricted to its manual delivery, but the same may be done through the agency of the United States mail. The delivery of the mail will be presumed. Eagles Co. v. East Carolina Railway, 184 N. C. 66, 113 S. E. 512.

Same—Necessity of Written Demand.—A penal statute is to be strictly construed, and the provisions of this section is not complied with when oral demand is made, as such cannot be filed under the ordinary acceptance of the word and does not afford the carrier the protection that a written demand would give. Thompson v. Southern Express Co., 147 N. C. 343, 61 S. E. 182. But it is no bar to a recovery from the carrier of actual damages sustained. Hinkle v. Southern Ry. Co., 126 N. C. 932, 36 S. E. 348; Kime v. Sou. R. Co., 153 N. C. 398, 69 S. E. 264.

Stipulations May Be Waived.—The stipulation in a live-stock bill of lading requiring that notice in writing be given the carrier's agent at destination, of claim for damages to the animals shipped, before they are removed or mingled with other animals, may be waived by the carrier's agent at the delivering point. Newborn v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 170 N. C. 205, 87 S. E. 37.

Recovery Must Equal Claim.—In order to recover the penalty for failure to settle a claim for damages within ninety days, etc., the burden is on plaintiff to show that the amount of his recovery be at least equal to the amount of his written demand. Watkins v. American Railway Express Co., 190 N. C. 605, 130 S. E. 305.

Settlement after Penalty Accrues.—The proviso that consignee must first recover the full amount claimed is only to protect the carrier against excessive demands and not to discourage settlements for losses, and the plaintiff's right to recover the penalty in such suits is not lost by accepting settlement for damages for full amount claimed after the penalty had accrued. Rabon v. Atlantic Coast Line R., 149 N. C. 59, 62 S. E. 743.

Plaintiff Must Prove Failure to Settle.—The burden is on plaintiff to show that the common carrier has failed to settle his claim in ninety days, etc., after written demand under the provisions of this section, applying to intrastate shipments, and the prima facie case made out by showing the unreasonable delay in the delivery of the shipment, is not sufficient. Watkins v. American Ry. Express Co., 190 N. C. 605, 130 S. E. 305.

Measure of Damages for Delay.—In the trial of an action against a railroad company for loss occasioned by its delay in transporting machinery shipped over its line by plaintiff, which was engaged in equipping a cotton factory, it appeared that workmen employed by the plaintiff were forced to remain idle, though under pay of plaintiff, the measure of plaintiff's damages was the interest on the unemployed capital, the wages paid to workmen and such other costs and expenses incurred by plaintiff in consequence of the delay. Rocky Mount Mills v. Wilmington, etc., R. Co., 119 N. C. 693, 25 S. E. 854.

§ 3525. Existing remedies to continue.—The preceding section shall not deprive any consignee of any rights or remedies now existing against common carriers in regard to freight charges or claims for loss or damage to freight, but shall be deemed and held as creating an additional liability upon such common carriers. (Rev., s. 2635; 1905, c. 330, s. 5.)

See section 3475 and notes thereto.

Common Law Remedies.—The common law remedies of shippers and passengers are not taken away by the provisions of this chapter. Bell v. Norfolk Sou. R. Co., 163 N. C. 180, 79 S. E. 42, and cases there cited.

Action May Be Brought in Contract or Tort.—A person who has sustained injuries by reason of the failure of a railroad company to provide proper means of transportation or operate its trains may bring an action on contract, or in tort, independent of the statute. Purcell v. Richmond & Danville R. Co., 108 N. C. 414, 12 S E. 954, 956; Va-Carolina Peanut Co. v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 155 N. C. 148, 71 S. E. 71.

§ 3526. Carrier's right against prior carrier.—Any common carrier, upon complying with the provisions of the two preceding sections, shall have all the rights and remedies herein provided for against a common carrier from which it receives the freight in question. (Rev., s. 2636; 1905, c. 330, s. 3.)

As to the power of the utilities commissioner to act as a board of arbitrators between carriers, see section 1059.

§ 3527. Regulation of demurrage.—No railroad or other transportation company doing business in the state shall make any charge on account of demurrage while a car, whether the same be a refrigerator car or not, is being loaded for shipment until it has remained at the place of loading for forty-eight hours from the time it has been so placed; but the corporation commission may change this provision, if it considers it unreasonable, under the power vested in it under the chapter Corporation Commission, to make regulations as to demurrage and the loading of cars. (Ex. Sess. 1913, c. 55.)

See Editor's Note under section 3413.

As to the power of the utilities commissioner to regulate demurrage, see section 1057.

§ 3528. Shipment of livestock on Scuppernong river regulated; violation of regulations misdemeanor.—If any transportation company or common carrier shall receive livestock for shipment at any of the landings or shipping points on Scuppernong river, Columbia excepted, between the hours of sunset and sunrise, or shall during the time any livestock may be held for shipment at any landing or shipping point on such river, Columbia excepted, fail to keep the same in a covered pound or inclosure, supplied with necessary food and drinking water, and at all times in full view of the public, such transportation company, common carrier, or the agent of either, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined or imprisoned, or both, at the discretion of the court. (Rev., s. 3675; 1903, c. 283.)

See State v. Southern R. Co., 141 N. C. 846, 54 S. E. 294.

§ 3529. Carload shipments of watermelons regulated; violation of regulations misdemeanor.—It shall be the duty of all common carriers to furnish the weights of all carload shipments of watermelons originating within the state to the shippers thereof within forty-eight hours after receipt of the same. Any common carrier violating the provisions of this section shall upon conviction be fined ten dollars for each offense. (Ex. Sess. 1913, c. 68.)

§ 3530. Express companies to settle promptly for cash-on-delivery shipments; penalty.—Every express company which shall fail to make settlement with the consignor of a cash-on-delivery shipment, either by payment of the moneys stipulated to be collected upon the delivery of the articles so shipped or by the return to such consignor of the article so shipped, within twenty days after demand made by the consignor and payment or tender of payment by him of the lawful charges for transportation, shall forfeit and pay to such consignor a penalty of twenty-five dollars, where the value of the shipment is twenty-five dollars or less, and, where the value of the shipment is over twenty-five dollars, a penalty equal to the value of the shipment; the penalty not to exceed fifty dollars in any case: Provided, no penalty shall be collectible where the shipments, through no act of negligence of the company, is burned, stolen or otherwise destroyed: Provided further, that the penalties here named shall not be in derogation of any right the consignor may now have to recover of the company damages for the loss of any cash-on-delivery shipment or for negligent delay in handling the same. (1909, c. 866.)

§ 3531. Failure to place name on produce shipped misdemeanor.—Any person, firm or corporation selling or offering for sale or consignment any barrel, crate, box, case, package or other receptacle containing any berries, fruit, melons, potatoes, vegetables, truck or other produce of any kind whatsoever, to be shipped to any point within or without the state of North Carolina, without the true name of the grower or packer either written, printed, stamped or otherwise placed thereon in distinct and legible characters, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be fined not exceeding fifty dollars or imprisoned not exceeding thirty days: Provided, that this section shall not apply to railroads, express companies and other transportation companies selling or offering for sale, for transportation or storage charges or any other charges accruing to such railroads, express companies or other transportation companies, any barrel, crate, box, case, package, or other receptacle containing berries, fruit, melons, potatoes, vegetables, truck or other produce. (1915, c. 193.)

freight, not perishable, in its possession for a period of six months, may proceed to sell the same at public auction, and out of the proceeds may retain the charges of transportation and storage of such freight and the expenses of the advertisement and sale thereof; but no such sale shall be made until the expiration of four weeks from the first publication of notice of such sale in a state paper and also in a newspaper published at or nearest the place at which such freight was directed to be left, and also at the place where such sale is to take place. The expenses incurred for advertising shall be a lien upon such freight in a ratable proportion according to the value of each article, package or parcel, if more than one. (Rev., s. 2637; Code s. 1985; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 48.)

What Storage Charges Allowed for.—Storage charges are allowed the carrier for the service rendered in taking care of the goods, the inconvenience to the warehouseman, and the liability for their safe custody if they do not exercise proper care. Holloman v. Southern R. Co., 172 N. C. 372, 90 S. E. 292.

Same—When Consignee Refuses Good. — Where a consignee of goods wrongfully refuses to receive goods on account of excessive charge made for their transportation, no demurrage charges are collectible by the carrier, but only reasonable storage charges, until, in the exercise of its rights under this section, it could properly dispose of the goods and thereby be relieved of further charge concerning them. Norfolk Southern R. Co. v. New Bern Iron Works, 172 N. C. 188, 90 S. E. 149.

Applies to Interstate Shipment.—This section applies to interstate as well as intrastate shipments, in the absence of any interfering regulation by Congress or of the Interstate Commerce Commission. Norfolk Southern R. Co. v. New Bern Iron Works, 172 N. C. 188, 90 S. E. 149.

§ 3534. Funds from unclaimed freight to be paid to state university.—Such railroad, steamboat, express or other transportation company shall make an entry of the balance of the proceeds of the sale, if any, of each parcel of freight owned by or consigned to the same person, as near as can be ascertained, and at any time within five years thereafter shall refund any surplus so retained to the owner of such freight, his heirs or assigns, on satisfactory proof of such ownership; if no person shall claim the surplus within five years, such surplus shall be paid to the state university. (Rev., s. 2639; Code, s. 1987; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 50.)

§ 3534(a). Sale of unclaimed baggage or freight; notice; sale of neglected property.—Any common carrier which has had in its possession on hand at any destination in this state any article whether baggage or freight, for a period of sixty days from its arrival at destination, which said carrier cannot deliver because unclaimed, may at the expiration of said sixty days sell the same at public auction at any point where in the opinion of the carrier the best price can be obtained: Provided, however, that notice of such sale shall be mailed to the consignor and consignee, by registered mail, if known to such carrier, not less than fifteen days before such sale shall be made; or notice of the sale shall be published once a week for two consecutive weeks in some newspaper of general circulation published at the point of sale: Provided, that if there is no such paper published at such point, the publication may be made in any paper having a general circulation in the state: Provided further, however, that if the nondelivery of said article is due to the consignee's and consignor's rejection of it, then such article may be sold by the carrier at public or private sale, and at such time and place as will in the carrier's judgment net the best price, and this without further notice to either consignee or consignor, and without the necessity of publication. (1921, c. 124, s. 1.)

§ 3534(b). Sale of live or perishable or cheap freight.—Where the article referred to in the preceding section is live freight, or perishable freight, or freight of such low value as would not bring the accrued transportation and other charges if held for sixty days as provided in the preceding section, the common carrier may, with or without advertisement, sell the same in such manner and at such time and in such place as will best in its judgment protect the interests of the carrier the consignor and the consignee, and whenever practicable the consignor and consignee shall be notified of the proposed sale of such live or perishable freight, or freight of such low value. (1921, c. 124, s. 2.)

§ 3534(c). Record of articles and prices; deduction of expenses; payment of balance.—The carrier shall keep a record of the articles sold, and of the prices obtained therefor, and shall, after deducting all charges and expenses of the sale, including advertisement, if advertised, pay the balance to the owner of such articles on demand therefor made at any time within two years from the date of the sale. (1927, c. 124, s. 3.)

Art. 12. Street and Interurban Railways

§ 3535. May build and maintain water-power plants.—Where any street or interurban railway company owns lands on one or both sides of a stream which can be used in developing a water-power, and desires to erect and maintain a water-power plant for the purpose of generating electricity to be used in operating such railway, then such railway company shall have the power to erect, maintain and operate such water-power plant for such purpose, and may build, maintain and operate any and all dams, ponds, canals, bridges, ferries, aqueducts, flumes, water-ways, wasteways, reservoirs, and all works, machinery, houses, shops and buildings necessary for the use and operation of a water-power plant for generating electricity. Whenever such company shall not own the entire water-front, or all of the lands, water rights, or other easements necessary to be used in fully developing such water-power, it shall have the power to acquire any other lands, water rights or easements which may be needed to fully develop such water-power; and if the company cannot agree with the owners for the purchase of such lands, water rights or other easements, the same may be condemned by the railway company for that purpose, and the procedure shall be the same as that provided for the condemnation of lands for railroads: Provided, that no dwelling house, yard, garden, orchard or burial-ground shall be condemned for such purpose: Provided further, that such company shall not have the power to condemn any water-power, right or property of any person, firm or corporation engaged in the actual service of the general public, where such power, right or property is being used or held to be used or to be developed for use in connection with or in addition to any power actually used by such person, firm or corporation serving the general public. Any surplus electric power generated by any plant erected under the provisions of this section may be sold by such company upon reasonable terms. (1907, c. 302; 1913, c. 94.)

Burden of Proof.—Where a quasi-public corporation brings action for condemnation, and the defendant resists upon the ground that the lands or power sought to be taken are protected by the statute, the burden of proof is upon the defendant to bring the lands or water-power within the provision of the statutes excepting them. Blue Ridge Interurban R. Co. v. Hendersonville Light, etc., Co., 171 N. C. 314, 88 S. E. 245.

Land to Be Used in Developing Power.—A public-service corporation, owning lands on one bank of stream, cannot condemn across the stream and take the water rights held in the stream by another public-service corporation, when it appears that the defendant holds its lands across the stream to supply power to operate its electric light and power plant, with which it is supplying such light and power to its patrons. Blue Ridge Interurban R. Co. v. Hendersonville Light, etc., Co., 169 N. C. 471, 86 S. E. 296; Blue Ridge Interurban R. Co. v. Oates, 164 N. C. 167; 80 S. E. 398.

§ 3536. Separate accommodations for different races; failure to provide misdemeanor.—All street, interurban and suburban railway companies, engaged as common carriers in the transportation of passengers for hire in the state of North Carolina, shall provide and set apart so much of the front portion of each car operated by them as shall be necessary, for occupation by the white passengers therein, and shall likewise provide and set apart so much of the rear part of such car as shall be necessary, for occupation by the colored passengers therein, and shall require as far as practicable the white and colored passengers to occupy the respective parts of such car so set apart for each of them. The provisions of this section shall not apply to nurses or attendants of children or of the sick or infirm of a different race, while in attendance upon such children or such sick or infirm persons. Any officer, agent or other employee of any street railway company who shall willfully violate the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined or imprisoned in the discretion of the court. (1907, c. 850, ss. 1, 5, 7; 1909, c. 851.)

As to the power of the utilities commissioner to require separate waiting rooms for the white and colored races, see section 1043.

§ 3537. Passengers to take certain seats; violation of requirement misdemeanor. — Any white person entering a street-car for the purpose of becoming a passenger therein shall, if necessary to carry out the purposes of the preceding section, occupy the first vacant seat or unoccupied space in the aisle nearest the front of the car, and any colored person entering such car for a like purpose shall occupy the first vacant seat or unoccupied space in the aisle nearest the rear end of the car: Provided, however, that no contiguous seats on the same bench shall be occupied by white and colored passengers at the same time unless or until all of the other seats in the car shall be occupied. Any person wilfully violating the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined not more than fifty dollars or imprisoned not exceeding thirty days. He may also be ejected from the car by the conductor and other agent or agents charged with the operation of such car, who are hereby invested with police powers to carry out the provisions of this section. (1907, c. 850, ss. 2, 6.)

§ 3539. Misconduct on car; riding on front platform misdemeanor.—It shall be unlawful for any passenger to expectorate upon the floor or any part of any street-car, or to use, while thereon, any loud, profane or indecent language, or to make any insulting or disparaging remark to or about any other passenger or person thereon within his or her hearing. It shall likewise be unlawful for any passenger to stand willfully upon the front platform, fender, bumper, running-board or steps of such car while the same is in motion, whether such passenger has or has not paid the usual fare for riding on such car. Any person willfully violating any of the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined not more than fifty dollars or imprisoned not exceeding thirty days. He may also be ejected from the car by the conductor and other agent or agents charged with the operation of such car, who are hereby invested with police powers to carry out the provisions of this section. (1907, c. 850, ss. 3, 6.)

§ 3540. Passenger riding on rear platform assumes risk; copies of section to be posted.—Any passenger who shall ride upon the rear platform of any street-car in motion, when there is room for such passenger either to sit or stand inside the car, shall be deemed to have assumed all the risks of being injured while so riding, as the result of any act of the street-car company: Provided, that such company shall make it appear that such passenger would not have been injured had he been on the inside of the car: Provided further, that before any street, interurban or suburban railway shall be allowed to invoke the provisions of this section it shall have copies thereof printed and framed and one copy hung in each end of all cars operated on its lines, and shall further have a placard hung in a conspicuous place on the rear of such cars, which shall read as follows: "Passengers are warned not to ride on this platform," and a placard hung on each side of open cars in a conspicuous place, which shall read as follows: Passengers are warned not to ride on the running board." (1907, c. 850, s.).)

As to injury while on train platform, see section 3509.

§ 3541. Street-cars to have vestibule fronts; failure to provide them misdemeanor.—All street passenger railway companies shall use vestibule fronts, of frontage not less than four feet, on all passenger cars run by them on their lines during the latter half of the month of November and during the months of December, January, February and March of each year: Provided, that such companies shall not be required to close the sides of the vestibules: Provided further, that such companies may use cars without vestibule fronts in cases of temporary emergency in suitable weather, not to exceed four days in any one month within the period herein prescribed for the use of vestibule fronts. The corporation commission is hereby authorized to make exemptions from the provisions of this section in cases where in their judgment the enforcement of this section is unnecessary. Any such company that shall refuse or fail to comply with the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be subject to a fine of not less than ten dollars nor more than one hundred dollars for each day of refusal or failure. (Rev., ss. 2615, 3800; 1901, c. 743.)

See Editor's Note under section 3413.

Duty of Street Car Company.—A street car company owes the duty to its passengers to use a high degree of care to see that they safely alight from its cars. Woods v. North Carolina Public-Service Corporation, 174 N. C. 697, 94 S. E. 459.

Plaintiff Must Prove Casual Connection.—The plaintiff must show a casual connection between the violation by defendant of this section and the injury sustained. Rich v. Asheville Electric Co., 152 N. C. 689, 68 S. E. 232.

§ 3542. Street cars to have fenders; failure to provide them misdemeanor.—All street passenger railway companies shall use practical fenders in front of all passenger cars run by them. The corporation commission is hereby authorized to make exemptions from the provisions of this section in cases where in their judgment the enforcement of this section is unnecessary. Any such company that shall refuse or fail to comply with the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be subject to a fine of not less than ten dollars nor more than one hundred dollars for each day of such refusal or failure. (Rev., ss. 2616, 3081; 1901, c. 743, s. 2.)

See Editor's Note under section 3413.

"Practical Fenders."—The "practical fenders" required for street cars by this section are those which are efficient for the purpose of protecting human life, etc., or the most approved appliance in general use, and a violation of this statute is negligence per se. Smith v. Charlotte Elec. Ry. Co., 173 N. C. 489, 92 S. E. 382.

Violation Negligence Per Se.—The violation of this section by a street car company, in failing to provide a "practical fender" for its car, causing an injury, is evidence of actionable negligence per se. Hanes v. Southern Pub. Utilities Co., 191 N. C. 13, 131 S. E. 402; Ingle v. Asheville Power, etc., Co., 172 N. C. 751, 90 S. E. 953.

Travelers by Vehicles Protected. — The requirement of this section, that all street cars when operated must have practical fenders on the lead end thereof, applies to the protection of those traveling by vehicles, automobiles, etc. Hanes v. Southern Pub. Utilities Co., 191 N. C. 13, 131 S. E. 402.

Burden of Proof as to Exemption.—The burden of proof is on a street railway company to show that the Corporation Commission, in its judgment, had found it unnecessary to enforce the provisions of this section, requiring the use of "practical fenders" on their street cars, in an action to recover damages caused by its negligence in not using them. Smith v. Charlotte Elec. Ry. Co., 173 N. C. 489, 92 S. E. 382.

Exemption of All Companies Unauthorized.—This section does not authorize an exemption of all the street railway companies by the Corporation Commission, as this amounts to a suspension of the statute. Henderson v. Durham Traction Co., 132 N. C. 779, 44 S. E. 598.

Evidence.—In an action for the killing of a dog by a street car, it is not competent to show the condition of the fenders on particular cars other than the one by which the dog was killed, it being shown that the fenders were different on different cars. Moore v. Electric Ry., etc., Co., 136 N. C. 554, 48 S. E. 822.

Art. 12A. Electric Interurban Railways

§ 3542(a). Organization.—Any electric interurban railway company, whether organized under the laws of this or any other State, may construct, maintain and operate electric interurban railways and engage in business in this State. (1927, c. 33, s. 1.)

§ 3542(b). Right of eminent domain.—Any such company may exercise the right of eminent domain under the provisions of chapter thirty three of the Consolidated Statutes of North Carolina, and acts amendatory thereof, and for the purpose of constructing its roads and other works, shall have the powers given railroad corporations by this chapter except that no such company when organized under the laws of another state shall operate any part of its line of railway in this State by steam motive power, or as a part of a general steam railroad system of transportation. (1927, c. 33, s. 2.)

§ 3542(c). Status defined.—All such companies shall be deemed public service corporations and shall be subject to the laws of this State regulating such corporations. (1927, c. 33, s. 3)

CHAPTER 68

REGISTER OF DEEDS

Art. 1. The Office

§ 3543. Election and term of office.— In each county there shall be elected biennially by the qualified voters thereof, as provided for the election of members of the general assembly, a register of deeds. (Rev., s. 2650; Const., Art. VII, s. 1.)

Legislature May Change Duties and Emolument.—The office of register of deeds is constitutional, but the duties are statutory, and the Legislature may, within reasonable limits, change the duties and diminish the emoluments of the office, if the public welfare requires it to be done. Fortune v. Commissioners, 140 N. C. 322, 52 S. E. 950.

§ 3543(1). Four-year term for registers of deeds; counties excepted. — At the general election for the year one thousand nine hundred and thirty-six and quadrennially thereafter there shall be elected in each county of this State by the qualified voters thereof a register of deeds, who shall serve for a term of four years from the first Monday in December after his election and until his successor is elected and qualified: Provided, however, that this section shall not apply to Alleghany, Alexander, Ashe, Avery, Beaufort, Bladen, Clay, Davidson, Halifax, Harnett, Haywood, Hyde, Iredell, Jackson, Johnston, Macon, Mitchell, Orange, Rowan, Stanly, Swain, Transylvania, Vance, Washington, Yadkin, Cherokee, Dare,

Lincoln, and Moore Counties. (1935, cc. 362, 392, 462.)

§ 3544. Oath of office.— The register of deeds shall take the oath of office on the first Monday of December next after his election, before the board of county commissioners. (Rev., s. 2652; Code, s. 3647; 1868, c. 35, s. 2; 1876-7, c. 276, s. 5.)

As to form of the oath taken by the register, see section 3199.

§ 3545. Bond required.— Every register of deeds shall give bond with sufficient surety, to be approved by the board of county commissioners, in a sum not exceeding ten thousand dollars, payable to the state, and conditioned for the safe keeping of the books and records, and for the faithful discharge of the duties of his office, and shall renew his bond annually on the first Monday in December. (Rev., s. 301; Code, s. 3648; 1868, c. 35, s. 3; 1876-7, c. 276, s. 5; 1899, c. 54, s. 52.)

Cross References.—As to the penalty for issuing marriage licenses unlawfully, see section 2503 and notes thereto; as to actions on bonds, generally, see sections 354 and 356. See, also, 2 Enc. Dig. 555 et seq.; as to the bond in Dare County, see Public Laws 1907, ch. 75.

Office Vacated unless Bond Given.—The board of commissioners may declare the office vacant for failure of the register to give a sufficient bond. State v. Patterson, 97 N. C. 360, 2 S. E. 262.

All Duties Included.—The words "and faithfully discharge the duties of his office," in the hand of a register of deeds, do not refer alone to the safe-keeping of the "records and books," but to all other official acts, the nonperformance of which results in injury. State v. Young, 106 N. C. 567, 10 S. E. 1019, and cases there cited.

§ 3546. Vacancy in office.— When a vacancy occurs from any cause in the office of register of deeds, the board of county commissioners shall fill such vacancy by the appointment of a successor for the unexpired term, who shall qualify and give bond as required by law. (Rev., s. 2651; Code, s. 3649; 1868, c. 35, s. 4.)

As to the authority of the county commissioner to approve registers' bonds, see section 1297, par. 12.

Office Declared Vacated.—The county commissioners may appoint a successor to the office of register of deeds where they have declared the office vacant by reason of the incumbent's failure to give a sufficient bond. State v. Patterson, 97 N. C. 360, 2 S. E. 262.

§ 3547. Deputies may be appointed.—The registers of deeds of the several counties in this state are hereby authorized and empowered to appoint deputies, whose acts as such shall be valid and for which the registers of deeds shall officially be responsible. They shall file the certificate of the appointment of the deputy in the office of the clerk of the superior court, who shall record the same. (1909, c. 628, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—Special acts have been passed by the legislature in regard to the appointment of deputies in certain counties; as to Dare County, see Public Laws 1907, ch. 393; as to Durham County, see Public Laws 1909, ch. 91; as to Person County, see Public Laws 1909, ch. 546.

§ 3548. Office at courthouse. — The register shall keep his office at the courthouse unless the board of county commissioners shall deem it impracticable. (Rev., s. 2653; Code, s. 3650; 1868, c. 35, s. 5.)

§ 3549. Attendance at office. — The board of county commissioners may fix by order, to be entered on their records, what days of each week, and at what hours of each day, the register of deeds shall attend at his office in person or by deputy, and he shall give his attendance accordingly. (Rev., s. 2654; Code, s. 3651; 1868, c. 35, s. 6.)

Free Abstracts Not Required.—While it is the duty of the Register of Deeds to permit all persons to inspect the records committed to his custody, he will not be required, without the payment of his proper fees, to allow any one to make copies or abstracts therefrom. Newton v. Fisher, 98 N. C. 20, 3 S. E. 822.

§ 3550. Official seal.—The office of register of deeds for every county in the state shall have and use an official seal, which seal shall be provided by the county commissioners of the several counties, and shall be of the same size and design as the seals now used by the clerk of the superior court, with the words "Office of Register of Deeds," the name of the county and the letters "North Carolina" surrounding the figures. (Rev., s. 2649; 1893, c. 119, s. 1.)

Art. 2. The Duties

§ 3551. Apply to clerk for instruments for registration.—The register of deeds shall at least once a week apply to the clerk of the superior court of his county for all instruments of writing admitted to probate, and then remaining in the office of such clerk for registration, and also for all fees for registration due thereon; which fees the clerk of the superior court shall receive for the register. (Rev., s. 2655; Code, s. 3652; 1868, c. 35, s. 7.)

§ 3552. Failure of clerk to deliver papers. — In case the clerk fails to deliver such instruments of writing, and pay over such fees as are prescribed in the preceding section, on application of the register, the clerk shall forfeit and pay to the register one hundred dollars for every such failure; for which sum judgment may be entered at any time by the judge of the superior court, on motion in behalf of the register, on a notice of ten days thereof to the clerk. (Rev., s. 2656; Code, s. 3653; 1868, c. 35, s. 8.)

§ 3553. Registration of instruments.—The register of deeds shall register all instruments in writing delivered to him for registration forthwith. He shall indorse on each instrument in writing the day and hour on which it is presented to him for registration, and such indorsement shall be entered on his books and form a part of the registration, and he shall, immediately upon making the indorsement herein required upon each instrument in writing, index and cross-index the same in the order of time in which such instruments are presented to him: Provided, that the register of deeds may, if in his opinion it is proper to do so, prepare and use in lieu of his permanent index a temporary index until the instrument is actually recorded, upon which all instruments shall be indexed immediately upon receipt of same into his office, and until said instruments shall have been recorded the temporary index shall operate in all respects as the permanent index. In the event the register of deeds shall use a temporary index, however, all instruments shall be recorded and cross-indexed on the permanent index within thirty (30) days from date of receipt of same. (Rev., s. 2658; Code, s. 3654; R. C., c. 37, s. 23; 1868, c. 35, s. 9; 1921, c. 114.)

Cross References.—As to requisites and formalities of the registration of deeds, generally, see section 3308 et seq.; 4 Enc. Dig. 524 et seq.; 13 Enc. Dig. 714 et seq.; as to the registration of mortgages, generally, see section 3311; 9 Enc. Dig. 270 et seq.; 15 Enc. Dig. 6; as to the indexing of instruments, see section 3561 and notes thereto.

Editor's Note.—The section was radically changed in 1921, Public Laws 1921, ch. 114. Until this amendment twenty days were allowed for the registration of all instruments except mortgages and deeds of trust, it was not required that the hour of filing be endorsed on instrument, and there was no provision for a temporary index.

Section Means Complete Registration.—This section means a registration complete and perfect, so that it may serve all the purposes of the law in protecting the rights of parties directly interested, and give notice truly to the public. State v. Young, 106 N. C. 567, 570, 10 S. E. 1019.

Filing Has Effect of Registration.—The filing for registration is in law registration, and all rights and liabilities accrue from the date of filing and do not depend upon the greater or less diligence of the register in performing his duty. Glanton v. Jacobs, 117 N. C. 427, 428, 23 S. E. 335.

Delivery to Proper Officer Necessary to Filing.—Where the filing of a paper in the office of the register of deeds is necessary to the title to lands, the time thereof will be considered as at that which the paper was delivered to and received by the proper officer; and while the file mark of the officer is evidence as to the time, it is not essential under our statutes. Carolina-Tennessee Power Co. v. Hiawassee River Power Co., 175 N. C. 668, 96 S. E. 99.

Same—Delivery at Office.—It is required for a valid filing of a mortgage that it be delivered at the register of deeds' official office, and where a paper was delivered to the register outside of his office it is ineffectual until he returns and makes the proper entry. McHan v. Dorsey, 173 N. C. 694, 92 S. E. 598.

Sufficiency of Acknowledgment.—A certificate by the Clerk of the Superior Court that the officers of the corporation who signed the deed "acknowledged the due execution of the annexed instrument for the purpose therein set forth," was sufficient to warrant the registration of the deed. Heath, etc., Co. v. Cotton Mills, 115 N. C. 202, 20 S. E. 369.

Registry Dated When Fees Paid.—Where a deed was handed to the register for registration, but he refused to register it because his fees were not paid, but the paper was left in his office for several months, when, the fees being paid, he made an endorsement that it was filed on the day first presented, followed by an explanatory endorsement reciting the facts. The register was not compelled to register before his fees were paid, and the facts did not constitute a filing for registration on the day when the deed was first presented to the register. Cunninggim v. Peterson, 109 N. C. 33, 13 S. E. 714.

Endorsement Unnecessary.—The endorsement required to be made by register of deeds on mortgages and deeds in trust on the day on which such deeds are presented to him for registration, is not essential to registration; and when made is not conclusive evidence—but only prima facie evidence of the facts therein recited. Cunninggim v. Peterson, 109 N. C. 33, 13 S. E. 714.

Clerical Mistake.—A registry of a mortgage is not void because of a clerical mistake made by the register in transcribing, which does not affect the sense and provision as to the amount secured, description of property, etc., or obscure the meaning of the instrument. Royster v. Lane, 118 N. C. 156, 24 S. E. 796.

Omission of Signatures.—The registration of a deed showing the probate, including the separate examination of the wife, and the order of registration, and the names of the grantors, but omitting a copy of their signature at the end of the instrument is sufficient notice under this section. Smith v. Ayden Lumber Co., 144 N. C. 47, 56 S. E. 555.

Omission of Seal.—The failure of the register of deeds to copy the seal of the corporation on his books, or make an imitation copy thereon, does not render the conveyance of the lands invalid where the recitals in the deed signify that the seal was in fact attached, it appears upon the original, and the books show the name of the corporation appearing in brackets therein at its proper location. Lockville Power Corporation v. Carolina Power & Light Co., 168 N. C. 219, 84 S. E. 398; Heath, etc., Co. v. Cotton Mills, 115 N. C. 202, 20 S. E. 369.

Omission of Great Seal of State. — The fact that it does not appear of record that a scroll or imitation of the Great Seal of State was copied thereon, does not invalidate the registry of the grant. The recital in the body of the grant, as recorded, of the affixing of the seal is sufficient evidence of its regularity. Broadwell v. Morgan, 142 N. C. 475, 55 S. E. 340.

Correction of Omission or Error.—Where the register has committed an error or omission in the recordation of an instrument he has the power to correct such error. Brown v. Hutchinson, 155 N. C. 205, 71 S. E. 302.

Certificates of Registration Prima Facie Evidence. — The certificates of registration made by registers of deeds are prima facie evidence of the facts therein recited. Sellers v. Sellers, 98 N. C. 13, 3 S. E. 917.

Cited in Moore v. Ragland, 74 N. C. 343; Fleming v. Graham, 110 N. C. 374, 14 S. E. 922.

§ 3554. Certify and register copies. — When a deed, mortgage, or other conveyance conveying real estate situate in two or more counties is presented for registration duly probated and a copy thereof is presented with the same, the register shall keep in files alphabetically labeled all and if it be a true copy thereof he shall certify the same, and thereupon the register shall indorse the original deed or conveyance as duly registered in his county, designating the book in which the same is registered, and deliver the original deed to the party entitled thereto and register the same from the certified copy thereof to be retained by him for that purpose. (Rev., s. 2657; 1899, c. 302.)

§ 3555. Liability for failure to register.— In case of his failure to register any deed or other instrument within the time and in the manner required by the preceding section, the register shall be liable, in an action on his official bond, to the party injured by such delay. (Rev., s. 2659; Code, s. 3660; 1868, c. 35, s. 10.)

As to the register's bond and his liability thereunder, see section 3545 and notes thereto.

Error in Amount of Mortgage.—A register is liable for wrongly recording the amount of a mortgage, to a person injured thereby. State v. Young, 106 N. C. 567, 10 S. E. 1019.

Presumption of Regularity.—The probate of a deed is presumed to be regular from the fact of registration. Cochran v. Improvement Co., 127 N. C. 386, 37 S. E. 496.

Abatement of Action by Death.—Under the provisions of section 461, an action for a penalty, against a register of deeds and the surety on his bond, abates by the death of the officer. Wallace v. McPherson, 139 N. C. 297, 51 S. E. 897.

§ 3556. Papers filed alphabetically.— The register shall keep in files alphabetically labeled all original instruments delivered to him for registration, and on application for such originals by any person entitled to their custody, he shall deliver the same. (Rev., s. 2660; Code, s. 3661; 1868, c. 35, s. 11.)

§ 3557. Transcribe and index books.— The board of county commissioners, when they deem it necessary, may direct the register of deeds to transcribe and index such of the books in the register's office as from decay or other cause may require to be transcribed and indexed. They may allow him such compensation at the expense of the county for this work as they think just. The books when so transcribed and approved by the board shall be public records as the original books, and copies therefrom may be certified accordingly. (Rev., s. 2661; Code, s. 3662; 1868, c. 35, s. 12.)

See notes to section 3561.

As to the registry of surveys, see section 7570.

§ 3559. Certificate of survey registered. — It shall be the duty of the register of deeds in each county, when any grant is presented for registration with a certificate of survey attached, to register such certificate of survey, together with all indorsements thereon, together with said grant, and a record of any certificate of survey so made shall be read in evidence in any action or proceeding: Provided, the failure to register such certificate of survey shall not invalidate the registration of the grant. (Rev., s. 2663; 1905, c. 243.)

§ 3560. General index kept.—The board of county commissioners, at the expense of the county, shall cause to be made and consolidated into one book a general index of all the deeds and other documents in the register's office, and the register shall afterwards keep up such index without any additional compensation. The board of county commissioners shall also have the authority to install the modern "Family" index system and wherever the "Family" index system is in use, no instruments shall be lawfully recorded until indexed and cross-indexed under the appropriate family name and the appropriate alphabetical sub-division of said family name, according to the particular system in use. (Rev. s. 2664; Code, s. 3663; 1868, c. 35, s. 13; 1929, c. 327, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—The Act of 1929 added the provision relating to the "Family" index system. The act, which also amended § 3561, by express provision did not affect pending legislation or instruments theretofore registered. It also provided that upon its ratification a copy of the act be mailed to each of the registers of deeds of the several counties.

Chattel Mortgages.—An indexing of chattel mortgages is an essential part of their registration. Whitehurst v. Garrett, 196 N. C. 154, 144 S. E. 835.

Where for years a proper index of chattel mortgages has been kept in the books wherein the instruments were registered, it is a substantial compliance with this section and § 3561, it appearing that the record of the instrument could have been found with an ordinary search such as a man of ordinary prudence would have made. Whitehurst v. Garrett, 196 N. C. 154, 144 S. E. 835.

Mortgage upon Land.—The proper indexing of a mortgage upon lands is an essential part of its registration, and where the husband and wife make a mortgage on her lands which is only indexed by the register of deeds in the name of the husband, it is not good as against a subsequent purchaser for value by deed from the husband and wife that had been properly indexed and registered. Heaton v. Heaton, 196 N. C. 475, 146 S. E. 146.

Cited in Woodley v. Gregory, 205 N. C. 280, 284, 171 S. E. 65.

§ 3561. Index and cross-index of registered instruments.—The register of deeds shall provide and keep in his office full and complete alphabetical indexes of the names of the parties to all liens, grants, deeds, mortgages, bonds and other instruments of writing required or authorized to be registered; such indexes to be kept in well bound books, and shall state in full the names of all parties, whether grantors, grantees, vendors, vendees, obligors or obligees, and shall be indexed and cross-indexed, within twenty-four hours after registering any instrument, so as to show the name of each party under the appropriate letter of the alphabet; and wherever the "Family" index system shall be in use, to also show the name of each party under the appropriate family name and the initials of said party under the appropriate alphabetical arrangement of said index; and all instruments shall be indexed according to the particular system in use in the respective office in which the instrument is filed for record. Reference shall be made, opposite each name to the page, title or number of the book in which is registered any instrument; Provided, that where the "Family" system hereinbefore referred to has not been installed, but there has been installed an indexing system having sub-divisions of the several letters of the alphabet, a registered instrument shall be deemed to be properly indexed only when the same shall have been indexed under the correct sub-division of the appropriate letter of the alphabet; Provided, further, that no instrument shall be deemed to be properly registered until the same has been properly indexed as herein provided; Provided, further, that in all counties where a separate index system is kept for chattel mortgages or other instruments concerning personal property, no instrument affecting the title to real estate shall be deemed to be properly registered until the same has been properly registered and indexed in the books and index system kept for real estate conveyances; Provided, further, that it shall be the duty of the register of deeds of each county, in which there is a separate index for conveyances of personal property and for those of real estate, to double index every such conveyance, provided that such conveyance shall contain both species of property. A violation of this section shall constitute a misdemeanor. (Rev. ss. 2665, 3600; Code, s. 3664; 1899, c. 501; 1876-7, c. 93, s. 1; 1929, c. 327, s. 2.)

As to registration of instruments see § 3553 and the note thereto.

Editor's Note.—The Act of 1929 struck out the section formerly appearing and inserted in lieu thereof the above. See note under § 3560.

Indexing Essential.—The indexing of deeds in the office of the register thereof is an essential part of the registration; and where the grantor's name has been omitted from the book, a subsequent grantee of the same lands from the same grantor acquires the title from him. Fowle & Son v. Ham, 176 N. C. 12, 96 S. E. 639.

The provisions of this section are mandatory and the indexing and cross-indexing of a deed of trust given by a life tenant and the remainder man owning the land, in the name of the life tenant only followed by the words "et als.," is not a sufficient compliance with the statute, and where another deed of trust is subsequently executed on the same lands which is registered, indexed and cross-indexed in compliance with the statute, the purchaser under foreclosure of the second deed of trust acquires title free from the lien of the improperly indexed prior deed of trust. The case of Prudential Ins. Co. v. Forbes, 203 N. C. 252, 165 S. E. 699, in which the lien was indexed under "S. T. et ux." cited and distinguished. Woodley v. Gregory, 205 N. C. 280, 171 S. E. 65.

Liability for Failure to Index.—The failure of a register of deeds to properly index the registry of a mortgage renders him liable on his official bond to one injured by such neglect. State v. Grizzard, 117 N. C. 105, 106, 23 S. E. 93. See also Watkins v. Simonds, 202 N. C. 746, 164 S. E. 363.

Same—Failure to Index Must Cause Damage.—While the register of deeds and the surety on his official bond are liable for his failure to index and cross-index instruments such liability does not arise to the individuals claiming damages therefor unless the default of the register in these particulars has been the proximate cause of injury to the claimant, and liability will not be imputed to the register of deeds when the negligence of the claimant or his agent, has caused or concurred in causing the injury. State v. Hester, 177 N. C. 609, 98 S. E. 721; Overruling Davis v. Whitaker, 114 N. C. 279, 19 S. E. 699. See, also Fowle & Son v. Ham, 176 N. C. 12, 96 S. E. 639; Ely v. Norman, 175 N. C. 294, 298, 95 S. E. 543.

Index of Mortgage on Land Held by Entireties under "J. H. and Wife."—Where the husband and wife mortgage their lands held by the entireties and the mortgage is indexed and cross-indexed under "J. H. and wife," the name of the wife not appearing on the index although it appeared on the mortgage deed, the index is sufficient to put a reasonable man upon inquiry which would have disclosed the facts, and upon the husband's death and the wife's remarriage, a mortgage given by the wife and her second husband is subject to the first mortgage, and the subsequent mortgage is charged with notice thereof, and he may not restrain the first mortgagee from foreclosing his mortgage on the ground of insufficient indexing, although the name of the wife should have appeared on the index. West v. Jackson, 198 N. C. 693, 153 S. E. 257.

Filing at Same Instant of Time.—Where the record discloses that a purchase-money mortgage and another mortgage given to secure cash payment for land were filed for registration at the same instant of time, neither mortgage has priority over the other, but both constitute a first lien on the land, and the fact that one necessarily appeared before the other on the index of the day's transactions does not alter this result, since the record fails to show that the mortgages were not indexed at the same time. Hood v. Landreth, 207 N. C. 621, 178 S. E. 222.

Priority of Second Mortgage to One Not Indexed.—A mortgage duly filed for registration and spread upon the registry, but not indexed or cross-indexed as required by this section, is not superior to the lien of a duly registered "second mortgage" on the same property. Story v. Slade, 199 N. C. 596, 597, 155 S. E. 256.

Under this and the previous section a duly recorded chattel mortgage which is indexed and cross-indexed in the general chattel mortgage index has priority over a mortgage covering the same personal property and also certain real estate which is previously executed and recorded and indexed in the general real estate mortgage index but subsequently indexed and cross-indexed in the general chattel mortgage index. Pruitt v. Parker, 201 N. C. 696, 161 S. E. 212.

§ 3562. Clerk to board of commissioners. — The register of deeds is ex officio clerk of the board of county commissioners, and as such shall perform the duties imposed by law or by order of the said board. (Rev., s. 2666; Code, s. 3656; 1868, c. 35, s. 15; Const., Art. VII, s. 2.)

Cross References.—As to the registers duty as clerk to the board of commissioners, see sections 957, 1309 et seq. and 7930 et seq., and notes thereto.

Same Office.—The register of deeds is ex officio clerk to the board of county commissioners, and the two positions are not separate offices. State v. Gouge, 157 N. C. 602, 72 S. E. 994.

§ 3563. Notices to certain officers served by mail.—The register of deeds shall serve by mail all notices issued by the board of county commissioners to justices of the peace, road overseers and school committeemen, in lieu of the service by the sheriff, and shall receive as his compensation his actual expenses for mailing, and nothing more. (Rev., s. 2667; Code, s. 3657; 1879, c. 328, ss. 1, 3.)

§ 3564. Make out tax lists.—The register shall make out the tax lists as directed by law, under the supervision of the board of county commissioners. (Rev., s. 2668; Code, s. 3658; 1868, c. 35, s. 16.)

See sections 7930 et seq.

§ 3566. Duties unperformed at expiration of term.—Whenever, upon the termination for any cause of the term of office of the register of deeds, it appears that he has failed to perform any of the duties of his office, the board of commissioners shall cause the same to be performed by another person or the successor of any such defaulting register. Such person or successor shall receive for his compensation the fees allowed for such services, and if any portion of the compensation has been paid to such defaulting register, the same may be recovered by the board of county commissioners, by suit on his official bond, for the benefit of the county or person injured thereby. (Rev., s. 2669; Code, s. 3655; 1868, c. 35, s. 14.)

§ 3567. Register of deeds failing to discharge duties; penalty.—If any register of deeds fails to perform any of the duties imposed or authorized by law, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and besides other punishments at the discretion of the court, he shall be removed from office. (Rev., s. 3599; Code, s. 3659; 1868, c. 35, s. 18.)

Cross References.—See, also, section 4384; as to the duty of the register in regard to the clerk's bond, see section 349; as to his duty as to strays, see section 3951 et seq.; as to his duties as entry-taker, see section 7553.

Issuing Marriage License Not Included. — A register of deeds is not liable under this section for issuing a license for the marriage of an infant female under eighteen years of age, without the written consent of her parent or guardian. State v. Snuggs, 85 S. C. 542. But see sections 2503 et seq. and notes thereto.

RELIGIOUS SOCIETIES

§ 3568. Trustees may be appointed and removed.—The conference, synod, convention or other ecclesiastical body representing any church or religious denomination within the state, as also the religious societies and congregations within the state, may from time to time and at any time appoint in such manner as such body, society or congregation may deem proper, a suitable number of persons as trustees for such church, denomination, religious society, or congregation. The body appointing may remove such trustees or any of them, and fill all vacancies caused by death or otherwise. (Rev., ss. 2670, 2671; Code, ss. 3667, 3668; R. C., c. 97; 1796, c. 457, ss. 1, 2; 1844, c. 47; 1848, c. 76.)

As to religious societies generally, see 10 Enc. Dig. 996 et seq.

Applies Only to Religious Societies.—This section applies only to religious societies and not to educational institutions. Allen v. Baskerville, 123 N. C. 126, 127, 31 S. E. 383; Thornton v. Harris, 140 N. C. 498, 53 S. E. 341.

Society May Remove Trustee. — Under the provisions of this section, a religious society may remove a trustee of church property who proves faithless to his trust, and may fill any vacancy thus created. Nash v. Sutton, 117 N. C. 231, 23 S. E. 178. Faithlessness is not required, however, it may remove trustees at will. Conference v. Allen, 156 N. C. 524, 72 S. E. 617.

Same—Trustee May Maintain Action.—A duly appointed trustee of a religious society may maintain an action for the removal of faithless or incompetent trustees, and compel them to convey the property held by them to the purposes for which it was designed, and such trustee may also maintain an action to set up a lost deed executed for the benefit of the cestui que trust. Nash v. Sutton, 109 N. C. 550, 14 S. E. 77.

Same—Member May Maintain Action.—In the absence of competent trustee and a governing body authorized to appoint, any member of a religious society has such a beneficial interest as will enable him, in behalf of fellow members, to maintain such action as may be necessary to protect their common interest. Nash v. Sutton, 109 N. C. 550, 14 S. E. 77.

Same—Section Not Affected by Church Rule.—A church has authority to appoint a "suitable number" of its own trustee, for the purpose of acquiring and holding church property, and remove them or any of them at will, and where the congregational regulations of the denomination with which a church is affiliated has provided a notice to be given for the trial of "offenses," it does not apply to the election or removal of trustees nor take from the church its rights when in conflict with the statutes. Conference v. Allen, 156 N. C. 524, 72 S. E. 617.

When All Trustees Are Dead.—Upon the death of the last survivor of a board of trustees named in a deed for property to be used as a "Baptist church and for the education of the youths of the colored race," it was held that their successors will be appointed under section 2583, by the clerk of the court. Thornton v. Harris, 140 N. C. 498, 53 S. E. 341.

Voluntary Withdrawal of Members.—What amounts to a voluntary withdrawal of members from a religious association is a question of law. Perry v. Tupper, 74 N. C. 722.

Cited in dissenting opinion of C. J. Faircloth in Tilley v. Ellis, 119 N. C. 233, 245, 26 S. E. 29.

§ 3569. Trustees may hold property. — The trustees and their successors have power to receive donations, and to purchase, take and hold property, real and personal, in trust for such church or denomination, religious society or congregation; and they may sue or be sued in all proper actions, for or on account of the donations and property so held or claimed by them, and for and on account of any matters relating thereto. They shall be accountable to the churches, denominations, societies and congregations for the use and management of such property, and shall surrender it to any person authorized to demand it. (Rev., ss. 2670, 2671; Code, ss. 3667, 3668; R. C., c. 97; 1796, c. 457, ss. 1, 3; 1844, c. 47; 1848, c. 76.)

Cross References.—As to charitable trust generally, see section 4033 et seq.; as to property rights of religious societies generally, see 9 Enc. Dig. 999 et seq.

Applies Only to Property Held for Religious Purposes.—The provisions of this section apply only to property held for religious purposes and not to property held in trust for a "Baptist church and for the education of the youths of the colored race." Thornton v. Harris, 140 N. C. 498, 53 S. E. 341.

No General Capacity of Acquisition.—Religious societies or their trustees have not a general capacity of acquisition; they can only take for the use of the society. Trustees v. Dickenson, 12 N. C. 189.

And by a conveyance to trustees, for purposes forbidden by the policy of the law, nothing passes. Trustees v. Dickenson, 12 N. C. 189.

Original Trustees May Sue though Not Legally Appointed.—Where a conveyance is made to three persons for a certain tract of land, as trustees for a church, a suit of trespass may be brought by them against the wrongdoers, though they may not have been appointed trustees according to law. Walker v. Fawcett, 29 N. C. 44.

It is only when a suit is brought by persons, who claim as "successors," that the question arises, whether the original bargainees were duly chosen the trustees of a religious congregation, and whether the persons suing were also duly chosen trustees, so as to give them legally the character of "successors" to the former, and thereby vest in them the title to the property, which is necessary to support an action. Walker v. Fawcett, 29 N. C. 44.

Trustees Are Agents.—The trustees of a church are merely agents and have no property interest as against the governing body of the church. Conference v. Allen, 156 N. C. 524, 527, 72 S. E. 617.

Same—May Mortgage Property.—A congregation taking possession of a church cannot contest the validity of a mortgage given by the trustees for the purchase money on the ground that it was ultra vires. Rountree v. Blount, 129 N. C. 25, 39 S. E. 631.

Same—Parties to Enforce Bequest.—Where a testator provides for building a fence arount a certain chapel cemetery, the trustees of the chapel are the proper parties to require the executor to perform this provision. Cabe v. Vanhook, 127 N. C. 424, 37 S. E. 464.

Same—Cannot Recover for Individual Suffering.—In suit by the trustees of a church against a railroad company for the improper use of its terminal or depot at or near the manse of the church, no recovery can be had for any physical suffering upon the part of their pastor, his family, or the individuals composing the congregation. Taylor v. Seaboard Air Line Ry., 145 N. C. 400, 59 S. E. 129.

Title Vested Individually.—The title to church property is vested in the trustees individually and they may recover at law, though in the writ and declaration they style themselves "trustees." Walker v. Fawcett, 29 N. C. 44.

Church Has Right to Use of Property.—A church of the congregational system having elected certain trustees to supersede several theretofore elected, holds the church property through those trustees later elected, and has the right to the use of the church for religious services without molestation from the trustees removed, or from its conference. Conference v. Allen, 156 N. C. 524, 72 S. E. 617.

Interest of Individual Member.—An individual member of a religious society has an equitable interest in the property held by the society. Nash v. Sutton, 117 N. C. 231, 23 S. E. 178.

Title Not in Controversy in Contest between Trustees.—In a contest between two committees, each claiming to be the rightful board of trustees, to hold the same title in trust for the same beneficial owner, the title does not come in controversy. Thornton v. Harris, 140 N. C. 498, 53 S. E. 341.

Levy on Communion Service. — A communion service of a church is not liable to seizure and sale under an execution by a pastor for salary due him. Lord v. Hardie, 82 N. C. 241.

Liability of Trustees.—The trustees of a church are liable for material ordered by one of their number and used in building the church although the order was not authorized. Tull v. Trustees, 75 N. C. 424. But the building committee of a church is not liable for injuries received by a workman. Wilson v. Clark, 110 N. C. 364, 14 S. E. 962.

§ 3570. Title to lands vested in trustees or in societies.—All glebes, lands and tenements, heretofore purchased, given, or devised for the support of any particular ministry, or mode of worship, and all churches and other houses built for the purpose of public worship, and all lands and donations of any kind of property or estate that have been or may be given, granted or devised to any church or religious denomination, religious society or congregagtion within the state for their respective use, shall be and remain forever to the use and occupancy of that church or denomination, society or congregation for which the glebes, lands, tenements, property and estate were so purchased, given, granted or devised, or for which such churches, chapels or other houses of public worship were built; and the estate therein shall be deemed and held to be absolutely vested, as between the parties thereto, in the trustees respectively of such churches, denominations, societies and congregations, for their several use, according to the intent expressed in the conveyance, gift, grant or will; and in case there shall be no trustees, then in such churches, denominations, societies and congregations, respectively, according to such intent. (Rev., s. 2672; Code, s. 3665; R. C., c. 97, s. 1; 1776, c. 107; 1796, c. 457, s. 4.)

See notes to the preceding section.

Editor's Note.—The rights of an individual congregation under the congregational system is discussed in Conference v. Allen, 156 N. C. 524, 526, 72 S. E. 617; and the connectional system is discussed in Kerr v. Hicks, 154 N. C. 265, 268, 70 S. E. 468; Tilley v. Ellis, 119 N. C. 233, 242, 26 S. E. 29; See Gold v. Cozart, 173 N. C. 612, 614, 92 S. E. 600; Simmons v. Allison, 118 N. C. 763, 770, 24 S. E. 716.

No Legal Provision for Diffusing Christianity.—There is no provision in our laws for donations, to be employed in any general system of diffusing the knowledge of Christianity throughout the earth. Bridges v. Pleasants, 39 N. C. 26.

Applies Only to Religious Societies.—This section applies only to religious societies and not to educational instituitons. Allen v. Baskerville, 123 N. C. 126 127, 31 S. E. 383.

Specific Trust Must Be Imperative.—A specific trust will not be superimposed upon a title conveyed to a religious congregation, authorizing the courts to interfere and control their management and disposition of the property, unless this is the clear intent of the grantor expressed in language which should be construed as imperative. Hayes v. Franklin, 141 N. C. 599, 54 S. E. 432.

Purpose Must Be Definite.—A bequest for religious charity must, in this State, be to some definite purpose, and to some body or association of persons having a legal existence and with capacity to take. Bridges v. Pleasants, 39 N. C. 26.

Division of Devised Property.—Where a will devised certain lands to the diocese of a church and afterwards the diocese was divided into two dioceses the land becomes the property of both and not that of the diocese in which the land happens to be and in which the testator resided. Trustees v. Trustees, 102 N. C. 442, 9 S. E. 310.

Title by Adverse Possession.—A church holding real property for a hundred years, and using it for religious purposes, acquires a fee-simple title by adverse possession, independent of the validity of its deed. Gold v. Cozart, 173 N. C. 612, 92 S. E. 600.

Amount Insufficient.—A provision in a will that a church is to be built from certain funds will not fail because there is not sufficient amount of the funds to build a church as large as directed by the testator. Paine v. Forney, 128 N. C. 237, 38 S. E. 885.

No Trust Created.—The recital in a deed conveying land to the vestry and wardens of a church, that it was made "for the purpose of aiding in the establishment of a Home for Indigent Widows or Orphans, or in the promotion of any other charitable or religious objects to which the property may be appropriated" by the grantee, creates no trust, and the guarantee can convey a perfect title. St. James v. Bagley, 138 N. C. 384, 50 S. E. 841.

Doctrine of Cy-Pres Not Applicable.—In the case of devises to charitable purposes, the doctrine of cy-pres does not obtain in this State. Bridges v. Pleasants, 39 N. C. 26.

Cited in Dissenting opinion of C. J. Faircloth in Tilley v. Ellis, 119 N. C. 233, 245, 26 S. E. 29.

§ 3571. Trustees may convey property. — The trustees of any religious body may mortgage or sell and convey in fee simple any land owned by such body, when directed so to do by such church, congregation, society or denomination, or its committee, board or body having charge of its finances, and all such conveyances so made or heretofore made, or hereafter to be made, shall be effective to pass the land in fee simple to the purchaser or to the mortgagee for the purposes in such conveyances or mortgage expressed; and they may sell or mortgage its personal property. (Rev., s. 2673; 1855, c. 384; 1889, c. 484.)

Sale to Promote Testator's Purpose.—Where a testator devised lands to the trustees of a certain church, "to be held by them as a rectory or residence for the ministers of said church; that the same shall not be disposed of, sold, or used in any other way or for any other purpose than the one designated," the trustees might sell the property if the purpose declared would be promoted thereby; or the court might order a sale under its general equity power. Church v. Ange, 161 N. C. 314, 77 S. E. 239.

Same—Lease of Part of Property.—Where land was conveyed to a church for the purpose of maintaining a church for worship, the court will not restrain the officers of the church from leasing a small portion of the lot for erecting a store. Hayes v. Franklin, 141 N. C. 599, 54 S. E. 432.

ROADS AND HIGHWAYS

Art. 1. State Highway Commission and State Highway Fund

Part 1. State Highway Commission

§ 3573. State highway commission established. —A state highway commission is hereby established, whose duties it shall be to assist the counties in developing a state and county system of highways as set forth more specifically hereinafter. (1915, c. 113, s. 1.)

Cross References.—As to roads and highways generally, see 8 Enc. Dig. 14 et seq., 14 Enc. Dig. 292 et seq.; as to bridges see 2 Enc. Dig. 681 et seq., 13 Enc. Dig. 288 et seq.

Editor's Note.—The act of 1921, sections 3846(a) et seq., creating subsequent state highway system radically changed the control etc., of state highways. Prior to that time the primary control was in the counties and political subdivisions and the state commission served in an advisory capacity, but by that act it has been changed so that the state highway commission has primary control. That act also provided for a comprehensive means of financing the immediate construction and maintenance of improved, hard surface highways. This was a virtual revision of the prior law which was inadequate for facilitating improvement upon such an enormous scale. Although the act expressly repealed only the conflicting provisions of the old law, it is apparent that a considerable portion of it is superseded by provisions which cover the subject-matter of the old, substituting different regulations. As a general rule no attempt has been made to point out conflicts or express opinions as to the effect of this act upon specific provisions of the old law.

And this rule has been followed with respect to the Act of 1931, §§ 3846(1) et seq., under which the State Highway Commission took over and assumed full charge of all county roads in the State on July 1, 1931. At the same time all local road-governing bodies were abolished, and all local taxation or bond issues for roads forbidden, except for the repayment or funding of outstanding indebtedness. In view of the abolishment of the local road-governing bodies, the boards of county commissioners were constituted fiscal agents, in their respective counties, to levy taxes and pay off all outstanding road bonds and other road debts of the minor political divisions. The State Highway Commission has final authority to decide what roads shall constitute the county road system to be taken over by the State. And hereafter all prison camps are to be under the direction of the Commission and operated under its rules. See §§ 3846(19) et seq., 9 N. C. Law Rev. 374-376.

The present title of the commission is State Highway and Public Works Commission. See note under sec. 3846(f).

Commission an Agency of State. — The State Highway Commission is a government agency of the State, while acting within the powers and duties prescribed in the act creating it. Independence Trust Company v. Massachusetts, etc., Ins. Co., 190 N. C. 680, 130 S. E. 547.

Suit against Commission.—The statutes creating the State Highway Commission enumerate their powers and duties in the construction, maintenance, etc., of highways for public benefit, without either expressly or impliedly giving it the right to sue and be sued, but manifestly as an agency of the State for the purpose of exercising administrative and governmental functions. Carpenter v. Atlantic, etc., Ry. Co., 184 N. C. 400, 114 S. E. 693.

§ 3574. How commission constituted. — (Superseded by Chapter 2, Public Laws 1921, which is incorporated in this Chapter as Article 15.)

§ 3575. Governor to fill vacancies. — The governor shall fill all vacancies in the commission caused by death or otherwise, and he shall have the power to remove any member for due cause. (1915, c. 113, s. 3.)

Editor's Note.—It would seem that this section is superseded by § 3846(f).

§ 3576. Bond. — (Superseded by Chapter 2, Public Laws 1921, which is incorporated in this Chapter as Article 15.)

§ 3577. Offices and supplies. — (Superseded by Chapter 2, Public Laws 1921, which is incorporated in this chapter as Article 15.)

§ 3578. Assistants and clerks.—The state highway commission may employ such assistants and clerks as in its opinion the needs of the state demand. The salaries paid such assistants and clerks shall be determined by the state highway commission. (1915, c. 113, s. 6.)

Editor's Note.—It would seem that this section is superseded by section 3846(g).

§ 3579. State highway engineer; term. — The commission shall appoint a civil engineer well versed in the science of road building and maintenance, who shall be the state highway engineer, whose compensation shall be fixed by the state highway commission. The term of office of the state highway engineer shall be six years from the date of his appointment, unless removed from office for due cause by the highway commission. (1915, c. 113, s. 4.)

Editor's Note.—It would seem that this section is superseded by section 3846(g).

§ 3580. Duties of highway engineer. — Upon the written request to the state highway commission of the road officials of any county desiring to avail themselves of the services of the highway engineer on the terms of this article, for advice in regard to the improvement of any bridge, road, roads or section thereof, the highway engineer, under the direction of the state highway commission, shall survey or have surveyed such bridge, road, roads, or sections of road, and shall prepare, or have prepared, such maps, profiles, plans and specifications as are necessary in his judgment to determine the cost of the proper improvement of such bridge, road, roads, or sections of road; and these, together with the estimated cost, shall be presented to the board of county commissioners or other officials in authority, who made the request for such information, at their next regular meeting held after the completion of such surveys and estimates. If such bridge, road, roads, or section of road shall thereafter be built by the county officials it shall be constructed according to the plans and specifications as furnished by the highway engineer. In the event that the construction work on any such bridge, road, roads, or section of road is not started within twelve months after the highway engineer makes his report to the county officials, the county officials shall, and are hereby directed to, reimburse the state highway commission for the expense incurred by its office in obtaining the information furnished the county officials. Should, however, the construction be taken up at a later date, the state highway commission when the highway engineer takes charge of the actual construction shall return said amount to the county officials. The highway engineer, or his duly authorized assistants, shall have entire charge of the location, construction, and maintenance of all roads, bridges, etc., constructed under this section. The state highway engineer shall keep an accurate record of all costs and expenditures of his office. He shall supply, as directed by the highway commission, technical information regarding roads to any citizen or officer in the state, and shall, from time to time, publish for public use such information as will be generally useful for road improvements. Such publications shall be printed at the expense of the state, as other public documents. (1915, c. 113, s. 7.)

Editor's Note.—It would seem that this section is superseded by § 3846(g) and Art. 19 of this Chapter.

§ 3581. Location of roads.—In the location of roads provided for in the preceding section, the highway engineer shall so locate them as to serve the needs of the people in the immediate section in so far as this would not conflict with such roads being links in the system of state highways. (1915, c. 113, s. 9.)

§ 3582. State highway system.— The state highway engineer, as directed by the state highway commission, shall from time to time make surveys, prepare plans, profiles, specifications, and estimates of the cost of a system of highways connecting by the most direct and practicable route all the county-seats and principal cities of the state. He shall make a detailed report to the state highway commission of the mileage and cost in each county. He shall state the type of road suitable for each section. He shall give the average number and class of teams which each section or road is at present accommodating and the probable increase in traffic which would follow improvements as recommended by him. (1915, c. 113, s. 8.)

Editor's Note.—This section seems to be superseded by sections 3846(a)-3846(j).

§ 3583. When commission may meet in counties.—The state highway commission shall, upon written request of the county commissioners of any county, call an open meeting to be held at the office of the county commissioners within such county, for the purpose of affording instruction relative to matters pertaining to road and bridge construction, maintenance and repairs. Such meeting shall be conducted by the state highway engineer or one of his assistants designated for the purpose by the state highway engineer. Upon receipt of the notice of the date of such meeting from the state highway commission, the county commissioners shall call such meeting on the date set by the state highway commission, and shall be present themselves and notify the county engineer, the commissioners of each township and the superintendent of each road district within the county to be present at such meetings, in person. Each of the county, township and road district officials above mentioned shall be paid the regular per diem allowance in the usual manner, for the actual time in attendance at such meetings. The members of the commission when employed in any manner required of them under this article shall receive their actual expenses. (1915, c. 113, s. 11.)

For provision in more recent act regulating meetings, see section 2846(f).

§ 3584. Coöperation with federal government and other states.—It shall also be the duty of the state highway commission, where possible, to cooperate with the state highway commissions of other states and with the federal government in the correlation of roads so as to form a system of intercounty, interstate, and national highways. (1915, c. 113, s. 12.)

See section 3846(a) for more recent law.

§ 3585. Acceptance of Federal Aid Road Act.—The state of North Carolina, through its general assembly, hereby assents to the provisions of the act of congress known as the Federal Aid Road Act, approved July eleventh, nineteen hundred and sixteen, entitled "An act to provide that the United States shall aid the states in the construction of rural post-roads, and for other purposes." (Thirty-ninth United States Statutes at Large, p. 355). (1917, c. 22.)

See section 3846(a) for more recent law.

§ 3586. Powers of commission to meet requirements of Federal Aid Road Act.—(Superseded by Chapter 2, Public Laws 1921, which is incorported in this Chapter as Article 15.)

§ 3587. Appropriation.—The sum of ten thousand dollars annually, or so much thereof as may be necessary, is hereby appropriated out of moneys in the state treasury not otherwise appropriated for the purpose of carrying out the provisions of this article. (1915, c. 113, s. 13.)

§§ 3588-3599. Superseded by Public Laws 1921, c. 2, incorporated in this Chapter as Article 15.

Art. 2. State Fund for County Road Loans

§ 3600. Semiannual road loan fund; state bonds for; first issue.—For the purpose of creating a semiannual road fund, not to exceed four hundred thousand dollars, to be used by the several counties of the state for permanent road improvement upon the terms herein prescribed, the state treasurer is hereby authorized and directed to issue bonds of the state of North Carolina payable forty-one years after date of issue, which bonds shall be issued semiannually on the first days of January and July of each year. On the first day of July following the ratification of this article the state treasurer shall issue bonds to an amount not to exceed four hundred thousand dollars, which bonds shall bear interest at a rate not exceeding four per cent per annum from date of issue until paid, which interest shall be payable semiannually on the first days of January and July of each year so long as any portion of said bonds shall remain due and unpaid. (1917, c. 6, s. 1; 1919, c. 115.)

Editor's Note.—Sections 3846(1) et seq. vesting the control of county roads in the State Highway Commission seem to render inoperative the sections under this article.

Purpose of Article.—This article is designed to enable the state to lend its aid to road building and maintenance in counties, townships, and road districts. Commissioners v. State Treasurer, 174 N. C. 141, 93 S. E. 482.

See the regulations under the State Highway System created in 1921, which vests the direct control of the state system in the State Commission and provides for financing the system including the reimbursements of the counties. Sections 3846(a) et seq.

§ 3601. Loans to counties.—The proceeds received by the state treasurer from the sale of said bonds shall be loaned to the several counties of the state, as hereinafter provided, to be used by said counties in the construction of macadam, sandclay, or other surfaced roads. (1917, c. 6, s. 2; 1919, c. 115.)

§ 3602. Counties pay interest to treasurer; how such interest used.—Said counties shall pay to the state treasurer five per cent interest per annum on the amount so loaned, to be paid semiannually on the first days of December and June of each year, for a period of forty-one years, or for such time thereafter as may hereinafter be required. From the five per cent interest received on such county bonds the state treasurer shall pay the four per cent interest on the state bonds issued for this purpose, and the surplus shall become a part of the semiannual road fund herein provided for. (1917, c. 6, s. 3; 1919, c. 115.)

§ 3603. Second bond issue; disposition of surplus.—On January first following the first issue of bonds under this article the state treasurer shall issue like bonds to an amount sufficient, when added to said surplus, to make an available fund of four hundred thousand dollars, or so much thereof as may be necessary, to meet the demands made for loans, which said sum shall be loaned in the same manner as the proceeds arising from the first sale of bonds. Said bonds shall be the same in all respects as those first issued, and shall run for a period of forty-one years from date of issue, and bear interest at a like rate, which interest shall be payable on the first days of January and July of each year. If sufficient applications for loans to counties shall not be made under the provisions of this article to take up the surplus at any time, the state treasurer is authorized to loan such remaining surplus, in such manner as he may deem best, at a rate of not less than five per cent per annum, payable semiannually on the first day of December and June of each year. (1917, c. 6, s. 4; 1919, c. 115.)

§ 3604. Successive issues and loans.—Each six months thereafter, for a period of forty-one years, the state treasurer shall issue bonds of the same class, to run for a period of forty-one years from date of issue, to an amount sufficient, when added to said surplus, to create a fund of four hundred thousand dollars, or so much thereof as may be demanded, which amounts shall be loaned to the counties applying therefor under the conditions herein imposed. (1917, c. 6, s. 5; 1919, c. 115.)

§ 3605. Payment and retirement of bonds provided for.—At the expiration of said period of forty-one years the state treasurer shall retire all of said bonds, as they mature, from the surplus remaining each six months after paying the semiannual interest on the bonds outstanding. (1917, c. 6, s. 6; 1919, c. 115.)

§ 3606. Formal requirements as to bonds and coupons; sales.—The bonds authorized and directed to be issued by this article shall be coupon bonds, and of the denominations of one hundred dollars, five hundred dollars, and one thousand dollars each, as may be determined by the said state treasurer, and shall be signed by the governor and the state treasurer, and sealed with the great seal of the state, and shall be known as "North Carolina Highway Bonds." The coupons thereon may be signed by the State Treasurer alone, or may have a facsimile of his signature printed, engraved, or lithographed thereon; and the said bonds shall in all other respects be in such form as the state treasurer may direct, and the coupons thereon shall, after maturity, be received in payment of all taxes, debts, dues, licenses, funds, and demands due the state of North Carolina of any kind whatsoever which shall be expressed on the face of said bonds. Before selling the bonds herein authorized to be issued, the treasurer shall advertise the sale and invite sealed bids in such a manner as in his judgment may seem to be most effectual to secure the best price. He is authorized to accept bids for the entire issue or any part thereof, and where the advantages are equal, he shall give the preference of purchase to the citizens of North Carolina; and he is authorized to sell the bonds herein authorized in such manner as in his judgment will produce the best price. Any premium received by the state treasurer from the sale of the bonds shall become a part of the surplus or sinking fund herein provided for. (1917, c. 6, s. 7; 1919, c. 115.)

§ 3607. Exemption from taxation. — The said bonds and coupons shall be exempt from all state, county, or municipal taxation or assessment, direct or indirect, general or special, whether imposed for purpose of general revenue or otherwise, and the interest thereon shall not be subject to taxation as for income nor shall said bond and coupons be subject to taxation when constituting a part of the surplus or capital stock of any bank, trust company, or other corporation, but when constituting a part of such surplus or capital stock shall be deducted from the total assets in order to ascertain the taxable value of such shares. (1917, c. 6, s. 8; 1919, c. 115.)

§ 3608. County election on question of state aid. —When as many as twenty-five per centum of the voters registered at the preceding general election in any county of the state shall sign and present a petition to the board of commissioners of such county, requesting said board to call an election for the purpose of securing state aid for the construction of highways in such county, under the provisions of this article, specifying in such petition the amount to be so borrowed and asking that the special tax necessary to meet the payments herein provided for be levied and collected and used for said purpose, if a majority of the votes cast shall favor such loan, said board shall call an election for that purpose, which shall be held on the second Tuesday in April or the second Tuesday in October of that year. A special registration of voters shall be required before any such election is held. Such registration and election shall be conducted under the provisions of the general election law. When calling said election, the board of commissioners shall specify in such call the amount to be voted upon, accompanied by a statement to the effect that a favorable vote thereon shall carry the power and duty on the part of such board of commissioners to levy and collect the special tax herein required for the purposes herein named, and such election shall be conducted in the same manner, as near as may be, as elections for members of the general assembly. At such election those qualified voters who are in favor of securing state aid for road building shall vote a ballot upon which is written or printed the words "For good roads," and those who oppose such state aid shall vote a ballot upon which is written or printed the words "Against good roads." The result of said election shall be certified by the returning board to the board of county commissioners. (1917, c. 6, ss. 10, 11; 1919, c. 115.)

Bond Must Be Given by County.—See Commissioners v. Lacy, 174 N. C. 141, 93 S. E. 482.

§ 3609. County to give bond to state for amount voted; discharge of bond.—If a majority of the votes cast shall be "For good roads," the board of commissioners of such county shall execute a bond payable to the state of North Carolina, in form to be approved by the state treasurer and attorney-general, for the amount so voted, which bond shall be signed by the chairman of the board of county commissioners and countersigned by the register of deeds, and sealed with the seal of the county, and shall be immediately delivered to the state treasurer. Said bond shall obligate said county to pay to the state treasurer five per cent interest per annum on the amount thus loaned, payable semiannually on the first days of December and June of each year for a period of forty-one years. At the expiration of forty-one years said county bond shall be returned by the state treasurer, and said county shall be discharged from further liability on said bond: Provided, that if upon the maturity of any series of state bonds issued in pursuance of this article the state shall not have sufficient funds to retire the same derived from the difference in interest herein provided, owing to its inability to keep such difference in interest continually invested, or on account of expenses or delay incident to its investment, then and in that event any such deficiency shall be made good by the counties participating in the original proceeds of any such state bonds in proportion to the amount of such proceeds received by any such county. (1917, c. 6, s. 11; 1919, c. 115.)

§ 3610. Interest due from county; special tax; penalties for delinquency.—Said interest shall constitute a special state tax, which shall be collected and accounted for under the same penalties as other state taxes, except that the state treasurer shall also be required to collect, in addition to said five per cent to be paid semiannually, a penalty of one-half of one per cent of the interest due for each day the same shall remain unpaid after the first days of December and June of each year. One-half of such penalty shall be paid by the county and one-half by the sheriff of such delinquent county. If any county which has obtained money from the state under the provisions of this article shall fail or refuse to pay the interest due on such loan or loans for a period of thirty days, the amount due by such county, together with the penalty, shall at once become due and payable, and the state treasurer is authorized to proceed to collect the same from such delinquent county. (1917, c. 6, s. 12; 1919, c. 115.)

§ 3611. County files estimates and accounts with treasurer.—At the time of filing said bond with the state treasurer said board of commissioners shall also file an estimate of the amount of money which will be actually needed for the following six months; and semiannually thereafter, on the first days of May and November, they shall file with said treasurer an estimate of the amount needed for the ensuing six months until said loan has been exhausted. Each six months after securing a state loan the board of county commissioners shall publish a sworn statement showing in detail all receipts and expenditures, to whom paid and for what purpose, during the preceding six months, which shall also be filed with the state treasurer. (1917, c. 6, s. 13; 1919, c. 115.)

§ 3612. Adjustment of aggregate of loans to amount of semiannual fund.—If the aggregate of the estimates by the several boards of commissioners which vote for state aid under this article shall exceed the sum of four hundred thousand dollars, the state treasurer shall reduce all loans pro rata for the following six months. If such estimates shall not amount to four hundred thousand dollars, then the bonds to be issued and sold for that period shall be reduced accordingly. (1917, c. 6, s. 14; 1919, c. 115.)

§ 3613. Times when loans made; limit of aggregate loans.—From the first to the thirteenth days of January and July of each year, and at no other time, the state treasurer shall loan to the several counties which have complied with the provisions of this act the amounts asked for by each: Provided, that interest shall be charged and collected from the first day of the month: Provided further, that the aggregate of such loans shall not exceed four hundred thousand dollars; and each six months thereafter, at the time herein prescribed, for a period of forty-one years and as long thereafter as the amount so loaned is unpaid, said counties shall pay to the state treasurer five per cent interest on the amount so loaned. (1917, c. 6, s. 15; 1919, c. 115.)

§ 3614. Additional loans. —Additional loans may be made to counties within the limit prescribed by this article if another election shall have been held therefor as is herein provided, and if a majority of the votes cast shall have been "For good roads." (1917, c. 6, s. 16; 1919, c. 115.)

§ 3615. Second election when first unfavorable —If a majority of the votes cast at any such election shall be "Against good roads," no loan shall be made to that county: Provided, however, that said board of commissioners shall order another election for the same purpose after the lapse of one year upon having presented to it a petition signed by twenty-five per cent of the voters as herein provided. (1917, c. 6, s. 17; 1919, c. 115.)

§ 3616. County "Road Loan Tax"; maintenance tax.—There shall be levied by the proper authorities in each county accepting a loan, as provided for in this article, at the same time other taxes are levied, a special annual tax for a period of forty-one years, to be known as the "Road Loan Tax" which shall be sufficient to pay, and which shall be collected by the sheriff and be used in paying, the semiannual interest on said loan or loans at five per centum per annum. Said tax shall be sufficient to cover the cost of collection and disbursement and the penalty herein provided for, in case such penalty should be incurred, in addition to the five per centum per annum, which shall be paid to the state treasurer by the sheriff of the county semiannually on the first days of December and June of each year. And a vote authorizing the issuance of bonds under this article shall be understood and construed to authorize and empower a levy of said tax. There shall also be annually levied by said board of county commissioners at the times herein specified a separate special tax for the maintenance of the roads built from moneys procured under the provisions of this article, which special tax shall be sufficient, after paying the costs of collection and disbursement, to equal each year, for the first four years after such loan is made, four per centum of the amount so borrowed; each year for the next four years, eight per centum of the amount so borrowed; and thereafter, each year, ten per centum of the amount so borrowed, so long as any of said loans remain due and unpaid to the state. If any board of county commissioners whose duty it is to levy any tax or taxes under the provisions of this article shall fail or refuse to make such levy, or to make such rate of levy as is required by this article, they and each of the members thereof shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and, upon conviction, shall be fined personally and severally not less than two hundred dollars each, nor more than one thousand dollars each, or be imprisoned not exceeding one year, in the discretion of the court. (1917, c. 6, s. 18; 1919, c. 115.)

§ 3617. County loan limited by its indebtedness. —No county shall be allowed to borrow money under the provisions of this article to an amount which, added to the other bonded indebtedness, exceeds six per cent of the assessed valuation of the property of the county. (1917, c. 6, s. 19; 1919, c. 115.)

See Commissioners v. Lacy, 174 N. C. 141, 93 S. E. 482.

§ 3618. Article available to townships and road districts; conditions.—Townships, and road districts created by special act of the general assembly, may avail themselves of the benefits of this article upon compliance with the requirements herein set out: Provided, that the bond or undertaking filled with the state treasurer shall be executed by the board or boards of county commissioners of the county or counties in which such township or road district is situated. Such bond or undertaking shall specify that it is given on behalf of such township or road district only. It shall not be a liability in any wise against the county; and the special taxes shall be levied and collected out of the township or road district named, and not out of the county. It shall be the duty of such commissioners to levy, and the duty of the sheriff to collect, such special taxes and make payment thereof in the manner and under the penalty set out in this article. (1917, c. 6, s. 20; 1919, c. 115.)

Constitutionality.—Prior to the 1919 amendment this section was held unconstitutional because under it other districts of a county could be taxed for the exclusive benefit of one without the consent of the districts taxed. (Const. Art. 1, sec. 17.) It was also violative of Article VII, section 7, forbidding a municipality to contract a debt except in certain instances without the approval of its voters. Commissioners v. Lacy, 174 N. C. 141, 93 S. E. 482; Commissioners v. Boring, 175 N. C. 105, 95 S. E. 43.

The court refused to consider the effect of holding a part of the act unconstitutional upon the remainder of the act. But in Commissioners v. Boring, 175 N. C. 105, 95 S. E. 43, the court held that the constitutional part was unaffected by the unconstitutional portion.

The purpose of the 1919 amendment was evidently to cure the constitutional defect. Ed. Note.

Bond Must Be Given by County.—The bond contemplated to be given to the State is that of the county and not that of the township road district. Commissioners v. Lacy, 174 N. C. 141, 93 S. E. 482.

This section cannot be construed so as to require the county commissioners, as agent for the township, to give the township bond to the State upon which the latter shall issue its 4 per cent bond to aid the township in the construction, etc., of its public roads, for apart from the express language, the statute contemplates more adequate security than a township bond would afford, the size and boundaries of the townships being under the statutory control of the commissioners and subject to be changed by them. Commissioners v. Lacy, 174 N. C. 141, 142, 93 S. E. 482.

Art. 3. Road Improvement with Federal Coöperation

§ 3619. County bonds for road improvement with federal coöperation.—The board of county commissioner of every county in this state is hereby authorized, upon the conditions and subject to the limitations and restrictions hereinafter set forth, to issue bonds of the county from time to time for the purpose of paying the county's share of the cost of constructing or improving public roads in the county at the joint expense of the federal government and the county, or at the joint expense of the federal government, the state, and the county, under agreement between the secretary of agriculture of the United States and the state highway commission of North Carolina. (1919, c. 312, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—Sections 3846(1) et seq., vesting the control of county roads in the State Highway Commission, would seem to render inoperative the sections under this article.

§ 3620. Annual tax to pay bonds and interest authorized.—The board of county commissioners of every county in this state is hereby authorized to levy annually a special tax ad valorem upon all taxable property in the county for the special purpose of paying the principal and interest of all bonds issued by the county under this article, as principal and interest become due, which tax shall be in an amount sufficient for said purpose and in addition to all other taxes authorized to be levied by said board. (1919, c. 312, s. 2.)

§ 3621. Bonds to mature serially within thirty years.—Each issue of bonds made by a county under the provisions of this article shall so mature that the aggregate principal amount of the issue shall be payable in annual installments, beginning not more than three years after the date of the bonds of such issue and ending not more than thirty years after such date. No such installment shall be more than two and one-half times as great in amount as the smallest prior installment of the same bond issue. If all bonds of any one issue are not delivered simultaneously, the bonds of such issue outstanding at any one time shall mature as aforesaid. (1919, c. 312, s. 3.)

§ 3622. Form of bonds and coupons; interest limit; delivery.—Said bonds shall be issued in such form and denominations, and with such provisions as to time, place, and medium of payment of principal and interest, as the board of county commissioners of the county issuing the bonds may determine, subject to the limitations and restrictions of this article. The bonds shall bear interest at a rate not exceeding six per centum per annum, payable semiannually. They may be either coupon bonds or registered bonds; and, if issued in coupon form, may be made registerable as to principal or as to both principal and interest. They shall be signed by the chairman of the board of county commissioners of the county issuing them, and the county seal shall be affixed to the bonds and attested by the clerk of said board; and the coupons of such bonds shall bear the printed, or lithographed, or engraved facsimile signature of the chairman of said board of county commissioners who is in office at the date of the bonds. The delivery of bonds signed as aforesaid by officer in office at the time of such signing shall be valid not withstanding any changes in officers occurring after such signing. (1919, c. 312, s. 4.)

§ 3624. Proceeds of sale a separate fund.—The proceeds of the sale of said bonds shall be placed in a separate fund and used only for the purposes for which the bonds were issued. (1919, c. 312, s. 6.)

§ 3625. Highway commission certifies county's share of cost for bonds.—Whenever a board of county commissioners proposes to issue any bonds under this article said board shall obtain from the state highway commission of North Carolina a certificate stating the amount of the county's share of the cost of the road improvements for which the bonds are to be issued, as such share is estimated by said commission, and no bonds shall be issued under this article in an amount exceeding such share as estimated by said commission. For the purposes of this article, the cost of acquiring rights of way for roads for which bonds are hereby authorized to be issued and the amount of any incidental damages to adjoining property, due to construction work, shall be treated as a part of the county's share of the cost of constructing the roads and may be paid out of the proceeds of the sale of such bonds. (1919, c. 312, s. 7.)

§ 3626. "Road" includes bridges and culverts.—The term "road" as used in this article, shall include bridges and culverts in all cases where bridges and culverts are to be constructed or improved as a part of a road for which bonds are hereby authorized to be issued and the federal government is to bear a part of the expense of constructing or improving such bridges or culverts. (1919, c. 312, s. 7.)

Validity of Act.—An act incorporating a board of road commissioners, distinct from the county commissioners, and giving them full control and authority over the construction, maintenance, and discontinuing of public roads is valid, although the issuing of bonds and the control and ordering of road work are given to the local authorities, while the county commissioners levy and collect taxes. Huneycutt v. Board, 182 N. C. 319, 109 S. E. 4.

Authority of Legislature.—The legislature has the authority to create a board of road commissioners and vest them with the authority over the roads that the county commissioners had theretofore possessed. Road Comm'rs v. Bank, 181 N. C. 347, 107 S. E. 245, 247.

§ 3627. Temporary notes of county in anticipation of bonds.—Whenever a board of county commissioners shall have obtained from the state highway commission a certificate showing the amount of bonds which may be issued by the county as provided in this article, it shall be lawful for the board of county commissioners to issue notes of the county in anticipation of the issuance of bonds under this article. Such notes may run for periods of not exceeding one year, and may be renewed from time to time by the issuance of new notes: Provided, however, that no such notes shall continue to be issued more than two years after the date of the highway commissioner's certificate upon which they are predicated. The board of county commissioners may, if it deems it advisable, retire such notes or any of them by means of taxation or any available funds of the county, and the board of county commissioners is hereby authorized to levy in any year a special tax ad valorem on all taxable property in the county, for the special purpose of paying such notes. In case any such notes are retired by any means other than the issuance of bonds under this article, the amount of bonds which may be issued shall be reduced by the amount of notes so retired. (1919, c. 312, s. 8.)

§ 3628. Special county tax for maintaining federal-aided roads.—The board of county commissioners of every county is hereby authorized to levy annually a special tax ad valorem upon all taxable property of the county for the special purpose of maintaining any public road constructed or improved with the aid of the federal government under an agreement between the secretary of agriculture of the United States and the state highway commission of North Carolina, which tax may be in an amount sufficient for said purpose and in addition to all other taxes authorized to be levied by such board of county commissioners. (1919, c. 312, s. 9.)

§ 3629. Proceeds of other county road bonds made available.—The board of county commissioners of every county is hereby authorized to use, for the same purposes for which bonds are hereby authorized to be issued, the proceeds of the sale of any bonds of the county issued for road purposes under any act other than this article, and also any other funds of the county which may lawfully be used for constructing or improving public roads of the county. (1919, c. 312, s. 10.)

§ 3630. Road authorities of county may contract with highway commission.—The board or body in any county having charge and control of the county roads in the county (whether such board or body be the board of county commissioners or a road commission or other separate body) may enter into agreements with the state highway commission of North Carolina to cause the county to issue bonds or levy taxes under this article. If such an agreement is made by a board or body other than the board of county commissioners, the board of county commissioners may carry out the provisions of the agreement. (1919, c. 312, s. 11.)

§ 3631. Provision for use of bonds of townships, etc.—The board or body having charge and control of the public roads of any county is hereby authorized, by agreement with the state highway commission of North Carolina, to use the proceeds of the sale of any bonds of any road district or township in the county, issued for road purposes, for the same purposes for which county bonds are hereby authorized to be issued: Provided, the road commissioners or other authorities issuing such road district or township bonds join in or consent to such an agreement, which they are hereby authorized to do; and Provided, the road to be constructed or improved by means of said moneys is situated within such road district or township. (1919, c. 312, s. 12.)

§ 3632. Construction of article and powers granted.—The powers granted by this article are granted in addition to and not in substitution for existing powers of counties, and are not subject to any limitation or restriction contained in any other law: Provided, however, that this article shall be constructed as a supplement to any other act passed at the present session of the general assembly providing a plan for meeting any offer on the part of the federal government to provide funds for the construction or improvement of roads in this state, and all provisions of any such other act relating to the expenditure of moneys for road purposes shall apply to the expenditure of moneys raised under the provisions of this article or authorized by it to be used for the purposes herein stated. This section shall not be construed as authorizing the issuance of the road district or township bonds herein referred to, nor shall section 3631 of this article be construed as authorizing the issuance of any bonds other than bonds of a county, payable by general tax upon the county at large. This section deals only with the application of the proceeds of the sale of road district and township bonds, the issuance of which is authorized by some other law. (1919, c. 312, s. 13.)

The board of county commissioners of any of said counties may cause a special election to be held for said purpose at such time as may be designated by said board. Said board shall cause a notice of said election to be posted at the courthouse door of the county at least thirty days before the election, and to be published once in each of the four successive weeks immediately preceding the election. The board of county commissioners shall name the registrars and judges of election for the voting precincts of the county for said election, and shall cause to be printed a sufficient number of ballots for use at the election. At said election the voters who are in favor of the adoption of the provisions of this act shall vote a ballot on which shall be written or printed,

"For the adoption of the Federal Aid Act"; and the voters who are opposed to the adoption of the provisions of this act shall vote a ballot on which shall be written or printed the words, "Against the adoption of the Federal Aid Act." At the close of the election the votes shall be counted and returns thereof made to the board of county commissioners, for which purpose said board shall cause blank abstracts to be printed and furnished to the registrars and judges of election.

On the first Thursday following the election said board county commissioners shall meet as a canvassing board, shall receive the returns of said election, shall judicially pass upon the returns, and shall judicially determine and declare the result of said election, all of which shall be recorded in the records of said board. The returns shall be executed in duplicate, and one copy shall be delivered to the board of county commissioners as aforesaid, and the other filed with the clerk of the superior court of the county. In all respects other than those herein mentioned said special election shall be held and conducted and the qualifications of voters at said election determined, as nearly as may be practicable, in accordance with the general law relating to the holding and conduction of elections for members of the general assembly and the determination of the qualifications of voters at such elections. The expense of holding said special election shall be paid out of the general funds of the county.

The board of county commissioners shall cause a notice containing a brief statement of the result of said election as determined by the board to be published at least once in a newspaper published in the county. No right of action or defense founded upon any invalidity of said election shall be asserted, nor shall the validity of said election be open to question in any court upon any ground whatever, except in an action or proceeding commenced within thirty days after the first publication of said notice: Provided, however, that a copy of this sentence shall be incorporated in said notice. The board of county commissioners may, in its discretion, order a new registration for said special election, but such new registration shall not be necessary unless ordered by the board. Upon the determination, made as aforesaid, by the board of county commissioners, that a majority of the qualified voters voting upon said question voted in favor of adopting the provisions of this article, then all of the provisions of this article shall be in force in the county so adopting them.

Sections 3629, 3631, and 3632 of this article shall be operative in all counties of this state from and after the 11th day of March, 1919. (1919, c. 312, s. 13a; Ex. Sess. 1920, cc. 7, 38.)

Editor's Note. — The counties of Avery and Clay were originally included in this section but were omitted herefrom by act, 1920, Ex. sess. chapter 7, 38.

Art. 4. General Road Improvement; Road Commissions; Bonds and Taxes

Part 1. Bond Issues, Special Taxes and Funds

§ 3634. County issue of road bonds; petition and election; approved by state commission; bond limit.—Bonds may and shall be issued by the board of county commissioners of any county for the purpose of laying out and opening, altering, or improving the public roads and bridges of county under the conditions and provisions hereinafter provided. The board of county commissioners of any county, upon the petition of one hundred freeholders of the county petitioning for an election for a bond issue, shall make an order providing for holding an election at the next election of county officers, or at any time not less than thirty days from the date of such order, which shall be designated therein, to open the polls and take the sense of the qualified voters of the county on the question of whether the board of county commissioners of such county shall issue bonds for such purpose. The petition must include the amount of bonds it is proposed to issue and the approximate number of miles of road that it is proposed to improve by such bond issue. No election shall be held until the board of county commissioners has been notified by the state highway commission in writing that the amount of bonds proposed to be issued will be sufficient to construct or reconstruct, alter or improve approximately the number of miles of road proposed to be improved, reconstructed, or altered, as set out in the petition. (1917, c. 284, s. 1; 1919, c. 12, s. 1; 1919, c. 68.)

As to power of counties to issue bonds see 3 Enc. Dig. 809 et seq; 13 Enc. Dig. 527 et seq.

Editor's Note.—Sections 3846(1) et seq., vesting control of county roads in the State Highway Commission, would seem to render inoperative the sections under this article.

Chapter Not Violative of Restriction on Private Laws.—The restriction placed by the constitutional amendment of 1916 upon the General Assembly to pass local or private laws as to public highways has no application to the provisions of this chapter for the statute relates to the establishment of roads, ferries and bridges for the whole county at such places as are deemed expedient by the local authorities charged with the duty of providing and supervising them, and not for the laying out or maintenance of a special road or erecting a certain bridge. Parvin v. Commissioners, 177 N. C. 508, 99 S. E. 432.

Construction of Roads a Necessary Expense.—The construction and improvement of public roads are a necessary expense, within the meaning of our constitution. Woodall v. Highway Comm., 176 N. C. 377, 97 S. E. 226; Guire v. Board, 177 N. C. 516, 99 S. E. 430.

The construction and maintenance of public roads are necessary public expenses, and the General Assembly may provide for construction and working the same. Road Comm'rs v. Bank, 181 N. C. 347, 107 S. E. 245, 247; Huneycutt v. Board, 182 N. C. 319, 321, 109 S. E. 4.

When Public Road Not a Necessary Expense.—While the building of public roads has been held a necessary expense the application of the principle may not be extended to instances where a statute requires the county to issue its bonds for road purposes to obtain aid for a township or local taxing district therein, upon the approval of the voters of the particular district alone, and without benefit to the others. Commissioners v. Lacy, 174 N. C. 141, 93 S. E. 482.

Vote of People Not Required.—The bond issue provided for by this chapter is for a special purpose within the meaning of Art. V, section 5 of our Constitution and not within that of section 1 of the same article prescribing the limitations and equation between the property and the poll tax; and being for a necessary county expense the vote of the people in the county is not required by our Constitution. Parvin v. Commissioners, 177 N. C. 508, 99 S. E. 432.

§ 3635. Powers vested in road commission. — Whenever it is stated in the petition to the board of county commissioners praying for a bond issue for road work, as is authorized in the preceding section, that the bonds thus authorized shall be issued and sold by the county road commission hereinafter created by this article, or the existing road commission of the county in which the petition for road bonds is made, then the said county road commission or other road commission or board having charge of the road work in said county is hereby vested with all the power, rights, and authority now vested in the board of county commissioners of said county for issuing and selling the road bonds, as authorized in the petition, and said county road commission or other commission or board having charge of the road work in the county shall proceed to issue and sell bonds called for in the petition as hereinafter provided. (1917, c. 284, s. 2; 1919, c. 68.)

§ 3636. Apportionment by townships of funds from bond sale. — Whenever it is stated in the petition to the board of county commissioners praying for a bond issue for road work that the funds derived from the sale of such bonds shall be expended by the county road commission or other commission or board having charge of the road work of said county in the various townships composing the county, in proportion to the assessed tax valuation of each township, then whenever bonds are issued by the board of county commissioners or county road commission, as provided, the county road commission shall apportion the funds arising from the sale of said bonds and use same in the several townships of the county issuing said bonds, as nearly as may be in proportion to the assessed tax valuation of said township, the intention being that each township shall receive and have expended on roads within its borders, or on roads built for its benefit, a fair and equitable proportion of the money arising from the bond issue authorized by this article. The purchasers of said bonds shall not be required to see to the application of such funds. (1917, c. 284, s. 3; 1919, c. 68.)

§ 3637. Special road tax; petition and election; tax limit; approval of state commission. — The board of county commissioners of any county, upon the petition of one hundred freeholders of said county petitioning the board of county commissioners to levy a special road tax for carrying on the road work of said county, shall make an order requiring an election to be held at the time of election of county officers, or at any other time not less than thirty days from the date of such order, which shall be designated therein, to open the polls and take the sense of the qualified voters of the county on the question whether the board of county commissioners shall levy a tax for such purpose. The petition for such election must state the maximum rate for which such special road tax is to be levied, which rate shall not exceed fifty cents on the hundred dollars worth of property according to the last tax list and one dollar and fifty cents on the poll, observing at all times the constitutional equation: Provided, the petition also states approximately the number of miles of road to be improved by such special road tax and the length of time for which such special road tax shall be levied. The board of county commissioners, before calling such election, must be notified by the state highway commission in writing that the amount of money to be raised annually by the special road tax proposed will be sufficient to maintain and operate with economy a construction force suitable for the work proposed or will be sufficient to secure for the county reasonable contract prices for the work to be done, and that within the time named and for the amount thus to be raised the approximate number of miles of road can be built that is named in the petition. (1917, c. 284, s. 4; 1919, c. 68.)

A Necessary Expense.—County bonds for road purposes are for a "necessary expense," and if the levy of a tax therefor provided in the act should be found insufficient, taxes therefor can be levied under the general statutes, authorizing counties to construct roads and bridges. Commissioners v. Bank, etc., Co., 178 N. C. 170, 100 S. E. 421.

§ 3638. When bond issues by township authorized.—At the end of three months after the seventh of March, nineteen hundred and seventeen, in any county that has not taken advantage of the provisions of this article and issued bonds as provided in section 3634 of this chapter, or levied a special tax as provided in the preceding section, then any township may proceed to take advantage of the provisions hereinafter set forth. (1917, c. 284, s. 5; 1919, c. 68.)

Cited in State v. Lucas, 124 N. C. 804, 32 S. E. 553.

§ 3639. Petition from township; election; approval of commission; bond limit.—The board of county commissioners of any county, upon the petition of twenty-five freeholders of said township of said county for a bond issue for the construction or reconstruction of the public roads and bridges of said township, shall make an order providing for holding an election at the next election of county officers, or at any other time not less than thirty days from the date of such order, which shall be designated therein, to open the polls and take the sense of the qualified voters of the township on the question of whether the board of county commissioners of such county shall issue bonds for such township for the purpose stated in the petition. The petition must state the amount of bonds it is proposed to issue and the approximate number of miles of road that it is proposed to improve by such bond issue. No election shall be held until the board of county commissioners has been notified by the state highway commission in writing that the amount of bonds proposed to be issued will be sufficient to construct or reconstruct, alter or improve, approximately the number of miles of road proposed to be constructed, reconstructed, or altered as set out in the petition. (1917, c. 284, s. 6; 1919, c. 68; 1919, c. 12, s. 2.)

shall not exceed fifty cents on the one hundred dollars worth of property, according to the last tax list, and one dollar and fifty cents on the poll, observing at all times the constitutional equation. The petition must also state approximately the number of miles of road to be improved by said special road tax and the length of time for which such special road tax shall be levied. The board of county commissioners, before calling such election, must be notified by the state highway commission, in writing that the amount of money to be raised annually by the special road tax proposed will be sufficient to maintain and operate with economy a construction force suitable for the work proposed, or will be sufficient to secure for the county reasonable contract prices for the work to be done, and that within the time named, and for the amount thus to be raised, the approximate number of miles of road can be built that is named in this petition. 1917, c. 284, s. 7; 1919, c. 68.)

§ 3641. Bond issues in counties having township bond issues.—The board of county commissioners of any county in which township bonds have been issued and sold for the construction of roads shall, upon petition of one hundred freeholders of said county petitioning for an election for a bond issue for road construction, make an order providing for holding an election at the next election of county officers or at any other time not less than thirty days from the date of such order, which shall be designated therein, to open the polls and take the sense of the qualified voters of the county on the question of whether the board of county commissioners of such county shall issue bonds for the purpose of providing funds for taking over the township bonds already issued for road purposes and of providing an additional amount with which to construct additional roads in such county. Such petition must state the amount of bonds which it is proposed to issue in excess of the amount required to cover the township bond issue, and also the approximate number of miles that it is proposed to improve by such bond issue. No election shall be held until the board of county commissioners has been notified by the state highway commission in writing that the amount of bonds proposed to be issued for road construction work will be sufficient to construct, reconstruct, or alter approximately the number of miles of road proposed to be improved by said bond issue. The maximum amount of bonds issued under this article in such county, together with all the bonds previously issued and remaining unpaid by such county, shall in no case exceed an amount equal to ten per cent of the total assessed valuation of the county. The township in which the bonds have been issued and which are taken over by the county shall not be subject to any additional tax on account of the county bonds issued to refund or buy in said township bonds, but shall be liable for its pro rata portion of the county bonds. (1917, c. 284, s. 8; 1919, c. 68.)

§ 3642. Bonds and taxes by road districts. — Whenever there has been established in any county or counties of this state a road district, composed of one or more townships in one or more counties, or parts of one or more townships in one or more counties such road district is herewith granted the same rights and privileges in regard to the issuing of bonds or levying of special road tax as is given to townships under the provisions of this article. (1917, c. 284, s. 9; 1919, c. 68.)

§ 3643. Petition and election for county road commission.—Upon the petition of one hundred freeholders of any county petitioning for the creation of a county road commission, the board of county commissioners of said county shall make an order providing for holding an election at the next election of county officers or at any other time not less than thirty days from the date of said order, which shall be designated therein, to open the polls and take the sense of the qualified voters of the county on the question of whether there shall be created in said county a county road commission. In the event that the majority of votes cast shall be for the creation of a county road commission at any election herein provided for, after the result has been declared and recorded as herein provided for there shall be and there is herewith created in said county a county road commission as provided hereinafter. (1917, c. 284, s. 10; 1919, c. 68.)

§ 3644. Qualified voters defined; law governing elections; registrations; ballots; returns. — The qualified voters at any special election held under the provisions of this article, until otherwise provided by general law, shall be those qualified to vote at the preceding regular November election and those who may have become of age and qualified since the preceding regular November election, except those who by commission of crimes or by removal from the district or county or for other legal causes have disqualified themselves to vote. Any election held under the provisions of this article shall be conducted in the same manner as is now or may hereafter be prescribed by law for holding elections for the member of the general assembly, except as herein provided. The said board of county commissioners shall appoint the registrars of election, the judges or inspectors, and any other election officers, and registration and challenge of voters shall be conducted in the same manner as is now or may hereafter be provided for the election of members of the general assembly; and said county commissioners may or may not order a new registration for any or all of said elections.

At any special election held under the provisions of this article for a bond issue, the ballots tendered and cast by the voters shall have written or printed upon them "For road bond issue" or "Against road bond issue," and all electors who favor the issuing of said bonds shall vote a ballot written or printed thereon "For road bond issue," and those opposed to the issuing of the bonds shall vote a ballot written or printed thereon "Against road bond issue"; and at any special election held under the provisions of this article, providing for a special road tax, the ballots tendered and cast by the voters shall have written or printed upon them "For special road tax" or "Against special road tax," and all electors who favor the levying of said special road tax shall vote a ballot written or printed thereon "For special road tax" and those opposed to levying the special road tax shall vote a ballot written or printed thereon "Against special road tax"; and at any special election held under the provisions of this article, providing for the creation of a county road commissioner, the ballots tendered and cast by the voters shall have written or printed upon them "For county road commission" or "Against county road commission"; and all electors who favor the creating of a county road commission shall vote a ballot written or printed thereon "For county road commission," and those opposed to creating a county road commission shall vote a ballot written or printed thereon "Against county road commission."

The vote shall be counted at the close of the polls and returned to the board of county commissioners or clerk of the board on the Thursday next following the election, and the board shall tabulate and declare the result of the election not later than its next regular meeting following the return of the vote of the election, all of which shall be recorded in the minutes of the board of county commissioners, and no other recording and declaring of the result of the election shall be necessary. The result of the vote shall be counted, declared, and reported to the board of county commissioners as prescribed by law in the election of the members of the general assembly. (1917, c. 284, s. 11; 1919, c. 68.)

Voting without Administration of Oath.—Votes, on issuance of bonds, of electors of special highway district otherwise qualified, should not be rejected because registrars failed to administer oath to them, and they were allowed to vote without being challenged. Woodall v. Highway Comm., 176 N. C. 377, 97 S. E. 226.

§ 3645. When bonds to be issued.—In the event that the majority of the votes cast shall be "For road bond issue" at any election herein provided for, after the result has been declared and recorded as aforesaid the board of county commissioners or county road commission, as authorized, of the county at its next regular meeting shall proceed to carry out the wishes of the voters as expressed at such election, as hereinafter provided in this article. (1917, c. 284, s. 12; 1919, c. 68.)

When Vote a Tie.—It requires a majority of the qualified voters in favor of an election upon the question of adopting a special tax to carry it, and the tax cannot be declared as carried when by striking from the registration disqualified voters the result is a tie. Groves v. Commissioners, 180 N. C. 568, 105 S. E. 172.

§ 3646. Levy of special road tax.—In the event that the majority of the votes cast shall be "For special road tax" at any election herein provided for, after the results has been declared and recorded as aforesaid the board of county commissioners of the county at its next regular meeting shall proceed to carry out the wishes of the voters as expressed at such election, as hereinafter provided for in this article. (1917, c. 284, s. 13; 1919, c. 68.)

§ 3648. Advertisement and sale of bonds; when noncompliance not to invalidate bonds. — The board of county commissioners, or county road commission, or other commission of any county which is authorized to issue county, township, or road district bonds under the provisions of this article, shall then proceed with the least possible delay to issue such bonds in such denominations and of such class and for such term as may be deemed best by said board of county commissioners or other said commission. In making sale of the bonds authorized by this article, advertisement of same shall be made in a recognized financial paper of the country, or a newspaper of state-wide circulation, as well as in a local paper, for at least thirty days prior to receiving of bids by the board of county commissioner or county road commission. The advertisement shall state the date, the time and the place for the opening of bids, and the advertisement shall also state that all bids must be accompanied by certified check properly vouched for by a local bank, if any, of the county in which sale is to be consummated and for which bonds are issued; but if there is no bank in said county, then by any solvent bank in a neighboring county, and the amount of said check to be determined by the board of county commissioners or county road commission of the county proposing to issue the bonds. The state highway commission must be notified by the board of county commissioners or county road commission of the date, place, and time of sale of bonds authorized to be sold under this article, in order that the state highway commission, if it so desires, may have a representative present who shall act in an advisory capacity with the board of county commissioners in the sale of the bonds. The noncompliance with the conditions herein required shall not be construed to invalidate the bonds issued which may have passed into the hands of innocent purchasers for value and without notice. No bonds shall be sold for less than their par value. (1917, c. 284, s. 15; 1919, c. 68.)

Advertisement Once a Week.—Where the statute for the issuance of county bonds for road purposes provides that previous advertisement of notice for the sale of these bonds shall be given for thirty days, an advertisement for once a week, beginning more than thirty days before the sale, is a compliance with the statute. Commissioners v. Bank and Trust Co., 178 N. C. 170, 100 S. E. 421.

§ 3649. State or federal aid.—If any act shall be passed at this or any subsequent session of the general assembly authorizing the state to loan money to the counties to aid in the building or improving of public roads, taking county bonds as collateral for said loan, or if any provision shall be made for the federal government to loan money to the county for the purpose as stated above, then the board of county commissioners or county road commissioner is hereby authorized and empowered to avail themselves of the privileges and benefits of any such act. (1917, c. 284, s. 16; 1919, c. 68.)

§ 3650. No fees allowed officers. — In selling the bonds and in handling the funds derived from the sale of the bonds, and in turning same over to the bank or banks of the county hereinafter authorized to be the depository of such funds, the board of county commissioners, the county road commission, or the treasurer of the county shall not be allowed any fees for handling such funds. (1917, c. 284, s. 17; 1919, c. 68.)

§ 3651. Levy of tax for interest on bonds; misappropriation punished.—When any bonds are issued under the provisions of this article, the board of county commissioners shall levy annually the first Monday in May, or at such time as county taxes are levied, a special tax for the county, township, or road district, of such an amount on the one hundred dollars of property and on the poll as will provide a sufficient sum with which to pay the interest due on the bonds issued and pay whatever part of the principal of the bond issue may become due that year, and also to set aside the amount necessary to provide an adequate sinking fund with which to redeem or buy in the bonds. The taxes so levied shall be collected as other taxes and shall be kept as a separate fund, to be applied for the purposes as stated above, and it shall be a misdemeanor for the members of the board of county commissioners to use such fund for any other purpose. (1917, c. 284, s. 18; 1919, c. 68.)

§ 3653. Emergency fund or bonds provided for; limit.—Wherever in any county, township, or road district a condition exists in connection with the location, construction, reconstruction, maintenance, or repair of the roads of said county or township or road district such that in the judgment of the county road commission or any other similar road commission or board having charge of the roads and bridges of the county, township, or road district, the fund available for such condition is insufficient for the work demanded, then on application of the county road commission or any other similar road commission or board of the county, township, or road district, the board of county commissioners shall appropriate from the general fund of the county, or shall issue short-time notes or bonds in sufficient amount for the work required. The amounts of such fund or bonds issued shall not in any one year exceed one per cent of the taxable valuation, both real and personal, of the county, township, or road district. (1917, c. 284, s. 20; 1919, c. 68.)

§ 3654. Fund for maintenance of roads.—Whenever the board of county commissioners or county road commission of any county under the provisions of this article has issued and sold bonds or has levied a special road tax, it shall levy an additional special maintenance tax sufficient to raise an amount equal to not less than one or more than four per cent of the par value of said bonds issued for the road work of the county, township, or road district, or the amount that has been raised by the said special road tax, to be used for the purpose of maintaining the roads built through the expenditure of the funds raised from such bond issue or from such special road tax. The money thus raised shall be deposited by the sheriff to the credit of the county road commission hereinafter provided for in said bank or banks authorized to receive funds under the provisions of this article. This money shall be deposited as a maintenance fund, to be expended only for the maintenance of the roads constructed under the authority of this article. (1917, c. 284, s. 21; 1919, c. 68.)

§ 3655. Depository for road funds.—All moneys derived from the sale of bonds authorized and sold under the provisions of this article or from the levy of the special road tax authorized under the provisions of this article shall be deposited by the board of county commissioners in such solvent bank or banks, if any, of said county, or if there is no bank in said county, then in any solvent bank in a neighboring county as will pay the highest rate of interest on daily balances as may be determined by the board of county commissioners; said moneys to be deposited in said bank or banks to the credit of the county road commission hereinafter provided for, and to be drawn upon by said commission as hereinafter directed. (1917, c. 284, s. 22; 1919, c. 68.)

Commissioners May Designate Bank for Deposit.—Where a county has issued bonds for the purpose of lending their proceeds to the State Highway Commission, to be used for the construction of certain highways within the county, and the county commissioners have such proceeds on hand, they may designate the banks in which they are to be deposited, and mandamus by the county treasurer will not lie for control of the funds as a part of the general county funds coming within his control. Lewis v. Commissioners, 192 N. C. 546, 135 S. E. 347.

Liability of Surety.—Where a local bank has been lawfully appointed to perform the duties ordinarily performed by the county treasurer, and has also been appointed as a special depository for the proceeds of sale of an issue of bonds for highway construction upon which interest is required to be paid, the surety on its bond for the faithful performance by the bank of the duties of county treasurer is not liable for the failure of the bank to collect interest on the funds received by it from the sale of the highway bonds, as such was not in contemplation of the surety bond. State v. First Nat. Bank, 194 N. C. 436, 140 S. E. 38.

§ 3656. Other funds deposited.—Any other moneys, in whatever way collected or appropriated, which are designed to be used for the construction or maintenance of the roads of any county, township, or road district in which bonds for road work within such county, township, or road district have been issued and sold or in which special road tax for road improvement has been levied under the provisions of this article, shall be deposited in the same bank or banks as heretofore provided in which the moneys obtained from the bond issue or special road tax are deposited, and these moneys shall be deposited to the credit of the county road commission hereinafter provided for, and shall be drawn upon by said commission as hereinafter directed. (1917, c. 284, s. 23; 1919, c. 68.)

§ 3657. Monthly statements by depositories.—The bank or banks in which the said road moneys designated in this article are deposited shall prepare monthly statements showing the amounts paid, to whom paid, and for what purposes, and submit same to the said county road commission, and the said road commission shall have said monthly statement posted at the courthouse door of such county. (1917, c. 284, s. 24; 1919, c. 68.)

Part 2. County Road Commission and Road Management

§ 3658. County road commission.—Whenever a bond issue or a levy of a special road tax or the appointment of a county road commission is authorized as hereinbefore provided in this article, there shall be and there is herewith created in such county, except as hereinafter provided, a county road commission to be composed of either three or five members one of whom shall be at all times a member of the minority political party of the county, and who shall be appointed by the board of county commissioners. Should the board of county commissioners decide to appoint three men in the making the first appointments one members shall be appointed for two years, one for four years and one for six years. Should the board decide to appoint five men, in making the first appointments one member shall be appointed for two years, two for four years, and two for six years. Thereafter all appointments shall be for six years. Nothing in this law shall be so construed as to prevent the reappointment of a member of this commission at the expiration of his term. Each member of the county road commission shall take and subscribe an oath before the clerk of the court of his county for the faithful performance of his duties as a member of the said commission: Provided, however, that when in any petition authorized by this article it is stated that the board of county commissioners or road commission or board already existing in such county shall have charge of the road work of such county, township, or road district, then the board of county commissioners shall not appoint a new county road commission as set forth in this section, but the said commission or board mentioned in the said petition shall become the county road commission for carrying out the purpose of this article. (1917, c. 284, s. 25; 1919, c. 12, s. 3; 1919, c. 68.)

See editor's note under § 3634.

Section Partly Directory.—The feasibility and practicability of electing persons of different political parties as highway commissioners, is a matter for the voters, and their judgment is final and not reviewable by the courts. Cole v. Sanders, 174 N. C. 112, 93 S. E. 476.

§ 3659. County commissioners appoint township road commissioners in certain cases.—Whenever a bond issue or a levy of a special road tax is authorized or has been authorized, as hereinbefore provided in this article, for any township in any county where one or more townships have heretofore voted bonds for the working of the public roads under special acts or under acts other than this article, and the working of the roads of said township is under the charge of a township commission, and no county road commission is in existence or has been appointed under this article, in such case the county commissioners may appoint a township road commission for such township, to be composed of three members, one of whom shall be at all times a member of the minority political party of the township. Township commissioners so appointed shall be appointed for the same term and in the same manner as is hereinbefore provided for the appointment of the county road commission, and such township commission shall have in said township, and for the purpose of working the roads of said township, all the rights, powers and privileges in this article given, granted and conferred upon the county road commission. (1919, c. 37.)

§ 3660. Extension of jurisdiction of commission.—Wherever a township or road district has taken advantage of the provisions of this article, so that a county commission has been created and appointed and has charge of the road work of such township or road district, and there should be in the same county in which such township or road district is located another or other townships which avail themselves of the privileges of this article, there shall be no additional county road commission appointed by the board of county commissioners as provided for herein, but the county road commission already appointed shall have charge of the road work in the additional township or townships or road district or districts of said county that may come under the provisions of this article. (1917, c. 284, s. 26; 1919, c. 68.)

§ 3661. Corporate powers; use of road funds.—The county road commission and its successors in office are and they are hereby constituted a body corporate under and by virtue of the laws of North Carolina and by this article, under the name and style of County Road Commission, and shall have all powers and authority granted to corporations of like nature by the laws of North Carolina, and by that name may sue and be sued, make contracts, acquire real and personal property by gift or devise, hold, exchange, sell the same, and exercise such other rights and privileges as are incident to other municipal corporations of like nature, such as the condemnation of land for the construction, widening or changing of any roads in the county, and such other powers as are necessary to carry out any and all the provisions of this article. The said county road commission shall use the funds derived from the sale of bonds or by levy of special tax, or whatever way derived, as authorized by this article, to locate, construct, reconstruct, surface, repair, improve, and maintain the public highways and bridges in the county, township, or road district under their jurisdiction; shall purchase such materials and purchase and hold, or contract for the use of, such tools, machinery, implements, and teams as they may deem necessary for carrying on the road work of said county or township, and perform such other duties as are hereinafter provided for by this article. (1917, c. 284, s. 27; 1919, c. 68.)

§ 3662. Duties and powers of county road commissions.—It shall be the duty of the said county road commission to take charge of laying out, opening, altering, maintaining, or discontinuing of any and all roads of said county, or of such roads as may be stated in the petition, authorizing the issuing of bonds or of levying special road tax or the formation of a county road commission, that are now maintained or may be maintained by the county as public roads; and it is hereby vested with all powers, rights, and authority now vested in the board of county commissioners and other commissions or boards or other road officials of said county for the general supervision of such roads of said county, and for the construction and repair thereof, by contract or otherwise, as may be deemed best: Provided, that if the bonds issued or the special road tax levied under the provisions of this article applies only to a township or road district, then the duties of the county road commission shall only apply to said township or road district. (1917, c. 284, s. 28; 1919, c. 68.)

§ 3663. Organization of road commissions; compensation of commissioners.—The county road commission shall biennially from the date of its organization elect a chairman and a secretary who shall hold office for two years and until their successors shall be elected and qualified. All moneys expended by said commission shall be by draft upon the bank or banks which are depositories for the said road fund, and said drafts shall be signed by the secretary and countersigned by the chairman, and shall show upon their face the purpose for which the money is expended. The members of said county road commission shall receive pay only when acting jointly as a road commission and such compensation shall be the same as paid to the members of the board of county commissioners of said county. (1917, c. 284, s. 29; 1919, c. 68.)

§ 3665. Continuation of existing road management.—Those counties or townships or road districts, coming under the provisions of this article, which already have a road commission, or other commission or board which has charge of the road work, or in which the board of county commissioners have charge of the road work, and desire to retain such commission or board to have charge of the road work of said county, township, or road district, then such desire shall be stated in the petition praying for a bond election or special road tax; and if the bond election or special road tax is passed, then said board of county commissioners, or other board or commission stated in the petition, shall become the county road commission for all the purposes of this article, and shall be required to perform the duties that the county road commission created by this article is authorized to perform; if, however, no desire is stated in the petition praying for a bond election or special road tax that an existing road commission or board or the board of county commissioners shall retain charge of or have charge of the road work in such county, township, or road district, then in that event the county road commission authorized by this article shall be appointed by the board of county commissioners, and such appointment shall abolish the said county, township, or district road commission or board, but all the rights and authority conferred upon such commission or board herewith abolished are hereby conferred upon the county road commission herein enacted. (1917, c. 284, s 31; 1919, c. 68.)

§ 3666. Road engineer to keep books and accounts.—The county road commission is authorized to employ an expert road engineer at such compensation as may be fixed by said county road commission. The county road engineer, however appointed, may request, at any time, the advice of the state highway engineer in solving any problem that may arise, either technical, economical, or otherwise, that may be deemed by him to be of benefit to the county, and such advice shall be without any expense to the county or township. It shall be the duty of the engineer of the county, township, or road district coming under the provisions of this article to keep or have kept the necessary books and accounts showing in detail the expenditure for all work done through money derived by bonds issued or special road tax levied for road work in such county, township, or road district. The engineer shall keep or have kept in suitable way a cost accounting system showing the unit cost of various items entering into the construction of the roads, showing when and where the various elements of cost entering into the said work were used, giving the name of the road and the nearest station number to culverts, bridges, etc. It shall be his duty to keep approximate yardage costs, and approximate classification of the materials moved in all excavations made for the purpose of building such roads. (1917, c. 284, s. 32; 1919, c. 68.)

§ 3667. Assessments of damages and benefits.—In opening new highways, widening and straightening old roads and repairing same, the county road commission created by this article, or any other road commission or board, or the board of county commissioners, having charge of the road work in any county, township, or road district, or the state highway commission, is hereby authorized through its agents to enter upon any land and locate and build such highways. If the said commission or board and the owner or owners of said land cannot agree as to the damages, if any, the said commission or board shall, after sixty days after said highway is completed, cause to be summoned three disinterested freeholders of said county, who shall go upon the land and assess the damages and benefits under the general law as it now exists. Before entering upon lands as authorized by this section it shall be the duty of the said commission or board to serve notice upon the owner or owners of said land, notifying them that the highway is to be located upon said land under authority of this article. In assessing the damages sustained by any landowner, the jury shall take into consideration the special benefits, if any, accruing to the landowner, and in determining such benefits consideration shall be given to the benefits the landowner has derived from the fact that any old road right of way has reverted back to said landowner by reason of the relocation and construction of the new road; and if such benefits shall exceed the damages, then the amount of such excess of benefits shall be assessed against the landowner and shall constitute a lien upon the land adjoining the road, and shall be collected by the sheriff in the same way as public taxes. No suit shall be instituted by the landowner for damages on account of location of the road under this article or the taking of timber or material until after sixty days after the completion of the road across the lands of such landowner, and no suit shall be brought by any landowner unless the same is commenced within six months after the completion of the road by or across the lands of the claimant. Either party may appeal to the superior court for the assessment of damages and benefits, where the matter shall be heard by the court and jury de novo. No cost shall be awarded against any county or township upon appeals when the recovery awarded through such appeal is not more favorable to appellant than the award of the referees. (1917, c. 284, s. 33; 1919, c. 68.)

How Damages Assessed.—In assessing damages for the construction of a highway the jury should estimate the value of the land taken, and any damage to the rest of plaintiff's tract by the location of the road, and from such sum should subtract any benefits to the plaintiff by reason of any additional value given to the land by special advantages not general to the lands of others. Campbell v. Board, 173 N. C. 500, 92 S. E. 323 (decided under a private act).

Location of Road Not Considered.—Where a part of the owner's lands has been taken by the county in straightening a highway, and he is left with the use of the old road running near his dwelling on another part of his land, he is not entitled to having considered by the jury, in estimating his damages, the fact that the new road did not run by his dwelling, the location of the new part of the road being a matter entirely within the discretion of the proper county authorities. Elks v. Commissioners, 179 N. C. 241, 102 S. E. 414.

Appeal from Award of Assessors.—The Legislature may make the award of assessors to lay off and construct a public road final as to the amount of damages to be paid the owners of the land so appropriated; the awarding of such damages is to a large extent a judicial question, and unless the statute clearly shows that the action of the appraisers is to be regarded as final, the superior court, in the exercise of its general powers of supervision and control over any and all subordinate tribunals, may in proper instances bring the cause before it for review, certainly in case of manifest and gross abuse. Dickson v. Perkins, 172 N. C. 359, 90 S. E. 289.

§ 3668. Entry on land for material; obstruction of drains or ditches.—The county road commission created by this article, or any other road commission or board, or the board of county commissioners, having charge of the road work in any county, township, or road district, or the state highway, commission, is hereby authorized through its agents to enter upon any land in said county, to cut and carry away any timber except trees or groves on improved land planted or left for shade or ornament, dig or cause to be dug and carry away any gravel, sand, clay dirt, or stone which may be necessary for the proper repair and construction of roads in said county, and make or cause to be made such drains or ditches upon any land adjoining or lying near any road in said county that the said commission or board may deem necessary for the better condition of the road; and the drains and ditches so made shall not be obstructed by the occupants of such lands or any other person; and any person obstructing such drains or ditches shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. Before entering upon land as authorized by this section, it shall be the duty of the said commission or board, through its representatives, to serve notice upon the owner or owners of said land, notifying them that certain material authorized to be taken by this section is required for the road work. (1917, c. 284, s. 34; 1919, c. 68.)

County Not Liable for Trespass.—An action will not lie against a county for trespass and damages where its officers wrongfully quarried rock on plaintiff's land. Keenan v. Commissioners, 167 N. C. 356, 83 S. E. 556.

§ 3669. Cutting timber shading roads.—The county road commission or other commission or board having charge of the road work in any county, township, or road district, or the state highway commission, through its agents is hereby authorized to enter upon any land adjoining or bordering on any county road and cut the trees on such land for a distance in width of not over thirty feet from the edge of the right of way of said road; but such cutting must be necessary for the maintenance of the road, and trees or groves on improved land planted or left for shade or ornament shall not be cut. Due compensation shall be made for any damage sustained by the landowner, to be ascertained under the rules and regulations provided in the second section preceding. (1917, c. 284, s. 35; 1919, c. 68.)

§ 3670. Claims for timber or material.—The owner of any land from which any timber or other material has been removed may present to the authorities his claim therefor in writing, and upon such presentment it shall be the duty of the said authorities to set a day not later than thirty days thereafter for the purpose of hearing and determining such claim. Upon the hearing and determination thereof, the claimant may appeal to the superior court of said county to have his cause tried as in other civil cases. (1917, c. 284, s. 36; 1919, c. 68.)

§ 3671. Width, alignment, and grade of highways.—The highways in any county, township, or road district constructed or improved under this article shall have a right of way of not less than forty feet, except where the road authorities or state highway commission deem it impracticable to acquire such width, and in such cases the width shall be as determined by said authorities. The alignment of the road shall be as straight as practicable and with no grade over four and one-half per cent, except as such grade is considered impracticable by the road engineer. (1917, c. 284, s. 37; 1917, c. 68.)

§ 3671(a). Drainage of highway; application to court; summons; commissioners.—Whenever in the establishment, construction, improvement or maintenance of any public highway it shall be necessary to drain said highway, and to accomplish such purpose it becomes necessary to excavate a canal or canals for carrying the surplus water to some appropriate outlet, either along the right-of-way of said highway or across the lands of other landowners, and by the construction, enlargement or improvement of such canal or canals, lands other than said highway will be drained and benefited, then, and in such event, the State highway commission, if said highway be a part of the State highway system, or the county highway commission, or such agency in the county as may have jurisdiction over public highways, if said highway be a county highway, may, by petition, apply to the Superior Court of the county in which, in whole or in part, said highway lies or said canal is to be constructed, setting forth the necessity for the construction, improvement or maintenance of said canal, the lands which will be drained thereby, with such particularity as to enable same to be identified, the names of the owners of said land and the particular circumstances of the case; whereupon a summons shall be issued for and served upon each of the proprietors, requiring them to appear before the court at a time to be named in the summons, which shall not be less than ten days from the service thereof, and upon such day the petition shall be heard, and the court shall appoint three disinterested persons, one of whom shall be a competent civil and drainage engineer recommended by the State Geologist, and the other two of whom shall be resident freeholders of the county or counties in which the road and lands are, in whole or in part located, as commissioners, who shall, before entering upon the discharge of their duties, be sworn to do justice between the parties. (1925, c. 85, s. 3.)

§ 3671(b). View by commissioners; report; judgment.—The commissioners, or a majority of them, one of whom must be the engineer aforesaid, shall, on a day which each party is to be notified at least five days in advance, meet on the premises, and view the highway, or proposed highway, and also the lands which may be drained by the proposed canal, and shall determine and report what lands will be drained and benefited by the construction, enlargement or improvement of such canal, and whether said drainage ought to be done exclusively by said highway authorities, and if they are of opinion that the same ought not to be drained exclusively at their expense, then they shall decide and determine the route of the canal, the dimensions and charter thereof, and the manner in which the same shall be cut or thrown up, considering all the circumstances of the case, the extent, area and identity of lands which shall be permitted to drain therein, and providing as far as possible for the effectual drainage of said highway, and the protection and benefit of the lands of all the parties; and they shall apportion the cost of the construction, repair and maintenance of said canal among said highway authorities and said landowners, and report the same to the court, which when confirmed by the clerk shall stand as a judgement of the court against each of the parties, his or its executors, administrators, heirs, assigns or successors. (1925, c. 85, s. 4.)

§ 3671(c). Appeal.—Upon the entry of the judgment or decree aforesaid the parties to said action, or any of them, shall have the right to appeal to the Superior Court in term time under the same rules and regulations as apply to other special proceedings. (1925, c. 85, s. 5.)

§ 3671(d). Rights of parties.—The parties to such special proceeding shall have all the rights which are secured to similar parties by article one of chapter ninety-four of the Consolidated Statutes, and shall be regulated by the provisions thereof and amendments thereto, in so far as the same are not inconsistent herewith. (1925, c. 85, s. 6.)

§ 3671(e). Closing road during construction.—If it shall appear necessary to the road governing body of any county, its officers or appropriate employees, to close any road or highway coming under its jurisdiction so as to permit of proper completion of work which is being performed, such road governing body, its officers or employees, may close or cause to be closed the whole or any portion of such road or highway deemed necessary to be excluded from public travel. While any such road or highway, or portion thereof, if so closed, or while any such road or highway, or portion thereof, is in process of construction or maintenance, such road governing body, its officers or appropriate employees, or its contractor, under authority from such road governing body, may erect, or cause to be erected, suitable barriers or obstructions thereon, may post, or cause to be posted, conspicuous notices to the effect that the road or highway, or portion thereof, is closed, warning signs, lights and lanterns on such road or highway, or portions thereof. When such road or highway is closed to the public or in process of construction or maintenance, as provided herein, any person who willfully breaks down, drives into new construction work, removes, injures, or destroys any such barrier or barriers or obstructions on road being constructed, or tears down, removes, or destroys any such notices, drives into new construction work, or extinguishes, removes, injures or destroys any such warning lights or lanterns so erected, posted, or placed, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor: Provided, a detour shall be provided when the road is closed. (1924, c. 81.)

§ 3672. Deposit of money; transfer of equipment.—Any moneys on hand in any county treasury or in the hands of any county treasurer or in any township or road district treasury, or in the hands of any township treasurer, to the credit of the road funds of such county or township or road district at the time the location, construction, repair and maintenance of the public roads in said county, township, or road district comes under the provisions of this article, shall be turned over to the bank or banks designated as the depository for the road fund of said county or township or road district by the board of county commissioners, or other authorities having charge of such funds, and shall become part of said road fund and shall be expended for the construction of the roads in said county, township, or road district as provided in this article. Whenever the construction of the roads of any county or township or road district comes under the provisions of this article, any teams, material, machinery tools supplies, or any property whatsoever belonging to the county or township or road district, shall be turned over to the county road commission herein provided for, to be used by them for and in whatever way they deem best in constructing or improving the roads of said county or township or road district: Provided, that when the bonds issued or special road tax levied only applies to a township or road district, then other such teams, materials, machinery, tools, supplies, or other property as belong to said township or road district shall be turned over to the county road commission. (1917, c. 284, s. 38; 1919, c. 68.)

Settlement between Road Commissioners and County Commissioners.—When commissioners of a certain county sold bonds for the completion of the state highway through the county, and other specified purposes, and thereafter a county board of road commissioners was established by legislative enactment, in a settlement between the two boards it was held that the county commissioners were entitled to a credit of such amount as had been paid by it for the designated purposes, but not for any amount used for general county purposes. Com'rs v. Commissioners, 184 N. C. 463, 115 S. E. 54.

§ 3673. County-line roads.—When the proper location of any public road is such as to cause it to run along the dividing line between two counties or to traverse first a part of one county and then a part of the other county, thus making the road a "county-line road," then a representative or representatives of the county road commission of each county, or, in case the county has no road commission, then of the board of county commissioners, shall together with representative of the state highway commission, meet on the first Wednesday in March or as soon thereafter as practicable of each year and determine the amount necessary to maintain for the succeeding year the said "county-line road" in a proper manner, and also determined the best method of expending such sum in the most economical manner to accomplish the desired result; and each county commission shall then provide from the road funds at its disposal an amount equal to one-half of that previously determined as necessary to maintain said road in a proper manner, and shall use such sum in the maintenance of said road in such manner as is determined by the representatives of said commissions. In case the county commission desires and requests in writing that the state highway commission supervise and take charge of the maintenance of said "county-line road," then the said sum provided for the maintenance of said road by the said county commissions shall be placed by the said commissions at the disposal of the state highway commission, to be used for the maintenance of the road. (1917, c. 284, s. 39; 1919, c. 68.)

§ 3674. Construction by one county of county-line roads.—When the survey for the location of a road is completed and it is found that the road when constructed will follow the dividing line between two counties or traverse first a part of one county and then a part of the other county, and thus making such a road a "county-line road," and satisfactory arrangements cannot be made between the road officials of the two interested counties for the construction of said "county-line road," then the road officials of the county desiring the construction of said road are hereby authorized to build said road, including that portion wholly within the other county, and pay for same out of the road funds of their county, and the road thus constructed shall become a public road of both counties and shall be maintained as provided in the preceding section for "county-line roads." (1917, c. 284, s. 40; 1919, c. 68.)

§ 3675. Extension of work to adjoining counties.—When the county road commission or any other commission board that has charge of the road work of any county has built a road to a county line of an adjoining county, which does not contain any connecting road or if such connecting road is one that is in poor condition, and thus, there is a gap between the said county line to a good road in the adjoining county, and satisfactory arrangements cannot be made between the road officials of the two interested counties for the construction of a road connecting the two roads mentioned above, then the county road commission or other commission or board having charge of the road work of the county desiring the construction of said road in order to make said connection, and when necessary the board of county commissioners, are herewith authorized to build said connecting road in the adjoining county and pay the cost of such construction out of the road or other funds of the county desiring the construction of said road, and the road thus constructed shall become a public road of the county in which it is located, and shall be maintained by said county in which it is located in a manner to be approved by the state highway commission. (1917, c. 284, s. 41; 1919, c. 68.)

§ 3676. Work by county commission in municipalities.—The county road commission provided for in this article, and any other commission or board having in charge the road work in any county or township of said county, or in any road district, is herewith authorized to expend a portion of the funds available for road work in said county township, or road district upon the public roads of any incorporated town within said county, township, or road district having a population, as shown by the latest available federal census, of less than twenty-five hundred, and that portion of any street or road in an incorporated city or town having a population of twenty-five hundred or more, along which the houses average more than two hundred feet apart, whenever in their judgment the construction of such road within said incorporated city or town is to the interest of the county, township, or road district: Provided, that the board of aldermen or other governing body of said city or town agrees that the county road commission or other commission or board having charge of the road work for the county, township, or road district, have full charge of the road work in said city or town as authorized by this section. (1917, c. 284, s. 42; 1919, c. 68.)

§ 3677. Free labor required on roads.—In those counties where the able-bodied men are required to work a certain number of days on the public roads of the county or township of such county, the labor of such men shall be under the jurisdiction and supervision of the county road commission, and the men shall be worked at such time and in such manner as said road commission may direct, in conformity with the county or township law governing such labor, except in so far as the following provisions amend such laws:

1. All able-bodied men of any county or township that are subject to work on the public roads of said county or township may be called out by the county road commission to work on such roads any time during the year for three consecutive days until the required number of days are worked out, and the work-year shall begin with the first day of January.

2. No man shall be called upon for more days work than is prescribed in the act authorizing such labor in said county or township.

3. Any able-bodied man required to work on the roads may, in lieu thereof, pay to the chairman of the county road commission a sum equal to seventy-five cents per day for the number of days he may be required to work; and in such case he shall be relieved from all labor on the roads.

4. Such sum is paid to the county road commission prior to the time he is called upon to work the roads.

5. Any able-bodied man subject to work on the road who fails to report for work at the time called upon by the county road commission, or refuses to work as required by the county road commission, and has not paid to the county road commission the required sum in lieu of such labor, unless prevented from reporting for such duty by illness or other cause beyond his control, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined not less than five dollars or more than twenty-five dollars, or imprisoned not less than five or more than ten days. (1917, c. 284. s. 43; 1919, c. 68.)

Editor's Note.—This section is superseded by § 3846(18).

§ 3678. Prisoners on roads.—Any person in any county that has a county road commission appointed under the provisions of this article, who shall be convicted in any of the courts of said county, superior, justice's or mayor's courts, and sentenced to work on the public roads, shall be assigned into the custody and control of the county road commission by the board of county commissioners, when said board is so requested by the county road commission. Said prisoners while in the custody and under the control of the said county road commission shall be employed on such road work as may be deemed best by the county road commission, and the expense of maintaining and guarding said convicts while so employed may be paid by the board of county commissioners out of the general fund of the county upon vouchers approved by the chairman and secretary of the county road commission. The county road commission shall have direct supervision of the care, feeding, and clothing of said prisoners and shall provide the necessary sleeping quarters and camps necessary for the proper care of said prisoners. All prisoners' camps shall be maintained in a sanitary manner approved by the state board of health. The county road commission is also authorized, in their care and working of convicts, to divide the prisoners into classes or groups according to the character of the prisoner, and work any and all such prisoners as they deem best without guards and without stripes. Prisoners worked in this manner without guard and stripes, shall be known as "honor prisoners," and shall be entitled to receive a reduction of at least twenty-five per cent and not more than fifty per cent of the time they are sentenced for satisfactory work and good behavior. (1917, c. 284, s. 44; 1919, c. 68.)

Editor's Note.—This section is superseded by §§ 3846(19) et seq.

§ 3680. Guard railings.—The county road commission of any county, or whatever board has charge of the roads and road work of any county or township or road district in said county, are herewith authorized and directed to provide suitable means to insure the safety of the public traveling over the roads of such county, township, or road district, by erecting, whenever it is considered necessary, substantial railings, walls, or other suitable structures for this purpose. If road officials of said county or township or road district fail to provide such satisfactory measures of insuring the safety of those traveling the roads of such county, township, or road district, then upon petition of twenty freeholders of the county, township, or road district who are frequent patrons of the road in question, the said county road commission, or whatever commission or board has charge of the road work of said county, township, or road district, shall, within ten days after receipt of said petition, begin erecting such satisfactory railing, wall, or other suitable structure for this purpose: Provided, that if in the judgment of the county road commission, or whatever commission or board has charge of the road work of said county, such railings, walls, or other suitable structures are not needed, then they shall advise with the state highway commission, and if such commission deems such railings, walls, or other suitable structure necessary for the protection of the patrons of the said road, the county road commission or other said commission or board shall erect such railings, walls, or other suitable structures as called for in the petition. (1917, c. 284, s. 46; 1919, c. 68.)

Part 3. Road Institutes

§ 3681. Road institutes.—The members of the county road commission of any county, or the members of whatever commission or board who have charge of the road work in any county, township, or road district, are herewith authorized to attend the road institute held annually at the University of North Carolina, and the county road commission of any county, or whatever commission or board has charge of the road work in any county, township, or road district, are herewith authorized to detail any and all persons employed by said county in connection with the road work of said county, township, or road district to attend said institute, when in their judgment such attendance will inure to the benefit of the road work of said county, township, or road district; and the said road commission, or other commission or board, is herewith authorized to pay the expenses of the members of said county road commission or board, and other persons detailed to attend said road institute, out of the funds of the said county, township, or road district. (1917, c. 284, s. 47; 1919, c. 68.)

See editor's note under § 3634.

Part 4. Road Districts

§ 3682. Creation of road districts.—Whenever it is desired to create a road district in any county, and provide funds for the location, construction, reconstruction, or maintenance of roads within such district, such road district may be created in the following manner: Upon petition of twenty-five freeholders living within the area of a proposed road district, which petition shall give the boundaries of the proposed district, together with the amount of bonds it is desired to issue for the district, or the amount of special tax it is desired to levy upon the proposed district, and when said petition is presented to the board of county commissioners it shall be the duty of the board of county commissioners of any county, upon receipt of such petition, to provide for holding an election at the next election of county officers, or at any other time not less than thirty days from the date of such order, which shall be designated therein, to open the polls and take the sense of the qualified voters living within the boundaries of the proposed road district on the question of whether the board of county commissioners of said county in which the proposed road district is located shall issue the bonds called for in the petition, or levy the special tax called for in the petition, provided that there is included in the petition the approximate number of miles of road it is proposed to improve by such bond issue or special tax; but no election shall be held until the board of county commissioners has been notified by the state highway commission in writing that the amount of bonds proposed to be issued or special road tax proposed to be levied will be sufficient to construct, alter, or improve approximately the number of miles of road proposed to be improved: Provided, that the approximate amount of bonds proposed to be issued as called for in the petition, together with all bonds previously issued and remaining unpaid by said county for which the property of the road district is liable, shall in no case exceed an amount equal to ten per cent of the total assessed valuation of the area included within the proposed road district.

In case the petition for a road district calls for an election, the board of county commissioners shall proceed to call, hold, and report the elections as hereinbefore provided for in the election in townships; and in case the result of the election is in favor of road bond issue or special road tax, then the said board of county commissioners shall declare the road district created, and proceed to carry out the wishes of the people of the district in regard to the issuing of bonds or the levying of special tax heretofore provided for townships or road districts. (1917, c. 284, s. 48; 1919, c. 68.)

See editor's note under § 3634.

Creation of District for Improvement of Single Road. — The legislature may create a district for the improvement and maintenance of a single road, within its constitutional authority to create road districts, by statute passed in accordance with the constitutional requirements. Woodall v. Highway Comm., 176 N. C. 377, 97 S. E. 226.

§ 3683. Special road district; apportionment of assessments.—A county road commission of any county, or whatever commission or board has charge of the road work of any county, shall have authority and power as hereinafter provided to cause to be relocated, constructed, reconstructed, or improved any public road of the county, or any part of such road, upon petition signed by the owners of sixty per cent of the land area in each and every subdivision hereinafter provided for; and the board of county commissioners are authorized and directed as hereinafter provided to levy and cause to be collected an assessment upon all lots, tracts, and parcels of land specially benefited by such improvement, for paying two-thirds of the cost and expense thereof, as hereinafter provided, which assessment shall become a first lien upon all property liable therefor prior and superior to all other liens and encumbrances, and to provide for the payment of such assessment either on the immediate payment plan or by installments, and to issue local road district warrants or bonds for such installments. (1917, c. 284, s. 49; 1919, c. 68.)

§ 3684. Petition for improvement of adjoining roads.—The owners of sixty per cent of the land area in each and every subdivision hereafter provided for adjoining such county road or part thereof sought to be improved in any county in this state may present to the county road commission or whatever commission or board that has charge of the road work of any county, a petition setting forth that the petitioners are such owners, and that they desire such road or part thereof to be improved under the provisions of this article, the particular road or portion thereof sought to be improved, the kind and nature of the improvement desired, and the mode of payment of the assessments to be levied for defraying the cost and expenses of such improvement and the maximum cost of the proposed improvement. (1917, c. 284, s. 50; 1919, c. 68.)

shall, through its engineer, examine and survey and make plans and specifications and estimate of the cost of such construction and improvement as is desired by the petitioners; and if two-thirds of the estimated cost of such improvement is greater than the amount stated in the petition, then the county road commission, or whatever commission or board has charge of the road work of any county, shall reject such petition, except that they are authorized to do the work petitioned for. The total assessment charged against the property owners shall not be greater than the amount named in the petition.

The engineer shall examine and determine the lands that will be specially benefited by such improvement and which should be included within the local district to be assessed to defray the cost and expense of such improvement and to prepare the estimate rolls as hereinafter provided; the engineer shall also determine the cost of right of way, if any, for that portion of the road that it is necessary to relocate. As soon as the engineer has completed his report he shall present same to the county road commission, or whatever commission or board that has charge of the road work of such county, at their next meeting. (1917, c. 284, s. 51; 1919, c. 68.)

§ 3686. Local road districts constituted; apportionment of assessment.—Such local road districts shall be constituted and the boundaries thereof fixed as follows: The road or portion thereof to be improved, coterminous with the improvement, shall be the central line through the district, and the bordering lands on each side, within a distance of half a mile from the margin of said road and coterminous with the construction work or improvement, shall be included in and constitute the body of the local road district, and shall be subject to assessment to the extent above provided.

For the purpose of making an equitable apportionment of the assessment, such local road district shall be divided longitudinally into three parts, as follows: All land on both sides of said road, or portion thereof, to be improved, and within a distance of eight hundred and eighty feet from the margins thereof, shall constitute the first subdivision; all the land outside of the first subdivision and within eight hundred and eighty feet from the exterior margins thereof shall constitute the second subdivision; and all the land outside of said second subdivision and within eight hundred and eighty feet from the exterior margins thereof shall constitute the third subdivision. Each separate tract or parcel of land in said first subdivision shall be assessed and be subject to a charge for a proportional part of forty-five per cent of not over two-thirds of the cost of the construction work or improvement of said road, including said incidental expenses, and it shall be subject to a lien therefor until it shall be paid; each separate tract or parcel of land in said second subdivision shall be assessed and subject to a charge for a proportional part of thirty-five per cent of not over two-thirds of the cost and expense of said construction work or improvement, and be subject to a lien therefor until it shall be paid; each tract or parcel of land in said third subdivision shall be assessed and subject to a charge for a proportional part of twenty per cent of not over two-thirds of the cost and expense of said construction work or improvement, and be subject to a lien therefor until it shall be paid.

The charge upon the several separate tracts or parcels of land in each subdivision shall be assessed ratably according to the front foot plan, that is to say, one foot of longitude measured along the road constituting the center of such improvement district and extending latitudinally across the subdivision shall be taken as the unit by which to determine the proportion of the assessment, so that a unit in each subdivision will be eight hundred and eighty square feet of superficial area. If the areas of said subdivisions are not equal to each other, the rates fixed for each subdivision shall be fixed on the basis that the benefit conferred on eight hundred and eighty square feet of land in subdivisions first, second, and third are related to each other as are the numbers forty-five, thirty-five, and twenty, respectively. This section is to imply that the property on each side of said road shall bear one-third of the cost and the county one-third. (1917, c. 284, s. 52; 1919, c. 68.)

§ 3687. Report of engineer; creation of district.—The county road commission, or whatever commission or board has charge of the road work of any county, shall at their next meeting after the completion of the engineer's report relating to local road districts, consider such report, and if it shall appear from said report that the whole amount of the cost and expense of said construction or improvement, and, together with any cost for right of way chargeable as a lien against the property specially benefited within such local road district, comes within the amount specified in the petition, the said county road commission, or whatever commission or board has charge of the road work of any county, shall make and enter upon their records an order that the said improvement be made, and creating such local road district for the payment of said cost and expenses of making said improvement, by special assessment of the property in said district specially benefited according to said engineer's report, be known and designated Local Road District, No ...., in .... County, North Carolina, and such report shall be kept on file in the office of the county road commission, or whatever commission or board that has charge of the road work of any county. (1917, c. 284, s. 53; 1919, c. 68.)

§ 3688. Work undertaken.—After the making of such order and directing the making of such improvement and establishing such local road district, the county road commission, or other commission or board having charge of the road work of said county, shall proceed to do the work under the same provisions and conditions as they are authorized to carry on road work for townships and counties. (1917, c. 284, s. 54; 1919, c. 68.)

§ 3689. Apportionment of expense; assessment roll, etc.—When the final order for said improvement in the local road district shall have been made, the county road commission, or whatever commission or board has charge of the road work of said county, through its engineer or other representative shall proceed to apportion the estimated cost and expenses of said improvement upon the land embraced in said local road district according to the benefits to be derived therefrom, and not more than thirty days after the beginning of work on said improvement report to and file with the board of county commissioners an assessment roll in duplicate, which shall contain a description of each lot or parcel of land or part thereof to be assessed; the amount to be charged, levied, or assessed against each lot or parcel of land or part thereof, in proportion to the special benefits to be derived by each such lot or parcel or part thereof from such improvement, and the name of the owner of each such lot or parcel of land or part thereof, if known; but in no case shall a mistake in the name of the owner be fatal when the description of the property is correct.

As soon as said assessment roll shall have been so reported and filed, the board of county commissioners shall cause notice to be published for three consecutive weeks, which notice shall be published in a newspaper of the county, or, in case there is no newspaper in the county in which the local road district is located, then in a newspaper of an adjoining county, notifying all persons interested that said assessment roll has been filed, and requiring them to appear at the office of the board of county commissioners, at the county courthouse, at a time not less than fifteen days from the date of the last issue of said publication of said notice, and make objections thereto, if any they have. At the time fixed the board of county commissioners shall meet, and, if no objections have been filed to said assessment roll, they shall make and enter an order confirming the same; but if objections in writing have been filed by any of the landowners affected thereby the board of county commissioners shall proceed to hear such objections, and for that purpose shall hear any testimony that shall be offered by any party interested and either one of the board of county commissioners shall be authorized to administer oaths to witnesses. After such hearing they shall make such corrections and changes, if any, as to them shall appear just and requisite to apportion the assessment to the benefits to be received from such improvement, and shall then make and enter an order approving and certifying such assessment roll, and levying and assuming the amounts thereof against each and all of the lots and parcels of land, or parts thereof, respectively, including in said roll as approved, and the same shall become a first lien thereon: Provided, that any landowner may appeal to the superior court from the decision of said board, on giving an appeal bond in the sum of one hundred dollars, but such appeal shall not hinder or delay the carrying out of the provisions of this article.

The cost and expenses of survey and of all preliminary proceedings and all other expenses included in organization of the local road district, and for the preparation, issuance, and disposal of the bonds or warrants for the payment of cost and expense of such improvements, and for the cost of the improvements for the construction and reconstruction of the roads in said local district shall be paid out of the road fund and the general fund of the county in a ratio one to two; that is, one-third of all cost and expenses mentioned above shall be paid out of the road fund of the county by the county road commission, or whatever commission or board that has charge of the road work of said county; and the other two-thirds out of the general fund of the county; this latter being repaid in the assessments collected from the owners of the land jointly, under this article, in the local district. (1917, c. 284, s. 55; 1919, c. 68.)

§ 3690. Maintenance.—All roads laid out, constructed, or reconstructed or improved under the provisions of this article shall, after their construction, be maintained by the county road commission, or other commission or board having charge of the public roads of said county. (1917, c. 284, s. 56; 1919, c. 68.)

§ 3691. Methods of payment and collection of assessments.—There shall be two methods of making payment of the special assessment chargeable against the several tracts and parcels of land included in the local road district authorized under this article, namely that of "immediate payment" and that of "payment by bonds or warrants"; the method to be adopted and the period not exceeding ten years over which such bonds or warrants shall be made payable shall be that petitioned for as authorized herein. In case the payment of such assessments in local road districts is to be by the method of "immediate payment" the board of county commissioners shall, as soon as such assessment roll has been approved and certified, deliver the same to the sheriff of the county for the collection of such assessments. The sheriff shall give notice by publication for two consecutive weeks in a newspaper in the county, or, in case there is no paper in the county in which the local road district is located, then in a newspaper of an adjoining county, and shall mail a copy of such notice to the owner of the property assessed when the name of such owner and his postoffice address is known; but the failure to mail such notice shall not be fatal when publication thereof is made; which said notice shall state that such assessment roll has been certified to him for collection, and that unless payment is made within thirty days from date of such notice such assessment will become delinquent and shall bear interest at the rate of six per cent per annum; and if not paid before such assessment shall have become delinquent, a penalty of five per cent shall be added, and the sums delinquent shall be added on the annual tax roll for the current year against each lot, tract, and parcel so delinquent, and, with the interest and penalty, collected as other taxes, separate account being kept thereof; and if not paid within the time fixed for the payment of general county taxes, shall be collected as such taxes are collected, together with such additional charges and penalties as are authorized to be charged and collected on other delinquent taxes; and each lot, tract, or parcel so delinquent shall be sold for the amount of such assessment, with interest, penalty, and cost, at the time and in the manner and by the same authority and process as lands and lots are sold for general county taxes. (1917, c. 284, s. 57; 1919, c. 68.)

§ 3692. Payment by bonds or warrants. — In case the method of payment is to be "payment by bonds or warrants," the board of county commissioners, after the assessment roll has been approved and certified as hereinbefore provided, shall, at the time of levying said assessment and in their order making such levy, provide and declare that the sum charged thereby against each of such tracts or parcels of land in said local road district may be paid in equal annual installments, with interest upon the whole sum so charged at the rate fixed in said order, specifying the number of such installments, which shall be equal to the number of years which the bonds or warrants issued to pay for the improvement may run before payment of the same may be demanded by the holder thereof; and each year thereafter the sheriff shall collect one of said installments, together with the interest due thereon, and all installments thereafter to become due in the same manner and with the same added penalty and interest, in case of delinquents, and by means of the same proceedings to enforce such payments by the sale of the land, and as hereinbefore provided for the collection of said assessment by the method of "immediate payment." (1917, c. 284, s. 58; 1919, c. 68.)

§ 3693. Issuance of bonds of district; payable from general fund.—The board of county commissioners shall make and enter an order authorizing and directing the issuance of such warrants or bonds of the local road district that has been authorized by the petition for the improved road work in said district, which by their terms shall be made payable on or before a date not to exceed ten years from and after the date of their issue, which latter date may be fixed by the order, and payment of which shall not be demanded by the holder thereof until the end of said period, and they shall bear such interest as shall insure their being disposed of at par and as may be provided for in said order, not exceeding six per cent per annum, which interest shall be payable annually, and each warrant or bond shall have attached thereto interest coupons for each interest payment. Such warrants or bonds shall bear the date of issue and be made payable to bearer. The warrants or bonds and each coupon shall be signed by the chairman of the board of county commissioners, and shall be attested by the clerk of said board, and the seal of such board shall be affixed to each warrant or bond, but not to the coupon: Provided, that each coupon may be signed by facsimile signature of said officers. Such warrant or bond shall be printed, engraved, or lithographed on good bond paper and state on its face that it is issued in accordance and compliance with the act of 1917, chapter 284, designating the same by title and date of approval. Such warrants or bonds shall be in denominations of not less than one hundred or more than one thousand dollars, and they shall refer to the improvement to pay for which the same shall be issued, and to the order and record thereof, authorizing the same, and shall bear upon its face the designation of the local road district, thus: Local Road District, Number ..... in ..... County, North Carolina. The principal sum named in the warrant or bond, and the interest thereon shall be payable out of the general fund of the county, the same to be reimbursed as the assessments are collected by the sheriff from the assessment on the lands in the local road district. Such warrants or bonds shall not be issued in excess of of the amount named in the petition requesting organization of the local road district. (1917, c. 284, s. 59; 1919, c. 68.)

§ 3694. Notice of issuance of bonds; payment of assessments.—In case the payment of the assessments provided for in the previous sections is by such special warrants or bonds, then the sheriff shall give notice by publication for two consecutive weeks in a newspaper of the county, or in case there is no newspaper published in said county, then in a newspaper of an adjoining county, and shall mail a copy of such notice to the owner of the property assessed, when the name of such owner and the postoffice address is given; but the failure to mail such notice shall not be fatal when publication thereof is made; which said notice shall state that such assessment roll has been certified to the sheriff for collection, and that unless payment of the whole amount of such assessment is made within thirty days from the date of such notice special warrants or bonds will be issued against said property for the payment of said assessments, and thereafter the same will be payable in annual installments, with interest thereon at the rate provided for in said warrants or bonds. At any time within such thirty days any owner of lands within such local improvement district may pay the said assessment chargeable against said owner's lands, and release and discharge the same therefrom and from the operation and effect of such warrants or bonds; and no warrants or bonds shall be issued until twenty days after the expiration of such thirty days, nor for any amounts of such assessment so paid in full within such thirty days. The owner of any such lands may redeem the same from all liability for such assessment at any time after said thirty days by paying the entire installments of said assessment remaining unpaid and charged against such lands at the time of such payment, with interest and all charges thereon to the date of the maturity of the installment next falling due. In all cases where any assessment or any installment thereof is paid as herein provided, the same shall be paid to the sheriff, and such funds shall be paid over by the sheriff into the general fund of the county. (1917, c. 284, s. 60; 1919, c. 68.)

Part 5. Definition; Validating Clause

der the provisions of this article are validated. (1917, c. 284, s. 61; 1919, c. 68.)

See editor's note under § 3634.

Art. 5. Township Road Bonds and Road Commissions

§ 3696. Road bonds by townships authorized; bond limit.—For the purpose of laying out, establishing, altering, repairing, grading, constructing and improving in any way the public roads in various townships of the state, and for purchasing machinery, tools, etc., necessary for such improvements, the boards of county commissioners of any county are authorized, empowered and directed to issue coupon bonds bearing interest at a rate not to exceed six per cent per annum, payable semiannually at the office of the treasurer of the county issuing such bonds, or at such other place as the board of county commissioners may determine, to an amount not to exceed fifty thousand dollars for any one township in any county, in the manner and under the restrictions hereinafter provided, and the bonds so issued by the commissioners of the county shall be paid by the township for which they are issued, and shall not be chargeable against any property or polls outside of such township. The board of county commissioners in performing the duties of issuing, selling and purchasing bonds or doing any other thing under this article shall be deemed the agent of any township acting under this article. If bonds hereunder have been voted at an election authorizing an issue of five per cent bonds, but not issued before March 8, 1919, the issuance of six per cent bonds in such case is authorized. (1913, c. 122, s. 1; 1915, c. 237, s. 1; 1919, c. 188, s. 1.)

As to power of counties to issue bonds see 3 N. C. Enc. Dig. 809 et seq., 13 Enc. Dig. 527 et seq.

Editor's Note.—Sections 3846(1) et seq., vesting control of county roads in the State Highway Commission, would seem to render inoperative the sections under this article.

Sections Construed with Amendatory Act.—Sections 3705 et seq., passed in 1917, amending this and the following sections from the Public Laws of 1913, should be construed together to ascertain their true intent and meaning; and semble, no authority is given a township to work its roads by current taxation. Road Commission v. Commissioners, 178 N. C. 61, 100 S. E. 122.

Methods of Financing Road System.—Under the provisions of this article townships may establish and maintain a township road system under its separate governance, but the method is restricted to an issuance of bonds for road purposes upon the approval of its voters, and to taxation limited to the payment of the interest on the bonds, without provision for the working or maintenance of the roads directly by current taxation. Road Commission v. Commissioners, 178 N. C. 61, 100 S. E. 122.

County Commissioners as Agents of Townships.—Statutes making county commissioners agents of townships to dispose of road bonds, to levy assessments, to pay interest, etc., are valid. Commissioners v. Borng, N. C. 105, 95 S. E. 43.

Petition Charging Interest Rate. — Where in accordance with the Constitution and statutes, the question of an issue of bonds by a county for road purposes has been submitted by its proper authorities to its voters and favorably passed upon, they will not be declared invalid because before the enactment of a later statute only 5 per cent bonds were authorized, and the petition for the 6 per cent bonds was filed with the commissioners five days before the enactment of the amendatory law, but the order of the commissioners for the election and the election were after such enactment. Commissioners v. Spitzer, 179 N. C. 436, 102 S. E. 778.

Commissioners Not to Be Enjoined.—Where the county commissioners have acted within the powers conferred on them by this section and have accordingly issued bonds and expended most of the money on the townships roads, they may not be enjoined at the suit of the taxpayer from laying out and constructing an additional road, with the use of the money remaining on hand from the sale of the bonds, upon allegation, as to this particular road, that it was not for the public convenience, or that the majority of the voters were not in favor of it; and a general allegation without specific averment, that the commissioners were not acting for the public good, but for their own individual advantage, is insufficient to warrant the interference of the courts. Edwards v. Commissioners, 170 N. C. 448, 87 S. E. 346.

§ 3697. Election to determine issuance; return of election; issue and sale of bonds.—Upon presentation of a petition in writing signed by not less than one-fourth of the qualified voters of any township, to the board of county commissioners of their county, requesting them to submit to the qualified voters of the township where such petitioners reside a proposition to issue bonds for the purposes named in the preceding section for a definite amount at a maximum rate of interest and to run for a period not to exceed fifty years, all to be named in said petition, the board of county commissioners shall within thirty days order an election to be held in such township and submit to the qualified voters therein the question of issuing bonds to the amount, at the rate of interest, and to run for a period specified in said petition, at which election all those qualified to vote who are in favor of said proposition shall vote a ballot on which shall be written or printed the words "For road bonds," and those opposed to the proposition shall vote a ballot on which shall be written or printed the words "Against road bonds," and the election for this purpose shall be conducted in the same manner and subject to the same rules and regulations as are or may be provided for the election of township officers by the general election laws of this state, unless in any manner otherwise provided for in this article.

The board of county commissioners shall at the time of ordering any election under this article appoint one registrar and two judges of election in each precinct in said township to hold said election. The books shall be kept open for the registration of voters for twenty days preceding the day of election. For the purpose of registration the books used in the general election shall be delivered to and revised by the registrar, and the commissioners may order a new registration by giving thirty days notice of such registration. Such election shall be held after thirty days notice thereof, specifying the amount of the proposed bond issue, rate of interest and period for which bonds shall run, shall have been posted at the courthouse and at every polling place in the township where said election shall take place, and published in four issues of some newspaper published in the county, if the board of county commissioners so order, and the returns thereof shall be made to the board of county commissioners, and returns recorded and result declared by said board as they may determine.

If a majority of the votes cast be "For road bonds," then the board of county commissioners shall issue coupon bonds to the amount, at a rate of interest, and to run for a period specified in the said petition and order of election, and the bonds shall upon their face indicate on account of what township they are issued. They may, at the option of the county commissioners, be issued so as to mature serially or in annual installments, the last payment of which shall be due within the maximum period authorized. They shall be in denomination of not less than one hundred dollars and not exceeding one thousand dollars each. They shall be signed by the chairman of the board of county commissioners and attested by the official seal and signature of the register of deeds of said county. The chairman of the board of county commissioners, under the direction of said board, shall sell the bonds so issued at not less than par value and for as much above par value as possible: Provided, that said bonds shall be issued and sold only as the funds are needed in the township for the purposes indicated herein: Provided further, elections may be ordered and held upon petitions under the provisions of this article not oftener than every twelve months, in any township, until the full amount of bonds authorized by this article shall have been issued for such township. (1913, c. 122, s. 2; 1919, cc. 188, 339.)

Single Proposition. — When a popular vote is required to authorize or validate a municipal indebtedness the proposition should be single, and when the question presented embodies two or more distinct and unrelated propositions, and the voter is only afforded opportunity to express his preference on decision on a single ballot, and on the question as an entirety, the election as a rule is invalid and, on objection made, in apt time in a proper way, may be disregarded and set aside. Winston v. Bank & Trust Co., 158 N. C. 512, 74 S. E. 611.

§ 3698. Tax for interest and sinking fund.—The county commissioners or other county authorities who are legally authorized and empowered to levy taxes shall, in order to provide for payment of the bonds and interest thereon to be issued under the preceding section, compute and levy each year at the time of levying county taxes a sufficient tax upon the property and poll, observing the constitutional equation, in any township having issued bonds to pay the interest on the bonds issued on account of such township, and shall also levy a sufficient tax to create a sinking fund to provide for the payment of said bonds at maturity. Such taxes shall be levied and collected annually and under the same laws and regulations as shall be enforced for levying and collecting other county taxes. (1913, c. 122, s. 3.)

Validation of Tax Issued after Expiration of Period.—The Legislature, having the power to authorize a county to levy a special road tax for the purpose of co-operating in the construction of State or National highways in the county, may validate, by retroactive legislation, an attempt of the municipal authorities to levy this tax after the expiration of the period fixed in the prior act, when in the ratifying act there is no attempt to legalize prior legislation, or a prior invalid seizure or sale of property thereunder, or to interfere with vested rights. Edwards v. Commissioners, 183 N. C. 58, 110 S. E. 600.

§ 3699. Record of bonds; proceedings and elections.—The county commissioners of any county so issuing bonds shall provide a record which shall be kept by their clerk, in which shall be entered the name of every purchaser of a bond, the number of the bond purchased, the date of issue, when due, rate of interest, the township on account of of which the bond is issued, and the amount received for said bond. They shall also cause to to be kept a record of all proceedings, and elections, as well as a record of the bonds redeemed annually, and the bonds when redeemed and recorded shall be destroyed by fire in the presence of the board of commissioners and that fact recorded: Provided, the record of bonds for each township shall be kept separate. (1913, c. 122, s. 4.)

§ 3700. Investment of excess fund from tax; provisions as to redemption; required statements in bonds; advertisement of sale.—The funds raised by taxation in excess of the amount required to pay interest, if any, shall be safely invested by the board of county commissioners; and the county commissioners are authorized to purchase at par value any of such bonds from the excess fund, provided they are offered to them by the holder thereof; or the commissioners may stipulate in the bonds when same are to be redeemable, provided it is not less than five nor more than forty years from the date of the bonds. The bonds when so issued, after election is proved by the commissioners, shall bear on their face the statement that the tax shall be levied by the county commissioners in accordance with this article for payment of interest and principal, full payment of which interest and principal is guaranteed by the county, though no polls or property outside of the township in whose name the bonds are issued shall be liable for such bonds until the resources of the township shall be exhausted. All bonds issued under this article shall be sold at a public meeting of the board of county commissioners of the county in which the bonds are issued, after the bonds have been advertised for sale in at least one issue of a newspaper: Provided, that this provision as to advertising shall apply only to bonds sold after March tenth, one thousand nine hundred and seventeen. (1913, c. 122, s. 5; 1917, c. 207, ss. 1, 5.)

§ 3701. Separate accounts of funds; bond of treasurer.—The funds derived from the sale of any bonds hereinbefore provided for and the taxes levied and collected under this article on account of any township shall be turned over to the county treasurer and a separate account of each fund for the benefit of each township shall be kept separate from all other funds. But before any such funds shall be placed in his hands the treasurer shall execute a good and sufficient bond in the penal sum of fifty per cent more than the amount of money in his hands at any time for road purposes and payment of bonds and interest thereon on account of the several townships in the county, and for the faithful performance of such other duties as may devolve upon him as treasurer of said fund. The said bond shall be approved by the board of county commissioners and shall be recorded and kept as bonds of county officers as required to be kept. (1913, c. 122, s. 6.)

§ 3702. Corporate powers of and judgments against commissioners.—The board of county commissioners may sue and be sued, plead and be impleaded in any court of competent jurisdiction in this state touching the bonds issued on account of any township in any county issuing bonds under this article, or any matter connected therewith, or touching the road fund of any such township derived under this article, or on any contract made by or with the said board for carrying out the purposes of this article, and any judgment in favor of the board shall specify for the benefit of what township such judgment is rendered, and any judgment against the board shall specify what township is liable for the payment thereof, and the judgment shall be paid only out of the funds of such township, or by taxes derived from property and polls in such township. (1913, c. 122, s. 7.)

§ 3703. Orders on funds; direction of expenditures. — All orders for payment of any of said bonds and for interest on said bonds shall be made by the county commissioners, and shall specify thereon the purpose, and the amount for bonds and amount for interest shall be on separate orders. The funds for other purposes shall be expended under the direction of the commissioners, or by the township supervisors with the consent of any of the commissioners and paid upon the order of the commissioners, or in such manner and on such orders as the board of county commissioners may direct, and the board of commissioners shall make such rules and regulations and such directions in this respect as they may see proper. (1913, c. 122, s. 8.)

§ 3704. Use of proceeds of bonds; working convicts.—The funds derived from sale of bonds on account of any township shall be used for the purpose of laying out, establishing, altering, repairing, grading, constructing and improving in any manner public roads in the township so issuing bonds and for purchasing such material, machinery and improvements as may be necessary. The money so expended shall be as far as possible used for permanent improvements only. The county commissioners may at any regular meeting organize a convict force, and elect necessary officers and guards as provided by law, and shall work such convicts on the public roads of the townships, and the expenses shall be paid by the said townships. Any damage that may be awarded to any person by reason of establishing, altering or repairing any public roads on which permanent improvements are to be made in any township issuing bonds shall be paid by such township. The county commissioners may use the funds aforesaid on any roads within the township, in their discretion, unless the petition has designated certain roads for the expenditure of a part or all of said funds, in which case the funds shall be expended as provided in the petition. The designation of certain roads in the petition shall not be held to invalidate any election heretofore or hereafter held. (1913, c. 122, s. 9; 1917, c. 125, s. 1.)

Payment for Work Done on State Highway.—There being no highway funds in hand except those derived from sale of bonds, an obligation of the county highway commission to the State Highway Commission for work done on a part of a state highway in the county may be paid therefrom. Board v. Highway Comm., 182 N. C. 617, 109 S. E. 848.

§ 3705. Appointment of township road commissioners.—If at any election held in any township under this article the purpose of the article shall be ratified by a majority of the votes cast in the township, then it shall be the duty of the board of county commissioners at their next meeting to appoint a board of township road commissioners, to be known as the Township Road Commission of .....Township. This township road commission shall consist of three freeholders of the township. The appointment of this township road commission shall be agreed upon and approved by the state highway commission. The term of office of the members of the township road commission shall be for one, two, and three years respectively for the first three years, and thereafter one member shall be appointed as above each year for a term or period of three years. (1917, c. 279, s. 1; 1919, c. 339, s. 2.

Editor's Note.—Attention is called to the fact that in Road Commission v. County Commissioners, 178 N. C. 61, 100 S. E. 122, it was held that every part of the act of 1917, from which this and the following sections were taken, which purports to confer the power of taxation, is violative of the State Constitution, Art. 2, sec. 4, because not passed with the formalities required.

§ 3706. Incorporation of commission; use of funds.—The said township road commission and its successors in office is hereby constituted a body corporate under and by virtue of the laws of North Carolina under the name and style of Township Road Commission, and shall have all powers and authority granted to corporations of like nature by the laws of North Carolina, and by that name may sue and be sued, make contracts, acquire real and personal property by gift or devise, hold, exchange, and sell the same, and exercise such other rights and privileges as are incident to other municipal corporations of like nature, such as the condemnation of land for the construction, widening, or changing of any roads in the county, and such other powers as are necessary to carry out any and all the provisions of this article. The said township road commission shall use the funds derived from the sale of bonds or by levy of special tax, or whatever way derived, as authorized by this article, to locate, construct, reconstruct, surface, repair, improve, and maintain the public highways and bridges in the township under their jurisdiction; shall purchase such materials and purchase and hold or contract for the use of such tools, machinery, implements, and teams as they may deem necessary for carrying on the road work of the township, and perform such other duties as are hereinafter provided for by this article. (1917, c. 279, s. 1.)

§ 3707. Duties and powers of commission.—It shall be the duty of the township road commission to take charge of laying out, opening, altering, maintaining, or discontinuing of any and all roads of the township that are now maintained or may be maintained by the township as public roads, and it is hereby vested with all powers and rights and authorities now vested in the board of county commissioners or other commission or board or other road officials of such township for the general supervision of its roads, and for the construction and repair thereof, by contract or otherwise as may be deemed best. (1917, c. 279, s. 1.)

§ 3708. Organization; drafts for money; pay of commissioners.—The township road commission shall annually from the date of its organization elect a chairman and a secretary, who shall hold office for one year and until their successors shall be elected and qualified. All moneys expended by the commission shall be by draft upon the bank or banks which are depositaries for the road fund, and such drafts shall be signed by the secretary and countersigned by the chairman, and shall show upon their face the purpose for which the money is expended. The members of the township road commission shall receive pay only when acting jointly as a road commission, and such compensation at this time shall be the same as paid to the members of the board of county commissioners of said county. (1917, c. 279, s. 1.)

§ 3709. When governor to appoint commissioners; vacancies.—In the event the state highway commission does not approve the appointment made by the board of county commissioners for members of the township road commission, and an agreement cannot be reached by the above commissions, then the governor of the state shall appoint the necessary number of members to compose or complete the membership of the township road commission. In case of any vacancy caused by death, resignation, or otherwise, of any member of the township road commission, such vacancy shall be filled by the board of county commissioners for the unexpired term as provided above for regular appointments. (1917, c. 279, s. 1.)

§ 3710. Township road engineer; duties; compensation; assistance from state; books and accounts. — The township road commission is authorized and directed to employ an expert road engineer, who shall be approved by the state highway commission, at such compensation as may be fixed by the township road commission; or, if in the opinion of the state highway commission a whole-time engineer is not required for the work to be done by the township, then, if practicable, arrangements may be made for the employment of an engineer for such portion of his time as may be deemed necessary by the state highway commission. In case an engineer is not employed continuously by the township, then in the absence of the engineer a superintendent shall be appointed by the engineer, with the approval of the township road commission and the state highway commission, who shall have charge of the road work and act for the engineer in his absence. His compensation may be paid in part by the state highway commission when arrangements for such payment is made by the township road commission with the state highway commission. When the state furnishes to the township engineering assistance and supervision of road work, the acceptance by the township road commission of the state road engineer shall be considered as fulfilling the requirements of this article. The road engineer, whether appointed by the township road commission or furnished by the state highway commission, shall have general supervision and direction of all the road work of the township, supervise the plans and specifications of all road work, and see to their execution. He shall appoint and discharge, by and with the approval of the township road commission, all superintendents, foremen, supervisors, overseers, and other assistants needed in conducting the road work of the township in a satisfactory and economical manner. The township road engineer, however appointed, may request, at any time, the advice of the state highway engineer in solving any problem that may arise, either technical, economical, or otherwise, that may be deemed by him to be of benefit to the township, and such advice shall be without any expense to the township.

It shall be the duty of the engineer of the township coming under the provisions of this article to keep or have kept the necessary books and accounts showing in detail the expenditures for all work done through money derived by bonds issued or special road tax levied for road work in such township. The engineer shall keep or have kept in suitable way a cost accounting system showing the unit cost of various items entering into the construction of the roads, showing when and where the various elements of cost entering into the said work were used, giving the name of the road and the nearest station number to culverts, bridges, etc. It shall be his duty to keep approximate yardage, costs, and approximate classification of the materials moved in all excavations made for the purpose of building such roads. (1917, c. 279, s. 1.)

Township Has Separate Governance of Road.—Under the provisions of this section, townships may establish and maintain a township road system under its separate governance, but the method is restricted to an issuance of bonds for road purposes upon the approval of its voters, and to taxation limited to the payment of the interest on the bonds, without provision for the working or maintenance of the roads directly by current taxation. Road Com. v. Comrs. 178 N. C. 61, 100 S. E. 122.

§ 3711. Entry on lands; damages; excess of benefits a lien on lands; suits.—In opening new highways, widening and straightening old roads and repairing same, the township road commission through its agents is hereby authorized to enter upon any land and locate and build such highways. If the township road commission and the owners of said land cannot agree as to the damages, if any, the township road commission shall, after sixty days after said highway is completed, cause to be summoned three disinterested freeholders of said township who shall go upon the land and assess the damages and benefits under the general law as it now exists. Before entering upon lands as authorized by this section it shall be the duty of the township road commission to serve notice upon the owner or owners of said land, notifying them that the highway is to be located upon said land under authority of this article. In assessing the damages sustained by any landowner, the jury shall take into consideration the special benefits, if any, accruing to the landowner, and in determining such benefits consideration shall be given to the benefits the landowner has derived from the fact that any old road right of way has reverted back to said landowner by reason of the relocation and construction of the new road, and if such benefits shall exceed the damages, then the amount of such excess of benefits shall be assessed against the landowner and shall constitute a lien upon the land adjoining the road, and shall be collected by the sheriff in the same way as public taxes.

No suit shall be instituted by the landowner for damages on account of location of the road under this article until after sixty days after the completion of the road across the lands of such landowner, and no suit shall be brought by any landowner unless the same is commenced within six months after the completion of the road by or across the lands of the claimant. Either party may appeal to the superior court for the assessment of damages and benefits, where the matter shall be heard by the court and jury de novo. No cost shall be awarded against any township upon appeal when net damages awarded through such appeal are not greater than given by the referees. (1917, c. 279, s. 1.)

Compensation Required Only by Federal Constitution. — While, so far as North Carolina is concerned, the only organic law requiring just compensation to be paid the owner for taking his land for a public use, as the relocation of a highway thereon, is to be found in the Federal Constitution, and relates to such matters as are cognizable by the United States courts thereunder, the principle is grounded in natural equity and applies to the internal matters of State government as a part of the laws of this State. Parks v. Commissioner, 186 N. C. 490, 120 S. E. 46.

Notice Must Be Given before Decision. — Notice must be given to the owner of land for the assessment of damages claimed by him in accordance with a statute, for the relocation of a highway thereon, before final determination thereof by the local board to which the statute refers it. Parks v. Commissioners, 186 N. C. 490, 120 S. E. 46.

§ 3712. Entry on land for material; drains or ditches; obstruction. — The township road commission through their officers and agents are hereby authorized to enter upon any land near or adjoining any public road of said township, to cut and carry away any timber except trees or groves on improved land planted or left for shade or ornament, dig or cause to be dug and carry away any gravel, sand, clay, dirt, or stone which may be necessary for the proper repair and construction of roads in said township, and make or cause to be made such drains or ditches upon any land adjoining or lying near any road in said township that the township road commission may deem necessary for the better condition of the road; and the drains and ditches so made shall not be obstructed by the occupants of such lands or any other person; and any person obstructing such drains or ditches shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. Before entering upon land as authorized by this section, it shall be the duty of the township road commission, through its representatives, to serve notice upon the owner or owners of the land, notifying them that certain material authorized to be taken by this section is required for the road work. (1917, c. 279, s. 1.)

§ 3713. Presentation of and hearing on claims. —The owner of any land from which any timber or other material has been removed may present to the township road commission his claim therefor in writing, and upon such presentment it shall be the duty of the township road commission to set a day not earlier than sixty days after the removal of such timber or material for the purpose of hearing his claim. Upon the hearing thereof the claimant may appeal to the superior court of the county in which said township is located, to have his cause tried as in other civil cases. (1917, c. 279, s. 1.)

§ 3714. Deposit of proceeds of bonds. — All moneys derived from the sale of bonds authorized and sold under the provisions of this article shall be deposited by the board of county commissioners in such solvent bank or banks, if any, of said township, or if there is no bank in said township, then in any solvent bank in a neighboring township or county as will pay the highest rate of interest on daily balances as may be determined by the board of county commissioners; said moneys to be deposited in such bank or banks to the credit of the township road commission, and to be drawn upon by the commission as hereinbefore directed. (1917, c. 279, s. 1.)

§ 3715. Deposits of other road funds.—Any other moneys, in whatever way collected or appropriated, which are designed to be used for the construction or maintenance of roads in any township in which bonds for road work within such township have been issued and sold shall be deposited in the same bank or banks in which the moneys obtained from the bond issue or special road tax are deposited, and these moneys shall be deposited to the credit of the township road commission, and shall be drawn upon by said commission. (1917, c. 279, s. 1.)

§ 3716. Monthly statements. — The bank or banks in which the road moneys designated in this article are deposited shall prepare monthly statements showing the amounts paid, to whom paid, and for what purposes, and submit same to the township road commission, and the road commission shall have such monthly statement posted at the courthouse door of the county in which the township is located. (1917, c. 279, s. 1.)

§ 3717. Local acts not affected.—Nothing in this article shall be construed to repeal any local road laws of any county and shall not in any way affect them. (1917, c. 279, s. 1.)

Art. 6. County Road Maintenance Tax

§ 3718. Special tax for maintenance authorized. —Where the board of county commissioners of any county in the state has heretofore issued and sold, or may hereafter issue and sell, bonds for the construction or reconstruction of the roads in the county or in any township or road district therein, such board of commissioners is directed to levy annually during the life of the bonds a special tax on all taxable property, both real and personal, sufficient to raise an amount equal to at least three per cent, and not more than five per cent, of the total amount of bonds issued by the county, except as hereinafter specified, for the construction or reconstruction of the public roads, as may be necessary to maintain said roads in a satisfactory manner. (1919, c. 190, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—Sections 3846(1) et seq., vesting the control of county roads in the State Highway Commission would seem to supersede the sections under this article.

Local and General Acts Consistent.—It was the intent and purpose of this section and sections 3719, 3720 and 3721, that the public roads of a township formed under the provisions of a special statute, with a road commission having charge of its public roads, to provide for the continued maintenance of the roads, and for the payment of interest on bonds issued for their construction, and under the statute the county commissioners can levy a special tax sufficient for such purposes, the local and general act on the subject being consistent and their terms not repugnant to each other. Road Commission v. Commissioners, 188 N. C. 362, 124 S. E. 743.

§ 3719. Proceeds used for maintenance only.— The money raised by the special tax authorized by the preceding section shall be used for the maintenance of the roads in said county, township, or road district in which the tax is collected, and which were or will be built by the revenue derived from the sale of bonds; and shall not be used for any other purpose except as herein provided, (1919, c. 190, s. 2.)

Cited in Road Commission v. Commissioners, 188 N. C. 362, 124 S. E. 743.

§ 3720. Scale of taxes to be levied.—Taxes for the maintenance of the roads built from the revenue derived from said bonds shall be levied upon the following scale: Where the roads have cost one thousand dollars per mile or less, a tax sufficient to raise not less than fifty dollars per mile per year shall be levied. Where the roads have cost more than one thousand and not more than two thousand dollars per mile, a tax of five per cent shall be levied. When the roads have cost more than two thousand dollars per mile and not more than three thousand dollars per mile, a tax of four per cent shall be levied. When the roads have cost more than three thousand dollars per mile, a tax of three per cent shall be levied. (1919, c. 190, s. 3.)

Cited in Road Commission v. Commissioners, 188 N. C. 362, 124 S. E. 743.

§ 3721. Deduction of levies provided for.—When in any county, township or road district the fund raised under this article is thought to be more than sufficient to maintain the roads in proper condition the board of county commissioners are authorized to apply to the state highway commission for an investigation to determine the amount needed for the proper maintenance of the roads to be maintained by the county, and upon certification by said state highway commission, showing that funds are more than sufficient, a reduction may be made in the levies as above provided, so that only such levies as will provide the amount needed may be made. (1919, c. 190, s. 4.)

§ 3722. Maintenance work carried out by road authorities.—The work of maintaining the roads provided for in this article shall be under the board of county commissioners, county road commission, township road commission, district road commission, or any other officials having charge of the road work for the county or subdivisions thereof. (1919, c. 190, s. 5.)

§ 3723. County commissioners to report bonds issued and miles of roads built.—The board of county commissioners of any county where bonds have been issued for the construction or reconstruction of roads shall, as soon as practicable after the ratification of the provisions of this article, ascertain the amount of bonds that have been issued or that may be hereafter issued in the county, or in the townships and road districts thereof, and shall ascertain the number of miles of road constructed under such bond issues, and make a report of same in detail to the state auditor and the state highway commission. (1919, c. 190, s. 6.)

§ 3724. Roads maintained by state not included.—This article is not intended to include any roads that are maintained by the state. (1919, c. 190, s. 7.)

Art. 7. County Road Law, Effective on Adoption by County Commissioners

Editor's Note.—Sections 3846(1) et seq., vesting control of county roads in the State Highway Commission would seem to supersede the sections under this article.

§ 3726. County road commission created.—Subject to the provisions hereinafter made for the ratification of this article, there is hereby created for each county in this state a road commission, to be composed of three members of the road electorate of such county, which said road commission shall be appointed or elected as hereinafter provided. (1919, c. 232, s. 2.)

§ 3727. Provisions to be ratified by county commissioners.—Before the provisions of this article shall become applicable to any county in the state, it shall first be ratified by a resolution adopted by a majority of the board of county commissioners for such county, which resolution shall be spread upon the minutes of said board. (1919, c. 232, s. 3.)

§ 3728. When general assembly appoints electorate.—The general assembly may appoint the members of the road electorate at the session of 1919 for any county, which persons so appointed shall compose the road electorate for such county, provided the county commissioners of such county shall hereafter ratify this article and make it applicable to such county. (1919, c. 232, s. 4.)

§ 3729. When county commissioners appoint electorate.—If the general assembly shall not make such appointments for any county and the board of county commissioners of such county shall ratify this article and make it applicable thereto, as hereinbefore provided, such board of county commissioners shall appoint a road electorate as is hereinbefore provided for such county. (1919, c. 232, s. 5.)

§ 3730. Term of members of electorate.—The members of such road electorate, whether appointed by the general assembly or by the board of county commissioners as herein provided, shall hold their respective offices until the next general election and until their successors are elected and qualified. (1919, c. 232, s. 6.)

§ 3731. Organization and oath of electorate.—The members of a road electorate of any county shall, within thirty days after their appointment, meet at the courthouse of such county upon notice given by the chairman of the board of county commissioners, giving the hour and place of meeting, and before entering upon their respective duties each member shall take and subscribe an oath that he will faithfully, fearlessly, and impartially, at all times discharge the duties of his office to the best of his ability. Such board shall then organize by electing one member chairman and another secretary. (1919, c. 232, s. 7.)

§ 3732. County commissioners fill vacancies.—If any member shall refuse to qualify, or if there shall be a vacancy in the road electorate, the board of county commissioners of such county is authorized to fill such vacancy. (1919, c. 232, s. 8.)

§ 3734. Election of successors to appointed road electorate. — At the next general election after a road electorate has been appointed for any county as above provided, the successors of such electorate shall be elected at such election, and their term of office shall begin as other county officers, and they shall qualify as herein provided and proceed to organize and elect a board of road commissioners as hereinbefore provided. (1919, c. 232, s. 10.)

§ 3735. Quarterly meetings of road electorate.—The members of a road electorate shall meet regularly at the courthouse in such county on the first Mondays in January, April, July, and October of each year. (1919, c. 232, s. 11.)

§ 3736. Duties of county road electorate.—It shall be the duty of such road electorate to keep themselves advised as to the condition of all the roads of such county, and they may look over them, either in a body or by committee, at any time they may deem best, and it shall be the duty of said road electorate to make such recommendations as it may deem advisable to the road commission of such county. (1919, c. 232, s. 12.)

§ 3737. Pay of electorate and road commission.—The members of the road electorate of any county other than the members composing the road commission shall each receive three dollars per day for each day they may be engaged wholly and exclusively as a member of such electorate in the performance of the duties herein provided, including the attendance at the first meeting and all regular meetings. The members of the road commission shall receive for their services the same pay as provided for the county commissioners of such county for each day they may be engaged wholly and exclusively in the performance of their duties. But no member of the road electorate, unless he is also a member of the road commission, shall receive more than fifty dollars in one year as compensation for his services; and no member of the road commission shall receive in excess of two hundred dollars as compensation for his services. This limitation on compensation shall not apply to the chairman and secretary of the road commission. All compensation to any member of the road electorate or county road commission shall be passed on and allowed by board of county commissioners for such county. (1919, c. 232, ss. 13, 17, 38, 39; Ex. Sess. 1920, c. 60, s. 1.)

§ 3738. Vacancies in commission filled by electorate.—In case of vacancy caused by the death, resignation, or otherwise, of any member of the county road commission, such vacancy shall be filled by the county road electorate for the unexpired term. (1919, c. 232, s. 18.)

§ 3739. Commission attends and calls meetings; examines roads; assigns duties of chairman.—The road commissioners for any county, in addition to attending the regular meeting of the road electorate, may hold call meetings not exceeding three days in each month, and they may examine the roads at any time they may deem advisable, either in a body or by committee, and the chairman may be required by said commission to do any other work which in its opinion may be to the best interests of the road service in its county. (1919, c. 232, s. 14.)

§ 3740. Commission succeeds other county road authorities in road powers.—It shall be the duty of the county road commission to take charge of laying out, opening, altering, maintaining, or discontinuing of the roads of said county that are now maintained or may be maintained by the county as public roads; and it is hereby vested with all powers, rights, and authority now vested in the board of county commissioners and other commissions or boards or other road officials of said county for the general supervision of the roads of the county, and for the construction and repair thereof, by contract or otherwise, as may be deemed best. All bridges shall be well constructed, iron being recommended when the stream is of any appreciable size, and all approaches shall be well constructed. (1919, c. 232, ss. 16, 25.)

§ 3741. Counties may retain present road authorities.—If those counties coming under the provisions of this article already have lawful road authorities charged with the road work therein, either in the form of a county road commission or other commission or board, or a board of county commissioners charged with road work, and shall desire to retain such road authorities, then such desire shall be respected and no road electorate shall be appointed for such county. (1919, c. 232, s. 19.)

§ 3742. Local funds, etc., pass to county subject to prior contracts.—Any moneys in hand in any county treasury, or in the hands of any county treasurer, or in any township or road district treasury, or in the hands of any township treasurer to the credit of the road funds of such county or township or road district of any county ratifying the provisions of this article, shall be turned over to the banks designated as depositories for the road fund of such county or other authority having charge of such funds, and shall become part of such county road fund and shall be expended for the construction of the roads in such township or road district having turned the same over; but such county, through its road commission, shall carry out any contract previously made by such township or road district, and shall, out of any funds or proceeds of any property received from such township or road district, pay off any liabilities existing against such township or road district. In any county which shall ratify the provisions of this article, any township owning equipment and property used in the construction or maintenance of public roads shall turn the same over to the road commission of such county upon demand made by it. (1919, c. 232, s. 26.)

§ 3743. Expenditure of funds; highway systems; federal aid.—All funds, whether collected by direct tax, sale of bonds, or otherwise, in such county shall be expended under the authority of the road commission for such county, and the road commission is authorized to appropriate such sums as it may deem expedient to be used by the state highway commission in securing federal aid to be used in the construction of any state or national highway leading through such county, and such road commission is further authorized to enter into any contract providing for the construction of a state highway: Provided, however, that federal funds shall be secured to aid in its construction. (1919, c. 232, s. 27.)

§ 3744. Apportionment of county road funds among townships. — The road funds for such county shall be expended in each township in such county, as nearly as may be, in proportion to the taxes paid by such township in said fund so as to make an equitable apportionment in the course of one year. (1919, c. 232, s. 37).

§ 3745. Sections of general highway law (Art. 4) applicable under this article.—The following sections of the general highway law, forming article 4 of this chapter, dealing with the powers and duties of county road commissions under the said article, are declared applicable to county road commissions under this article:

Section 3661. (Corporate powers; use of road funds.)
Section 3663. (Organization of road commissions; compensation of commissioners.)
Section 3667. (Assessments of damages and benefits.)
Section 3668. (Entry on land for material; obstruction of drains or ditches.)
Section 3670. (Claims for timber or material.)
Section 3671. (Width, alignment, and grade of highways.)
Section 3673. (County-line roads.)
Section 3674. (Construction by one county of county-line road.)
Section 3675. (Extension of work to adjoining counties.)
Section 3676. (Work by county commissions in municipalities.)
Section 3679. (Road statistics.)
Section 3680. (Guard railings.)
Section 3681. (Road institutes.)
Section 3690. (Maintenance.)
(1919, c. 232, ss. 15, 17, 21, 22, 24, 25, 28, 29, 30, 31, 33, 34, 35, 36.)

§ 3746. Cutting trees along road.—The county road commission shall have the power as to cutting trees on land adjoining the road conferred on county road commissioners under section 3669 of this chapter under the limitations contained in said section, but commissioners created under this chapter shall not cut trees in any grove or yard left around or near any house left or used for a grove or shade trees.. (1919, c. 232, s. 23.)

§ 3747. Prisoners on road.—The provisions of section 3678 as to the duties of county road commissioners in reference to persons sentenced to work on the public roads shall be applicable to county road commissioners created by this article, except that the clause of said section is inapplicable which provides that the expense of maintaining and guarding said convicts while employed on the public roads may be paid by the county commissioners out of the general fund of the county.

Where any county or township is working convicts on its public roads under any local, special or private act, such township, upon the demand of the county road commission, shall turn over such convicts to the county road commission, which may proceed to work them on the public roads of the county, or the road commission, if it shall find that working convicts is unprofitable, shall turn such convicts over to counties from which they were received and discontinue convict labor on the public roads. (1919, c. 232, ss. 26, 32.)

Editor's Note.—This section is superseded by §§ 3846(19) et seq.

§ 3748. Counties excepted from article.—This article shall not apply to Alamance, Alexander, Anson, Ashe, Beaufort, Bertie, Buncombe, Cabarrus, Caswell, Catawba, Chatham, Cherokee, Chowan, Clay, Cleveland, Columbus, Dare, Davidson, Davie, Duplin, Durham, Edgecombe, Forsyth, Gates, Graham, Granville, Halifax, Harnett, Hertford, Hoke, Hyde, Iredell, Johnston, Lee, Lenoir, Lincoln, Macon, Mecklenburg, Moore, Montgomery, Nash, Northampton, Orange, Pasquotank, Person, Pitt, Polk, Randolph, Richmond, Robeson, Rockingham, Rowan, Rutherford, Sampson, Scotland, Stanly, Surry, Tyrell, Warren, Washington, Watauga, Wilkes, Wilson, Yadkin, and Yancey counties. (1919, c. 232, s. 39a.)

§ 3748(a). Presentation of claims; settlement or rejection; assessment of damage; appeal.—Any person over whose lands or premises the road commission or other road authorities in any county has heretofore or shall hereafter open or construct a road, or any person from whose land such road authorities has heretofore or shall hereafter take any earth, timber, or other material of any kind whatsoever, or shall cut any timber or in any way damage such land, that has not been adjusted, and such claimant desires compensation for the same, he shall present to the road commission or other road authorities, an itemized statement of his claim for damages within six months from the date of such use, and the said road commission shall have thirty days from said presentation to settle the same, or to notify such claimant that the said board has rejected such claim, and if rejected, the said road commission shall in such rejection state in writing the amount, if any, it agrees to pay, and if accepted by the claimant the same shall immediately become due and payable; if the said road commission does not notify claimant within thirty days from presentation of claim that the same has been rejected, in whole or in part, then such claim shall be conclusively presumed to be correct, and such claim as presented shall immediately become due and payable. If such claim or any part thereof is rejected by the road commission or road authorities within thirty days of the time presented, then either party, the road commission or road authorities or claimant, is authorized to make application in writing to the sheriff of such county setting forth the itemized claim, the facts respecting the filing of his claim with such road commission or road authorities, the action thereon, and it shall be the duty of such sheriff to summon a jury of three disinterested freeholders, who shall be voters and residents of the township in which the claimant resides, and it shall be the duty of said jury after being duly sworn, to impartially hear and determine such matter, enter upon the premises, inspect same, hear any evidence offered by either party and make a full written report by delivering to each party a copy of their findings and assessments. Either party shall have the right to appeal from the findings and report of such jury to the superior court next to be held ten days after the filing of such report, by giving written notice of such appeal to the opposing party within ten days of notice of such filing: Provided, that no claim shall be presented after the expiration of six months from time such damages are sustained, nor shall any claim be paid if not presented within six months from the date of such damage. (Ex. Sess. 1920, c. 60, s. 1.

Application to Township.—This applies to "road commission or other road authorities in any county," not to a township. Lowman v. Abee, 191 N. C. 147, 131 S. E. 277, 280.

§ 3748(b). Itemized account of road funds; publication of statements.—It shall be the duty of the road commission or other road authorities to keep, or cause to be kept, an accurate, itemized account of all road funds received from any source and how the same is expended by townships, and it shall be the duty of said road commission or other road authorities within thirty days from August 25, 1920, to make or cause to be made an itemized statement of all funds heretofore received from any source for road purposes, and an itemized statement of disbursements of same by townships, and the said road commission authorities shall cause the same to be published in one issue of at least one weekly newspaper published in such county, and it shall be the duty of said road commission or road authorities in such county to publish in the first week of October, one thousand nine hundred and twenty, a complete, correct and detailed, itemized statement of all road funds received and disbursed by townships in said county since the last published statement, and such statement shall be published in at least one newspaper as directed, and every month thereafter a similar statement shall be made and published as provided; if said road commission or other road authorities shall fail or refuse to keep such account, or to make or cause to be made and published the statements herein provided, each member thereof shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and punished at the discretion of the court. (Ex. Sess. 1920, c. 60, s. 1.)

§ 3748(c). Duties delegated to township members; powers of delegates.—It shall be the duty of the road commission or road authorities of any county to delegate to each member of the road electorate from any township of such county the duty of supervising the construction and repairing of small bridges, installing cement, clay or other permanent piping, and the maintenance of the public roads in his township respectively, subject to the general supervision of the said road commission or other road authorities. Such member in his township shall have the right, subject to the supervision and control of the road commission, to make contracts for the purpose of maintaining and keeping in good condition the roads in his township, and shall supervise the same to the best interest of the township and county. For such services for the time that he is engaged wholly and exclusively in such work he shall receive not less than three dollars nor more than five dollars per day, including his own conveyance, to be fixed by road commission: Provided, such member for any cause cannot serve in this capacity the road commission shall name another in his stead; and, provided further, that this section shall not apply to any roads which shall be constructed in whole or in part by federal funds, unless it is agreeable to state and federal authorities. (Ex. Sess 1920, c. 60, s. 1.)

§ 3748(d). Temporary closing of roads; obstructions or barriers.—The road commission or other road authorities having charge of the public roads in such county, shall have authority to order any public road, or any part of any road in such county temporarily closed or discontinued and prohibit traveling thereon during the time of the construction, repairing, maintaining, or in any other manner whatsoever improving any such road in such county, and such authorities shall further have the right and authority to place an obstruction or barrier of any kind across such road, in order to give notice to any one traveling or being on same while temporarily closed, and any person who shall cut, injure, remove, or in any manner interfere with such obstruction or barrier, or any person who shall willfully travel on such part of any road while temporarily closed or discontinued with any animal, car, automobile, buggy, wagon, or other vehicle, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be fined or imprisoned at the discretion of the court: Provided, any person residing on or near any closed or discontinued part of any road and shall have no other way to traved to or from his house, shall have the right to travel such closed or discontinued road to the extent only as may be necessary to or from the the nearest road leading therefrom. (Ex. Sess. 1920, c. 60, s. s. 1.)

§ 3748(e). Limitation on right of taking material from land.—It shall be unlawful for any contractor or other person to take or remove from the cultivated lands of any other person in such county, any earth, timber or other material without the written permission of the chairman of the road commission. The road commission or other road authorities may cancel or change permission of such chairman. (Ex. Sess. 1920, c. 60, s. 1.)

§ 3748(f). Itemizing bills and claims; records.—All bills or claims for labor or material shall be made in detailed, itemized form, and if for labor shall show the number of hours worked, the service and place performed, and same if allowed and paid shall be kept on file as permanent records in the office of said board and open to the inspection of any citizen of said county. The road commission or other road authorities shall approve no claim until the above provision is complied with. (Ex. Sess. 1920, c. 60, s. 1.)

§ 3749. Repealing clause. — All laws and clauses of laws in conflict with this article are hereby repealed in those counties which may ratify this article. (1919, c. 232, s. 40.)

Art. 8. Road Officials

§ 3750. Public roads designated; authority of supervisors and county commissioners. — All roads and ferries that have been laid out or appointed by virtue of any act of assembly, or any order of court, are hereby declared to be public roads and ferries; and the justices of the peace in each township shall have the supervision and control of the public roads in their respective townships. They shall, with respect to this work, constitute and be styled the board of supervisors of public roads of such township, and under that name, for the purposes aforesaid, they are hereby incorporated the board of supervisors of public roads, and the board of county commissioners, as hereafter in this chapter set forth, shall have full power and authority within their respective counties to appoint and settle ferries, to order the laying out of public roads where necessary, to appoint where bridges shall be made, to discontinue such roads and ferries as shall be found useless, and to alter roads so as to make them more useful. But upon the adoption of road commissions by counties or townships, as provided in this chapter, the powers and authority conferred or exercised under this section are transferred to such road commissions within such counties or townships. (Rev., s. 2681; Code, s. 2014; 1887, c. 73; 1889, c. 543; 1893, c. 141; R. C., c. 101, s. 1; 1784, c. 227, s. 1; 1868, c. 20, ss. 11, 16, 17, 18; 1868-9, c. 185, s. 14; 1879, c. 82, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—Sections 3846(1) et seq., vesting control of county roads in the State Highway Commission would seem to supersede the sections under this article.

Public Highway Defined.—A public road is one that is established by public authorities dedicated to the public and worked by an overseer appointed according to law. Collins v. Patterson, 119 N. C. 602, 26 S. E. 154. Or kept in order by other methods. State v. Norris, 174 N. C. 808, 93 S. E. 950.

Public Square Is Highway.—A public square, in a city or town, within which is situated the courthouse, is a public highway, and an indictment for its obstruction, in which it is described as "a certan public square and common public highway," and giving boundaries, is not redundant. State v. Eastman, 109 N. C. 785, 13 S. E. 1019.

Commissioners Benefiting from Selection of Road. — See note to sec. 3761.

Same—Court's Power to Direct Application of Fund.—See Morris v. Board, 184 N. C. 549, 114 S. E. 827.

Legislative Power to Establish Ferries.—The power to establish ferries is one of the attributes of sovereignty which is to be exercised by the Legislature itself, or by any agent whom that body may authorize to act for it. In re Spease Ferry, 138 N. C. 219, 50 S. E. 625. This right is not taken away by Art. VII, sec. 2 of the State Constitution. Id. And the General Assembly cannot deprive itself or its successor of this power. Toll Bridge Co. v. Comrs., 81 N. C. 491.

Public Ferries Not Monopolies.—Public ferries are not monopolies, but franchises granted in consideration of public services. They may be exclusive, but are simply licenses, revocable at will. In Re Spease Ferry, 138 N. C. 219, 50 S. E. 625; Robinson v. Lamb, 126 N. C. 492, 36 S. E. 29.

Commissioners Cannot Restrict License.—An act granting a ferry franchise and making it unlawful to establish any other ferry within 1½ miles thereof is a restriction upon the general power conferred upon county commissioners under this section and the commissioners have no power to authorize a ferry within the prohibited distance. In Re Spease Ferry, 138 N. C. 219, 50 S. E. 625.

Ferry Must Be Authorized by Legislature or Commissioner.—No one, in the absence of special authority from the Legislature or the Board of County Commissioners, has the right to erect and maintain a bridge or ferry, within such a distance of a duly authorized toll-bridge as will divert from the latter the custom which, in the ordinary course of travel, would pass over it, whether that distance be greater or less than five miles. Toll-Bridge Company v. Flowers, 110 N. C. 381, 14 S. E. 918.

Elements of Ferry Franchise.—The essential elements of a ferry franchise, is the exclusive right to transport persons, with the horses and vehicles and such personal goods as accompany them, from one shore to the other. Broadnax v. Baker, 94 N. C. 675.

Same—Incident to Riparian Ownership.—The franchise of keeping a public ferry is so incident to riparian ownership, that it can be granted to none but those who own the land at one of the termini, unless such proprietor refuse to exercise it, when it may be granted to another, upon his making compensation to the owner, and this is so, even when the termini are public roads. Broadnax v. Baker, 94 N. C. 675.

Violation of Franchise—Damages.—Damages to property and property rights are the sole measures of damages when the franchise of a ferry operator is violated—loss of profits to a mill owned by the same operator are too remote and speculative. Milling Co. v. Highway Comm., 190 N. C. 692, 130 S. E. 724.

How Tolls Fixed.—The matter of tolls is left to the discretion of the County Commissioners, subject to right of appeal, if exorbitant, but to be fixed by them in the first instance. Robinson v. Lamb, 126 N. C. 492, 36 S. E. 29.

River in Another County.—Where a river lies wholly within a county the county commissioners of an adjoining county have no jurisdiction to establish a ferry across such river. Robinson v. Lamb, 131 N. C. 229, 42 S. E. 701.

Necessity of Concurrence of Justices.—In an action for the purchase and construction of a bridge exceeding in cost five hundred dollars brought against a Board of County Commissioners, where the contract had been entered into by the defendants without the concurrence of the majority of the justices of the peace, there is no liability imposed on the county. Berlin Iron Bridge Co. v. Commissioners, 111 N. C. 317, 16 S. E. 314.

Only Qualified and Acting Justices Included.—This section, constituting the justices of the peace in each township its board of supervisors, refers to those who are qualified and acting; and in proceedings upon petition to lay off a cartway over the lands of another, where the township is entitled to four justices of the peace and only two have qualified or are acting, the award of those two is valid. Ford v. Manning, 152 N. C. 151, 67 S. E. 325.

Justices' Exemption from Working Road.—As to effect of Pender County Road Act on justice's duties, etc., under this section, see State v. Kelly, 186 N. C. 365, 119 S. E. 755.

Liability of Commissioners for Failure to Repair Road.—See notes to section 3756.

§ 3751. Local: County commissioners to regulate roads and bridges.—The board of county commissioners shall have power, and it shall be their duty, to make rules and ordinances, not inconsistent with the acts of the general assembly, to regulate the use of the public roads, highways and bridges of their respective counties. They shall have power to make rules and ordinances to regulate the weight of loads permitted to be hauled on the public roads and highways, and as to the width of tires permitted to be used; and may prohibit the carrying thereon of such loads and the use of such tires or vehicles as they may deem needlessly injurious or destructive to such roads or bridges. In making such ordinances, they may have regard to the conditions of the various roads or parts thereof, and the conditions of traffic thereon, and make different rules and ordinances applicable thereto. Any person who shall needlessly violate an ordinance made in pursuance of the authority herein given, or who shall aid, abet or assist in such violation shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be fined not exceeding fifty dollars, or imprisoned not exceeding thirty days.

This section shall apply only to the counties of Alamance, Anson, Beaufort, Bertie, Brunswick, Camden, Cabarrus, Cherokee, Columbus, Cumberland, Davidson, Duplin, Durham, Franklin, Gaston, Granville, Guilford, Hertford, Hoke, Iredell, Johnston, Lee, Madison, McDowell, Macon, Montgomery, Nash, New Hanover, Northampton, Onslow, Pitt, Pasquotank, Randolph, Richmond, Rockingham, Sampson, Tyress, Union, Warren, Washington, Yancey. (1915, c. 264, ss. 1, 2, 3; 1919, cc. 154, 209; Ex. Sess. 1920, c. 50; 1925, c. 224.)

As to county commissioners generally, see 2 Enc. Dig. 785 et seq.; 13 Enc. Dig. 522 et seq.

Editor's Note.—The Counties of Onslow and Warren were added to this section by Public Laws 1920, Ex. Sess., ch. 50.

§ 3752. Meetings of supervisors prescribed.—The board of supervisors shall meet at some place in their respective townships to be agreed upon by themselves, or, in the absence of such agreement, to be named by their chairman, on the first Saturday of February and August, for the purpose of consulting on the subject of the condition of the roads in their township, and may hold special meetings at other times, upon ten days written notice by the chairman to each member of the board, stating the time and place of such meeting. They shall once in each year, during the week of their meeting in August, go over and personally examine all the roads in their township. They shall annually at their meeting in February elect some one of their number chairman. Where the board is composed of more than three members it shall take three members to constitute a quorum of said board for the transaction of business. (Rev., s. 2712; 1909, c. 364, ss. 2, 3; Code, s. 2015; 1879, c. 82, s. 2; 1880, c. 30, s. 1.)

This requirement in nowise forbids that the board shall meet at other times and for other purposes when the township affairs shall require it. Ford v. Manning, 152 N. C. 151, 154, 67 S. E. 325.

§ 3753. Supervisors appoint overseers, designate workers and allot hands.—The board of supervisors shall, annually at the meeting in August, divide the roads of their townships into sections and appoint overseers for such sections at said meeting. They shall at the same time allot the hands to the overseers, and shall also designate the boundaries or points to which each resident shall be liable to work on each section, and shall within five days after such meeting certify to each overseer written notice of his appointment, with a list of the hands assigned to his section. The board of supervisors may at any time alter the sections or allotment, but shall give notice thereof to the overseer. Such overseer shall serve, and be liable as such for neglect of duty, until he shall be relieved by the board, which shall be done only upon his showing that his road is in good condition as prescribed by law. The overseer may resign after the expiration of twelve months, provided his road shall be in good repair and the board of supervisors shall so find; and any overseer so resigning, and whose resignation has been accepted by the board, shall not without his consent be again appointed overseer until after the expiration of two years from the date of his resignation. When a public road shall be a dividing line between townships, the board of commissioners of the county shall determine as to how said road shall be divided, with notice as to the working of said road. The hands may be allotted to a road by allotting all who live or shall live within certain boundaries to be fixed by the board of supervisors, in which event a list of the hands by name need not be given, but the list shall specify the hands living in the prescribed territory. (Rev., s. 2715; Code, s. 2016; 1879, c. 82, ss. 3, 7; 1880, c. 30, s. 1; 1887, c. 93, s. 1.)

As to punishment of overseer for neglect of duties, see section 3760 and notes thereto; as to the duties and liabilities of overseers generally, see 7 Enc. Dig. 42 et seq.

Evidence of Appointment.—An order issued by the Township Board of Trustees appointing a person overseer of a road is proper evidence of such appointment and is admissible. State v. Cauble, 70 N. C. 62.

Overseer Cannot Evade Duties by Resignation.—An overseer can not free himself from the duty imposed by law, by surrendering his order of appointment to the clerk of the board of township trustees; nor is he relieved at the expiration of a year, except by order of the board, on showing his precinct of road to be in the condition required by law. State v. Long, 81 N. C. 563.

§ 3754. To have orders appointing overseers served within thirty days; penalties.—The board of supervisors of the township, within ten days after the rise of the board, shall furnish the constable with two copies of each order appointing overseers of roads that may have been made during the sitting of the board. And the constable shall apply at the office of the board, within ten days after the rise of every meeting of the board, for such orders, and, on receiving them, shall, within twenty days, serve each overseer of roads with a copy of the order, or leave the same at his usual habitation; and the other copy shall be returned to the next meeting of the board of supervisors, with the date of its reception by him and the date of the service indorsed thereon, or the date when it was left at the residence of the said overseer. And if either the board or constable shall fail to perform any duty enjoined by this section, he shall forfeit ten dollars to the county, to be recovered at any time, by notice to show cause at the instance of the solicitor, who shall prosecute the same in the name of the state: Provided, the delivery to the overseer of the order appointing him made by the board of supervisors of the township, or any one of them, shall be deemed and held to be a legal service of the same. (Rev., s. 2714; Code, s. 2043; 1891, c. 519; R. C., c. 101, s. 8; 1812, c. 845, ss. 1, 2; 1813, c. 859, ss. 1, 2.)

§ 3755. Supervisors annually report to superior court.—The board of supervisors shall annually make report to the first term of the superior court of their county after the first Monday in August of the condition of the roads of their township, and if the meetings provided for in this chapter have been held by said board, the judge holding such term of the superior court shall, after his charge to the grand jury and before they shall retire to their room, call upon the clerk of the court for such reports, and they shall then and there be delivered to the foreman of the grand jury. (Rev., s. 2713; Code, s. 2024; 1879, c. 82, s. 10.)

§ 3756. Supervisors neglecting duties punished.—If any board of supervisors shall fail to make any report required by law, or to discharge any duty imposed by law, the members thereof shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. The indictment may be against the board jointly, or against the justices composing said board, or any one or more of them severally. (Rev., s. 3770; Code, s. 2024; 1879, c. 82, s. 10.)

As to liability of county commissioners generally, see section 1302 and the notes thereto.

Keeping Roads in Repair.—It is not the duty of the commissioners of a county to take the initial steps for repairing the bridges thereof when they fall into decay; it is only when their co-operation becomes necessary in a movement started by the township board of trustees or supervisors of public roads for such repairs, and is withheld without legal excuse, or they refuse to provide means to meet the contract, that they are criminally answerable for a breach of official duty. State v. Selby, 83 N. C. 617.

Personal liability will not attach to supervisors for failure to keep the roads in repair, etc., unless it is alleged and proved that the acts complained of were either corrupt or malicious. Ruffin v. Garrett, 174 N. C. 134, 93 S. E. 449. This subject is fully discussed and the authorities reviewed in Hipp v. Farrall, 91 S. E. 831. See also, Holmes v. Upton, 192 N. C. 179, 134 S. E. 401.

§ 3757. Overseers to report on state of road and work done; result when delinquency appears.—Every overseer shall at each and every meeting of the board of supervisors of his township make report to them of the present condition of his road, of the number of days worked on his section since last meeting, of the number of hands who attended and worked each day, of the number and names of hands who failed to attend and work; whether or not they were legally summoned, and whether or not they have paid the one dollar as provided. In all cases the report provided for in this section must state either that the overseer has worked the hands allotted to his section of road the full limit of time allowed by law, or that his section of road of which he is overseer is not in need of any further work at the time such oath is made and subscribed to by the overseer. The said overseer shall, before some person authorized to administer an oath, make written affidavit that the report is true and correct. Upon this report sworn to as aforesaid, if it shall appear that any of the hands, after being legally summoned, have failed to attend and work on said road, and that they did not pay the one dollar, then it shall be the duty of the said supervisors, or any one of them, to issue a warrant for the arrest of any such hand, and shall put him upon trial for the offense: Provided, that nothing herein contained shall prevent the overseer of the road from prosecuting, at any time after the offense has been committed, any hand for failure to work on the road, and such cases of prosecution shall be stated in his report to the board of supervisors, that they may not prefer another prosecution for the same offense. (Rev., s. 2716; Code, s. 2021; 1879, c. 82, s. 7; 1880, c. 30, s. 4; 1909, c. 110, s. 1.)

§ 3758. Overseers to report on collections and expenditures of money.—The said overseers shall, at the meeting of the supervisors in August, make a report of all moneys collected by them from parties excused from work on the road for the preceding year, with a statement as to how the same was expended. In case of failure of any overseer to make any report to the board of supervisors of public roads of his township, as provided in this chapter, it shall be the duty of the chairman of such board immediately upon such failure to make a sworn statement of the fact before some justice of the peace of an adjoining township, who shall immediately issue his warrant for the arrest of the said overseer, and proceed to try him for the offense. (Rev., s. 2717; Code, s. 2022; 1879, c. 82, s. 8.)

§ 3759. Officials of road district to report financial condition annually.—The board of road commissioners or other officials in charge of the roads of any county, township, or road district are and they are hereby required and directed to make out an annual itemized statement of the receipts and disbursements and of the financial condition of such road district for the calendar year, and shall, on or before the first day of February of each year, post a copy of the statement for the previous year at the courthouse door of the county, and shall file a copy of the same with the register of deeds, who shall produce such copy, on request, for the inspection of any taxpayer of such road district. And if any person or persons shall fail to perform the duties required of him by this section, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. (1917, c. 189, s. 1.)

§ 3760. Overseer neglecting duties punished.—If any overseer of a road shall wilfully neglect any of the duties imposed on him by law, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and fined not to exceed fifty dollars or imprisoned not to exceed thirty days. (Rev., s. 3785; Code, s. 1054; 1889, c. 504; R. C., c. 34, s. 39; 1786, c. 256, s. 4.)

See note to section 3753. As to the duties and liabilities of overseers generally, see 7 Enc. Dig. 42 et seq.

Requisites of Indictment.—An indictment against a road overseer for neglecting to keep his road in repair, which does not charge a willful neglect, cannot be supported, under this section. State v. Miller, 100 N. C. 543, 5 S. E. 925.

It is not necessary to specially charge in the indictment that "it became and was the duty" of the overseer to repair the road; but such a charge is necessary when the indictment is for violation of a private statute making it the duty of a particular person or several persons to repair a particular road. State v. Miller, 100 N. C. 543, 5 S. E. 925.

Assuming Duties of Overseer.—Where one assumes to be overseer of a road and acts as such, he is liable to indictment for failure to keep it in good order. State v. Long, 81 N. C. 563; State v. Long, 76 N. C. 254.

Art. 9. Construction and Maintenance of Roads and Bridges

Part 1. Procedure

§ 3761. County commissioners to establish or discontinue; no more than five jurors required.—The board of commissioners of the county only shall have the right to lay out and establish and discontinue public roads. In laying out and establishing roads, and for the purpose of assessing damage to property by reason of the same, no greater number of jurors than five shall be summoned or be required. (Rev., s. 2683.)

Cross References.—As to authority of supervisors and county commissioners see section 3750 and notes thereto. See also section 3767 and notes; as to the establishment and discontinuance of roads generally, see 7 Enc. Dig. 17 et seq.; 14 Enc. Dig. 294 et seq.

Editor's Note.—Sections 3846(1) et seq., vesting control of county roads in the State Highway Commission would seem to supersede the sections under this article.

Jurisdiction Exclusive.—The procedure afforded by this and following sections gave jurisdiction to the county commissioners to lay out roads in such counties without the cooperation of the township trustees. Russell v. Leatherwood, 114 N. C. 683, 19 S. E. 643.

Propriety of Establishing Roads.—The main question to be determined as to the propriety of laying out a public road is, whether it is necessary for the public good and convenience. King v. Blackwell, 96 N. C. 322, 1 S. E. 485. Discretion is vested in the commissioners which cannot be delegated. McPhail v. Com'rs, 119 N. C. 330, 25 S. E. 958.

Same—Existence of Private Way. — Evidence that there are private ways near to the proposed location of the public road asked for, is competent both before the County Commissioners and the jury on an appeal to the Superior Court, to show that the proposed road is not necessary, because the private ways fulfilled all the public needs. King v. Blackwell, 96 N. C. 322, 1 S. E. 485.

Same—Discretion Power of Commission.—See notes to paragraph 18 of sec. 1297.

Effect of Order of Commissioners.—Where the board of commissioners ordered the construction of a public road, laid it out, appointed an overseer and assigned him hands to construct the road, such order constituted in the eye of the law a public road. State v. Joyce, 121 N. C. 610, 28 S. E. 366.

Appointment of Overseer and Hands.—The mere appointment of an overseer and assignment of hands to a supposed road, by the County Court, are not per se a judicial determination, that a public road be laid out where none before existed. Baker v. Wilson, 25 N. C. 168.

Road May be Established though Proceedings Irregular.—Where upon the presentation of a petition the county commissioners made an order that the roads be laid out as prayed for, particularly designating the terminal points and a jury, summoned by the sheriff and sworn, laid out the roads and made a report of their action to the commissioners, who confirmed the same and ordered the road to be opened, which was done by the sheriff, who made return of his action it was held that the proceedings established the road. State v. Smith, 100 N. C. 550, 6 S. E. 251.

Discontinuance—Grounds.—Evidence that the road hands in a certain township are in number insufficient to keep up all the roads in that township has no tendency, unless connected with other facts, to show that any particular road should be discontinued. Ashcraft v. Lee, 81 N. C. 135.

Same—Appeal from Petition.—Either party to a petition to discontinue a public road has a right to take the cause up, by successive appeals, from the township board of trustees to the Supreme Court. Ashcraft v. Lee, 81 N. C. 135.

Cited in Holmes v. Bullock, 178 N. C. 376, 100 S. E. 531.

§ 3762. Petition for public road or ferry; contents; notice required. — The board of county commissioners shall not establish any ferry, or order the laying out of any public road, or discontinue or alter such road or ferry, unless upon petition in writing. Unless it appear to the board that every person over whose lands the said road may pass, or whose ferry shall be within two miles of the place at which another ferry is prayed to be established, shall have had twenty days notice of the intention to file such petition, the same shall be filed in the office of the clerk of the board until the succeeding meeting of the board, and notice thereof be posted during the same period at the courthouse door; at which meeting the board shall hear the allegations set forth in the petition, and if sufficient reason be shown, the board shall appoint and settle or discontinue the ferry, or order the laying out, or discontinue or alter the road, as the case may be. (Rev. s. 2684; Code, s. 2038; R. C., c. 101, s. 2; 1813, c. 862, s. 1.)

See notes to sec. 3750; as to the petition generally, see 7 Enc. Dig. 25 et seq.

Address of Petition Immaterial.—The mere address of a petition is not of its essence; therefore a petition for laying off of public road presented to the county commissioners, and definitely describing the terminal points of the road prayed for, is sufficient in form and substance to support the action of the board in establishing the road, although such petition is addressed to the "board of supervisors of public roads." State v. Smith, 100 N. C. 550, 6 S. E. 251.

Owner Must Follow Statute.—The owner of property must seek compensation for land taken for a highway in the manner pointed out by statute. Hitch v. Commissioners, 132 N. C. 573, 44 S. E. 30.

When Party Has Ample Notice.—The design of notice of an intended petition to lay off a road is that the owners of the land may come forward and object; but the act did not intend that the establishment of a necessary road should be impeded for the want of twenty days' notice, if, before an order is made for laying off the road, ample notice is given to the owner. Where, therefore, a petition for a new road is filed, and is continued in court three years, during which time the owner of the land opposes the petition, continues the cause, appeals to the superior court, etc., he cannot after these steps taken by him, object to the want of twenty days' notice, for his conduct shows that he has had ample notice. Little v. May, 10 N. C. 599.

No Injunction When Notice Not Given.—The county commissioners will not be enjoined from building a public road in a township of a county from the proceeds of the sale of bonds issued at the suit of taxpayers, because notice had not been given to landowners along the route proposed required by this section, for this section was enacted for the benefit of individual landowners, whose rights as such are not involved in a suit of this character. Edwards v. Commissioners, 170 N. C. 448, 87 S. E. 346.

Injunction to Restrain Ultra Vires Act.—It is ultra vires for county commissioners to accept a bridge to be maintained at the county's cost, where it appears it is not a part of a public road, in existence or in contemplation of being made —and they may be enjoined from doing so. Greenleaf v. Commissioners, 123 N. C. 30, 31 S. E. 264.

Bridges and Ferries Incidental to Roads.—Public bridges and ferries are incidental to public roads and are not to be established or assumed, or maintained, as county charges, unless as parts thereof, in actual existence or in contemplation. Greenleaf v. Commissioners, 123 N. C. 30, 31 S. E. 264.

Power to Discontinue Section of Road without Giving Notice.—Where a county highway commission is given authority by statute "to abandon any existing county road or convert it into a cartway" and "to change or relocate any existing road, and add any new roads," and the power thus given is limited by an amendment adding the words "as now given county commissioners by statute" after the word "cartway", the limitation of the amendment refers only to "abandonment" and conversion into a "cartway," and the county highway commission is given power to make a change in an old road by discontinuing a short section thereof without giving notice required of county commissioners by this section, but such discontinuance will be restrained until adequate access to a cemetery along the discontinuance is provided. Hinnant v. Highway Commission, 198 N. C. 293, 151 S. E. 625.

§ 3763. Public road laid out by three freeholders under oath; damages assessed a county charge.—All public roads shall be laid out by a jury of three freeholders, who shall be summoned by the sheriff to meet at one of the termini of the proposed road, and, being duly sworn by the sheriff or other person authorized to administer oaths, shall lay out the road to the greatest advantage of the inhabitants, and with as little prejudice as may be to lands and enclosures. The jury shall also on oath assess such damage as private persons may sustain, and all damages assessed by them shall be deemed a county charge. (Rev., s. 2685; Code, s. 2040; 1885, c. 65; R. C., c. 101, s. 4; 1872-3, c. 189, s. 3; 1879, c. 82, s. 9.)

See, also, 7 Enc. Dig. 28 et seq.

Public Roads a County Charge.—Under the general road law, public roads are deemed and made a county charge. Wells v. Com'rs., 152 N. C. 663, 665, 68 S. E. 212.

County Cannot Be Sued for Trespass—A county cannot be sued for trespass upon land or for any other tort in the absence of statutory authority. But if the commissioners of a county take land for a highway without authority of law they are liable therefor individually. Hitch v. Commissioners, 132 N. C. 573, 44 S. E. 30.

Assessment of Damages and Benefits.—See sec. 3667 and notes thereto.

§ 3764. Appeal from commissioners to court; bond; trial de novo.—Any person may appeal to the superior court at term time from the determination of the board of county commissioners, and if any person shall appeal from the board on a petition, he shall give bond to the opposing party as provided in other cases of appeal, and the superior court at term shall hear the whole matter anew; and where any proceeding is instituted to lay out, establish, alter or discontinue public roads or to appoint and settle ferries, and the said proceeding is carried to the superior court in term time by appeal or otherwise, the parties to said proceeding shall be entitled to have every issue of fact joined in said proceeding tried in the superior court in term time by jury, and from the judgment of the superior court either party may appeal to the supreme court as is provided by law for other appeals. (Rev., s. 2690; Code, s. 2039; R. C., c. 101, s. 3; 1813, c. 862, s. 1; 1879, c. 258.)

As to the appeal generally, see 7 Enc. Dig. 30 et seq.

Refusal of Instruction.—Where, on appeal from the order of the county commissioners establishing a public road, the court read the petition to the jury and charged that the termini of the road were as set out in the petiton, it was not error to refuse further instructions as to the points named as termini. Russell v. Leatherwood, 114 N. C. 683, 19 S. E. 643.

Appeal from Order of Commissioners. —An appeal lies from the order of the Board of County Commissioners directing the establishment of a road, before the order has been executed. McDowell v. Western North Carolina Insane Asylum, 101 N. C. 656, 8 S. E. 118.

Appeal Similar to Appeal from Justice.—An appeal from the board of county commissioners in establishing a public road should be taken in accordance with those sections of the code applicable to appeals from a justice of the peace. Blair v. Coakley, 136 N. C. 405, 48 S. E. 804.

Effect of Appeal.—An appeal properly taken to the superior court from an order of the county commissioners directing the laying out of a highway, has the force and effect of vacating the order appealed from; and pending such appeal the case does not come within the provision of the law looking to the proper maintenance and working of the roads. State v. Davis, 159 N. C. 455, 74 S. E. 916.

How Appeal Heard.—Upon an appeal the Superior Court hears the matter de novo, and the parties are entitled to have the issues of fact joined in the proceeding passed upon by the jury. McDowell v. Western North Carolina Insane Asylum, 101 N. C. 656, 8 S. E. 118.

When Appeal Docketed. — An appeal under this section from an order of the county commissioners, must be docketed at the succeeding term of the superior court. Brown v Plott, 129 N. C. 272, 40 S. E. 45.

Appeals from orders of the county commissioners are governed by the rules applying to appeals from a justice of the peace, and to be effective, must be docketed at the first ensuing term of the Superior Court, or the appeal will be dismissed. Sutphin v. Sparger, 150 N. C. 517, 64 S. E. 367.

When Appeal Taken in Proceedings to Straighten Road.—Exceptions to a report of road commissioners, in proceedings to change the grade of and straighten a public road, should be made at the confirmation of the report by the county commissioners, and appeal should then be taken, to be effective. Sutphin v. Sparger, 150 N. C. 517, 64 S. E. 367.

§ 3765. Petition for discontinuance; condition for maintenance of new road; duties of commissioners; when old road closed.—Whenever, upon petition of any person, a road shall be changed and, as a condition thereof, it shall be required by the board that he put the proposed road in good condition, he may, at any time thereafter, tender the same to the overseer, who shall receive it, if it be in such condition as is required for highways; and if not, he shall reject it; and in either case he shall report and certify the fact to said board, where the same may be considered; and said board shall hear all persons interested in the matter of receiving or rejecting the road; and the decision of the board shall be conclusive as to the condition of the road; but the old road shall not be closed until it be discontinued by order of the board. (Rev., s. 2692; Code s. 2041; R. C., c. 101, s. 5: 1784, c. 227, s. 13; 1813, c. 862, s. 1.)

See notes to § 3762.

Editor's Note.—Public Laws, 1929, ch. 89, sec. 1, applicable only to Sampson County, amended this section by adding at the end thereof the following: "Provided, that the County Commissioners, on the Road Commission in counties having a Road Commission, shall have the authority in their discretion to pass an order discontinuing any part of the public roads and bridges in said county where there are provided and maintained other roads and bridges ample and convenient for the traveling public."

§ 3766. How landowner may change location on his own land.—In addition to the mode prescribed in the preceding section for turning roads, the following method may be observed by any one who desires to change a road from one part of his land to another part, namely: Such person shall lay out the same, and after putting it in such good condition as highways are directed to be, shall apply to a justice of the peace, who thereupon shall notify the overseer of the road, and summon two freeholders to meet on the premises at a given day; and the said freeholders, being duly sworn, shall, with the justice, view and examine carefully the road which is proposed in place of the other, and all matters and facts tending to show whether the change should be allowed. They shall report, in writing subscribed by them, the result of their consideration to the next meeting of the board of supervisors, which may confirm or reject their report: Provided, that such justice and freeholders shall be disinterested in the land, and not of kin or affinity to the appellant. (Rev., s. 2693; Code, s. 2042; R. C., c. 101, s. 6; 1834, c. 22.)

§ 3766(a). Henderson County excepted. — Henderson County is excepted from the operation and effect of sections 3750 to 3766 of the Code. (1929, c. 118, s. 2.)

Part 2. Bonds and Taxes for Roads and Bridges in the State

§ 3767. Erection and maintenance of roads and bridges; county-line bridges.—Whenever in the opinion of the board of county or road commissioners or other road governing body of any county in the state it shall become necessary to build, rebuild, or repair any of the public roads or bridges in such county, and the same cannot be done with the labor and funds at their command or in their hands, then such board or body are hereby fully authorized and empowered in their discretion to build, rebuild, repair, alter or construct any of the roads and bridges in the county in such manner as to them may seem practicable.

Whenever it shall become necessary to build, rebuild, or repair any highway bridge over any stream which divides one county from another the road governing boards or authorities of the two counties may join in an agreement for building, rebuilding, or repairing the same, and the cost thereof shall be defrayed by the two counties in proportion to the number of taxable polls in each, unless otherwise agreed upon between the said boards or authorities of such counties: Provided, however, that the cost of any bridge erected across a stream dividing one county from another shall not exceed two per cent of the assessed valuation of the taxable property in each of the said counties. (Rev., s. 2696; 1917, c. 103, ss. 1, 2; 1919, c. 185, s. 1.)

See editor's note under § 3761.

Cross References.—As to authority of commissioners and supervisors, see sections 3750 and 3761 and annotations thereunder; as to roads and highways generally, see 8 Enc. Dig. 14 et seq.; 14 Enc. Dig. 292 et seq.; as to bridges, see 2 Enc. Dig. 681 et seq.; 13 Enc. Dig. 288 et seq.

Editor's Note.—This section is quite similar to paragraph 22 of section 1927 to which section and the notes thereto reference should be made.

Public Laws, 1929, ch. 89, § 1, applicable only to Sampson County, amended this section adding at the end thereof the following: "Provided, further, that wherever there is any bridge or causeway over any stream which divides one county from another, and such bridge or causeway has become unnecessary by reason of the construction of other roads and bridges across said stream which are ample and convenient to the traveling public, then the County Commissioners, or the Road Commission may pass a resolution discontinuing such road, bridges or causeway. And if such action is approved, and concurred in by the other county affected, such action shall be published for thirty days at the court house in both counties, and thereupon such order will become effective."

Constitutionality of Article.—The authority conferred by this article is not necessarily inconsistent with the amendment to Article V, section 6, of our State Constitution, excepting from the limitation of 15 cents on the $100 valuation of property a levy on county property for "a special purpose, and with the approval of the General Assembly, which may be done by special or general act," the amendment only adding that the approval may be done by "general act." Norfolk Southern Railroad Co. v. McArtan, 185 N. C. 201, 116 S. E. 731.

Bridges Across County Lines. — County bridges, across county lines, must be authorized by both counties and built at joint expense. McPeeters v. Blankenship, 123 N. C. 651, 652, 31 S. E. 876.

If the adjoining county refuses to join in the construction, an enabling Act of the Legislature must be obtained. McPeeters v. Blankenship, 123 N. C. 651, 652, 31 S. E. 876.

Validity of Notes Issued by County under General Provisions.—Where, with special legislative authority, a board of county commissioners has contracted with the State Highway Commission to build a bridge on a public highway of the county, to be absorbed in the State's system of highways, and for the building of the bridge the county has incurred an indebtedness for which it has afterwards given its notes, exception to taxation levied to meet these notes upon the ground that it required a special act of the Legislature to give them validity is untenable when proceedings for the purpose have been had under the provisions of the general statutes. Norfolk Southern Railroad Co. v. McArtan, 185 N. C. 201, 116 S. E. 731.

Form of Action on Contract to Build Bridge.—An action in the form usual upon money demands was sustained against a county for a debt due on a contract in regard to bridge-building. Winslow v. Com'rs, 64 N. C. 218.

Payment of Amount of Tax Not Unlawful.—The agreement by the commissioners to pay each year a sum of money equal to the aggregate amount of plaintiff's tax for that year till the whole cost of the bridge should be discharged, was not an unlawful appropriation of the tax devoted by law to other purposes, but simply the means of ascertaining the amount of each annual installment. Cleveland Cotton Mills v. Commissioners, 108 N. C. 678, 13 S. E. 271.

Applied in Martin County v. Bank, 178 N. C. 26, 100 S. E. 134.

Cited in Penn Bridge Co. v. Commissioners, 151 N. C. 215, 65 S. E. 895.

§ 3768. Bonds for bridges; terms and denomination; no sale below par.—For the purpose of raising funds with which to defray the cost of building or rebuilding any roads or bridges or either or both of said purposes as provided in the last section the boards of commissioners of the respective counties shall each have full power and authority, subject, to the foregoing limitations, to issue bonds of said respective counties or borrow money and issue notes therefor to an amount not to exceed the actual cost of such roads or bridges or either or both of said purposes. Such bonds shall be in denominations of one thousand dollars, or less, with interest coupons attached, payable semiannually, at such time and place as may be directed by such boards, and to be in such form and tenor, and transferable in such way, and the principal thereof payable at such time or times, not exceeding forty years from the date thereof, and at such place or places as such board may determine: Provided, that none of such bonds shall be disposed of either by sale, exchange, hypothecation, or otherwise, for a less price than fair face value; and the same may be disposed of at public or private sale, as the board of commissioners may determine. (1917, c. 103, s. 1 (c); 1919, c. 185, s. 3; Ex. Sess. 1920, c. 89.)

Cross References.—As to county commissioners generally, see sections 1292 et seq.; as to road bonds, see sections 3634 et seq.; as to county bonds generally, see 3 Enc. Dig. 709 et seq., 13 Enc. Dig. 527 et seq.

Editor's Note.—The words "or either or both of said purposes" were added by Acts 1920, Ex. Sess. ch. 89.

Constitutionality.—An act of the Legislature authorizing the issuance of county bonds for public roads is not in contravention of the Constitution, sec. 29, Art. II. Commissioners v. Bank and Trust Co., 178 N. C. 170, 100 S. E. 421.

Bonds Limited to Actual Cost of Bridge.—A provision limiting the amount of the bonds to the "actual cost" of a bridge and its "approach" is not a prohibition against issuing the bonds before the work is done, for whatever sum that may remain over such cost may be invested in the sinking fund provided in the statute. Martin County v. Bank, etc., Co., 178 N. C. 26, 100 S. E. 134.

Bonds May Be Apportioned though Bridge within One County.—A legislative enactment, authorizing the issue of bonds by two adjoining counties to build a bridge and its approaches specifying that the bonds shall not exceed the actual cost of said bridge and road, and apportioning the issuance three-fourths to the one and one-fourth to the other, is not in contravention of our State Constitution, though the bridge and its approaches specified in the act are within the county authorized only to issue bonds in the smaller amount. Martin County v. Bank and Trust Co., 178 N. C. 26, 100 S. E. 134.

Implied Power to Issue Bonds.—An act that abolishes two boards of road commissioners of a county and substitutes one central board for the entire county, authorizing it to take care of the indebtedness theretofore incurred for such purposes, and to incur obligations for the continuance of this work and to borrow money in pursuance thereof not to exceed a certain amount, is sufficient to imply the power to issue bonds by the new board to take care of this indebtedness incurred and to be incurred, at the rate of interest specified by the act, and to mature them within the forty years limited by this section. Huneycutt v. Commissioners, 182 N. C. 319, 109 S. E. 4.

§ 3769. Special tax to provide for bonds.—The county commissioners or other county authorities who are legally authorized and empowered to levy taxes shall, in order to provide for payment of the bonds or notes to be issued hereunder, and interest thereon, compute and levy each year at the time of levying other county taxes a sufficient tax upon all real and personal property in said county to pay the interest on the said bonds and notes, and shall also levy a sufficient tax to create a sinking fund to provide for the payment of such bonds and notes at maturity. Such taxes shall be levied and collected annually and under the same laws and regulations as shall be in force for levying and collecting other county taxes. (1917, c. 103, s. 1 (d); 1919, c. 185, s. 4.)

§ 3770. Record of bonds.—The county commissioners of any county so issuing bonds shall provide a record which shall be kept by their clerk, in which shall be entered the name of every purchaser of a bond, the number of the bond purchased, the date of issue, when due, rate of interest, and the amount received for said bond. They shall also cause to be kept a record of all proceedings, as well as a record of the bonds redeemed annually, and the bonds when redeemed and recorded shall be destroyed by fire in the presence of the board of commissioners, and that fact recorded. (1917, c. 103, s. 1 (e).

§ 3771. Investment of excess funds from tax; provisions as to redemption; conditions expressed on bond.—The fund raised by taxation in excess of the amount required to pay interest, if any, shall be safely invested by the board of county commissioners, and the county commissioners are authorized to purchase any of said bonds to amount of such excess annually, and after ten years they may purchase at not exceeding their par value one twenty-fifth of the bonds issued for any county; and if no holder of said bonds shall offer to sell such amount, then the said county commissioners are authorized to designate such bonds as they may desire to purchase, and after the designation of such bonds and the notice thereof given to a newspaper published in the county, if the holder of the bonds neglects or refuses to surrender the same and receive their par value, with interest accrued thereon at the time of such notice, then the holders shall not receive any interest subsequently accruing: Provided, the said bonds designated shall express such conditions on their face. (1917, c. 103, s. 1 (f).

§ 3772. Statutes under which such bonds may issue.—County boards of commissioners or other bridge-governing body in any county may operate under the foregoing provisions or under the provisions of any special act in force in said county, or under provisions of any general act relating to bridges hereafter passed by the general assembly. (1917, c. 103, s. 3.)

Part 2A. The Highway Bond Act

See editor's note under § 3761.

§ 3772(b). Purpose of bond issue.—For the purpose of providing additional means for carrying out the provisions of chapter two (2), Public Laws of the Regular Session of one thousand nine hundred twenty-one, as amended, and of enabling the State to avail itself to the fullest extent of all Federal aid funds that are now or may become available for use in the State for road purposes, the State Treasurer is hereby authorized by and with the consent of the Governor and Council of State to issue and sell not exceeding thirty million ($30,000,000) dollars bonds of the State to be designated "State of North Carolina Highway Serial Bonds." Said bonds shall mature in installments of one million five hundred thousand dollars ($1,500,000) in each calendar year, beginning with the year nineteen hundred and twenty-nine, such maturities to be either on the first day of January or the first day of July, and none of said bonds shall mature later than July first, nineteen hundred and forty-eight. At least one million five hundred thousand dollars ($1,500,000) of any bonds or notes issued under this act before July first, nineteen hundred and twenty-nine, or such lesser amount of such bonds or notes as may be issued before July first, nineteen hundred and twenty-nine, shall mature July first, nineteen hundred and twenty-nine, and be then paid. The maturities shall be absolute, without option of prior payment. The Governor and Council of State shall not consent in the year one thousand nine hundred twenty-seven to the issuance of more than twenty million ($20,000,000) dollars bonds. This authorization of bonds shall not take the place of any authorization heretofore made but shall be additional thereto. The said bonds shall bear interest at a rate to be fixed by the Governor and Council of State, but not exceeding five per cent annum to be payable semi-annually on the first days of January and July. (1927, c. 95, s. 2.)

§ 3772(c). Coupons and authentication.—Said bonds shall carry interest coupons which shall bear the signature of the State Treasurer, or a facsimile thereof, and said bonds shall be subject to registration and be signed and sealed as is now or may hereafter be provided by law for State bonds, and the form and denomination thereof shall be such as the State Treasurer may determine in conformity with this act. (1927, c. 95, s. 3.)

§ 3772(d). State treasurer to sell bonds.—Subject to determination by the Governor and Council of State as to the manner in which said bonds shall be offered for sale, whether by publishing notices in certain newspapers and financial journals or by mailing notices or by inviting bids by correspondence or otherwise, the State Treasurer is authorized to sell said bonds at one time or from time to time at the best price obtainable, but in no case for less than par and accrued interest, and when the conditions are equal he shall give the preference of purchase to the citizens of North Carolina. All expenses necessarily incurred in the preparation and sale of the bonds shall be paid from the proceeds of such sale. (1927, c. 95, s. 4.)

§ 3772(e). Proceeds to State highway fund.—The proceeds of said bonds and of the bond anticipation notes herein authorized (except the proceeds of bonds the issuance of which has been anticipated by such bond anticipation notes) shall be placed by the treasurer in the construction funds known as the "State Highway Fund." (1927, c. 95, s. 5.)

§ 3772(f). Execution and sale of notes authorized.—By and with the consent of the Governor and Council of State, who shall determine the rate or maximum rate of interest and the date or approximate date of payment, the State Treasurer is hereby authorized to borrow money at the lowest rate of interest obtainable, and to execute and issue notes of the State for the same, but only in the following circumstances and under the following conditions:

(a) For anticipating the sale of any of said bonds to the issuance of which the Governor and Council of State shall have given consent, if the treasurer shall deem it advisable to postpone the issuance of such bonds.

(b) For the payment of interest upon or any installment of principal of any of said bonds then outstanding, if there shall not be sufficient funds in the State Treasury with which to pay such interest or installment as they respectively fall due.

(c) For the renewal of any loan evidenced by notes herein authorized. (1927, c. 95, s. 6.)

§ 3772(g). Payment of bond anticipation notes.—Funds derived from the sale of bonds herein authorized shall be used in the payment of any bond anticipation notes that may have been issued in anticipation of the sale of such bonds and any renewals of such notes; and that funds provided by the General Assembly for the payment of interest and / or principal of bonds herein authorized shall be used in paying the principal and / or interest of any notes and any renewals thereof, the proceeds of which shall have been used in paying interest and / or principal of such bonds. Interest payments upon said notes may be evidenced by interest coupons in the Treasurer's discretion. (1927, c. 95, s. 7.)

§ 3772(h). Full faith, credit and taxing power of State pledged.—The full faith, credit and taxing power of the State are hereby pledged for the payment of the principal and interest of the bonds and notes herein authorized. (1927, c. 95, s. 8.)

§ 3772(i). Coupons receivable for demands of State.—The coupons of said bonds and notes after maturity shall be receivable in payment of all taxes, debts, dues, licenses, fines and demands due the State of any kind whatsoever. (1927, c. 95, s. 9.)

§ 3772(j). Bonds, notes and coupons exempt from taxation.—All of said bonds and notes and coupons shall be exempt from all State, county and municipal taxation or assessments, direct or indirect, general or special, whether imposed for the purpose of general revenue or otherwise, and the interest on said bonds and notes shall not be subject to taxation as for income, nor shall said bonds or notes or coupons be subject to taxation when constituting a part of the surplus of any bank, trust company, or other corporation. (1927, c. 95, s. 10.)

§ 3772(k). Lawful investment for trust funds.—It shall be lawful for all executors, administrators, guardians and fiduciaries generally, and all sinking fund commissions, to invest any moneys in their hands in said bonds and notes. (1927, c. 95, s. 11.)

§ 3772(l). Loans from counties forbidden.—From and after the ratification of this act, it shall be unlawful for the State Highway Commission to enter into any contract or agreement with any county which provides for the reimbursement to such county of any expense hereafter incurred by it or of any money hereafter to be advanced or loaned by it to the State Highway Commission for the building of roads constituting a part of the State Highway System, and section fourteen of chapter two, of Public Laws of the Regular Session of nineteen hundred and twenty-one, is hereby repealed; Provided, however, that nothing herein contained shall prevent the State Highway Commission from receiving donations from any county or political subdivision of the State, such donations not to be subject to such reimbursement. (1927, c. 95, s. 12.)

Editor's Note.—This section repeals section 3846(ee).

Retroactive Effect—Correction of Records to Speak Truth of Contract.—Where the county commissioners have exercised their statutory authority to loan county funds to the State Highway Commission, anticipating the allotment of State funds for the building of highways within the county, and have lawfully contracted for that purpose under section 3846(ee), it may not, after the passage of a later act, this section, taking away this power, materially change the contract, but the county commissioners nunc pro tunc may correct the entries on their minutes therefore duly passed and entered of record so as to make the entry speak the truth as to what had been regularly done, and to this end parol evidence is admissible, the time of the correction so made relating back to the time the entry should have been correctly made. Oliver v. Board of Commissioners, 194 N. C. 380. See section 1310.

§ 3772(m). Use of allocations to counties.—From and after the ratification of this act, all allocations to the several counties of the proceeds of highway serial bonds herein authorized and bond anticipation notes issued in anticipation of the sale of such bonds, shall be first used in reimbursement to counties of moneys of such counties which have been or shall hereafter be loaned or advanced to the State Highway Commission pursuant to any such contract heretofore made; Provided, however, that no such reimbursement shall be made to any county unless and until the State Sinking Fund Commission shall have determined and reported to the State Treasurer that such county has not pledged or promised that the amount so to be reimbursed or any part thereof shall be applied upon the payment of any indebtedness of such county or the interest thereon, and if the State Sinking Fund Commission shall determine and report to the State Treasurer that any county has so promised or pledged, the payments so to be made to such county shall be made to the State Sinking Fund Commission for the use and benefit of such county and shall be held by the State Sinking Fund Commission in a separate fund which shall be used solely for the purchase or payment of such county indebtedness at or before maturity thereof, no purchase of such indebtedness with such funds to be made by the Sinking Fund Commission except with the consent of the governing body of such county and at a price satisfactory to such governing body. The State Sinking Fund Commission shall have power to demand the production of such evidence as it may require for the purpose of reaching such determination and shall give reasonable notice to the governing body of the county of the time and place of hearing to be given by it prior to such determination. (1927, c. 95, s. 13.)

§ 3772(n). Investment of county trust funds.—It shall be the duty of the Sinking Fund Commission to invest each trust fund created under section thirteen of this act in such securities as may be lawful investments of State Sinking Funds, and all the provisions and penalties of the State Sinking Fund Act as amended shall apply to such trust funds and to the care and custody thereof as far as the same may be reasonably applicable thereto, except as otherwise provided in this act. The interest accretions upon each fund shall from time to time be paid to the county to which the same belongs, and shall be used by such county in paying the interest upon its indebtedness to which the principal sum so held is applicable. (1927, c. 95, s. 14.)

§ 3772(o). Use of surplus from gas and license tax on automobiles.—While any of the bonds authorized by this act shall be outstanding, before any part of any surplus revenue derived from tax on gasoline and automobile licenses, after providing for the interest, sinking fund, and serial payments of any State highway bonds heretofore or hereafter issued, and the administration and collection expense of the State Highway Commission, shall be used for any other purpose, there shall, on or before July first, nineteen hundred and twenty-eight, and each fiscal year thereafter, be set aside a sum sufficient to maintain the roads of the State Highway System for the ensuing year in a sound and serviceable condition. The provisions of this section shall be deemed to enter into and form a part of the contract between the State and the purchasers and holders of the bonds herein authorized, and likewise for the benefit of the citizens of the State; and enforceable in the courts of this State by any interested party. (1927, c. 95, s. 15.)

§ 3772(p). Allocation to counties.—At least eighty per cent of the proceeds of the bonds authorized by this act, after being allocated to the several construction districts, as now provided by law, shall then be allocated to the several counties in each district on the same basis used for district allocations: Provided, however, that in making this county allocation the State Highway Commission shall take into consideration the expenditures in the several counties heretofore made or contracted for from the proceeds of previous bond issues for State highway purposes, and in the event some counties have had expended or contracted therein a larger amount of said former bond issues, and some have had expended or contracted therein a lesser amount of said former bond issues than would have been available under the system of allocation provided for in this section, then in that event such differences shall be adjusted by the allocation of the proceeds from this bond issue, to the extent that at least eighty per cent of the entire one hundred and fifteen million dollars ($115,000,000) State highway bonds, authorized by this and previous General Assemblies, shall have been expended in the several counties as nearly as practicable in accordance with the allocation provided for in this section. In the event that the funds allocated to any county under the system herein provided for shall be more than sufficient to complete the construction of the highways forming a part of the State Highway System within such county, any surplus may be added to the twenty per cent deducted in the original allocation and be available for use by the Commission anywhere within the district; to the end that the entire State system of highways may be completed as nearly as possible with the funds provided: Provided, that nothing in this section shall abrogate or restrict any obligation of the State Highway Commission with respect to the repayment of loans from counties under the terms of any contract heretofore made. (1927, c. 95, s. 16.)

§ 3772(q). Use of revenue derived from tax on gasoline and automobile licenses.—No law enacted at the regular session of the General Assembly in one thousand nine hundred and twenty-nine shall be interpreted to require or permit that while any bonds authorized by this article, shall be outstanding, any surplus revenue derived from tax on gasoline and automobile licenses, after providing for the interest, sinking fund and serial payments of any State Highway bonds heretofore or hereafter issued and the administration and collection expense of the State Highway Commission, shall be used for any other purpose until there shall have been set aside, on or before the first day of July of each year, a sum sufficient to maintain the roads of the State Highway System for the ensuing year in a sound and serviceable condition. (1929, c. 312, s. 1.)

Part 3. Bonds and Taxes for State-line Bridges

§ 3773. Construction and maintenance of interstate bridges.—The board of commissioners of any county in the state of North Carolina bordering on any county in the state of South Carolina, Virginia, or Tennessee, is hereby authorized and empowered to co-operate with the construction and maintenance of any public road—or highway — bridge including approaches over any stream which divides any county in North Carolina from any other county in any of the above mentioned states, the cost of the construction and maintenance of which public road—or highway—bridge shall be defrayed and borne by the two adjoining counties in proportion to the number of inhabitants of each according to the last federal census, unless otherwise agreed upon between the board of commissioners or other proper authorities of the respective counties which such bridge shall connect. (1919, c. 103, s. 1; Ex. Sess. 1920, c. 11.)

See editor's note under § 3761.

Cross References.—As to bridges generally, see 2 Enc. Dig. 681 et seq.; 13 Enc. Dig. 288 et seq.; as to bonds for bridges, see section 3768 and notes thereto.

Editor's Note.—The words "including approaches" were added by Public Laws 1920, Ex. Sess., ch. 11.

Delegation of State Authority.—The authority that a Legislature of this State has to unite with an adjoining State in constructing and maintaining a bridge over a stream on a State line, may be delegated by a general statute to the commissioners of any county lying on the stream, to take proper action, bear the cost, and adjust its contribution with the authorities of the county lying on the other side of the stream. Emery v. Commissioners, 181 N. C. 420, 421, 107 S. E. 443.

§ 3774. When interstate bridge deemed necessary.—The construction and maintenance of any bridge authorized by the preceding section shall be deemed necessary in all cases where public roads or highways shall have been regularly laid off, according to law, in each of said counties to be so connected by such bridge to the banks including approaches of any stream dividing one county from another, if there is no passable ford across said stream at said point. The total cost of any bridge constructed pursuant to the provisions of this part of this article shall not exceed one-fourth of one per cent of the total assessed value of all taxable real and personal property in the two counties engaged in the construction of such bridge. (1919, c. 103, s. 2; Ex. Sess. 1920, c. 11.)

Editor's Note.—The words "including approaches" were added by Public Laws 1920, Ex. Sess., ch. 11.

§ 3775. Bonds for state-line bridges.—For the purpose of raising the funds with which to defray its share of the cost of building or rebuilding any bridge authorized by this part of this article, the board of commissioners of any county in this state in which such bridge is to be built shall have full power and authority, subject to the foregoing limitations, to issue bonds of said county to an amount not to exceed said county's share of the actual cost of said bridge. Said bonds to be in denominations of one thousand dollars, or less, with interest coupons attached, payable semiannually at such time or times and place as may be directed by said board, and to be in such form and tenor and transferable in such way, and the principal thereof payable at such time or times, not exceeding twenty years from the date thereof, and at such place or places as such board may determine: Provided, that none of such bonds shall be disposed of either by sale, exchange, hypothecation, or otherwise, for a less price than their face value: and, provided further, that none of said bonds shall be disposed of until after the expiration of a period for the receipt of bids therefor and advertisement naming said date and reasonably describing paid bonds, which advertisement shall be deemed sufficiently promulgated if published once at least ten days before said date in a newspaper published in the county, and a newspaper published in the state and in general circulation throughout the state. (1919, c. 103, s. 3; Ex. Sess. 1921, c. 48.)

As to bonds for intrastate bridges, see section 3768 and notes thereto.

Editor's Note.—The last six lines of this section, providing for advertisement and bids before sale of the bonds, were added by Public Laws 1921, Ex. Sess., ch. 48.

§ 3776. Tax to provide for bonds; records of bonds.—The said commissioners or other county authorities empowered to levy taxes shall levy taxes to provide a fund for the payment of the interest of such bonds and a sinking fund for the payment of the bonds in the same manner and subject to the limitations and conditions specified in section 3769, and they shall keep, or cause to be kept, records of such bonds as provided in section 3770. (1919, c. 103, ss. 4, 5.)

§ 3777. Use of excess funds from tax.—The fund raised by taxation in excess of the amount required to pay interest, if any, on said bonds shall be safely invested by the board of commissioners of such county, and such board is authorized to purchase any of said bonds to an amount of such excess annually at not exceeding their par value and accrued interest. (1919, c. 103, s. 6.)

§ 3778. Exercise of powers, where county commissioners superseded. — The powers conferred and the duties imposed on the board of commissioners by this article shall be exercised and performed by the board of road commissioners or the board of highway commissioners or other bridge-governing board, by whatever name known, in counties where the powers and duties of boards of county commissioners in respect to roads and bridges have been transferred or given by law to such board of road commissioners or highway commissioners or other bridge-governing board. (1917, c. 103, s. 2; 1919, c. 103, s. 7.)

Cross References.—As to the duties and liabilities of county commissioners generally, see section 1292 et seq. See, also, 2 Enc. Dig. 785 et seq.; 13 Enc. Dig. 522 et seq.

Art. 10. Regulations for Roads and Bridges

Part 1. Roads

§ 3779. Width of roads.—All roads, except such as are causewayed or through cuts, shall be not less than eighteen feet wide, clear of trees, logs and other obstructions to the passage of ordinary vehicles, and there shall be ten feet in width in the center of the roadway clear of stumps and runners. Where, by the overseers, it may be deemed expedient to make or repair causeways on the same, they shall be at least fourteen feet wide; and earth, necessary to raise or cover them, shall be taken from either hand, so as to form a drain on each side of the causeway; and they shall make, of the same width, necessary bridges through swamps and over small streams of water: Provided, this section shall not apply to the roads in those counties where there is by law a classification of the widths of the roads. (Rev., s. 2682; Code, s. 2025; R. C., c. 101, s. 14; 1784, c. 227, s. 2; 1880, c. 30, s. 6.)

§ 3780. Guide-posts at forks and crossings.—The board of county commissioners shall cause to be erected and maintained at the various crossings and forks of the public highways of each county guide-posts with proper inscriptions and devices thereon indicating the direction to and distance from the most important town or vicinity within ten miles of such guide-posts. Such post shall be of substantial timber and the lettering thereon shall be not less than two inches in height and of legible character. The cost of the erection of such guide-posts shall be paid from the county road fund. In those counties in which road commissions have been established the duty of the erection of such guide-posts shall devolve upon the road commissions instead of the board of county commissioners. Any person who shall willfully deface or destroy any such guide-post shall, upon conviction therefor, be fined not less than five dollars nor more than twenty-five dollars. (1917, c. 24, ss. 1, 2, 3, 4.)

§ 3781. Overseers' duty as to signs at crossings.—Overseers shall cause to be set up, at the forks of their respective roads, a post or posts, with arms pointing the way of each road, with plain and durable directions to the most public places to which they lead, and with the number of miles from that place as near as can be computed; and every overseer who shall, for ten days after notice of his appointment, neglect to do so and to keep the same in repair, shall forfeit and pay for every such neglect ten dollars. (Rev., s. 2722; Code s. 2030; R. C., c. 101, s. 18; 1784, c. 227, s. 11; 1812, c. 846.)

§ 3782. High-water marks at fords; overseers liable.—If any overseer of roads shall fail to establish high-water marks or signals on both sides of any river, creek or stream which is used as a ford for a public highway, and to permanently fix the same, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. (Rev., s. 3782; 1889, c. 517.)

§ 3783. Mile-posts to be maintained; overseers liable.—Every overseer of a road shall cause the same to be exactly measured, where it has not already been done, and at the end of each mile shall mark in a plain, legible, and durable manner the number of miles, beginning, continuing, and marking the numbers in such manner and form as the board of supervisors shall direct; and every overseer shall keep up and repair such marks and number of his road. If an overseer shall neglect any of the duties prescribed in this section, for the space of thirty days after his appointment to office, he shall forfeit and pay four dollars, and the like sum for every thirty days thereafter the said marking may be neglected. (Rev., s. 2723; Code, s. 2032; R. C., c. 101, s. 20; 1784, c. 227, s. 11.)

§ 3784. Injuring signs and mile-posts misdemeanor.—If any person shall needlessly remove, knock down or deface any public sign-post, arms, or any mile-mark, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. (Rev., s. 3783; Code, s. 2031; R. C., c. 101, s. 19; 1784, c. 227, s. 11; 1812, c. 846.)

§ 3784(a). Lights required on vehicles.—It shall be unlawful for any person, firm, or corporation to operate during the period from one-half hour after sunset to one-half hour before sunrise, any vehicle on any public road embraced within the State Highway system, without displaying a light on the left side of said vehicle and which is visible to the approaching vehicle from the front and rear: Provided, that such light need not be lighted when the vehicle is standing under the rays of a light and can be plainly seen: Provided, further, that this act shall not be construed to repeal or amend Consolidated Statutes, section two thousand six hundred and fifteen, as same relates to motor vehicle owners.

Any person, firm or corporation violating the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be fined not to exceed fifty dollars or imprisoned not to exceed thirty days.

No failure to display a light on any vehicle shall be considered contributory negligence per se in any action brought by the owner or occupant of any vehicle; but the facts relating to such failure to display a light may be considered with the other facts in the case in determining whether the plaintiff was guilty of contributory negligence. (1927, c. 43.)

Editor's Note.—The fourth section of the act from which this section was taken provided that immediately after the ratification of this act the State Highway Commission shall have printed and circulated throughout the State copies of this act for the information of persons using the highways of the State.

§ 3785. Footways at streams, etc.; ten years maintenance establishes right.—Every overseer of the road, when the township board of supervisors may so direct, shall cause to be made and kept in repair, for the convenience of travelers on foot, good and sufficient footways over all swamps and streams of water that may cross that part of the road allotted to him; and, when the board shall so direct, shall also erect and keep hand-rails on each side of all hollow bridges situate on such part of the road: Provided, that at all places where footways and hand-rails, at hollow bridges or over swamps and streams of water, shall have been commonly used, for the space of ten years next preceding any period within three years before presentment made or indictment found for want of such footways or hand-rails, the same shall be conclusive evidence of an order theretofore made by the board, that they shall be erected and kept up, subject to be rebutted only by producing an order dispensing with them made within three years next before such presentment. (Rev., s. 2695; Code, s. 2029; R. C., c. 101, s. 17; 1817, c. 940, ss. 1, 2.)

§ 3786. Gates across highways may be allowed on petition.—Any person desiring to erect a gate across a public road may file his petition before the board of supervisors of the township where the road lies; whereupon publication shall be made at the courthouse and on the land of the person so applying and at three public places in said township until the next succeeding meeting, of such application, specifying the road, the place for the gate and name of the petitioner; and all persons interested in the convenient traveling or transportation on said road shall have leave to appear and defend, demur or plead to said petition; and if, at that meeting, it shall appear that such publication has been made, the supervisors may, at their discretion, authorize the petitioner, at his cost, to erect a gate as prayed for. (Rev., s. 2711; Code, s. 2058; R. C., c. 101, s. 39; 1834, c. 16, ss. 2, 3, 4; 1905, c. 88.)

Section Applies to Existing Roads.—Jurisdiction to license the erection of a gate across a public road is conferred by this section on the board of supervisors of public roads. This applies to roads already established. Andrews v. Beam, 97 N. C. 315, 1 S. E. 532.

§ 3787. Leaving gates open; penalty.—If any person shall leave open, break down or otherwise injure any gate lawfully across any public road, he shall forfeit and pay for every such offense ten dollars to the person erecting the same or his assigns of the land; and if the offense shall be maliciously or wantonly done, he shall be of a misdemeanor. (Rev., s. 3781; Code, s. 2058; 1885, c. 45.)

Cited in Edwards v. Supervisors, 127 N. C. 62, 37 S. E. 73.

§ 3787(a). Gates projecting over right of way forbidden.—It shall be unlawful for any person, firm or corporation to erect, maintain or operate upon his own land, or land of another, any farm gate or other gates which when opened shall project over the right-of-way of any State highway within this State.

Any person violating the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined not more than fifty dollars or imprisoned not more than thirty days, in the discretion of the court. (1927, c. 130.)

§ 3788. Fords across boundaries to be kept in order.—Where a river or stream across which there is a ford is the dividing line between any counties, townships, road districts or road sections it shall be the duty of the board of county commissioners, road and highway commissioners, or supervisors, superintendents, and overseers having in charge the construction, maintenance, or working of a road or highway leading to such river or stream, to work and keep in good condition the part of such ford from such road or highway to the middle of the ford. Any person or persons failing to comply with the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and punished by a fine not exceeding fifty dollars, or imprisoned not exceeding thirty days. (1917, c. 251, s. 1.)

§ 3789. Obstructing highways and roads misdemeanor.—If any person shall willfully alter, change or obstruct any highway, cartway, mill road or road leading to and from any church or other place of public worship, whether the right of way thereto be secured in the manner provided for by law or by purchase, donation or otherwise, such person shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and fined or imprisoned, or both. If any person shall hinder or in any manner interfere with the making of any road or cartway laid off according to law, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and punished by fine or imprisonment, or both, in the discretion of the court. (Rev., s. 3784; Code, s. 2065; 1872-3, c. 189, s. 6; 1883, c. 383.)

Cross References.—As to obstructions on highways generally, see 7 Enc. Dig. 68 et seq.; 14 Enc. Dig. 304; as to what constitutes a public highway, see section 3750.

Requisites of Indictment and Conviction.—An indictment for obstructing a neighborhood road leading to a church, which follows the words of this section, will be sustained—still, to warrant a conviction, it is essential, in the absence of proof of an actual dedication, or of a laying out by public authority under section 3838 to show a user for twenty years, and it must have been worked and kept in order by public authority. State v. Lucas, 124 N. C. 804, 32 S. E. 553.

A special verdict, rendered on a trial for obstructing a road, is also defective, in that, it does not find that the user of the road by the public was as of right and adversary. State v. Stewart, 91 N. C. 566.

Placing Nails in Highway.—Placing nails in the highway in order to puncture automobile tires is an obstruction within this section. State v. Malpass, 189 N. C. 349, 127 S. E. 248.

Preventing Construction of Drainage Ditch.—Where a person obstructs an overseer in cutting a ditch across his land to drain a public road, he is not guilty of obstructing justice there being no provision of law for taking private property for this purpose and the payment of just compensation therefor. State v. New, 130 N. C. 731, 41 S. E. 1033.

Obstruction a Nuisance.—Unlawful obstruction of a highway is a public nuisance. Brooks v. Henrietta Mills, 182 N. C. 719, 110 S. E. 96.

Highway Unknowingly Obstructed.—When a mill company gratuitously maintained a ball ground on its premises for its employees, without direction or supervision, it is manifest that the relation of licensor and licensee without pecuniary compensation existed between them, and it is not liable for an injury caused by obstruction of an adjoining highway by a rope intended to exclude spectators who did not pay for admission, there being no evidence that it had actual or implied knowledge thereof. Brooks v. Henrietta Mills, 182 N. C. 719, 110 S. E. 96.

Damages Allowed Also.—Damages are allowable for the obstruction of a highway. Tate v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 168 N. C. 523, 84 S. E. 808.

Obstruction of Permissive Cartway.—A way over the lands of another as an outlet to and from the lands of the one claiming it, cannot be established by permissive user, but by possession adverse to the true owner; and a way of this character which has not been established by the public authorities or used and kept up by the public for a sufficient length of time, does not fall within the meaning of this section so as to make its obstruction punishable. State v. Norris, 174 N. C. 808, 93 S. E. 950.

Private Easement.—A reservation by deed to the grantor of a restricted easement across the lands conveyed, without defining or locating it, and which has not since been located, the grantor and his family going across the lands conveyed whenever they choose, is insufficient proof of a public road so as to sustain an indictment under this section. State v. Haynie, 169 N. C. 277, 84 S. E. 385.

Private Roadway.—In a prosecution for unlawfully and willfully obstructing a public cartway, in the absence of evidence of dedication to the public, or evidence of an adverse continuous user by the prosecuting witness for the period required by law to give him an easement, defendant could not be guilty where the obstruction was on the part of the road where it crossed his land. State v. Lance, 175 N. C. 773, 94 S. E. 721.

Maximum Penalty Constitutional.—Where a defendant is convicted of obstructing a highway and of wanton injury to personal property by the same act, it is not in violation of our constitution nor otherwise improper, to sentence him to the maximum penalty for each offense. State v. Malpass, 189 N. C. 349, 127 S. E. 248.

Law Shortening Statute of Limitation.—A public-local law which shortens the period for the running of the statute of limitations to a time already expired and depriving the owner of lands of his right to stop the public user of a private right of way thereover, and declares the right of way a public one, is unconstitutional in taking the property of the owner without due process of law and in denying him the equal protection of the laws. State v. Haynie, 169 N. C. 277, 84 S. E. 385.

§ 3790. Obstructing highways by dirt or water; liability.—Any person throwing a bank of dirt in the main road shall be compelled to spread the same. When any ditch or drain is cut in such a way as to turn water into any public road the person cutting the ditch or drain shall be compelled to cut another ditch or drain as may be necessary to take the water from said road. (Rev., s. 2697; Code, s. 2036.)

§ 3791. Obstructing highway drains, misdemeanor.—Any person who shall obstruct any drains along or leading from any public road in the state shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and punished by a fine of not less than ten nor more than one hundred dollars. (1917, c. 253.)

§ 3792. Use of roads by certain vehicles.—It shall be lawful for any person to run and use traction engines and road steamers upon the public roads. (Rev., s. 2727; Code, s. 2061; 1870-1, c. 162.)

§ 3793. Injuring roads by hauling logs; damage and penalty.—If any person, company or corporation shall damage any public road, bridge or causeway by hauling logs or sawmill timber thereon, and shall not repair the damage done thereto within five days after being notified of said damage by the overseer of said road or by any member of the board of supervisors of the township in which said damaged road is situated, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be fined not less than ten nor more than fifty dollars, or be imprisoned not exceeding thirty days: Provided, if any person shall pay the damage as assessed by the board of supervisors for injury to such road, the payment of such damages shall be a complete bar to any criminal prosecution under this section, and if any criminal prosecution shall have been commenced prior to the payment of said damages, all further proceedings in said criminal prosecution may be ended by the defendant paying the cost necessarily incurred in said criminal prosecution and satisfying the court that said damages and all proper costs have been paid. (Rev., s. 3778; 1893, c. 416, s. 2; 1889, c. 503, s. 2.)

§ 3794. Local: Settlement of damages from hauling logs in certain counties.—If any of the public roads in Anson, Beaufort, Bertie, Clay, Columbus, Currituck, Dare, Gates, Halifax, Lenior, Macon, Pasquotank, Pitt, Rutherford, Stokes, Swain, Tyrell and Yancy counties shall be used by any person engaged in hauling logs or wood, whether such hauling be by the employees or agents of any other person, company or corporation, or by contractors for any other person, company or corporation, and the public roads shall become damaged by such use, upon complaint made to the chairman of the board of supervisors of the public roads of the township in which such damaged road is situated, he shall summon the person, company or corporation, or the manager of such person, company or corporation, alleged by such complainant to have damaged such road, before a called or regular meeting of the board of road supervisors of such township in which such alleged damaged road is situated, within ten days after complaint is made to him, and said board of road supervisors shall investigate by visiting and inspecting such damaged road, and they shall hear evidence on oath as to the condition of such damaged road and the cause of its bad condition, and the damage done to such road by the hauling of logs over such road by such person, company or corporation; and if the board of supervisors shall find such road or any part thereof damaged by the hauling of logs over the same, the person, company or corporation, or their agents, employees or contractors, alleged in the complaint to have damaged such road or any part thereof, they shall assess against such person, company, or corporation an amount of money sufficient to repair such road. And the board of road supervisors shall return to the clerk of the superior court the amount of such assessment as a judgment of the board of township road supervisors, and the clerk shall docket this transcript and it shall thereupon become a judgment of the superior court, and the clerk shall issue execution against such delinquent person or corporation for the assessed damages as other executions and the sheriff shall pay the proceeds of said judgment to the clerk of the superior court, to be applied by the board of township supervisors to the repair of such damaged road. (Rev., s. 3777; 1889, c. 503, ss. 1-3; 1893, c. 416; 1899, c. 712; 1901, c. 189.)

§ 3794(a). Maximum weight of vehicles or trailers.—No vehicle or trailer which has a greater rated weight of both vehicle and load exceeding seven and one-half (7½) tons shall go over or be operated upon any state highway. Any person, firm, or corporation violating the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. (1921, c. 2, s, 30.)

For a similar provision in the motor vehicle law, see section 2621(78).

Part 2. Bridges

§ 3795. Duty as to bridges of millowners on, or persons ditching or enlarging ditches across, highways.—It shall be the duty of every owner of a water-mill which is situate on any public road, and also of every person who, for the purpose of draining his lands, or for any other purpose, shall construct any ditch, drain or canal across a public road, respectively, to keep at his own expense in good and sufficient repair all bridges that are or may be erected or attached to his milldam, immediately over which a public road may run; and also to erect and keep in repair all necessary bridges over such ditch, drain or canal on the highway, so long as they may be needed by reason of the continuance of said mill, or milldam, ditch, drain or canal. Nothing herein shall be construed to extend to any mill which was erected before the laying off of such road, unless the road was laid off by the request of the owner of the mill. The duty hereby imposed on the owner of the mill, and on the person cutting the drain or canal, shall continue on all subsequent owners of the mill, or other property, for the benefit of which the said ditch, drain or canal was cut. When any ditch or drain originally constructed across any public road, and bridged for the convenience and safety of the traveling public, has been or may hereafter be enlarged by the owner of adjacent lands to drain his lands, it shall be the duty of such owner to keep up and in repair all bridges crossing such ditch, drain or canal, and such charge shall be imposed upon all subsequent owners of the lands so drained. (Rev., s. 2697; Code, s. 2036; 1887, c. 261; R. C., c. 101, s. 24; 1817, c. 941, s. 1; 1846, c. 95, s. 1; 1881, c. 290.)

As to the erection and maintenance of bridges generally, see section 3767 and notes thereto.

Duty of One Constructing Ditch. — When the proprietor of lands, for the purpose of draining the same, shall construct a ditch, drain or canal across a public road, it shall be the duty of the said proprietor to build a bridge over said ditch, canal, etc., and keep the same in repair. Nobles v. Langly, 66 N. C. 287.

Owners of land cutting ditches through a highway are bound to maintain bridges over them. Norfleet v. Cromwell, 64 N. C. 1, 16.

Priority of Road to Mill.—In an action for failing to keep a sufficient bridge over a canal cut across a public road, brought under this section, the plaintiff need not allege that the road was laid off before the mill was erected, in order to negative the proviso in that statute. Wadsworth v. Stewart, 97 N. C. 116, 2 S. E. 190.

Overseer Not Liable.—When a civil action was brought against the overseer to recover damages alleged to have been incurred in consequence of his negligently permitting a bridge over a canal to become unsafe and in bad condition, it was competent for him to show that the canal had been dug across the public road by the proprietor of the land adjacent thereto, and for the purpose of draining the same, and that a bridge had been built over the canal by the proprietor of the land, and had been kept up by him for several years. Nobles v. Langly, 66 N. C. 287.

Cited in Holmes v. Upton, 192 N. C. 179, 134 S. E. 401.

§ 3796. Liability for failure to maintain bridges; penalty and damages.—If any owner of a water-mill situated on any public road, or any other person whose duty it is under this chapter to keep up and repair bridges built across any public road or across any ditch, drain, or canal, shall refuse or neglect to keep up and repair, or shall suffer to remain out of repair for the space of ten days, unless repair was prevented by unavoidable circumstances any bridges which by law he may be required to keep up and repair, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be liable for such damages as may be sustained. (Rev., ss. 2703, 3772, 3773; Code, ss. 1086, 2037; R. C., c. 34, s. 25; 1817, c. 941, ss. 2, 3; 1876-7, cc. 90, 211.)

As to liability of the county commissioners, see Holmes v. Upton, 192 N. C. 179, 134 S. E. 401.

§ 3797. Railroad and turnpike companies to maintain bridges which they make necessary.—All railroad, plankroad and turnpike companies shall keep up, at their own expense, any bridge on or over county or incorporated roads, when the building of such bridges was made necessary in establishing their respective roads; and on failure to do so, shall forfeit and pay twenty-five dollars to any person who may sue the same, and in addition shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. (Rev., ss. 2700, 3775; Code, s. 2054; R. C., c. 101, s. 35; 1838, c. 5, ss. 1-4.)

§ 3798. Counties to provide draws for vessels.—The county or counties which may erect bridges shall, by their boards of commissioners, provide and keep up draws in all such bridges, where the same may be necessary to allow the convenient passage of vessels. When any such draw shall be necessary to be erected for the passage of timber-rafts, said draw may not exceed twenty feet in width. (Rev., s. 2698; Code, s. 2053; 1891, c. 168; R. C., c. 101, s. 34.)

As to the rights of the public in navigable waters generally, see 9 Enc. Dig. 634 et seq.; 14 Enc. Dig. 83 et seq.

It is within the discretion of the commissioners as to whether the draws in the bridges should turn both ways. Lenoir County v. Crabtree, 158 N. C. 357, 74 S. E. 105.

When Commissioner Excused for Failure to Provide Draws.—Where in an action for the penalty under sec. 1302, for defendant's failure and neglect, as County Commissioner, to construct a draw in a county bridge across a river, it appeared that there had been a question whether the stream above the bridge was navigable, and that during six months or more of the year the water was insufficient to float boats and that the draw had been put in as soon as the question of the navigability was determined by the Engineering Department of the United States Government, it was proper for the trial judge to direct a verdict for the defendant. Staton v. Wimberly, 122 N. C. 107, 29 S. E. 63. As to liability of commissioners for neglect, see section 1302.

§ 3799. Owner of bridge to provide draws on notice.—Owners of steamboats or other craft, who may intend to navigate any river or creek over which any person may have a bridge, may give three months notice of such intention in one of the public journals of the state, published nearest the river or creek intended to be navigated, and to the owner of the bridge, to construct a draw of sufficient width to allow the passage of the boat which is to be used; and if the owner of the bridge shall not, within three months from the date of the notice, construct the required draw, he shall forfeit and pay the person so notifying, if he be thereby prevented from navigating the watercourse, fifty dollars; and shall be further subject to the like penalty, under like circumstances, for every three months default thereafter. (Rev., s. 2699; Code, s. 2052; R. C., c. 101, s. 32; 1846, c. 51, ss. 1, 2; 1838-9, c. 5.)

§ 3800. Railroad and turnpike companies to provide draws.—Railroad, plankroad and turnpike companies, erecting bridges across watercourses, shall attach and keep up good and sufficient draws, by which vessels may be allowed conveniently to pass. (Rev., s. 2701; Code, s. 2051; R. C., c. 101, s. 32; 1846, c. 51, ss. 1, 2.)

§ 3801. Solicitor to prosecute for injury to bridges.—The solicitors of the superior court are authorized and directed to institute suits in the name of the state, in the counties wherein the injuries may be done, for the recovery of damages, against all persons who shall willfully or negligently injure any public bridge belonging to or situate in any county or counties, by forcibly running any decked vessel, boat or raft against the same; by cutting trees or timber in the rivers or creeks above such bridges, or by any other matter or means whatsoever. In case the injury is done to two counties, the action may be brought in either for the entire damage; and the damages which may be recovered shall be for the use of the county or counties injured; and if the plaintiff fail, the costs shall be paid by the county or counties for whose use the suit is brought, and in the same proportion in which the recovery would be divided. (Rev., s. 2705; Code, s. 2055; R. C., c. 101, s. 36; 1846, c. 11, ss. 1, 2.)

Injunction May Issue.—The county commissioners, under the general powers granted by this section may bring an action for an injunction to restrain the use of a non-floatable stream for floatage of logs, causing damage to a county bridge over such stream. Commissioners v. Catawba Lumber Co., 115 N. C. 590, 20 S. E. 707, 847.

§ 3802. County liable on commissioners' contracts as to bridge.—Every contract and order by the board of county commissioners entered into or made as authorized by this chapter for or concerning the building, keeping up or repairing bridges, in such manner as to them may seem most proper, shall be valid against the county. (Rev., s. 2702; Code, s. 2035; 1887, c. 370, s. 2; R. C., c. 101, s. 23; 1784, c. 227, s. 6.)

§ 3803. Expenses of bridges borne by counties.—The expense of building and keeping up public bridges in the several counties shall be borne by the whole people of each, and not by the people of the township separately, in which such bridges may be situated; and it shall be the duty of the commissioners to adjust this burden equally among the people of their respective counties, and they shall exercise a due supervision over the action of the respective boards of supervisors of the townships, so as prevent the board of any township from establishing any unnecessary number of bridges in its respective township. (Rev., s. 2704; Code, s. 2060; 1869-70, c. 219.)

Cross References.—As to bonds for bridges, see section 3763; as to interstate bridges, see section 3773 et seq.

See sections 3750, 3767, and 3768 and notes thereto.

§ 3804. Fastening vessels to bridges misdemeanor.—If any person shall fasten any decked vessel or steamer to any bridge that crosses a navigable stream, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and in the case of a bridge that crosses a county line, may be prosecuted in either county. (Rev., s. 3774; Code s. 2050; 1887, c. 93, s. 3; R. C., c. 101, s. 31; R. S., c. 104; 1858-9, c. 58, s. 1.)

§ 3805. Fast driving over bridges misdemeanor.—If any person shall ride or drive over any public bridge at a rate of speed faster than a walk, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined not more than fifty dollars or imprisoned not more than thirty days: Provided, that this section shall not apply to any bridge unless the county commissioners shall keep posted at each end of such bridge a notice forbidding the riding or driving over such bridge at a rate of speed faster than a walk. (Rev., s. 3780.)

Art. 11. Road Labor and Material

Part 1. In General

§ 3806. All able-bodied males to work on roads.—All able-bodied male persons between the ages of eighteen years and forty-five years (between twenty-one years and forty-five years in Columbus and Tyrell counties) shall be required under the provisions of this chapter to work on the public roads, except the members of the board of supervisors of public roads; but no person shall be compelled to work more than six days in any one year, except in case of damage resulting from a storm: Provided, that ten days instead of six days shall be the limit as to the counties west of the Blue Ridge. (Rev., s. 2725; Code, s. 2017; 1879, c. 82, s. 4; 1880, c. 30, s. 2 1826, c. 26; 1905, c. 136.)

As to work on roads generally, see 7 Enc. Dig. 56 et seq.; 14 Enc. Dig. 303 et seq.

Editor's Note.—This and §§ 3807-3811 are superseded by § 3846(18).

A Duty Not a Tax.—The statutory requirement to work on the public roads, is not a tax, but a duty—inability to perform it, through sickness, is a full defense. State v. Covington, 125 N. C. 641, 34 S. E. 272.

Assignment Rests with Supervisors.—The assignment of one liable to road duty to any particular road rests with the board of supervisors of the township. State v. Gillikin, 114 N. C. 832, 19 S. E. 152.

Citizen of Another State.—Where an able-bodied male person between eighteen and forty-five years of age resides in this State and pursues a vocation for its income for an indefinite period, he is liable to road duty, under this section, although he is a citizen of another State, to which he intends to return when he finishes his present employment. State v. Johnston, 118 N. C. 1188, 23 S. E. 921.

Effect of Appeal.—Defendants are not guilty of a violation of this section in refusing to work on a public road, after being summoned to do so by the overseer, after they have appealed to the superior court from an order of the county commissioners to lay out the road in question, and have given the bond and in all respects have complied with the statute; for the appeal vacates the order. State. v. Davis, 159 N. C. 455, 74 S. E. 916.

§ 3807. Exemptions from duty to work. — No person between the ages prescribed shall be exempted from working upon the public roads, except such as shall be exempted by the general assembly, or by the board of supervisors of the township, on account of personal infirmity, of which the said board shall be the sole judge. No male student attending any school, college, academy or other institution of learning shall be compelled to perform any road duty or to work on any street or road, or to furnish a person to work in his place, or pay any sum of money in lieu of such work, on the roads or streets in the county, city, town or township in which such institution of learning is located; but this exemption shall not extend to any male person subject to road duty who before becoming a student within the exemption was a bona fide and legally qualified resident of the district: Provided, that all boys in this state under twenty-one years of age are exempt from working the public roads during the time they may be attending school. (Rev., s. 2726; Code, s. 2018; R. C., c. 101, s. 12; 1784, c. 227, ss. 8, 9; 1826, c. 26, ss. 1, 2; 1907, c. 945; 1919, c. 263.)

Exemptions in Private Act Not Repealed.—An exemption from the duty to work roads contained in a private act is not repealed by this section. State v. Womble, 112 N. C. 862, 17 S. E. 491.

Section Hands Not Excused.—Section hands employed on our railroads at regular wages are not thereby excused from working on the public highways of the country. State v. Cauble, 70 N. C. 62.

Justice of the Peace.—Where a general statute exempts a justice of the peace from road duty and a later public-local law relating to a particular county repeals this special privilege, and requires all able-bodied males between certain ages to work the roads a designated number of days a year to pay a certain sum in lieu thereof, a justice of the peace or another—a mail carrier in this case—cannot be claimed to be exempt therefrom when he falls within the general class of persons required to do this public duty, without statutory expressions to that effect. State v. Kelly, 186 N. C. 365, 119 S. E. 755.

§ 3808. Overseers summon to work; notice; amount and conduct of work; substitutions allowed.—The overseer of the road shall, as often as the road shall require, not more than six days in any one year, summon the hands of his section to work on the road, but the said hands shall not be required to work continuously for a longer time at any one time than two days, and at least fifteen days shall intervene between workings, except in case of special damage to the road, resulting from a storm. The notice shall be at least three days before the day named for the work, and shall state the hour and place for the meeting of the hands, and what implement the hand shall bring with him. Every person liable to work on the road who has been so summoned shall appear at the time and place named, and with the implement directed, and shall work on the road under the direction of the overseer until discharged by him: Provided, that no hand shall be required to work for a less time than seven hours nor a longer time than ten hours in any one day.

Any person summoned as aforesaid who shall, by twelve o'clock of the day preceding the one appointed for work on the road, pay to the overseer the sum of two dollars shall be relieved from working on the road for one day. The money thus collected by the overseer shall be by him applied on the working and repairing of the road: Provided, that the amendment hereto fixing the amount to be paid the overseer at two dollars shall not have the effect of any special act applying to any county in the state.

Any person who shall furnish one able-bodied hand as a substitute, with the implement directed, shall be held to have complied with this chapter. (Rev., s. 2721; Code, s. 2019; 1879, c. 82, s. 5; 1880, c. 30, s. 3; 1921, c. 51.)

Editor's Note.—By Public Laws 1921, ch. 51. the optional payment provided for by this section was raised from one dollar a day to two dollars a day. At the same time the clause providing that no special act was repealed by the amendment was added.

Summons Need Not Be in Writing.—A summons to a person liable to road duty need not be in writing. State v. Telfair, 130 N. C. 645, 40 S. E. 976.

Service by Overseer Unnecessary.—The personal service of summons to the work hand means service on him personally, and not service by the overseer personally. State v. Covington, 125 N. C. 641, 34 S. E. 272.

§ 3809. Overseers allot tasks to workers.—The overseer, if requested by a majority of the hands on the road assigned him, may, in his discretion, lay off the road equal portions for the convenience of the laborers, who shall finish his or their part in a time agreed on between him and each person, and on default of any agreeing party, the overseer shall cause such part to be finished by the labor of other persons, and by warrant may recover the value thereof to his own use: Provided, that the time agreed on shall not exceed six days, and that nothing in this section shall be a defense to the overseer, when prosecuted for default concerning the condition of the road. (Rev., s. 2718; Code, s. 2026; R. C., c. 101, s. 13; 1784, c. 227, s. 10.)

Overseer Must Comply with Statute.—The overseer of public roads must comply with the statutory provisions in having the roads worked, causing those summoned to work either two days or one, as the occasion requires, allowing an interval of at least fifteen days, and adjourn only on account of rain, sickness, or other unavoidable cause, and not merely for his own convenience. State v. Clayton, 146 N. C. 599, 60 S. E. 415.

§ 3810. Notice to work on road, how served.—When an overseer shall not be able to personally notify the hands three days before the day appointed for working the road, he shall leave at the house of each hand a written summons, specifying the day on which they are required to attend, the place of the road to be worked, and the kind of tools to be brought or used; and the said written summons, left as aforesaid, shall be deemed sufficient notice to the hands required to be notified; and all penalties recovered by an overseer for default of working on the road shall be applied by him to the repair of the road of which he is or may have been overseer. (Rev., s. 2720; Code, s. 2044; R. C., c. 101, s. 10; 1842, c. 65.)

§ 3811. Penalty for failing to work roads.—If any person liable to work on the road shall fail to attend and work, as provided by law, when summoned so to do, unless he shall have paid the one dollar as provided, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and fined not less than two dollars nor more than five dollars, or imprisoned not exceeding five days, and if any defendant shall be unable to discharge the judgment and costs that may be recovered against him, the costs shall be paid by the county. (Rev., s. 3779; Code, s. 2020; 1885, c. 392; R. C., c. 101, s. 11; 1817, c. 935, s. 2;1825, c. 1287; 1879, c. 82, s. 6.)

Cross References.—See notes to sections 3806 and 3807; as to the criminal responsibility to work roads in general, see 7 Enc. Dig. 61 et seq.; 13 Enc. Dig. 303 et seq.

Jurisdiction of Offense.—Justices of the peace have exclusive original jurisdiction of the offense of failing to work the public roads. State v. Craig, 82 N. C. 668.

The superior court can acquire jurisdiction only by appeal. State v. Clayton, 146 N. C. 599, 60 S. E. 415.

Requisites of Warrant.—The warrant against one for refusing to work on a public road must negative the payment of one dollar (now two dollars) in discharge of the defendant's liability. State v. Neal, 109 N. C. 859, 13 S. E. 784.

The warrant, for the penalty for not working on a road, need not show on its face that the road is in the county in which the warrant issues. Warrants never have a venue. The objection, even if the case had been in a court of record, must have been taken advantage of by a plea in abatement. Duffy v. Averett, 27 N. C. 455.

A warrant issued by a justice of the peace reciting that complaint had been made on oath that defendants had willfully failed to work the public road on which they were due road service, after having had legal warning by the overseer, and commanding the sheriff to apprehend them and bring them before the justice to answer the charge, amended by adding recitals that they had not tendered to the overseer the sum of $1, were sufficiently particular to enable the defendants to know what they were to meet and to avail themselves of the conviction or acquittal as a bar to a further prosecution arising out of the same facts, and it was not necessary to charge that defendants were able-bodied men between 18 and 45. State v. Thomas, 168 N. C. 146, 83 S. E. 561.

Superior Court May Amend Warrant.—The superior courts have the power to amend a warrant issued by a justice of the peace against a person refusing to work the road by inserting the State as plaintiff instead of the overseer. State v. Cauble, 70 N. C. 62.

When Proceedings Defective.—Proceedings were fatally defective in that they failed to set forth in what county the offense was committed; that the person summoning the defendant was overseer of that particular road; that the road was not sufficiently described; that the defendant was liable to work the public roads and had been assigned to that one, and that they did not negative the fact that defendant had paid the sum. State v. Pool, 106 N. C. 698, 10 S. E. 1033. See, also, State v. Yoder, 132 N. C. 1111, 44 S. E. 689.

Overseer May Recover Penalty.—The overseer of a road may recover in his own name the penalty for hands not working on the public road. He is not bound nor required to sue "for himself and the county," since the fine is to be applied by the overseer to the keeping up of the road. Duffy v. Averitt, 27 N. C. 455.

Burden of Proof.—Under an indictment for failure to work the public roads, where there is a controversy as to an adjournment by the overseer, the burden is on the State to show the overseer therein exercised a sound and reasonable discretion. State v. Clayton, 146 N. C. 599, 60 S. E. 415.

One Summoned Cannot Attack Judgment of Commissioners.—In an indictment against a person for failure to work a public road, the order of the county commissioners laying out said road is competent evidence to show the establishment of such road, and such judgment cannot be collaterally attached. State v. Joyce, 121 N. C. 610, 28 S. E. 366.

Where Party Does Not Use Road.—The fact that a defendant, in a prosecution for failure to work the public road, had no occasion to use the road to which he was assigned to duty is no defense. State v. Gillikin, 114 N. C. 832, 19 S. E. 152.

When Summoned for Three Days.—The fact that a notice summoned accused to work on a highway for three days consecutively was not a defense to a criminal prosecution for failure to work at all; accused having made no objection to the sufficiency of the notice, which was good for two days, and having been fined only for two days' default. State v. Yoder, 132 N. C.. 1111, 44 S. E. 689.

When Previously Assigned to Work Another Highway.—It is no defense to a prosecution for a refusal to work on a highway that accused has been previously assigned to another highway, the last assignment cancelling the first. State v. Yoder, 132 N. C. 1111, 44 S. E. 689.

When Appointed to Work Non-existent Road.—Any inhabitant assigned to work on a public road, when sued for the penalty incurred for refusing to work on such road, and the overseer indicted for not having the road in order, may show that in fact there is no such public road. Baker v. Wilson, 25 N. C. 168.

Excuse That Repair Duty of Another.—A hand who has been regularly assigned to work a certain road, and who has been properly summoned by the overseer thereof to work said road, cannot excuse himself from aiding to repair a bridge over a ditch across the road, upon the ground that it is the duty of the person who cut the ditch to make a bridge over it, and keep the same in repair. State v. James, 74 N. C. 393.

Part 2. Convict Labor

§ 3812. Application for convicts.—Any county or township or good roads district that desires to use convict labor in the construction or improvement of its highways shall apply first to the geological and economic survey to lay out and make plans for said work or to approve plans already made. The said county, township or good roads district shall then apply to the board or state prison directors for the number of convicts desired for the work, this number in no case to be less than forty. (Ex. Sess. 1913, c. 37, ss. 1, 2.)

As to convicts generally and the power to regulate their labor, see 3 Enc. Dig. 497 et seq.; 13 Enc. Dig. 468 et seq.

Editor's Note.—This and §§ 3813-3815 are superseded by §§ 3846(1) et seq.

§ 3813. Duty of directors of state prison.—The board of directors, as soon as possible after the receipt of the application and the approval of the council of state, shall furnish the labor requested and proceed to construct or improve the highway under the direction of the state geological and economic survey. All applications from counties, townships or good roads districts for convict labor shall be honored in turn, according to the date of their receipt, except that no county, township or good roads district may use at any time more than one hundred convicts if an application from another county is pending and no labor is available for it. (Ex. Sess. 1913, c. 37, ss. 3, 4.)

§ 3814. Compensation paid to state; how expense divided. — Counties, townships, or good roads districts using convict labor shall pay to the state therefor the sum of not less than one dollar per day for each laborer; shall furnish quarters, to be approved by the board of prison directors, for prisoners and employees; it shall also provide pure drinking water and necessary firewood for camp use, and shall furnish overseers to direct the work. All other expenses of every kind whatever shall be borne by the board of prison directors. (Ex. Sess. 1913, c. 37, s. 5.)

§ 3815. Certain existing contracts not affected.—This article shall not interfere with or apply to the agreements now existing and in force between the authorized authorities of the state and the Elkin and Alleghany railroad company, the Statesville Air Line railroad company, the public road in Madison county, under chapter four hundred and sixty-four, public-local laws of one thousand nine hundred and thirteen; the Watauga and Yadkin Valley railroad company and the Hickorynut Gap dirt road now being constructed by the state and leading across the Blue Ridge mountains through the county of Henderson. Should the said railroad companies at any time fail to carry out the provisions of the agreement existing between them and the authorities of the state, then the state shall be under no further obligation to furnish convict labor, and may at once withdraw such labor from the railroad company failing to carry out its agreement. (Ex. Sess. 1913, c. 37, s. 6.)

§ 3816. Convicts on state farm to be reserved.—The state farm or penitentiary authorities or council of state shall at all times reserve a sufficient number of convicts to properly cultivate and conduct the state farm. (Ex. Sess. 1913, c. 37, s. 7.)

Part 3. Material

§ 3817. Appropriation of earth and timber for roads.—Overseers may lawfully cut poles and other necessary timber, for repairing and making bridges and causeways. And whenever earth shall be needed on a public road, and it cannot be conveniently procured on either side of the causeway, the overseer may lawfully take the earth from any adjoining land. (Rev., s. 2719; Code, s. 2027; R. C., c. 101, s. 18; 1785, c. 256, s. 1; 1818, c. 976, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—This section would seem to be superseded by §§ 3846(1) et seq.

Authority Given.—This section gives the overseer of a road, (acting in good faith) power to cut poles, etc., on any land adjoining his section, and he is not confined to the land immediately adjoining the spot where the work is to be done. Collins v. Creecy, 53 N. C. 333.

§ 3818. Compensation for earth and timber taken for roads.—The owner of any land or timber used for building or repairing public roads may file his petition before the board of commissioners of the county wherein the injury is done; and, for damages sustained thereby, the board shall make the petitioner adequate compensation: Provided, that this and the preceding section shall not apply to the lands adjoining or contiguous to the causeway, or great road leading across Eagel's island to Wilmington. (Rev., s. 2728; Code s. 2028; R. C., c. 101, s. 16; 1818, c. 976, s. 2.)

Art. 12. Ferries and Toll-Bridges

Part 1. General Provisions

§ 3819. Commissioners may establish toll-bridges.—Whenever, from the rapidity or width of any stream, it may be too burdensome to build and keep up a bridge across the same, at the expense of those who are taxable for that purpose, the board of commissioners of the county, or counties, chargeable therewith may jointly and severally (as the case may be) contract for the building thereof, by allowing the builder to take tolls, at such rate and for such time, on all persons, horses, carriages and other things passing over the bridge, as may be agreed on between the board of commissioners and the builder; which tolls shall be common to all persons. And such bridges shall be built in the manner the board or boards may direct, and shall be kept in good repair by the builder, his heirs and assigns, during the time the tolls are to be enjoyed. (Rev., s. 2706; Code, s. 2045; R. C., c. 101, s. 26; 1784, c. 227, s. 7; 1817, c. 939, s. 2; 1817, c. 940, s. 3.)

Editor's Note.—The State Highway Commission, under § 3846(17), has succeeded to all the rights and duties of the County Commissioners as to ferries and toll bridges.

§ 3820. Condemnation of ferry sites.—Wherever a public ferry has been or may hereafter be established, the board of county commissioners of the county in which any such ferry is or may be located shall have power to condemn land, not exceeding one acre for each public ferry, adjacent or convenient to said ferry, upon which to erect necessary buildings for the use and convenience of ferrymen and the traveling public under the same rules and regulations as are provided by law for condemning land for public roads; and upon the payment or offer of payment, to the owner of said land, of the amount awarded to him therefor, title to the same shall vest in the county in which said land is situate. Nothing in this section shall be construed to deprive the owner of land so condemned of the right of appeal to the superior court. (Rev., s. 2691; 1889, c. 447.)

As to ferries generally, see 6 Enc. Dig. 459 et seq.

§ 3821. Commissioners to regulate ferriage.—The board of commissioners of each county shall, once a year, or oftener if necessary, at the meeting to be held next after the first day of January, rate the prices of such ferries as shall be kept within their respective counties; and ferries lying between two counties shall be rated at a joint meeting of the commissioners of the two counties, to be held at such time and place as may be agreed upon by the commissioners of the two counties, and any ferry keeper who shall ask, demand, or receive a greater price for ferriage than shall be rated by the board or boards of commissioners shall forfeit and pay five dollars for every offense to the party aggrieved. Every person who owns a public ferry, and refuses to keep it up at the rates allowed by the board, shall for every such offense forfeit five dollars. (Rev., s. 2707; 1907, c. 221, s. 1; Code, s. 2046; R. C., c. 101, s. 27; 1779, c. 160, s. 2.)

Cited in Branch v. Wilmington, etc., R. Co., 77 N. C. 347, 349.

§ 3821(a). State highway commission to fix charges.—The state highway commission is directed, authorized, and empowered to fix and determine the charges to be made by all ferries and toll bridges connecting any state highway within the state of North Carolina, which said charges shall be uniform for the same service rendered. (Ex. Sess. 1921, c. 86, s. 1.)

§ 3821(b). Powers granted state highway commission.—The state highway commission is vested with all the rights, powers and authorities granted the corporation commission in the hearing and fixing of rates for any purposes now vested in it by law. (Ex. Sess. 1921, c. 86, s. 2.)

§ 3821(c). Existing rights of appeal conferred.—All rights given any firm, person or corporation in any hearing before the corporation commission in the fixing of rates by way of appeal shall exist in all cases of charges fixed by the state highway commission under and by virtue of this law. (Ex. Sess. 1921, c. 86, s. 3.)

§ 3821(d). Making of excessive charges a misdemeanor; punishment.—Any person, firm or corporation who shall charge any sum greater than the amount fixed by the state highway commission for crossing any ferry or toll bridge connecting any state highway within the state of North Carolina, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction shall be fined not exceeding the sum of one hundred dollars or imprisoned not exceeding six months, or both in the discretion of the court. (Ex. Sess. 1921, c. 86, s. 4.)

§ 3822. Owner of ferry may substitute toll-bridge.—In all cases where the proprietor of a ferry shall prefer building a good and substantial bridge over any water-course instead of keeping a ferry, he may do so; and may claim and hold such bridge under the same rights, and in the same manner, by which the ferry is claimed and held, and under the same rules and regulations, restrictions and penalties as other toll-bridges: Provided, that no more toll shall be demanded for passing any such bridge than is granted by law for the ferriage, unless by agreement with the board of commissioners: Provided further, that in all such bridges the proprietor shall erect a draw where the free navigation of the stream may require it. (Rev., s. 2708; Code, s. 2047; R. C., c. 101, s. 28; 1806, c. 706.)

Duty of Toll-Bridge Owner. — This section requires the owner of a toll-bridge, not only to erect and keep in good repair a draw sufficient for the purposes of a free navigation of the stream, but also to provide the means of raising it, and to have it raised whenever steamboats and other vessels are passing it. Davis v. Jerkins, 50 N. C. 291.

§ 3823. Owners of toll-bridges and ferries to give bond; actions on bond.—The board of commissioners of each county shall compel every person that may own a toll-bridge, or keep a public ferry, within the county, to give bond with good surety in the sum of one thousand dollars, payable to the state of North Carolina, conditioned that he will constantly keep such bridge in good repair, or, as the case may be, provide and keep good and sufficient boats, or other proper craft, always to be well attended, for the passing of travelers of other persons, their horses, carriages and effects, and will indemnify and save harmless every person who may be endamaged by reason of any default in his undertaking. And if any person shall receive damage, because such ferrymen or keeper of a toll-bridge shall not have complied with the conditions of his bond, he may bring suit thereon in the name of the state, and recover his damages. (Rev., s. 2709; Code, s. 2048; R. C., c. 101, s. 29; 1784, c. 227, s. 15,)

As to bonds generally, see section 324 et seq.

§ 3824. Right of action of person detained at ferry.—If any person shall be detained at any public ferry by reason of the ferrymen not having sufficient boats or other proper crafts at hand, or by his neglecting to do his duty in any other respect, he may recover before a justice of the peace, against such ferryman, the sum of ten dollars, as a penalty for every such default or neglect. (Rev., s. 2709; Code, s. 2448; R. C., c. 101, s. 29; R. S., c. 101, s. 29.)

§ 3825. Penalty on unauthorized ferry.—If any unauthorized person shall pretend to keep a ferry or to transport for pay any person or his effects, within five miles of any ferry on the same river or water which theretofore may have been appointed, he shall forfeit and pay two dollars for every such offense, to the nearest ferryman: Provided, that any person who may contract for carrying the mail may keep a boat for the sole purpose of transporting the same, and such passengers as may travel in the coach therewith, across any ferry; but such contractor shall not transport across such ferry any other passengers than such as travel by the coach. (Rev., s. 2710; Code, s. 2049; R. C., c. 101, s. 30; 1764, c. 72, s. 1; 1787, c. 273; 1883, c. 381.)

Editor's Note.—The purpose of the amendment in 1923, Acts 1923, c. 133, was to throw added safeguards around the lives of persons transported by ferries. A violation of this section is a misdemeanor and would probably affect the question of negligence in an action for damages to person or property caused thereby. See 1 N. C. Law Rev. 300.

How Distance Measured.—The distance of five miles prescribed in this section in reference to ferries, is five miles in a direct straight line from the ferry first established. Toll-Bridge Company v. Flowers, 110 N. C. 381, 14 S. E. 918.

Common Law Rule.—The right of a ferryman to his toll, is by the common law, and every subtraction from his profits, by carrying his customers over the same stream, whether for pay or not, is an injury for which he may recover damages. Taylor v. Wilmington etc., Railroad Company, 49 N. C. 277.

Same—Extension of Remedy.—This section recognizes the common law remedy, and further gives a penalty of two dollars for every transportation of passengers, etc., within five miles of an established ferry, if done for pay. Taylor v. Wilmington, etc., Railroad Company, 49 N. C. 277.

Measure of Damages.—It is the diminution in the number of customers who would use the ferry, and the consequent reduction of tolls, which is the measure of damages recoverable against such wrongdoer. Broadnax v. Baker, 94 N. C. 675.

When Steam Used to Carry Freight.—Where the plaintiff was granted a ferry franchise from two points, opposite each other, on a large stream, he could not enjoin and recover damages from a party who used the stream as a highway in conveying freight from points up the river, although one of these points was within the statutory distance of five miles. Broadnax v. Baker, 94 N. C. 675.

When Bridge Burned by Military.—A railroad company did not incur the penalties imposed by this section, by transporting its passengers and freights in boats, across the Roanoke River, during the time that there was no bridge at that point, in consequence of its having been burned by the military. Pugh v. Raleigh, etc., R. Co., 61 N. C. 359.

§ 3825(a). Safeguarding transportation of life; guard chains or gates.—Each and every person, firm or corporation, owning or operating a public ferry upon any sound, bay, river, creek or other stream shall have securely affixed and attached thereto, at each end of the same, a detachable steel or iron chain, or in lieu thereof a steel or iron gate, and so affixed and arranged that the same shall be closed or fastened across the opposite end from the approach, whenever any motor vehicle, buggy, cart, wagon, or other conveyance shall be driven upon or shall enter upon the same; and shall be securely fastened or closed at each end of the ferry after such motor vehicle, buggy, cart, wagon, or other conveyance shall have been driven or shall have entered upon the same. And the said gates or chains shall remain closed or fastened, at each end, until the voyage across the stream upon which said ferry is operated shall have been completed. (1923, c. 133, s. 1.)

§ 3825(b). Weight and type of chain gate.—The board of county commissioners of every county in which any ferry is operated shall fix and determine a standard weight or size of chain, and a standard size, type, or character of gate, for use by said ferry, leaving it optional with the said owner or operator the use of chains or gates. (1923, c. 133, s. 2.)

§ 3825(c). Violation of two preceding sections a misdemeanor.—Any person, firm or corporation violating any of the provisions of this law shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. (1923, c. 133, s. 3.)

§ 3825(d). State highway commission to establish and maintain ferries.—The State Highway Commission is vested with authority to provide for the establishment and maintenance of ferries connecting the parts of the State Highway System, whenever in its discretion the public good may so require, and to prescribe and collect such tolls therefor as may, in the discretion of the Commission, be expedient.

To accomplish the purpose of this section said State Highway Commission is authorized to acquire, own, lease, charter or otherwise control all necessary vessels, boats, terminals or other facilities required for the operation of such ferries or to enter into contracts with persons, firms or corporations for the operation thereof and to pay therefor such reasonable sums as may in the opinion of said Commission represent the fair value of the public service rendered. (1927, c. 223.)

Part 2. County-line Toll-bridges and Ferries

§ 3826. Counties may purchase ferries or toll-bridges on county-line streams; division of cost.—Wherever in this state there are now operated toll-bridges or ferries with causeways, roads, and bridges leading to the same, which lie partly within one county and partly within another county, the boards of commissioners of the respective counties are authorized to purchase all real and personal property, rights and franchises incident and necessary to the said toll-bridges or ferries, including any causeways, roads, and bridges leading thereto. The proportion of the purchase price to be paid by the said counties shall be determined and agreed upon at a joint meeting of the board of commissioners of said counties, and the amount of said purchase price so agreed upon and determined shall be paid by the respective counties to the owners of the same by proper warrant of the respective counties. (1919, c. 138, s. 1; Ex. Sess. 1920, c. 15.)

See note under § 3819.

Editor's Note.—This section was amended in 1920, Public Laws 1920, Ex. Sess., ch. 15, so as to include toll-bridges. Formerly it was only applicable to ferries.

§ 3827. Right of eminent domain conferred.—If the said counties and the owners of the property the purchase of which is authorized in the preceding section cannot agree upon the purchase price, then the boards of commissioners of said counties are authorized, should they deem it necessary and for the best interests of the counties, to condemn the same, and for that purpose they are empowered to institute condemnation proceedings in either county in which said property, toll-bridge, ferry, causeway, road, or bridges, or any part of same, lie, and conduct the same in accordance with the chapter entitled Eminent Domain in the Consolidated Statutes. (1919, c. 138, s. 4; Ex. Sess. 1920, c. 15.)

As to eminent domain generally, see section 1705 et seq.

Editor's Note.—This section was reenacted in 1920, Public Laws 1920, Ex. Sess. ch. 15 and toll-bridges included within its terms.

§ 3828. Joint operation and maintenance; joint committee. — After the purchase or condemnation aforesaid, the said toll-bridge or ferry, with the causeways, roads, and bridges leading to the same, shall become a part of the public highway and roads of said counties, and it shall be the duty of the said commissioners to operate and maintain the same jointly as a part of such public highways and roads, and the expense of maintenance, improvement, and operation of the said property jointly acquired shall be borne by the said counties upon such terms and in such proportions as shall be agreed upon by the board of commissioners of the same in joint meeting. The said boards of commissioners may vest the control and management of the said ferry and roads, causeways, and bridges, and equipment used in connection therewith, in a committee or committees from said boards, to be selected and determined by said boards in meeting assembled, and said commissioners are authorized to employ agents and servants, provide for the operation and to prescribe reasonable rules and regulations in reference to use and operation of said ferry, toll-bridges, roads, causeways, bridges, and the property and equipment used in connection therewith. (1919, c. 138, s. 3; Ex. Sess. 1920, c. 15.)

Editor's Note.—This section was reenacted in 1920, Public Laws 1920, Ex. Sess., ch. 15, and toll-bridges included within its terms.

§ 3829. Expenses of equipment and maintenance; bond issue.—The said boards of commissioners, after the purchase or condemnation of the toll-bridges, ferries and roads, causeways, and bridges as aforesaid, shall provide all necessary equipment for the toll-bridge or ferry and to improve and repair the causeways, roads, and bridges leading to the same, and thereafter shall keep the same in good condition to the end that the best possible service may be rendered to the public. In order to raise funds for the purchase or condemnation of said toll-bridges, ferries, roads, causeways, bridges, rights, and property, and for the improvement and repair of the causeways, roads, and bridges, and the purchase of the necessary equipment for said toll-bridge, ferry, or ferries, the said boards of commissioners of the respective counties are hereby authorized and empowered to have prepared and issued at such time or times and in such amounts as they deem best, bonds of their respective counties to an amount not exceeding the cost of the toll-bridges, ferries and other property so acquired, the repair and improvement of same, and the purchase of necessary equipment, said bonds to draw interest at such rate as may be determined by said respective counties, to be evidenced by coupons attached, payable semiannually, and to be in such form and tenor and transferable in such way, and the principal thereof payable at such time or times, not exceeding forty years from the date thereof, and at such places as such respective boards may determine: Provided, that none of such bonds shall be disposed of either by sale, exchange, hypothecation, or otherwise, for a less price than their face value. (1919, c. 138, s. 4; Ex. Sess. 1920, c. 15.)

Editor's Note.—This section was amended in 1920, so as to include toll-bridges.

§ 3830. Tax for interest and sinking fund. — The commissioners of the respective counties, in order to provide for the payment of the bonds to be issued hereunder and interest thereon, shall compute and levy each year at the time of levying other county taxes a sufficient tax upon all real and personal property in their respective counties to pay the interest on the said bonds, and shall also levy a sufficient tax to create a sinking fund to provide for the payment of said bonds at maturity. Such taxes shall be levied and collected annually and under the same laws and regulations as shall be in force for levying and collecting other county taxes. (1919, c. 138, s. 5; Ex. Sess. 1920, c. 15.)

Editor's Note.—After the addition of toll-bridge to the foregoing sections this section was reenacted in toto in 1920, so as to apply to toll-bridges also.

§ 3831. Toll rates; basis of adjustment. — In order to defray the expense of operating, improving and maintaining said toll-bridge or bridges, ferry or ferries, causeways, roads, and bridges and all property used in connection therewith, the boards of commissioners of the said respective counties shall prescribe passage rates from time to time and authorize such tolls for the use of said toll-bridge or bridges, ferry or ferries, roads, causeways, and bridges, and other equipment used in connection therewith, in their discretion, as may be reasonable, just, and proper to provide the operating expenses and reasonable upkeep of the said property, but said boards shall not consider the cost of the same or the amount expended in the first instance in improving, repairing and purchasing the necessary equipment as aforesaid in fixing the amount of toll to be charged and paid by the public for the use thereof: Provided, such rates, charges, or tools shall be uniform on all citizens alike. (1919, c. 138, s. 6; Ex. Sess. 1920, c. 15.)

Editor's Note.—This section was amended by Public Laws 1920, Ex. Sess., ch. 15 so as to include toll-bridges.

§ 3832. Tax to supplement tolls.—If the tolls collected under the last section shall not be sufficient to pay the expenses of operating, repairing, and maintaining such property, the said boards of commissioners of such respective counties are authorized to levy a tax upon the real and personal property of their respective counties sufficient to pay the proportionate loss occasioned by the operation as aforesaid. Said tax shall be levied at the same time as other taxes are levied and shall be collected at the same time and in the same manner as other county taxes; and if it shall become necessary to pay said loss for any one year or part thereof from the general fund of the counties, or in the event it becomes necessary to borrow money to provide for said loss, the said boards of commissioners may, from taxes so collected in any succeeding year, reimburse the general fund of their counties to the extent of the amount so advanced or the amount so borrowed to provide for said deficit; and may provide a contingent fund to meet such event. (1919, c. 138, s. 7; Ex. Sess. 1920, c. 15.)

Editor's Note. — The section was reenacted in toto in 1920, so as to make its provisions applicable to toll-bridges.

§ 3833. Compensation of committee for toll-bridge or ferry control.—If the boards of commissioners should elect to place the control, operation, and management of said toll-bridges, ferries and property used in connection therewith, and the road, causeway, and bridges, in a committee or committees from the joint bodies, as is provided above, said committee or committees shall receive the same pay and mileage for holding meetings in connection with all necessary business of said operation and management as is allowed by law to the members of the boards of commissioners of said respective counties for attending meetings of the board in said respective counties. (1919, c. 138, s. 8; Ex. Sess. 1920, c. 15.)

Editor's Note.—This section was amended by Public Laws 1920, Ex. Sess., ch. 15, so as to include toll-bridges.

§ 3834. When counties may sell or lease ferries or toll-bridges.—If the operation and management of the toll-bridges, ferries and property provided for hereunder, and the roads, causeways, and bridges connected therewith, as provided in this article, shall prove too costly to said counties or shall fail to give adequate and satisfactory service to the general public, or if the public interests would be better subserved by a sale, the boards of commissioners of the respective counties are authorized to sell said toll-bridges, ferries and property upon such terms as they see fit, or the said boards of commissioners may rent and lease the same to such person, firm, or corporation as they may see fit, and subject to such rules and regulations as they may prescribe: Provided, however, that in the event of a sale or lease as aforesaid, the purchase price or lease price, as the case may be, shall be divided between the respective counties in proportion to the price paid in the first instance by the respective counties for such toll-bridges, ferries and property. (1919, c. 138, s. 9; Ex. Sess. 1920, c. 15.)

Editor's Note.—This section was amended in 1920, and toll-bridges added.

Art. 13. Cartways, Church Roads, and the Like

§ 3835. Special proceeding for establishment, alteration or discontinuance of cartways, etc.; petition; appeal. — The establishment, alteration, or discontinuance of any cartway, church road, mill road, or like easement, for the benefit of any person, firm, association, or corporation, over the lands of another, shall be determined by a special proceeding instituted before the Clerk of the Superior Court in the county where the property affected is situate. Such special proceeding shall be commenced by a petition filed with said Clerk and the service of a copy thereof on the person or persons whose property will be affected thereby. From any final order or judgment in said special proceeding, any interested party may appeal to the Superior Court for trial de novo and the procedure established under chapter thirty-three, entitled "Eminent Domain," shall be followed in the conduct of such special proceeding insofar as the same is applicable and in harmony with the provisions of this section. (Rev., s. 2683; Code, s. 2023, 1879, c. 82, s. 9; 1931, c. 448.)

Editor's Note.—Prior to the Act of 1931 the board of supervisors had authority to lay out and discontinue cartways.

§ 3836. Cartways, tramways, etc., laid out; procedure.—If any person, firm, association, or corporation shall be engaged in the cultivation of any land or the cutting and removing of any standing timber, or the working of any quarries, mines, or minerals, or the operating of any industrial or manufacturing plants, or taking action preparatory to the operation of any such enterprises, to which there is leading no public road or other adequate means of transportation affording necessary and proper means of ingress thereto and egress therefrom, such person, firm, association, or corporation may institute a special proceeding as set out in the preceding section and if it shall be made to appear to the Court necessary, reasonable and just that such person shall have a private way to a public road or watercourse or railroad over the lands of other persons, the Court shall appoint a jury of view of three disinterested freeholders to view the premises and lay of a cartway, tramway, or railway of not less than fourteen feet in width, or cableways, chutes, and flumes, and assess the damages the owner or owners of the land crossed may sustain thereby, and make report of their findings in writings to the Clerk of the Superior Court. Exceptions to said report may be filed by any interested party and such exceptions shall be heard and determined by the Clerk of the Superior Court. The Clerk of the Superior Court may affirm or modify said report, or set the same aside and order a new jury of view. All damages assessed by a judgment of the Clerk, together with the cost of the proceeding, shall be paid in to the Clerk's office before the petitioners shall acquire any rights under said proceeding. (Rev., s. 2686; Code, s. 2056; 1917, c. 282, s. 1; 1917, c. 187, s. 1; 1909, c. 364, s. 1; 1903, c. 102; 1887, c. 46; R. C., c. 101, s. 37; 1798, c. 508, s. 1; 1822, c. 1139, s. 1; 1879, c. 258; 1921, c. 135; Ex. Sess. 1921, c. 73; 1929, c. 197, s. 1; 1931, c. 448.)

Proceedings Not Confined to Designated Meetings.—See note to section 3752.

As to private roads generally, see 10 Enc. Dig. 507 et seq.; 15 Enc. Dig. 264.

Editor's Note.—This section was amended by Public Laws 1921, ch. 135 so as to include industrial and manufacturing plants, and the right to cross canals and streams was given. At the same time the words, "affording necessary and proper means of ingress thereto and egress therefrom" were added. Later in 1921, Public Laws Ex. Sess. ch. 73, this section was again amended to provide for new cartways when the old ones had become unreasonably inconvenient.

The Act of 1931 made material changes in the section. See note to § 3835.

Section Strictly Construed.—This section is in derogation of the rights of landowners, and must be strictly construed. Warlick v. Lowman, 103 N. C. 122, 9 S. E. 458.

Section Must Be Followed.—The right to establish cartways, tramways, etc., over the lands of another, when no such right arises by implication of law, is regulated in this State by statute, and one who desires to cross the lands of another for the purpose of removing timber, or for other purposes, must follow the statute or purchase the right. Roper Lumber Co. v. Richmond Cedar Works, 158 N. C. 161, 73 S. E. 902.

Tract Devised without Egress to Public Road.—Where a petition for a "way of necessity" over the lands of another is filed in the Superior Court, and the petition alleges that the petitioner was devised a tract of land without any way of egress to a public road except over the land of another devisee of the testator, and there is no allegation that such a way over the land of the other devisee had theretofore existed, and there is no stipulation in the devise for a way of ingress and egress to a given point, the petitioner's exclusive remedy is under the provisions of this and the previous section, and the proceedings in the Superior Court is properly nonsuited. White v. Coghill, 201 N. C. 421, 160 S. E. 472.

Cartway Quasi-Public Road.—Cartways are regarded as quasi-public roads, and the condemnation of private property for such a use has been sustained upon that ground as a valid exercise of the power of eminent domain. Cook v. Vickers, 141 N. C. 101, 53 S. E. 740.

Undedicated Neighborhood Road Not a Public Road.—A neighborhood road not dedicated to the public, but used by the public under permission or license of the owner of the land, is not a public road within the meaning of this section. Collins v. Patterson, 119 N. C. 602, 26 S. E. 154.

Requisites for Cartways.—The fact that there is no public road leading to the premises upon which a petitioner for a cart-way resides, and that such way will be more convenient to him, will not warrant its establishment; it must be made to appear further that the petitioner has no other way of egress and ingress, and that it is necessary, reasonable and just. Burwell v. Sneed, 104 N. C. 118, 10 S. E. 152.

A cart-way will not be granted, under this section as a mere matter of convenience, but only when it is necessary, reasonable and just that the petitioner should have it. Warlick v. Lowman, 103 N. C. 122, 9 S. E. 458.

Where the applicant for a cartway over the land of another has already one or more convenient rights of way over the land of another to the public road or other public place to which he seeks access, his application shall be rejected, and if an order for a cartway has been previously obtained, the cartway will be discontinued on the petition of the owner of the land. Plimmons v. Frisby, 60 N. C. 200. See, also, Burgwyns v. Lockhart, 60 N. C. 264.

"Necessary, Reasonable and Just." — For the owner of lands, cultivating the same, to obtain a way of necessity over the lands of another to a public road, he must show that such way is "necessary, reasonable and just," under the provisions of this section; and where it appears, without sufficient denial, that there is a public road leading to the cultivated lands, the petition is properly dismissed. Rhodes v. Shelton, 187 N. C. 716, 122 S. E. 761.

Special Local Law Applicable. — While, under the provisions of our general statute, this section, a petitioner who already has an outlet from his lands to a public road, reasonably sufficient for the purpose, is not allowed to have an additional or different cartway established merely because a shorter and better route can be shown, it may be otherwise when the petitioner has proceeded under the provisions of a special local law applicable to a certain county allowing it under certain conditions, the provisions of the local law controlling those of the general statute on the subject. Farmer v. Bright, 183 N. C. 655, 112 S. E. 420.

Sufficiency of Existing Cartway Matter for Jury.—Where there is evidence tending to show that the plaintiffs' lands are situated off of a public highway, with a cartway thereto of great inconvenience, and the board of road supervisors have ordered that a proposed way, more convenient and shorter in distance be laid off, and have held that such way is necessary, reasonable and just, and an appeal has been taken by the owners of the land from this order, and the owners of the lands condemned have further appealed to the superior court, an issue arises for the determination of the jury as to whether sufficient reasons exist for the proposed way, and a judgment of the lower court that the plaintiffs are not entitled to it as a matter of law, is reversible error. Brown v. Mobley, 192 N. C. 470, 135 S. E. 304.

Road Impassable.—Where one's lands are connected with the public road, but by an impassable tract, he is entitled to a cart-way over the lands of another. Mayo v. Thigpen, 107 N. C. 63, 11 S. E. 1052.

Opinion of Witnesses.—Upon the trial of an issue whether a proposed cart-way was necessary and reasonable, the opinions of witnesses are not competent, the question not being one of science, peculiar skill or professional knowledge. Burwell v. Sneed, 104 N. C. 118, 10 S. E. 152.

Cartway May Be Laid out for One Person.—A cartway may be awarded over the lands of another in favor of an individual citizen, when the necessity for it exists, in a manner that is reasonable and just, by proper proceedings upon petition to the township board of supervisors. Ford v. Manning, 152 N. C. 151, 67 S. E. 325.

Lumber Company Cannot Condemn Tramway.—A lumber company cannot condemn land for a tramway solely for carrying its own timber, but, at most, it can obtain only a temporary easement, ex-necessitate, under this section, and this only by a strict compliance with the statute. Leigh v. Garysburg Mfg. Co., 132 N. C. 167, 43 S. E. 632.

This section is invalid, so far as it authorizes the construction of railways over the lands of others for the exclusive use of the owner of the timber, because authorizing the taking of private property for a use which is not public, though the removal of the timber by means of such railways would aid in the development of the natural resources of the state. Cozard v. Kanawha Hardwood Co., 139 N. C. 283, 51 S. E. 932.

Failure to Establish Cartway.—The failure to establish a cartway according to law is a matter of defense to be pleaded in the trial of an indictment for breaking down a gate across it. State v. Combs, 120 N. C. 607, 27 S. E. 30.

Inference of Public Road Rebutted by Nonuser.—The inference from evidence tending to show that a way over and through a man's land is a public road may be rebutted by evidence of nonuser for more than twenty years. Burgwyn v. Lockhart, 60 N. C. 264.

Private Easement.—A mere right of way which a deed gives the grantee over the grantor's remaining lands is not a "cartway," for obstruction of which indictment will lie under section 3789. State v. Haynie, 169 N. C. 277, 84 S. E. 385. See, also, State v. Lance, 175 N. C. 773, 94 S. E. 721.

Permissive Cartway.—Where an owner of land not reached by any public road for 37 years used a road across defendant's land without exercising any ownership or possession except passing back and forth, and occasionally cutting out a tree or other obstruction, the way was neither a public highway nor a private cartway. State v. Norris, 174 N. C. 808, 93 S. E. 950.

Termini Must Be Fixed.—In ordering the laying out of a cartway, it is the duty of the court, in its judgment, to fix both the termini of such way. Burden v. Harman, 52 N. C. 354.

Omission of Justices' Names from Record.—Where the record of an order made in a County Court for laying out a cartway recited—"seven justice being present,"—without giving their names it was held that such record was fatally defective, and the order void. Link v. Brooks, 61 N. C. 499.

When Appeal May Be Taken.—The action of township supervisors in ordering the establishment of a cartway is such a final determination of the matter as will support an appeal to the Board of Commissioners, and thence through the superior to the Supreme Court, although the order may not have been executed. Warlick v. Lowman, 101 N. C. 548, 8 S. E. 120.

How Appeal Heard.—Upon such appeal to the Board of Commissioners, they should have considered the whole matter de novo upon the merits, and so likewise the Superior Court, upon appeal to it. Warlick v. Lowman, 101 N. C. 548, 8 S. E. 120.

Cited in Pool v. Trexler, 76 N. C. 297.

§ 3837. Alteration or abandonment of cartways, etc., in same manner.—Cartways or other ways established under this article or heretofore established, may be altered, changed, or abandoned in like manner as herein provided for their establishment upon petition instituted by any interested party: Provided, that all cartways, tramways, or railways established for the removal of timber shall automatically terminate at the end of a period of five years, unless a greater time is set forth in the petition and the judgment establishing the same. (Rev., s. 2694; Code, s. 2057; 1887, c. 46, s. 2; R. C., c. 101, s. 38; 1798, c. 508, ss. 1, 2, 3; 1834, c. 16, s. 1; 1887, c. 266; 1931, c. 448.)

Editor's Note.—The Act of 1931 inserted this section in place of the former one. See note to § 3835.

When Petitioner Acquires Servient Tract.—A petitioner who has acquired a right, by order of the court, to have a cart-way over the land of another, and who has afterwards obtained title to the servient tenement, has a right to obstruct and discontinue such cart-way. Jacocks v. Newby, 49 N. C. 266.

§ 3838. Church roads laid out on petition; procedure.—Necessary roads leading to any church or other place of public worship may be established in the same manner as set forth in the preceding sections of this article upon petition of the duly constituted officials of such church. (Rev., ss. 2687, 2689; Code, ss. 2062, 2064; 1872-3, c. 189, ss. 1-3, 5; 1931, c. 448.)

Editor's Note.—The Act of 1931 made material changes in this section. Formerly the proceedings were before the board of supervisors.

§ 3838 (a). Proceeding for obtaining cartway over railroad.—Wherever any railroad line track and right of way shall lie between any body of merchantable timber or quarry or other kind or class of heavy property requiring machinery for transportation and any body of navigable water over which such property could be floated or shipped, and the owner of such timber or property shall desire to transport such property to water for purpose of floating or shipping, such property owner shall have the right to file petition before the Corporation Commission for a right to cross such railroad with any other railroad track or tramway. The procedure for the hearing of the petition shall be same as other proceedings of the Commission. The Commission shall hear the facts and if it be found reasonably necessary that the railroad track and right of way shall be crossed by a temporary railroad track the Commission shall so order and prescribe the payment of the expense and the cost. (1931, c. 448.)

§ 3838(b). Neighborhood public roads.—All those portions of the public road system of the state which have not been taken over and placed under maintenance or which have been abandoned by the state highway commission, but which remain open and in general used by the public, and all those roads that have been laid out, constructed, or reconstructed with unemployment relief funds under the supervision of the department of public welfare, are hereby declared to be neighborhood public roads, and they shall be subject to all of the provisions of this section with respect to the alteration, extension, or discontinuance thereof, and any interested citizen is authorized to institute such proceeding, and in lieu of personal service with respect to this class of roads, notice by publication once a week in any newspaper published in said county, or in the event there is no such newspaper, by posting at the courthouse door and three other public places, shall be deemed sufficient. Upon request of the board of county commissioners of any county, the state highway commission is permitted, but is not required, to lend assistance to the local authorities in placing such roads in a passable condition without incorporating the same into the state or county systems, and without becoming obligated in any manner for the permanent maintenance thereof. (1933, c. 302.)

The question of the discontinuance of a road which is a neighborhood public road within the meaning of this section, must be determined by a special proceeding instituted before the clerk, and where the question has been presented by petition to the board of county commissioners the judgment of the Superior Court on appeal dismissing the petition is correct, but that part of the judgment providing that the road shall remain open is erroneous and will be stricken out on further appeal to the Supreme Court. In re Edwards, 206 N. C. 549, 174 S. E. 505.

Art. 14. Central Highway

§ 3839. Central highway established; termini and route.—There shall be established in the manner hereinafter provided a public central highway, extending from such point on Beaufort harbor, in the county of Carteret, through the counties of Carteret, Craven, Jones, Lenoir, Wayne, Johnson, Wake, Durham, Orange, Alamance, Guilford, Forsyth, Davie, Davidson, Rowan, Iredell, Catawba, Burke, McDowell, Buncombe, and Madison, or Haywood, Jackson and Macon, to some point on the Tennessee state line. The said central highway shall be composed as nearly as practicable of roads already existing; and the highway division of the North Carolina geological and economic survey is hereby charged with the duty of selecting and designating the route of the said highway and to report the route so selected and the roads so designated to the board of trustees hereinafter provided for; and shall also report to the boards of commissioners of each county through which the said highway shall pass the route or line of road designated through such county. The duties imposed by this article upon the highway division of the North Carolina geological and economic survey shall be considered as a part of its official duties, without additional compensation. (1911, c. 58, s. 1; 1913, c. 37; 1915, c. 132; 1919, c. 67.)

§ 3840. Appropriations by counties and cities.—For the purpose of putting said central highway in order the boards of county commissioners of each county through which the said highway shall pass are hereby authorized and empowered to appropriate out of the general county funds a sum not exceeding fifty dollars for each mile of said highway in such county, and each city or town through which said highway may pass is likewise empowered to appropriate out of its general funds a sum not exceeding one hundred dollars; but if such town shall have a population in excess of one thousand persons, as ascertained by the United States census of one thousand nine hundred and ten, such town may, for such additional one thousand inhabitants as shown by said census, appropriate an additional sum of twenty-five dollars for each thousand of population in excess of one thousand. All funds appropriated by any county shall be spent within said county and under the authority of the board of commissioners of said county; and any funds appropriated by any city or town shall be expended within the county in which said city or town shall be located, and under the authority of the board of aldermen or other governing body of such city or town. (1911, c. 58, s. 2.)

§ 3841. Use of county road forces.—In addition to the appropriations hereinbefore authorized the boards of commissioners of the counties through which the said central highway shall pass are hereby authorized and empowered to use the road force of such county, whether it be hired or convict, upon the said highway to such an extent as, in the opinion of the board, may be practicable. And where there be no road force in a county the supervisor of roads shall, as far as possible, use the means available in constructing and maintaining this said central highway, coöperating as far as practicable with the board of trustees hereinafter provided for. (1911, c. 58, s. 3.)

§ 3842. Board of trustees; executive committee; local committees.—There is hereby created a board of trustees of the central highway, to be composed of one member from each county through which the said highway shall pass, who shall serve for a term of four years from and after the first Monday in April, one thousand nine hundred and eleven, and until their successors have been appointed and have qualified. The following named persons are hereby appointed members of the board of trustees of the central highway for a period of four years from and after the first Monday in April, one thousand nine hundred and eleven, and until their successors shall have been appointed and have qualified, to wit: G. D. Canfield, of Carteret; William Dunn, of Craven; J. H. Bell, of Jones; J. F. Hooker, of Lenoir; G. C. Royall, of Wayne; James A. Wellons, of Johnston; Dr. J. M. Templeton, of Wake; Dr. A. Cheatham, of Durham; H. M. McIver, of Orange; Capt. S. H. Webb, of Alamance; Clem G. Wright, of Guilford; A. T. Grant, Jr., of Davie; P. H. Haynes, of Forsyth; H. B. Varner, of Davidson; P. B. Beard, of Rowan; R. R. Clark, of Iredell; R. L. Shuford, of Catawba; W. E. Walton, of Burke; W. T. Morgan, of McDowell; E. C. Chambers, of Buncombe; Thomas J. Murray of Madison; Hugh A. Love, of Haywood; Walter E. Moore, of Jackson, and James A. Porter, of Macon. The said trustees of the central highway shall be notified of their appointment and shall meet in the city of Raleigh, in the rooms of the department of agriculture, on the twentieth day of April, one thousand nine hundred and eleven, for the purpose of organization; and the commissioner of agriculture shall notify each member of the said board of trustees of the time and place of said meeting, and shall himself act as temporary chairman in calling together the board of trustees, and shall serve as such until a permanent chairman shall have been elected. And the said board of trustees at this meeting, or at any subsequent meeting, may appoint such local committees or boards of directors for all or any of said counties as it may think proper, and impose upon such local committees or directorates the duty of conferring with the boards of county commissioners and other road authorities in constructing and maintaining said highway in their respective counties. Said board of trustees is hereby authorized to appoint an executive committee of not less than three members; and this executive committee shall have all such powers as the said board of trustees may confer upon it; and the board of trustees is authorized to repose in said executive committee all or any part of the powers vested in said board of trustees by this article. The boards of commissioners of each of the counties through which the said highway shall pass is authorized and empowered to elect a successor to the member of the board of trustees from such county in case a vacancy shall occur; and in case a vacancy shall occur before the expiration of the term of office of the member from such county, the board of commissioners shall elect a successor, who shall hold office for the unexpired term of such retiring member. On the first Monday in March, one thousand nine hundred and fifteen, and quadrennially thereafter, the board of commissioners of each county through which said central highway shall pass shall elect its member of the board of trustees of the central highway. (1911, c. 58, s. 4; 1913, c. 37; 1915, c. 132; 1919, c. 67.)

§ 3843. Board a body corporate; donations and gifts; stimulus of public interest; road day.—The board of trustees of the central highway and their successors in office shall constitute a body corporate and shall have power to solicit and accept gifts of money, machinery, road materials, labor, or other things of value to be used and expended by the said board of trustees, under the direction of the proper road authorities of the counties or townships, in establishing, maintaining and improving said central highway as a public thoroughfare for the free and perpetual use of the public; and it shall have power to use all gifts and donations in improving the said central highway without regard to the county or locality. It shall also encourage and stimulate public interest in the maintenance of said highway and send representatives before any board of commissioners or other governing body of any county, city, or town to ask for appropriations of money to be used in each county, and also to advise and recommend the holding of elections to vote special taxes to be used in the construction and maintenance of said central highway. It shall also have power to arrange with and authorize the donation and testing upon the said highway of any improved systems of road building or dressing. It shall also have power to designate one day in each year to be known as "Road Day," on which day voluntary contributions in labor or other things of value shall be accepted to the end that the funds regularly appropriated may be supplemented by the volunteer offerings of the people and by the volunteer work of those who prefer to contribute labor rather than money. The said "Road Day" need not be uniform throughout the state, but shall be uniform throughout each county. (1911, c. 58, s. 5.)

§ 3844. Appropriations made annually.—The counties and municipalities authorized to appropriate funds for the construction and maintenance of said central highway under this article are hereby authorized to make appropriations not exceeding the sums prescribed in this article each year hereafter, which sums shall be used in the improvements and maintenance of said central highway. (1911, c. 58, s. 6.)

§ 3845. Status of trustees; allowance for expenses by counties.—The members of the board of trustees shall not be considered to be public officers, and shall not be required to take an oath of office, and shall receive no compensation for their services out of any funds arising under this article; but any county, city, or town may provide for the payment of the necessary expenses of its own members of said board of trustees. (1911, c. 58, s. 8.)

§ 3846. Secretary and treasurer; reports to governor.—The said board of trustees shall elect a secretary and a treasurer, or it may combine those duties and impose them on one person. Accurate accounts of all proceedings and of all receipts and expenditures shall be kept, and a report made to the governor at the end of each calendar year. (1911, c. 58, s. 9.)

Art. 15. State Highway System (1921)

§ 3846(a). General purpose of law; control, repair and maintenance of highways.—The general purposes of this article are for the state to lay out, take over, establish and construct, and assume control of approximately 5,500 miles of hard-surfaced and other dependable highways running to all county-seats, and to all principal towns, state parks, and principle state institutions, and linking up with state highways of adjoining states and with national highways into national forest reserves by the most practicable routes, with special view of development of agriculture, commercial and natural resources of the state, and for the further purpose of permitting the state to assume control of the state highways, repair, construct, and reconstruct and maintain said highways at the expense of the entire state, and to relieve the counties and cities and towns of the state of his burden. (1921, c. 2, s. 2.)

Editor's Note.—Public Laws of 1921 made radical changes in the control etc., of state highways. Prior to that time the primary control was in the counties and political subdivisions and the state commission served in an advisory capacity, but by that act it has been changed so that the state highway commission has primary control. The act also provided for a comprehensive means of financing the immediate construction and maintenance of improved, hard surface highways. This was a virtual revision of the prior law which was inadequate for facilitating improvement upon such an enormous scale. Although the act expressly repealed only the conflicting provisions of the old law, it is apparent that a considerable portion of it is superseded by provisions which cover the subject-matter of the old, substituting different regulations. As a general rule no attempt has been made to point out conflicts or express opinions upon the effect of the new law upon specific provisions of the old. And this rule has been followed with respect to the Act of 1931, §§ 3846(1) et seq., under which the State Highway Commission took over county roads.

As to the general policy of the state as to highway, see Young v. Board, 190 N. C. 52, 128 S. E. 401.

Laws Repealed.—Sections 3580-3593, are repealed by this article in so far as the former conflict with the latter and under the latter power is conferred on the State Highway Commission to take over county highways as a part of the national highway system of roads upon such terms and agreements with the county commissioners as may be made by them as authorized by the article. Lassiter v. Board, 188 N. C. 379, 124 S. E. 738.

The purpose of the act of 1921 is to encourage co-operation between the highway commission and the county authorities. Young v. Board, 190 N. C. 52, 128 S. E. 401.

Statutes Construed in Pari Materia.—The statute relating to the creation, maintenance, etc., of a State-wide system of public roads, and the amendatory act providing for the taking over of county highways for state maintenance are to be construed together in pari materia. Board of Com'rs v. State Highway Comm., 195 N. C. 26, 141 S. E. 539.

The Highway Commission Is an Administrative Body.—Cameron v. State Highway Comm., 188 N. C. 84, 88, 123 S. E. 465.

Broad Discretion Given.—See note under § 3846(c). The statute, section 3846(j), subsec. (b), and section 3846(a), give broad discretionary powers to the State Highway Commission in establishing, altering and changing the route of county roads that are or are proposed to be absorbed in the State highway system of public roads. Road Comm. v. State Highway Comm., 185 N. C. 56, 115 S. E. 886.

Control of Discretion as to Change of Highway.—The State Highway Commission, neither by contract nor otherwise, can be controlled beforehand in the exercise of its discretion, conferred on it by statute, as to the change of location of a public highway. Johnson v. Board, 192 N. C. 561, 135 S. E. 618.

Change of Route as Violating Rights of Owners.—Those who have acquired property along the "proposed" route, as shown in connection with the consideration by the Legislature of the bill which became enacted into what is now this article, acted with implied notice of the powers conferred upon the commission in changing the route, and cannot maintain the position that they have been deprived of the due-process-of-law provision in the Constitution, whether of a vested right or otherwise. Cameron v. State Highway Comm., 188 N. C. 84, 123 S. E. 465.

Liability of Commission for Torts, etc.—The State Highway Commission is an unincorporated agency of the State to perform specific duties in relation to the highways of the State, and is not liable in damages for the torts of its subagencies and an action may not be maintained against it or a county acting thereunder in trespassing upon the lands of a private owner, or for the faulty construction of its drains, or the taking of a part of the lands of such owner for the use of the highway, the remedy prescribed by the statute being exclusive. Latham v. State Highway Comm., 191 N. C. 141, 131 S. E. 385.

Liability for Defects in Highway.—Counties in North Carolina are not liable for damage resulting from defective condition of their highways, being political agencies of the state; nor are county commissioners individually liable, unless they acted corruptly or of malice. Thompson Caldwell Const. Co. v. Young, 294 Fed. 145.

Power of County and State Commissioners to Contract. — The boards of county commissioners and the state highway commission are vested with powers to enter into contracts and agreements for the construction of roads forming a part of the state highway system. Young v. Board, 190 N. C. 52, 128 S. E. 401.

Injunction.—The action of the State Highway Commission in building the highways and bridges of the State is of public interest and equity will not enjoin them in this work when injury by flooding lands may probably result in the future, there being an adequate remedy at law. Greenville v. State Highway Commission, 196 N. C. 226, 145 S. E. 31.

Cited in Parker v. State Highway Com., 195 N. C. 783, 143 S. E. 871.

§ 3846(b). Establishment of system of state highways; work leading to hard-surfaced construction.—The purpose and intent of this article is to establish a system of state highways for the state, hard-surfacing said highways as rapidly as possible, and maintaining the entire system of said highways in the most approved manner as outlined in this article. Work on the various links in the state highway system shall be of such a character as will lead to ultimate hard-surfaced construction as rapidly as money, labor, and materials will permit, and to a state system of durable hard-surfaced, all-weather roads, connecting the various county-seats, principal towns, and cities. (1921, c. 2, s. 3.)

§ 3846(c). Maximum mileage; routes and maps; objections; changes. — Fifty-five hundred (5500) miles shall be the approximate maximum limit of mileage of the state highway system. The designation of all roads comprising the state highway system as proposed by the state highway commission shall be mapped, and there shall be publicly posted at the courthouse door in every county in the state a map of all the roads in such county in the state system, and the board of county commissioners or county road-governing body of each county, or street governing body of any city or town in the state within sixty days after the notification before mentioned, then and in that case the said roads or streets, to which no objections are made, shall be and constitute links or part of the state highway system. If any objections are made by the board of county commissioners or county road-governing body of any county or street-governing body of the city or town, the whole matter shall be heard and determined by the state highway commission in session, under such rules and regulations as may be laid down by the state highway commission, notice of the time and place of hearing to be given by the state highway commission at the courthouse door in the county, and in some newspaper published in the county, at least ten days prior to the hearing, and the decision of the state highway commission shall be final. A map showing the proposed roads to constitute the state highway system is hereto attached to this article and made a part hereof. The roads so shown can be changed, altered, added to or discontinued by the state highway commission: Provided, no roads shall be changed, altered or discontinued so as to disconnect county-seats, principal towns, state or national parks or forest reserves, principal state institutions, and highway systems of other states. The rights of way to all roads taken over under this article shall be not less than thirty (30) feet: Provided, that no toll road shall be taken over under this section unless by agreement or condemnation as herein provided. (1921, c. 2, s. 7.)

See note under section 3846(f).

Section Construed with § 3846(j).—Section 3846(j) giving the commission broad and comprehensive discretionary powers in the adoption of routes, should be construed in pari materia with this section thereof, the latter limiting the discretion conferred in the former, among other things, in respect to routes between county-seats, "principal towns," according to a map referred to and attached to the act; and as to those matters particularly mentioned in this section the discretion was taken away from the commission by express statutory provision. Cameron v. State Highway Comm., 188 N. C. 84, 123 S. E. 465.

Power to Change Route.—See note under section 3846(a). Where the commission, in pursuance of section 3846(c) have, as required, posted at the courthouse door of a county a map showing the proposed route, and the county roads to be taken, the limitation of sixty days expressed in the statute is upon the time allowed the county to object; and a subsequent change made by the State Highway Commission in the proposed route prior to the time of building the highway is not reviewable by the court in the absence of an abuse by the commission of the discretionary power conferred on it by the statute. Road Comm. v. State Highway Comm., 185 N. C. 56, 115 S. E. 886.

The map referred to in this section as a "proposed" route of the State Highway system, by placing certain towns along its proposed route, does not affect the discretionary authority of the Highway Commission in locating the highway between county-seats, or prevent the commission from changing the route from them, but its determination is reviewable by the courts as a mixed question of law and fact, whether the change decided upon goes by the principal towns as required by the statute. Cameron v. State Highway Comm., 188 N. C. 84, 123 S. E. 465.

Same—After Vote Taken by County.—Where the State Highway Commission has taken over a certain public road within a county, as a link in the State system of public highways, and the county in which it is situate has contracted to loan the State Commission a certain amount of money to be expended on its improvement, subject to approval of the voters in issuing bonds for the purpose, and there is nothing in the contract that would require the route of the existing road to continue as it then was laid out, the discretionary power vested in the State Highway Commission as to changing the route, vesting in them by statute, will not be interferred with by the courts, at the suit of the taxpayers residing in a corporated or unincorporated town, contending that they would not have voted for the bond issue except upon representation made to them that the then existing route would not be changed. Johnson v. Board, 192 N. C. 561, 135 S. E. 618.

Presumption as to Posting of Map.—It is presumed on appeal, when the record is silent in relation thereto, that the Commission made publication of the proposed adoption of a link in the State Highway System, by posting the map thereof at the county-seat, etc., as the law requires. Newton v. State Highway Comm., 194 N. C. 159, 138 S. E. 601.

Change from Route Finally Adopted.—The Commission is not authorized by statute to make an entire change of route in its system of State Highway between county-seats from one that it has finally adopted. Newton v. State Highway Comm., 194 N. C. 159, 138 S. E. 601, citing Carlyle v. Highway Commission, 193 N. C. 36, 49, 136 S. E. 612.

But the power of the commission to slightly or immaterially vary the location of the highway in question is not at an end until its final acceptance thereof. Smith v. State Highway Commission, 194 N. C. 333, 139 S. E. 606, approving Newton v. Highway Com., 194 N. C. 159, 138 S. E. 601.

Enjoining Unauthorized Change. — An injunction will lie against the State Highway Commission from proceedings to make a change in a link of the State System of public highway unauthorized by the statute. Newton v. State Highway Comm., 194 N. C. 159, 138 S. E. 601.

Effect of Finding of Trial Court on Appeal.—A finding by the trial judge that an entire change of route in a link of highways connecting two county-seats was only temporary, is not binding upon the Supreme Court on appeal when as a matter of law, upon the evidence, it is conclusively made otherwise to appear. Newton v. State Highway Comm., 194 N. C. 159, 138 S. E. 601.

Failure to Protest Location.—Upon the failure of any principal town along the proposed route to object thereto, it is not a proper or necessary party to the proceedings, and the trial court may refuse its motion to be made a party. Newton v. State Highway Comm., 194 N. C. 159, 138 S. E. 601.

§ 3846(c1). Additional roads for state maintenance.—That the State Highway Commission is authorized and empowered, and it shall be their duty to take over for State maintenance, additional roads heretofore maintained by the several counties, amount of additional roads so taken over for State maintenance shall not exceed twenty per cent of the present mileage as is now designated and maintained as State Highways. (1927, c. 200, s. 2.)

See note under section 3846(f).

§ 3846(c2). Laying out and designation of roads discretional.—The laying out, and designation of new roads placed on the State Highway System as State maintained road, shall be left entirely in the discretion of the said Highway Commission in the respective districts, dividing the mileage of new roads taken on in counties which have heretofore not received as much State Highway mileage as to make said county or counties share equally as nearly as practicable with other counties of the State, or in the discretion of the State Highway Commission in said District to place said additional roads on State maintenance that will best serve that section of the State. (1927, c. 200, s. 2.)

See note under section 3846(f).

§ 3846(c3). Coöperation with county road authorities.—The State Highway Commission shall work in coöperation with the road governing body of the counties in their respective and several districts in the laying out of these roads. always looking after the interest of both county and State in so doing. (1927, c. 200, s. 3.)

See note under section 3846(f).

This section does not impair the large discretionary powers of the Commission, and when it has so cooperated, its selection of a different route than the one fixed upon by the county authorities, cannot be disturbed by the courts. Board of Com'rs v. State Highway Comm., 195 N. C. 26, 141 S. E. 539.

§ 3846(c4). Construction of certain road authorized. — The State Highway Commission is authorized and empowered to construct a suitable road leading from the nearest available public highway to a point near the summit of the said Rendezvous Mountain State Park: Provided, that the funds used for the construction of said road be charged to funds allocated to Wilkes County: Provided, however, that the said Highway Commission shall not be required to pay anything for rights of way in locating and constructing said road. (1927, c. 194, s. 1.)

See note under section 3846(f).

§ 3846(d). Publication of law. — The state highway commission, as soon as practicable after March 3, 1921, shall have carefully complied the road laws of this state relating to the state highway system, and shall have published not exceeding 10,000 copies of said compilation to be distributed by said commission, the cost thereof to be paid out of the state highway fund. (1921, c. 2, s. 47.)

See note under section 3846(f).

§ 3846(e). Effect of partial invalidity of law.— If any provision of this article shall be declared by the courts unconstitutional, such declaration shall not affect the validity of any of the remaining provisions of this article. (1921, c. 2, s. 51.)

Part 1A. A Change of Systems

§ 3846(e1). Power to make changes.—Subject to the provisions of sections 3846(e3) and 3846(e4) the State Highway Commission shall be authorized, when in its judgment the public good requires it, to change, alter, add to, or abandon and substitute new sections for, any portion of the State highway system, as now or hereafter, taken over, maintained and established: Provided, no road shall be changed, altered, or abandoned so as to disconnect county seats and principal towns. (1927, c. 46, s. 1.)

See note under section 3846(f).

Editor's Note.—The preamble to the act from which this section was taken reads, "Whereas, the system of highways, by act of the General Assembly, is peculiarly a State system as distinct from county roads; and,

"Whereas, it is the established policy of North Carolina that State highways shall be constructed and maintained by funds derived from sources other than ad valorem taxes; and,

"Whereas, certain counties, in order to hasten the construction of State highways within said counties, have heretofore made cash donations in part payment of the construction of State highways within said counties; and,

"Whereas, certain other counties have made loans to the State Highway Commission under form of contract by which such loans are to be repaid out of future allocations of State highway construction funds: Now, therefore," and then followed the section.

Validity of Statute.—Chapter 46 of Public Laws 1927, and all its provisions are valid. Parker v. State Highway Commission, 195 N. C. 783, 787, 143 S. E. 871.

§ 3846(e2). Notice to local road authorities.— Before any road, which is being maintained by the State Highway Commission as a part of the State Highway System, can be changed, altered, or abandoned, the chairman or his duly authorized agent shall notify the road governing authorities of the county or counties in which said change, alteration, or abandonment, is proposed, of the extent, nature and character of the proposed change, alteration or abandonment, and a map showing the old location and the new proposed location shall be posted at the courthouse door. If within thirty days after the giving of such notice and the posting of such map the road governing body of such county or the street governing body of any county seat or principal town immediately effected thereby, shall protest the proposed change, alteration or abandonment by filing a written notice of such protest with the State Highway Conmmission at Raleigh; the State Highway Commission shall thereupon designate three members, of the State Highway Commission, one of whom may be the chairman, to hear such protest. The place, which shall be within the county, and the time of such hearings shall be fixed by the chairman and notice given to the protesting parties. Such hearings shall be held publicly and all persons desiring to be heard shall be heard. At the close of such hearing the committee shall publicly state their decision. The protesting parties may appeal from such decision to the whole Highway Commission and such appeal shall be heard at a regular or duly called meeting for this purpose in the city of Raleigh and notice given to the appellants. The decision of the whole commission shall be determined by roll call vote duly recorded upon the minutes of the commission.

Any county seat or principal town shall be deemed "immediately effected" if the proposed change or alteration shall enter or leave said town by streets other than those used for such purposes prior to the proposed change. (1927, c. 46, s. 2; 1931, c. 145.)

See note under section 3846(f).

Editor's Note.—The Act of 1931 added the words "as a part of the State Highway System" in lines three and four of this section. It struck out the words "commissioner of the district in which said road is located" formerly appearing in the same sentence and inserted in lieu thereof "chairman or his duly authorized agent." It also struck out the words "the others to be from districts other than that from which the protest is filed," formerly appearing before the phrase "to hear such protest" at the end of the second sentence.

Consent of Unimportant Town.—Where, in the exercise of its discretion, the Commission has made a slight change of an existing route, the consent of an unimportant town is unnecessary. Yadkin College v. State Highway Comm., 194 N. C. 180, 138 S. E. 717.

§ 3846(e3). Number of highways entering town not reduced without consent.—The number of State highways entering the corporate limits of a county seat, principal town, or town in which is located any of the principal State institutions, now served by the State Highway system, shall not be reduced without the consent of the street governing body of said town. (1927, c. 46, s. 3.)

The town of Yadkin College with a population of approximately 100 people and no substantial industries is not a principal town as contemplated in this section. Yadkins College v. State Highway Comm., 194 N. C. 180, 183, 138 S. E. 717.

§ 3846(e4). Consent of local road authorities.—No portion of the State Highway system which has heretofore, or which shall hereafter be located and constructed in accordance with plans and specifications prepared by and on file with the State Highway Commission, shall be changed or abandoned without the consent of the road governing body of the county in which said road is situated. (1927, c. 46, s. 4.)

See note under section 3846(f).

§ 3846(e5). Abandoned sections of State system incorporated with local systems.—Whenever the State Highway Commission shall have abandoned, or shall hereafter abandon, any section of the State Highway system heretofore maintained by it, the county road governing body in which said abandoned road, or portion thereof, is situate may then incorporate into the county highway system such abandoned road or portion thereof, whenever in its judgment the public good requires such reincorporation; after the abandonment of such road or portion thereof the State Highway Commission shall be relieved of all responsibility and liability with respect thereto: Provided, that this section shall not authorize the county road governing authorities to reopen any railroad grade crossing that has been closed by order of the State Highway Commission in connection with the building of an overhead bridge or underpass to take the place of such grade crossing. (1927, c. 46, s. 5; 1929, c. 257, s. 1.)

See note under section 3846(f).

Editor's Note.—The Act of 1929 added the proviso to this section and expressly provided that it should not affect pending litigation.

§ 3846(e6). Confirmation.—All changes in, alterations of, and/or abandonments of any portion of the State Highway system heretofore made by the State Highway Commission which are not now the subject of litigation, are hereby ratified approved and confirmed and the newly-established routes are hereby made a part of the State Highway system as fully and to the same extent as if they had appeared upon the map and surveys made and posted by the State Highway Commission as in the preceding part of this article were required, and no action shall hereafter be maintained in any court of this State against the State Highway Commission on account of such change, alteration and/or abandonment. (1927, c. 46, s. 6.)

See note under section 3846(f).

§ 3846(e7). No court action but by local road authorities.—No action shall be maintained in any of the courts of this State against the State Highway Commission to determine the location of any State highways or portion thereof, by any person, corporation, or municipal corporation, other than the road governing body of the county in which said road is situated, or the county seat or principal town effected, as in this act defined, by any change, alteration or abandonment. (1927, c. 46, s. 7.)

See note under section 3846(f).

See note under § 3846(e1).

Discretion Not Reviewable.—It is within the discretion of the road-governing body of a county to object or not, to the partial change in a road by the Commission and their action is not subject to review in the courts. And mandamus will not lie to control such discretion. Parker v. State Highway Commission, 195 N. C. 783, 143 S. E. 871.

Decision of Commission Final.—The decision of the state highway commission upon appeal by the board of commission from an adverse decision is final and conclusive. Parker v. State Highway Commission, 195 N. C. 783, 143 S. E. 871.

§ 3846(e8). Apportionment of road funds. — Nothing contained in this part shall be construed to change the method of apportionment of road funds as now provided in section 3846(hh). (1927, c. 46, s. 8.)

§ 3846(e9). Pending litigation and judgments rendered not interfered with.—This part of this article shall not affect pending litigation or judgments heretofore rendered in causes by courts of competent jurisdiction. (1927, c. 46, s. 9.)

Editor's Note.—Public Laws of 1935, chapter 140, directs that this section shall be stricken out but adds that the act shall apply only to Robeson county.

Part 2. State Highway Commission

§ 3846(f): Repealed by Public Laws 1933, c. 172, s. 15.

Editor's Note.—In lieu of the old State Highway Commission of nine district commissioners and a chairman, the Act of 1931 sets up a new commission which succeeds to all the powers of the old commission. See 9 N. C. Law Rev., 374.

Public Laws 1933, c. 172, §§ 2, 17, codified as sections 7748(b) and 7748(m), created the state highway and public works commission and conferred upon it all the powers and duties formerly exercised by the state highway commission.

For act creating special highway commission to determine amount of reimbursement to counties, see Public Laws 1935, chapter 206.

§ 3846(f1). Limit of compensation paid by commission.—It shall be unlawful for the state highway commission to pay or authorize the payment of an annual salary or compensation to any employee of that department in excess of the sum of six thousand dollars ($6,000.00). (1929, c. 182, s. 1; 1933, c. 172, s. 16.)

See note under section 3846(f).

Editor's Note.—Public Laws of 1933, c. 172, reduced the maximum salary from $10,000 to $6,000.

§ 3846(g). State highway engineer and other employees. — The said commission, at its first meeting or as soon thereafter as practicable, shall employ a state highway engineer, who shall be a competent civil engineer, qualified by technical training as well as practical construction experience in highway work. The engineer shall hold office during the pleasure of the commission, but not to exceed a period of four years without reappointment. He shall receive an annual salary to be fixed by the state highway commission, approved by the governor, payable in monthly installments together with such actual and other necessary expenses as may be incurred in the official discharge of his duties. Said commission shall prescribe and fix the duties of the engineer, and shall provide the engineer with official and sufficient equipment to discharge his duties as prescribed by the state highway commission and this article. The commission shall employ such other engineers, clerks, and assistants as may be needed, and at such salaries and for such terms as appear necessary, and prescribe and fix their duties. In the discretion of the commission, such offices may be established in construction districts as may be necessary to carry out the provisions of this article. (1921, c. 2, s. 5.)

See note under section 3846(f).

§ 3846(h). Oath and bonds of commissioners and engineers.—The members of the state highway commission and state highway engineer shall each, before entering upon the discharge of his duties, take an oath that he will faithfully and honestly execute the duties of the office during his continuance in office, and each give a bond, to be fixed and approved by the governor, conditioned upon the faithful discharge of the duties of his office and the full and proper accounting for all public funds and property coming into his possession or under his control. The premium on said bond or bonds shall be paid out of the state highway fund. (1921, c. 2, s. 6.)

See note under section 3846(f).

§ 3846(i). Assumption of control by commission.—Within sixty days after March 3, 1921, the state highway commission shall commence to assume control of the various links of road constituting the state highway system, and shall complete the assumption of control of all roads which constitute the state highway system as rapidly as practicable. (1921, c. 2, s. 8.)

See note under section 3846(f).

§ 3846(j). Powers of commission.—The said state highway commission shall be vested with the following powers:

(a) The general supervision over all matters relating to the construction of the state highways, letting of contracts therefor, and the selection of materials to be used in the construction of state highways under the authority of this article.

(b) To take over and assume exclusive control for the benefit of the state of any existing county or township roads, and to locate and acquire rights of way for any new roads that may be necessary for a state highway system, with full power to widen, relocate, change or alter the grade or location thereof: to change or relocate any existing roads that the state highway commission may now own or may acquire; to acquire by gift, purchase, or otherwise, any road or highway, or tract of land or other property whatsoever that may be necessary for a state highway system: Provided, that nothing in this article shall be construed to authorize or permit the highway commission to allow or pay anything to any county, township, city or town, or to any board of commissioners or governing body thereof, for any existing road or part of any road heretofore contructed by any such county, township, city or town, unless contract has already been entered into with the state highway commission.

(c) To provide for such road materials as may be necessary to carry on the work of the state highway commission, either by gift, purchase, or condemnation: Provided, that when any person, firm or corporation owning a deposit of sand, gravel or other material, necessary for the construction of the system of state highways provided herein, upon first entering into a contract to furnish the state highway commission any of such material, at a price to be fixed by said highway commission, the state highway commission shall have the right to condemn the necessary right of way under the provisions of chapter thirty-three, consolidated statutes, to connect said deposit with any part of the system of state highways or public carrier.

(d) To enforce by mandamus or other proper legal remedies all legal rights or causes of action of the state highway commission with other public bodies, corporations, or persons.

(e) To make rules, regulations and ordinances for the use of, and the police traffic on, the state highways, and to prevent their abuse by individuals, corporations and public corporations, by trucks, tractors, trailers or other heavy or destructive vehicles or machinery, or by any other means whatsoever, and to provide ample means for the enforcement of same; and the violation of any of the rules, regulations or ordinances so prescribed by the state highway commission shall constitute a misdemeanor: Provided, no rules, regulations or ordinances shall be made that will conflict with any statute now in force or any ordinance of incorporated cities or towns.

(f) To establish a traffic census to secure information about the relative use, cost, value, importance, and necessity of roads forming a part of the state highway system, which information shall be a part of the public records of the state, and upon which information the state highway commission shall, after due deliberation and in accordance with these established facts, proceed to order the construction of the particular highway or highways.

(g) To assume full and exclusive responsibility for the maintenance of all roads other than streets in towns and cities, forming a part of the state highway system from date of acquiring said roads: Provided, the commission may enter into contracts with counties as to the maintenance of highways which shall form a part of the state highway system. The state highway commission shall have authority to maintain all streets constructed by the state highway commission in towns of less than three thousand population by the last census, and such other streets as may be constructed in towns and cities at the expense of the state highway commission, whenever in the opinion of the state highway commission it is necessary and proper so to do; Provided, further, such funds as may be appropriated from time to time for the repair and improvement of highways and streets in cities and towns shall be used by the state highway and public works commission, first, for the maintenance and improvement of streets in cities and towns which form a part of the state highway system, and second, for the maintenance and improvement of such other streets, which are now used, designated and marked or may hereafter be used, designated and marked as a part of the state highway system. The work of maintaining and improving streets which form a part of the state highway system shall be performed by the commission with its highway maintenance forces, except that in the discretion of the commission it may, on such terms as it may deem proper, contract with any city or town having adequate facilities that the city or town shall do the work of maintaining and improving such streets as the highway and public works commission may designate.

The work of repairing and improving streets shall be apportioned or allocated as between the several cities and towns by the state highway and public works commission in such manner as the commission may deem shall best serve the highway system of the State as a whole, taking into consideration the number of miles of state highways and other improved streets, the population, and the motor vehicle registration in the respective cities and towns, and such other factors as may affect an equitable distribution.

Neither the undertaking nor doing of the work of maintenance and improvement upon streets in cities and towns by the state highway and public works commission shall deprive the cities or towns of the right to construct streets or to improve or maintain them as they may deem necessary, in addition to the work done by the state highway and public works commission.

(h) To give suitable names to state highways and change the names of any highways that shall become a part of the state system of highways.

(i) To coöperate with municipal or county authorities, civic bodies and individuals in the proper selection, planting and protection of roadside trees, shrubs and vines for the beautification and protection of said highways.

(j) To make proper and reasonable rules, regulations and ordinances for the placing or erection of telephone, telegraph or other poles, sign-boards, fences, gas, water, sewerage, oil, or other pipe lines, and other similar obstructions that may, in the opinion of said highway commission, contribute to the hazard upon any of the said highways or in anywise interfere with the same, and to make reasonable rules and regulations for the proper control thereof. And whenever the order of the said highway commission shall require the removal of, or changes in, the location of telephone, telegraph, or other poles, sign-boards, fences, gas, water, sewerage, oil, or other pipe lines, or other similar obstructions, the owners thereof shall at their own expense move or change the same to conform to the order of the said highway commission. Any violation of such rules and regulations or non-compliance with such orders shall constitute a misdemeanor.

(k) To regulate, abandon and close to use, grade crossings on any road designated as part of the state highway system, and whenever a public highway has been designated as part of the state highway system and the state highway commission, in order to avoid a grade crossing or crossings with a railroad or railroads, continues or constructs the said road on one side of the railroad or railroads, the commission shall have power to abandon and close to use such grade crossings; and whenever an underpass or overhead bridge is substituted for a grade crossing, the commission shall have power to close to use and abandon such grade crossing and any other crossings adjacent thereto.

(l) The said state highway commission shall have such powers as are necessary to comply fully with the provisions of the present or future federal aid acts. The said commission is hereby authorized to enter into all contracts and agreements with the United States government relating to the survey, construction, improvement and maintenance of roads under the provisions of the present or future congressional enactments, to submit such scheme or program of construction or improvement and maintenance as may be required by the secretary of agriculture or otherwise provided by federal acts, and to do all other things necessary to carry out fully the coöperation contemplated and provided for by present or future acts of congress, for the construction or improvement and maintenance of rural post roads. The good faith and credit of the state are further hereby pledged to make available funds necessary to meet the requirements of the acts of congress, present or future, appropriating money to construct and improve rural post roads and apportioned to this state during each of the years for which federal funds are now or may hereafter be apportioned by the said act or acts, to maintain the roads constructed or improved with the aid of funds so appropriated and to make adequate provisions for carrying out such construction and maintenance. The good faith and credit of the state are further pledged to maintain such roads now built with federal aid and hereafter to be built and to make adequate provisions for carrying out such maintenance. Upon request of the state highway commission and in order to enable it to meet the requirements of acts of congress with respect to federal aid funds apportioned to the state of North Carolina, the state treasurer be and he is hereby authorized, with the approval of the governor and council of state, to issue short term notes from time to time, and in anticipation of state highway revenue, and to be payable out of state highway revenue for such sums as may be necessary to enable the state highway commission to meet the requirements of said federal aid appropriations, but in no event shall the outstanding notes under the provisions of this section amount to more than two million dollars ($2,000,000.00).

(m) The state highway commission is authorized and empowered to construct and maintain all walkways and driveways within the Mansion Square in the city of Raleigh including the approaches connecting with the city streets, and any funds expended therefor shall be a charge against general maintenance.

(n) The state highway commission shall have authority to provide roads for the connection of air ports in the state with the public highway system, and to mark the highways and erect signals along the same for the guidance and protection of aircraft.

(o) The state highway commission shall have authority to provide facilities for the use of water-borne traffic by establishing connections between the highway system and the navigable waters of the state by means of connecting roads and piers.

(p) The state highway and public works commission shall have authority to designate any highways upon the state system as light traffic roads when, in the opinion of the commission, such roads are inadequate to carry and will be injuriously affected by the maximum legal loads; and all such roads so designated shall be conspicuously posted as light traffic roads and the maximum load authorized thereon shown on such signs. The operation of any vehicle whose gross load exceeds the maximum load shown on such signs over the roads thus posted shall constitute a misdemeanor; Provided, that no standard concrete highway or other highway built of material of equivalent durability shall be designated as a light traffic road; Provided, further, that the limitations placed on any road shall not be less than eighty per cent of the standard weight unless there shall be available an alternate improved route of not more than twenty per cent increase in the distance. (1921, c. 2, s. 10; 1923, c. 160, s. 1; 1923, c. 247; 1929, c. 138, s. 1; 1931, c. 145, ss. 21, 25; 1933, c. 517, s. 1; 1935, c. 213, s. 1, c. 301.)

See note under section 3846(f).

Editor's Note.—The Act of 1929 added subsection (m) to this section. The first 1931 amendment added subsections (n) and (o), and the other 1931 amendment added the last sentence of subsection (l).

Public Laws 1935, chapter 213, adding to this section all of subsection (g) from and after the last "provided" in the first paragraph, and making an appropriation for the purposes set out, provided that "It shall be the intent and purpose of this act that the funds set up herein for the maintenance and improvements of the streets within the cities and towns shall not be construed as affecting the present powers of the State Highway Commission as to constructing, maintaining and improving the streets of cities and towns having a population of less than three thousand people, according to United States Census of one thousand nine hundred and thirty, but shall be construed to be in addition thereto."

Chapter 301 of Public Laws of 1935 substituted the present subsection (p).

The state highway and public works commission and the chairman thereof now have all the powers and duties formerly conferred upon the state highway commission or its chairman. See secs. 7748(b), 7748(m).

Contract with County Commissioners.—In contemplation of the statute, the State Highway Commission is entrusted to construct and maintain a system of public highways and to contract in reference thereto, and a contract made between this board and the board of commissioners of a county wherein the latter is to advance certain moneys as a proportionate expense in the former's taking over and maintaining a particular highway to be repaid by the State Highway Commission from its funds is a valid and legal contract, supported by a sufficient consideration. Young v. Board, 190 N. C. 52, 128 S. E. 401.

Where the State Highway Commission has taken over the construction of a street and bridge within the incorporated limits of a town, the town is not thereby relieved of liability for an injury proximately caused by a dangerous condition of the street at the bridge when the town has had implied notice of such condition which had existed for several months, this section expressly excepting from its provisions streets in towns and cities. Pickett v. Carolina, etc., Ry., 200 N. C. 750, 158 S. E. 398.

Section Construed with Section 3846(c).—This section giving the commission broad and comprehensive discretionary powers in the adoption of routes, should be construed in pari materia with section 3846(c) thereof, the latter limiting the discretion conferred in the former, among other things, in respect to routes between county-seats, "principal towns," according to a map referred to and attached to the act; and as to those matters particularly mentioned in section 3846(c), the discretion was taken away from the commission by express statutory provision. Cameron v. State Highway Comm., 188 N. C. 84, 123 S. E. 465.

Broad Discretion in Changing Roads.—The statute, this section, subsec. (b), and section 3846(a), give broad discretionary powers to the State Highway Commission in establishing, altering, and changing the route of county roads that are or are proposed to be absorbed in the State highway system of public roads. Road Comm. v. State Highway Comm., 185 N. C. 56, 115 S. E. 886.

Right to Sue and Be Sued. — The statutes creating the State Highway Commission enumerate their powers and duties in the construction, maintenance, etc., of highways for public benefit, without either expressly or impliedly giving it the right to sue and be sued, but manifestly as an agency of the State for the purpose of exercising administrative and governmental functions. Carpenter v. Atlanta, etc., R. Co., 184 N. C. 400, 114 S. E. 693.

Power of County to Raise Fund for Construction.—Where the county authorities make a contract with the state highway commission pursuant to this act to construct one of the highways through the county and the necessary bridges, the county commissioners may proceed under sections 3767, 3772 to raise the necessary funds. See Norfolk So. R. Co. v. McArtan, 185 N. C. 201, 116 S. E. 731.

Abandoned Grade Crossing.—See note under § 3846(j).

Grade Crossing. — The commissioners of a county are without power to order a grade crossing abandoned by the Commission reopened to the public, and this power is not given the county by § 3846 (e 5). Rockingham v. Norfolk, etc., R. Co., 197 N. C. 116, 147 S. E. 832.

Judicial Notice of Highway Ordinance.—An ordinance of the Highway Commission does not come within that class of legislative enactments of which the courts will take judicial notice. State v. Toler, 195 N. C. 481, 482, 142 S. E. 715.

Construction of New Roads.—Subsection (b) of this section does not authorize the commission to totally abandon an existing part of the highway system and construct an entirely new road in its place. Newton v. State Highway Comm., 194 N. C. 159, 138 S. E. 601.

But in view of this subsection the commission may construct new roads notwithstanding statute authorizing the commission "to take over for state maintenance additional roads heretofore maintaned by the several counties." Board of Com'rs v. State Highway Com., 195 N. C. 26, 141 S. E. 539.

Cited in Radford v. Young, 194 N. C. 747, 140 S. E. 806; State v. Henderson, 207 N. C. 258, 259, 176 S. E. 758.

§ 3846(j1). Establishment of administrative districts.—The State Highway Commission may establish such administrative districts as in their opinion shall be necessary for the proper and efficient performance of the duties of the commission. Such districts as may be established shall be without regard to the places of residence of the members of the State Highway Commission. The commission may from time to time change the number of such districts, or they may change the territory embraced within the several districts, when in their opinion it is in the interest of efficiency and economy to make such change. (1931, c. 145, s. 5.)

See note under section 3846(f).

§ 3846(j2). Enforcement of contracts between commission and cities and towns.—All contracts entered into between the state highway and public works commission and the municipalities of the State under section 3846(j), subsection (g), or other provision of the state highway law may be enforced by proper actions either in the superior court of the county in which said municipality exists or in Wake county. (1935, c. 213, s. 2.)

§ 3846(k). Employment of counsel.—The state highway commission may in its discretion employ any attorney or attorneys to advise them for the purpose of condemning land acquired by this article, making any contracts, and do other legal work that the commission may believe necessary for carrying out this article, and compensation for all such services shall be paid out of the state highway fund. (1921, c. 2, s. 21.)

See note under section 3846(f).

Cited in Rockingham County v. Norfolk, etc., R. Co., 197 N. C. 116, 117, 147 S. E. 832.

§ 3846(l). Reports to general assembly.—The highway commission shall, on or before the tenth day of the convening of each regular session of the general assembly of North Carolina, make full printed, detailed report to the general assembly, showing the construction and maintenance work and the cost of the same, receipts of license fees, and disbursements of the commission, and such other data as may be of interest in connection with the work of the highway commission. A full account of each road project shall be kept by and under the direction of the highway commission or its representatives, to ascertain at any time the expenditures and the liabilities against all projects; also records of contracts and force account work. The account records, together with all supporting documents, shall be open at all times to the inspection of the governor or road authorities of any county, or their authorized representatives, and copies thereof shall be furnished such officials upon request. (1921, c. 2, s. 23.)

See note under section 3846(f).

§ 3846(m). Annual audits; report of audit to general assembly.—The books and accounts of the highway commission shall be audited at least once a year by a certified public accountant to be designated by the auditor of the state, and report of certified accountant shall be made a part of the accompanying report of the state highway commission to the general assembly as herein provided. (1921, c. 2, s. 24.)

See note under section 3846(f).

§ 3846(n). Contracts heretofore made.—All contracts or agreements heretofore made or entered into by the existing highway commission as to location and construction of any roads or highways, or for any other purpose, shall be and remain in full force and effect and taken over by the highway commission provided for in this article, and all contractors who have entered into any contract with the existing highway commission, whether private or municipal, shall carry out such contracts so made and all rights and remedies existing under such contracts by the present highway commission or any contractor shall remain in full force and effect. (1921, c. 2, s. 48.)

See note under section 3846(f).

§ 3846(o). Continuation of old commission; taking over of contracts. — Until the organization of the State Highway Commission provided for in this article the present existing State Highway Commission shall continue in effect and be authorized to act pursuant to chapter 189, Public Laws of nineteen-nineteen, and all other laws in force relating to the State Highway Commission, and to enter into contracts, which, together with all existing contracts, shall be taken over by the State Highway Commission created by this article, and in all other respects this article shall be in force from and after March 3, 1921. (1921, c. 2, s. 53.)

See note under section 3846(f).

§ 3846(o1). Reimbursement made to counties.—The State Highway Commission is empowered and authorized in its discretion to reimburse any county, in whole or in part, from the future allocations of State highway road construction funds available for use in said county, for cash donations heretofore made by such county to aid the State Highway Commission in construction portions of the State highway system in such county; and for the paved highways so constructed under specifications acceptable to the State Highway Commission, and donated to the State.

Provided, said reimbursement shall not be made, except in such cases as the State Highway Commission may deem it necessary to place such county on terms of equality with other counties and built and donated to the State paved highways, constructed under specifications acceptable to the State Highway Commission, similarly situated:

Provided, further, that no part of the bond issue that may be authorized by this General Assembly may be used for said purpose and no other road construction funds allocated to any county shall be used for such reimbursement until all of the State highways in said county have been constructed in a manner satisfactory to the State Highway Commission. (1927, c. 235, s. 1.)

See note under section 3846(f).

For act creating special highway commission to determine amount of reimbursement to counties, see Public Laws 1935, chapter 206.

§ 3846(o2). Amortization of loans from counties to State Highway Commission. — The State Highway Commission and the several counties of the State that have heretofore made loan contracts with the State Highway Commission to aid in the construction of State highways within said counties, and upon which contracts there remain unpaid balances, are hereby authorized to execute new contracts providing for the repayment of said loans in fixed annual installments in such amounts and over such periods as may be agreed upon as fair and equitable under all the circumstances of each particular loan, but in no event shall the gross liability of the State Highway Commission be increased over the amount specified in the existing agreements. All such contracts shall be valid obligations of the State, payable solely out of State Highway Commission revenue. All payments made under said contract shall be applied to the debt service of the respective counties, and for no other purpose. (1931, c. 145, s. 6, c. 314.)

See note under section 3846(f).

§ 3846(p). Repealed by Public Laws 1931, c. 145, s. 222.)

Part 3. Construction, Maintenance, and Repair of Highways

§ 3846(q). Standard designs for marking roads constituting system.—After the selection of a part or parts of the State highway system, the commission may cause roads, comprising such system, including connecting streets in incorporated towns and cities, to be distinctly marked with some standard design placed on convenient objects along such routes. Such design shall be uniform on all parts of the state highway system, except that the numbers thereon shall correspond with the numbers given the various routes by the commission, which numbers shall coincide with the numbers placed on the official map or maps issued by the commission. No similar design shall be used for making other routes in North Carolina. (1921, c. 2, s. 9(a).

See note under section 3846(f).

§ 3846(r). Guide and warning signs. — After selection of state highways before mentioned, the commission may cause to be erected such standard guide or warning signs as it may deem necessary along the state highway system. Such signs shall be of uniform design throughout the state, and it shall be unlawful for any person to erect or display any other guide or warning signs upon said highway except in case of emergency, or with the approval of the commission, and, if erected without such approval they may be removed by the commission, and any violator of this section shall be subject to all penalties hereinafter provided. After taking over section or sections of the state highway system, the commission may erect proper and uniform signs directing persons to roads and places of importance. Said commission shall have the power to control all signs within the right of way of state highways. (1921, c. 2, s. 9(b)).

See note under section 3846(f).
See 13 N. C. Law Rev., 101.

§ 3846(s). Repair of road detour.—It shall be mandatory upon the state highway commission, its officers and employees, or any contractor or subcontractor employed by the said commission, to select, lay out, maintain and keep in as good repair as possible suitable detours by the most practical route while said highways or roads are being improved or constructed, and it shall be mandatory upon the said highway commission and its employees or contractors to place or cause to be placed explicit directions to the traveling public during repair of said highway or road under the process of construction. All expense of laying out and maintaining said detours shall be paid out of state highway fund. (1921, c. 2, s. 11.)

See note under section 3846(f).

§ 3846(t). Closing of state highways during construction; injury to barriers, warning signs, etc. — If it shall appear necessary to the state highway commission, its officers, or appropriate employees, to close any road or highway coming under its jurisdiction so as to permit of proper completion of work which is being performed, such commission, its officers or employees, may close, or cause to be closed, the whole or any portion of such road or highway deemed necessary to be excluded from public travel. While any such road or highway, or portion thereof, if so closed, or while any such road or highway, or portion thereof, is in process of construction or maintenance, such commission, its officers or appropriate employees, or its contractor, under authority from such commission, may erect, or cause to be erected, suitable barriers or obstructions thereon, may post, or cause to be posted, conspicuous notices to the effect that the road or highway, or portion thereof, is closed, warning signs, lights and lanterns on such road or highway, or portions thereof. When such road or highway is closed to the public or in process of construction or maintenance, as provided herein, any person who willfully breaks down, drives into new construction work, removes, injures or destroys any such barrier or barriers or obstructions on road being constructed, or tears down, removes or destroys any such notices, drives into new construction work, or extinguishes, removes, injures or destroys any such warning lights or lanterns so erected, posted or placed, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. (1921, c. 2, s. 12.)

See note under section 3846(f).

Liability of Contractor for Injury.—Contractor constructing highway was not relieved, by an order of the state highway commission closing the road to travel, of liability for injuries in an automobile collision with an unlighted disabled truck left by defendant on the side of the highway, where on the part of the road where the accident happened barriers had been removed and to defendant's knowledge many people habitually traversed it. Thompson Caldwell Const. Co. v. Young, 294 Fed. 145.

§ 3846(u). Openings, structures, pipes, trees, and issuance of permits.—No opening or other interference whatsoever shall be made in any state road or highway other than streets in cities and towns, nor shall any structure be placed thereon, nor shall any structure which has been placed thereon be changed or removed except in accordance with a written permit from the state highway commission or its duly authorized officers, who shall exercise complete and permanent control over such roads and highways. No state road or state highway, other than streets in cities and towns, shall be dug up for laying or placing pipes, conduits, sewers, wires, railways, or other objects, and no tree or shrub in or on any state road or state highway shall be planted, trimmed, or removed, and no obstruction placed thereon, without a written permit as hereinbefore provided for, and then only in accordance with the regulations of said highway commission or its duly authorized officers or employees; and the work shall be under the supervision and to the satisfaction of the state highway commission or its officers or employees, and the entire expense of replacing the highway in as good condition as before shall be paid by the persons, firms, or corporations to whom the permit is given, or by whom the work is done: the state highway commission, or its duly authorized officers, may, in its discretion, before granting a permit under the provisions of this article, require the applicant to file a satisfactory bond, payable to the state of North Carolina, in such an amount as may be deemed sufficient by the state highway commission or its duly authorized officers, conditioned upon the proper compliance with the requirements of this article by the person, firm, or corporation granted such permit. Any person making any opening in a state road or State highway, or placing any structure thereon, or changing or removing any structure thereon, without obtaining a written permit as herein provided, or not in compliance with the terms of such permit, or otherwise violating the provisions of this article, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor: Provided, this section shall not apply to railroad crossings. The railroads shall keep up said crossings as now provided by law. (1921, c. 2, s. 13; 1923, c. 160, s. 2.)

See note under section 3846(f).

§ 3846(v). Letting of contracts to bidders after advertisement; enforcing claims against contractor by action on bond.—All contracts over one thousand dollars that the commission may let for construction, or any other kinds of work necessary to carry out the provisions of this article, shall be let, after public advertising, under rules and regulations to be made and published by the state highway commission, to a responsible bidder, the right to reject any and all bids being reserved to the state highway commission.

No action shall be brought upon any bond given by any contractor of the highway commission, by any laborer, materialman or other person until and after the completion or the work contracted to be done by the said contractor. Any laborer, materialman or other person having a claim against the said contractor and the bond given by such contractor, shall file a statement of the said claim with the contractor and with the surety upon his bond, and, in the event the surety is a corporation, with the general agent of such corporation, within the State of North Carolina, within six (6) months from the completion of the contract, and a failure to file such claim within said time shall be a complete bar against any recovery on the bond of the contractor and the surety thereon. Only one suit or action may be brought upon the said bond and against the said surety, which suit or action shall be brought in one of the counties in which the work and labor was done and performed and not elsewhere. The procedure pointed out in chapter one hundred of the Public Laws of nineteen hundred twenty-three, section 2445, shall be followed. No surety shall be liable for more than the penalty of the bond. Any person entitled to bring an action shall have the right to require the State Highway Commission to furnish information as to when the contract is completed, and it shall be the duty of the Highway Commission to give to any such person proper notice. If the full amount of the liability of the surety on said bond is insufficient to pay the said amount of all claims and demands, then, after paying the full amount due the State Highway Commission, the remainder shall be distributed pro rata among the claimants. Any claim of the State Highway Commission against the said bond and the surety thereon shall be preferred as against any cause of action in favor of any laborer, materialman or other persons and shall constitute a first lien or claim against the said bond and the surety thereon. (1921, c. 2, s. 15; 1923, c. 160, s. 3; 1925, cc. 260, 269.)

See note under section 3846(f).

Editor's Note.—The Act of 1923 added a second paragraph to this section. The Act of 1925 struck out this paragraph and inserted the present one in lieu thereof.

Section Prospective.—This section falls within the rule of presumption that the effect of the statute is to be prospective only, in the absence of an expressed or clearly implied intent to the contrary. Overman & Co. v. Maryland Casualty Co., 193 N. C. 86, 136 S. E. 250.

Immunity of Contractor from Liability for Defect.—One constructing a roadway under contract with state highway commission did not share the immunity given that body by this section against liability for damages resulting from defective condition of the highway. Thompson Caldwell Const. Co. v. Young, 294 Fed. 145. See note under section 3846(t).

Extent of Surety's Liability.—The surety on a contractor's bond for the building of a pubic road or highway is presumed to have acquainted itself with the character of the road contracted for by its principal, and the local conditions that would affect the cost of its construction, and where its bond includes payment by the contractor of labor and material to be employed or used therein, it is liable to one who has rented to the contractor a steam shovel, boiler, etc., necessary to the construction of the highway under local existing conditions. Wiseman v. Lacy, 193 N. C. 751, 138 S. E. 121.

Venue of Suit. — All action against the State Highway Commission and surety on contractor's bond given for the benefit of those performing labor or work upon a State highway since 10 March, 1925, is governed as to venue by ch. 260, Public Laws, 1925, which is prospective in effect. Independence Trust Co. v. Massachusetts etc., Ins. Co., 190 N. C. 680, 130 S. E. 547.

Laborers, etc., Having No Statutory Lien.—The surety bond given to the State Highway Commission by a contractor for the construction of a highway under the provisions of this section contemplates the protection of laborers and materialmen who have no statutory lien. John L. Roper Lumber Co. v. Lawson, 195 N. C. 840, 143 S. E. 847.

Extent of Liability on Bond.—This section excludes torts committed by the contractor or its employees in negligently setting fire to lands along the route of the project. John L. Roper Lumber Co. v. Lawson, 195 N. C. 840, 143 S. E. 847.

§ 3846(w). Working of state convicts. — All able-bodied male convicts sentenced to the state prison may be assigned to work upon the state highway system under the direction of the state highway commission. That the cost or hire of the able-bodied male convicts to the state highway commission shall be agreed upon between the state highway commission and the governor and chairman of the prison board, on the basis of paying the actual expenses in working said convicts, including food, clothing, housing, guarding, transportation and incidental expenses by the state highway commission to the state prison board. (1921, c. 2, s. 17.)

See § 3846(27).

§ 3846(x). Working of county convicts. — The state highway commission may make contracts and agreements with the board of county commissioners or road governing bodies of any county in the state for the purpose of hiring any county convicts to be worked on the state highway system or in the production of materials for use in constructing state highways, and for constructing state highways. (1921, c. 2, s. 18.)

See note under section 3846(f).

Editor's Note.—It would seem that this section is superseded by §§ 3846(22), et seq.

§ 3846 (y). Elimination of grade crossings. (a) Whenever any road or street forming a link in or a part of the State highway system, whether under construction or heretofore or hereafter constructed, shall cross or intersect any railroad at the same level or grade, and and in the opinion of the chairman of the State Highway Commission such grade crossing is dangerous to the traveling public, or unreasonably interferes with or impedes the traffic on said State highway, the State Highway Commission shall issue notice requiring the person or company operating such railroad to appear before the State Highway Commission, at its office in Raleigh, upon a day named, which shall not be less than ten days or more than twenty days from the date of said notice, and show cause, if any it has, why such railroad company shall not be required to alter such crossing in such way as to remove such dangerous condition and to make such changes and improvements thereat as will safeguard and secure the safety and convenience of the traveling public thereafter. Such notice shall be served on such railroad company as is now provided by law for the service of summons on domestic corporations, and officers serving such notice shall receive the same fees as now provided by law for the service of such summons.

(b) Upon the day named, the State Highway Commission shall hear said matter and shall determine whether such crossing is dangerous to public safety, or unreasonably interferes with traffic thereon. If it shall determine that said crossing is, or upon the completion of such highway will be, dangerous to public safety and its elimination or safeguarding is necessary for the proper protection of the traffic on said State highway, the State Highway Commission shall thereupon order the construction of an underpass or overpass at said crossing or it may in its discretion order said railroad company to install and maintain gates, alarm signals or other approved safety devices if and when in the opinion of said commission upon the hearing as aforesaid the public safety and convenience will be secured thereby. And said order shall specify that one-half of the cost of the construction of such underpass or overpass or the installation of such safety device shall be borne by the State Highway Commission and one-half thereof by the railroad company operating such railroad, as provided in section (c) hereof, but in no instance shall the State Highway Commission bear any part of the cost of the maintenance of any structure or safety device so constructed or installed except in the maintenance of an overhead separation.

(c) Upon the filing and issuance of the order as hereinbefore provided for requiring the construction of any underpass or overpass or the installation and maintenance of gates, alarm signals or other safety devices at any crossing upon the State highway system, it shall be the duty of the railroad company operating the railroad with which said public road or street intersects or crosses to construct such underpass or overpass or to install and maintain such safety device as may be required in said order. The work may be done and material furnished either by the railroad company or the State Highway Commission, as may be agreed upon, and, in case of an underpass, the railroad company shall be responsible for one-half of the expense of all excavations through the existing railroad fill as well as one-half of the complete cost of the structure, including both the foundation and superstructure; and in case of an overpass, the railroad company shall be responsible for one-half of the entire cost of the bridge which will span the opening over the tracks of the railroad from abutment to abutment and including such abutments. And if a grade crossing is not eliminated by an overpass or underpass, the railroad company shall be responsible for one-half of the cost of installing gates, alarm signals or other approved safety devices. If the work is done and material furnished by the railroad company, an itemized statement of the total amount expended therefor shall, at the completion of the work, be furnished the State Highway Commission, and the commission shall pay such amount to the railroad company as may be shown on such statement after deducting the amount for which the railroad company is responsible; and if the work is done by the State Highway Commission, an itemized statement of the total amount expended shall be furnished to the railroad company, and the railroad company shall pay to the State Highway Commission such part thereof as the railroad company may be responsible for as herein provided; such payment by the railroad company shall be under such rules and regulations and by such methods as the State Highway Commission may provide.

(d) That within sixty days after the issuance of the order for construction of an underpass or the installation of other safety device as herein provided for, the railroad company against which such order is issued shall submit to the State Highway Commission plans for such construction or installation, and within ten days thereafter said State Highway Commission, through its chairman, shall notify such railroad company of its approval of said plan or of such changes and amendments thereto as to it shall seem advisable. If such plans are not submitted to the State Highway Commission by said railroad company within sixty days as aforesaid, the chairman of the State Highway Commission shall have plans prepared and submit them to the railroad company. The railroad company shall within ten days notify the chairman of its approval of the said plans or shall have the right within such ten days to suggest such changes and amendments in the plans so submitted by the chairman of the State Highway Commission as to it shall seem advisable. The plans so prepared and finally approved by the chairman of the State

Highway Commission shall have the same force and effect, and said railroad company shall be charged with like liability, and said underpass or overpass shall be constructed or such safety device installed in accordance therewith as if said plans had been originally prepared and submitted by said railroad company. If said railroad company shall fail or neglect to begin or complete the construction of said underpass or overpass, or the installation of such safety device, as required by the order of the State Highway Commission, said commission is authorized and directed to prepare the necessary plans therefor, which plans shall have the same force and effect, and shall fix said railroad company with like liability, as if said plans had been originally prepared and submitted by said railroad company, and the State Highway Commission shall proceed to construct said underpass or overpass or install such safety device in accordance therewith. An accurate account of the cost of said construction or installation shall be kept by the State Highway Commission and upon the completion of such work a statement of that portion thereof chargeable to such railroad company as set out in the order of the commission shall be rendered said railroad company. Upon the failure or refusal of said company to pay the bill so rendered, the Highway Commission shall recover the amount thereof by suit therefor against said company in the Superior Court of Wake County: Provided, that the payment by such railroad company of said proportionate part may be made under such rules and regulations and by such methods as the State Highway Commission may provide. If the State Highway Commission shall undertake to do the work, it shall not obstruct or impair the operation of the railroad and shall keep the roadbed and track safe for the operation of trains at every stage of work. That if said railroad company shall construct such underpass or overpass or shall install such safety devices in accordance with the order of the State Highway Commission, one-half of the cost of such construction shall upon the completion of said work be paid to such railroad company by the State Highway Commission. The State Highway Commission may inspect and check the expenditures for such construction or installation so made by the railroad company and an accurate account of the cost thereof shall upon the completion of said work be submitted to the commission by the railroad company. If the Highway Commission shall neglect or refuse to pay that portion of the cost of said construction or installation chargeable to it, the railroad company shall recover the amount thereof by suit therefor against the Highway Commission in the Superior Court of Wake County.

(e) If any railroad company so ordered by the State Highway Commission to construct an underpass or overpass or to install safety devices at grade crossings as hereinbefore provided for shall fail or refuse to comply with the order of the State Highway Commission requiring such construction or installation, said railroad company shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be fined not less than fifty nor more than one hundred dollars in the discretion of the court for each day such failure or refusal shall continue, each said day to constitute a separate offense.

(f) The jurisdiction over and control of said grade crossings and safety devices upon the State highways system herein given the State Highway Commission shall be exclusive.

(g) From any order or decision so made by the State Highway Commission the railroad company may appeal to the Superior Court of the county wherein is located the crossing affected by said order. Such appeal shall not defer or delay the construction of such underpass or overpass or the installation of such safety device as required by the order of the commission, but the railroad company shall proceed to comply with such order in accordance with its terms. The action of the railroad company in complying with and carrying out such order pending said appeal shall not prejudice or affect the rights or remedies of such railroad company on such appeal. Upon such appeal the court shall determine only whether the order of the commission for such construction or installation is unreasonable and unnecessary for the protection of the traveling public and the apportionment of the cost to the extent hereinafter provided in this subsection, and if upon the hearing of said appeal it shall be determined that said order was unnecessary for the protection of the traveling public, the State Highway Commission shall bear the total cost of the construction of such underpass or overpass or the installation of such safety device. In event the decision on appeal should be that the construction or installation was necessary but the cost thereof unreasonable, then the railroad company shall bear its proportion (not to exceed fifty per cent) of such cost as may be determined on appeal would have been reasonable to meet the necessity in the instant case. Upon said appeal from an order of the State Highway Commission, the burden of proof shall be upon the railroad company, and if it shall not be found and determined upon said appeal that said order was unreasonable or unnecessary for the protection of the traveling public at said crossing, then such railroad company shall bear its proportion of the cost of such construction or installation in accordance with this act. (1921, c. 2, s. 19; 1925, c. 277.)

See note under section 3846(f).

Editor's Note.—Public Laws 1929, ch. 74, without taking any account of the Act of 1925 amending this section, attempted to amend this section as appearing in vol. 3 C. S. as follows: "Add in line three, after the word 'level' and before the word 'and,' immediately following the word 'level,' the following: 'or by an underpass or overpass which, in the opinion of the State Highway Commission, is unsafe or inadequate to meet the existing needs of traffic.' Further amend said section by adding in the fifth line from the bottom, on page two hundred and forty-nine, after the word 'abolished' and before the word 'by,' the following: 'or an existing overhead bridge or underpass replaced.' "

§ 3846(z). Exclusiveness of jurisdiction of commission over grade crossings and safety devices.—The jurisdiction over and control of grade crossings and safety devices upon the state highway system given the state highway commission shall be exclusive. (1923, c. 160, s. 5.)

See note under section 3846(f).

§ 3846(aa). Maintenance, upkeep, and control.— In assuming control of the roads constituting the state highway system, the commission shall assume as soon as practicable the maintenance and upkeep of said roads, and shall as soon as practicable organize a proper and sufficient patrol force to keep said roads in good condition. In the event of failure to maintain said roads in good condition, upon complaint of the board of county commissioners, or road-governing body of any county, the state highway commission shall at once investigate such complaint, and if the same be well founded, then it shall at once order the repair and maintenance of the road complained of, and investigate the neglect of the person in charge of the road so complained of, and, if upon investigation the person or persons in charge of the road complained of be at fault, he may promptly be discharged from the service of the commission. (1921, c. 2, s. 20.)

See note under section 3846(f).

§ 3846(bb). Acquirement of land and deposits of materials; condemnation proceedings. — The state highway commission is vested with the power to acquire such rights of way and title to such lands, gravel, gravel beds, or bars, sand, sand beds or bars, rock, stone, boulders, quarries, or quarry beds, lime or other earth or mineral deposits or formations, and such standing timber as it may deem necessary and suitable for road construction, maintenance, and repair, and the necessary approaches and ways through, and a sufficient amount of land surrounding and adjacent thereto, as it may determine to enable it to properly prosecute the work, either by purchase, donation, or condemnation, in the manner hereinafter set out. The state highway commission is also vested with the power to acquire such additional land alongside of the rights of way or roads as in its opinion may be necessary and proper for the protection of the roads and roadways, and such additional area as may be necessary as by it determined for approaches to and from such material and other requisite area as may be desired by it for working purposes.

Whenever the state highway commission and the owner or owners of the lands, materials, and timber required by the state highway commission to carry on the work as herein provided for, are unable to agree as to the price thereof, the state highway commission is hereby vested with the power to condemn the lands, materials, and timber, and in so doing the ways, means, methods, and procedure of chapter thirty-three, entitled "Eminent Domain," shall be used by it as near as the same is suitable for the purposes of this law, and in all instances the general and special benefits shall be assessed as offsets against damages: Provided, that all actions for damages for rights of way or other causes shall be commenced within six months from the completion of each particular project.

In case condemnation shall become necessary the state highway commission is authorized to enter the lands and take possession of the same, and also take possession of such materials and timber as is required by it prior to bringing the proceeding for condemnation, and prior to the payment of the money for the said property.

In the event the owner or owners shall appeal from the report of the commissioners, it shall not be necessary for the state highway commission to deposit the money assessed with the clerk, but it may proceed and use the property to be condemned until the final determination of the action.

The state highway and public works commission shall have the same authority and under the same provisions of law hereinbefore provided for construction of state highways for the acquirement of all rights of way and easements necessary to comply with the rules and regulations of the United States government for the construction of federal parkways in the State of North Carolina. That the right of way acquired or appropriated may, at the option of the commission, be a fee simple title, and the nature and extent of the right of way and easements so acquired or appropriated shall be designated upon a map showing the location across each county, and, when adopted by the commission, shall be filed with the register of deeds in each county, and, upon the filing of said map, such title shall vest in the state highway and public works commission. The said commission is hereby authorized to convey such title so acquired to the United States government, or its appropriate agency, free and clear of all claims for compensation. All compensation contracted to be paid or legally assessed shall be a valid claim against the state highway and public works commission, payable out of the construction fund of said commission. (1921, c. 2, s. 22; 1923, c. 160, s. 6; 1931, c. 145, s. 23; 1935, c. 2.)

See note under section 3846(f).

Editor's Note.—The Act of 1931 struck out the following from the first paragraph of this section: "Provided, that the right of condemnation provided for in this article shall not apply to gravel beds or bars, sand beds or bars, rock, stone, boulders, quarries, or quarry beds, lime, or other earth, or mineral deposits or formations, in actual bona fide operation for commercial purposes by private enterprise."

The amendment of 1935 added the last paragraph of this section.

When Amendment Took Effect.—At the time of the relocation of the road in question and when this suit was instituted, the rule for the admeasurement of damages was as stated by the trial court in his charge, as prescribed by this section prior to the amendment. Lanier v. Greenville, 174 N. C. 311, 93 S. E. 850. But subsequent to the institution of the suit and before trial, the Legislature amended the law by adding: "And in all instances the general and special benefits shall be assessed as off-sets against damages," etc., ch. 160, sec. 6, Public Laws, 1923. Hence, the law as amended and in force at the time of trial should have been followed in determining the amount plaintiff was entitled to recover. Wade v. State Highway Comm., 188 N. C. 210, 211, 124 S. E. 193.

Procedure for Adjusting Claim Exclusive. — The State highway commission, under sections 3846(f)-3846(p), is charged with the duty of exercising certain administrative and governmental functions, and statutory method of procedure for adjusting and litigating claims against it is exclusive and may alone be pursued. Latham v. State Highway Comm., 191 N. C. 141, 131 S. E. 385.

The owner of land cannot maintain an action in tort against the State Highway Commission, an unincorporated governmental agency, for damages caused to his land for its having been taken by the commission for highway purposes, and is confined for his remedy to the provisions of the special proceedings of this section. McKinney v. North Carolina State Highway Comm., 192 N. C. 670, 135 S. E. 772.

Measure of Damages for Property Injured.—The owner of a water mill which had a right of ingress and egress to his mill over the land of another, had constructed a bridge and maintained a ferry situated to command a large patronage can recover damages for the injury to his property by the building of a highway but not for profits from his mill which is too speculative. Riverside Milling Co. v. State Highway Comm., 190 N. C. 692, 130 S. E. 724.

Power of Townships.—No such broad and explicit powers to acquire land and road materials by condemnation were given the road commission of Lovelady township, Burke County, by Pub. Loc. Laws 1915, ch. 426, as are given by this section to the state highway commission, and courts should not go beyond language of statute in construing it. Lowman v. Abee, 191 N. C. 147, 131 S. E. 277.

Cited in Greenville v. State Highway Commission, 196 N. C. 226, 227, 145 S. E. 31; Long v. Randleman, 199 N. C. 344, 154 S. E. 317.

§ 3846(bb)1. Purchase of equipment and resale to counties. — The State Highway Commission may at its discretion, and is hereby authorized, when requested by the board of county commissioners, county highway commission, or body having charge of the construction or maintenance of roads in any county in the State, to make, purchase and resell to said county any equipment, supplies, machinery, trucks, motor vehicles, and material to be used in connection with the construction or upkeep of the said roads; and is hereby likewise authorized, upon request of the board of county commissioners, board of education, or other body having the right to contract in the premises, to buy motor vehicles, equipment and supplies to be used in connection with the transportation of pupils to and from the said schools, and resell the same to said counties: Provided, however, that the State Highway Commission may require such deposit or assurances on the part of the county as they may deem proper before making said purchase or reselling to said county. (1924, c. 69.)

See note under section 3846(f).

Editor's Note.—It would seem that this section is rendered inoperative by §§ 3846(1) et seq.

§ 3846(cc). Felonious acts of commissioners and employees.—Any member of the highway commission, or any person employed by the highway commission in connection with carrying on the work outlined in this article, who shall knowingly, or fraudulently, perform any act with intent to injure the state, or any contractor, or his agent or employee, who shall conspire with a member of the highway commission or employee thereof or any state official to permit a violation of the contract or contractor with intent to injure the state, or any agent or employee of any contractor who shall do any work on any state highway in violation of contract, and with intent to defraud the state, and the member of the state highway commission, employee or state official so conspiring shall each be guilty of a felony, and upon conviction thereof, shall be confined in the state prison not less than one year and not more than five years, and be liable to the state in a civil action instituted by the state on relation of the state highway commission, for double the amount the state may have lost by reason thereof. (1921, c. 2, s. 49.)

See note under section 3846(f).

§ 3846(dd). Responsibility of counties for upkeep, etc., devolved.—The board of county commissioners or other road-governing bodies of the various counties in the state are hereby relieved of all responsibility or liability for the upkeep or maintenance of any of the roads or bridges thereon constituting the state highway system, after the same shall have been taken over, and the control thereof assumed by the state highway commission and the state highway commission both as a commission and the individual members thereof, shall not be liable for any damage sustained by any person, firm, or corporation on the said state highway system, except for wanton and corrupt negligence. (1921, c. 2, s. 50.)

See note under section 3846(f).

Part 4. County, City, and Town Roads

§ 3846(ee). Encouragement of county road building; contracts for reimbursement. — To encourage counties to build hard-surfaced or other dependable roads constituting a part of the state highway system before same can be constructed by the state highway commission, the said commission is hereby authorized and empowered to enter into contracts and agreements with said county or counties for fair reimbursement for said expense: Provided, said road or bridge is built in accordance with the specifications and under the direction of the state highway commission. (1921, c. 2, s. 14.)

See note under section 3846(f).

Editor's Note.—This section seems to have been repealed by section 3772(l). See Oliver v. Comm., 194 N. C. 380.

Use of Funds for Other Purposes—Where the citizens and taxpayers have petitioned the county commissioners to issue county bonds and loan the proceeds to the State Highway Commission for the purpose of anticipating the State's allocation of funds to the county, wherein certain roads are designated, the county commissioners may disregard the roads designated in the petition and apply a part of the proceeds thus received to the building of certain other of the county roads found to be more necessary as links in the State system of highways, there being therein no element of contractual relations. Oliver v. Board of Commissioners, 194 N. C. 380.

In such case the building of the two additional roads before the others will not be enjoined at the suit of the citizens and taxpayers upon the ground that the county commissioners were without power to so amend the original contract, it being both to the advantage of the county and its taxpayers as well as to the State. Oliver v. Board of Commissioners, 194 N. C. 380.

§ 3846(ff). Connection of highway with improved streets; pipe lines and conduits; cost. — When any portion of the state highway system shall run through any city or town and it shall be found necessary to connect the state highway system with improved streets of such city or town as may be designated as part of such system, the state highway commission shall build such connecting links, the same to be uniform in dimensions and materials with such state highways: Provided, however, that whenever any city or town may desire to widen its streets which may be traversed by the state highway, the state highway commission may make such arrangements with said city or town in connection with the construction of said road as, in its discretion, may seem wise and just under all the facts and circumstances in connection therewith: Provided further, that such city or town shall save the state highway commission harmless from any claims for damage arising from the construction of said road through such city or town and including claims for right of way, change of grade line, and interference with public-service structures. And the state highway commission may require such city or town to cause to be laid all water, sewer, gas or other pipe lines or conduits, together with all necessary house or lot connections or services, to the curb line of such road or street to be constructed: Provided further, that whenever by agreement with the road governing body of any city or town any street designated as a part of the state highway system shall be surfaced by order of the state highway commission at the expense, in whole or in part, of a city or town it shall be lawful for the governing body of such city or town to declare an assessment district as to the street to be improved, without petition by the owners of property abutting thereon, and the costs thereof, exclusive of so much of the cost as is incurred at street intersections and the share of railroads or street railways whose tracks are laid in said street which shall be assessed under their franchise, shall be specially assessed upon the lots or parcels of land abutting directly on the improvements, according to the extent of their respective frontage thereon by an equal rate per foot of such frontage. (1921, c. 2, s. 16; 1923, c. 160, s. 4.)

See note under section 3846(f).

Construed with Local Act.—Chapter 56, article 9, of the acts of 1921 providing for local improvements of the streets of a city or incorporated town by a method of assessing the owners of abutting land, and this section, are to be construed together in pari materia. Shute v. Monroe, 187 N. C. 676, 123 S. E. 71.

Same—Exercise of Power by City. — Where the State Highway Commission orders a connecting link to be hard-surfaced, and the municipality voluntarily agrees to make the improvement, it is not required, under chapter 56, article 9, that a petition of the abutting owners of land thereon be made. This section gives the governing body of the municipality power to make it an assessment district. Shute v. Monroe, 187 N. C. 676, 123 S. E. 71.

This section applies only where the width of the street and the regular highway are the same. Sechriest v. Thomasville, 202 N. C. 108, 162 S. E. 212.

Power of City to Voluntarily Improve.—Where a city or incorporated town having three thousand inhabitants, or more, has a considerable portion of its streets hard-surfaced, the municipality may voluntarily assess and undertake the improvement of a street being a connecting link in the highway system. Shute v. Monroe, 187 N. C. 676, 123 S. E. 71.

Invalid Assessment May Be Subsequently Validated. — Where an incorporated town, under authority of this section, levies an assessment against abutting property owners for street improvements in paving a strip on either side of a state highway running through the town, but such levies are made without a petition of the abutting owners as prescribed by section 2707, the assessments are invalid but not void, and the Legislature has the power to validate the assessments by subsequent legislative act. Crutchfield v. Thomasville, 205 N. C. 709, 172 S. E. 366.

Part 5. Funds and Bonds

§ 3846(gg). Repealed by Public Laws 1931, c. 145, s. 2.

§ 3846(hh). Repealed by Public Laws 1931, c. 145, s. 2.

§ 3846(ii). How funds used.—The revenues derived in each fiscal year under chapter 55, article 3, and 3(A) shall be set aside and paid out for the purposes following:

First. A sum sufficient to defray the expenses of the State Highway Commission, but not exceeding two hundred and fifty thousand dollars ($250,000) annually, and a sum sufficient to pay all expenses of collecting the revenues provided hereby, including clerical assistance, the cost of furnishing number plates and mailing same, and the cost of necessary blanks, books and other supplies, such expenses of collecting to be approved by the chairman of the State Highway Commission and not to exceed in any fiscal year four per cent of the total amount of the collections in such year;

Second. A sum sufficient to pay the principal and interest falling due in such fiscal year and on the first day of the ensuing July upon all highway bonds issued and to be issued under this act and under any act or acts passed by the General Assembly at its regular session in one thousand nine hundred and twenty-five or thereafter, including a sum sufficient to make the five hundred thousand dollars ($500,000) annual sinking fund payments required by chapter one hundred eighty-eight (188), Public Laws one thousand nine hundred and twenty-three, ch. 125, art. 12 upon the sixty-five million dollars ($65,000,000) bonds issued and to be issued under this act, such payments to be made in the fiscal year in which falls the beginning of the calendar year in which said chapter one hundred eighty-eight (188) required the same to be made; said five hundred thousand dollars ($500,000) sinking fund payments for each year to and including the fiscal year one thousand nine hundred and twenty-seven, and one thousand nine hundred and twenty-eight, aggregating two million five hundred thousand dollars ($2,500,000), having been anticipated and having heretofore been paid;

Third. Any surplus of such revenues in any fiscal year including any unused balances of the maximum amounts hereinabove provided for the expenses of the commission and collection of revenues, after provision has been made for all the items hereinabove set forth in this section, shall be subject to disposition by the Highway Commission in the maintenance of highways in the State highway system and of the several county road systems, and in the construction and reconstruction of highways in said system and in meeting the requirements of the United States government as to Federal aid in such construction and reconstruction. No part of such revenues shall be used in the maintenance, construction and reconstruction of highways or in meeting Federal aid requirements unless the above requirements for expense, interest, principal and sinking fund have been met or can be met from such revenues. If at any time such revenues should be insufficient for interest, principal and sinking fund payments herein required to be made, and for proper maintenance of the highways, additional revenues for such purposes shall be provided by the General Assembly. It shall be lawful to reduce in any year the revenues provided hereby, by act of the General Assembly, which may authorize such redemption for a period not longer at one time than the biennium for which appropriations for general expense are permitted, but no such act shall be passed unless (a) the sinking fund commission, or if there be no sinking fund commission, the State Treasurer, shall certify to the General Assembly the amount required for the principal, interest and sinking fund payments and (b) the State Highway Commission shall certify to the General Assembly the amount required for maintenance of highways and (c) the General Assembly shall determine that the proposed reduction may be made without prejudice to the payment from the remaining revenues of the amounts so certified for principal, interest, sinking fund and maintenance of highways, as well as the maximum amount herein set aside to defray the expenses of the commission and for expenses of collection: Provided, however, that no holder of any highway bonds of the State shall be prejudiced by this amendment or by any act amendatory of this section passed subsequent to the issuance of such bonds, and any such bondholder shall be entitled to all the rights to which he would be entitled if no such amendment had been made. (1921, c. 2, s. 27; 1923, c. 263, s. 1; 1925, c. 45, s. 45; 1925, c. 133, s. 2.)

See note under section 3846(f).

As to act to provide for the expenditure of state highway maintenance funds for the erection of markers at points of historic interest along the public highways, see Public Laws 1935, chapter 197.

Editor's Note.—The Act of 1931 added the words: "and of the several county road sytems" in lines nine and ten of subsection "Third" of this section, and struck out the words "in the State Highway System" formerly appearing after the word "highways" in line twenty-three of said subsection.

§ 3846(jj). Bond issue for road construction.—For the purpose of carrying out the provisions of this article, and of enabling the state to avail itself to the fullest extent of all federal aid funds that are now or may become available for use in the state for road purposes, the state treasurer is hereby authorized, empowered, and directed to issue and sell serial bonds of the state payable in not less than ten nor more than forty years from the date of issue, and aggregating not more than fifty million dollars ($50,000,000), to be known, styled, and designated "State of North Carolina Highway Serial Bonds," said bonds to mature at such time or times, not less than ten years nor more than forty years from the date of said bonds, as may be determined and fixed by the governor and council of state. Not more than ten million dollars ($10,000,000) of said bonds may be issued and sold in the year one thousand nine hundred and twenty-one; and not more than ten million dollars ($10,000,000) of said bonds may be issued and sold in the year one thousand nine hundred and twenty-two; and the balance may be issued and sold at the rate of ten million dollars ($10,000,000) per annum: Provided, however, that if the progress of the work shall be such as to justify it, then, and in that event, more than ten million dollars ($10,000,000) of the total amount herein authorized may be issued and sold in any one year at the request of the state highway commission, and by and with the consent of the governor and council of state.

An additional issue of fifteen million dollars ($15,000,000) of bonds is hereby authorized. The said bonds shall be issued in the manner and in accordance with the provisions of this section, and the proceeds received therefrom shall be used for the purposes in this section prescribed. (1921, c. 2, s. 39; Ex. Sess. 1921, c. 74; 1923, c. 263, s. 3.)

§ 3846(kk). Interest on bonds. — All of said bonds shall bear interest at a rate to be fixed by the governor and council of state, but not exceeding five per cent per annum, and are to be dated the first day of January or July of the year in which the bonds are issued. Interest on said bonds shall be payable semiannually on the first day of January and July of each and every year so long as any portion of said bonds shall remain unpaid; and when sold and turned over to the state treasurer all of said fund to be part of the construction fund and known as the "State Highway Fund." (1921, c. 2, s. 40; 1923, c. 263, s. 4.)

§ 3846(ll). Coupon or registered bonds; denomination; receipt for state taxes; sale.—All bonds authorized and issued under this article shall be coupon bonds of the denomination of one hundred dollars ($100), five hundred dollars ($500), and one thousand dollars ($1,000), respectively, or such other denominations as the state treasurer may determine, and shall be signed by the governor and the state treasurer, and sealed with the great seal of the state. The coupons thereon may be signed by the state treasurer alone, or he may have lithographed, engraved, or printed thereon a facsimile of his signature. The said bonds shall be in all other respects in such form as the state treasurer may direct. The coupons after maturity shall be receivable in payment of taxes, debts, dues, licenses, fines, and demands due the state of any kind whatsoever, which shall be expressed on the face of the bonds. Before selling the bonds herein authorized to be issued, the state treasurer shall advertise the sale and invite sealed bids in such manner as in his judgment may seem most effectual to secure the best price. He is authorized to accept bids for the entire amount of such issue to be sold in any one year, or any portion thereof, and when the conditions are equal, he shall give the preference of purchase to the citizens of North Carolina; and he is empowered to sell the bonds herein authorized in such manner as in his judgment will produce the best price, but not for less than par and accrued interest and the full faith, credit, and taxing power of the state are hereby pledged for the payment of the principal and interest of the bonds herein authorized to be issued and sold. All expenses necessarily incurred in the preparation and sale of the bonds shall be paid from the proceeds of such sale. (1921, c. 2, s. 41; 1923, c. 263, s. 5.)

§ 3846(mm). Registration of bonds.—The said bonds shall be subject to registration as to principal alone, or both principal and interest, in accordance with the provisions of the general law governing registration of the state securities as the same may from time to time be in force. (1921, c. 2, s. 42; 1923, c. 263, s. 6.)

§ 3846(nn). Exemption of bonds from taxation.—The bonds and coupons and notes issued in anticipation of the sale of the bonds, or for the payment of the interest thereon shall be exempt from all state, county, and municipal taxation or assessments, direct or indirect, general or special, whether imposed for the purposes of general revenue or otherwise, and the interest thereon shall not be subject to taxation as for incomes, nor shall said bonds and coupons and notes issued in anticipation of sale of the bonds, or for the payment of the interest thereon, or installment of principal, be subject to taxation when constituting a part of the surplus of any bank, trust company or other corporation. (1921, c. 2, s. 43.)

§ 3846(oo). Investment in bonds by fiduciaries.—It shall be lawful for all executors, administrators, guardians, and fiduciaries generally, and all sinking fund commissioners to invest any moneys in their hands in said bonds when such investments are made. (1921, c. 2, s. 44.)

§ 3846(pp). Loans in anticipation of sale of bonds. Loans for payment of interest and installments.—The state treasurer, by and with the consent of the governor and council of state, is hereby authorized to borrow money at the lowest rate of interest obtainable, in anticipation of the sale of the bonds herein authorized, and for the purposes for which said bonds are authorized to be issued. The state treasurer is hereby further authorized, by and with the consent of the governor and council of state, to borrow money at the lowest rate of interest obtainable, for the purpose of paying the interest on, or any installments of the said bonds, in the event that there are not sufficient funds in the state treasury with which to pay said interest or installments of principal as they respectively fall due. The state treasurer shall execute and issue notes of the state for the money so borrowed, and he is hereby authorized to renew any such notes from time to time by issuing new notes. The rate of interest, the date of payment of said notes or renewals, and all matters and details in connection with the issuance and sale thereof shall be fixed and determined by the governor and council of state. Such notes when issued shall be entitled to all the privileges, immunities and exemptions that the bonds authorized to be issued are entitled to. The full faith, credit and taxing power of the state are hereby pledged for the payment of such notes as may be issued, and all interest thereon. The proceeds received from said notes, other than notes that may be issued to pay interest or installments of principal of the bonds, shall be placed by the state treasurer in the "State Highway Fund" herein provided for. The notes issued in anticipation of the sale of the bonds shall be paid with funds derived from the sale of bonds, unless otherwise provided for by the general assembly. The notes issued for the payment of interest shall be paid from the funds collected under this article, as herein provided for, when collected, unless otherwise provided for by the general assembly. (1921, c. 2, s. 45.)

§ 3846(qq). Control of funds; vouchers for payment from funds.—The State Highway Commission, under rules and regulations established by the commission, shall have full control over the funds in the hands of the state treasurer known as the "State Highway Fund," and the same shall be paid out by the state treasurer upon proper voucher of the State Highway Commission for carrying out the purposes of this article. (1921, c. 2, s. 46.)

See note under section 3846(f).

Art. 15(A). Additional Bond Issue

§ 3846(qq) 1. Authorization; maturity. — For the purpose of providing additional means for carrying out the provisions of Article fifteen of chapter seventy, as amended and of enabling the State to avail itself to the fullest extent of all Federal aid funds that are now or may become available for use in the State for road purposes, the State Treasurer is hereby authorized by and with the consent of the Governor and Council of State to issue and sell not exceeding twenty million ($20,000,000) dollars, bonds of the State to be designated "State of North Carolina Highway Serial Bonds," maturing in annual installments on the first day of January in the following amounts and years: Six hundred thousand ($600,000) dollars in one thousand nine hundred thirty, six hundred and fifty thousand ($650,000) dollars in one thousand nine hundred thirty-one, seven hundred thousand ($700,000) dollars in one thousand nine hundred thirty-two, seven hundred fifty thousand ($750,000) dollars in one thousand nine hundred thirty-three, seven hundred fifty thousand ($750,000) dollars in one thousand nine hundred thirty-four, eight hundred thousand ($800,000) dollars in one thousand nine hundred thirty-five, eight hundred thousand ($800,000) dollars in one thousand nine hundred and thirty-six, eight hundred fifty thousand ($850,000) dollars in one thousand nine hundred thirty-seven, nine hundred thousand ($900,000) dollars in one thousand nine hundred thirty-eight, nine hundred fifty thousand ($950,000) dollars in one thousand nine hundred thirty-nine, one million ($1,000,000) dollars in one thousand nine hundred forty, one million fifty thousand ($1,050,000) dollars in one thousand nine hundred forty-one, one million one hundred thousand ($1,100,000) dollars in one thousand nine hundred forty-two, one million one hundred fifty thousand ($1,150,000) dollars in one thousand nine hundred forty-three, one million two hundred thousand ($1,200,000) dollars in one thousand nine hundred forty-four, one million two hundred fifty thousand ($1,250,000) dollars in one thousand nine hundred and forty-five, one million three hundred thousand ($1,300,000) dollars in one thousand nine hundred forty-six, one million three hundred fifty [thousand] ($1,350,000) dollars in one thousand nine hundred forty-seven, one million four hundred thousand ($1,400,000) dollars in one thousand nine hundred forty-eight, and one million four hundred fifty thousand ($1,450,000) dollars in one thousand nine hundred forty-nine, without option of prior payment. The Governor and Council of State shall not consent in the year one thousand nine hundred twenty-five to the issuance of more than ten million ($10,000,000) dollars bonds. This authorization of bond shall not take the place of any authorization heretofore made but shall be additional thereto. The said bonds shall bear interest at a rate to be fixed by the Governor and Council of State, but not exceeding five per cent per annum to be payable semi-annually on the first days of January and July. (1925, c. 35, s. 2.)

Editor's Note.—The word in brackets was inserted by the editor.

§ 3846(qq) 2. Interest coupons; registration; form.—Said bonds shall carry interest coupons which shall bear the signature of the State Treasurer, or a facsimile thereof, and said bonds shall be subject to registration and be signed and sealed as is now or may hereafter be provided by law for State bonds, and the form or denominations thereof shall be such as the State Treasurer may determine in conformity with this article. (1925, c. 35, s. 3.)

§ 3846(qq) 3. Sale of bonds.—Before selling the bonds herein authorized to be issued the State Treasurer shall advertise the sale and invite sealed bids in such manner as in his judgment may seem most effectual to secure the best price. He is authorized to accept bids for all or any portion of the bonds advertised and when the conditions are equal he shall give the preference of purchase to the citizens of North Carolina; and he is empowered to sell the bonds herein authorized in such manner as in his judgment will produce the best price, but not for less than par and accrued interest. All expenses necessarily incurred in the preparation and sale of the bonds be paid from the proceeds of such sale. (1925, c. 35, s. 4.)

§ 3846(qq) 4. Disposition of proceeds.—The proceeds of said bonds and of the bond anticipation notes herein authorized (except the proceeds of bonds the issuance of which has been anticipated by such bond anticipation notes) shall be placed by the treasurer in the construction fund known as the "State Highway Fund." (1925, c. 35, s. 5.)

§ 3846(qq) 5. Issuance of notes by treasurer.—By and with the consent of the Governor and Council of State, who shall determine the rate or maximum rate of interest and the date or approximate date of payment, the State Treasurer is hereby authorized to borrow money at the lowest rate of interest obtainable, and to execute and issue notes of the State for the same, but only in the following circumstances and under the following conditions:

(a) For anticipating the sale of any of said bonds to the issuance of which the Governor and Council of State shall have given consent, if the treasurer shall deem it advisable to postpone the issuance of such bonds.

(b) For the payment of interest upon or any installment of principal of any of said bonds then outstanding, if there shall not be sufficient funds in the State Treasury with which to pay such interest or installment as they respectively fall due.

(c) For the renewal of any loan evidenced by notes herein authorized. (1925, c. 35, s. 6.)

§ 3846(qq) 6. Payment of such notes; interest.—Notes issued in anticipation of the sale of said bonds shall be paid with funds derived from the sale of the bonds unless otherwise provided for by the General Assembly, and notes issued for the payment of interest and installments of principal shall be paid from funds provided by the General Assembly for the payment of such interest and principal when such funds are collected. Interest payments upon said notes may be evidenced by interest coupons in the treasurers discretion. (1925, c. 35, s. 7.)

§ 3846(qq) 7. Credit of state pledged.—The full faith, credit and taxing power of the State are hereby pledged for the payment of the principal and interest of the bonds and notes herein authorized. (1925, c. 35, s. 8.)

§ 3846(qq) 8. Coupons receivable for what claims.—The coupons of said bonds and notes after maturity shall be receivable in payment of all taxes, debts, dues, licenses, fines and demands due the State of any kind whatsoever. (1925, c. 35, s. 9.)

§ 3846(qq) 9. Exemption of bonds from taxation.—All of said bonds and notes and coupons shall be exempt from all State, county and municipal taxation or assessments, direct or indirect, general or special, whether imposed for the purpose of general revenue or otherwise, and the interest on said bonds and notes shall not be subject to taxation as for income, nor shall said bonds or notes or coupons be subject to taxation when constituting a part of the surplus of any bank, trust company, or other corporation. (1925, c. 35, s. 10.)

§ 3846(qq) 10. Fiduciaries may invest in bonds.—It shall be lawful for all executors, administrators, guardians and fiduciaries generally, and all sinking fund commissions, to invest any moneys in their hands in said bonds and notes. (1925, c. 35, s. 11.)

Art. 15(B). Bridge Authorized; Bond Issue

§ 3846(qq) 11. Bridge authorized.—The State Highway Commission is hereby authorized, empowered and directed to build a bridge across the lower Chowan River between the counties of Bertie and Chowan, which bridge shall be and become a part of the State highway system. (1925, c. 74, s. 1.)

See note under section 3846(f).

§ 3846(qq) 12. Bond issue authorized.—For the purpose of obtaining funds with which to build said bridge, its approaches and abutments, and acquiring the necessary land or rights therefor, the State Treasurer is hereby authorized, by and with the consent of the Governor and Council of State, to issue and sell not exceeding six hundred thousand ($600,000) dollars bonds of the State to be designated "State of North Carolina Highway Serial Bonds" maturing in annual installments on the first day of January, beginning not later than nineteen hundred and thirty-two (1932) and running not longer than nineteen hundred and forty-nine (1949), the amount of each annual installment to be fixed by the Governor and Council of State. The said bonds shall bear interest at a rate to be fixed by the Governor and Council of State, but not exceeding five per cent per annum to be payable semiannually on the first days of January and July. (1925, c. 74, s. 2; 1929, c. 128, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—The Act of 1929 amended this section by striking out "nineteen hundred and thirty (1930)," and inserting in lieu thereof "nineteen hundred and thirty-two (1932)." It was the intent of this amendment to provide that the six hundred thousand dollar bonds of the State authorized for the construction of a bridge across the Lower Chowan River shall mature in annual installments on the first day of January, beginning not later than nineteen hundred and thirty-two (1932) and running not longer than nineteen hundred and forty nine (1949), the amount of each annual installment to be fixed by the Governor and Council of State.

§ 3846(qq) 13. Coupons; registration; form.— Said bonds shall carry interest coupons which shall bear the signature of the State Treasurer or a facsimile thereof, and said bonds shall be subject to registration and be signed and sealed as is now or may hereafter be provided by law for State bonds, and the form and denominations thereof shall be such as the State Treasurer may determine in conformity with this article. (1925, c. 74, s. 3.)

§ 3846(qq) 14. Sale of bonds. — Subject to determination by the Governor and Council of State as to the manner in which said bonds shall be offered for sale, whether by publishing notices in certain newspapers and financial journals or by mailing notices or by inviting bids by correspondence or otherwise, the State Treasurer is authorized to sell said bonds at one time or from time to time at the best price obtainable, but in no case for less than par and accrued interest, and when the conditions are equal he shall give the preference of purchase to the citizens of North Carolina. All expenses necessarily incurred in the preparation and sale of the bonds shall be paid from the proceeds of such sale. (1925, c. 74, s. 4.)

§ 3846(qq) 15. Disposition of proceeds. — The proceeds of said bonds and of the bond anticipation notes herein authorized (except the proceeds of bonds the issuance of which has been anticipated by such bond anticipation notes) shall be placed by the treasurer in the construction fund known as the "State Highway Fund," but shall be used only for the purposes of this article. (1925, c. 74, s. 5.)

§ 3846(qq) 16. Issuance of notes by treasurer.—By and with the consent of the Governor and Council of State, who shall determine the rate or maximum rate of interest and the date or approximate date of payment, the State Treasurer is hereby authorized to borrow money at the lowest rate of interest obtainable, and to execute and issue notes of the State for the same, but only in the following circumstances and under the following conditions:

(a) For anticipating the sale of any of said bonds to the issuance of which the Governor and Council of State have given consent if the treasurer shall deem it advisable to postpone the issuance of such bonds.

(b) For the payment of interest upon or any installment of principal of any of said bonds then outstanding if there shall not be sufficient funds in the State Treasury with which to pay such interest or installment as they respectively fall due.

(c) For the renewal of any loan evidenced by notes herein authorized. (1925, c. 74, s. 6.)

Editor's Note.—Public Laws of 1929, ch. 144 § 1 amended subsection (c) of § 6, ch. 74, Public Laws of 1925, codified as this section, by striking out the word "loss" and substituting therefor the word "loan." This correction had already been made in the Code.

§ 3846(qq) 17. Payment of such notes.—Notes issued in anticipation of the sale of said bonds shall be paid with funds derived from the sale of the bonds unless otherwise provided for by the General Assembly and notes issued for the payment of interest and installments of principal shall be paid from funds provided by the General Assembly for the payment of such interest and principal when such funds are collected. Interest payments upon said notes may be evidenced by interest coupons in the Treasurer's discretion. (1925, c. 74, s. 7.)

§ 3846(qq) 18. Credit of state pledged.—The full faith, credit and taxing power of the State are hereby pledged for the payment of the principal and interest of the bonds and notes herein authorized. (1925, c. 74, s. 8.)

§ 3846(qq) 19. Coupons receivable for what claims. — The coupons of said bonds and notes after maturity shall be receivable in payment of all taxes, debts, dues, licenses, fines and demands due the State of any kind whatsoever. (1925, c. 74, s. 9.)

§ 3846(qq) 20. Bonds exempt from taxation. —All of said bonds and notes and coupons shall be exempt from all State, county and municipal taxation or assessments, direct or indirect, general or special, whether imposed for the purpose of general revenue or otherwise, and the interest on said bonds and notes shall not be subject to taxation as for income, nor shall said bonds or notes or coupons be subject to taxation when constituting a part of the surplus of any bank, trust company or other corporation. (1925, c. 74, s. 10.)

§ 3846(qq) 21. Fiduciaries may invest in bonds.—It shall be lawful for all executors, administrators, guardians and fiduciaries generally, and all sinking fund commissions, to invest any moneys in their hands in said bonds and notes. (1925, c. 74, s. 11.)

§ 3846(qq) 22. Provisions for payment of Chowan River Bridge bonds; tolls abolished.—Out of any funds now in the hands of the state treasurer heretofore collected as tolls for the use of the Chowan River Bridge, the state treasurer shall, on June thirtieth, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-five, pay the semi-annual interest of eight thousand five hundred dollars ($8,500.00) due on the outstanding bonds issued in pursuance of authority of this article, and shall transfer to the state highway fund any unexpended balance from the said special Chowan River Bridge bond fund. Hereafter there shall be included in the regular appropriation act an authorization from the state highway fund, for the payment of interest and principal of the said Chowan River Bridge bonds as the same shall become due. From and after the ratification of this section, no tolls or other charges shall be made for the use of the said bridge. (1925, c. 74; s. 12; 1927, c. 176; 1935, c. 15.)

As to act abolishing tolls for use of bridge over Cape Fear River, see Public Laws 1935, chapter 17.

§ 3846(qq) 23. Collectors of tolls to give bonds.—The agents or employees whose duty it shall be to collect such tolls shall be required to give bond for their proper accounting of collections in such sum and with such sureties as the commission shall determine. All funds collected as provided for in section twelve shall be daily deposited with the State Treasurer, as required for the deposits of other State moneys by chapter one hundred twenty-eight, Public Laws of one thousand nine hundred and twenty-five, and any amendments thereof, and the same shall constitute a special fund for the payment of the interest or principal on the bonds herein provided for, and/or the interest and/or principal of the notes and renewals thereof issued in anticipation of said bonds. It shall be the duty of the State Treasurer at intervals of six months, or shorter intervals, in his discretion, to pay over said funds to the State Sinking Fund Commission to be invested by it, as provided by law for other sinking funds, to create a fund for the discharge of the bonds and notes herein authorized, together with the interest on the same. (1927, c. 183, s. 12(a).

Art. 16. Abandonment of Highways, Roads, etc., Dedicated to the Public

§ 3846(rr). Time of non-use establishing abandonment. Time for assertion of right. Declaration of withdrawal to be filed and recorded.— Every strip, piece, or parcel of land which shall have been at any time dedicated to public use as a road, highway, street, avenue, or for any other purpose whatsoever, by any deed, grant, map, plat, or other means, which shall not have been actually opened and used by the public within twenty years from and after the dedication thereof, shall be thereby conclusively presumed to have been abandoned by the public for the purposes for which same shall have been dedicated; and no person shall have any right, or cause of action thereafter, to enforce any public or private easement therein, unless such right shall have been asserted within two years from and after March 8, 1921: Provided, that no abandonment of any such public or private right or easement shall be presumed until the dedicator or those claiming under him shall file and cause to be recorded in the register's office of the county where such land lies a declaration withdrawing such strip, piece, or parcel of land from the public or private use to which it shall have theretofore been dedicated in the manner aforesaid. (1921, c. 174, s. 1.)

Effect of Withdrawal before Acceptance.—The prospective dedication of streets, parks, etc., in the sale of a development of lands is not binding upon a city until acceptance, and neither the city nor the general public can acquire any rights thereunder against the owner of the land or purchasers from him where the offer of dedication has been withdrawn before acceptance, under the provisions of this section. Irwin v. Charlotte, 193 N. C. 109, 136 S. E. 368.

§ 3846(ss). Vested rights.—The provisions of section 3846(rr) shall have no application in any case where the continued use of any strip of land dedicated for street or highway purpose shall be necessary to afford convenient ingress, egress, and regress to any lot or parcel of land sold and conveyed by the dedicator of such street or highway prior to March 8, 1921. (1921, c. 174, s. 2.)

§ 3846(tt). Law effective when; application of law.—This article shall be in force from and after March 8, 1921, and shall apply to dedications made after as well as before that date. (1921, c. 174, s. 3.)

Art. 17. Giving Publicity to Highway Traffic Laws through the Public Schools

§ 3846(uu). State Highway commission to prepare digest.—The State Highway Commission shall cause to be prepared a digest of the traffic laws of the State suitable for use in the public schools of the State and have the same published in pamphlet form and delivered on or before the first day of August, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-seven, to the State Superintendent of Public Instruction, a sufficient number of said pamphlets to supply at least one copy each to all of the public high school teachers of the State. (1927, c. 242, s. 1.)

See note under section 3846(f).

§ 3846(vv). State superintendent of public instruction to distribute pamphlet.—The State Superintendent of Public Instruction shall cause to be delivered to the superintendents or principals of the various high schools of the State sufficient number of said pamphlets to supply one to each of the teachers engaged for said schools. (1927, c. 242, s. 2.)

§ 3846(ww). Pamphlets brought to attention of children.—The superintendents or principals, or other persons in charge of the public high schools of the State shall cause the contents of said pamphlets to be brought to the attention of all the children in attendance upon the said high schools in the form of lessons of at least one each week until the entire contents of said pamphlet have been read and explained. (1927, c. 242, s. 3.)

§ 3846(xx). Practice to be continued; highway commission to supply additional copies yearly.— This practice shall be continued during each school year and the State Highway Commission is directed annually on or before the first Monday of August, to supply, as hereinbefore provided, such additional copies of the said pamphlet, having the same revised from time to time to meet any amendments of the traffic laws of the State, as the State Superintendent of Public Instruction may ascertain and report to the State Highway Commission to be necessary. (1927, c. 242, s. 4.)

See note under section 3846(f).

Art. 18. State Highway Patrol

§ 3846(yy). How constituted. — The State Highway Commission is hereby authorized and directed to create under its control and supervision a division of the State Highway Patrol, consisting of one captain with headquarters in the State Highway Building at Raleigh, and not more than thirty-six (36) patrolmen. The State Highway Commission shall appoint such lieutenants and other officers, and divide the patrolmen into squads, and assign them to the performance of their duties in such portions of the State as may seem best to the State Highway Commission. The officers authorized to be appointed under this section shall be appointed with the approval of the Governor and shall serve at the pleasure of the Governor, and State Highway Commission, and be paid a compensation to be fixed by the State Highway Commission, with the approval of the Governor. (1929, c. 218, s. 1; 1931, c. 381.)

As to increase of number, see section 3846(mmm).

Editor's Note.—The Act of 1931 struck out the former section and inserted the above in lieu thereof.

By Public Laws 1933, c. 214, codified as sections 3846(hhh), et seq., the State Highway Patrol was transferred from the highway department to the revenue department.

§ 3846(zz). Oath of office; bond.—Each of the officers to be appointed under section 3846(yy) before entering upon the discharge of his duties shall subscribe and file with the Chairman of the State Highway Commission an oath of office for the faithful performance of his duties and provide a bond in such sum as the Commission may determine conditioned upon his discharge of the duties of his office. (1929, c. 218, s. 2.)

See note under preceding section.

§ 3846(aaa). Rules and regulations. — The State Highway Commission is hereby authorized and empowered to make all necessary rules and regulations for the conduct of the members of the State Highway Patrol. (1929, c. 218, s. 3.)

See note under section 3846(yy).

§ 3846(bbb). Duties of patrol.—The State Highway Patrol herein created shall regularly patrol the State highways of the State, and enforce all laws and regulations respecting the use of motor vehicles upon the highways of the State, and all laws for the protection of the highways of the State, and to this end, and for this purpose the members of said Patrol are given the power and authority of Peace Officers for the service of any warrant or other process issuing from any courts of the State having criminal jurisdiction, and are likewise authorized to arrest without warrant any person who in the presence of said officer is engaged in the violation of any of the laws of the State with respect to the use of motor vehicles upon the highways or of laws with respect to the protection of the highways of the State, and they shall have jurisdiction anywhere within the State irrespective of the county lines. (1929, c. 218, s. 4.)

§ 3846(ccc). Uniforms; furnishing motor vehicles.—The State Highway Commission shall adopt some distinguishing uniform for the members of said State Highway Patrol, and furnish each member of the Patrol with an adequate number of said uniforms and each member of said Patrol force when on duty shall be dressed in said uniform. The State Highway Commission shall likewise furnish each member of the Patrol with a suitable motor vehicle, and necessary arms, and provide for all reasonable expense incurred by said Patrol while on duty. (1929, c. 218, s. 5.)

See note under section 3846(yy).

§ 3846(ddd). Establishment of district headquarters. — The State Highway Commission shall supply at its various district offices, or at some other point within the district if it shall be deemed advisable, suitable district headquarters, and the necessary clerical assistance for the Captain of the force at his headquarters in Raleigh and at the several district headquarters. (1929, c. 218, s. 6.)

See note under section 3846(yy).

§ 3846(eee). Shifting of patrolmen from one district to another.—The captain of the State Highway Patrol under such rules and regulations as the State Highway Commission may prescribe shall have authority from time to time to shift the forces from one district to another, or to consolidate more than one district force at any point for special purposes. (1929, c. 21, s. 7.)

See note under section 3846(yy).

§ 3846(fff). Fees for service of process by patrolmen to revert to county.—All fees for arrests or service of process that may be taxed in the bill of costs for the various courts of the State on account of the official acts of the members of the State Highway Patrol shall be remitted to the general fund in the county in which the said cost is taxed. (1929, c. 218, s. 8.)

§ 3846(ggg). Expense of administering. — All expenses incurred in carrying out the provisions of this article shall be paid out of the maintenance funds of the State Highway Commission. (1929, c. 218, s. 9.)

See note under section 3846(yy).

§ 3846(hhh). State highway patrol transferred to revenue department.—The state highway patrol and all its books, office records, office, motors and all other equipment created by the acts of 1929, chapter 218, and as amended by the acts of 1931, chapter 381 codified as sections 3846(yy)-3846(ggg), shall be and the same is hereby transferred from the highway department to the department of revenue and from and after the first day of April, 1933, the aforesaid state highway patrol shall be under the direction and control of the department of revenue and subject to such orders, rules and regulations as may be adopted and put in force by the commissioner of revenue, and shall be required to perform other and additional duties as may be required of it by the commissioner of revenue in connection with the work of the motor vehicle bureau of this department. Said patrol shall also be required to perform such other and additional duties as may be required of it from time to time by the governor. The funds necessary to carry out the provisions of this section shall be appropriated to the department of revenue from the highway fund. Whenever, in said acts, the highway commission appears, the same shall be stricken out and in lieu thereof shall be inserted "the commissioner of revenue." (1933, c. 214, ss. 1, 2.)

The significant development is the consolidation of functions under the Department of Revenue and the use of the Highway Patrol to assist in the work. Thus the Motor Vehicle Bureau, the Motor Vehicle Theft Bureau, the Division of Oil and Gas Inspection, and the Division of Weights and Measures are now consolidated under the Department of Revenue. 11 N. C. Law Rev., 252.

§ 3846(iii). Duties as to inspection of illuminating oils, gasoline, etc.—In addition to the duties prescribed by the Acts of 1929, codified as sections 3846(yy)-3846(ggg), required to be performed by the highway patrol, the said highway patrol shall from time to time make an inspection of the illuminating oils, gasoline, naphtha, benzine, other petroleum products and other like liquid fluids used for the purpose of generating power in internal combustion engines for propulsion of motor vehicles and under such rules and regulations as may be adopted by the department of revenue; to collect samples of such oils, gasoline and other petroleum products as are offered for sale in this state and to transmit the same under such regulations as may be prescribed therefor by the commissioner of revenue to the department of agriculture in the city of Raleigh for analysis, and otherwise to do and perform all duties of inspection now required by law to be made of such illuminating oils, gasoline, and other petroleum products. (1933, c. 214, s. 3.)

§ 3846(jjj). Deputy inspectors of weights and measures.—The aforesaid highway patrol, or such members thereof as have the necessary qualifications and so designated by the commissioner of revenue, shall act in the capacity of, and perform such duties as required of, deputy inspectors of weights and measures as defined in chapter 261, public laws 1927 [sections 8064(k)-8064(l)], and their activities shall be governed by the same supervision, rules and regulations as set forth in said chapter 261, public laws 1927, relating to deputy or local inspectors: Provided, however, that the appointment, employment and/or assignment of said highway patrolman shall be made by the commissioner of revenue. (1933, c. 214, s. 4.)

§ 3846(kkk). Inspection of pumps, etc.—The activities of the highway patrol as mentioned in this law shall relate to the inspection of measuring pumps, measures, containers, devices and apparatus used in measuring and/or dispensing to the public gasoline, lubricating oil and illuminating oil and other petroleum products. (1933, c. 214, s. 5.)

§ 3846(lll). Analysis by commissioner of agriculture.—The commissioner of agriculture shall from time to time, as samples may be transmitted to him for analysis, provide for the analysis and examination of such samples as may be transmitted to him by the department of revenue or others under its direction in the laboratory now provided for such analysis, and shall cause to be promptly reported to the commissioner of revenue the results of such analysis. (1933, c. 214, s. 6.)

§ 3846(mmm). Number of state highway patrol increased; subordinate officers; salaries.—The state highway patrol, created and existing by virtue of chapter two hundred and eighteen of the Public Laws of one thousand nine hundred and twenty-nine, as amended [§§ 3846(yy)-3846(lll)] shall consist of one hundred and twenty-one persons, inclusive of one person to be designated as captain, and such additional subordinate officers as the commissioner of revenue, with the approval of the governor and advisory budget commission, shall direct. The captain, other officers, and members of the state highway patrol shall be paid such salary as may be established and fixed under the provisions of chapter two hundred seventy-seven, Public Laws of one thousand nine hundred and thirty-one, and chapter forty-six of the Public Laws of one thousand nine hundred and thirty-three, codified as sections 7521(k) et seq. (1935, c. 324, s. 1.)

§ 3846(nnn). Division of highway safety authorized; duties. — The commissioner of revenue shall have the right to set up in his department a division of highway safety, and to make rules and regulations governing said division, and shall have the right to assign to said division of highway safety the direction and control of the state highway patrol, the responsibilities of the administration of the Uniform Drivers' Law, ratified on February twenty-eighth, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-five, and to assign to said division such other duties and work, not inconsistent with the provisions of this law, as he may deem proper. (1935, c. 324, s. 2.)

§ 3846(ooo). Additional duties and authority of patrol; constituted peace officers; arrest power; jurisdiction. — In addition to the duties and authority conferred on the state highway patrol by chapter two hundred and eighteen of the Public Laws of one thousand nine hundred and twenty-nine, codified as sections 3846(yy) et seq., and by section one of chapter two hundred and fourteen of the Public Laws of one thousand nine hundred and thirty-three, codified as section 3846(hhh), the said state highway patrol shall be subject to such rules and regulations as may be adopted by the commissioner of revenue, and shall regularly patrol the highways of the State and enforce all laws and regulations respecting travel upon the highways of the State and all laws for the protection of the highways of the State, and to this end and for this purpose, the members of the said patrol are given the power and authority of peace officers for the service of any warrant or other process issuing from any of the courts of the State having criminal jurisdiction, and are likewise authorized to arrest without warrant any person who, in the presence of said officer, is engaged in the violation of any of the laws of the State regulating travel upon the highways, or of laws with respect to the protection of the highways, and they shall have jurisdiction anywhere within the State, irrespective of county lines. The state highway patrol or any member or members thereof shall have full power and authority to perform such additional duties as peace officers as may from time to time be directed by the governor, and such officers may at any time and without special authority either upon their own notion or at the request of any sheriff or local police authority make arrests of persons accused of highway robbery, bank robbery, murder, or other crimes of violence. (1935, c. 324, s. 3.)

§ 3846(ppp). Relieved of duties of oil and gasoline inspection.—The state highway patrol shall be relieved of all duties with respect to the inspection of gasoline and oil and the collection of samples, as provided in sections 3846(iii) and 3846(jjj), and the duties therein referred to shall be performed by such persons, other than the highway patrol, as may be designated by the commissioner of revenue. (1935, c. 324, s. 4.)

§ 3846(qqq). Co-operation between patrol and local officers. — The commissioner of revenue, through the division of highway safety, shall encourage the co-operation between the highway patrol and the several municipal and county peace officers of the State for the enforcement of all traffic laws and the proper administration of the Uniform Drivers' License Law, and arrangements for compensation of special services rendered by such local officers out of the funds allotted to the division of highway safety may be made, subject to the approval of the director of the budget. (1935, c. 324, s. 5.)

§ 3846(rrr). State-wide radio system authorized; use of telephone lines in emergencies.—The commissioner of revenue, through the division of highway safety, is hereby authorized and directed, as soon as practicable, to set up and maintain a state-wide radio system, with adequate broadcasting stations so situate as to make the service available to all parts of the State for the purpose of maintaining radio contact with the members of the state highway patrol and other officers of the State, to the end that the traffic laws upon the highways may be more adequately enforced and that the criminal use of the highways may be prevented.

If the director of the budget shall find that the appropriation provided for the department is not adequate to take care of the entire cost of the radio service herein provided for, after providing for the administration of other provisions of this law, the state highway and public works commission, upon the order of the director of the budget and approved by the advisory budget commission, shall make available such additional sum as the said budget commission may find to be necessary to make the installation and operation of such radio service possible; and the sum so provided by the state highway and public works commission shall constitute a valid charge against the appropriation item of betterments for state and county roads.

The commissioner of revenue is likewise authorized and empowered to arrange with the various telephone companies of the State for the use of their lines for emergency calls by the members of the state highway patrol, if it shall be found practicable to arrange apparatus for temporary contact with said telephone circuits along the highways of the State.

In order to make this service more generally useful, the various board of county commissioners and the governing boards of the various cities and towns are hereby authorized and empowered to provide radio receiving sets in the offices and vehicles of their various officers, and such expenditures are declared to be a legal expenditure of any funds that may be available for police protection. (1935, c. 324, s. 6.)

§ 3846(sss). Certain sections amended and modified.—Sections 2621(127)-2621(145) and sections 3846(yy)-3846(lll) are hereby amended and modified so as to conform to the provisions of this law [§§ 3846(mmm)-3846(ttt)], and all provisions of said sections not inconsistent with the provisions of this law are continued in full force and effect. (1935, c. 324, s. 8.)

Art. 19. Management of County Roads Vested in State Highway Commission

§ 3846(1). County roads managed by State Highway Commission; trustees of road districts holding over; county commissioners.—From and after July first, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-one, the exclusive control and management and responsibility for all public roads in the several counties shall be vested in the State Highway Commission as hereinafter provided, and all county, district, and township highway or road commissioners, by whatever name designated, and whether created under public, public-local, or private acts, shall be abolished: provided, however,

(a) Where any road district comprises territory in two or more counties, the commissioners of said district may continue to function as trustees of said districts for a period of two years, for the purpose and with full authority to sell or otherwise dispose of any property belonging to said district not taken over by the State Highway Commission. The net proceeds from the sale of all such district property shall by said trustees be applied to the creation of a sinking fund adequate, as far as possible, for the retirement of all bonds or other indebtedness outstanding against said district, or to the immediate payment of such indebtedness. After the debts of such district have been provided for, if a surplus remain, it shall be turned over to the State Highway Commission and used by it solely for the permanent or semi-permanent improvement of the roads within the territory of such road district.

(b) Provided, further, that for the purpose of providing for the payment of any bonded or other indebtedness, and for the interest thereon, that may be outstanding as an obligation of any county, district, or township commission herein abolished, the board of county commissioners of the respective counties are hereby constituted fiscal agents, and are vested with authority and it shall be their duty to levy such taxes on the taxable property or persons within the respective county, district, or township by or for which said bonds or other indebtedness were issued or incurred and as are now authorized by law to the extent that the same may be necessary to provide for the payment of such obligations; and the respective commissions herein abolished shall on or before July first, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-one, turn over to said board of county commissioners any moneys on hand or evidences of indebtedness properly applicable to the discharge of any such indebtedness (except such moneys as are mentioned in paragraph (a) above); and all uncollected special road taxes shall be payable to said board of county commissioners, and that the portion of said taxes applicable to indebtedness shall be applied by said commissioners to said indebtedness, or invested in a sinking fund according to law. All that portion of said taxes or other funds coming into the hands of said county commissioners and properly applicable to the maintenance or improvement of the public roads of the county shall be held by them as a special road fund and disbursed upon proper orders of the State Highway Commission.

(c) Provided, further, that in order to fully carry out the provisions of this section the respective boards of county commissioners are vested with full authority to prosecute all suitable legal actions. (1931, c. 145, s. 7.)

See note under section 3846(f).

§ 3846(2). Allocation of State Highway funds for use in counties.—After fully and completely complying with the provisions of the Public Laws of one thousand nine hundred and twenty-one, chapter two, section twenty-seven, as amended by the Public Laws of one thousand nine hundred and twenty-three, chapter two hundred and sixty-three, section one, and as amended by the Public Laws of one thousand nine hundred and twenty-five, chapter forty-five, section four, and as amended by the Public Laws of one thousand nine hundred and twenty-five, chapter one hundred and thirty-three, section two [§ 3846(ii)], and with the Public Laws of one thousand nine hundred and twenty-seven, chapter ninety-five [§§ 3772(a)-3772(p)], and all laws and parts of laws amendatory thereof, the State Highway Commission shall set aside and appropriate from the State Highway funds a sum sufficient to provide for the proper care, maintenance and improvement of county road systems of the several counties herein provided for; for the reconstruction of such portion thereof as in the opinion of the State Highway Commission should be reconstructed from time to time and for the opening and construction of new roads; such said sum to be equal in amount to the estimated revenues to be derived from a tax of two cents per gallon on motor vehicle fuels levied or to be levied under the provisions of law for the benefit of the State Highway funds, said amount, however, not to be less than six million dollars in any one year. It being the intent and purpose of this section that the fund herein set up for county road maintenance shall have priority in the use of State Highway surplus maintenance funds over any new construction work, and said fund shall be by the State Highway Commission used for the care, maintenance, improvement, construction, and reconstruction of the county road system in the several counties as may be needed for such purposes, to the end that the road system in the several counties shall be fairly, justly, and equitably maintained and improved in accordance with the traffic requirements of the people of the several counties and the convenience of the traveling public; special attention being given to roads used by public school trucks or busses, and to this end the State Highway Commission is hereby authorized to classify the various and different roads in the several counties in the State and establish standards for the maintenance and improvement thereof. (1931, c. 145, s. 8.)

See note under section 3846(f).

Where the complaint in an action on the bond given by a contractor for construction of a highway alleges that a statement of the claim against the surety on the bond was filed with the defendant surety company within six months after the project was completed, it is a sufficient allegation of compliance with the provisions of this section. Bank of Wadeboro v. Northwestern Casaulty, etc., Co., 202 N. C. 148, 162 S. E. 236.

§ 3846(3). Disposition of road equipment and materials; local authorities prohibited from purchasing new equipment; retirement of debts for equipment. — On July first, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-one, the boards of county commissioners and the several county, district, and township highway or road commissions in each county shall turn over to the State Highway Commission or its duly authorized agents, all road machinery, equipment, teams, material, and supplies of every kind on hand or belonging to said commissioners or commissions, and acquired by them from road funds; and all such property as may be accepted by the State Highway Commission, shall be duly inventoried and appraised by said State Highway Commission or its duly authorized agents. Any such property held by any board of county commissioners or any county, district, or township highway or road commission not deemed by said State Highway Commission suitable or efficient for road work may be sold or exchanged by the board of county commissioners of the county or by the State Highway Commission with the approval of the board of county commissioners of the county, and the proceeds thereof applied to the road work in said county, or the payment of any debt due for road machinery, or road debt, or any bonds issued for road purposes. From and after the passage of this article the road-governing authorities of any and all counties in the State are prohibited from purchasing or selling any road machinery except the purchase of supplies for maintenance and repairs of the machinery owned at the date of the passage of this article, without the approval of the State Highway Commission. In the event the road-governing authorities of any county in the State shall have purchased any road machinery and given notes or other evidences of debt therefor or owe for some on open account, which are now outstanding and unpaid, such road-governing authorities are authorized to make settlement with the holders of such notes or other evidences of debt, either by the surrender of the property on such terms as may be agreed upon or otherwise. (1931, c. 145, s. 9.)

See note under section 3846(f).

§ 3846(4). State Highway Commission given power of eminent domain. — To the end that the State Highway Commission may the better take over the maintenance and improvement, reconstruction and construction of the public roads in the various counties, together with the bridges and railroad grade crossings thereon, and may the better carry out the intent and purposes of this article, the State Highway Commission is vested, in respect of and to the public roads in the various counties, with the same powers of and responsibility of eminent domain as are conferred and imposed upon the State Highway Commission in chapter two of the Public Laws of one thousand nine hundred and twenty-one, and acts amendatory thereto [§ 3846(bb)], in respect of and to the State Highway System, and the State Highway Commission is authorized and empowered to adopt rules and regulations governing the use of the various county road systems and to promulgate the same. (1931, c. 145, s. 10.)

See note under section 3846(f).

§ 3846(5). Mapping of county roads. — On or before May first, one thousand and nine hundred and thirty-one, the designation of all roads comprising the several county road systems as are proposed to be taken over for maintenance and improvement by the State Highway Commission shall be mapped, and there shall be publicly posted at the courthouse door in each county a map of all the roads in such county to be contained in the county road system of such county, and the board of county commissioners of such county and the street-governing body of each city or town in such county shall be notified of the roads that are to be selected and to be made a part of the county road system of such county. If no objection is made by the board of county commissioners or the street-governing body of any city or town in such county within thirty (30) days after the notification herein provided for, then and in that event the roads to which no objections are made shall be and constitute the county road system for such county. If objections are made by the board of county commissioners of the county or the street-governing body of any city or town in the county, the State Highway Commission shall as soon as practicable send an agent to such county who shall take the matter up with the view of adjusting the objections and agreeing with the county commissioners or the street-governing body of any city or town. If such agent and the board of county commissioners or the street-governing body of any city or town cannot agree, then the whole matter shall be heard and determined by the State Highway Commission in session under such rules and regulations as may be made by the State Highway Commission. Notice of the time and place of the hearing shall be given by the State Highway Commission at the courthouse door and in some newspaper, if any, published in the county, at least ten days prior to the hearing, and the decision of the State Highway Commission shall be final. It is the intent and purpose of this article that all roads legally established and used as public roads in the various counties at the time of the ratification of this article are to and shall be included in the county road systems of the various counties. Maps showing the proposed roads to constitute the county road systems in the several counties have been printed and bound and are now on file in the office of the State Highway Commission, and are the maps which shall be posted. If it shall appear to the State Highway Commission prior to the posting of the maps under this section that any road or roads which should be included in the county road systems of any county have been omitted from the map of any county as printed, the commission may change such maps so as to include such road or roads before posting. (1931, c. 145, s. 11.)

§ 3846(6). Road taken over not to be abandoned without consent of county commissioners.—No road, which shall be a part of any county road system as the same shall be finally adopted in pursuance of section 3846(5) shall be abandoned or materially changed without the consent of the board of county commissioners of the county in which said road is located. (1931, c. 145, s. 12.)

§ 3846(7). Petition by county commissioners to change or abandon roads or build new roads.—The board of county commissioners of any county may, when in the opinion of said board the best interests of the people of said county or of any particular community thereof will be subserved thereby, petition the State Highway Commission to change or abandon any road in the county road system or to add thereto any new road. Said petition shall be filed with the chairman of the State Highway Commission, who shall personally or by his duly constituted deputy, after conference with the board of county commissioners of said county, make diligent inquiry into and study of the proposed change, abandonment, or addition, and if in his opinion the public interest demands the same, such change, abandonment, or addition shall be made. Provided, however, that if any such change or abandonment of a road shall affect a road connecting with any street of any city or town in such county, no such change or abandonment shall be made until the street-governing body of such town shall have been duly notified thereof and given opportunity to be heard upon the question. If the chairman of the State Highway Commission shall be of the opinion that the public interest does not demand the change, abandonment, or addition petitioned for, the board of county commissioners filing such petition may appeal from his decision to the whole commission, who shall, at such time and place as shall be designated, due notice of which shall be given the parties interested, give public hearing on the matter. The action of the State Highway Commission upon all such matters shall be final. Provided, however, any petition which has been declined by the State Highway Commission may be again presented under the provisions hereof after the expiration of twelve (12) months. (1931, c. 145, s. 13.)

See note under section 3846(f).

§ 3846(8). Petition of citizens to county commissioners to ask Commission to make road changes.—When any number of citizens of any county or any community thereof, not less than twenty-five (25), shall sign and file with the board of county commissioners of such county a petition asking that any road in the county road system of the county be changed or abandoned or that any new road be added to said system, it shall be the duty of said board of county commissioners to make full and thorough investigation, and if in their opinion the best interests of the people of said county or of the particular community thereof to be affected require such change, abandonment, or addition, the said board of county commissioners shall file and prosecute before the State Highway Commission the petition provided for in section 3846(7). (1931, c. 145, s. 14.)

See note under section 3846(f).

§ 3846(9). Public hearings on road changes.—All public hearings provided for in sections 3846(7) and 3846(8) shall, when practicable, be held in the county in which the road or roads under consideration and the subject of said hearing, shall be located. (1931, c. 145, s. 15.)

§ 3846(10). Erection of road signs; load limits for bridges.—The State Highway Commission shall, as rapidly as practicable, after the selection and adoption of the county road systems of the several counties, erect proper and uniform signs upon the roads of said county road systems directing persons to roads and places of importance. The State Highway Commission shall have authority to determine the maximum load limit for any and all bridges on the State Highway System or on any county road systems, to be taken over under this article, and post warning signs thereon, and it shall be unlawful for any person, firm, or corporation to transport any vehicle over and across any such bridge with a load exceeding the maximum load limit established by the State Highway Commission and posted upon said bridge, and any person, firm, or corporation violating the provisions of this section shall, in addition to being guilty of a misdemeanor, be liable for any or all damages resulting to such bridge because of such violation, to be recovered in a civil action, in the nature of a penalty, to be brought by the State Highway Commission in the Superior Court in the county in which such bridge is located or in the county in which the person, firm, or corporation is domiciled; if such person, firm, or corporation causing the damage shall be a nonresident or a foreign corporation, such action may be brought in the Superior Court of Wake County. (1931, c. 145, s. 16.)

See note under section 3846(f).

§ 3846(11). Filing of complaints with Commission; hearing and appeal.—In the event of failure to maintain the roads of any county road system in good condition, the board of county commissioners of such county may file complaint with the State Highway Commission. When any such complaint is filed, the State Highway Commission shall at once investigate the same, and if the same be well founded, the said commission shall at once order the repair and maintenance of the roads complained of and investigate the negligence of the persons in charge of the roads so complained of, and if upon investigation the person or persons in charge of the road complained of be at fault, he may be discharged from the service of the commission. The board of commissioners of any county, who shall feel aggrieved at the action of the State Highway Commission upon complaint filed, may appeal from the decision of the State Highway Commission to the Governor, and it shall be the duty of the Governor to adjust the differences between the board of county commissioners and the State Highway Commission. (1931, c. 145, s. 17.)

See note under section 3846(f).

§ 3846(12). District road commissions. — When any road district comprised of territory in two or more counties with a population in excess of twenty thousand inhabitants, as shown by the census of one thousand nine hundred and thirty, has heretofore been established, the Governor shall appoint a road commission for the said district, consisting of three members, which shall, with respect to the roads in said districts, have and exercise the same rights and duties as the board of county commissioners of said county have and exercise with respect to the county road systems under sections 3846(5)-3846(8), 3846(11) and this section. Members of the commission shall be appointed for a term of two years. Vacancies in the commission shall be filled by the Governor. (1931, c. 145, s. 18.)

§ 3846(13). Directors of county roads.—In order to carry out the purposes of this article the State Highway Commission, by and with the consent of the Governor, shall designate some person or persons as director or directors of county roads who shall be a representative or representatives of the State Highway Commission to deal with the boards of county commissioners of the several counties with reference to the county road systems therein. The duties of said director, or directors, of county roads may be combined with the duties of some other position now or hereafter maintained by the State Highway Commission. Such director, or directors, of county roads shall, from time to time and as often as practicable, visit the several counties in the State and confer with the board of county commissioners of such counties with reference to the road problems in the several counties.

When the board of county commissioners of any county shall request a conference with a director of county roads on the road problems of such county, a director of county roads shall, as soon thereafter as practicable, make a special visit to said county and meet and confer with the said board of county commissioners. The directors of county roads are especially charged with the duty of seeing that the services rendered to the various counties throughout the State are fair and equal, taking into consideration the traffic demands of the various counties. The director or directors of county roads shall work under the direction of and report to the State Highway Engineer or the county highway maintenance engineer, or such other person as the State Highway Commission may designate. (1931, c. 145, s. 19.)

§ 3846(14). General duties of Commission looking toward taking over county roads.—Prior to July first, one thousand nine hundred thirty-one, the State Highway Commission shall make full and thorough investigation of the county road systems of the several counties to be taken over by the State Highway Commission and shall make all necessary preparation and provide all necessary machinery, implements, supplies and personnel, to enable them effectively and efficiently to take over and control for supervision and maintenance the county road systems of the several counties, on July first, one thousand nine hundred thirty-one. If objection to the county road systems as outlined on the map as posted by the State Highway Commission under the provisions of section 3846(5) for any county shall be made as provided in section 3846(5) and the question of the final roads to be included in the county road system of such county shall not have been determined by July first, one thousand nine hundred thirty-one, then and in that event the State Highway Commission shall take over for control, supervision and maintenance in such county all roads included in the map as posted by the said State Highway Commission pending the final determination of the question as to what roads are to be finally included in the county road system of such county. (1931, c. 145, s. 20.)

See note under section 3846(f).

§ 3846(15). Prohibition of local road taxes and bonds and construction of roads by local authorities; existing contracts.—From and after the first day of July, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-one, no county or road district by authority of any public, public-local, or private act, shall levy any taxes for the maintenance, improvement, reconstruction, or construction of any of the public roads in the various and several counties of the State, nor shall any county, through the board of commissioners thereof or the Highway Commission, nor shall any district or township highway commission, issue or sell or enter into any contract to issue or sell any bonds heretofore authorized to be issued and sold, but unissued and unsold, for the purpose of obtaining money with which to improve, maintain, reconstruct, or construct roads, except for the purpose of discharging obligations entered into prior to the ratification of this article, and all acts authorizing the board of county commissioners, the county highway commissions, district highway or township commissions, to issue and sell bonds for the purpose aforesaid, are hereby amended so as to conform to this section. No board of county commissioners nor county highway commission, nor district nor township highway commission from and after the passage of this article shall enter into any contract to build or construct roads in the various and several counties except for such projects as can be completed and paid for prior to July first, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-one. All contracts heretofore entered into by any county through the board of county commissioners, county highway commission, and all contracts heretofore entered into by any district or township highway commission which shall be incomplete on July first, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-one, shall be taken over by the State Highway Commission and completed by the State Highway Commission by the use of money and funds applicable thereto, by the terms of the said contracts. Nothing in this section or this article shall be construed to prohibit the levying of taxes authorized by law for the payment of interest or principal on outstanding bonds or other evidences of debt lawfully issued. Any county or road district which has heretofore issued bonds or other evidences of debt by authority of law for road improvement purposes may refund said bonds or other evidences of debt under and pursuant to the laws of the State of North Carolina relative thereto. (1931, c. 145, s. 35.)

See note under section 3846(f).

§ 3846(16). Definitions. — Wherever the word "county" or the words "county commissioners" appear in this article, they shall be construed to include any commission or commissioners provided for in section 3846(12). (1931, c. 145, s. 36.)

§ 3846(17). Public ferries and toll bridges. — The State Highway Commission shall succeed to all the rights and duties of the county commissioners or county highway commissions with respect to the maintenance and operation of any public ferries or toll bridges forming links in the county highway systems: Provided, that where there is an outstanding indebtedness against any such ferries or bridges, that all tolls collected shall be turned over to the County Treasurer to be applied to debt service until all indebtedness against such ferry or bridge has been discharged;

Provided, further, that the state highway and public works commission and board of commissioners of Dare county are authorized and empowered to free the Roanoke Sound Bridge of tolls upon such conditions as may be mutually agreed to, and any monies paid by the state highway and public works commission for this purpose shall be a valid charge against the appropriation for betterments—state and county roads. (1931, c. 145, s. 38; 1935, c. 322.)

See note under section 3846(f).

Editor's Note.—The amendment of 1935 added the proviso at the end of this section.

§ 3846(18). Conflicting laws repealed; local laws requiring work on roads or payment of penalty.—All laws and clauses of laws in conflict with the provisions of this article to the extent of such conflict are hereby repealed: All laws, whether public, public-local, or private, authorizing or empowering the board of county commissioners or any highway commission, whether county, township, or district, to work citizens upon the public roads in lieu of the payment of a road tax, or authorizing or empowering the collection of a sum of money in lieu of working upon the public roads, are hereby repealed; and from and after the first day of July, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-one, no person shall be compelled to work upon the public roads, or to pay a sum of money in lieu thereof, in any of the several counties of the State, except under the provisions of this article. (1931, c. 145, s. 39.)

Art. 20. District Prison Camps and Working Prisoners on Roads

§ 3846(19). Establishment of prison districts and camps: Present camps.—As soon as practicable after the ratification of this article there shall be established in this State by the State Highway Commission, with the approval of the Governor, such number of prison districts, not less than five, as they shall determine advisable. The State Highway Commission shall, as soon thereafter as practicable, with the approval of the Governor, locate the prison camp or camps in each of said districts. Until such time as it shall be feasible for the State Highway Commission to build and construct prison camps in accordance with the provisions of this article, it shall be the duty of the State Highway Commission to take over and acquire by contract, under terms to be approved by the Governor, such county or road district prison camps as in their opinion shall be necessary for the use of the county prisoners on the public roads of the several county road systems as hereinafter provided. The State Highway Commission, with the approval of the Governor, in lieu of locating and constructing prison camps in any of the districts, may acquire by contract and take over prison camps in any county or road district and may make such alterations and additions thereto as shall be necessary to render the same suitable for a district prison camp. (1931, c. 145, s. 26.)

See note under section 3846(f).

§ 3846(20). Plans and specifications for prison camps.—Any and all district prison camps, or additions made to present county camps taken over by the State Highway Commission as herein provided for, shall be constructed, altered or changed, under plans and specifications prepared by the State Highway Commission with the approval of the Governor, of the State Board of Health, and the State Board of Public Welfare and Charities, and the construction, alteration, or changes shall be done by the State Highway Commission, and, as far as shall be practicable, prisoners shall be used to do the work. (1931, c. 145, s. 27.)

See note under section 3846(f).

§ 3846(21). State Highway Commission to control camps.—The district prison camps herein provided for, and all county prison camps acquired by the State Highway Commission in lieu of district prison camps shall be under the control and direction of the State Highway Commission, and operated under rules and regulations to be made by the State Highway Commission, and approved by the Governor and the State Board of Public Welfare and Charities, and subject to such rules and regulations so adopted and approved, the State Highway Commission shall establish grades for prisoners according to conduct, and so far as possible introduce the honor system, and may transfer honor prisoners to honor camps. Prisoners may be transferred from one district camp to another, and the State Highway Commission may where it is deemed practical to do so establish separate camps for white prisoners and colored prisoners. In each district camp quarters shall be provided for the care and maintenance of such prisoners as may be sick, and a physician may be employed for such portion of his time as may be necessary and assigned to each of the several camps, and such of the prisoners as may be chosen may be used as attendants or nurses notwithstanding that such prisoners may not have qualified for such work as may be required by law; and any such prisoners as may have special qualifications to perform labor other than labor upon the public roads may be assigned to such special duties as the State Highway Commission may determine. All necessary directors, physicians, guards or supervisors, or any other necessary employees for the proper care, keep and handling of such prisoners, shall be employed by the State Highway Commission by and with the consent and approval of the Governor, and serve at the pleasure of the State Highway Commission. (1931, c. 145, s. 28.)

See note under section 3846(f).

§ 3846(22). Employment of prisoners on roads.—All able-bodied prisoners committed or assigned to the district prison camps shall be employed in the maintenance and construction of roads in the public road system of the several counties, or upon the State Highway system, or assigned to such special duty in connection with the prison camps, or the preparation and repair of all road equipment and supplies as the State Highway Commission may determine. (1931, c. 145, s. 29.)

See note under section 3846(f).

§ 3846(23). Prisoners in various camps and jails to be turned over to State Highway Commission.—On the first day of July, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-one, all prisoners who shall be in any county prison camp or in jail assigned to work on the county roads, under sentence of any court of competent jurisdiction, except as hereinafter provided, shall be by the various county authorities turned over to the State Highway Commission or its duly authorized agents, and the State Highway Commission shall take over all such prisoners under and pursuant to the provisions of this act on the first day of July, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-one; and all authority vested by law in any board of county commissioners, any county highway commission, any district highway commission, or any other board or commission as to such prisoners, shall pass to and vest in the State Highway Commission. The county authorities having custody of such prisoners shall, upon forms provided by the State Highway Commission, make a complete list of all such prisoners in custody July first, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-one, giving their names, terms of imprisonment, date of commitment, and expiration of terms, together with records of such prisoners, and such other and further information as may be required by the State Highway Commission, and deliver the same, together with the original commitments, to the State Highway Commission, or its duly authorized agents, on the first day of July, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-one. And the State Highway Commission or its duly authorized agents shall, upon such delivery, execute proper receipts to the county authority for such documents and the prisoners delivered as herein provided for. From and after the first day of July, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-one, the various judges and courts of this State, in lieu of assigning persons convicted of violating any of the criminal laws of the State to work upon any county roads under the control of any board of commissioners or any highway commission, shall assign such person so convicted to work upon the roads of the State under the control of the State Highway Commission pursuant to the provisions of this article, and all such laws, public, public-local, or private, heretofore enacted, authorizing the various judges and courts of the State to assign persons convicted to work upon the public roads are hereby amended so as to conform to the provisions of this article, to the end that such persons so convicted shall be assigned to the various prison camps by this article established, to work upon the public roads pursuant to the provisions of this article. But this article shall not be deemed or considered as authorizing any person sentenced under the provisions thereof to have been sentenced to the State Prison, or State Penitentiary, but such person so sentenced shall be deemed to have been sentenced under the provisions either of this article or of such public, public-local, or private acts heretofore enacted authorizing the various judges and courts of the State to sentence persons convicted of crime to work upon the public roads: Provided, that any county, city or town now operating, or that may hereafter operate a farm by convict labor may retain a sufficient number of prisoners for the operation of same, and the judges in the courts of said county, city or town, in lieu of sentencing persons convicted to the Highway Prison Camps, shall sentence a sufficient number to labor on said farms for the necessary operation of same. (1931, c. 145, s. 30.)

See note under section 3846(f).

§ 3846(24). Notification of prisoners sentenced; transfer of prisoners. — The clerks of the Superior Courts in the various counties and the clerks of other courts in the various counties shall notify in writing the superintendent, or person in charge of the district prison camp of the district in which said county is located, and mail a copy thereof to the State Highway Commission at Raleigh of the various persons who shall be sentenced to said district camps, and immediately, or as soon as practicable thereafter, the superintendent of said district prison camp shall designate some person to transfer such prisoners to the place of duty assigned to them, and the clerks and sheriffs of the various counties shall deliver said prisoners to the person so designated together with proper commitments. (1931, c. 145, s. 31.)

See note under section 3846(f).

§ 3846(25). Minimum term for commitment.— No person shall be committed to any of the district camps by any court in this State, nor shall any person be received into the district camps, whose term of imprisonment is less than thirty (30) days: Provided, that in criminal actions in which a Justice of Peace has final jurisdiction no county shall be liable for or taxed with any costs. (1931, c. 145, s. 32; 1933, c. 39.)

Editor's Note. — The sentence specified in this section was reduced from sixty to thirty days by Public Laws 1933, c. 39.

§ 3846(26). Cost of keeping prisoners borne by State Highway Commission. — The cost and expense of construction of the various prison camps, the care, transportation and maintenance of prisoners and their guarding and supervision shall be paid by the State Highway Commission from the county road maintenance funds provided in § 3846(2): Provided, however, when prisoners are used upon the State Highway systems in construction or maintenance, the cost and expense of transportation and maintenance of such prisoners, their guarding and supervision, shall be paid from the funds appropriated to such purposes in this act. (1931, c. 145, s. 33.)

See note under section 3846(f).

§ 3846(27). Employment of prisoners in State penitentiary. — The State Highway Commission may employ prisoners confined in the State's Penitentiary for the construction, improvement, or maintenance of the State Highway system, and for the various county systems to be taken over under sections 3846(1) et seq.: Provided, the compensation of said prison labor shall not exceed the cost at which similar work could be produced by free labor at prevailing prices existing in the district where the work is performed, and may, where it is practical to do so, use material in such road work produced in whole or in part by prisoners confined in the State's Prison or the district prison camps. In the event of disagreement between the State Highway Commission and the Board of Directors of the State's Prison as to whether it is practical and feasible in a given instance to employ prisoners or use material produced by the prisoners confined in the State's Prison such disagreement shall be referred to the Governor of the State, and his decision of the matter shall be final and the same right of appeal granted Directors of the State's Prison shall upon request also be given to any North Carolina manufacturers and producers whose products or materials have been or may be used in the maintenance or construction of the public highways of this State: Provided, nothing contained in this section shall be construed in such manner as to prevent the State Highway Commission from meeting all requirements of the United States Bureau of Public Roads on Federal Aid projects. (1931, c. 145, s. 34.)

See note under section 3846(f).

Art. 21. Counties May Use Surplus Road Funds and Sell Camp Sites and Supplies

§ 3846(28). Application of funds for debt service; payment into general county fund. — Any county, road and/or highway district which has on hand on July first, one thousand nine hundred thirty-one, any surplus of road maintenance funds shall use the said surplus in the retirement of any bonds issued for road purposes or interest accruing thereon. In the event there shall be no outstanding bonds and no interest due, such surplus shall be paid over to the general county fund. (1931, c. 232, s. 1.)

§ 3846(29). Sale of camp sites and other real estate and application of proceeds.—Any county, road and/or highway district which owns a camp site or other real estate built or purchased with road or highway funds, may sell and convey such camp site or real estate, and the money so received therefrom shall be used to retire any bonds issued for road or highway purposes, or interest due thereon. If there are no outstanding bonds, the money received shall be turned over to the general county fund. (1931, c. 232, s. 2.)

§ 3846(30). Sale of unused supplies and application of proceeds.—Any county, and/or road or highway district which has on hand on July first, one thousand nine hundred thirty-one, any unused supplies such as food, hay, grain and other supplies used in and around county camps, may sell and dispose of same and the money so received shall be put into the general county fund. (1931, c. 232, s. 3.)

§ 3846(31). Application of insurance funds collected on burned buildings. — In event any building or buildings erected or constructed with road or highway funds shall be damaged or destroyed by fire and the same were insured, the insurance when collected shall be used to retire any outstanding bonds issued for road purposes and interest thereon, and if there are no outstanding bonds the money shall be turned over to the general county fund: Provided, that said fund received from insurance may be used to rebuild, repair and equip any jail or other building used to house prisoners. (1931, c. 232, s. 4.)

§ 3846(32). Use of funds to retire current liabilities and deficits.—In lieu of paying the moneys received as herein set out on bonds and interest, if there are any current liabilities or current deficits, the money may be used for discharging such current liabilities and deficits. (1931, c. 232, s. 5.)

CHAPTER 71
SALARIES AND FEES

Art. 1. Payment of Salaries and Fees

§ 3847. Salaries payable monthly.—All annual salaries shall be paid monthly out of any money in the treasury not otherwise appropriated. (Rev., s. 2772; Code, s. 3731; 1893, c. 54.)

§ 3847(a). Monthly payment of salaries.—The treasurer of the state is authorized, upon proper warrant, to pay the salaries in sections 3863, 3867-3870 provided for in equal monthly amounts. (1921, c. 11, s. 2.)

§ 3848. Legislative employees paid on certificate of presiding officers.—The auditor is authorized to audit the account of any employee of the senate or of the house of representatives, upon the certificate of the president of the senate and of the speaker of the house of representatives that such services have been rendered for which the account is presented, and that the amount in said account is reasonable, just and proper. (Rev., s. 2735; Code, s. 2873; 1870-71, res., p. 508.)

§ 3849. Payment of fees; when to be paid in advance. — The several officers named in this chapter shall receive the fees herein prescribed for them respectively, from the persons for whom, or at whose instance, the service shall be performed, except persons suing as paupers, and no officer shall be compelled to perform any service, unless his fee be paid or tendered, except in criminal actions. The said officers shall receive no extra allowance or other compensation whatever, unless the same shall be expressly authorized by statute. In case the service shall be ordered by any proper officer of the state, or of a county, for the benefit of the state or county, the fees need not be paid in advance; but if for the state, shall be paid by the state, as other claims against it are; if for a county, by the board of Commissioners, out of the county funds. The fees in criminal cases are not demandable in advance. (Rev., s. 2804; Code, ss. 3758, 1173.)

§ 3850. Fees in state officers; disposition and accounting.—All fees from whatever source which may hereafter be collected by any of the officers or employees of the state, except officers and clerk of the supreme court, shall be paid by the heads of the departments into the state treasury within thirty days from their collection, and the money paid shall be converted into the general fund. An itemized statement thereof shall be rendered each month to the state treasurer. No officer or employee of the state shall receive any compensation other than the salaries fixed in this chapter, except as provided by way of fees or by special appropriation or from any departmental fund. (1907, cc. 830, s. 1; 994, s. 1.)

Cross References.—As to fees in criminal cases not demandable in advance, see sec. 1230; as to summary judgment for official fees, see sec. 1226; as to liability of defendant in criminal actions for costs, see secs. 1267-1270; as to liability of prosecutor for costs, see sec. 1271 et seq.; as to constitutional provision see Act IV, sec. 18.

Officers of Court Must Demand Fees.—Officers of the courts are not compelled to perform their duties, unless the fees prescribed by law are paid or tendered them, but they must demand them before laches can be imputed to the litigants. West v. Reynolds, 94 N. C. 333.

Same—When Demand Not Made. — The officer is not "compelled to perform" the required service, but he may perform it, and dispense with the payment, and if he does not so intend, he should say so at the time, and not presume that the posting of the notice in his office, of an inflexible rule that he had adopted and from which he would not under any circumstances depart, would be known to every one. West v. Reynolds, 94 N. C. 333, 336.

Effect of Unconditional Pardon.—Fees due officers of the court are vested rights by law, and are not discharged when the defendant receives an unconditional pardon, after conviction and sentence, from the Governor of the State. State v. Mooney, 74 N. C. 98.

When Pardon Discharges Defendant from Costs. — In State v. Underwood, 64 N. C. 599, it was held that where the pardon is pleaded after verdict and before judgment, it will discharge the defendant from the costs. State v. Mooney, 74 N. C. 98, 99.

Supreme Court Clerk's Fee for Docketing Case. — The appellant's undertaking does not cover the fee of the clerk of the Supreme Court in docketing the case, and the clerk is in the exercise of his right in refusing to docket the transcript where he has demanded the prescribed fee in advance and its payment has been refused. Dunn v. Clerk's Office, 176 N. C. 50, 96 S. E. 738.

Right of Clerk of Superior Court. — The clerk had the right, even under the common law, as he has under the statute, to demand his fees in advance. West v. Reynolds, 94 N. C. 333; Clerk v. Wagoner, 26 N. C. 131; Andrews v. Whisnant, 83 N. C. 446; Long v. Walker, 105 N. C. 90, 97, 10 S. E. 858; Martin v. Chesteen, 75 N. C. 96; Ballard v. Gay, 108 N. C. 544, 545, 13 S. E. 207.

Same — In Criminal Actions. — In criminal actions, the clerk of the superior court cannot require that the costs of transcript upon appeal shall be paid in advance, although the defendant did not appeal in forma pauperis, and a certiorari will issue directing the clerk to send up the transcript which he holds for such prepayment. State v. Nash, 109 N. C. 822, 13 S. E. 733.

Same—Section 666.—This section and section 666 providing that clerk shall issue execution on all judgments rendered in their respective courts, within six weeks of the rendition thereof, or be amerced in the sum of one hundred dollars, must be construed together, it follows that clerks of the superior court will not incur the penalty prescribed in section 666 unless the plaintiff pays or tenders him his fees for that service. Bank v. Bobbitt, 111 N. C. 194, 16 S. E. 169.

Register May Refuse to Function.—The register has the right to refuse to treat a mortgage as delivered to him for registration until his fees in that respect had been paid. Cunninggim v. Peterson, 109 N. C. 33, 38, 13 S. E. 714.

Legislative Power.—The Legislature may reduce or increase the salaries of such officers as are not protected by the constitution, during their term of office. Cotten v. Ellis, 52 N. C. 545.

Taxation of Salary.—But a State cannot tax the salary of a state officer whose office is created by the Constitution. Purnell v. Page, 133 N. C. 125, 45 S. E. 534. And this applies to the salaries of judges. State Const. Art. IV, § 18, and notes thereto.

Improperly Collected Fee Subject to Recovery.—Where a person is compelled to pay a public officer fees which he had no right to claim, in order to induce him to do his duty, such fees may be recovered back. Robinson v. Ezzell, 72 N. C. 231.

§ 3851. Copy-sheet defined.— A copy-sheet shall consist of one hundred words, and in reckoning the number of words in a copy-sheet, every date, or amount of money, expressed in figures, as "1855," "$250.90," shall be estimated and charged as one word. (Rev., s. 2805; Code, s. 3757; R. C., c. 102, s. 42; 1868-9, c. 279, s. 556.)

Art. 2. Legislative Department

§ 3852. Members of general assembly and presiding officers. — The members of the general assembly for the term for which they have been elected shall receive as a compensation for their services the sum of four dollars per day for each day of their session, for a period not exceeding sixty days; and should they remain longer in session, they shall serve without compensation. They shall also be entitled to receive ten cents per mile, both while coming to the seat of government and while returning home, the said distance to be computed by the nearest line or route of public travel. The compensation of the presiding officers of the two houses shall be six dollars per day and mileage. Should an extra session of the general assembly be called, the members and presiding officers shall receive a like rate of compensation for a period not exceeding twenty days. (Rev., s. 2729; Const., Art. II, s. 28.)

Inasmuch as per diem of members of the General Assembly is allowed only during its session, which is limited to sixty days, the members of a legislative committee appointed to investigate certain facts and report to the General Assembly before its adjournment if possible, otherwise to the Supreme Court, are not entitled to per diem for services rendered after adjournment when the resolution appointing them only provided for the necessary expenses of the committee while engaged in the investigation. Bank v. Worth, 117 N. C. 146, 147, 23 S. E. 160.

The Legislature has power to authorize a committee of its body to sit during vacation, and fix its compensation. Bank v. Worth, 117 N. C. 146, 147, 152, 23 S. E. 160.

§ 3852(a). Payment in installments or upon per diem basis; extra sessions.—The pay of the members and officers for a regular session of the General Assembly, as provided in section twenty-eight of article two of the Constitution of North Carolina, may be paid in installments, or upon a per diem basis as asked for by the several members and officers of the General Assembly; provided, that in no instance shall installments or per diem amount to more than ten dollars per day for the members and eleven dollars sixty-seven cents for the two presiding officers, for the number of days the General Assembly has been in session, and that the total pay of the officers and members of the General Assembly at a regular session shall in no case exceed six hundred dollars for the members, and seven hundred dollars for the presiding officers of the two houses. And, provided further, that the pay for an extra session of the General Assembly shall be eight dollars per day for members and ten dollars per day for the two presiding officers, for a period not to exceed twenty days. (1929, c. 2, s. 1.)

§ 3852(b). Pay to remain same in session of less than 60 days.—Nothing in the provisions of section 3852(a) shall prevent members and presiding officers of the Generai Assembly from receiving the full compensation of six hundred dollars for the members and seven hundred dollars for the presiding officers of the two houses, for the term of the regular session of the General Assembly, whether the term remains in session for sixty days or a shorter period. (1929, c. 2, s. 2.)

§ 3853. Clerks and doorkeepers.—The principal and his assistant clerks, the engrossing clerks and doorkeepers and assistant doorkeepers of the general assembly, and the chief clerk and assistants, appointed by the secretary of state to supervise the enrollment of bills and resolutions, shall each receive four dollars per day, during the session of the general assembly, and the same mileage as members of the general assembly; and as additional compensation to that herein provided for, the principal clerks of the senate and house of representatives shall each receive the sum of two dollars per day during the session of the general assembly. (Rev., s. 2730; Code, ss. 2871, 2872; 1903, c. 5, s. 2; 1901, c. 631; 1899, cc. 6, 7; 1897, c. 52; 1923, c. 142.)

§ 3854. Copyists.—Copyists employed in copying engrossed or enrolled bills and resolutions of the general assembly shall receive ten cents per sheet, which shall include the making of one carbon copy. (Rev., s. 2731; 1903, c. 5.)

§ 3855. Principal clerks; extra compensation.—The principal clerks of the general assembly shall be allowed four hundred dollars as a compensation for indexing the journals of their respective houses, and five hundred dollars each for extra work and for services required to be performed by them after the adjournment of each session of the general assembly, including the transcribing of a copy of their respective journals, which shall be filed in the office of the secretary of state. (Rev., s. 2732; Code, s. 2868; 1866-7, c. 71; 1881, c. 292; 1911, c. 116; 1919, c. 170; 1921, c. 160.)

§ 3855(a). Compensation of principal clerks for services in organizing senate and house.—The principal clerks of the senate and house of representatives, together with such assistants as may be necessary in arranging the halls of the senate and house and completing the organization of the two branches of the general assembly before the days for convening thereof, and such services as are rendered after adjournment in the completion of the records, shall receive the same per diem as shall be allowed by law to the said clerks and their assistants during the session. The state auditor is directed to issue his warrants for such clerks and for such time as is certified to by the president of the senate and the speaker of the house, upon vouchers signed by them. (1923, c. 130.)

§ 3856. Temporary doorkeepers.—The persons appointed to place the two halls of the general assembly in order, and to wait upon the members until doorkeepers can be regularly appointed, shall be allowed, as a compensation, the sum of four dollars each for their daily attendance and services. (Rev., s. 2734; Code, s. 2871; R. C., c. 52, s. 38; 1846, c. 63, s. 2.)

§ 3857(a). Compensation of employees of general assembly; mileage.—The principal clerks of the general assembly and chief clerk appointed by secretary of state in the enrolling office and chief engrossing clerks of the house and senate shall be allowed the sum of six dollars per day during the session of the general assembly, and mileage at the rate of five cents per mile from their homes to Raleigh and return. The secretary to the speaker of the house of representatives, the secretary to the lieutenant governor, the sergeant-at-arms, the assistants to the engrossing clerks, the assistant clerks to the principal clerks, and the assistant sergeant-at-arms of the general assembly, and the assistants appointed by the secretary of state to supervise the enrolling of bills and resolutions, the reading clerks of the general assembly shall receive the sum of five dollars per day, and mileage at the rate of five cents per mile from their homes to Raleigh and return. The clerks to all committees which by the rules of either house of the general assembly are entitled to clerks, shall receive four dollars per day during the session of the general assembly, and mileage at the rate of five cents per mile from their homes to Raleigh and return. The chief page of the house of representatives and senate shall receive three dollars and fifty cents per day during the session of the general assembly and mileage at the rate of five cents per mile from their homes to Raleigh and return. All other pages authorized by either of the two houses shall receive two dollars and one-half per day during the session of the general assembly and mileage at the rate of five cents per mile from their homes to Raleigh and return. All laborers of the first class authorized by law or the rules of either the house of representatives or the senate shall receive three dollars per day during the session of the general assembly and all mileage at the rate of five cents per mile from their homes to Raleigh and return, and laborers of the second class the sum of two dollars per day and mileage at the rate of five cents per mile from their homes to Raleigh and return. (1925, c. 72, s. 1; 1929, c. 3, s. 1; 1933, c. 6, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—Public Laws 1933, c. 6, substituted the above section for the former reading. A comparison of the two sections is necessary to determine the changes.

§ 3857(b). Laws repealed; exceptions.—All laws, and clauses of laws, parts of laws, rules or regulations of either house of representatives or senate other than sections 3855 and 3855(a) in conflict with sections 3857(a), are hereby repealed and declared null and void. (1925, c. 72, s. 2; 1929, c. 3, s. 2; 1933, c. 6, s. 2.)

Editor's Note.—This section was re-enacted by Public Laws 1933, c. 6, without change.

§ 3857(c). Application of sections. — Sections 3857(a) and 3857(b) shall apply to the herein enumerated clerks, assistant clerks, pages, laborers and other employees of the General Assembly from the beginning of the session of nineteen hundred and twenty-nine. (1925, c. 72, s. 3; 1929, c. 3, s. 3.)

§ 3857(d). Classification of laborers.—The chairman of the committee on rules of the House of Representatives and the chairman of the committee on rules of the Senate are hereby authorized, empowered and directed to classify the laborers of the General Assembly and certify to the chief clerk of the House of Representatives and the chief clerk of Senate the names of all laborers of the first class and all laborers of the second class, to the end that proper warrants may be issued in payment of services rendered in accordance with sections 3857(a), 3857(b), and 3857(c), and the list when certified shall be the classification of such laborers and they shall be paid accordingly. (1925, c. 116.)

Art. 3. Executive Department

§ 3858. Governor.—The salary of the governor shall be ten thousand five hundred dollars per annum. He shall be allowed annually the sum of six hundred dollars as traveling expenses in attending to the business for the state and for expenses out of the state and in the state in representing the interest of the state and people, incident to the duties of his office, the said allowance to be paid monthly. In addition to the foregoing allowance, the actual expenses of the governor while traveling outside the state on business incident to his office shall be paid by the state treasurer on a warrant issued by the auditor. (Rev. s. 2736; Code, s. 3720; 1879, c. 240; 1901, c. 8; 1907, c. 1009; 1911, c. 89; 1917, cc. 11, 235; 1919, c. 320; 1929, c. 276, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—The Act of 1929 raised the governor's salary from six thousand five hundred dollars to the present amount.

§ 3859. Private secretary to governor; salary and fees.—The private secretary to the governor shall be allowed an annual salary of three thousand dollars, and he shall charge and collect the following fees, to be paid by the persons for whom the services are rendered, namely: For the commission of a judge, solicitor, senator in congress, representative in congress, notary public, or a place of profit, two dollars and fifty cents each; for a testimonial, one dollar; for affixing the seal to a grant, twenty-five cents; for affixing the great seal of the state to state bonds, ten cents. All fees, except fifty cents on each commission issued, which shall be retained by the private secretary for his services, received by the private secretary shall be paid into the treasury quarterly. He shall be ex officio secretary of the board of internal improvements, and shall be allowed five dollars per day for each day the board is in session. (Rev., s. 2737; Code, ss. 1689, 3721; R. C., c. 102, s. 12; 1856-7, p. 71, res.; 1881, c. 346; Pr. 1901, c. 405; 1903, c. 729; 1907, c. 830; 1911, c. 95; 1913, c. 1; 1915, c. 50; 1917, c. 214; 1921, c. 227.)

Editor's Note.—This section is superseded by § 3859(a).

§ 3859(a). Same—Present Law. — The salary of the Private Secretary to the Governor is hereby fixed at forty-five hundred dollars ($4500) per annum, payable monthly, commencing February 1, 1929. This salary shall be full compensation for all the services performed by him. He shall continue to collect the fees as provided in section 3859, and shall cover the whole of the same into the State Treasury as provided in that section. The five dollars ($5.00) per day for acting as Secretary of the Board of Internal Improvements is hereby repealed. (1929, c. 322, ss. 1, 2.)

§ 3860.—Repealed by Public Laws of 1925, c. 275, s. 6.

§ 3861. Governor and council to fix certain salaries.—The governor and council of state shall constitute a board to adjust and fix the compensation to be paid to the several assistants, chief clerks, clerks and assistants, in the various departments of the state government affected by sections 3861, 3863, 3867-3870, 3873, 3874, and 4668, including employees of the supreme court, and the State Library and including the private secretary of the governor: Provided, that nothing herein shall in any way affect the provisions of sections 3861(c) and 3861(d), except such as are by law required to give bond to the state. Provided further, that the above proviso shall not apply to employees of the State Library.

(1921, c. 143, ss. 1, 4; Ex. Sess. 1921, c. 29; 1924, c. 124.)

Editor's Note.—This section was amended by chapter 124, Laws 1924, by inserting after the words "Supreme Court" and before the word "and," the words "and the State Library." The said chapter of the said Laws also added the final proviso to the section.

§ 3861(a). Limit of salary; certificate and payment.—The compensation fixed under the provisions of section 3861 shall not exceed $3,000 per annum for any individual employee, and shall be certified by the governor to the state auditor, and paid as provided by law for the payment of other salaries. (1921, c. 143, s. 2.)

§ 3861(b). Proceedings and reports.—The proceedings of the board shall be kept by the state auditor, and reported to each regular session of the general assembly. (1921, c. 143, s. 3.)

§ 3861(c). Governor and council to fix salaries, etc.; certificate to auditor and treasurer.—The governor and council of state are hereby authorized to fix the salaries, compensation and wages, and the terms of payment, of all clerks, stenographers and laborers, in the several departments, of the state, assistant state librarian, and second assistant state librarian, keeper of the capitol, janitors, night watchmen and laborers, employed in or about any state building, executive mansion and capitol grounds, whose salaries, compensation or wages do not now amount to the sum of eighteen hundred dollars per annum: Provided, the salary, compensation or wages of any such clerk, stenographer, employee, laborer, janitor, night-watchman or assistant librarians in the state library and in the supreme court library shall not be fixed at a sum greater than eighteen hundred dollars per annum; and the salaries, compensation or wages shall be certified by the governor to the auditor and treasurer of the state, and in no case shall said clerks or stenographers or other employees herein mentioned by whatever name called or designated received any additional compensation from the state or any department thereof. (Ex. Sess. 1920, c. 95, s. 1.)

§ 3861(d). Employment of additional assistants; compensation. — The governor and council of state are authorized and empowered to employ any additional clerical or stenographical help, in any of the departments of the state, upon the written request of the head of said department, and when they shall become satisfied that such additional help is needed, temporarily in such department, to do efficiently the work of said department, and fix the salary of such additional help under section 3861(c). (Ex. Sess. 1920, c. 95, s. 2.)

§ 3862. Lieutenant-governor.—Whenever the lieutenant-governor shall attend any meeting of state officials or otherwise, which he is required by law to attend, he shall be entitled to receive as compensation the per diem allowed him under the constitution as president of the senate for the time required in attending said meeting, together with his necessary traveling expenses in going to and from said meeting. The amount to which he shall be entitled shall be certified to by him, and shall be paid to him by the state treasurer upon the proper warrant. (1911, c. 103.)

Corporation clerk .....$2,500 per annum
Grant clerk ..... 2,250 per annum
Special clerk and stenographer . 1,200 per annum

The secretary of state shall be allowed a contingent sum not exceeding fifteen hundred dollars per annum for extra clerical assistance in the discharge of the duties of his office, and the treasurer shall pay the same upon the warrant of the auditor out of the fees collected by the secretary of state and paid into the state treasury. The governor and council of state are authorized to allow the department of the secretary of state not more than four additional clerks, at salaries not exceeding one hundred and twenty-five ($125.00) dollars per month, for such time as the governor and the council of state may find to be absolutely necessary to carry on the work of the department. (Rev., s. 2741; Code, s. 3724; 1879, c. 240, s. 6; 1881, p. 632, res.; 1907, c. 994; 1919, c. 247, s. 2; Ex. Sess. 1920, c. 49, s. 4; 1921, c. 11, s. 1; 1935, c. 304.)

Editor's Note.—The amendment of 1935 increased the salary of the secretary of state from $4,500 to $6,000, and added the provision making such salary payable monthly.

§ 3864. Secretary of state; fees to be collected.—The secretary of state shall collect the following fees, namely: copying and certifying a will, grant or patent not exceeding two copy-sheets, fifty cents; and for every additional copy-sheet, ten cents, correcting an error not made by himself in a patent, fifty cents; copying and certifying a plot and survey, fifty cents for each warrant or for each six hundred and forty acres contained in the plot or survey, not to exceed five dollars for one copy; receiving surveyor's return, making out, recording and endorsing grants, sixty cents; each certificate, ten cents; filing and recording a copy of a judgment vacating a grant and all other services thereon, fifty cents; copying an entry from the journals of the assembly, forty cents; copying and certifying the laws of other states, twenty cents for each copy-sheet; and in all cases not otherwise provided for, the secretary of state shall receive for copies of records from his office, one dollar for the first three copy-sheets and ten cents a copy-sheet thereafter. (Rev., s. 2742; Code, s. 3725; R. C.; c. 102, s. 13; 1870-1, c. 81, s. 1881, c. 79.)

§ 3865. Fees on returns to secretary of state.—All officers required to make returns to the secretary of state shall receive for such returns five cents per copy-sheet, to be audited on the certificate of the secretary of state, and paid as other claims against the state. (Rev., s. 2743; Code, s. 3759; 1868-9, c. 279, s. 557.)

§ 3866. Assistant to secretary of state; for indexing laws, etc.—The assistant to the secretary of state who shall index the laws and prepare the laws and captions for publication shall receive a compensation of five hundred dollars. (Rev., s. 2733: 1903, c. 3.)

§ 3867. Department of state auditor.—The auditor shall receive a salary of four thousand five hundred dollars per annum, and shall be allowed no fee or other compensation whatever. The salaries of the following employees in the department of the state auditor shall be fixed by the governor and council of state not to exceed the amounts herein indicated:

Chief clerk .....$2,500 per annum

Editor's Note.—The amendment of 1935 increased the salary of the state treasurer from $4,500 to $6,000, and added the provision making such salary payable monthly.

Bond of Clerk Not Official Bond.—A bond by a clerk executed to the State Treasurer individually is not an official bond and does not extend beyond the term during which the clerk was appointed. Jackson v. Martin, 136 N. C. 196, 48 S. E. 672.

Same—Limitation.—An action against the sureties on the bond of a clerk for defalcations in the office of the State Treasurer is barred after three years. Jackson v. Martin, 136 N. C. 196, 48 S. E. 672.

§ 3869. Department of education. — The state superintendent of public instruction shall receive an annual salary of five thousand dollars and actual traveling expenses. The salaries of the following employees in the department of education shall be fixed by the governor and council of state not to exceed the amounts herein indicated:

Chief clerk .....$2,500 per annum
Statistical clerk ..... 2,500 per annum

The statistical clerk, who is also the loan fund clerk, shall be paid out of the loan fund. The stenographer shall receive a salary of twelve hundred dollars per annum. (Rev., s. 2745; Code, s. 2737; 1879, c. 240, s. 8; 1901, c. 4, ss. 9, 11; 1903, c. 435, s. 2; 1903, c. 567, s. 6; 1903, c. 603; 1905, c. 533, ss. 2, 15, 16; 1907, c. 830, ss. 6, 11; 1907, c. 994; 1915, c. 247; 1917, cc. 167, 285; 1919, c. 293; 1919, c. 247, s. 5; 1921, c. 11, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—This section does not purport to limit the number of employees of the department of education to the two clerks named in the section. Its manifest purpose is to merely provide for the office force in the department. In the chapter on Education will be found provisions for employing persons to serve the department in various capacities in administering and giving effect to the school program of the State, and whose salaries are to be fixed by the State Board of Education.

It is plainly shown that this section was not intended to be, nor has it been construed to be, all inclusive by a glance at some of the recent Legislative enactments. Chapter 146, Laws of 1917, and section 5, chapter 247, Laws of 1919, provide that there shall be a Board of Examiners and Institute Conductors, whose salary shall not exceed three thousand dollars per annum exclusive of expenses. In like manner chapter 224, Laws 1917 provide for a Director of Schools for Adult Illiterates, and chapter 856, Laws of 1907 provide for a Supervisor of Teacher Training.

Public Laws of 1935, chapter 441, provides as follows: "The salary of the Superintendent of Public Instruction of North Carolina is hereby fixed at six thousand dollars ($6,000.00) per annum, payable monthly.

"This act shall be in full force and effect from and after December the thirty-first, one thousand nine hundred thirty-six."

§ 3870. Department of justice.—[The attorney-general shall receive an annual salary of $7,500.00, payable monthly.] The attorney-general shall also be allowed a stenographer who shall serve also as criminal statistics clerk, whose salary shall be fixed by the governor and council of state not to exceed twenty-four hundred dollars per year. (Rev., s. 2746; Code, ss. 3728, 3729; 1889, c. 274; 1893, c. 379; 1907, c. 830, s. 7; 1907, c. 994, s. 2; 1909, c. 804; 1911, c. 94; 1919, c. 247, s. 6; 1921, c. 11, s. 1; 1921, c. 182; 1923, c. 177; 1929, c. 1, s. 2.)

Editor's Note.—The Act of 1929 provided that this section be amended to read as appearing in brackets above. As to salary of assistants, see § 7695(a). As to additional clerical help, see § 7695(b).

§ 3871. Fees of attorney-general. — In all appeals to the supreme court of persons convicted of criminal offenses, a fee of ten dollars against each person who shall not reverse the judgment shall be allowed the attorney-general, to be taxed among the costs of that court. (Rev., s. 2747; Code, s. 3737; 1873-4, c. 170.)

As to fees of State officers; disposition and accounting, see sec. 3850.

§ 3872. Department of agriculture.—The salary of the commissioner of agriculture shall be four thousand five hundred dollars per annum, to be paid monthly out of the receipts of the agricultural department. (Rev., s. 2749; 1901, c. 479, s. 4; 1905, c. 529; 1907, c. 887, s. 1; 1913, c. 58; 1921, c. 35, s. 1; 1933, c. 282, s. 5; 1935, c. 293.

§ 3873. Department of labor and printing.—The salary of the commissioner of labor and printing shall be four thousand five hundred dollars per annum, payable monthly. The salaries of the assistant commissioner of labor and printing and of the following employees in the department of labor and printing shall be fixed by the governor and council of state not to exceed the amounts herein indicated:

Assistant commissioner .....$2,500 per annum
Bookkeeper and stock man .. 1,800 per annum
Stenographer ..... 1,200 per annum

The commissioner and assistant commissioner of labor and printing shall also receive their traveling expenses while traveling for the purpose of collecting the information and statistics as provided by law. (Rev., s. 2753; 1899, c. 373, s. 3; 1907, cc. 930, 989; 1915, cc. 157, 177; 1919, c. 247, s. 8; 1921, c. 25, s. 1; 1933, c. 282, s. 5; 1935, c. 293.)

Editor's Note.—The department referred to in this section is now the department of labor in charge of the commissioner of labor. See §§ 7309 et seq.

§ 3874. Department of insurance.—The salary of the insurance commissioner shall be four thousand five hundred dollars per annum, payable monthly. The salaries of the following assistants and employees in the department of insurance shall be fixed by the governor and council of state not to exceed the amounts herein indicated:

Chief deputy .....$2,500 per annum
Chief clerk ..... 2,500 per annum
Actuary ..... 2,500 per annum
Cashier ..... 1,500 per annum
License clerk .....1,250 per annum

(Rev., s. 2756; 1899, c. 54, ss. 3, 8; 1901, c. 710; 1903, c. 42; 1903, c. 771, s. 3; 1907, c. 830, s. 10; 1907, c. 994; 1909, c. 839; 1913, c. 194; 1915, cc. 158, 171; 1917, c. 70; 1919, c. 247, s. 4; 1921, c. 25, s. 1; 1933, c. 282, s. 5; 1935, c. 293.)

§ 3875. Corporation commission.

Editor's Note.—Public Laws of 1935, chapter 134, codified as secs. 1112(a)-1112(q), abolished the corporation commission and created the office of utilities commissioner. As to salary of commissioner, see sec. 1112(d).

§ 3876. State librarian.—The salary of the state librarian shall be two thousand five hundred dollars per annum, and he shall be allowed two hundred and fifty dollars per annum, for services as custodian of the document library, and one dollar per day during the sessions of the general assembly for keeping the document library open. He shall be allowed to charge a fee of fifty cents for each seal and certificate, and ten cents per copy-sheet for all documents, papers, copies of instruments of every description whatsoever pertaining to his office which he shall be called upon to furnish to any person interested in same, to be paid by the party securing such copy of record. He shall be allowed two assistants, whose salaries shall be as follows:

First assistant .....$900 per annum
Second assistant ..... 500 per annum

(Rev., s. 2748; Code, s. 3604; 1901, c. 503, s. 1; 1887, c. 258, s. 3; 1889, res., p. 519; 1905, c. 537; 1907, c. 647; 1909, cc. 246, 887; Ex. Sess. 1913, c. 33; 1915, c. 74; 1921, c. 202.)

Editor's Note.—Public Laws of 1933, chapter 282, section 6, reduced the salary of state librarian to $1800 per annum. Public Laws of 1935, chapter 306, section 5, increased salaries and wages by twenty per cent for the year 1935-1936 and twenty-five per cent for the year 1936-1937.

Public Laws of 1935, chapter 56 provides: "That section six of chapter two hundred and eighty-two of the Public Laws of one thousand nine hundred and thirty-three be amended by adding after line four, which is: State Librarian, one thousand eight hundred and no/100 ($1,800.00) dollars; the following:

"Provided, however, that the salary so stated shall be subject to any increase of salary provided by the Legislature of one thousand nine hundred and thirty-five, and uniform with such increases as may be made by such salary provisions."

§ 3877. Adjutant-general. — The salary of the adjutant-general shall be four thousand five hundred dollars per annum. The adjutant-general shall reside at the state capital during his term of office. (Rev., s. 2750; Code, ss. 3275, 3730; 1899, c. 390, ss. 2, 3; 1879, c. 240, s. 10; 1883, c. 283, s. 2; 1907, c. 803, s. 1; 1911, c. 110, s. 1; 1915, c. 118; Ex. Sess. 1921, c. 53; 1933, c. 282, s. 6; 1935, c. 293.)

§ 3878. Presidential electors.—Presidential electors shall receive, for their attendance at the meeting of said electors in the city of Raleigh, the sum of $10.00 (Ten dollars) per day and traveling expenses at the rate of 5c (five cents) per mile in going to and returning from said meeting. (Rev., s. 2761; 1901, c. 89, s. 84; 1933, c. 5.)

Editor's Note.—Prior to Public Laws 1933, c. 5, this section provided for travelling expenses and compensation the same as allowed members of the General Assembly.

§ 3879.—Repealed by Public Laws of 1925, c. 275, s. 6.

§ 3880. Keeper of capitol.—The salary of the keeper of the capitol, or superintendent of public buildings and grounds, shall be twelve hundred dollars per annum, which shall include his compensation as keeper of the arsenal. (Rev., s. 2806; Code, ss. 2302, 2303; 1907, c. 989; 1915, c. 150.)

§ 3881. Servants and employees:

1. Servants of the state departments and the supreme court. The governor and the council of state are hereby authorized and empowered to fix the wages of the employees of the state hereafter named, but in no case shall the wages exceed the amount herein specified.

The janitors or servants of the various state departments, including three servants for the supreme court, and the butler at the executive mansion, now authorized and provided by law, fifteen dollars per week.

The gardeners for the capitol grounds and executive mansion grounds, seventeen and a half dollars per week.

The custodian of the capitol building and of the supreme court building, twenty-five dollars per week; and the custodian of the state departments building, twenty-five dollars per week.

Night watchmen for the several state buildings as now authorized by law, seventeen dollars and fifty cents per week; but the night watchman and police for capitol building and grounds shall receive not exceeding twenty-two dollars and fifty cents per week.

The governor and the council of state are authorized to employ one night watchman for two or more buildings, when in their judgment the same is desirable, and, in that event, pay a salary not exceeding twenty-five dollars per week.

The justices of the supreme court may employ one additional servant for service in the supreme court.

The night watchman at the department of agriculture shall be paid out of funds belonging to the department.

2. Janitor for state library. The state librarian may employ a janitor and assistant at seventy-five dollars per month.

3. Engineer and fireman of central heating plant. An engineer, and fireman if necessary, for the central heating plant may be employed, whose duties and salary shall be fixed by the board of public buildings and grounds.

The servants and employees mentioned in this section shall be paid by the state treasurer unless otherwise specified herein. (1913, c. 108; Ex. Sess. 1913, c. 59, s. 1; 1919, cc. 313, 323.)

§ 3882. Laborers' leave of absence.—Every laborer, waiter, and messenger permanently employed under authority of law in and about the public buildings and grounds at a salary, who shall have served faithfully therein for the space of one continuous year, shall be entitled to fifteen days leave of absence per annum, with full pay, at the end of every year of such service. (Rev., s. 2763; 1897, c. 274; 1907, c. 117.)

Art. 4. Judicial Department

§ 3883. Supreme court justices.—Each justice of the supreme court shall be paid an annual salary of seven thousand five hundred dollars, and five hundred annually in lieu of and in commutation for traveling expenses. They shall each be allowed nine hundred dollars annually for stenographer or clerk. (Rev., s. 2764; Code, s. 3733; 1891, c. 193; 1903, c. 805; 1905, c. 208; 1907, cc. 841, 988; 1909, c. 486; 1911, c. 82; 1915, c. 44; 1919, c. 51; 1921, c. 25, s. 2; 1925, c. 214; 1927, c. 69, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—This section was amended by chapter 214, Laws 1925, by raising the salary, including traveling expenses of the Supreme Court Justices from six thousand two hundred and fifty dollars per year, to six thousand five hundred dollars. The section was further amended by chapter 69, Laws 1927, by striking out the words "six thousand" in line two and inserting in lieu thereof the words "seven thousand five hundred."

Justices' Salaries Not Subject to Taxation.—See notes to Const. Art. IV, § 18.

§ 3884. Superior court judges.—The salary of each of the judges of the superior court shall be six thousand five hundred dollars per annum, and each judge shall be allowed the sum of one thousand five hundred and fifty dollars in lieu of his traveling expenses, to be paid monthly. They shall also receive one hundred dollars per week and their actual expenses incurred in attending and holding special terms of court by assignment of the governor, which expenses shall be paid by the county in which such special term is held. (Rev., s. 2765; Code, ss. 918, 3734; 1891, c. 193; 1901, c. 167; 1905, c. 208; 1907, c. 988; 1909, c. 85; 1911, c. 82; 1919, c. 51; 1921, c. 25, s. 3; 1925, c. 227; 1927, c. 69, s. 2.)

Editor's Note.—This section was amended by chapter 69, Laws 1927, by striking out the words "five thousand" in line two of said section and inserting in lieu thereof the words "six thousand five hundred."

Additional Compensation Part of Salary.—The additional compensation of one hundred dollars given to a superior court judge by this section for services in holding a special term, is a part of his salary. Buxton v. Commissioners, 82 N. C. 91.

As to taxing salaries of judges, see Const. Art. IV. § 18.

§ 3884(a). Salaries of resigned or retired justices of supreme court and judges of superior courts.—Every justice of the supreme court and judge of the superior court who has heretofore resigned or retired from office at the end of his term, or who shall hereafter resign or retire at expiration of his term, who has attained the age of sixty-five (65) years at the date of his resignation or retirement, and who has served for fifteen (15) years on the supreme court or on the superior court, or on the supreme and superior courts combined or twelve consecutive years on the supreme court, shall receive for life two-thirds (⅔) of the annual salary from time to time received by the justices of the supreme court or judges of superior court, respectively, payable monthly; provided, that any such justice or judge, who has or shall have served as such for twenty-five years or longer (whether continuously or not), and whose seventieth birthday shall occur within six months next succeeding his resignation or retirement, shall be entitled to all of the benefits of this section from and after the date of his resignation or retirement, and shall also be subject to the other provisions of this section. The provisions herein as to the amount of life-time pay shall relate back to and become effective as of the fourth day of March, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-one, and the state treasurer is authorized and directed to pay on the warrant of the state auditor the salary of any justice or judge as affected by such provisions, less any amount heretofore paid. (1921, c. 125, s. 1; Ex. Sess. 1921, c. 20, ss. 1, 2; 1927, c. 133, s. 201; 1935, cc. 233, 400.)

See 12 N. C. Law Rev., 367, for note on "Power of Congress to Diminish the Retired Salaries of Federal Judges."

Editor's Note.—The amendment of 1935 reduced the retirement age from seventy (70) years to sixty-five (65) years and added the phrase reading: "or twelve consecutive years on the supreme court."

§ 3885. Certificates of courts held by judges.—Every judge of the superior court shall produce a certificate from the clerk of each county of his having held the court of the county according to law; and for every such certificate omitted to be produced there shall be a deduction from his salary of one hundred dollars, unless he shall be prevented by sickness or other unavoidable cause. (Rev., s. 2766; Code, s. 3735; R. C., c. 102, s. 4; 1868-9, c. 46, s. 7; 1879, c. 240, s. 5.)

§ 3886. Clerk of supreme court.—The clerk of the supreme court shall receive an annual salary of three hundred dollars, to be paid semiannually, on a certificate of the justices; and, in addition thereto, the following fees, namely: For recording the papers and proceedings in the causes decided in the supreme court, which are required by law to be recorded, such compensation as may be estimated by the justices of the court at each term, not to exceed thirty cents for each page recorded, to be paid by the treasurer on the certificate of the justices; for entering an appeal, one dollar; a continuance, thirty cents; a scire facias, eighty cents; a certiorari, eighty cents; a determination, two dollars; a certificate, sixty cents; a fieri facias, or other execution, fifty cents; a seal, twenty-five cents; a transcript, or copy of a record, twenty cents for each copy-sheet; a rule given for service, twenty-five cents; a rule not for service, fifteen cents; a subpœna, writ, or other process, one dollar; a commission, fifty cents; drawing a decree or judgment, by the copy-sheet, forty cents; a search, ten cents; affixing the seal to any writing requiring it, twenty-five cents; and an affidavit, twenty-five cents. (Rev., s. 2769; Code, s. 3738; R. C., c. 102, ss. 25, 26; 1870-1, c. 139, s. 7.)

As to clerk's right to demand fees in advance, see annotations under section 3849.

When Judge Allows Appeal without Bond.—The clerk of the Supreme Court is not bound to render his services gratuitously to a party whom the judge of the court below has allowed to appeal without giving the bond required by law. Martin v. Chasteen, 75 N. C. 96, in which Superior Court Office v. Lockman, 12 N. C. 146, and Biggerstaff v. Cox, 46 N. C 534, are cited and approved.

§ 3887. Janitor and fireman of supreme court building.—The janitor of the supreme court shall be appointed by said court. He shall act also as assistant librarian of the supreme court. As janitor he shall receive fifteen dollars per week, and for acting as assistant librarian he shall receive thirty dollars per month. The fireman of the supreme court building shall be appointed by the chief justice and associate justices of the supreme court. When not engaged in his duties as fireman he shall act as assistant janitor of the supreme court building, and shall assist in the cleaning and care of such building and perform such other duties as may be designated by the said justices of the supreme court. (1907, c. 732; 1909, cc. 687, 721; 1911, c. 156.)

§ 3888. Marshal of supreme court.—The salary of the marshal of the supreme court shall be two thousand dollars per annum; and he shall perform the duties of librarian without additional compensation. (Rev., s. 2770; Code, ss. 950, 3606; 1889, c. 482; 1873-4, c. 34; 1881, c. 306; 1907, c. 732; 1909, c. 687; 1919, c. 260.)

As to appointment of marshal, see section 1427.

§ 3889. Supreme court reporter.—The compensation of the supreme court reporter shall not exceed fifteen hundred dollars per annum, to be fixed by the court. The council of state shall furnish him with suitable offices at a cost not to exceed five hundred dollars a year, which shall be paid direct to the lessor upon the warrant of the state auditor drawn upon the state treasurer. He is authorized and empowered to employ a stenographer and clerk at a yearly salary of not exceeding six hundred dollars, payable monthly directly to the person so employed by the reporter, by voucher drawn by the state auditor on the state treasurer, out of the general funds of the state. (Rev., s. 2771; Code, ss. 3363, 3728; 1893, c. 379; 1897, c. 429; 1911, c. 107; 1913, c. 59; 1917, c. 272; 1919, c. 276.)

§ 3889(a). Night-watchman of administration building.—The salary of the night-watchman of the state administration building shall be $22.50 per week. (Ex. Sess. 1920, c. 83.)

Art. 5. Solicitors, Jurors, and Witnesses

§ 3890. Solicitors; general compensation.—The several solicitors of the judicial districts of the state of North Carolina shall each receive, as full compensation for services as solicitor, the sum of forty-five hundred dollars ($4,500.00), to be paid in equal monthly installments out of the state treasury upon warrants duly drawn thereon, which said salaries shall be in lieu of all fees or other compensation. (Rev., s. 2767; Code, s. 3736; 1879, c. 240, s. 12; 1923, c. 157, s. 1; 1933, c. 78 s. 1; 1935, c. 278.)

Editor's Note.—The amendment of 1935 increased the salary from $3,900 to $4,500.

In Moore v. Roberts, 87 N. C. 11, it was held that the solicitor of the criminal court of a county has no claim upon the State for such compensation as is allowed the district solicitors under this section, where the act establishing said court puts the burden of sustaining the same upon the county.

§ 3890(a): Repealed by Public Laws 1933, c. 78, s. 2.

§ 3892. Fees of jurors.—All jurors in the superior court other than special veniremen and tales jurors shall receive such an amount per day as the boards of commissioners of their respective counties may fix, not less than two dollars per day and not more than four dollars per day, and mileage at the rate of five cents per mile while coming to the county-seat and returning home. The said distance to be computed by the usual route of public travel. In the counties of Union, Nash, Brunswick, Randolph, Haywood, Polk, Surry, Swain, Alleghany, Anson, Graham, Ashe, Dare, Alexander, Cleveland, Clay, Transylvania, Harnett, Stanly, Mitchell, Burke, Franklin, Greene, Johnston, and Henderson, jurors other than special veniremen and tales jurors shall not receive more than three dollars per day.

Special veniremen and tales jurors shall receive such an amount per day for their attendance upon court as may be fixed by the boards of commissioners of their respective counties, not exceeding three dollars per day. Special veniremen who have been accepted on the panel in the trial of any cause shall receive the pay and mileage of regular jurors. (Rev., s. 2798; 1919, c. 85, ss. 1, 2; Ex. Sess. 1920, c. 61, ss. 1, 3; 1921, c. 62, s. 1.)

Cross References. — As to compensation of jurors at inquests, see section 1022; as to compensation of jurors to value division fence under the fence and stock law, see section 1836; as to clerks to tax solicitor's fees; use of school fund, see section 1235(a); as to cost of investigating lynchings, see section 1266; as to solicitor's fees in actions for penalties brought by the Corporation Commission, see section 1111.

§ 3893. Fees and mileage of witnesses.—The fees of witnesses, whether attending at a term of court or before the clerk, or a referee, or commissioner, or arbitrator, shall be such amount per day as the board of commissioners of the respective counties may fix, to be not less than one dollar per day and not more than three dollars per day, except in the counties of Union, Nash, Brunswick, Randolph, Haywood, Polk, Surry, Swain, Alleghany, Anson, Graham, Ashe, Dare, Alexander, Cleveland, Clay, Transylvania, Harnett, Stanly, Mitchell, Burke, Franklin, Greene, Johnston, and Henderson, in which counties the fees shall be one dollar per day. They shall also receive mileage, to be fixed by the county commissioners of their respective counties, at a rate not to exceed five cents per mile for every mile necessarily traveled from their respective homes in going to and returning from the place of examination by the ordinary route, and ferriage and toll paid in going and returning. If attending out of their counties, they shall receive one dollar per day and five cents per mile going and returning by the ordinary route, and toll and fer-riage expenses: Provided, that witnesses before courts of justices of the peace shall receive fifty cents per day in civil cases, and in criminal actions of which justices of the peace have final jurisdiction, witnesses attending the courts of justices of the peace, under subpœna, shall receive fifty cents per day, and in hearings before coroners witnesses shall receive fifty cents per day and no mileage; but the party cast shall not pay for more than two witnesses subpœnaed to prove any one material fact, and no prosecutor or complainant shall pay any costs, unless the justice shall find that the prosecution was malicious and frivolous: Provided further, that experts, when compelled to attend and testify, shall be allowed such compensation and mileage as the court may in its discretion order. Witnesses attending before the corporation commission shall receive two dollars per day and five cents per mile traveled by the nearest practicable route. All witnesses subpœnaed to attend courts of justices of the peace in Franklin county in the trial of civil or criminal cases in any township other than their resident townships shall be paid the same per diem and mileage that is now paid witnesses attending the superior courts: Provided further, that any sheriff, deputy sheriff, chief of police, police, patrolman, state highway patrolman, and/or any other law enforcement officer who receives a salary or compensation for his services from any source or sources other than the collection of fees, shall prove no attendance, and shall receive no fee as a witness for attending at any superior or inferior criminal court sitting within the territorial boundaries in which such officer has authority to make an arrest. (Rev., s. 2803; Code, ss. 2860, 3756; 1891, c. 147; 1905, cc. 279, 522; P. L. 1911, c. 402; Ex. Sess. 1920, c. 61, ss. 2, 3; 1921, c. 62, s. 2; 1933, c. 40.)

Editor's Note.—This section relative to the amount of witnesses' fees must necessarily be construed with article 8 of the chapter on costs, § 1273 et seq., by which is determined when the witness is entitled to the fees here prescribed with other provisions as to witnesses' fees.

Public Laws 1931, c. 54, applicable only to Beaufort County, amended this section by adding at the end thereof the following: "Provided, that in criminal actions no peace officer within said county, serving on a salary from the county or city, shall be allowed to file any witness ticket for attendance upon court in any court held in the township or city, or adjoining the township in which he resides."

Public Laws 1933, c. 40, added the proviso, at the end of this section, abolishing witness fees for police officers on salaries. Public Laws 1933, c. 495 amends the prior 1933 amendment by providing that the act "shall not apply to officers who, under contract of employment, receive as part of their compensation fees allowed by law," but limits the application of this second amendment to Rutherford, Polk, McDowell, Cleveland and Henderson counties.

Public Laws of 1935, chapter 237, providing that the section shall not apply to certain police officers in New Hanover county, was amended by chapter 415, Public Laws 1935.

Public Laws 1935, chapter 247, excepts Duplin county from the operation of chapter 40 of the Public Laws of 1933, which added the proviso to the section.

Public Laws of 1935, chapter 264, likewise excepts Alamance county from the operation of the proviso, except where costs are assessed against the county.

Public Laws of 1935, chapter 333, adds a proviso to this section applicable only in Forsyth county.

Public Laws of 1935, chapter 185, makes specified applications of the proviso of the section in Guilford county.

Public Laws of 1935, chapter 93, repeals the proviso added by the 1933 Act, in so far as the same applied to cases where the defendant pays the cost in Franklin, Guilford, Pitt, Richmond, Rowan and Wayne counties.

Public Laws of 1935, chapter 209, excepts Craven county from the operation of the proviso added by the 1933 amendment.

In General.—The manner of summoning witnesses, and their compensation is entirely regulated by statute. Stern & Co. v. Herren, 101 N. C. 516, 8 S. E. 221.

Proof of Attendance. — Witnesses should swear to their attendance at each term, and the ticket should state the number of days' attendance at each term. Thompson v. Hodges, 10 N. C. 318.

Same—State's Witnesses upon Acquittal. — Costs and charges of State's witnesses upon acquittal of a defendant were ordered to be paid by the county; and in an action against the Commissioners to recover the amount of tickets issued to such witnesses: It was held, (1) that ch. 105, § 33, Bat. Rev. makes the tickets presumptive evidence of the facts set forth therein—attendance, miles traveled, etc.; (2) this evidence, together with the order of the court, imposes a duty upon defendants to provide for their payment. Deaver v. Commissioners, 80 N. C. 116. Section 1274 now provides that "the certificate of the clerk shall be sufficient evidence of the debt." Ed. N.

A witness in a criminal action has no claim upon the county until the liability of the county for the costs is passed upon by the court. Young v. Commissioners, 76 N. C. 316.

Liability of County for Defendant's Witnesses. — The liability of the county for defendant's witnesses is restricted to the same cases in which the county is responsible for half fees to officers, except that the county is not liable to defendant's witnesses where he is convicted and unable to pay. An appeal in the matter of costs lies in cases of this kind. State v. Horne, 119 N. C. 853, 26 S. E. 36; Guilford v. Commissioners, 120 N. C. 23, 28, 27 S. E. 94. See § 1283 and notes thereto.

Witnesses for the losing party receive no pay unless said party be solvent. State v. Wheeler, 141 N. C. 773, 777, 53 S. E. 358.

But this does not abridge the right of all the witnesses to recover compensation against the party summoning them. State v. Massey, 104 N. C. 877, 881, 10 S. E. 608.

A witness can always prove his attendance against the party who subpoenas him. Sitton v. Lumber Co., 135 N. C. 540, 47 S. E. 609.

When Grand Jury Witnesses Entitled to Compensation.—Witnesses are entitled to compensation where a bill is prepared and sent to the grand jury with the names of those summoned indorsed thereon as sworn and sent. Lewis v. Commissioners, 74 N. C. 194.

Witnesses to Testify Generally Before Grand Jury.—There is no provision of law for the payment of witnesses summoned to appear and testify generally before the grand jury "in certain matters then and there to be inquired of." Lewis v. Commissioners, 74 N. C. 194.

When Court Rules Witness Incompetent.—Where a witness was ruled by the court to be incompetent, and such ruling was not appealed from, or reversed, it was held that his fees could not be taxed against the adverse party, whether the ruling out of the witness was erroneous or not. Keith v. Goodwin, 51 N. C. 398.

May Not Withdraw Witness Ticket and Sue Thereon.—A witness is not at liberty after final judgment to withdraw his "witness ticket" and sue upon it. His fees for attendance should be taxed and collected with the other costs against the party adjudged to pay the same, if he be solvent; and if not, then the prevailing party who summoned and required his testimony is responsible therefor. Belden v. Snead, 84 N. C. 243.

Rules as to Costs in Justice's Court.—This section is construed with section 1271. See the notes to section 1271.

Court's Power to Fix Fees for Expert Witnesses. — The court has now the statutory authority to fix the fees of expert witnesses, and its action is res judicata as to the amount, leaving open the question of the legality of the taxing of the fee on a motion to retax. Chadwick v. Life Ins. Co., 158 N. C. 380, 74 S. E. 115.

The amount to be paid an expert witness testifying at a hearing before a commissioner of the industrial commission in proceedings before him under the Workmen's Compensation Act is a question to be determined in the discretion of the court and the witness may not require that it be fixed in advance before testifying as to a material matter involved in the inquiry. In re Hayes, 200 N. C. 133, 156 S. E. 791.

The court has discretionary authority under this section, to allow expert witnesses compensation and mileage, and plaintiff's remedy upon being so taxed is to move to retax the costs rather than to except under § 1275. Connor v. Hayworth, 206 N. C. 721, 175 S. E. 140.

Art. 6. Commissioners in Various Court Proceedings

§ 3894. Condemnation commissioners.—The commissioners appointed, under any order of court, to condemn any land, for any railroad or other company or corporation in proceedings to condemn land under and by virtue of any right of eminent domain, shall each receive three dollars per day for each day they are engaged in the performance of their duties. (Rev., s. 2790; Code, s. 1946.)

Commissioners to Be Allowed Reasonable Fee.—In 1 N. C. Law Rev. 284, it is said that "chapter 66, sec. 1, Laws 1923, provides that in all civil actions and special proceedings in which the clerk of the superior court may appoint commissioners, he may allow such commissioners a reasonable fee for their services, to be taxed with the costs in the case. Any party dissatisfied may appeal to the judge, who will hear the matter de novo."

"The fees of commissioners in most cases of special proceedings are already fixed by statute, as to the maximum allowance, and these are generally allowed by the clerk by reason of his jurisdiction over special proceedings; so also in civil actions, where the clerk is empowered to make orders for sales, as in foreclosure of mortgage under a judgment by default final, it would follow as a necessary incident to the exercise of the power, that the clerk might allow compensation to persons appointed to carry out the judgment. This statute (Laws 1923, supra) confers such power definitely, so that no question could arise as to the validity of the order. 1 N. C. Law Rev. 284.

§ 3896. Commissioners to make sale in partition.—In sale of real estate or personalty for partition the allowance to the commissioner for making such sale, and for all services therewith, and for making title, shall be as follows: For sales of five hundred dollars, or less, not more than ten dollars; for sales of over five hundred dollars, two per centum, up to a compensation of forty dollars, and when the allowance shall amount to forty dollars, any additional compensation shall not exceed the rate of one per centum on the excess over two thousand dollars. (Rev., s. 2792; Code, s. 1910.)

No Additional Allowance.—The compensation to a commissioner for making partition sale being fixed by this section, no additional allowance can be made on account of extra trouble or expense. Ray v. Banks, 120 N. C. 389, 27 S. E. 28.

Liability of Debtor.—The debtor is only liable for the debt, interest, actual expense of sale, as advertising, and the like, and a reasonable compensation to trustee for his time and trouble in making sale, say not to exceed 2 per cent. The trustee pays his own attorney. Turner v. Boger, 126 N. C. 300, 35 S. E. 592.

§ 3897. Commissioners to divide land lying in this and another state.—The commissioners appointed to divide lands lying in this and another state shall be entitled to three dollars per day for their services; which, with all fees, expenses and costs, shall be paid as the court may direct. (Rev., s. 2793; Code, s. 1916; 1868-9, c. 122, s. 26.)

§ 3898. Commissioners to assess damages for mills. — Every commissioner appointed in any proceeding to assess the damages arising from the location of any mill, as provided for in the chapter on Mills, shall be entitled to receive two dollars per day. (Rev., s. 2794; Code, s. 1863.)

§ 3899. Commissioners in drainage proceedings.—Each commissioner appointed in proceedings under the chapter on drainage shall be entitled to receive one dollar and fifty cents per day. (Rev., s. 2795.)

§ 3900. Person allotting widow's year's allowance. — Any person appointed by any court or justice of the peace or summoned by any sheriff to allot or set apart to any widow a year's allowance under the statute, and who shall serve, shall be paid the sum of one dollar per day or fraction of the day engaged, and the same shall be taxed as a part of the bill of costs of the proceeding. (1907, c. 223; 1913, c. 18.)

§ 3901. Person allotting dower.—Any person designated to allot or assign to any widow dower in her husband's land, and who shall serve, shall be paid not exceeding three dollars per day in the discretion of the court, and the same shall be taxed as a part of the bill of costs of the proceeding. (1913, c. 18; 1919, c. 10.)

§ 3902. Receivers; selling as commissioners. — Receivers of property appointed by any order of court, in any proceedings or action, shall be allowed such commissions as may be fixed by the court appointing them, not exceeding five per cent on the amount received and disbursed by them. (Rev., s. 2797; 1901, c. 2, s. 88; Code, s. 379, subsec. 4.)

Cross References.—As to compensation of receivers dissolving corporation, see section 1215; as to manner of making application for receiver by motion supported by written or documentary evidence, see annotations under section 722; as to receivers generally, see sections, 859 et seq.

Final Judgment.—An order allowing commissions to a receiver is a final judgment. Bank v. Bank, 126 N. C. 531, 36 S. E. 39.

Compensation and Not Commissions.—Trustees and commissioners to sell land under judicial order (other than in partition proceedings) are not allowed commissions, either by statute or common law, but only just such compensation for time, labor, services and expenses as the circumstances of each case warrant. Smith v. Frazier, 119 N. C. 157, 25 S. E. 866.

It was held to constitute error in the instant case to allow 5 per cent commission to the commissioners, and the decree making such allowance will be modified so as to provide for reasonable compensation for the time, services and expenses of the commissioners. Smith v. Frazier, 119 N. C. 157, 25 S. E. 866.

When Land Reconveyed to Grantor. — Where a deed of trust provided that, in case of sale thereunder, the trustee should receive 5 per cent commission on the sale as a compensation for making the sale, and also that if the grantor should discharge the debt before the sale the land should be reconveyed to him; and the trustee advertised the sale, but before sale day the trustor, with the knowledge and consent of the trustee, paid off the debt and interest and the expense of advertisement and demanded his bond and trust deed, it was held that the debt having been paid, the trustee was not entitled to commissions. Pass v. Brooks, 118 N. C. 397, 24 S. E. 736.

Editor's Note.—This section was twice amended by the Laws of 1927, each amendment being in the nature of a proviso. Chapter 137 added the proviso that in Franklin County the clerk of the superior court shall not charge and collect the fee for juror ticket, including jurat, or witness ticket. Chapter 247, which added the last proviso and excepted Chatham County therefrom, was amended by Public Laws 1929, c. 214, so as to make the proviso applicable to said County.

For fees clerk in Northampton County shall collect for use of county, see Public Laws, 1931, c. 11.

For act regulating fees of courts and officers in county of Harnett, see 1933, c. 75. Public Laws 1933, c. 91 repealed the provision of Public Laws 1929, c. 45 which provided for fees in Halifax county.

For an act making special provision for the payment of fees in Wilson county, see Public Laws of 1935, chapter 241. As to new provision, not applicable in certain counties, relating to fees for auditing accounts, see sections 3904(g)-3904(i); for docketing judgment, see section 3904(f).

Appeal from Justices of the Peace.—When a defendant is bound over to the superior court by a justice of the peace, the clerk of the superior court is not entitled to the fee of 50 cents allowed for appeal from justice of the peace. Guilford v. Commissioners, 120 N. C. 23, 27 S. E. 94.

The fee taxable for "appeal and docketing in Supreme Court" is two dollars only. State v. Simmons, 120 N. C. 19, 26 S. E. 649.

Appeal.—An appeal lies to this court from the erroneous taxation of items in bill of costs in the superior court. State v. Simmons, 120 N. C. 19, 26 S. E. 649.

The fees for continuances of cases allowed to the clerk of the superior court must be for such continuance as is made by the judge upon motion, and such as must be recorded in the minutes of the clerk, and not those affected by a crowded docket or the inability for that reason of reaching the cause for trial. Luther v. Southern R. Co., 154 N. C. 103, 69 S. E. 762.

Motion for Judgment.—The fee of twenty-five cents for motion for judgment can only be taxed when the motion is a motion in the cause, in writing, and required to be recorded. State v. Simmons, 120 N. C. 19, 26 S. E. 649.

Filing Papers.—The fee of 10 cents allowed the clerk of the superior court for "filing papers," is for filing all the papers in an action after final judgment, and not for filing each paper in a case. Guilford v. Commissioners, 120 N. C. 23, 27 S. E. 94.

Transcript on Appeal When Fees Unpaid.—The clerk of the court below is entitled to receive his fees before being required to send up a transcript on appeal, and therefore a writ of certiorari will be refused where it appears from the affidavit of the clerk that the transcript was not sent up because the appellant failed, after repeated demands, to pay the fees, and in his reply to the answer setting forth the clerk's affidavit the petitioner did not tender the fees. Saunders v. Thompson, 114 N. C. 282, 19 S. E. 225.

Same—When Incomplete.—Where the clerk of the superior court fails to send up as a part of the transcript the drawing and swearing in of the grand jury who found the indictment, he will not be allowed his costs for making and sending up the transcript of the record. State v. Cameron, 122 N. C. 1074, 29 S. E. 418.

Settlement of Estate.—Where the clerk of the court was appointed a commissioner of the courts to sell certain lands and invest the proceeds, etc., and it appearing that he had rendered services of value, with no indication of conversion, misapplication, or commingling of funds, it was held that he was entitled to his commissions in the settlement of the estate. Hannah v. Hyatt, 170 N. C. 634, 87 S. E. 517.

Section 1259 a Proviso.—The true construction of this section regulating the fees of clerks, is had by reading as a proviso at the end thereof section 1259. Coward v. Commissioners, 137 N. C. 299, 301, 49 S. E. 207.

Recording in the Minute Docket.—The clerk of the superior court is not entitled to a specific fee for recording the proceedings of a cause in the minute docket of the court. Guilford v. Commissioners, 120 N. C. 23, 27 S. E. 94.

Clerk's Allowance for Stating Account Disallowed. — Where the plaintiff recovered judgment in the court below and it was ordered that an allowance be made to the clerk for stating an account, one-half to be paid by the plaintiffs and the other half by the defendants it was held to be error. Wall v. Covington, 76 N. C. 150.

Nolle Prosequi.—The clerk of the court is not entitled to any fee for entering a judgment of nolle prosequi in a criminal action. State v. Johnson, 101 N. C. 711, 8 S. E. 360.

When Judgment Is against State or County. — Costs are not allowed for docketing, filing and indexing a judgment against the State or county, since no lien can be acquired by such docketing. State v. Simmons, 120 N. C. 19, 26 S. E. 649.

The State and county are liable for costs only in the cases expressly provided by statute. Guilford v. Commissioners, 120 N. C. 23, 27 S. E. 94.

A county can not be taxed, under section 1259 with any part of the fees of the clerk or other officers in criminal actions if the grand jury returns "not a true bill." Guilford v. Commissioners, 120 N. C. 23, 27 S. E. 94.

§ 3904. Local modifications as to clerk's fees. —For the probate of a short-form lien bond, or lien bond and chattel mortgage combined, the clerk shall receive ten cents in the following counties: Alamance, Alleghany, Ashe, Beauford, Bladen, Brunswick, Buncombe, Burke, Carteret, Caswell, Catawba, Chatham, Chowan, Cleveland, Columbus, Craven, Cumberland, Davie, Duplin, Durham, Edgecombe, Forsyth, Gaston, Gates, Granville, Greene, Harnett, Iredell, Johnston, Jones, Lenoir, Lincoln, Martin, McDowell, Mecklenburg,

In Anson, this fee is twenty cents. (1913, c. 49.)

In Bertie county the clerk of the superior court shall collect the sum of fifteen cents for each crop lien or lien bond probated by him for registration in Bertie county, including all services connected therewith. (1915, c. 163.)

In Forsyth county the clerk shall receive fifteen cents for the probate of a deed or other writing, acknowledged by the signers or makers, including all except married women who acknowledge at the same time, with the certificate thereof. He shall also receive fifteen cents for the probate of a deed or other writing, proved by a witness, including the certificate. (1913, c. 626.)

In Jackson county, in addition to the fees now allowed by law, the clerk shall receive the sum of five dollars for writing up the minutes of each day's session of the superior court of the county, to be paid by the county. (1913, c. 182.)

In Robeson county the board of county commissioners may make an allowance to the clerk of the superior court for keeping the records of the courts and transcribing the minutes, to be paid out of the general county fund. (Rev., s. 2773.)

From and after February 27, 1923, it shall be unlawful for the clerks of the superior courts of Vance, Warren, Northampton, Wayne and Bertie counties to charge fees for witness and juror tickets issued by them. (1923, c. 92.)

In Mitchell county, the clerk of superior court shall receive double the amount of fees and commissions as provided in section three thousand and nine hundred and three of this chapter. (1931, c. 53.)

As to fees of clerks in Guilford and Montgomery counties, see Public Local Laws 1919, chs. 219, 334, sec. 1.

Editor's Note.—Public Laws 1933, c. 84, inserted Scotland in the list of counties appearing in the first paragraph. For act regulating fees of courts and officers in county of Hartnett, see 1933, c. 75.

§ 3904(a). Fees for probating and recording federal crop liens and chattel mortgages. — The fee to be charged by the clerk of the superior court for the probate of a federal crop lien or a federal chattel mortgage given to secure a seed and fertilizer loan from the United States government or crop production loans, live stock loans, and/or other loans made by the regional agriculture credit corporation of Raleigh, North Carolina and/or production credit associations in North Carolina as provided for by the Farm Credit Act of Congress of one thousand nine hundred and thirty-three, or the North Carolina Rural Rehabilitation Corporation or other relief organizations by relief clients, shall be limited to twenty-five cents for each probate; and the fee of the register of deeds for registering said instrument shall be limited to fifty cents for each lien or chattel mortgage: Provided that this section shall not apply to Brunswick, Caswell, Harnett, Haywood, Hertford, Jackson, Macon, Moore, Person, Polk, Richmond, Stokes, Surry and Wilson counties. (1933, cc. 160, 176, 266, 281, 326, 393, 429, 479, 514; 1935, cc. 120, 260, 369.)

Editor's Note.—Public Laws of 1935, chapter 120, as amended by chapter 260, added the provision, near the center of the section, relating to associations as provided by the Farm Credit Act of Congress. Section 2 of this amendatory act provides that it shall not apply to the counties of Chowan, Gates, Jones, Moore, Perquimans, Richmond, Stanly, and Wilson.

Public Laws of 1935, chapter 369, omitted Johnston from the list of counties excepted from the operation of the section.

Public Laws of 1935, chapter 388, provides for fees for recorded Federal crop liens and chattel mortgages in Wilson county.

§ 3904(b). Fees for issuing certificates of encumbrances.—The fee charged by the register of deeds for preparing and issuing a certificate of encumbrance as required for federal chattel mortgages and/or crop liens shall be limited to fifty (50c) cents for each such certificate. (1933, c. 437.)

§ 3904(c). Advance court costs.—The clerk of the superior court is hereby authorized to collect as advance court cost on all suits started in any court the sum of seven dollars and fifty cents ($7.50) for one defendant, and one dollar and a half for each additional defendant, which fees shall include any process tax or tax on suits and sheriff fees. (1935, c. 379, s. 2.)

§ 3904(e). Fee for cross-indexing names of parties.—The fee for cross-indexing the name of each party to any action or proceeding required to be cross-indexed by law shall be ten cents for each name entered upon the cross-index records. (1935, c. 379, s. 3.)

§ 3904(f). Fee for docketing judgment. — The fee for docketing any judgment shall be ten cents per copy sheet, minimum charge twenty-five cents. (1935, c. 379, s. 4.)

one dollar or more than twenty-five dollars. (1935, c. 379, s. 5.)

§ 3904(i). Fee for auditing final accounts of trustees, etc., selling real estate under foreclosure proceedings.—For auditing final accounts of trustees, mortgages, commissioners, or other persons, firms, or corporations selling real estate under foreclosure proceeding required to render such final report, the fee shall be twenty-five cents on each one hundred dollars of receipts and disbursements through one thousand dollars and ten cents on each one hundred dollars for everything above one thousand dollars, provided that the minimum fee shall be one dollar and fifty cents and the maximum fee shall not exceed twenty-five dollars. (1935, c. 379, s. 7.)

§ 3904(j). Certain counties not subject to sections 3904(c)-3904(i). — Sections 3904(c)-3904(i) shall not apply to the counties of: Bertie, Cabarrus, Chowan, Cleveland, Columbus, Franklin, Iredell, Lincoln, Martin, Mecklenburg, Montgomery, Moore, New Hanover, Pitt, Richmond, Robeson, Rockingham, Surry, Union, Jackson, Swain, Buncombe, Rowan, Orange, Avery, Wayne, Nash, Wilson, Bladen, Cumberland, Ashe, Edgecombe, Tyrrell, Person, Duplin, Vance, Davie, Guilford, Onslow, Washington, Alleghany, Haywood, Davidson, Burke, Stokes, Franklin, Catawba, Lenoir, Yancey, Jones, Pamlico, Caldwell, Caswell. (1935, c. 379, s. 8, c. 494.)

§ 3905. Coroners.—Fees of coroners shall be the same as are or may be allowed sheriffs in similar cases:

For holding an inquest over a dead body, five dollars; if necessarily engaged more than one day, for each additional day, five dollars.

For burying a pauper over whom an inquest has been held, all necessary and actual expenses, to be approved by the board of county commissioners, and paid by the county. It is the duty of every coroner, where he or any juryman deems it necessary to the better investigation of the cause or manner of death, to summon a physician or surgeon, who shall be paid for his attendance and services ten dollars, and such further sum as the commissioners of the county may deem reasonable. (Rev., s. 2775; Code, s. 3743; 1903, c. 781.)

Editor's Note.—Public Laws 1931, c. 137, provided: "The Coroner of Wake County shall receive in lieu of all fees, commissions and compensations allowed and provided for by section 3905, the sum of one thousand two hundred dollars per annum, payable monthly by the Treasurer of Wake County."

§ 3906. Register of deeds. — The register of deeds shall be allowed, while and when acting as clerk to the board of commissioners, such per diem as such board may respectively allow, not exceeding two dollars; and shall be allowed the following fees for his services as register of deeds:

For registering any deed or other writing authorized to be registered by them, with certificate of probate or acknowledgment and private examination of a married woman, containing not more than three copy-sheets, eighty cents; and for every additional copy-sheet, ten cents.

Registering chattel mortgage, statutory form, twenty cents.

For comparing and certifying a copy of any instrument filed for registration, when the copy is furnished by the party filing the instrument for registration and at the time of filing, one dollar.

For a copy of any record or any paper in their offices, like fees as for registering the same.

For issuing each notice required by the county commissioners, including subpœnas for witnesses, fifteen cents. This shall not include county orders on the treasury.

Recording and issuing each order of commissioners, ten cents. Where a standing order is made for the payment of money, monthly or otherwise, there shall be charged but one fee therefor.

§ 3907. Local modification as to fees of registers of deeds.—The register of deeds shall receive for registering short form of lien bond, or lien bond and chattel mortgage combined, fifty cents in the counties of Davidson, Halifax, Northampton, Union, Vance, Warren and Wayne; thirty cents in the counties of Alamance, Alleghany, Anson, Ashe, Beauford, Bladen, Brunswick, Buncombe, Burke, Carteret, Caswell, Catawba, Chowan, Craven, Cumberland, Davie, Duplin, Durham, Edgecombe, Forsyth, Gaston, Gates, Granville, Harnett, Hertford, Jones, Lenoir, Lincoln, Martin, McDowell, Moore, New Hanover, Onslow, Pamlico, Pender, Perquimans, Person, Pitt, Polk, Richmond, Robeson, Rockingham, Rowan, Rutherford, Sampson, Scotland, Washington, Watauga and Wilson; twenty cents in the counties of Chatham, Columbus, Cleveland, Iredell, Johnston and Mecklenburg. (Rev., s. 2776; 1907, cc. 421, 636, 717; 1909, cc. 23, 532; P. L. 1913, c. 49; P. L. 1917, c. 182; 1933, c. 48.)

In Alexander county the board of county commissioners are authorized and empowered to pay the register of deeds the sum of one cent each per name for indexing births and deaths in said county. Likewise in Cleveland county. (P. L. 1915, c. 513; P. L. 1917, c. 423.)

In Catawba county the register of deeds shall be allowed as a fee for his services for registering any deed of trust, in which real property is conveyed to a trustee to secure a loan from a building and loan association, the sum of eighty cents. (1909, c. 43.)

In Forsyth county the register shall receive for registering any deed or other writing authorized to be registered with certificate of probate or acknowledgment and private examination of a married woman, containing not more than three copy-sheets, sixty-five cents; and for every additional copy-sheet, ten cents: Provided, that the registration of any deed of trust shall not cost more than one dollar and ten cents, where the same does not contain more than four copy-sheets, and for every additional copy-sheet, ten cents each. (Rev., s. 2776; P. L. 1913, c. 626; P. L. Ex. Sess. 1913, c. 177.)

In Jackson county the register shall, for his service in acting as clerk of the board of commissioners, for recording minutes, and doing other clerical work for or under the direction of the board of commissioners, receive three dollars per day, to be paid by the county. (P. L. 1913, c. 182.)

In Tyrrell county the register shall receive for canceling mortgages, deeds of trust or instruments intended to secure the payment of money, fifteen cents. (1909, c. 780.)

In Union county the county commissioners may revise the fees and commissions which may be charged by the register of deeds, and may fix all such fees and commissions at such amounts and rates as in their judgment will give the register of deeds and his deputies and assistants reasonable compensation. The fees and commissions so fixed shall be the legal fees chargeable by and payable to the register of deeds. (P. L. 1917, c. 366.)

In Gates county the register of deeds shall receive for canceling of a mortgage or deed of trust, ten cents. (P. L. 1919, c. 4.)

In Wake county the register of deeds shall charge and receive the following fees for registration of the papers herein mentioned, to wit: For registration lien bond, fifty cents; for registering short form of chattel mortgage provided for securing a sum not exceeding three hundred dollars, thirty cents; for registering short form of agricultural lien and chattel mortgage for advances, thirty cents; for registering short form of crop lien to secure advances and chattel mortgage to secure pre-existing debt, and to give additional security to the lien, thirty cents; for registering short-form notes given for the purchase price of personal property or combining also a conveyance of the property or other additional property as security, and retaining title to the property sold, twenty cents. (P. L. 1915, c. 138.)

In Yadkin county the fees for recording chattel mortgages, crop liens, conditional sales, etc., shall be twenty cents for the first two copy-sheets or fraction thereof and ten cents for each additional copy-sheet or fraction thereof. (P. L. 1911, c. 414.)

Editor's Note—Halifax County.—Public Laws 1929, ch. 45, relating to fees in Halifax county was repealed by Public Laws 1933, ch. 91.

Same—Northampton County.—Public Laws 1931, c. 11, provided that except as amended below § 3906 shall apply to Northampton County. By this Act the Register of Deeds shall collect the following fees for the use of the County:

For recording any deed or other instrument of writing authorized to be registered, with certificates of probate and acknowledgment and private examination of a married woman, containing not more than three copy sheets, one dollar, and for every additional copy sheet ten cents;

Chattel mortgages, short forms, twenty cents;

Short form lien bond and chattel mortgage, seventy-five cents;

All plats, one dollar and fifty cents;

Title notes, one dollar.

Same—Polk County.—Public Laws 1925, c. 44, provided that the register of deeds of Polk County shall be entitled to receive fees in excess of those allowed by section three thousand nine hundred and six of the Consolidated Statutes as follows:

The register of deeds shall be allowed, while and when acting as clerk to the board of county commissioners, such per diem as the board may allow, not exceeding four dollars per day;

For making out original tax list, five cents for each name thereon;

For each name on each copy required to be made, five cents;

For recording and issuing each order of commissioners, twenty cents. Where a standing order is made for the payment of money monthly there shall be charged but one fee thereof.

For registering chattel mortgage, statutory form, forty-cents.

Same—Scotland County. — Public Laws of 1933, c. 66, changed the fee for registering lien bonds and chattel mortgages in Scotland county from fifty cents to thirty cents.

§ 3908. Sheriffs.—Sheriffs shall be allowed the following fees and expenses, and no other, namely:

Executing summons or any other writ or notice, sixty cents; but the board of county commissioners may fix a less sum than sixty cents, but not less than thirty cents, for the service of each road order.

Arrest of a defendant in a civil action and taking bail, including attendance to justify, and all services connected therewith, one dollar.

Arrest of a person indicted, including all services connected with the taking and justification of bail, one dollar.

Imprisonment of any person in a civil or criminal action, thirty cents; and release from prison, thirty cents.

Executing subpoena on a witness, thirty cents.

Conveying a prisoner to jail to another county, five cents per mile.

For prisoner's guard, if any necessary, and approved by the county commissioners, going and returning, per mile for each, five cents.

Expense of guard and all other expenses of conveying prisoner to jail, or from one jail to another for any purpose, or to any place of punishment, or to appear before a court or justice of the peace in another county, or in going to another county for a prisoner, to be taxed in the bill of costs and allowed by the board of commissioners of the county in which the criminal proceedings were instituted.

For allotment of widow's year's allowance, one dollar.

In claim and delivery for serving the original papers in each case, sixty cents, and for taking the property claimed, one dollar, with the actual cost of keeping the same until discharged by law, to be paid on the affidavit of the returning officer.

For conveying prisoners to the penitentiary, two dollars per day and actual necessary expenses; also one dollar a day and actual necessary expenses for each guard, not to exceed one guard for every three prisoners, as the sheriff upon affidavit before the clerk of the superior court of his county shall swear to be necessary for the safe conveyance of the convicts, to be paid by the board of commissioners of the county in which the criminal proceedings were instituted.

Providing prisoners in county jail with suitable beds, bed-clothing, other clothing and fuel, and keeping the prison and grounds cleanly, whatever sum shall be allowed by the commissioners of the county.

Collecting fine and costs from convict, two and a half per cent on the amount collected.

Collecting executions for money in civil actions, two and a half per cent on the amount collected; and the like commissions for all moneys which may be paid to the plaintiff by the defendant while the execution is in the hands of the sheriff.

Advertising a sale of property under execution at each public place required, fifteen cents.

Seizing specific property under order of a court, or exceeding any other order of a court or judge, not specially provided for, to be allowed by the judge or court.

Taking any bond or undertaking, including furnishing the blanks, fifty cents.

The actual expense of keeping all property seized under process or order of court, to be allowed by the court on the affidavit of the officer in charge.

A capital execution, ten dollars, and actual expense of burying the body.

Summoning a grand or petit jury, for each man summoned, thirty cents, and ten cents for each person summoned on the special venire.

For serving any writ or other process with the aid of the county, the usual fee of one dollar, and the expense necessarily incurred thereby, to be adjudged by the county commissioners, and taxed as other costs.

All just fees paid to any printer for any advertisement required by law to be printed.

Bringing up a prisoner upon habeas corpus, to testify or answer to any court or before any judge, one dollar, and all actual and necessary expenses for such services, and five cents per mile by the route most usually traveled, and all expenses for any guard actually employed and necessary.

For summoning and qualifying appraisers, and for performing all duties in laying off homesteads and personal property exemptions, or either, two dollars, to be included in the bill of costs.

For levying an attachment, one dollar.

For attendance to qualify jurors to lay off dower, or commissioners to lay off year's allowance, one dollar; and for attendance, to qualify commissioners for any other purpose, seventy-five cents.

Executing a deed for land or any interest in land sold under execution, one dollar, to be paid by the purchaser.

Service of writ of ejectment, one dollar.

For every execution, either in civil or criminal cases, fifty cents.

Whenever any precept or process shall be directed to the sheriff of any adjoining county, to be served out of his county, such sheriff shall have for such service not only the fees allowed by law, but a further compensation of five cents for every mile of travel going to and returning from service of such precept or process: Provided, that whenever any execution of five hundred dollars or upwards shall be directed to the sheriff of an adjoining county, under this chapter, such sheriff shall not be allowed mileage, but only the commissions to which he shall be entitled. [Provided, that when the summons in a civil action or special proceedings shall be from any court of any county other than his own county, the sheriff's fees for serving the same shall be one dollar ($1) for each defendant named therein; and such service shall include the delivery of copy of said summons and complaint or petition attached to the original summons; and that for subpoenas served from other than the county of said sheriff he shall receive a fee of fifty cents (50c.) for each witness named therein.

The part of this section in brackets shall not affect fees provided in section three thousand nine hundred and nine of the consolidated statutes for service upon the waters of the counties of Carteret, Dare, Hyde, and Pamlico.] For the service of summons together with a copy of the complaint, petition or other pleading, the sheriff shall have the fees now prescribed by law in the respective counties for the service of summons only, and shall not be entitled to an additional fee for serving the copy of the pleading unless it is necessary that it be served separately. (Rev., s. 2777; Code, ss. 931, 2035, 2089, 2090, 3752; 1885, c. 262; 1891, cc. 112, 143; 1903, c. 541; 1901, c. 64; R. C., c. 102, s. 21; R. Editor's Note.—This section was amended by the Laws of 1924, and again by the Laws of 1925. Chapter 101, Laws

1924 added the final proviso to the section which fixes the sheriff's fees for summons and subpoenas from outside the county, placing the fee for the former at one dollar, and for the latter at fifty cents. It is also expressly provided that the said proviso shall not affect fees provided by section 3909 for service upon the waters of the counties of Carteret, Dare, Hyde, and Pamlico.

Chapter 275, section 6, subsection 2, Laws 1925, further amended the section by striking out after the word "by" in line thirty-one of said section down to and including the word "thereof" in line thirty-eight of said section and inserting in lieu thereof the following: "The Board of Commissioners of the county in which the criminal proceedings were instituted," thus removing the cost from the State and placing it upon the county of the proceedings.

Public Laws of 1933, c. 132, reduced the mileage fee for bringing up a prisoner upon habeas corpus from ten cents per mile to five cents per mile. For act regulating fees of courts and officers in county of Harnett, see 1933, c. 75.

The Act of 1929 added the last sentence to this section.

Construed with Section 1259.—The true construction of this section regulating the fees of sheriffs is had by reading as a proviso at the end thereof section 1259. Coward v. Commissioners, 137 N. C. 299, 301, 49 S. E. 207.

Legislative Control of Sheriffs' Salaries and Fees.—One who accepts a public office does so, with well defined exceptions as to certain constitutional offices, under the authority of the Legislature to change the emoluments, he is to receive for the performance of his duties, at any time, and, while the office of sheriff is a constitutional one, the regulation of his fees is within the control of the Legislature, and the same may be reduced during the term of the incumbent, or he may therein be compensated by a salary instead of on a fee basis. Mills v. Deaton, 170 N. C. 386, 86 S. E. 123, State v. Gentry, 183 N. C. 825, 112 S. E. 427; Commissioners v. Stedman, 141 N. C. 448, 54 S. E. 269.

Commissions When Debtor Pays after Levy.—At common law a sheriff could not demand commissions, although the debtor paid the creditor the amount of the judgment after he had received the execution and made his levy. He was allowed to do so at first under the Act of 1784. The Code of 1883, sec. 3752, now this section. Pass v. Brooks, 118 N. C. 397, 398, 24 S. E. 736.

In Dawson v. Grafflin, 84 N. C. 100, when property was levied on and advertised for sale under execution, but payment was made before sale, the sheriff was allowed no commission on the sale. The rule in that case is now changed by this section. Cannon v. McCape, 114 N. C. 580, 581, 584, 19 S. E. 703, 20 S. E. 276.

Whenever a sheriff into whose hands an execution is placed levies the same and advertises a sale, he becomes entitled to his commissions. And if the plaintiff in the execution receives the amount from the debtor, and orders the same to be returned unexecuted, he makes himself liable for the sheriff's fees. Willard v. Satchwell, 70 N. C. 268, which is in conformity with the section, which changes the ruling in Dawson v. Grafflin, 84 N. C. 100.

Collecting Executions for Money.—It was said by Manly, J., in Dibble v. Aycock, 58 N. C. 399, 400: "The law upon the subject of sheriff's fees, Revised Code, Chap. 102, sec. 21, (now this section) gives 2 1-2 per cent commission to that officer upon all moneys collected by him by virtue of any levy, and the like commissions for all moneys that may be paid to the sheriff by the defendant while such precept is in the hands of the sheriff, and after levy. The sum upon which commission is asked, (in the instant case) was paid into the office of the court, for plaintiff, while the precept was in the sheriff's hands, and after a levy. The case is strictly, therefore, within the provisions of the law. That the payment was made under a condition for an injunction does not affect the question at all."

A sheriff is entitled to commissions only on moneys actually collected by himself under execution, and not where the same is paid the plaintiff by defendant after levy. Dawson v. Grafflin, 84 N. C. 100, 101.

When Sheriff Has Lien.—A lien exists in favor of the sheriff when he does not require the plaintiff, as he has a right to do, to pay his fees in advance. In such instances he has the right of retainer to the extent of the costs out of the amount collected, and can not be compelled to look exclusively to the plaintiff's prosecution bond, nor prevented from exhausting his remedy against the debtor, by reason of any receipt or compromise between the judgment creditor and debtor. Long v. Walker, 105 N. C. 90, 10 S. E. 858.

When Process Returned "Fees Not Paid."—Where the return of the sheriff was as follows, to wit: "Defendant does not petition for homestead, and the plaintiffs refuse to pay homestead fees. No action; the necessary fees not paid." The court held that an officer cannot be required to execute process unless his fees be paid or tendered by the person in whose interest the service is to be rendered. Lute v. Reilly, 65 N. C. 20, 21. Taylor v. Rhyne, 65 N. C. 530.

A sheriff is not required to sell the excess of realty beyond the homestead, until the plaintiff has paid, or offered to pay, his fees for so doing. Taylor v. Rhyne, 65 N. C. 530.

Writ of Ejectment.—A sheriff is not entitled to any extra compensation for executing a "writ of ejectment," or a "writ of possession." Allen v. Spoon, 72 N. C. 369.

Summons of Tales Jurors.—There is no provision now, and none is to be found in the Revised Statutes or the Revised Code, giving sheriffs compensation for the service of summoning tales jurors. This is one of the many gratuitous services expected to be performed by sheriffs. The Legislature, no doubt, deemed such service too trivial to be the subject of compensation, for all a sheriff has to do in a performance of the duty is to stand at his desk in the courthouse and, when a deficiency of jurors occurs, order A, B and C to take seats in the jury box. Bryan v. Commissioners, 84 N. C. 105, 106.

Jail Fees of Insolvent Debtor.—The action against the creditor for the jail fees of an insolvent debtor, given by section 1650 to the jailor, can not be maintained by the sheriff as the jailor's principal. Bunting v. McIlhenny, 61 N. C. 579.

Power of Judge to Order Commissioners to Pay. — The judge of the superior court has no power to order the commissioners of one of the counties in his district to pay the sheriff any sum for his services in attending the court. Brandon v. Commissioners, 71 N. C. 62, cited and approved; Griffith v. Commissioners, 71 N. C. 340.

§ 3909. Local modifications as to fees of sheriffs.—The sheriff of Hyde county shall be allowed the sum of two dollars for serving all warrants or capiases or other criminal processes on the waters of Pamlico sound or on the waters of any bay in Hyde county. Whenever such sheriff is compelled to go by boat or vessel a distance of more than two miles from any shore or landing in Hyde and of Dare county to serve any civil process upon the waters of Pamlico sound and waters of Dare county or any bay in Hyde county, such sheriff, in addition to the fee prescribed by law for serving such process, may add the expense of hiring such boat or vessel, which cost or expense shall be taxed by the clerk of the superior court of the county from which such process issued in the bill of costs in the action in which such process issued. Sheriffs and constables of Hyde and Carteret counties shall receive three dollars for every process executed on board of any boat or vessel lying in the waters between Ocracoke island, Hyde county, and Portsmouth in Carteret county. (Rev., s. 2777; 1907, c. 206.)

The sheriff of Dare county shall be allowed his actual traveling expenses incurred by him in serving warrants, capiases or other criminal process on the waters of Dare county or at any point in Dare county across the water. (1909, c. 527.)

For every illicit distillery seized as required by law the sheriffs of Haywood, Lincoln, Pitt and Transylvania counties shall receive the sum of twenty dollars, and in Madison county thirty dollars, which shall be allowed by the commissioners of the county in which the seizure was made. (Ex. Sess. 1908, s. 97; P. L. 1919, c. 30.)

For each person summoned on a special venire the sheriff of Robeson county shall receive thirty cents; but not for a special venire ordered to be summoned from the bystanders, in which case he shall receive ten cents for each person so summoned. (1909, c. 317.)

For sheriff's fees in Greene county, see P. L. 1919, c. 313.)

Editor's Note.—Public Laws 1929, ch. 45, relating to fees in Halifax county was repealed by Public Laws 1933, ch. 91.

Public Laws of 1929, ch. 56, applicable only to Mitchell County provides: "The fee for serving either criminal or civil summonses shall be increased from thirty cents to sixty cents." This Act also includes other changes in § 3908. Public Laws 1931, c. 53, ss. 6, 8, fixing the salary of the sheriff of Mitchell County at $3,000.00, provides that in addition to such salary shall be entitled to all fees and emoluments accruing to him, by virtue of his office, including such fees as are provided in chapter fifty-six, Public Laws 1929.

Same—Northampton County.—Public Laws 1931, c. 11, provides that except as amended below § 3908 shall apply to Northampton County. By this Act the Sheriff of such county shall collect for the use of Northampton County the following fees:

Serving civil summons, one dollar for each defendant;
Subpoena, for each person, thirty cents;
For each arrest, two dollars.

Illicit Distilleries.—The fees or emoluments incident to a sheriff's office as allowance for the seizure and destruction of illicit distilleries, are excluded by a public-local law applicable to a certain county, subsequently enacted, but prior to the commencement of the term of the incumbent, wherein it is provided that the sheriff shall turn over to the county treasurer all moneys collected from fees, and receive a specified sum as a salary in lieu of his fees, with exception only of certain fees allowed to his township deputy in certain instances, the duty to seize the illicit distilleries being the same as any other required of him as sheriff of the county. Thompson v. Board, 181 N. C. 265, 107 S. E. 1.

§ 3910. County treasurer.—The county treasurer shall receive as compensation in full for all services required of him such a sum, not exceeding one-half of one per cent on moneys received and not exceeding two and a half per cent on moneys disbursed by him, as the board of commissioners of the county may allow. As treasurer of the county school fund he shall receive such sum as the board of education may allow him, not exceeding two per cent on disbursements; and the said commissions shall be paid only upon the order of the county board of education, signed by the chairman and secretary, and the county board of education is hereby forbidden to sign any such order until the treasurer shall have made all reports and kept all such accounts required by law in the form and manner prescribed: Provided, that said treasurer shall be allowed no commission or compensation for receipts and disbursements of any loan or loans made to the county by the state board of education out of the state literary fund the special building fund derived from county or district bond issues for the building of schoolhouses: Provided, that in counties where the treasurer's total compensation cannot exceed two hundred and fifty dollars per annum the treasurer may be allowed, in the discretion of the board of county commissioners and of the board of education, as to the school fund, a sum not exceeding two and one-half per cent on his disbursements of all funds handled by him; but the compensation allowed by virtue of the provisions of this last proviso shall not be operative to give a total compensation in excess of two hunded and fifty dollars per annum to such treasurers. (Rev., s. 2778; Code, s. 770; 1899, c. 233; 1909, c. 577; 1913, c. 144; 1919, c. 254, s. 9, 1924, c. 121, s. 6.)

Editor's Note.—This section was amended by chapter 121, section 6, Laws 1924, by inserting after the words "of the state literary fund" and before the words "for the building of schoolhouses" the words "the special building funds derived from county or district bond issues."

Statutes Construed Together.—The relevant sections of the various statutes upon the subject of the collection of assessments on lands in drainage districts by sheriffs and tax collectors, and their compensation therefor, being in pari materia, should be construed together by the courts in ascertaining the legislative intent. Drainage Commr's v. Davis, 182 N. C. 140, 108 S. E. 506.

Compensation.—Every county treasurer is entitled to compensation for his labor and responsibility, and in no case less than two and a half per cent per annum on the amount collected, where it can not exceed two hundred and fifty dollars. Koonce v. Commissioners, 106 N. C. 192, 10 S. E. 1038.

Commissioner for Drainage Assessments. — The claim of the treasurer of the county for commissions derived from assessments in Mattamuskeet Drainage District is not allowed on this appeal, under the decision of Board v. Credle, 182 N. C. 442, 109 S. E. 88, which also covers the question as to commissions on the receipt and disbursement of canal tolls by him. Drainage Comm'rs v. Brinn, 182 N. C. 447, 109 S. E. 90.

This section, cannot be construed to allow additional compensation to the county treasurer for receiving and disbursing money of a drainage district under section 36, ch. 442, Laws of 1909, the acts being unrelated; but if otherwise, the county treasurer must bring himself within the provisions of this section by showing the amount claimed was allowed to him in the discretion of the county commissioners, within the limit fixed by the statute, and that the regular procedure followed as to the drawing of the warrants by the drainage commission upon funds on hand derived from collections for the benefit of the drainage district alone, etc. Board v. Credle, 182 N. C. 442, 109 S. E. 88.

May Enforce Claim by Mandamus.—In the event that the county commissioners refuse to consider the treasurer's claim for his fees, the proper remedy is a mandamus proceeding. Koonce v. Commissioners, 106 N. C. 192, 10 S. E. 1038.

§ 3911. County superintendent of public instruction.—The salary of the county superintendent of schools shall be fixed by the county board of education. It shall not be less than three dollars per day while engaged in the service of the public schools. The county board of education may fix an annual salary not to exceed four per cent of the disbursements for schools under his supervision. The county board of education of any county whose total school fund exceeds fifteen thousand dollars may employ a county superintendent for all of his time at such salary as may be fixed by said board. (Rev., s. 2782; 1901, c. 4, s. 44; 1903, c. 435, s. 19; 1909, c. 525.)

§ 3912. County board of education.—The members of the county board of education shall receive three dollars per diem and five cents a mile to and from their respective places of meeting. (Rev., s. 2786; 1901, c. 4, s. 27; 1915, c. 236, s. 2.)

§ 3913. County board of pensions.—Each member of the county board of pensions shall be entitled to two dollars a day, not exceeding three days in any year, when attending the annual meeting of said board, the said compensation to be paid by the county treasurer on the order of the board of county commissioners. (Rev., s. 2783; 1903, c. 273, s. 19.)

§ 3914. County standard-keeper. — Standard-keepers shall be entitled to receive the following fees, and no other, namely: for examining and adjusting a pair of steelyards, twenty-five cents; every weight of half a pound and upwards, five cents; every set of weights below half a pound, including one piece of each denomination, five cents; for a yardstick, or other measure of cloth, five cents; every bushel, half-bushel, peck or other measure used in measuring grain, meal or salt, ten cents; each measure for liquors or wines, three cents, and for extra work on bushel and half-bushel measures a sum not exceeding twenty-five cents in any one case; and for every surveyor's chain, fifty cents. (Rev., s. 2780; Code, s. 3753; 1889, c. 406; R. C., c. 102, s. 37; 1870-1, c. 139, s. 3; 1874-5, c. 110.)

Cross References.—As to State standard-keeper, see section 8065; as to county standard-keepers generally, see sections 8069-8073.

§ 3915. Finance committee. — The members of the finance committee shall each receive such compensation for the performance of his duties as the board of commissioners may allow, not exceeding three dollars per day; but they shall not be paid for more than ten days in any one year. (Rev., s. 2781; Code, s. 763; 1871-2, c. 71, s. 5; 1873-4, c. 107.)

The commissioners of a county have the right to contract with skilled expert accountants for the auditing of the books and accounts of the various departments of the county at a price agreed upon, and empowers them to order that the same be paid by the county treasurer out of the county funds. Wilson v. Holding, 170 N. C. 352, 86 S. E. 1043.

§ 3916. Committee to examine treasurer's books.—The board of commissioners shall allow to the committee who examine the books and moneys of the treasurer the same pay per diem that is received by a member of the board, not to exceed pay for one day's service for each examination. (Rev., s. 2779; Code, s. 774; 1879, c. 33.)

§ 3918. County commissioners.—Except where otherwise provided by law, each county commissioner shall receive for his services and expenses in attending the meetings of the board not exceeding two dollars per day, as a majority of the board may fix upon, and they may be allowed mileage to and from their respective places of meeting, not to exceed five cents per mile. (Rev., s. 2785; Code, s. 709; 1907, c. 500.)

Mileage Allowed.—Members of the board of county commissioners are only entitled to mileage for the distance by the usual route traveled to attend such meeting of the board as the statute has prescribed, and returning from such meeting; they cannot charge mileage for each day, although they may actually return to their homes at the close of each day of a meeting. State v. Norris, 111 N. C. 652, 16 S. E. 2.

When Mileage Allowance Erroneous but Innocent. — Where a board of county commissioners audited in favor of its members for mileage, to which they were not entitled, and it was found as a fact that they did so under advice and without any corrupt or fraudulent motive, it was held, that the members of the board were not indictable, either under the Statute, sections 4388, or at common law. State v. Norris, 111 N. C. 652, 16 S. E. 2.

Compensation Not Allowed Commissioner for Inspecting Bridge.—A member of the board of county commissioners who, under the direction of the board, inspected and reported upon a bridge cannot recover in his action for the services rendered or mileage; he is forbidden to do so as a county commissioner under this section, and is indictable if claiming compensation for extra services under either an express or implied contract with the board, under section 4388. Davidson v. Guilford County, 152 N. C. 436, 67 S. E. 918.

§ 3919. Fees of jailers.—Jailers shall receive, for furnishing prisoner with fuel, one pound of wholesome bread, one pound of good roasted or boiled flesh, and a sufficient quantity of water, with every necessary attendance, a sum not exceeding fifty cents per day, unless the board of commissioners of the county shall deem it expedient to increase the fees, which it may do provided such increase shall not exceed fifty per cent on the above sum. (Rev., s. 2799; Code, s. 3746; R. C., c. 102, s. 38; 1878, c. 87; 1919, c. 118.)

§ 3920. Fees of entry-taker.—Entry-takers shall receive the following fees, and no other, namely: For an entry, including all services, forty cents; issuing each duplicate warrant, when thereto required, twenty-five cents; for posting and advertising, the applicant shall pay the entry-taker one dollar, and the costs of the newspaper advertisement. (Rev., s. 2801; Code, ss. 2765, 3744; R. C., c. 102, s. 32; 1870-1, c. 139, s. 3; 1903, c. 272, s. 3.)

§ 3921. Fees of surveyors and chain-carriers.—Surveyors appointed by courts to survey any lands the boundaries of which may come in question in any suit or proceeding pending therein, or called upon by the commissioners to assist in surveying and dividing the lands of intestates or others, held in common, shall receive the following fees, and no other, namely: For every survey on an entry containing three hundred acres or less, one dollar and sixty cents, and for every hundred more than that quantity, forty cents; for surveying lands in dispute, by order of court, traveling to and from the place, and performing the duty, two dollars per day, or such greater sum as the court may allow; for assisting in surveying and dividing the lands of intestates, or others, held in common, when called upon by the commissioners appointed to make partition, or in laying off dower, traveling to and from the place, and performing the duty, two dollars per day. For assisting in surveying and allotting the homestead exemption of any person when summoned to do so by the sheriff or other lawful officer, for traveling to and from the place and performing the duty, two dollars per day, which shall be taxed in the bill of costs. In all surveys made by order of the court, the chain-carriers shall be allowed such compensation as the court may determine, not exceeding one dollar each per day; and in matters of disputed boundary, which may come in question, in any suit, the court may make to the surveyor such allowance for plots as it may deem reasonable, which, with the allowance to chain-carriers, shall be taxed as costs. (Rev., s. 2802; Code, s. 3754; 1893, c. 58, s. 2; 1905, cc. 182, 263.)

As to fees for recording and indexing surveys of State lands, see section 7573.

For act applicable to the per diem of the surveyor in Cabarrus county, see Public Laws of 1935, chapter 202.

§ 3921(a) No compensation out of State Equalizing Fund.—No Sheriff, Tax Collector, Treasurer or other fiscal agent of any county shall be allowed or receive any amount by way of commissions, allowance, credits in settlements or otherwise out of, or on account of any sums received by any county out of the State Equalizing Fund. (1929, c. 274, s. 1.)

§ 3921(b) Repayment.—Any Sheriff, Tax Collector, Treasurer or other fiscal agent of any county who shall receive commissions, allowances or credits of any kind out of or on account of any funds received from any county out of the State Equalizing Fund together with the sureties on their respective official bonds, and every member of any Board of County Commissioners, and every Auditor or other county officer or agent approving or acquiescing in payment or allowance of the same, shall each be liable personally and severally for repayment to the county of the amount so received in an action brought in any court of competent jurisdiction at the instance of any taxpayer of the county. (1929, c. 274, s. 2.)

Art. 8. Township Officers

§ 3922. Constable. — Constables shall be allowed the same fees as sheriffs. (Rev., s. 2787; Code, s. 3742; 1883, c. 108.)

CHAPTER 71A.

SECURITIES LAW

§ 3924(a). Title. — This act may be cited and shall be known as the "Capital Issues Law" of the State of North Carolina. (1925, c. 190, s. 1; 1927, c. 149, s. 1.)

See editor's note under sec. 3924(b).

Editor's Note.—An article discussing the history of blue sky laws and summarizing the various statutes will be found in 3 N. C. Law Rev. 150 et seq. The North Carolina cases are also discussed.

The Act of 1927 repealed the law of 1925 and substituted the following provisions therefor. See Durham Citizens Hotel Corp. v. Dennis, 195 N. C. 420, 422, 142 S. E. 578. For constructions of prior law, see note to §§ 6363-6375.

Application of Chapter.—This chapter applies where money is invested in stock, securities, profit-sharing agreements, etc., with the purpose of securing an income from the employment of the money, and a contract whereby the owner of a copyright system gives the exclusive right to another to operate the system in certain counties, and in return is to receive a percentage of the gross receipts from the operation of the system, with further provision for a division of net profits from sales or contracts written by either party, does not contemplate the placing of money in a way to secure an income from its employment, but the earning of a portion of the gross receipts in return for individual services, and the agreement is not a profit-sharing scheme or investment contract within the intent and meaning of the statute. State v. Heath, 199 N. C. 135, 153 S. E. 855.

§ 3924(b). Definitions — When used in this act.—

(a) The term "commissioner" shall mean the member of the corporation commission of North Carolina, designated by the governor to administer this act, and the term "commission" shall mean the corporation commission of North Carolina, which is charged with certain duties under the terms of this act.

(b) The term "person" shall mean and include a natural person, firm, partnership, association, syndicate, joint-stock company, unincorporated company or organization, trust incorporated or unincorporated and any corporation organized under the laws of the District of Columbia, or of any foreign government. As used herein, the term "trust" shall be deemed to include a common law trust, but shall not include a trust created or appointed under or by virtue of a last will and testament or by a court of law or equity.

(c) The term "securities" or "security" shall include any note, stock certificate, stock, treasury stock, bond, debenture, evidence of indebtedness, transferable certificate of interest or participation, certificate of interest in a profit-sharing agreement certificate of interest in an oil, gas or mining lease, collateral trust certificate, any transferable share, investment contract, or beneficial interest in or title to property or profits or any contract or agreement in the promotion of a plan or scheme whereby one party undertakes to purchase the increase or production of the other party from the article or thing sold under the plan or scheme, or whereby one party is to receive the profits arising from the increase or production of the article or thing sold under the plan or scheme, or any other instrument commonly known as security.

(d) The term "sale" shall include any agreement whereby a person transfers or agrees to transfer either the ownership of or an interest in a security. Any security given or delivered with or as a bonus on account of any purchase of securities, or of any other thing shall be deemed to constitute a part of the subject of such purchase and to have been sold for value. "Sale," or "sell" shall also include an attempt to sell, an option of a purchase or sale, a solicitation of a sale, a subscription, or an offer to sell, either directly or by agent, or by a circular letter, advertisement, or otherwise; but nothing herein shall limit or diminish the full meaning of the term "sell" or "sale" as used by or accepted in courts of law or equity: Provided, that a privilege pertaining to a security giving the holder the privilege to convert such security into another security of the same issuer shall not be deemed a sale, or offer to sell, or option of sale of such other security within the meaning of this definition and such privilege shall not be construed as affecting the status of the security to which such privilege pertains with respect to exemption or registration under the provisions of this act, but when such privilege of conversion shall be exercised such conversion shall be subject to the limitations hereinafter provided in subsection (8) of section 3924(d); and provided further, that the issue or transfer of a right pertaining to a security entitling the holder to subscribe to another security of the same issuer, when such right is issued or transferred with the security to which it pertains, shall not be deemed a sale or offer to sell or option of sale of such other security within the meaning of this definition, and such right shall not be construed as affecting the status of the security to which such right pertains with respect to exemption or registration under the provisions of this act; but the sale of such other security upon the exercise of such right shall be subject to the provisions of this act.

(e) The term "issuer" shall include every person who proposes to issue or who issues or who has issued or shall hereafter issue any security (sold or to be sold, offered or to be offered for sale).

(f) The term "intangible assets" shall mean and include patents, formula, good will, promotions, trade brands, franchises, evidences of indebtedness or corporate securities, titles or rights in and to intangible property, and all other like assets.

(g) "Tangible assets" shall mean all assets other than intangible assets, as above defined.

(h) "Mortgage" shall be deemed to include a deed of trust to secure a debt. (1925, c. 190, s. 2; 1927, c. 149, s. 2; 1933, c. 432.)

Editor's Note.—Public Laws of 1933, ch. 134, codified as secs. 1112(a)-1112(q), abolishing the corporation commission, created the office of utilities commissioner and provided for the appointment of two associate commissioners. Section 8 of the act, codified as sec. 1112(g), provided that chapter 149 of the Public Laws of 1927, codified as secs. 3924(a) et seq., be amended so that all functions, powers, etc., of the corporation commission "shall hereafter be done and performed by the utilities commissioner." Therefore, the sections of this chapter should be read with this amendment in mind.

Public Laws of 1933, c. 432, inserted in subsection (3) the provision relating to contracts "whereby one party undertakes to purchase an increase or production of the party," etc.

§ 3924(c). Exempted securities. — Except as hereinafter provided, the provisions of this act shall not apply to any security which, at the time of sale thereof, is within any of the following classes of securities:

(a) Any security issued or guaranteed by the United States or by any territory or insular possession thereof, or by the District of Columbia, or by any state or municipal corporation or political subdivision or agency thereof.

(b) Any security issued or guaranteed by any foreign government, or by any state, province or political subdivision thereof, having the power of taxation or assessment, with which the United States is maintaining diplomatic relations and which security is recognized at the time it is offered for sale in this State as a valid obligation for its face value by such foreign government, or by the State, province or political subdivision thereof issuing same.

(c) Any security issued by a national bank, or by any Federal Land Bank, or joint-stock land bank, or national farm loan association under the provisions of the Federal Farm Loan Act of July seventeen, nineteen hundred and sixteen, or any amendments thereof, or by the War Finance Corporation, or by any corporation created or acting as an instrumentality of the government of the United States pursuant to authority granted by the Congress of the United States, provided, that such corporation is subject to supervision or regulation by the government of the United States.

(d) Any security issued or guaranteed as to principal, interest or dividend, by a corporation, domestic, or foreign, owning or operating a railroad, or any other public service utility: Provided, that such corporation is subject to regulation or supervision, either as to its rates and charges or as to the issue of its own securities by a public commission, board or officer, or by any governmental, legislative or regulatory body of this State, or of the United States, or any State, territory or insular possession thereof, or of the District of Columbia, or of the Dominion of Canada, or any province thereof; also equipment securities based on chattel mortgages, leases or agreements for conditional sale of cars, motive power or other rolling stock or equipment mortgaged, leased or sold to or furnished for the use of or upon a railroad or other public service utility corporation, equipment securities where the ownership or title of such equipment is pledged or retained in accordance with the provisions of the laws of the United States, or of any State, or of the Dominion of Canada, to secure the payment of such equipment securities; also bonds, notes or other evidences of indebtedness issued by a holding corporation and secured by collateral consisting of any of the securities herein above in this clause (d) described: Provided, that such collateral securities equal in fair value at least one hundred and twenty-five (125%) per cent of the par value of the bonds, notes or other evidences of indebtedness, so secured.

(e) Securities appearing in any list of securities dealt in any organized stock exchange having an established meeting place in a city of over five hundred thousand population according to the last preceding United States census and providing facilities for the use of its members in the purchase and sale of securities listed by such exchange and on which exchange actual transactions have accrued during each of the preceding twenty years in the purchase and sale of United States bonds, or other bonds of any of the classes exempted herein from the provisions of this act, and which require financial statements to be submitted at the time of listing and annually thereafter; or on any other recognized and responsible stock exchange which has been previously investigated and approved by the commissioner and which securities have been so listed pursuant to official authorization by such exchange, and also all securities senior to any securities so listed, or represented by subscription rights which have been so listed; for evidences of indebtedness guaranteed by companies any stock of which is so listed, if the company whose securities are guaranteed is a subsidiary of the guaranteeing company and controlled by lease or ownership of stock, such securities to be exempt only so long as such listing shall remain in effect: Provided, however, that the commissioner, upon 10 days' notice and hearing may at any time withdraw his approval of any such stock exchange; and provided further, that the commissioner may at any time withdraw his approval of any security so listed on any stock exchange in a city of five hundred thousand population as above defined, or any other approved stock exchange, and thereafter such security shall not be entitled to the benefit of this exemption, except upon further order of the commissioner.

(f) Any security issue by, and representing an interest in, or a direct contract obligation of a bank, trust company or savings institution, which bank, trust company or savings institution is incorporated under the laws of, and subject to the examination, supervision and control of the United States, or of any state or territory of the United States, or of any insular possession thereof: Provided, this section shall not apply to any security based upon mortgages on real estate nor to saving institutions and trust companies not approved by the banking department of the Corporation Commission of the State of North Carolina.

(g) Negotiable promissory notes or commercial paper if such issue of negotiable notes or commercial paper mature in not more than fifteen months from the date of issue and shall be issued within three months after date of sale.

(h) Securities issued by building and loan associations incorporated under the laws of the State of North Carolina.

(i) Securities issued by insurance companies in North Carolina, subject to State supervision.

(j) Securities issued by any corporation organized not for pecuniary profit or organized exclusively for educational, benevolent, fraternal, charitable or reformatory purposes.

(k) Securities evidencing indebtedness due under any contract made in pursuance to the provisions of any statute of any State of the United States providing for the acquisition of personal property under conditional sale contract.

(l) Bonds or notes secured by lien on vessels shown by policies of marine insurance taken out in responsible companies to be of value, after deducting any and all other indebtedness secured by prior lien, of not less than one hundred and twenty-five (125%) per cent of the par amount of such bonds or notes.

(m) Any security other than common stock outstanding and in the hands of the public for a period of not less than five years upon which no default in payment of principal, interest or dividend exists and upon which no such default has occurred for a continuous period of five years immediately preceding.

(n) Any security which, under the laws of this State, is a legal investment for savings banks of trust funds.

(o) Securities issued by a domestic corporation, partnership, association, company, syndicate or trust owning a property business or industry which has been in continuous operation for not less than three years prior thereto, and which has shown during a period of not less than two years nor more than five years prior to the close of its last fiscal year preceding the offering of such securities average annual net earnings, after deducting all prior charges, not including the charges or prior securties to be retired out of the proceeds of such sale, as follows:

(1) In the case of interest bearing securities, not less than one and one-half times the annual interest charges thereon and upon all other outstanding interest-bearing obligations of equal rank.

(2) In the case of preferred stock not less than one and one-half times the annual dividend requirements on the total of the proposed issue of such preferred stock and on all other outstanding stock of equal rank.

(3) In the case of common stock with par value not less than six per cent upon all outstanding common stock of equal rank, or in the case of common stock without par value, not less than six per cent upon the amount charged to capital by reason of the issuance thereof: Provided, the tangible assets of such corporation, partnership, association, company, syndicate, or trust (not including any intangible assets), together with the proceeds of the sale of such securities accruing to the issuer, shall equal or exceed:

(1) In the case of evidence of indebtedness, one hundred twenty-five per centum of the par value of such evidence of indebtedness, and all other obligations of equal rank then outstanding and not to be retired out of the proceeds of the sale of such evidence of indebtedness.

(2) In the case of preferred stock one hundred twenty-five per centum of the par value of the aggregate amount of all outstanding preferred stock of equal and prior rank and the stock then offered for sale, after the deduction from such assets of all indebtedness which will be existing and of the par value of all stock of senior rank which will be outstanding after the application of the proceeds of the preferred stock offered for sale.

(3) In the case of common stock one hundred per centum of the aggregate of all outstanding stock of equal rank and the stock then offered for sale, reckoned at the price at which such stock is offered for sale or sold after the deduction from such assets of all indebtedness which will be existing and of the par value of all stock of senior rank which will be outstanding after the application of the proceeds of the common stock offered for sale: Provided, however, that in the case of preferred or common stock, without par value, computation hereunder shall be made upon the basis of the amount charged to capital by reason of the issuance thereof, instead of upon the basis of par value. (1925, c. 190, s. 3; 1927, c. 149, s. 3.)

See Editor's Note under preceding section.

§ 3924(d). Transactions exempted from operation of this chapter.—Except as hereinafter provided, the provisions of this act shall not apply to the sale or the offering for sale of any security in any of the following transactions, viz.:

(1) At any judicial, executor's, administrator's, or guardian's sale, or at any sale by a receiver or trustee in insolvency or bankruptcy.

(2) By or for the account of any pledgeholder or mortgagee selling or offering for sale, in the ordinary course of business, to liquidate a bona fide debt, a security pledged in good faith as security for such debt.

(3) In an isolated transaction in which any security is sold or offered for sale by the owner thereof, or by his representative for the owner's account in the usual and ordinary course of business and not for the direct or indirect promotion of any scheme or enterprise within the purview of this act, and when such sale or offer for sale is not made in the course of repeated and successive transactions of a like character by such owner or on his account by the representative of such owner, and neither such owner nor his representative is the maker or issuer or underwriter of such security.

(4) The sale of, or offer to sell such security to any bank, savings institution, trust company, insurance company, or to any corporation.

(5) The distribution by a corporation of capital stock, bonds or other securities to its stockholders or other security holders as a stock dividend or other distribution out of earnings or surplus; or the issue of securities by a corporation to security holders or creditors of such corporation in the process of a bona fide reorganization of such corporation made in good faith either in exchange for either or both the securities of such security holders or claims of such creditors, or partly for cash and partly in exchange for the securities or claims of such security holders or creditors; or the issue of increased capital stock of a corporation sold or distributed by it entirely among its own stockholders, when no commission or other remuneration is paid or given directly or indirectly in connection with the sale or distribution of such increased capital stock.

(6) The transfer or exchange by or on account of one corporation to another corporation or to its stockholders of their or its own securities in connection with a proposed consolidation or merger of such corporations, or in connection with the change of par value of stock to non par value stock or the exchange of outstanding shares for a greater or smaller number of shares; the transfer or exchange by or on the account of one corporation of its own securities to the holders of the securities of another corporation, partnership, trust, person, firm or association, in any plan of distribution or exchange providing for the assumption or acquisition by the issuing corporation of the securities for which its own securities are issued or are to be issued, where the plan of distribution or exchange is contained in a registration statement which has been filed for more than twenty days with the securities and exchange commission of the United States government or like agency of the United States government, charged with the registration of securities.

(7) Subscriptions for shares or sales or negotiations for sales of shares of the capital stock in domestic corporations, when no expense is incurred, and no commission, compensation or remuneration is paid or given for, or in connection with, the sale or disposition of such securities.

(8) The issue and delivery of any security in exchange for any other security of the same issuer pursuant to a right of conversion entitling the holder of the security exchanged to make such conversion: Provided, that the security exchang-d has been registered by notification under the law or was when sold exempt from the provisions of law and that the security received in exchange if sold at the conversion price would at the time of such conversion fall within the class of securities entitled to registration by notification under the law upon such conversion the par value of the security surrendered in such exchange shall be deemed the price at which the securities received in such exchange are sold.

(9) Subscriptions for shares of the capital stock of a corporation prior to the incorporation thereof, when no expense is incurred, and no commission, compensation or remuneration is paid or given for, or in connection with, the sale or disposition of such securities.

(10) The sale of securities to a registered dealer.

(11) Bonds or notes secured by mortgage upon real estate where the entire mortgage together with all of the bonds or notes secured thereby are sold to a single purchaser at a single sale. (1925, c. 190, s. 4; 1927, c. 149, s. 4; 1935, cc. 90, 154.)

Editor's Note.—The amendment of 1935 adds the second sentence of subsection 6 of this section.

§ 3924(e). Burden of proof as to such transactions.—It shall not be necessary to negative any of the aforesaid exemptions in any complaint, information, indictment or proceeding laid or brought under this act in either a court of law or equity, or before the commissioner, in either a civil or a criminal action or suit. The sale, unless the transaction is exempted from the operation of this act of any security not exempt from the provisions of this act as hereinbefore provided and not admitted to the record and recorded as hereinafter provided, shall be prima facie evidence of the violation of this act, and the burden of proof of any such exemption shall be upon the party claiming the benefit thereof. (1925, c. 190, s. 5; 1927, c. 149, s. 5.)

§ 3924(f). Registration of securities.—No securities except of a class exempt under any of the provisions of section three hereof, or unless sold in any transaction exempt under any of the provisions of section four hereof shall be sold within this State unless such securities shall have been registered by notification or by qualification as hereinafter defined. Registration of stock shall be deemed to include the registration of rights to subscribe to such stock if the notice under section 7 or the application under section 8 for registration of such stock includes a statement that such rights are to be issued. (1925, c. 190, s. 6; 1927, c. 149, s. 6.)

§ 3924(g). Advertisement of securities. — It shall be unlawful hereafter:

(1) To advertise in this State, through or by means of any prospectus, circular, price list, letter, order blank, newspaper, periodical or otherwise, or

(2) To circulate or publish any newspaper, periodical or either written or printed matter in which any advertisement in this section specified shall appear, or

(3) To circulate any prospectus, price list, order blanks, or other matter for the purpose of inducing or securing any subscriptions to or sale of any security or securities not exempted under any of the provisions of section three of this act, and not sold or to be sold in one of the transactions exempted under the provisions of section four and except as provided in section 8 of this act, unless and until the requirements of section six of this act have been fully complied with and such advertising matter has been filed and approved by the commissioner. (1925, c. 190, s. 7; 1927, c. 149, s. 7.)

§ 3924(h). Registration by notification. — The following classes of securities shall be entitled to registration by notification in the manner provided in this section:

(1) Securities issued by a corporation, partnership association, company, syndicate or trust owning a property, business or industry which has been in continuous operation not less than three years, and which has shown during a period of not less than two years, nor more than five years, next prior to the close of its last fiscal year preceding the offering of such securities, average annual net earnings, after deducting all prior charges not including the charges upon securities to be retired out of the proceeds of sale, as follows:

(a) In the case of interest bearing securities, not less than one and one-half times the annual interest charge thereon and upon all other outstanding interest bearing obligations of equal rank.

(b) In the case of preferred stock, not less than one and one-half times the annual dividend requirements on such preferred stock and on all other outstanding stock of equal rank.

(c) In the case of common stock not less than five per centum upon all outstanding common stock of equal rank, together with the amount of common stock then offered for sale reckoned upon the price at which such stock is then offered for sale or sold. The ownership by a corporation, partnership, association, company, syndicate or trust or more than 50 per cent of the outstanding voting stock of a corporation shall be construed as the proportionate ownership of the property, business or industry of such corporation, and shall permit the inclusion of the earnings of such corporation, applicable to the payment of dividends upon the stock so owned in the earnings of the corporation, partnership, association, company, syndicate, or trust issuing the securities sought to be registered by notification.

(2) Any bond or notes secured by a first mortgage upon agricultural lands used and valuable for agricultural purposes (not including oil, gas or mining property or (leases), or upon city, town or village real estate situated in any State or territory of the United States or in the District of Columbia or in the Dominion of Canada as follows:

(a) When the mortgage is a first mortgage upon such agricultural lands, used and valuable for agricultural purposes, and when the aggregate face value of such bonds or notes, not including interest notes, or coupons secured thereby, does not exceed 60 per centum of the then fair market value of said lands plus 60 per centum of the insured value of any improvements thereon; or,

(b) When the mortgage is a first mortgage upon city, town or village real estate and when the aggregate face value of such bonds or notes, not including interest notes or coupons, secured by such real estate or leaseholds does not exceed 60 per centum of the then fair market value of said mortgaged real estate or leaseholds, respectively, including any improvements appurtenant thereto, and when said mortgaged property is used principally to produce through rental a net annual income, after deducting operating expenses and taxes, or has a fair rental value, after deducting operating expenses and taxes, at least equal to the annual interest, plus not less than 3 per centum of the principal of said mortgage indebtedness.

(c) Bonds or notes secured by first lien on collateral pledged as security for such bonds or notes with a bank or trust company as trustees, which bank or trust company is incorporated under the laws of and subject to examination and supervision by the United States or by a state of the United States, which collateral shall consist of (a) a principal amount of first mortgage bonds or notes conforming to the requirements of any one or more of subsection (2) of this section 8 and / or (b) a principal amount of obligations secured as hereinafter in this subsection provided, and/or (c) a principal amount of obligations of the United States, and/or (d) cash, equal to not less than 100 per cent of the aggregate principal amount of all bonds or notes secured thereby. The portion of such collateral referred to in clause (b) shall consist of obligations secured by a first lien on a principal amount of first mortgage bonds or notes conforming to the requirements of subsection (2) of this section, and / or a principal amount of obligations of the United States and/or cash equal to not less than 100 per cent of the aggregate principal amount of such obligations so secured thereby, and all such pledged securities including cash so securing such obligations shall have been deposited with a bank or trust company as trustee, which bank or trust company is incorporated under the laws of and subject to examination and supervision by the United States or by a state of the United States.

Securities entitled to registration by notification shall be registered by the filing by the issuer or by any registered dealer interested in the sale thereof in the office of the commissioner of a statement with respect to such securities containing the following:

(a) Name of issuer.

(b) A brief description of the security including amount of the issue.

(c) Amount of securities to be offered in the State.

(d) A brief statement of the facts which show that the security falls within one of the classes in this section defined.

(e) The price at which the securities are to be offered for sale.

In the case of securities falling within the class defined by subsection (1), if the circular to be used for the public offering is not filed with the statement, then a copy of such circular shall be filed in the office of the commissioner within two days thereafter, or within such further time as the commissioner shall allow.

In the case of securities falling within the classes defined by subsection (2), the circular to be used for the public offering shall be filed with the statement.

The filing of such statement in the office of the commissioner and the payment of the fee hereinafter provided shall constitute the registration of such security. Upon such registration, such securities equal to the amount so registered by notification may be sold in this State by any registered dealer by giving notice in the manner hereinafter provided in section 19, subject, however, to the further order of the commissioner as hereinafter provided.

If, at any time, in the opinion of the commissioner, the information contained in the statement or circular filed is misleading, incorrect, inadequate, or incomplete, or the sale or offering for sale of the security may work or tend to work a fraud or, in the opinion of the commissioner, be contrary to good business practices, the commissioner may require from the person filing such statement such further information as may, in his judgment, be necessary to establish the classification of such security as claimed in said statement, or to enable the commissioner to ascertain whether the sale of such security would be fraudulent, or would result in fraud, and the commissioner may also suspend the right to sell such security pending further investigation by entering an order specifying the grounds for such action, and by notifying personally by mail, telephone or telegraph the person filing such statement and every registered dealer who shall have notified the commissioner of an intention to sell such security. The refusal to furnish information required by the commissioner, within a reasonable time to be fixed by the commissioner, may be a proper ground for the entry of such order of suspension. Upon the entry of any such order of suspension no further sales of such security shall be made until the further order of the commissioner; unless the person to be affected by such order shall file with the commissioner a bond in a penalty to be fixed by him in some solvent surety company licensed in the State of North Carolina, to pay all such damages as might be sustained by any purchaser of such security, which bond shall be made payable to the State of North Carolina and sued upon by any person damaged by such sale.

In the event of the entry of such order of suspension the commissioner shall upon request give a prompt hearing to the parties interested. If no hearing is requested within a period of twenty (20) days from the entry of such order, or if upon such hearing the commissioner shall determine that any such security does not fall within a class entitled to registration under this section, or that the sale thereof would be fraudulent or would result in fraud or the continued sale of the same, is in his opinion contrary to good business practices, he shall enter a final order prohibiting sales of such security, with his findings with respect thereto: Provided, that if the finding with respect to such security is that it is not entitled to registration under this section, the applicant may apply for registration by qualification by complying with the requirements of section 3924(i). Appeals from such final order may be taken as hereinafter provided. If, however, upon such hearing, the commissioner shall find that the security is entitled to registration under this section, and that its sale will neither be fraudulent nor result in fraud, or that the continued sale thereof is not contrary to good business practices, he shall forthwith enter an order revoking such order of suspension and such security shall be restored to its status as a security registered under this section, as of the date of such order of suspension.

At the time of filing the statement, as hereinbefore prescribed in this section, the applicant shall pay to the commission a filing fee of ten dollars and a fee of one-twentieth of one per cent of the aggregate par value of the securities to be sold in this State for which the applicant is seeking registration, but in no case shall such latter fee be less than twenty-five dollars, and not exceeding one hundred and fifty dollars. In the case of stock having no par value, the price at which such stock is to be offered to the public, shall be deemed to be the par value of such stock. (1927, c. 149, s. 8.)

§ 3924(i). Registration by qualification. — All securities required by this act to be registered before being sold in this State, and not entitled to registration by notification, shall be registered only by qualification in the manner provided by this section.

The commissioner shall receive and act upon applications to have securities registered by qualification and may prescribe forms on which he may require such applications to be submitted. Applications shall be in writing and shall be duly signed by the applicant and sworn to by a proper person, and filed in the office of the commissioner and may be made either by the issuer of the securities for which registration is applied or by any registered dealer desiring to sell the same within this State.

The commissioner may require the applicant to submit to the commissioner the following information respecting the issuer and such other information as he may, in his judgment, deem necessary to enable him to ascertain whether such securities shall be registered pursuant to the provisions of this section.

(a) The names and addresses of directors, trustees and officers, if the issuer be a corporation or association or trust organized or existing under the common law (as hereinbefore defined) of all partners, if the issuer be a partnership, and of the issuer if the insurer be an individual.

(b) The location of the issuer's principal business office and of its principal office in this State, if any, and if not, the name of its process officer within this State.

(c) The purposes of incorporation, (if incorporated) and the general character of the business actually to be transacted by the issuer, and the purpose of the proposed issue.

(d) A statement of the capitalization of the issuer; a balance sheet showing the amount and general character of its assets and liabilities on a day not more than sixty (60) days prior to the date of filing such balance sheet; a detained statement of the plan upon which the issuer proposes to transact business; a copy of the security for the registration of which application is made; and a copy of all circulars, prospectuses, advertisements or other descriptions of such securities then prepared by or for such issuer, and/or by or for such applicant (if the applicant shall not be the issuer) to be used for distribution or publication in this State.

(e) A statement of the amount of the issuer's income, expenses, and fixed charges during the last fiscal year, or if in actual business less than one year, then for such time as the issuer has been in actual business.

(f) A statement showing the price at which such security is proposed to be sold, together with the maximum amount of commission or other form of remuneration to be paid in cash or otherwise, directly or indirectly, for or in connection with the sale, or offering for sale, of such securities.

(g) A detailed statement showing the items of cash, property, services, patents, good will and any other consideration for which such securities have been or are to be issued in payment.

(h) The amount of capital stock which is to be set aside and disposed of as promotion stock, and a statement of all stock issued from time to time as promotion stock.

(i) If the issuer is a corporation, there shall be filed with the application a certified copy of its articles of incorporation with all amendments and of its existing by-laws, if not already on file in the office of the commissioner, or with the Secretary of State of this State. If the issuer is a trustee there shall be filed with the application a copy of all instruments by which the trust is created or declared and in which it is accepted and acknowledged. If the issuer is a partnership or an unincorporated association, or joint stock company, or any other form of organization whatsoever, there shall be filed with the application a copy of its articles of partnership or association and all other papers pertaining to its organization, if not already on file in the office of the commissioner or with the Secretary of State of this State.

All of the statements, exhibits, and documents of every kind required by the commissioner under this section, except properly certified public documents, shall be verified in such manner and form as may be required by the commissioner.

With respect to securities required to be registered by qualification under the provisions of this section, the commissioner may by order duly entered fix the maximum amount of commission or other form of remuneration to be paid in cash or otherwise directly or indirectly, for or in connection with the sale or offering for sale of such securities which shall in no case exceed ten per cent of the actual sale price of the security.

At the time of filing the information, as hereinbefore prescribed in this section, the applicant shall pay to the commissioner a filing fee of twenty-five dollars and, upon the entry of an order for the registration of the securities, shall pay to the commissioner a fee of one-tenth of one per cent of the aggregate par value of the securities to be sold in this State, for which the applicant is seeking registration, but in no case shall such latter fee be less than twenty-five dollars, and not exceeding two hundred and fifty dollars. In case of stock having no par value the price at which such stock is to be offered to the public shall be deemed to be the par value of such stock. (1927, c. 149, s. 9.)

§ 3924(j). Consideration of application by commissioner.

(1) As soon as practicable after the filing of an application, under section 3924(i) of this act, the commissioner shall examine the application, statements and documents so filed; and if he deems it advisable, may make or cause to be made such inspection, examination, audit and investigation of the business and affairs of the issuer as he may deem necessary or advisable, which said inspection, examinations, audit and investigation, shall be at the expense of the applicant. As a part of the aforesaid inspection, examination, audit and investigation, the commissioner may, if he deems it necessary or advisable, cause an appraisal to be made of the property or assets of the issuer or parts thereof. Appraisals herein provided for may be made by three disinterested appraisers, and the commissioner is authorized to nominate and appoint such appraisers, who shall be paid not more than twenty-five dollars per day and their actual expenses while so employed, which compensation and expenses shall be paid by the applicant. The commissioner may require a bond sufficient to cover the expense of any such inspection, examination, audit or investigation as may be deemed necessary by the commissioner in connection with the application before, or after the granting of such application for registration.

(2) The commissioner shall make a complete report of the inspection, investigation, examination, etc., of the business and affairs of the applicant above provided for, which record shall include a copy of the appraisal aforesaid, provided such an appraisal be made. (1925, c. 190, s. 10; 1927, c. 149, s. 10.)

§ 3924(k). Hearing before commissioner.—The commissioner shall, within fifteen days after the filing of the report of such investigation, give the applicant a hearing, if he so desires.

(1) If the commissioner shall act favorably upon the application, he shall issue an order, directing that such securities be admitted to record in the register of qualified securities, hereinafter provided for. The commissioner shall keep a permanent record of all proceedings, findings, judgments and orders. In granting to an applicant the privilege of offering securities to the public in the State of North Carolina the commissioner may impose such reasonable conditions, either precedent or concurrent thereto, as in his judgment may be necessary or advisable. If the statement containing information as to securities, as provided for in section 3924(i) of this act, shall disclose that any such securities or any securities senior thereto shall have been or shall be intended to be issued for any patent right, copyright, trademark, process, lease, formulae or goodwill, or for promotion fees or expenses or for other intangible assets, the amount and nature thereof shall be fully set forth and the commissioner may require that such securities so issued in payment of such patent right, copyright, trade-mark, process, lease, formulae or good will, or for promotion fees or expenses, or for other intangible assets shall be delivered in escrow to the commissioner or other depository satisfactory to the commissioner under an escrow agreement that the owners of such securities shall not be entitled to withdraw such securities from escrow until all other stockholders who have paid for their stock in cash shall have been paid a dividend, or dividends aggregating not less than six per cent for three years, shown to the satisfaction of said commissioner to have been actually earned on the investment in any common stock so held, and in case of dissolution or insolvency during the time such securities are held in escrow, that the owners of such securities shall not participate in the assets until after the owners of all other securities shall have been paid in full: Provided, that during the period such securities shall be held in escrow, the commissioner shall have the right to vote such stock in person, or by proxy as he shall deem advisable.

(2) If, however, the commissioner shall, in any case, believe from all the evidence:

(a) That the sale of such securities would work a fraud, deception or imposition upon the purchaser thereof; or

(b) That the article of incorporation or association, declaration of trust, charter, constitution, by-laws, or other organization papers of the issuer are unfair, unjust, inequitable, illegal or oppressive; or

(c) That the issuers or guarantors of such securities are insolvent, or are in failing circumstances, or are not trustworthy; or

(d) That the issuer's plan of business is unfair, inequitable, dishonest or fraudulent; or

(e) That the issuer's literature or advertising is misleading or calculated to deceive purchasers or investors; or

(f) That the securities offered or to be offered; issued or to be issued in payment for property or assets, either tangible or intangible, are so in excess of the reasonable value thereof as to indicate fraud or bad faith; or

(g) That the enterprise or business of either the issuers or of the applicant, is unlawful or against public policy; or

(h) That the sale of such securities is a mere scheme of either the issuer or the applicant to dispose of worthless securities of no real intrinsic value, at the expense of the purchasers of said securities; or

(i) That the sale of such securities is contrary to good business practices.

Then the commissioner shall refuse to admit said securities to record in the register of qualified securities, or if such securities are admitted to record, such action may at any time thereafter be revoked by the commissioner for any of the reasons set out in section eleven, subsection two, and it shall thereafter be unlawful to sell such securities in this State or to circulate any advertisement thereof.

In any case the commissioner either before granting or after granting any application for registration by qualification under section 3924(i), shall have the right to require of the applicant a bond, the form whereof shall be prescribed and the surety approved by the commissioner, penalty whereof shall be fixed by the commissioner at not more than twenty per centum of the sales price of the securities issued or proposed or authorized to be issued. The said bond shall be with surety and payable to the State of North Carolina, conditioned that the facts set forth in the application for such permit and in all other documents required by this act to be filed with the commissioner are true, and that the provisions of this act shall be strictly complied with, and that all moneys from the sale of such securities will be used for the proper purpose or purposes as set forth within the security sold and in the papers filed with the commissioner; and that the contract of the promoter as set forth in the securities issued will be complied with and also that all statements set forth in all literature or advertising matter used or circulated in connection with the sale, or offer of sale, of such securities shall be the truth; and that the contract of the promoter shall be fulfilled. Except when the surety offered is a surety company authorized to do business in this State, it shall be the duty of the commissioner to satisfy himself that such surety is amply solvent before accepting the same.

Any person who shall be induced to purchase any securities covered by such bond by reason of any misrepresentation of any material fact concerning such securities, contained in said application or other documents submitted in connection therewith or furnished to the commissioner, upon its request or any other written or printed matter issued or used by the person making such sale or its, or his, agents in making such sale, or shall have suffered loss by reason of the fact that moneys paid by him to the said seller of such securities or the seller's agent, have not been applied to the proper purpose set forth in the security sold or the papers filed with the commissioner, or that the seller has failed or refused to comply with his contract, as set forth in the security issued, shall have the right to bring suit upon the bond above provided for, and such bond shall be security for such person for his losses; but such person shall not be entitled to recover more than the money paid, or the actual value of the property given, or the labor performed. in exchange for such securities, with legal interest from the date of payment or the performance of the services or the transfer of property. One or more recoveries upon such bond shall not vitiate the same, but it shall remain in full force and effect, but no recoveries upon such bond shall ever exceed the full amount of same, and upon suits being commenced in excess of the amount of same, the commissioner may require a new bond, and, if the same is not given within thirty days the commissioner may revoke the registration herein provided for: Provided, however, that any suit or action instituted under this section shall be commenced within one year from the date of any such sale. During the thirty days after notice to file a new bond, the securities shall not be sold or offered for sale. (1925, c. 190, s. 11; 1927, c. 149, s. 11.)

§ 3924(l). No representation to be made of endorsement.—No person, or dealer, or agent shall represent any securities sold under the provisions of this chapter, as being endorsed or recommended by the State of North Carolina, or any officer thereof, nor shall make any mention whatever of recording or being admitted to record in the State of North Carolina. (1925, c. 190, s. 12; 1927, c. 149, s. 12.)

§ 3924(m). Register of qualified securities. — The commissioner shall keep and maintain a permanent register of qualified securities and shall enter therein the names and amounts of all securities the privilege of offering which to the public in the State of North Carolina has been granted by the commissioner, and the date thereof, and such other data as the commissioner may deem proper. All securities admitted to record and recorded in such register shall be deemed, for the purpose of this act, to have been fully qualified for sale in the State of North Carolina and thereafter any person may lawfully sell or offer for sale any part of such issue as recorded; subject, however, to the provisions of this act. Such register shall be open to inspection by the public. (1925, c. 190, s. 13; 1927, c. 149, s. 13.)

§ 3924(n). Report to commissioner. — Every issuer whose securities have been admitted to record and recorded as herein provided, may be required during the offering of such securities to file within thirty days after the close of business on December thirty-first, March thirty-first, June thirtieth, and September thirtieth, of each year, and at such other times as may be required by the commissioner, a statement, verified under oath by some person having actual knowledge of the facts therein stated, setting forth, in such form as may be prescribed by the commissioner, the financial condition, the amount of assets and liabilities, of such issuer on the above dates and such other information as said commissioner may require. It shall be unlawful for any issuer subject to the provisions of this act, who refuses or fails to comply with the provisions of this section, or for his agent or agents, to thereafter sell such securities in this State. (1925, c. 190, s. 14; 1927, c. 149, s. 14.)

§ 3924(o). Examination and examiners.—The records and the business affairs of every company or person, whose securities have been admitted to record in the register of qualified securities shall be subject to examination and inspection by the commissioner or upon his direction by his assistants, accountants, or examiners, at any time said commissioner may deem it advisable; and such company or person shall pay a fee for each of such examinations of not to exceed twenty-five dollars ($25) for each day or fraction thereof, plus the actual traveling and hotel expenses of said commissioner, his assistant, accountant or examiner, that he is absent from the capitol of the State for the purpose of making such examination. (1925, c. 190, s. 15; 1927, c. 149, s. 15.)

§ 3924(p). Complaints, investigations, findings of facts.—The commissioner may, upon his own initiative or upon the complaint of any reasonable person, hold such public hearings or make or have made such special inspection, examination or investigation as he may deem necessary, in connection with the promotion, sale or disposal in this State of any security or securities, to determine whether the same constitutes a violation of law; and the said commissioner, his assistant or deputy shall have power and authority.

(1) To issue subpœnas and process compelling the attendance of any person and the production of any paper, records or books relating to any matter of which the commissioner has jurisdiction under this article, and

(2) To administer an oath to any person whose testimony may be required on such inspection, examination, or investigation. Upon the conclusion of any such hearing, inspection, examination or investigation the commissioner may make findings of fact concerning the matter or matters investigated. Such findings of facts shall be admissible in evidence in any suit or action, at law or in equity, instituted under any of the laws of this State, and shall be prima facie evidence of the truth of the matters therein found by said commissioner, and,

(3) Maintain by injunction or other remedy any action in any court of competent jurisdiction in this State for the purpose of enforcing this act, or making investigations. (1925, c. 190, s. 16; 1927, c. 149, s. 16.)

§ 3924(q). Certain information and records open to inspection by public.—All information rereceived by the commissioner shall be kept open to public inspection at all reasonable hours, and the commissioner shall supply to the public upon request copies of any papers on record with the commissioner at charges equaling the cost of typing same; and the commissioner shall have power and authority to place in a separate file, not open to the public except on his special order, any information which he deems in justice to the person filing the same should not be made public. An exemplification of the record under the hand of the commissioner, or of his deputy, shall be good and sufficient evidence of any record made or entered by the commissioner. A certificate under the hand of the commissioner or his deputy or assistant, and the seal of the commission showing that the securities in question have not been recorded in the register of qualified securities, shall constitute prima facie evidence that such securities have not been qualified for sale pursuant to the provisions of this act, and shall be admissible in evidence in any proceeding, either civil or criminal, instituted under any of the laws or statutes of this State. (1925, c. 190, s. 17; 1927, c. 149, s. 17.)

§ 3924(r). Appeal.—Any interested person aggrieved by any order of the commissioner, or by any refusal or failure of the commissioner to make an order under any of the provisions of this act, shall, upon written request directed to the commissioner, and within thirty days after such request has been filed with the said commissioner, be entitled to a hearing before the Corporation Commission as a body. The commission shall, within ten days after such hearing, rule upon the subject-matter of such hearing. Any person being dissatisfied with any findings, rulings, or judgment of the commission may, within thirty days after the making and issuance thereof, appeal to the Superior Court. The record made before such commissioner shall thereupon be certified to the Superior Court of the county in which such interested person may reside, or any county adjoining thereto in the discretion of said commission and thereafter the parties may plead and such procedure may be had as in other causes within the jurisdiction of said Superior Court, and after the issues shall have been determined by the court or jury, as the case may be, such judgment shall be rendered by the court as the findings may require. Appeals may be taken from the decision of the Superior Court to the Supreme Court by either party in the same manner as is provided by law in other civil cases, but the commission may appeal without bond. Pending any such appeal, the said findings, rulings, orders and judgments of the commission shall be prima facie evidence that they are just and reasonable and that the facts found are true, and shall remain in full force and effect, if no such suit be brought within said thirty days, said findings, ruling, order or judgment shall become final and binding. (1925, c. 190, s. 18; 1927, c. 149, s. 18.)

See editor's note under sec. 3924(b).

§ 3924(s). Dealers and salesmen; registration.—No dealer or salesman shall carry on business in the State of North Carolina as such dealer or salesman, or sell securities, including any securities exempted under the provisions of section three hereof, unless he has been registered as dealer or salesman in the office of the commissioner pursuant to the provisions of this section. Every applicant for registration shall file in the office of the commissioner, pursuant to the provisions of this section, an application in writing, duly signed and sworn to, in such form as the commissioner may prescribe, giving particulars concerning the business reputation of the applicant. The commissioner, in his discretion, may require that the applicant shall have been a bona fide resident of the State of North Carolina for a term not to exceed two years prior to the filing of the application. The names and addresses of all persons approved for registration as dealers or salesmen shall be recorded in a register of dealers and salesmen kept in the office of the commissioner, which shall be open to public inspection. Every registration under this section shall expire on the thirty-first day of March in each year, but the same may be renewed. The fee for such registration and for each annual renewal thereof shall be fifty dollars in the case of dealers, and ten dollars in the case of salesmen. Registration may be refused or a registration granted may be cancelled by the commissioner if, after reasonable notice and a hearing, the commissioner determines that such applicant or dealer or salesman so registered (1) has violated any provision of this act or any regulation made hereunder; or (2) has made a material false statement in the application for registration; or (3) has been guilty of a fraudulent act in connection with any sale of securities in the State of North Carolina, or has been or is engaged in making fictitious or pretended sales or purchases of any such securities or has been engaged in any practice or transaction or course of business relating to the purchase or sale of securities which is fraudulent or in violation of law; or (4) has demonstrated his unworthiness to transact the business of dealer or salesman. It shall be sufficient cause for refusal or cancellation of registration in the case of a partnership, corporation or unincorporated association or trust estate, if any member of the partnership, or any officer or director of the corporation, association or trust estate has been guilty of any act or omission which would be cause for refusing or cancelling the registration of an individual dealer or salesman. The word "dealer" as used in this section shall include every person other than a salesman, who in the State of North Carolina engages, either for all or part (of) his time, directly or through an agent, in the business of offering for sale, selling or otherwise dealing in securities including securities exempted under the provisions of section three, or of purchasing or otherwise acquiring such securities from another person with the purpose of reselling them or of offering them for sale to the public for a commission or at a profit, or who deals in futures on market quotations of prices or value of any securities, or accepts margins on prices or values of said securities. The word "salesman," as used in this section shall include every person employed, appointed or authorized by another person to sell securities in any manner in the State of North Carolina. No person shall be registered as a salesman except upon the application of the person on whose behalf such salesman is to act. It shall be unlawful for any person required to register under the provisions of this section to sell any security to any person in the State of North Carolina without having registered, or after such registration has expired or been cancelled and not renewed.

Provided, however, that employees of a company, or the securities of a company directly controlling such company, or the general agent of a domestic corporation, securities of which are exempted under the provisions of section 3924(c), may sell or solicit or negotiate for the sale or purchase of any such securities of such company in the territory served by such company or in which it operates without being considered as salesmen or dealers within the meaning of this chapter and without being required to register under its provision.

The partners of a partnership and the executive officers of a corporation or other association registered as a dealer may act as salesmen during such time as such partnership, corporation or association is so registered without further registration as salesmen. Changes in registration occasioned by changes in the personnel of a partnership or in the principals, copartners, officers or directors of any dealer may be made from time to time by written application setting forth the facts with reference to such change.

Every registered dealer who intends to offer any security of any issue, registered or to be registered, shall notify the commission in writing of his intention so to do. The notice shall contain the name of the dealer and shall state the name of the security to be offered for sale, and whenever a dealer shall have prepared such notice and shall have forwarded the same by registered mail, postage prepaid, and properly addressed to the commissioner, such dealer, as to the contents of such notice and filing thereof, shall be deemed to have complied with the requirements of this paragraph. Any issuer of a security required to be registered under the provisions of this act, selling such securities except in exempt transactions as defined in section 3924(d), shall be deemed a dealer within the meaning of this section and required to comply with all the provisions hereof. (1925, c. 190, s. 19; 1927, c. 149, s. 19.)

See Editor's Note under section 3924(b).

§ 3924(t). Assistants, clerks, etc., employment of.—It shall be the duty of the commissioner to administer and enforce the provisions of this act and he shall, for his services, be paid, as herein provided for the payment of salaries and expenses, the sum of one thousand ($1,000) dollars per annum. The commissioner shall appoint an assistant who shall have special charge of the administration and enforcement of this act under the direction and authority of the commissioner. He shall keep all records and generally perform such duties as the commissioner may direct; and for his services he shall be paid such salary as may be fixed by the commission. The commissioner may appoint such clerks and other assistants as may from time to time be needed, and may likewise fix their salaries or compensation, subject to the approval of the commission. (1925, c. 19, s. 20; 1927, c. 149, s. 20.)

See Editor's Note under section 3924(b).

§ 3924(u). Fee paid into State Treasury; expenses of administration.—All fees herein provided for shall be collected by the commissioner and shall be paid over to the State Treasurer to go into the general fund; as well as all fees, per diems expenses, etc., of appraisers, assistants, and investigators as herein provided, and all other expenses and fees required by this act. The commissioner may from time to time employ special counsel for the purpose of enforcing and carrying out the provisions of this act. All expenses of the administration of this act, including salaries, special counsel fees, clerk hire, postage, printing, stationery and the like, shall be paid out of available funds in the Treasury on the Auditor's warrant for the payment of bills itemized and certified to by the commissioner. (1925, c. 190, s. 21; 1927, c. 149, s. 21.)

§ 3924(v). Remedies.—Every sale or contract for sale made in violation of any of the provisions of this chapter shall be voidable at the election of the purchaser and the person making such sale or contract for sale and every director, officer or agent of or for such seller, if such director, officer or agent shall have participated or aided in any way in making such sale shall be jointly and severally liable to such purchaser in an action at law in any court of competent jurisdiction upon tender to the seller of the securities sold or of the contract made for the full amount paid by such purchaser: Provided, that no action shall be brought for the recovery of the purchase price after two years from the date of such sale or contract for sale: and provided further, that no purchaser otherwise entitled shall claim or have the benefit of this section who shall have refused or failed within sixty days to accept the voluntary offer of the seller to take back the security in question and to refund the full amount paid by such purchaser and court costs, together with interest on such amount for the period from the date of payment by such purchaser down to the date of repayment, such interest to be computed.

(a) In case such securities consist of interest bearing obligations at the same rate as provided in such obligations; and

(b) In case such securities consist of other than interest bearing obligations at the rate of six per centum per annum; less, in every case, the amount of any income from said securities that may have been received by such purchaser. (1925, c. 190, s. 22; 1927, c. 149, s. 22.)

§ 3924(w). Violation of chapter; punishment. (a) Whoever for the purpose of procuring the registration of any security by notification under this chapter, shall knowingly make or cause to be made any false representation of a material fact to the commissioner shall be guilty of a felony, and, upon conviction thereof, shall be imprisoned in the State prison for not less than one year or more than five years or fined in any sum not more than one thousand dollars ($1,000), or both.

(b) Whoever shall sell or cause to be sold, or offer to sell or cause to be offered for sale, any security in this State, which is not exempt under any of the provisions of section 3924(c), unless sold in any transaction exempt under any of the provisions of section 3924(d), and which such securities so sold, or caused to be sold or so offered for sale, shall not have been registered as provided in this chapter, shall be guilty of a violation of this chapter and upon conviction thereof shall be imprisoned in the State prison for a period of not less than one, nor more than five years, or fined in any sum not more than one thousand dollars ($1,000), or both.

(c) Whoever shall, for the purpose of selling any security in this State, fraudulently represent to the purchaser or prospective purchaser thereof the amount of dividends, interest or earnings which such security will yield, shall be deemed guilty of a violation of the provisions of this chapter and upon conviction thereof shall be imprisoned in the State prison for not less than one year, nor more than five years, or fined in any sum not more than one thousand dollars ($1,000), or both.

(d) Whoever, for the purpose of securing the registration by qualification of any securities under this chapter, shall make any false representation concerning any material fact submitted to the commissioner shall be deemed guilty of a violation of this act, and upon conviction thereof shall be imprisoned in the State prison for not less than one, nor more than five years, or fined in any sum not more than one thousand dollars ($1,000), or both.

(e) Whoever, for the purpose of procuring the registration by qualification of any security under this chapter, shall suppress or withhold any information from the commission which he possesses and which if submitted by him to the commissioner would render such security incompetent to be registered by qualification under and pursuant to the terms of this chapter, shall be deemed guilty of a violation of this chapter, and upon conviction thereof shall be imprisoned in the State prison for not less than one, nor more than five years, or fined in any sum not more than one thousand dollars ($1,000), or both.

(f) Whoever sells or causes to be sold, or offers for sale or causes to be offered for sale, any security in this State after having been notified by the commissioner that the registration of such securities has been cancelled, shall be deemed guilty of a violation of this chapter, and upon conviction thereof shall be imprisoned in the State prison for not less than one, nor more than five years, or fined in any sum not more than one thousand dollars ($1,000), or both.

(g) Whoever sells or causes to be sold, or offers for sale or causes to be offered for sale, any security in this State after being notified by the commissioner to stop the sale of such security pending the investigation provided for in section 3924(h), or pending the filing of the bond which may be required under section 3924(k), shall be deemed guilty of a violation of this chapter, and upon conviction thereof shall be imprisoned in the State prison for not less than one, nor more than five years, or fined in any sum not more than one thousand dollars ($1,000), or both.

(h) Whoever sells or causes to be sold, or offers for sale or causes to be offered for sale, any security in this State embraced and referred to in section 3924(s), without first having registered under and pursuant to the terms of said section, shall be deemed guilty of a violation of said section, and upon conviction thereof shall be imprisoned in the State prison for not less than one, nor more than five years, or fined in any sum not more than one thousand dollars ($1,000), or both.

(i) Whoever sells or causes to be sold, or offers for sale or causes to be offered for sale, any security in this State after his registration as provided in section 3924(s), has been cancelled by the commissioner as provided by section 3924(s), shall be deemed guilty of a violation of said section 3924(s), and upon conviction thereof shall be imprisoned in the State prison for not less than one, nor more than five years, or fined in any sum not more than one thousand dollars ($1,000), or both.

(j) Whoever for the purpose of procuring the registration of any dealer or agent under this chapter, shall knowingly make or cause to be made any false representations of a material fact to the commissioner shall be guilty of a felony and upon conviction thereof shall be imprisoned in the State prison for not less than one, nor more than five years, or fined in any sum not more than one thousand dollars ($1,000), or both.

(k) Whoever engages in this State in making of fictitious or pretended sales or purchases, or who causes the making of fictitious or pretended sales or purchases, or who engages in the offer of fictitious or pretended sales or purchases of any securities within the meaning of this chapter, the actual delivery of which securities are not to follow such sales, shall be deemed guilty of a violation of the terms of this chapter, and upon conviction thereof shall be imprisoned in the State prison for not less than one, nor more than five years, or fined in any sum not more than five thousand dollars ($5,000), or both.

(l) Whoever, without first having become registered under and pursuant to the terms of section 3924(s), shall assist or attempt to assist, by recommendation or by personal solicitation, any salesman or agent in this State in the sale or disposition of any securities required to be registered under the provisions of this chapter to any purchaser or purchasers, except in transactions exempt under section 3924(d), and who shall in consideration of such assistance or effort to assist receive compensation in any form or gratuity from such dealer or agent, or anyone upon their behalf, or who shall render such assistance or make such effort upon the promise of such dealer or agent, express or implied, that he shall receive in consideration therefor compensation in any form or a gratuity for such assistance or effort to assist, shall be deemed guilty of a violation of this chapter, and upon conviction thereof shall be imprisoned in the State prison for not less than one, nor more than five years, or fined in any sum not more than one thousand dollars ($1,000), or both.

(m) It is hereby expressly provided that the offenses herein created and the penalties herein imposed are to be deemed cumulative to the offenses and penalties heretofore created and now existing in the criminal code of this State, and that the conviction of any person for the violation of any offense created by this chapter shall not be deemed to have placed such person in jeopardy of trial and conviction for the violation of any offense heretofore created and now existing in the criminal code of this State. (1925, c. 190, s. 23; 1927, c. 149, s. 23.)

See Editor's Note under section 3924(b).

§ 3924(x). Foreign corporations to name process officer within State.—In all cases of application by a foreign corporation, partnership, association or trust company for registration of securities qualification or as a dealer in securities, such corporation, partnership, association or trust company shall name a process officer within the State of North Carolina, approved by the commissioner upon whom service of any process of any court in this State shall be of the same effect as if served upon said corporation, partnership, association or trust company. (1927, c. 149, s. 24.)

§ 3924(y). Constitutionality of chapter. — If any clause, sentence, paragraph or part of this chapter shall for any reason be adjudged by any court of competent jurisdiction to be invalid, such judgment shall not effect, impair or invalidate the remainder or said chapter, but shall be confined in its operation to the clause, sentence, paragraph or part thereof directly involved in the controversy in which said judgment shall have been rendered. (1927, c. 149, s. 25.)

§ 3924(z). Repeal of conflicting laws; when chapter effective.

(a) The act entitled "an act to provide laws governing the sale of stocks, bonds and other securities in the State of North Carolina," ratified March 9, 1925, and all laws and clauses of laws in conflict with this chapter, are hereby repealed, to take effect upon the day this chapter goes into force, subject to the limitations provided in subdivisions (b), (c) and (d):

(b) The provisions of all laws which are repealed by this chapter shall remain in force for the prosecution and punishment of any person who, before the effective date of this chapter, shall have committed any act contrary to the provisions of any law in force at the time such act was done, and such person may be prosecuted and punished under the law as it existed when such violation occurred.

(c) In the case of sales, contracts, or agreements made prior to the effective date of this chapter the civil rights and liabilities of the parties thereto shall remain as provided by the law as it existed at the time such sales, contracts or agreements were made, and all parts of laws repealed by this chapter shall remain in force for the enforcement of such rights and liabilities.

(d) All securities which shall have been admitted to record and recorded in the register of qualified securities, as provided by the said act of March 9, 1925, prior to the effective date of this chapter, shall be legally salable unless otherwise ordered by the commissioner under this chapter.

(e) No law or parts of law which were repealed by the said act of March 9, 1925, shall be deemed to be revived by the repeal of the said act of March 9, 1925; and Consolidated Statutes sections 6363 to 6375, as amended by chapters 1 and 74, Public Laws of 1920, extra session, chapter 233, Public Laws of 1921, and chapters 161 and 180, Public Laws of 1923, which were repealed by the said act of March 9, 1925, shall remain so repealed.

(f) The commission and the commissioner provided for by this chapter shall respectively succeed the commission and the commissioner heretofore acting under the law hereby repealed, and as such successors shall receive all the files, papers and property of said former commission and commissioner respectively. All proceedings pending before said former commission or commissioner under the law hereby repealed shall be continued under the provisions of this chapter by the commission and commissioner herein provided for. (1927, c. 149, s. 26.)

CHAPTER 72
SHERIFF

Art. 1. The Office

Editor's Note.—It was held in Hoke v. Henderson, 15 N. C. 1, that a public office is to be classed as private property based on a contract between the State and the officer. In cases following Hoke v. Henderson, supra, it was held that there is a contract between the sheriff and the State that he will discharge the duties of the office, and it cannot be abrogated, or impaired except by the consent of both parties. King v. Hunter, 65 N. C. 603. However, Hoke v. Henderson, supra, and all cases following it in holding a public office to be private property, were overruled by Mial v. Ellington, 134 N. C. 131, 46 S. E. 961. Therefore, a sheriff is no longer considered to have a vested right in his office, nor is his tenue considered to be based upon a contract with the State. For a full treatment of the principle, see Editor's Note under § 3200. As to quo warranto to try title to office, see § 870 and notes thereto.

§ 3926. Disqualifications for the office.—No person shall be eligible to the office of sheriff who is not of the age of twenty-one years, and has not resided in the county in which he is chosen for one year immediately preceding his election, or who is a member of the general assembly, or practicing attorney, or who heretofore has been sheriff of such county and has failed to settle with and fully pay up to every officer the taxes which were due from him. (Rev., s. 2809; Code, ss. 2067, 2068, 2069; R. C., c. 105, ss. 5, 6, 7; 1777, c. 118, ss. 2, 4; 1806, c. 699, s. 2; 1829, c. 5, s. 6; 1830, c. 25, ss. 2, 3.)

Full Settlement of Public Funds by Incumbent.—A person although elected by the qualified voters of a county, to the office of sheriff of said county, for a term of two years, beginning on the first Monday in December, after said election, was not eligible for said office, if he, having been theretofore sheriff of said county, had failed to settle with, and fully pay up to, every officer the taxes which were due to him. Lenior County v. Taylor, 190 N. C. 336, 340, 130 S. E. 25.

A former sheriff must exhibit to the board of commissioners the receipts in full of the proper officers, for all public funds which he received, or ought to have received during his preceding official term, before he will be permitted to re-enter upon a new term. Colvard v. Board, 95 N. C. 515; Lenoir County v. Taylor, 190 N. C. 336, 340, 130 S. E. 25.

Same—Produce Receipts. — The fact that he was able, ready and willing at the time of tendering his bond, to make settlement and payment of any liability on account of funds so received, does not dispense with the requirement that he shall produce receipts in full. Colvard v. Board, 95 N. C. 515.

Same—Requirement Constitutional.—The requirement that a sheriff-elect who has theretofore been sheriff, produce his tax receipts is not unconstitutional. State v. Dunn, 73 N. C. 595.

Cited in Pender County v. King, 197 N. C. 50, 54, 147 S. E. 695.

§ 3927. Sheriff may resign.—Every sheriff may vacate his office by resigning the same to the board of county commissioners of his county; and thereupon the board may proceed to elect another sheriff. (Rev., s. 2810; Code, s. 2077; R. C., c. 105, s. 15; 1777, c. 118, s. 1; 1808, c. 752.)

§ 3928. Removal for misdemeanor in office.—If any sheriff shall be convicted of a misdemeanor in office, the court may at its discretion, as a part of his punishment, remove him from office. (Rev., s. 2811; Code, s. 2071; R. C., c. 105, s. 11; R. S., c. 109, s. 11; 1829, c. 5, s. 8.)

As to removal of unfit officers generally, see sections 3208-3212.

Proceedings in Nature of Quo Warranto.—An action by the Attorney-General in the name of the people of the State, and of the person who claims the office of sheriff, is the proper mode of proceeding against the person who is alleged to be usurping it, to try the question as to which of the parties is entitled to the office. Loftin v. Sowers, 65 N. C. 251. See § 870 and the notes thereto.

§ 3929. Vacancy filled; duties performed by coroner.—If any vacancy occurs in the office of sheriff, the coroner of the county shall execute all process directed to the sheriff until the first meeting of the county commissioners next succeeding such vacancy, when the board shall elect a sheriff to supply the vacancy for the residue of the term, who shall possess the same qualifications, enter into the same bonds, and be subject to removal, as the sheriff regularly elected. If the board should fail to fill such vacancy, the coroner shall continue to discharge the duties of sheriff until it shall be filled. (Rev., s. 2811; Code, s. 2071; R. C., c. 105, s. 11; R. S., c. 109, s. 11; 1829, c. 5, s. 8.)

Cross References.—As to liability of commissioners for failure to declare vacancy and fill same when sheriff fails to fulfill statutory requirements, see section 1302 and annotations thereto; as to duty of commissioners to declare vacancy, see section 1297, subsection 12 and annotations thereto, and section 3932 and annotations thereto; as to commissioners' authority to fill vacancy, see section 1297, subsection 13 and annotations thereto.

Commissioners Appoint for Unexpired Term Only.—In case of a vacancy in the sheriff's office, it is within the power of the board of county commissioners to appoint for the unexpired term only. Worley v. Smith, 81 N. C. 304. Indeed, a different holding would be to place it within the discretion of the commissioners, once they filled a vacancy, whether in the future the voters or the Board would elect to the said office. Ed. Note.

Sheriff-elect Fails to Qualify—Commissioners Appoint.—Where a sheriff-elect failed to qualify as sheriff for the term to which he had been elected, it became the duty of the board of commissioners forthwith to elect some suitable person in the county as sheriff for the unexpired term. Lenoir County v. Taylor, 190 N. C. 336, 343, 130 S. E. 25.

It is the duty of the county commissioners, to declare the sheriff's office vacant, and appoint some one for the unexpired term, whenever the incumbent thereof is found to be, on re-election, in arrears in his settlement of the public taxes. People v. Green, 75 N. C. 329.

S was appointed sheriff in 1875, to fill a vacancy, and held the office until May, 1877; in the meantime—November, 1876—an election was held, and upon the result of certain legal proceedings in May, 1877, M was declared to be elected sheriff, who failed to give bond, and the county commissioners declared a vacancy and appointed B to fill the same; It was held, that S had no right to hold over until the next popular election, but that B was entitled to the office, being elected by the commissioners. State v. Bullock, 80 N. C. 132.

When Sheriff Becomes Insane.—Upon the prima facie ascertainment of the insanity of the sheriff, or by inquisition of lunacy, the commissioners may declare the office vacant, under this section, but their failure to do so merely authorizes the coroner to perform the duties of sheriff proper, till such declaration (Greer v. Asheville, 114 N. C. 678, 19 S. E. 635), and does not cast upon him the right to collect the taxes, which goes to the sheriff's bondsmen for the current list, and after that the duty devolves upon a tax collector chosen by the county commissioners. Somers v. Board, 123 N. C. 582, 585, 31 S. E. 873.

Upon the insanity of the sheriff his right to exercise the office ceases and the agency of his deputies is terminated and his committal to a hospital for the insane and the appointment of a guardian for him, are certainly at least prima facie evidence of such insanity. Somers v. Board, 123 N. C. 582, 584, 31 S. E. 873.

Same—Collection of Taxes.—Upon the declaration of insanity the sureties of the sheriff had no more rights than would have gone to them upon his death, i. e., to collect the tax list then in his hands. Code, Section 3687; Laws 1897, Chapter 169, Section 117; Perry v. Campbell, 63 N. C. 257; McNeill v. Somers, 96 N. C. 467, 2 S. E. 161. And the Commissioners on the first Monday in September are vested with the power of electing a tax collector for the ensuing year, unless and until the sheriff should be restored to reason. Somers v. Board, 123 N. C. 582, 584, 31 S. E. 873.

Art. 2. Sheriff's Bonds

§ 3930. Sheriff to execute three bonds.—The sheriff shall execute three several bonds, payable to the state of North Carolina, as follows:

One conditioned for the collection and settlement of state taxes according to law, a sum not exceeding the amount of the taxes assessed upon the county for state purposes in the previous year.

One conditioned for the collection and settlement of county and other local taxes according to law, a sum not exceeding the amount of such county and other local taxes for the previous year.

The third bond, for the due execution and return of process, payment of fees and moneys collected, and the faithful execution of his office as sheriff, shall be not more than five thousand dollars, in the discretion of the board of county commissioners, and shall be conditioned as follows:

The condition of the above obligation is such that, whereas the above bounden ..... is elected and appointed sheriff of ..... County; if, therefore, he shall well and truly execute and due return make of all process and precepts to him directed, and pay and satisfy all fees and sums of money by him received or levied by virtue of any process into the proper office into which the same, by the tenor thereof, ought to be paid, or to the person to whom the same shall be due, his executors, administrators, attorneys, or agents; and in all other things well and truly and faithfully execute the said office of sheriff during his continuance therein, then the above obligation to be void; otherwise to remain in full force and effect. (Rev., s. 298; Code, s. 2073; R. C., c. 105, s. 13; 1777, c. 118, s. 1; 1823, c. 1223; 1879, c. 109; 1895, c. 270, ss. 1, 2; 1899, c. 207, s. 2; 1903, c. 12; 1899, c. 54, s. 52.)

As to official bonds generally, see section 324 et seq.; as to duty of county commissioners to bring suit on the sheriff's bonds, in case of default, see section 1402 and annotations thereto.

I. GENERAL INCIDENTS OF BOND.

Three Bonds.—The sheriff shall give three bonds, such as are prescribed in the section. Colvard v. Board, 95 N. C. 515, 518.

When Sheriff Fails to Comply.—Where the sheriff had not complied with the requirements of this section, it was held that he was not entitled to have the county commissioners induct him into office. Colvard v. Board, 95 N. C. 515, 518.

And this is true notwithstanding the fact that at the beginning of his term there is a tax collector in that county. Colvard v. Board, 95 N. C. 515. As to duty of commissioners when bonds are insufficient, see section 3932.

When Section Complied with.—But when a sheriff-elect has fulfilled all the statutory requirements as to the execution of bonds, it is not competent for the county commissioners to refuse the said bonds and deprive the rightful holder of his office. Sikes v. Commissioners, 72 N. C. 34. As to the duty of the commissioners to take and approve bonds, see the next succeeding section.

Ceremony. — The ceremony of acknowledgment in open court, and registration, are not essential to the validity of a sheriff's bond. State v. Buchanan, 53 N. C. 444. This case has reference to the new abolished county courts. Since the bonds are now taken by the county commissioners, the decision would seem to be applicable to the formalities before that body. Ed. Note.

Sufficiency of Form.—A sheriff's bond to "his Excellency M. S. Captain General and Commander in Chief, in and over the State of North Carolina in the sum of $10,000, to be paid to his Excellency, the Governor, his successor and assigns:" is a bond payable to the Governor in his official capacity, and is an official bond within the Act of 1823 (Tay. Rev., ch. 1223), which was in force when it was taken. Governor v. Montford, 23 N. C. 155.

School Fund Included in County Bond.—It is immaterial whether the school fund is, strictly speaking, State taxes or county taxes, or partly both. They are included in the "county" bond and the sheriff must account for them in settling his liability on that bond. Tillery v. Candler, 118 N. C. 888, 24 S. E. 709; State v. Sutton, 120 N. C. 298, 301, 26 S. E. 920.

Process Bond Not Liable for County Taxes.—The county tax cannot be recovered of the sheriff upon the official bond required by the Act of 1777, which is the process bond required by this section. Governor v. Barr, 12 N. C. 65.

The case of Governor v. Crumpler, 12 N. C. 63, holds that the sureties on the "process" bond are not liable for default as to county taxes, which is true now, as it was then. State v. Sutton, 120 N. C. 298, 301, 26 S. E. 920.

II. LIABILITY ON OFFICIAL BONDS.

See section 354 and notes thereto.

See 12 N. C. Law Rev., 394, for note "Extent of Liability on Sheriff's Official Bond."

A. Liability Limited to Terms of Bond.

Rule of Construction.—In a bond given for a specific object, general words shall be construed with reference only to that object. Therefore, when a bond is given with a condition that A. M. shall "collect the county contingent tax, and in all things perform his duty as sheriff" the public taxes cannot be recovered on it. Crumpler v. Governor, 12 N. C. 52.

Duties Specifically Described.—A sheriff and his sureties are liable on his official bond only for a breach of some duty specifically described therein. Eaton v. Kelly, 72 N. C. 110.

The general provisions of the bond as to the sheriff's performance of the duties of his office relate to the specific obligations therein set out as to process, and neither the sheriff nor the sureties on his bond are liable in a civil action for damages for injury inflicted by the sheriff while acting in his official capacity. State v. Leonard, 68 F. (2d) 228, 229.

Not Extended as to Years.—Where an action was brought on the bonds of a sheriff, given in 1872 and 1873 and conditioned only for those years, for a default occurring in the year 1874, they could not be enlarged to embrace 1874, on the ground that the law required a bond for the principal's whole term of office. State v. McNeill, 77 N. C. 398.

Where Separate Bond Including All Official Duties Omitted.—Where the condition of a sheriff's bond is made in clear and unambiguous terms to secure the performance of a certain class of duties imposed on him by statute, the super-addition of general terms thereto, though large enough to include all of his official duties, for which by law a separate bond is directed, but omitted to be given will not extend the liability of sureties to such other duties Governor v. Matlock, 12 N. C. 214.

Same—Examples.—In Crumpler v. Governor, 12 N. C. 52, the sheriff had given four bonds, but the condition of no one of them provided for the payment of the State taxes, the non-payment of which was the breach alleged. All of them contained general words, "faithfully execute the office," etc. It was held that these words did not extend beyond the duties specially described and provided for in the preceding clause. Mr. Justice Henderson dissented from the conclusion of the court, but he concurred in this rule of construction, and states it with great clearness and force.

State v. Long, 30 N. C. 415, was an action on a bond with a condition containing general words. In that case it was held that these words did not impose on the sureties an obligation that the sheriff should commit no wrong by color of his office, nor do anything not authorized by law. See also Jones v. Montford, 20 N. C. 69; State v. Brown, 33 N. C. 141; Commissioners v. Sutton, 120 N. C. 298, 301, 26 S. E. 920.

State v. Bradshaw, 32 N. C. 229, is not in conflict with the cases generally on this subject. That case simply decides that a bond to serve process, collect and pay out moneys, etc., is broad enough to cover money collected for a town which it was the sheriff's duty to collect. See State v. McNeill, 77 N. C. 398, 403.

Trespass under Color of Office.—The sureties in the official bond of a sheriff are not liable for damages for a trespass committed by the sheriff under color of his office. State v. Brown, 33 N. C. 141, cited in note in 21 L. R. A. 738. See also, State v. Long, 30 N. C. 415.

When New Duty Attached.—Where a statute requires a bond from an officer for the faithful discharge of his duty, and a new duty is attached to the office by statute, such bond, given subsequently to the latter statute, embraces a new duty, and is a security for its performance, unless where, when the new duty is attached, a bond is required to be given specifically for its performance. State v. Bradshaw, 32 N. C. 229.

Liability for Injury Caused by Prisoner While Unlawfully at Large as Trusty.—The statutory bonds required to be given by a sheriff under this section may be put in evidence as though they had been written as prescribed by § 324, and where suit is brought on one of the bonds which provides for liability if the sheriff fail to properly execute and return all process, or properly pay all moneys received by him by virtue of any process, "and in all things well and truly and faithfully execute the said office of sheriff," the general provisions of the bond as to the sheriff's faithful performance of the duties of the office relate to the specific obligations therein set out as to service and return of process, and neither the sheriff nor the sureties on his bond is liable thereon in a civil action for damages for a negligent injury inflicted by a prisoner lawfully intrusted to the custody of the sheriff while such prisoner was unlawfully permitted by the sheriff to be at large as a trusty. Sutton v. Williams, 199 N. C. 546, 155 S. E. 160.

Change of Amount of Salary or to Fee Basis.—The liability of a surety on a sheriff's bond, given under this section is not affected by the fact that the sheriff, pending the life of the bond, has been put upon a salary instead of a fee basis, or the amount of his salary has been changed under the authority of a statute. Pender County v. King, 197 N. C. 50, 147 S. E. 695.

B. Successive Terms and Successive Bonds.

The various bonds separately required to be given by the sheriff under this section imposes a distinct liability on the sureties on each bond separately for the terms of office for which given, and where one is given by the same surety for the same sheriff for more than one successive term, the giving of the bond for the succeeding term does not discharge the bond previously given nor release the surety from liability thereon, and a separate cause of action lies against the surety on the bond for each term. Pender County v. King, 197 N. C. 50, 147 S. E. 695.

Appointment of Sheriff Removed for Failure to Give Bond.—Where under § 3932, the board of county commissioners has declared the office of sheriff of that county vacant for his failure to give the bond required by this section, and has appointed another who likewise failed to give the bonds, and has again appointed the former sheriff, who gives the necessary bonds and then qualifies, his term is by virtue of his appointment by the board of County Commissioners, and the liability of the sureties on his official banks commences from the time of his appointment. Pender County v. King, 197 N. C. 50, 147 N. E. 695.

Failure to Renew Bond.—The sureties on the bond of a sheriff are liable for all official delinquencies of which the principal may be guilty during the continuance of his term of office. Where a sheriff, elected in 1872, continued to exercise the duties of the office after his failure to renew his bond and produce his receipts, and was re-elected in 1874, and failed to collect and pay over the taxes for that year, held, that he was liable on his bond of 1872. State v. Pipkin, 77 N. C. 408. See also, State v. McNeill, 74 N. C. 535; State v. Clarke, 73 N. C. 255; State v. McIntosh, 31 N. C. 307.

Effect of Termination of Incumbency.—When the deputy of a sheriff received the note of a married woman for collection within a magistrate's jurisdiction, and failed to collect the same during the sheriff's official term, but afterwards, when acting as the deputy of his successor, collected it and failed to pay over the money, it was held that there was no breach of the former sheriff's official bond. State v. Buchanan, 60 N. C. 93.

Taxes for Preceding Year.—A sheriff's sureties for one year are not liable for any taxes received by him under the lists furnished in the preceding year; but the sureties of that year are liable. Fitts v. Hawkins, 9 N. C. 394.

Bonds Given During Term Cumulative.—See note to section 354.

C. Irregularities or Informalities in Bond.

When Valid as Voluntary Bond. — When a bond made payable to the State is given by a sheriff for the discharge of public duties, though not taken in the manner or by the persons designated by law to take it, will be good as a voluntary bond. Being for the benefit of the State, the State will be presumed to have accepted it when it was delivered to a third person for its benefit. State v. McAlpin, 26 N. C. 140. For general principle, see section 324 and notes.

Excessive Bond.—If a sheriff voluntarily give bond, with sureties, in an amount larger than is prescribed by law, they will be liable for a breach thereof. Governor v. Matlock, 9 N. C. 366; State Bank v. Twitty, 9 N. C. 5.

III. ACTION ON BONDS.

See section 353 and notes.

Demand Unnecessary.—A demand is not necessary before suit by the county treasurer on a sheriff's bond, as the sheriff is required by law to settle on or before a day certain. McGuire v. Williams, 123 N. C. 349, 31 S. E. 627.

Proper Relator for Settlement of School Taxes.—The Code of 1883, sec. 2563, made the county commissioners the proper relators in an action on the sheriff's bond to compel a settlement of the school taxes. The Acts of 1889, ch. 199, substituted the county board of education as relators (Board v. Wall, 117 N. C. 382, 23 S. E. 358), but Acts of 1895, ch. 439, abolished the county board of education and again made the county commissioners the proper relators. Tillery v. Candler, 118 N. C. 888, 24 S. E. 709; State v. Sutton, 120 N. C. 298, 301, 26 S. E. 920.

Certified Copy as Evidence.—The office of the clerk of the superior court of the county for which one is sheriff, is the proper place of deposit for the bond of such sheriff: Therefore, a copy of such bond, certified by such clerk, is competent evidence of its contents. Such a copy is competent (at least under the maxim, omnia presumuntur, etc.) even although the certificate does not state that it has been recorded. State v. Lawrance, 64 N. C. 483.

Previous Settlements Prima Facie Correct. — Previous settlements with the sheriff, when approved by the board of commissioners, are prima facie correct, and the burden of proving to the contrary rests upon them. Commissioners v. White, 123 N. C. 534, 31 S. E. 670.

Settlement of One Tax Fund at Expense of Another. — Where a sheriff's settlement of one tax fund is made partially by an amount deducted from another tax fund, the settlement exonerates him and his surety from liability on the bond for the taxes settled; he and his sureties are liable in an action on the bond for the taxes misappropriated for such defalcation. McGuire v. Williams, 123 N. C. 349, 31 S. E. 627.

Plea in Bar.—The general rule is, that where there is a plea in bar, it must be disposed of, before a reference for an account can be made. Commissioners v. White, 123 N. C. 534, 31 S. E. 670.

Summary Judgment Set Aside.—Where judgment is entered up summarily against the sureties of a sheriff, upon a proper case, it will be set aside. Crumpler v. Governor, 12 N. C. 52.

When Sum Differs from That Required.—A sheriff's bond payable to the Governor and his successors in a sum different from that directed by law, cannot be sued in the name of the successor. Governor v. Twitty, 12 N. C. 153.

Failure to Take Bail in Civil Cases.—In Governor v. Jones, 9 N. C. 359, it was held that the sheriff was not liable in debt upon his official bond for omitting to take bail when he executed a capias in civil cases; but must be proceeded against as bail by sci. fa.

Return Conclusive.—The return of a sheriff that a fi. fa. is satisfied is conclusive upon his sureties in an action on his official bond. Governor v. Twitty, 12 N. C. 153.

Failure to Have Insolvent's Allowance Made.—Where a sheriff failed to settle for taxes within the time appointed by law and not having had allowance made him by the commissioners for insolvents at the time and in the manner prescribed by law, he cannot have such allowances made by the court in an action brought against him on his official bond for the balance due by him on the tax list. Board v. Wall, 117 N. C. 377, 378, 23 S. E. 358.

Costs in Contested Election.—In Patterson v. Murray, 53

N. C. 278, it was held that a contested sheriff's election before the justices of a county court, was not an action which entitled the successful party to recover costs.

Misjoinder.—Where a sheriff has been elected for successive terms of office, and appointed for a third term by the county commissioners after the office for his third term had been declared vacant, an action against him and the sureties on his bonds given under the provisions of this section, for defalcation during the successive terms is a misjoinder of parties and causes of action, and a demurrer thereto is good. Pender County v. King, 197 N. C. 50, 147 S. E. 695.

§ 3931. County commissioners to take and approve bonds.—The board of county commissioners in every county shall take and approve the official bonds of the sheriffs, which they shall cause to be registered and the originals deposited with the clerk of the superior court for safekeeping. The bonds shall be taken on the first Monday of December next after the election of sheriffs, but no board shall permit any former sheriff to give bonds for, or reënter upon the duties of the office, until he has produced before the board the receipt in full of every such officer for taxes which he has or should have collected. (Rev., s. 2812; Code, ss. 2066, 2068; 1868, c. 20, s. 32; 1876-7, c. 276, s. 5; R. C., c. 105, s. 6; 1806, c. 699, s. 2; 1830, c. 2830, c. 25, s. 2.)

Cross References.—As to duty of commissioners to approve bonds of county officers and induct into office, see section 1297, subsection 12; as to disqualification for office of sheriff, see section 3926.

Purpose.—The evident purpose of the section is only to protect and safeguard the public revenue and to insure its honest collection and application. Hudson v. McArthur, 152 N. C. 445, 67 S. E. 995.

Execution and Approval of Bonds.—To entitle a sheriff to be inducted into office, it is essentially necessary that three several bonds must be executed by him and approved by the county commissioners. Dixon v. Commissioners, 80 N. C. 118.

Receipt for Taxes Must Be Presented.—See notes to § 3926.

Not Liable to Sureties for Failure to Demand Receipt.—The county commissioners are not liable to the sureties on the bond of a defaulting sheriff and tax collector whose defalcations they were required to pay, for a failure to demand of the sheriff his receipts in full, for the taxes collected the previous year before permitting him to receive the tax duplicate for the current year. Hudson v. McArthur, 152 N. C. 445, 67 S. E. 995.

Cited in Pender County v. King, 197 N. C. 50, 53, 147 S. E. 695.

§ 3932. Duty of commissioners when bonds insufficient.—It shall be the duty of the board of county commissioners whenever they shall be of opinion that the bonds of the sheriff of their county are insufficient, to notify the sheriff in writing to appear within ten days and give other and better sureties, or justify the sureties on his bonds; and in case such sheriff shall fail to appear on notice, or fail to give sufficient bonds, or to justify his bonds, it shall be the duty of the board to elect forthwith some suitable person in the county as sheriff for the unexpired term, who shall give proper and lawful bonds and be subject to like obligations and penalties. (Rev., s. 2813; Code, s. 2074; 1879, c. 109, s. 2.)

Right to Examine Sheriff and Vacate Office. — Under article seven, section 2 of the Constitution (1868 as revised) the county commissioners have the right to summons the sheriff to justify or renew his official bond, whenever in fact, or in their opinion the sureties have become, or are liable to become insolvent. And it is not only the right, but the duty of the commissioners, to declare the office of sheriff vacant, and appoint one for the unexpired term, whenever the incumbent thereof takes no notice of a summons by the commissioners to appear before them and justify or renew his bond. People v. Green, 75 N. C. 329.

Power to Fill Vacancy.—Upon the failure of a sheriff-elect to give bonds required by law, the board has power to elect some suitable person in the county as sheriff for the unexpired term. Lenoir County v. Taylor, 190 N. C. 336, 342, 130 S. E. 25.

Cited in Pender County v. King, 197 N. C. 50, 53, 147 S. E. 695.

§ 3933. Liability of commissioners.—If any board of county commissioners shall fail to comply in good faith with the provisions of this article, they shall be liable for all loss sustained in the collection of taxes, on motion to be made by the solicitor of the district. (Rev., s. 2814; Code, s. 2075; 1868-9, c. 245, s. 3.)

Court Cannot Compel Approval. — The boards of county commissioners are liable in damages if they knowingly accept insufficient bonds, and approval or disapproval of such bonds is within their discretion, and the courts cannot compel them to approve and receive bonds which they find to be insolvent or insufficient. State v. King, 117 N. C. 117, 23 S. E. 92.

Liable for All Loss.—If any board of commissioners shall fail to comply with the provisions of the statute, they shall be liable for all loss sustained in the collection of taxes, on motion to be made by the solicitor of the district. Lenoir County v. Taylor, 190 N. C. 336, 341, 130 S. E. 25.

When Liable for One Penalty Only.—Where the statutes require the sheriff to renew annually his official bonds, and, in addition, produce receipts for the public moneys collected by them, and in default thereof it shall be the duty of the board of county commissioners to declare the office vacant are intended to effectuate the same purpose, and therefore a member of the board of county commissioners is liable for only one penalty for failure to perform his duty in that connection. Bray v. Barnard, 109 N. C. 44, 13 S. E. 729.

§ 3934. Liability of sureties.—The sureties to a sheriff's bond shall be liable for all fines and amercements imposed on him, in the same manner as they are liable for other defaults in his official duty. (Rev., s. 2815; Code, s. 2076; R. C., c. 105, s. 14; 1829, c. 33.)

As to a general discussion of the liability of the sureties in connection with the sheriff, see annotations under section 3930.

Liable for Amercements.—The sureties to a sheriff's bond, with a condition in the ordinary form, are liable for an amercement of the sheriff for a default committed during his official year, though the final judgment for the amercement may not have been rendered until after the expiration of the year. Governor v. Montford, 23 N. C. 155.

Same—Records of Proceedings as Evidence.—The records of the proceedings against a sheriff for an amercement imposed upon him, are not evidence against his sureties to prove his default; but they are admissible against them to prove the fact of the existence of the amercement itself. Governor v. Montford, 23 N. C. 155.

Return Conclusive.—A sheriff cannot be heard to deny or contradict his return; as to him it is conclusive, and he and the sureties upon his bond are liable to the plaintiff in the execution for the sums so indorsed. Walters v. Moore, 90 N. C. 41.

Judgment or Amercement Not Conclusive.—A judgment of an amercement against a sheriff is not conclusive against the sureties on his bond. They may show that the judgment was either fraudulently or improperly obtained against their principal. State v. Woodside, 29 N. C. 296.

Art. 3. Duties of Sheriff

§ 3935. To receipt for process. — Every sheriff, coroner or constable shall, when requested, give his receipt for all original and mesne process placed in his hands for execution, to the party suing out the same, his agent or attorney; and such receipt shall be admissible as evidence of the facts therein stated, against such officer and his sureties, in any suit between the party taking the receipt and such officer and his sureties. (Rev., s. 2816; Code, s. 2081; R. C., c. 105, s. 18; 1848, c. 97.)

This section obviously has no reference to final process. Wyche v. Newsom, 87 N. C. 144, 145.

§ 3936. Execute process; penalty for false return.—Every sheriff, by himself or his lawful deputies, shall execute and make due return of all writs and other process to him legally issued and directed, within his county or upon any river, bay or creek adjoining thereto, or in any other place where he may lawfully execute the same. He shall be subject to the penalty of forfeiting one hundred dollars for each neglect, where such process shall be delivered to him twenty days before the sitting of the court to which the same is returnable, to be paid to the party aggrieved by order of court, upon motion and proof of such delivery, unless the sheriff can show sufficient cause to the court at the next succeeding term after the order.

For every false return, the sheriff shall forfeit and pay five hundred dollars, one moiety thereof to the party aggrieved and the other to him that will sue for the same, and moreover be further liable to the action of the party aggrieved, for damages.

Every sheriff and his deputies, and every constable, shall execute all writs and other process to him legally issued and directed from a justice's court and make due return thereof, under penalty of forfeiting one hundred dollars for each neglect or refusal, where such process shall be delivered to him ten days before the return day thereof, to be paid to the party aggrieved by order of such court, upon motion and proof of such delivery, unless the sheriff or constable can show sufficient cause to the court at a day within three months from the date of the entry of the judgment nisi, of which the officer shall be duly notified. (Rev., s. 2817; Code, s. 2079; 1899, c. 25; R. C., c. 105, s. 17; 1777, c. 218, s. 5; 1821, c. 1110; 1874, c. 33.)

I. GENERAL CONSIDERATIONS.

Summary of Section.—The section authorizes the following penalties and remedies: 1. An amercement nisi for $100, on "motion and proof" by the party aggrieved, for failure to "execute and make due return." 2. A qui tam action for penalty of $500 for a "false return," one moiety to the party aggrieved, and the other to any one who will sue for the same. 3. An action for damages by the party aggrieved. 4. An amercement nisi for $100 in justices' courts, on "motion and proof" by the party aggrieved, for "neglect or refusal" to execute process of such court. Piedmont Mfg. Co. v. Buxton, 105 N. C. 74, 76, 11 S. E. 264.

Who May Issue Process.—Process can be issued by the mayor of a town or city, to any lawful officer, such as a sheriff whose duty it then becomes to execute and make due return. State v. Cainan, 94 N. C. 880; Paul v. Washington, 134 N. C. 363, 385, 47 S. E. 793.

"Return" Defined. — The term "return" means that the process must be brought back and produced in the court whence it issued with such indorsement as the law requires. Watson v. Mitchell, 108 N. C. 364, 12 S. E. 836.

What Constitutes Due Return.—In Waugh v. Brittain, 49 N. C. 470, 471, it was said by Battle, J.: "We concur with his Honor in the opinion, due return of process, means a proper return, made in proper time; and such, we believe, has always been the construction put upon those words, as used in the Act of 1777, Rev. Code, ch. 105, sec. 17 [now this section.]"

A return of a sheriff to a fi. fa. that "he had made a levy on personal property and taken a forthcoming bond, but had not sold it, that the obligors did not deliver the property on the day, and that, after the day, it was too late to make a sale," is not such a "due return" of the process as will exempt the sheriff from amercement. Frost v. Rowland, 27 N. C. 385.

Where a sheriff indorsed upon an execution the words, "debt and interest due to sheriff, costs paid into office"; and upon another, the word "satisfied," without stating what disposition he had made of the fund the returns were held to be sufficient in law to relieve the sheriff from amercement for not making "due return." Person v. Newsom, 87 N. C. 142.

Nor is he required to note thereon the date of its delivery to him. (The Act of Assembly has no reference to final process.) Person v. Newsom, 87 N. C. 142.

Same—Mixed Question of Law and Fact.—Whether, in any particular case, a due return has been made, may involve questions, both of law and fact. Whether the return is a proper one in form and substance is a question of law, to be decided by the court, but whether it was made in proper time, is a question of fact, to be decided by the jury. Waugh v. Brittain, 49 N. C. 470.

Manner of Making Return—By Mail.—If, then, the mail can be used as a medium by which process can be transmitted to a sheriff, so as to charge him with its reception, it would seem that he ought to be allowed to adopt the same means for making his return, at least so far as the due time of the return is involved. In Waugh v. Brittain, 49 N. C. 470, it was intimated that he might do so, and that he would be excused if the letter, indorsing the process, with his return upon it, was properly mailed in due time. Cockerham v. Baker, 52 N. C. 288, 289; affirmed in Yeargin v. Wood, 84 N. C. 326, 329.

Fees in Advance.—Until his fees are paid or tendered, a sheriff is not bound to execute process. Johnson v. Kenneday, 70 N. C. 435.

II. NEGLECT OR FAILURE TO MAKE DUE RETURN.

A. In General.

An amercement is a penalty, and is for a fixed sum without regard to the little or much of the plaintiff's damage. Thompson v. Berry, 65 N. C. 484, 485.

Subsequent Term.—A sheriff may be amerced for a non-return of process at a term subsequent to that at which the process was returnable. Hyatte v. Allison, 48 N. C. 533.

A sheriff, failing to execute and return process, shall be subject to a penalty to be paid to the party aggrieved, by order of the court, on motion, and proof that process was delivered to him before the sitting of the court to which it was returnable, unless the sheriff shows sufficient cause to the court for his failure "at the court next succeeding such order." And there is nothing in the statute to prevent a sheriff not returning process from being amerced at a subsequent term to that to which the return should have been made. Halcombe v. Rowland, 30 N. C. 240.

Expiration of Term.—A sheriff, who goes out of office before the return day of the writ delivered to him, is not subject to amercement for failure to return it. McLin v. Hardie, 25 N. C. 407; State v. Woodside, 29 N. C. 296.

Process Must Be Delivered Twenty Days before Term.—To bring a delinquent officer within the provisions of the statute and subject him to its pains, the process must have been delivered to him twenty days before it is to be returned, and there must be "proof of such delivery." Yeargin v. Wood, 84 N. C. 326, 328.

When Returnable.—Executions shall be returnable to the term of the court next after that from which they bear teste. The sheriff is allowed all the days of the term to return an execution, unless he be ruled, upon motion and cause shown, to return it on some intermediate day. Person v. Newsom, 87 N. C. 142; Turner v Page, 111 N. C. 291, 292, 16 S. E. 174.

A sheriff who fails to make return of process before the adjournment of the court to which it is returnable, is liable to the penalty prescribed by statute. Turner v. Page, 111 N. C. 291, 16 S. E. 174; Boyd v. Teague, 111 N. C. 246, 16 S. E. 338.

Not Applicable to Federal Marshal.—In Lowry v. Story, 31 Fed. 769, 770, it was said by Dick, J.: "The motion before us is founded upon this law of the state imposing a penalty upon sheriffs who fail or neglect to execute process duly issued to and received by them. The motion cannot be allowed, as this court has no power to enforce against the marshal a penalty imposed by the law of this state upon a sheriff for neglect of duty. A federal court has no power to execute the penal laws of a state." Gwin v. Breedlove, 2 How. U. S. 29, 11 L. Ed. 167, affirmed in Gwin v. Barton, 6 How. U. S. 7, 12 L. Ed. 321.

B. What Constitutes Failure and Defenses.

1. The Essential Elements of Failure.

In General.—The delivery of the process to the officer and his failure to execute its commands and make due return are essential ingredients in the criminal dereliction of duty followed by the penal consequences thus summarily enforced. Yeargin v. Wood, 84 N. C. 326, 329.

Insufficient Return.—Under the Act of 1777 (Rev. St. c. 109, § 18), imposing a fine on a sheriff for not making due return of process placed in his hands, a return by the sheriff on a fi. fa. that he has levied on goods subject to older executions, without stating whether he had sold property seized or still held it, is not a due return, and subjects him to amercement. Buckley v. Hampton, 23 N. C. 322.

A return of a sheriff to a fi. fa. that "he had made a levy on personal property and taken a forthcoming bond, but had not sold it, that the obligors did not deliver the property on the day, and that after the day it was too late to make a sale," is not such a "due return" of the process as will exempt the sheriff from amercement. Frost v. Rowland, 27 N. C. 385.

Failure to Sell Property and Make Return.—A sheriff who had not sold property under execution nor made return on writs of venditioni exponas, should be amerced. Anonymous, 2 N. C. 415.

Agreement of Parties.—Where a scire facias was issued on a judgment, the sheriff was liable to amercement for failure to return the process, though the parties agreed, while it was in the sheriff's hands, that the collection of the money should be suspended, so as to enable them to make a full settlement. Morrow v. Allison, 33 N. C. 217.

Refusal of Clerk to Receive Return.—It is not a sufficient excuse to an officer for neglecting to return a process to the proper term of the court that he had tendered it to the clerk, who had refused to receive it, nor that the clerk had died during the term. Hamlin v. March, 31 N. C. 35.

False Impression as to When Summons Returnable No Defense.—A summons issued June 27, 1901, returnable at the July, 1901, term of the court, which recited that it was returnable on the fifth Monday before the first Monday in September, 1901, and was not returned until August 6, 1901, it was held not to constitute a defense to an action to recover the penalty prescribed by the section for the sheriff's failure to return the same within the time required, that he had the erroneous impression that the summons was returnable at a later date, and that his failure was occasioned by endeavoring to obtain service. Bell v. Wycoff, 131 N. C. 245, 42 S. E. 608.

Failure to Pay or Tender Fees.—Though a sheriff is not required to execute process until his fees are paid or tendered by the person at whose expense the service is to be rendered, he is not excused thereby for a failure to make a return of process; for, if he has any excuse for not executing the writ, he must state it in his return. Jones v. Gupon, 65 N. C. 48.

Belief That Lien Divested by Subsequent Legislation.—A sheriff is liable to be amerced for a return on a vend. exp. of "no goods," etc., after levy, although made in the belief that the lien has been divested by subsequent legislation. McKeithan v. Terry, 64 N. C. 25.

2. When Return Is Sufficient.

Sufficient—In General.—Where a sheriff indorsed on an execution the words, "Debt and interest due to sheriff; costs paid into office," it was held, that the return was sufficient in law to relieve the sheriff from amercement for not making "due return." Person v. Newsom, 87 N. C. 142.

Return within Time Prescribed by Law.—A sheriff can not be amerced if he return an execution within the time prescribed by law, though he fail to return the money levied thereon into court, or pay it to the party or his attorney. Cockerham v. Baker, 52 N. C. 288; Davis v. Lancaster, 5 N. C. 255.

Indorsing Execution "Satisfied."—Where a sheriff indorsed upon an execution merely the word "satisfied" without stating what disposition he had made of the fund, the return was sufficient in law to relieve him from an amercement for not making due return. Wyche v. Newsom, 87 N. C. 144.

Same—Return Marked "Satisfied" without Satisfaction.—In Cockerham v. Baker, 52 N. C. 288, 289, it was said by Mr. Justice Battle that "the counsel for the plaintiff contended that there was not a due return of the process as required by sec. 17, chap. 105, Rev. Code, (now this section), because, though returned 'satisfied', the money was not sent with it, nor paid into the clerk's office, nor to the plaintiff or his attorney. If this question were before the court for the first time, we should be strongly inclined to hold this objection to be fatal to the return. The writ, in its terms, demands that the sheriff shall have the money levied before the court, and it would seem a return of 'satisfied', without the 'satisfaction,' is but a mockery. But, at a very early period, a different construction was put upon the Act of 1777 (Chap. 118, sec. 6, Rev. Code of 1820), and as that act has been twice re-enacted in the same terms, we must consider that construction as settled; see Davis v. Lancaster, 5 N. C. 255; and see also 1 Rev. Stat., Chap. 109, sec. 18, and the Rev. Code, Chap. 105, sec. 17, (now this section) in both of which there is a marginal reference to that case, and according to it a sheriff can not be fined if he return the execution within the time prescribed by law, though he fail to return the money levied thereon into court, or pay it to the party or his attorney."

Where Debtor Had No Property in Excess of His Exemptions.—A sheriff is not liable to amercement for failure to have in court the amount of an execution issued on a judgment for a debt contracted prior to 1868, when the judgment debtor had no property in excess of his exemptions, as the exemption laws (Const. Art. 10, and the statutes pursuant thereto) so modify Battle's Revisal, c. 106, § 15, as not to authorize the infliction of a penalty therein imposed for disobedience to the exemption laws. Richardson v. Wicker, 80 N. C. 172.

C. Actions Concerning Amercements.

Jurisdiction of Superior Court.—Where the sheriff has laid himself liable to the penalty for failure to make due return of process, the superior court has jurisdiction to give the judgment nisi on motion. Thompson v. Berry, 64 N. C. 79, 80.

Time of Trial.—Plaintiff is entitled to a trial the first term on a scire facias, on an amercement against the sheriff. Hogg v. Bloodworth, 1 N. C. 593.

Necessity of Trying Issues of Torts on Affidavits.—On a scire facias against a sheriff to amerce him for not returning an execution into the Supreme Court, whence it issued, issues of fact must be tried on affidavits, as the court has no power to call a jury. Kea v. Melvin, 48 N. C. 243.

Remedy by Rule.—When a prima facie case is made against a sheriff, either upon affidavit or other sufficient proof, a rule nisi is granted as of course, and surplusage in the affidavit will not impair its effect. Ex parte Schenck, 63 N. C. 601.

Process Mailed Sufficient for Amercement Nisi.—The proof is sufficient for an amercement nisi under former rulings, where it is shown that the process is an envelope properly directed and with postage prepaid has been deposited in the postoffice in time to enable it to reach its destination in the due course of the mail twenty days before the session of the court to which it is returnable. State v. Latham, 51 N. C. 233; Yeargin v. Wood, 84 N. C. 326, 328.

Where in such case the summons sent by mail did not reach such officer until six days before the sitting of the court to which it was returnable, and he served it in two days thereafter he is not liable to amercement. Yeargin v. Wood, 84 N. C. 326.

Same—To Sheriff in Another County.—It has frequently been decided by the Supreme Court, after argument and full consideration, that if it be made to appear that a clerk has sent a writ to the sheriff of another county, enclosed in a stamped envelope, in due time to reach him in the regular course of the mails, twenty days before the sitting of the court to which it is returnable, it is sufficient to authorize a judgment nisi for an amercement for the non-return of the process. State v. Latham, 51 N. C. 233; Cockerham v. Baker, 52 N. C. 288, 289.

Presumption Subject to Rebuttal.—And the officer is allowed to rebut the presumption of its having been received and to discharge himself, as upon a motion for a rule against him, by making an affidavit that the writ did not come to his hands. Yeargin v. Wood, 84 N. C. 326, 329.

Judgment Nisi Made Absolute.—Where judgment nisi for $100 is rendered against a sheriff for failure to make due return of process, and no sufficient reason is shown for the failure, the judgment should be made absolute. Graham & Co. v. Sturgill, 123 N. C. 384, 31 S. E. 705.

Judgment Absolute Set Aside.—In a proceeding to enforce the statutory penalty against a sheriff for failure to make due return of process, it is not error to set aside a judgment absolute where it appeared that he had no notice of the rule upon him to show cause. Yeargin v. Wood, 84 N. C. 326.

Method of Recovering Penalty Exclusive.—The method by which a sheriff may be amerced for unlawfully failing to execute a warrant it was his duty to serve, as prescribed by this section, is alone to be followed in an action for penalty brought thereunder. Walker v. Odon, 185, N. C. 557, 118 S. E. 2. And a civil action cannot be resorted to. Piedmont Mfg. Co. v. Buxton, 105 N. C. 74, 76, 11 S. E. 264.

Same—Nature and Form.—The statute provides only for an amercement, on motion, for the failure of a sheriff to make "due and proper" return of process. Piedmont Mfg. Co. v. Buxton, 105 N. C. 74, 11 S. E. 264. See also, Harrell v. Warren, 100 N. C. 259, 6 S. E. 777.

Penalty Gives Way to Exemption Laws.—The provisions of the exemption laws (Constitution, Art. X, and the statutes passed in persuance thereof) so modify ch. 106, sec 15, Bat. Rev., now this section, as not to authorize the infliction of the penalty therein imposed for obedience to said exemption laws. Richardson v. Wicker, 80 N. C. 172.

Courts Cannot Relieve.—The courts have no dispensing power to relieve from the penalty prescribed by law. Swain v. Phelps, 125 N. C. 43, 34 S. E. 110.

III. FALSE RETURN.

Penalty Enforced in Civil Action.—The action for $500 penalty for "false return," is properly sought to be maintained by civil action. Piedmont Mfg. Co. v. Buxton, 105 N. C. 74, 76, 11 S. E. 264.

Power of Court to Allow Return to Be Amended.—In an action against a sheriff, for the penalty of $500 for a false return, as provided in this section. After the action was begun, the defendant, on affidavits, moved the court to be allowed to amend his return so as to speak the truth. The motion was allowed, and upon appeal the Supreme Court held that the power of the superior court judge to allow amendments in process, etc., is broad, both by statute and the inherent power of the court and the ruling of the lower court was affirmed. Swain v. Burden, 124 N. C. 16, 32 S. E. 319, 320.

Where a sheriff to whom a summons issued, returned it "served," and was sued for the $500 penalty for false return provided for by this section. The court permitted him, for proper reasons set out in his affidavit, to amend this return and the power of the court below to allow the amendment was sustained on appeal. Swain v. Burden, 124 N. C. 16, 32 S. E. 319; Swain v. Phelps, 125 N. C. 43, 34 S. E. 110.

When, in an action against a sheriff for a false return, the court permits such return to be amended, the plaintiff should note his exception, and, unless the amended return is admitted to be true, proceed to try the issue. An appeal before final judgment on such admission, or a verdict, is premature and will be dismissed. Piedmont Mfg. Co. v. Buxton, 105 N. C. 74, 11 S. E. 264.

Plaintiff Need Not Name Other Party.—Any person may sue for the penalty imposed upon sheriffs by the section for a false return, and he need not mention in his complaint the other party, to whom the statute gives one-half of the recovery. Harrell v. Warren, 100 N. C. 259, 6 S. E. 777. See also Martin v. Martin, 50 N. C. 346; Peebles v. Newsom, 74 N. C. 473.

Restricted to Civil Process.—The penalty of $500 imposed for a false return by the section is restricted to sheriffs, and false returns by them made to civil process. Harrell v. Warren, 100 N. C. 259, 6 S. E. 777. See also Martin v. Martin, 50 N. C. 346.

Element Essential to Liability.—In order to render a sheriff liable for a false return, under the section, falsehood must be found in the statement of facts in the return. Harrell v. Warren, 100 N. C. 259, 6 S. E. 777.

Mistake.—A return made by a sheriff, that is false in fact, although the officer was mistaken in the matter as to which he made his return will, nevertheless, subject him to the penalty for a false return. Albright v. Tapscott, 53 N. C. 473.

If a return be false in fact, inadvertence or mistake is no excuse or protection to the officer, although no intentional deceit was practiced. Harrell v. Warren, 100 N. C. 259, 6 S. E. 777.

In an action of debt for the penalty for false return, in which nil debit is pleaded, a verdict finding all issues in favor of the plaintiff and assessing his damages to $500, will not sustain a judgment of recovery. Albright v. Tapscott, 53 N. C. 473.

Illustrations.—In an action for the penalty imposed for a false return the complaint stated, in substance, that an execution was placed in the sheriff's hands and by him levied on the goods of the defendant therein named, which goods the sheriff kept locked up for several days; that defendant in the execution, at the time of the levy, demanded that his exemptions be allotted to him; that defendant paid the sheriff $2.50 in part of the execution, while his goods were held under the levy; that after keepng said goods several days, and receiving the said $2.50, the sheriff returned said execution, "Levy made; fees demanded for laying off exemptions and not paid; no further action taken;" that said return was false, in that it did not state that he had collected said $2.50 on the execution. Upon such a state of facts the failure to mention the payment of $2.50 in his return made the return defective, but such an omission does not render the sheriff liable to the penalty imposed for a false return. Harrell v. Warren, 100 N. C. 259, 6 S. E. 777.

Where a sheriff returns upon a fi. fa., two credits for money received, thereon at different times, and, suppressing a third credit, returns not satisfied, it was held that such return was false, and subjected him to the penalty of $500, under Rev. Code, ch. 105, sec. 17, now this section. Martin v. Martin, 50 N. C. 346.

Same—Return "Too Late to Hand."—Where a sheriff indorsed truly the day on which he received a declaration in ejectment, returnable to a county court, and returned on the same "too late to hand," although five days intervened between the day indorsed, and the return day, it was held that he was not liable under 17th Section, 105th Chap., of Rev. Code, now this section, to the penalty for making a false return. Hassel v. Latham, 52 N. C. 465.

Same—Return "Not Found."—The return of "Not to be found" on a capias is not true, because of the defendant s being out of the state at the time the return is made, if the officer had an opportunity of making the arrest previously, while the process was in his hands. Martin v. Martin, 50 N. C. 349. See also, Tomlinson v. Long, 53 N. C. 469; Harrell v. Warren, 100 N. C. 259, 6 S. E. 777.

A deputy sheriff having an order of arrest to be executed, went to the house of the person named therein, and, after reading to him the summons in the action, told him that he had an order of arrest for him. After some talk, the deputy left the bond with him, on his promise to call next day and fix the matter up. It was held, that as the deputy did not have, or attempt to have within his control in any way the party named in the order, there was no arrest, and a return of the order "Not served" did not render the officer liable for a false return. State v. Buxton, 102 N. C. 129, 8 S. E. 774.

Same—Arrest.—Where a sheriff, having in hand an order of arrest against B., told B. that he "had better come and go with him to Jackson, and fix the matter there;" B. refused to go with him, and the sheriff left, without taking any further action, it was held that what passed did not constitute an arrest of B., and the sheriff was not liable for a false return, in that he returned on the order of arrest, "not served." State v. Buxton, 102 N. C. 129, 8 S. E. 774.

Statute of Limitations.—When an amercement was imposed upon a sheriff for a false return made more than six years previous, an action upon his official bond to recover the penalty was barred by the statute of limitations. State v. Barefoot, 104 N. C. 224, 10 S. E. 170.

IV. WRITS FROM JUSTICE'S COURT.

No Power to Amerce Sheriff of Another County.—Under the Act of 1874-'75, ch. 33, now this section, a justice of the peace has no power to amerce the sheriff of a county other than that in which he holds his court, for failure to make due return to process issued by such justice. He can only amerce the sheriff of his county when he fails to perform the duties imposed by that act. Boggs v. Davis, 82 N. C. 27.

Action for Failure of Sheriff to Serve Warrant. — The court may not regard an independent action as a motion in the original cause when the latter is not before it; and where the sheriff is liable for the penalty prescribed by this section, for failure to serve a warrant in an action before a justice of the peace, and the plaintiff brings an independent action for the recovery of the penalty before another justice, from whose judgment the defendant has appealed, and a trial de novo had in the superior court, it is error for the trial judge to regard the summons and complaint in the independent action as a motion in the cause under this section, and proceed with the trial accordingly. Walker v. Odom, 185 N. C. 557, 118 S. E. 2.

When Constable Not Liable for Refusal to Serve.—A constable does not subject himself to the penalty of $100 by declining to receive process which, at the time it was tendered, he could not have executed ex. gr. process against a person then attending under subpoena before a commissioner. Fentress v. Brown, 61 N. C. 373.

Where Sheriff a Party.—An execution directed to a sheriff, who is a party, is null and void, and the sheriff can not be amerced for neglecting or refusing to make a return thereon. Bowen v. Jones, 35 N. C. 25.

§ 3937. Sufficient notice in case of amercement.—In all cases where any sheriff or other officer shall be amerced for failure to make due return of any execution or other process placed in his hands, or for any default whatsoever in office, and judgment nisi or otherwise for the penalty or forfeiture in such case made and provided shall be entered, it shall be sufficient to give such sheriff notice, according to law, under the hand of the clerk and seal of the court where such judgment may be entered, of a motion for a judgment absolute, or for execution, as the case may be; and no other notice, summons or suit shall be necessary to enforce the same; and such proceedings shall be deemed and held in aid of a suit or other proceedings already instituted in court. (Rev., s. 2818; Code, s. 446; 1871-2, c. 74, s. 4.)

Amercement, and not a civil action, is the remedy given against a sheriff for not making "due and proper" return of process. Piedmont Mfg. Co. v. Buxton, 105 N. C. 74, 11 S. E. 264.

When Rule Nisi Granted.—Where a prim facie case is made, either upon affidavit or other sufficient proof a rule nisi is granted as of course. Ex-parte Schenick, 63 N. C. 601.

Immaterial Evidence.—On the trial of an action for the penalty, when the defendant sheriff offered to introduce in evidence the true returns of the proceeds of sale indorsed upon certain other executions, the evidence was immaterial and properly excluded. Finley v. Hayes, 81 N. C. 368.

Jurisdiction in Court to Which Process Returnable.—An action against a sheriff of a county other than that from which the process issued, for making a false return, is properly brought in the courts of the county to which that process was returnable. Watson v. Mitchell, 108 N. C. 364, 12 S. E. 836.

Amerced at Subsequent Term.—A sheriff may be amerced at a subsequent term to that at which the process was returnable, for not having made his return at a previous term. Hyatte v. Allison, 48 N. C. 533.

Return Prima Facie Correct.—The return or certificate of a ministerial officer, as to what he has done out of court, is only to be taken as prima facie true, and is not conclusive; it may be contradicted by any evidence and show to be false, antedated, etc. Smith v. Low, 27 N. C. 197.

Non-Payment of Fees Do Not Excuse Return.—A sheriff is not required to execute process until his fees are paid or tendered by the person at whose instance the service is to be rendered; but this does not excuse him for a failure to make a return of the process. Jones v. Gupton, 65 N. C. 48.

Section 600.—On motion to set aside a judgment against defendant sheriff for an alleged failure to make due return of process, the facts of the instant case entitled him to relief under section 600. Francks v. Sutton, 86 N. C. 78.

Duties under C. C. P. and Old System. — The duties and liabilities of a sheriff in relation to the execution of process are nearly the same under the C. C. P. as under the old system but the mode of procedure for enforcing a judgment nisi against him is changed from a scire facias to a civil action, and the summons must be in the same court as the judgment, and must be returned to the regular term thereof. Jones v. Gupton, 65 N. C. 48.

§ 3938. Execute summons, order or judgment.—Whenever the sheriff may be required to serve or execute any summons, order or judgment, or to do any other act, he shall be bound to do so in like manner as upon process issued to him, and shall be equally liable in all respects for neglect of duty; and if the sheriff be a party, the coroner shall be bound to perform the service, as he is now bound to execute process where the sheriff is a party; and this chapter relating to sheriffs shall apply to coroners when the sheriff is a party. Sheriffs and coroners may return process by mail. Their liabilities in respect to the execution of process shall be as prescribed by law. (Rev., s. 2819; Code, s. 598; C. C. P., s. 354.)

Execution from Justice's Court.—Execution from a justice's court must be directed to "any constable or other lawful officer of the county," and if it comes into the hands of the sheriff, he must obey it. McGloughan v. Mitchell, 126 N. C. 681, 36 S. E. 164.

When Addressed to Constable.—A constable can not serve process addressed to the sheriff, nor can a sheriff serve process addressed to a constable. McGlouchan v. Mitchell, 126 N. C. 681, 36 S. E. 164.

When Want of Jurisdiction Not Apparent.—It is well settled, that if a court issuing process has general jurisdiction to issue such process, and the want of jurisdiction does not appear upon the face of the paper, a sheriff and his assistants may justify under it. State v. Ferguson, 67 N. C. 219.

When Coroner Acts.—In an action wherein the sheriff is a party defendant it is proper that a summons issued against a codefendant should be addressed to and served by the coroner. Battle v. Baird, 118 N. C. 854, 24 S. E. 668.

The county commissioner, may declare the office vacant, upon the insanity of the sheriff, but their failure to do so merely authorizes the coroner to perform the duties of sheriff proper, but does not cast upon him the right to collect taxes. Somers v. Board, 123 N. C. 583, 31 S. E. 873.

§ 3939. Liability of outgoing sheriff for unexecuted process.—Any sheriff who shall have received a precept, and shall go out of office before the return day thereof, without having executed the same, shall forfeit and pay to the party at whose instance it was issued the sum of one hundred dollars, if such precept shall have remained in his hands for such length of time wherein it might have been well executed by him; unless the same shall have been thereafter executed by the successor of such sheriff and returned at the day and place commanded therein; or unless it shall have been delivered over to the succeeding sheriff time enough to have allowed of its being executed by him; and the penalty aforesaid shall be recoverable by notice against such outgoing sheriff and his sureties. (Rev., s. 2820; Code, s. 2088; R. C., c. 105, s. 25.)

Delivery to Successor.—It is the duty of the sheriff, going out of office, to deliver, all the processes remaining in his hands, to his successors. State v. Woodside, 29 N. C. 296.

When Not to Make Return.—A sheriff, to whom a writ has been delivered, but who goes out of office before the return day of the writ, has no power to make the return on it, and therefore is not liable to amercement for not doing so. State v. Woodside, 29 N. C. 296.

§ 3940. Payment of money collected on execution.—In all cases where a sheriff has collected money upon an execution placed in his hands, if there be no bona fide contest over the application thereof, he shall immediately pay the same to the plaintiff, or into the office of the clerk of the court from which the execution issued, and upon his failure to make such payment upon demand, he shall be liable to a penalty of one hundred dollars, to be collected as other penalties. (Rev., s. 2821; Code, s. 2080.)

The auditing of account of sheriff by county commissioners is prima facie evidence of its correctness, and it is impeachable only for fraud or special error. Williamson v. Jones, 127 N. C. 178, 37 S. E. 202; Commissioners v. Kenan, 127 N. C. 181, 73 S. E. 997.

§ 3941. Deposit county tax money with treasurer.—Every sheriff shall deposit the county and other local taxes, by him collected, with the county treasurer, if there be a county treasurer, as often as he shall collect or have in his possession at any one time of such county or local taxes a sum equal to five hundred dollars. (Rev., s. 298; Code, s. 2073.)

§ 3942. Publish list of delinquent taxpayers.—Whenever any sheriff or tax collector shall be credited on settlement with any tax or taxes by him returned as insolvent, dead or removed, he shall forthwith make publication at the courthouse door, and at least one public place in each and every township in his county, of a complete list of the names of such insolvent, dead or removed delinquents, with the amount of the tax due from each, and the sum total so credited. Such list, by order of the board of commissioners, may also be published in any newspaper printed in the county; in which case, the expense of the advertisement, for such time as may be directed, shall be paid by the county. Any sheriff or tax collector failing to comply with the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined not less than ten nor more than one hundred dollars. (Rev., ss. 2826, 3587; Code, s. 2092; 1876-7, c. 78, ss. 1, 2, 3.)

§ 3943. Liability for escape under civil process.—When any sheriff shall take or receive and have in keeping the body of any debtor in execution, or upon attachment, for not performing a judgment for the payment of any sum of money, and shall willfully or negligently suffer such debtor to escape, the person suing out such execution or attachment, his executors or administrators, shall have and maintain an action for the debt against such sheriff and the sureties on his official bond, and in case of his death, against his executors or administrators, for the recovery of all such sums of money as are mentioned in the execution or attachment, and damages for detaining the same. (Rev., s. 2823; Code, s. 2083; R. C., c. 105, s. 20; 13 Edw. I, c. 11; 1777, c. 118, ss. 10, 11.)

I. General Considerations.
II. Liability of Sheriff.
III. Actions.

I. GENERAL CONSIDERATIONS.

Escape Defined.—An escape is defined to be when one who is arrested gains his liberty before he is delivered in due course of law. State v. Ritchie, 107 N. C. 857, 12 S. E. 251.

An escape has been effected, in the criminal sense of the law, in the language of an eminent author in a work on criminal law, "when one who is arrested, gains his liberty before he is delivered in due course of law." 1 Russell on Crimes, 467. It is defined in brief words by another writer as "the departure of a prisoner from custody." 2 Whar. Cr. Law, § 2606; State v. Johnson, 94 N. C. 924, 926.

It is not an escape in a sheriff to permit a debtor committed under a ca. sa. to remain in prison with the door of the prison open, unless such debtor passes out of the prison. Currie v. Worthy, 47 N. C. 104.

Release before Commitment.—If the sheriff arrests a person on mense process and, before commitment to prison, allows him to go at large, this is not an escape, but the sheriff is liable as special bail. State v. Falls, 63 N. C. 188, 189.

Two Kinds of Escape.—There are only two kinds of escape known to our law, of a prisoner confined for debt: one voluntary and the other negligent, except where the prisoner has escaped by the act of God or of the enemies of our country. Adams v. Turrentine, 30 N. C. 147.

Same—Difference in Liability.—The only difference as to the liability of the officer between the two kinds of escape is that in the case of voluntary escape he is liable absolutely; in the case of negligent escape he has a right to retake the prisoner, and, if he does retake him upon fresh pursuit, he is not liable to an action of debt brought after such recapture, and when he has the prisoner in custody. Adams v. Turrentine, 30 N. C. 147.

Negligent Escape.—The meaning of the term "negligent escape" in our statute is the same that was given to that term at the common law. Adams v. Turrentine, 30 N. C. 147.

At Common Law and under Statutes.—At common law a sheriff who had a person in actual custody under legal authority and suffered him to go at large was guilty of an escape; and in civil cases the only remedy for the injured was an action on the case. Various statutes have increased the remedies of the party injured, and changed in some respects the liability of the sheriff. State v. Falls, 63 N. C. 188, 189.

Not Dependent upon Section 3936.—It would seem that this section is in no wise dependent upon section 3936. In the case of Richardson v. Wicker, 80 N. C. 172, the court says: "The imposition of a penalty for a want of official diligence is a matter of State regulation, and it would be no impairment of the plaintiff's right to collect his debt if the Legislature should repeal the amercement law altogether." Washington Toll Bridge Co. v. Commissioners, 81 N. C. 491, 507.

Recapture as Defense.—Where a prisoner confined for debt escapes, the officer, in an action against him for the escape can only excuse himself by showing that he has not only made fresh pursuit, but also that he has actually recaptured the prisoner before suit brought. Without this, fresh pursuit will not excuse the officer, even though the prisoner die before the officer has it in his power, by due diligence, to recapture him. Whicker v. Roberts, 32 N. C. 485.

Same—Made on General Issue.—In this State the defense of fresh pursuit and recapture need not be by plea, but may be made on the general issue. Whicker v. Roberts, 32 N. C. 485.

II. LIABILITY OF SHERIFF.

General Rule as to Liability.—In all cases of escape after a debtor is committed to jail, the sheriff is liable, however innocent he may be, unless the escape has been occasioned by the act of God or the public enemies. Rainey v. Dunning, 6 N. C. 386.

Escape of Insolvent Surrendered in Open Court.—To render a sheriff liable for the escape of an insolvent, surrendered in open court, it is necessary to show that such insolvent was committed to the sheriff's custody by an order of the court. A mere prayer to that effect will not be sufficient. State v. McKee, 47 N. C. 379.

Release on Bond to Appear and Take Insolvent's Oath.—Where a defendant has been arrested upon mesne process and gives bail, and, after judgment, the bail surrenders him to the sheriff, out of term-time, no execution having been issued on the judgment nor any committitur prayed by the plaintiff, if the sheriff releases him upon a bond to appear at court and take the benefit of the insolvent law, the sheriff is liable for an escape. State v. Ellison, 31 N. C. 261.

When Directed Not to Serve Ca. Sa. on One of Two Defendants.—When a judgment is obtained against two or more, and no bail bond has been taken from either of the defendants in the suit, and the sheriff, who has thus become bail for all, after the rendition of the judgment and the issuing of the ca. sa., is directed by the plaintiff not to serve the ca. sa. on one of the defendants, and is still liable, as bail, for not surrendering the other defendant. Jackson v. Hampton, 32 N. C. 579.

When Prisoner Committed on Mesne Process.—A sheriff is not liable as special bail, after he has committed a defendant on mesne process, though such defendant be permitted by him to go at large. Buffalow v. Hussey, 44 N. C. 237.

A sheriff having permitted one arrested by him upon mesne process in a civil action, to go into an adjoining room, from which he escaped, was guilty of an escape. Winborne & Bro. v. Mitchell, 111 N. C. 13, 15 S. E. 882.

Prisoner Discharged as Insolvent.—Where a scire facies was issued against a sheriff to charge him as special bail for a person sued at the instance of the plaintiff, and who had been, for want of bail, committed to jail in the sheriff's county, and afterwards discharged as an insolvent by two magistrates, it was held that the sheriff was not liable as special bail. Buffalow v. Hussey, 44 N. C. 237.

Return Sufficient to Charge Sheriff.—The words "executed P. R. T., D. Sheriff," indorsed on a capias, which, duly issued, and came to the hands of the sheriff, are so much a due and legal return, as to make the sheriff liable as special bail, on the failure of him or his deputy, to take a bail bond. Washington v. Vinson, 49 N. C. 380.

When Sheriff Fails to Take Bail.—The sheriff is said to fail to take bail when the paper returned by him as a bail bond is so defective and imperfect as to be adjudged not to be such. Adams v. Jones, 60 N. C. 198.

Same—Exceptions and Notice.—If the sheriff fails to take bail, the plaintiff need not file exceptions nor give notice to fix him as bail. Adams v. Jones, 60 N. C. 198.

Failure to Handcuff as Negligence per se.—A sheriff's liability for permitting an escape depends on the circumstances of the particular case, and failure to handcuff does not constitute negligence per se. State v. Hunter, 94 N. C. 829, 830.

May Become Special Bail.—If the person, after arrest, get at large by the negligence of the sheriff and against his will, he may by his return elect to become special bail. State v. Falls, 63 N. C. 188, 189.

III. ACTIONS.

Negligent Escape When No Actual Negligence.—An action of debt will lie against a sheriff under our statute for a negligent escape of a prisoner confined for debt, even though there was no actual negligence. Adams v. Turrentine, 30 N. C. 147.

Damages Loss Really Sustained.—In an action of debt on a sheriff's bond for the escape of a debtor imprisoned under a ca. sa., the jury are not bound to give the whole sum due from such debtor, but should give the damages really sustained by the escape. State v. Eure, 53 N. C. 320, in which the case of Governor v. Matlock, 8 N. C. 425, is cited and approved.

Objection as to County by Plea in Abatement.—In an action for an escape, if the defendant wishes to except, upon the ground of its being a penal action, that it is brought in the wrong county, he must make the objection by plea in abatement. Whicker v. Roberts, 32 N. C. 485.

When Creditor Will Not Charge Party in Execution.—After surrender, if the creditor, upon reasonable notice, will not charge the party in execution, either a habeas corpus or a supersedeas would be issued by the court. State v. Ellison, 31 N. C. 261.

§ 3944. Custody of jail.—The sheriff shall have the care and custody of the jail in his county; and shall be, or appoint, the keeper thereof. (Rev., s. 2824; Code, s. 2085; R. C., c. 105, s. 22.)

Jailer Bound Only to Sheriff.—Where a sheriff arrested a man on a ca. sa. and committed him to jail, in custody of the jailer, and the prisoner escaped, it was held that without a bond of indemnity, the jailer was only bound to the sheriff for want of fidelity or due care in the discharge of his duty. Turrentine v. Faucett, 33 N. C. 652.

Sheriff May Take Jailer's Bond.—A sheriff has a right to take a bond from the jailer to idemnify him for all losses to which he may be subjected by the escape of a prisoner while in custody of the jailer. Turrentine v. Faucett, 33 N. C. 652.

Cited in Sutton v. Williams, 199 N. C. 546, 155 S. E. 160.

§ 3945. Prevent entering jail for lynching; county liable.—When the sheriff of any county has good reason to believe that the jail of his county is in danger of being broken or entered for the purpose of killing or injuring a prisoner placed by the law in his custody, it shall be his duty at once to call on the commissioners of the county, or some one of them, for a sufficient guard for the jail, and in such case, if the commissioner or commissioners fail to authorize the employment of necessary guards to protect the jail, and by reason of such failure the jail is entered and a prisoner killed, the county wherein whose jail the prisoner is confined shall be responsible in damages, to be recovered by the personal representatives of the prisoner thus killed, by action begun and prosecuted before the superior court of any county in this state. (Rev., s. 2825; 1893, c. 461, s. 7.)

§ 3946. Not to farm office.—No sheriff shall let to farm in any manner, his county, or any part of it, under pain of forfeiting five hundred dollars, one-half to the use of the county and the other half to the person suing for the same. (Rev., s. 2828; Code, s. 2084; R. C., c. 105, s. 21; 23 Hen. VI, c. 10.)

A sheriff may employ a deputy to assist him, but he can not delegate his authority to another. Cansler v. Penland, 125 N. C. 578, 34 S. E. 683.

Letting to Farm.—The section prohibits a sheriff from letting to farm, in any manner, his county, or any part of it. Cansler v. Penland, 125 N. C. 578, 34 S. E. 683.

Cannot Be Subject of Bargain and Sale.—The public has an interest in the proper performance of their duties by public officers, and would be prejudiced by agreements tending to impair an officer's efficiency or in any way interfere with or disturb the due execution of the duties of the office. The office of sheriff and tax collector is one of public confidence and fidelity to a public trust, and can not be a matter of bargain and sale. It requires good faith and duty. Cansler v. Penland, 125 N. C. 578, 579, 34 S. E. 683.

Traffic in public offices is against good morals and contrary to public policy. Basket v. Moss, 115 N. C. 448, 20 S. E. 733.

To Secure Appointment, or Expenses for Attempting.—Not only an agreement by A to pay to B, a public officer, an amount equal to the emoluments of the unexpired term of his office in consideration of his resignation and his influence to secure the appointment of A to the office is void, but likewise an agreement to compensate any one for or to pay the expenses of any one in attempting to secure the appointment. Basket v. Moss, 115 N. C. 448, 20 S. E. 733.

§ 3947. Obligation taken by sheriff, payable to himself.—The sheriff or his deputy shall take no obligation of or from any person in his custody for or concerning any matter or thing relating to his office otherwise payable than to himself as sheriff and dischargeable upon the prisoner's appearance and rendering himself at the day and place required in the writ (whereupon he was or shall be taken or arrested), and his sureties discharging themselves therefrom as special bail of such prisoner or such person keeping within the limits and rules of any prison; and every other obligation taken by any sheriff in any other manner or form, by color of his office, shall be void, except in any special case and other obligation shall be, by law, particularly and expressly directed; and no sheriff shall demand, exact, take or receive any greater fee or reward whatsoever, nor shall have any allowance, reward or satisfaction from the public, for any service by him done, other than such sum as the court shall allow for ex officio services and the allowance given and provided by law. (Rev., s. 2829; Code, s. 2082; R. C., c. 105, s. 19; 1777, c. 118, s. 8.)

STATUTORY CONSTRUCTION

§ 3947(a). No public-local or private act may amend or repeal public law unless latter is referred to in caption.—No act, which by its caption purports to be a public-local or private act, shall have the force and effect to repeal, alter or change the provisions of any Public Law, not directly referred to in the subject matter set out in the caption of the said public-local or private act, unless the caption of said public-local or private act shall make specific reference to the Public Law it attempts to repeal, alter or change. (1929, c. 200, s. 1.)

§ 3948. Repeal of statute not to affect actions.—The repeal of a statute shall not affect any action brought before the repeal, for any forfeitures incurred, or for the recovery of any rights accruing under such statute. (Rev., s. 2830; Code, s. 3764; R. C., c. 108, s. 1; 1830, c. 4; 1879, c. 163; 1881, c. 48.)

Section Not Obligatory.—As the laws of our Legislature do not bind another, except in so far as they may be absolute contracts, this section must be taken as merely a rule of construction having no application where the intention of the Legislature clearly and explicitly appears to the contrary. Dyer v. Ellington, 126 N. C. 941, 945, 36 S. E. 177.

Repeal after Services Rendered.—Where a statute was in force when certain services were rendered, it was held that the plaintiff's right had become absolute, and no subsequent repeal could invalidate it. Copple v. Commissioners, 138 N. C. 127, 134, 50 S. E. 574.

Action Commenced before Repeal.—By express terms of the section, the repeal of a statute does not affect an action theretofore commenced under it. Smith v. Morganton Ice Company, 159 N. C. 151, 74 S. E. 961.

Same—For Penalty or Forfeiture.—Under the provisions of the section a suit for a forfeiture or penalty is not discontinued by a repeal of the statute giving the penalty. State v. Williams, 97 N. C. 455, 2 S. E. 55; Grocery Co. v. Southern R. Co., 136 N. C. 396, 48 S. E. 801; Epps v. Smith, 121 N. C. 157, 28 S. E. 359.

Subject Matter Destroyed by Statute Pending Appeal.—Where, pending an appeal, the subject matter of the action is destroyed or a statute giving the cause of action is repealed, the Supreme Court will not go into consideration of the abstract question as to which party ought to have prevailed, in order to adjudicate the costs but the judgment below as to costs will be allowed to stand. Wikel v. Board, 120 N. C. 451, 27 S. E. 117; Brinson v. Duplin County, 173 N. C. 137, 91 S. E. 708.

A vested right of action is property in the same sense in which tangible things are property, and is equally protected against interferences. Where it springs from contract, or from the principles of the common law, it is not competent for the Legislature to take it away. Cooley's Constitutional Limitations, p. 517; Black's Const. Law, p. 432; Williams v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 153 N. C. 360, 363, 69 S. E. 402. This case contains an excellent discussion which will be of aid in determining when a right is vested.—Ed. Note.

Right of Informer.—An informer has, in a certain sense, an inchoate right when he brings his suit, but he has no vested right to the penalty until judgment. Hence, until his right becomes vested, it can be destroyed by the Legislature. Dyer v. Ellington, 126 N. C. 941, 36 S. E. 177.

Action to Recover Arrearages of Taxes.—An action pending to recover arrearages of taxes, brought under an act authorizing the collection of unpaid taxes for past years, is not affected by the repeal of such statute. Wilmington v. Cronly, 122 N. C. 388, 30 S. E. 9.

Changing Rules of Evidence.—An act of the Legislature changing the rules of evidence can not be construed as operating retrospectively so as to affect existing rights. Lowe v. Harris, 112 N. C. 472, 17 S. E. 539.

Modes of Procedure.—Statutes which change modes of procedure may govern suits pending at the time of their enactment. Sumner v. Miller, 64 N. C. 688.

A retrospective law is one that in some way affects the rights and liabilities of parties incident to and growing out of a transaction that has passed. Waddill v. Masten, 172 N. C. 582, 584, 90 S. E. 694.

Maxim "Leges Posteriores Priores Contrarias Abrogant."—To give operation to the maxim, leges posteriores priores contrarias abrogant, the latter law must be in conflict with the former; therefore, when a later statute is almost in ipssissimis verbis with a former one: Held, that there was no repeal of the former. Kesler v. Smith, 66 N. C. 154.

General Rule—Prospective Effect.—The general rule is that a statute will be given prospective effects only unless the law in question clearly forbids such a construction. Mann v. Allen, 171 N. C. 219, 88 S. E. 235; Elizabeth City v. Commissioners, 146 N. C. 539, 60 S. E. 416; Waddill v. Masten, 172 N. C. 582, 584, 90 S. E. 694.

Remedial Legislation.—In case of a remedial legislation, the general rule is not so insistent, and such statutes are not infrequently given retrospective effect where the language permits and such a construction will best promote the meaning and purpose of the Legislature. Connecticut and E. Ins. Co. v. Talbot, 113 Ind. 373; Ex Parte Brickley, 53 Ala. 42; People ex re Collins v. Spicer, 99 N. Y. 225; cited and approved in Waddill v. Masten, 172 N. C. 582, 584, 90 S. E. 694.

Mere Court Procedure.—The rule that statutes may be construed to have retrospective effect does not prevail when they concern mere matters of court procedure before action instituted, or the substitution or designation of new parties deemed necessary to a proper determination of a controversy or authorized to maintain and enforce a recognized or existent right. Waddill v. Masten, 172 N. C. 582, 90 S. E. 694.

Limitation of Actions.—While the Legislature has the power to extend or reduce the time in which an action may be brought, this is subject to the restriction that when the limitation is shortened a reasonable time must be given for the commencement of an action before the statute works a bar. Strickland v. Draughan, 91 N. C. 103, and cases there cited; Cooly Const. Lim. 450 (8 Ed.), and cases there cited. The action in the instant case having been instituted before the passage of the act, is not affected by it. Nichols v. Norfolk, etc., R. Co., 120 N. C. 495, 498, 26 S. E. 643.

General Rule in Criminal Actions.—The repeal of a statute pending a prosecution for an offense which it creates arrests the prosecution and withdraws all authority to pronounce judgment, even after conviction. State v. Williams, 97 N. C. 455, 2 S. E. 55; State v. Massey, 103 N. C. 356, 9 S. E. 632.

Same—Legislative Authority to Increase Punishment.—The Legislature has no more authority to give a retroactive effect to a statute making the punishment for an offense already created more severe, than to subject persons to punishment under a criminal statute passed after the commission of the act for which they may be indicted. The provision of the Federal Constitution, which forbids the enactment by a State of any ex post facto law, could, in either event, be invoked for the protection of the person charged. Ordronaux Cons. Leg., p. 223; State v. Ramsour, 113 N. C. 642, 644, 18 S. E. 707; State v. Williams, 97 N. C. 455, 2 S. E. 55.

§ 3949. Rules for construction of statutes.—

In the construction of all statutes the following rules shall be observed, unless such construction would be inconsistent with the manifest intent of the general assembly, or repugnant to the context of the same statute, that is to say:

I. General Considerations.
II. Determination of Intent and Meaning.
  A. In General.

IV. Statutes Strictly Construed.
  A. In General.
  B. Criminal Statutes.
V. Construction in Accord with Constitution.
  A. Construction.
  B. Effect.

I. GENERAL CONSIDERATIONS.

Specific Words Followed by General Words.—Where particular and specific words or acts, the subject of a statute, are followed by general words, the latter must, as a rule, and by a proper interpretation, be confined to acts and things of the same kind. State v. Craig, 176 N. C. 740, 97 S. E. 400.

Words Given Ordinary Meaning. — When construing a statute the words used therein will be given their ordinary meaning, unless it appears from the context that they should be taken in a different sense. Abernethy v. Board, 169 N. C. 631, 86 S. E. 577.

When Court May Interpolate Necessary Words.—When it is necessary to carry out the clear meaning of a statute, and to make it sensible and effective, the court may interpolate the words necessary thereto, which were evidently omitted, as appears from the context, or silently understand them to be incorporated in it. Fortune v. Commissioners, 140 N. C., 322; Abernethy v. Board, 169 N. C. 631, 86 S. E. 577.

In Palms v. Shawano, 61 Wisc., 217, the words "south" used in the legislative act defining the boundaries of a county was read "north"; in Stoneman v. Whaley, 9 Iowa, 390, a subsequent act purported to repeal the sixteenth section of another act, and it was held that the repealing act referred to the sixth section; and in a case from 3 Utah, 334, a subsequent act referred to section 162 of a prior act, and it was construed to mean section 151. Tooney v. Goldsboro Lumber Co., 171 N. C. 178, 181, 88 S. E. 215.

Proviso.—As a general rule in the construction of statutes, a proviso will be considered as a limitation upon the general words preceding, and as excepting therefrom, but this rule is not absolute, and the meaning of the proviso will be ascertained by the language used in it. Traders Nat. Bank v. Lawrence Mfg. Co., 96 N. C. 298, 3 S. E. 363.

Words Cannot Be Construed Away. — The court has no power or right to strike out words or to construe them away. Nance v. Southern Railway, 149 N. C. 366, 370, 63 S. E. 116.

When laws have been codified, it is permissible to examine the original legislation as an aid to correct interpretation. Rodgers & Co. v. Bell, 156 N. C. 378, 386, 72 S. E. 817; Morganton Mfg., etc., Co. v. Andrews, 165 N. C. 285, 292, 81 S. E. 418.

The maximum cessante ratione legis, cessat et ipsa lex has no application in the construction of statutes. State v. Eaves, 106 N. C. 752, 11 S. E. 370.

Void for Vagueness.—If a statute be so vague in its terms as to convey no definite meaning to the court or a ministerial officer, it is void. State v. Partlow, 91 N. C. 550.

II. DETERMINATION OF INTENT AND MEANING.

A. In General.

When Statute Is Clear.—It is not allowable to interpret what has no need of interpretation, or, where the words have a definite and precise meaning, to go elsewhere in search of conjecture in order to restrict or extend the meaning. Statutes should be read and understood according to the natural and most obvious import of the language without resorting to subtle and force construction for the purpose of either limiting or extending their operation. McCluskey v. Cornwell, 11 N. Y. 593; Nance v. Southern Railway, 149 N. C. 366, 372, 63 S. E. 116; Hamilton v. Rathbone, 175 U. S. 414, 421, 44 L. Ed. 219, 20 S. Ct. 155; State v. Carpenter, 173 N. C. 767, 769, 92 S. E. 373.

Where Language Is of Doubtful Meaning.—In interpreting the statute where the language is of doubtful meaning, the Court will reject an interpretation which would make the statute harsh, oppressive, inequitable and unduly restrictive of primary private rights. Nance v. Southern Railway, 149 N. C. 366, 63 S. E. 116.

Meaning First Sought in Language Used.—In Caminetti v. United States, 242 U. S. 470, 37 S. Ct. 192, 193, the court said: "It is elementary that the meaning of a statute must, in the first instance, be sought in the language in which the act is framed, and if that is plain, and if the law is within the constitutional authority of the law-making body which passed it, the sole function of the courts is to enforce it according to its terms." State v. Carpenter, 173 N. C. 767, 768, 91 S. E. 373.

Law Existing at Time of Enactment.—To discover the true meaning of a statute, consideration should be given the law as it existed at the time of its enactment, the public policy as declared in judicial opinions and legislative acts, the public interest, and the purpose of the act in question. Kendall v. Stafford, 178 N. C. 461, 101 S. E. 15.

But the meaning must be ascertained from the statute itself, and the means and signs of which, as appears upon its face, it has reference. State v. Parlow, 91 N. C. 550, 552.

Objects Embraced.—The meaning of a statute in respect to what it has reference and the objects it embraces, as well as in other respects, is to be ascertained by appropriate means and indicia, such as the purposes appearing from the statute taken as a whole, the phraseology, the words ordinary or technical, the law as it prevailed before the statute, the mischief to be remedied, the remedy, the end to be accomplished, statutes in pari materia, the preamble, the title, and other like means. State v. Pratlow, 91 N. C. 550, 552.

Misdescription or Misnomer.—The question was fully considered by the Supreme Court in Fortune v. Commissioners, 140 N. C. 322, 328, 52 S. E. 950, and the court there says: "A misdescription or misnomer in a statute will not vitiate the enactment or render it inoperative, provided the means of identifying the person or thing intended, apart from the erroneous description, are clear, certain, and convincing." Black Interp. of Laws, sec. 558. Under this rule we may call to our aid anything in the act itself, or even in the alleged erroneous description, which sufficiently points to something else as furnishing certain evidence of what was meant, though the reference to the extraneous matter may not in itself be full and accurate. The rule, even when literally or strictly construed, does not require that the erroneous description shall be altogether rejected in making the search for the true meaning; but it may be used in connection with anything outside of the statute to which it refers and which itself, when examined, makes the meaning clear. The erroneous description may in this way be helped out by extraneous evidence. Black Interp. Laws, sec. 38; Toomey v. Goldsboro Lumber Co., 171 N. C. 178, 181, 88 S. E. 215.

The title of a statute is no part thereof. State v. Welsh, 10 N. C. 404. But it may be construed when the meaning is doubtful. State v. Woolard, 119 N. C. 779, 25 S. E. 719.

It cannot control the text when it is clear. Blue v. McDuffie, 44 N. C. 131; Hines v. Wilmington, etc., Railroad, 95 N. C. 434; Jones v. Hartford Ins. Co., 88 N. C. 499, 500; State v. Woolard, 119 N. C. 779, 25 S. E. 719. Especially is this true as to the headings of a section in the Code. Cram v. Cram, 116 N. C. 288, 21 S. E. 197; In re Chisholm's Will, 176 N. C. 211, 213, 96 S. E. 1031.

B. Legislative Intent.

Motive and Purpose of Legislature.—If the language of a statute is doubtful, and the intention of the Legislature is clear, the former will be construed by the later; but where the language is plain, the Courts can not look into the motive or purpose of the Legislature in the enactment of the law. State v. Eaves, 106 N. C. 752, 11 S. E. 370.

Same—Understanding of Individual.—Whatever may be the views and purposes of those who procure the enactment of a statute, the legislature contemplates that its intention shall be ascertained from its words as embodied in it. And courts are not at liberty to accept the understanding of any individual as to the legislative intent. State v. Boon, 1 N. C. 191; Drake v. Drake, 15 N. C. 110; Adams v. Turrentine, 30 N. C. 147; State v. Melton, 44 N. C. 49; Blue v. McDuffie Ib., 131; Potter's Dwarris Statutes, 179, et seq.; State v. Partlow, 91 N. C. 550, 552.

Same—Same—Affidavit of Legislators.—In interpreting a statute it is not permissible to show its intent and meaning by affidavit of legislators, for such must be gathered from the act itself. Goins v. Trustees Indian Training School, 169 N. C. 736, 86 S. E. 629.

Harmonizing Context. — It is the duty of the Court to adopt that sense which harmonizes best with the context, and promotes in the fullest manner the apparent policy and objects of the Legislature. U. S. v. Winn, 3 Summer, 209; Nance v. Southern Railway, 149 N. C. 366, 372, 63 S. E. 116.

Effectuation of Purpose.—Where the language used is ambiguous, or admits of more than one meaning, it is to be taken in such a sense as will conform to the scope of the act and effectuate its objects. Fortune v. Commissioners, 140 N. C. 322, 52 S. E. 950; State v. Partlow, 91 N. C. 550, 552.

The use of inapt, inaccurate or improper terms or phrases will not invalidate the statute, provided the real meaning of the Legislature can be gathered from the context or from the general purpose and tenor of the enactment. Fortune v. Commissioners, 140 N. C. 322, 522 S. E. 950.

Mistakes or Omissions.—Legislative enactments are not to be defeated on account of mistakes or omissions, any more than other writings, provided the intention of the Legislature can be collected from the whole statute. If the mistake renders the intention doubtful, the courts will look to the title and preamble as well as the body or purview of the act for assistance in arriving at it, and not until all these fail can the act be held inoperative. Toomey v. Goldsboro Lumber Co., 171 N. C. 178, 181, 88 S. E. 215, quoting Nazro v. Ins. Co., 14 Wisc. 298.

Impossible Requirements.—In the construction of a statute the court will avoid attributing to the legislature the intention to punish the failure to do an impossible thing. Garrison v. Southern R. Company, 150 N. C. 575, 64 S. E. 578.

Proviso Prevails over Purview.—When a proviso in a statute is directly contrary to the purview of the statute, the proviso is good and not the purview, because the proviso speaks the later intention of the Legislature. Orinoco Supply Co. v. Masonic, etc., Star Home, 163 N. C. 513, 79 S. E. 964.

As to Whether Statute Mandatory or Directory.—There is no absolutely formal test for determining whether a statutory provision is to be considered mandatory or directly. The meaning and intention of the Legislature must govern; and these are to be ascertained, not only from the phraseology of the provision, but also by considering its nature, its design, and the consequences which would follow from construing it in the one way or the other. Black's Interpretation of Laws, p. 338 (124); Spruill v. Davenport, 178 N. C. 364, 368, 100 S. E. 527.

III. SIMILAR AND RELATED ACTS.

A. In General.

Words and Phrases in One Statute Read in a Subsequent Act.—Dwarris on Statutes, 274, says: "That words and phrases, the meaning of which, in a Statute, has been ascertained, are, when read in a subsequent Statute, to be understood in the same sense," and in the note of Judge Potter on the same page, it is said that "where the terms of a Statute which has received judicial construction are used in a later Statute, whether passed by the Legislature of the same State or county, or by that of another, that construction is to be given to the later Statute. Conn. v. Hartwell, 3 Gray, 450; Ruchmabaye v. Mottichmed, Eng. L. & Eng. 84; Bogards v. Trinity Church, 4 Sand. Chan. 633; Riggs v. Wilton, 13 Ill. 15; Adams v. Field, 21 Vt. 256. It is presumed that the Legislature which passed the latter Statute knew the judicial construction which had been placed on the former one, and such a construction becomes a part of the law." Bridgers v. Taylor, 102 N. C. 86, 89, 8 S. E. 893.

Permissible to Look at Other Statutes.—To ascertain the mischief which an act of the Legislature was intended to remove, it is permissible, in the interpretation thereof, to consider other statutes, related to the particular subject, or to one under construction. Abernethy v. Board, 169 N. C. 631, 86 S. E. 577.

It is not permissible, if it can be reasonably avoided, to put such a construction upon a law as will raise a conflict between different parts of it, but effect should be given to each and every clause and provision. But when there is no way of reconciling conflicting clauses of a statute and nothing to indicate which the Legislature regarded as of paramount importance, force should be given to those clauses which would make the statute in harmony with the other legislation on the same subject, and which would tend most completely to secure the rights of all persons affected by such legislation. Black's Interpretation of Laws (1896), p. 60, sec. 32; State Board v. White Oak Buckle Drainage District, 177 N. C. 222, 226, 98 S. E. 597.

B. Statutes in Pari Materia.

Statutes relating to the same subject-matter should be construed in connection with each other as together constituting one law, giving effect to all parts of the statute when possible; and the history of the Legislature may be considered in the effect to ascertain the uniform and consistent purpose of the Legislature. Allen v. Reidsville, 178 N. C. 513, 101 S. E. 267.

Where a former act has been repealed, or has expired by its limitation when it is in pari materia, it must be considered in connection with the last act and if necessary, a part of it. Walser v. Jordan, 124 N. C. 683, 33 S. E. 139.

Where there are different statutes in pari materia, though made at different times, or even where they have expired, and not referring to each other, they shall be taken and considered together as one system, and as explanatory of each other. Walser v. Jordan, 124 N. C. 683, 33 S. E. 139.

Same—Apparent Conflict.—"Where two statutes on the same subject, or on related subjects, are apparently in conflict with each other they are to be reconciled, by construction, so far as may be, on any fair hypothesis, and validity and effect given to both, if this can be done without destroying the evident intent and meaning of the later act." Black's Interpretation of Laws (1896), p. 60, sec. 32; Peoples Bank v. Loven, 172 N. C. 666, 90 S. E. 948; State Board v. White Oak Buckle Drainage District, 177 N. C. 222, 226, 98 S. E. 597.

Acts of Same Session of Legislature.—All acts of the same session of the Legislature upon the same subject matter are considered as one act, and must be construed together, under the doctrine of "in pari materia." They should be considered in pari materia, whether passed at the same session or not. Walser v. Jordan, 124 N. C. 683, 33 S. E. 139.

Act Declaratory of Intent of Previous Act.—An act of the Legislature declaratory of the intent of a previous act will not control the judiciary in the construction of the first act in actions prior to the declaratory act. Rodwell v. Harrison, 132 N. C. 45, 43 S. E. 540.

Private and Local Acts.—Private as well as local acts are, as a whole, and in every clause, unaffected by any repugnant provision of the general law. State v. Womble, 112 N. C. 862, 864, 17 S. E. 491.

C. Amendatory and Repealing Acts.

When Act Purports to Be Amendatory.—Where a statute refers to a prior legislative enactment, and in the caption and body of the act purports to be amendatory, substituting and amending different sections, the legislative intent cannot be construed to repeal the former act. Toomy v. Goldsboro Lumber Co., 171 N. C. 178, 88 S. E. 215.

Amended and Amending Acts Construed Together.—Where an amendment to an existing statute is enacted the proper method of arriving at their true intent and meaning is by construing together. Keith v. Lockhart, 171 N. C. 451, 88 S. E. 640; Township Road Commission v. Board, 178 N. C. 122.

When Amendatory Act Refers to Wrong Section.—If a section in an amendatory act refers to a section of the act amended by number, and the section referred to does not express the legislative intent, but another section is found which does express that intent, the reference will be treated as being made to the latter section. Toomey v. Goldsboro Lumber Co., 171 N. C. 178, 181, 88 S. E. 215, quoting People v. King, 28 Cal. 266.

Erroneous Statement of Date.—An act of the Legislature subsequent to and in amendment of a former Act of the same session and correcting an ambiguity therein, is not invalidated by the fact that the date of ratification of the amended Act is erroneously stated, provided it sufficiently appears beyond cavil, what prior Act is referred to. State v. Woolard, 119 N. C. 779, 25 S. E. 719.

Summary of Rules of Construing Repealing Acts.—In Winslow v. Morton, 118 N. C. 486, 492, 24 S. E. 417, it was said: "Upon a perusal of the authorities it appears that the courts have universally given their sanction to the following rules of construction: (1) That the law does not favor a repeal of an older statute by a later one by mere implication. State v. Woodside, 30 N. C. 104; Simonton v. Lanier, 71 N. C. 498. (2) The implication, in order to be operative, must be necessary, and if it arises out of repugnancy between the two acts the later abrogates the older only to the extent that it is inconsistent and irreconcilable with it. Wood v. United States, 16 Peters, 341, 363, 10 L. Ed. 987; Chew Heong v. United States, 112 U. S. 536, 549, 28 L. Ed. 770, 5 S. Ct. 255; St. Louis v. Independent, 17 Mo. 146. A later and older statute will, if it is possible and reasonable to do so, be always construed together, so as to give effect not only to the distinct parts or provisions of the latter, not inconsistent with the new law, but to give effect to the older law as a whole, subject only to restrictions or modifications of its meaning, where such seems to have been the legislative purpose. Southerland on Stat. Construct., sec. 158. A law will not be deemed repealed because some of its provisions are repeated in a subsequent statute, except in so far as the latter plainly appears to have been intended by the Legislature as a substitute. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. United States, 127 U. S. 406, 32 L. Ed. 180, 8 S. Ct. 1194; State v. Stolt, 17 Wallace, 425; Longlois v. Longlois, 48 Mo. 60; Casey v. Harned, 5 Clarke (Iowa) 1; State v. Custer, 65 N. C. 339; The Code, sec. 3766; Brietung v. Lindoner, 37 Mich. 217. * * * (3). Where a later or revising statute clearly covers the whole subject-matter of antecedent acts, and it plainly appears to have been the purpose of the Legislature to give expression in it to the whole law on the subject, the latter is held to be repealed by a necessary implication. Matter of N. Y. Institution, 121 N. Y. 234; United States v. Tynen, 11 Wall., 88, 20 L. Ed. 153; Jernigan v. Holden, 34 Fla. 530."

Repeal of Act Giving Forfeiture.—The repeal of an act of Assembly giving a forefeiture for an offense is a repeal of all forfeitures incurred under the act repealed, unless there be a special exception to the contrary. Governor v. Howard, 5 N. C. 465.

Repeal of Repealing Act.—The repeal of a statute repealing a former statute leaves the latter in force. Brinkley v. Swicegood, 65 N. C. 626.

Implied Repeal by Lessening Degree of Crime.—It is perfectly settled as a rule of construction that if, by the common or statute law, an offense, for example, be a felony, and subsequent statute by an enactment merely affirmatively lessen its grade or mitigate the punishment, the latter is to that extent an implied repeal of the former. State v. Upchurch, 31 N. C. 454, 457.

When Acts Irreconcilably Inconsistent.—A later statute repeals, by implication, an older statute, with which it is irreconcilably inconsistent, to the extent of such repugnancy. But the two statutes must be reconciled if that can be done by any fair construction. State v. Massey, 103 N. C. 356, 9 S. E. 632.

IV. STATUTES STRICTLY CONSTRUED.

A. In General.

In Derogation of Common Law.—A statute in derogation of the common law must be strictly construed. Swift & Co. v. Tempelos, 178 N. C. 487, 101 S. E. 8.

Acts Limiting Rights to Contract.—Statutes restricting or disabling persons capable of contracting in the making of contracts, being in derogation of common right, and especially those penal in their nature, must be strictly construed. Marriner & Bro. v. Roper Co., 112 N. C. 164, 16 S. E. 906.

Mandatory Act.—No provision, it would seem, could be more mandatory, in form or substance, than one which declares that non-compliance with it shall make void the act of the body required to observe its requirements. Spruill v. Davenport, 178 N. C. 364, 368, 100 S. E. 527.

Statutes depriving courts of jurisdiction once attached are strictly construed, and every requirement of such statute must be met before the court will yield its jurisdiction. State v. Sullivan, 110 N. C. 513, 14 S. E. 796.

Statutes providing for forfeitures should be strictly construed and not extended beyond the meaning of the words employed. Skinner v. Thomas, 171 N. C. 98, 87 S. E. 976.

Acts Restricting Private Acts.—Statutes which restrict the private rights of persons or the use of property in which the public have no concern should be strictly construed. Nance v. Southern Railway, 149 N. C. 366, 63 S. E. 116.

Local Lien Law.—In Orinoco Supply Co. v. Masonic, etc., Star Home, 163 N. C. 513, 79 S. E. 964, it was held that a lien law applicable to certain counties only, was local in its nature, and being contrary to the general lien laws of the State, must be strictly construed.

A remedial statute should be liberally construed, according to its intent, so as to advance the remedy and repress the evil. Cape Lookout Co. v. Gold, 167 N. C. 63, 67, 83 S. E. 3.

B. Criminal Statutes.

Rule for Construction of Penal Statutes.—It is familiar learning that penal statutes must be strictly construed, and the plaintiff, before he is entitled to recover the penalty, must bring his case strictly within the language and meaning of the statute. They must be construed sensibly, as all other instruments, but not liberally, so as to stretch their meaning beyond what the words will warrant. 36 Cyc., 1185, 1186, 1187; Sears v. Whitaker, 136 N. C. 37, 48 S. E. 517; Alexander v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 144 N. C. 93, 99, 56 S. E. 697; Coble v. Schoffner, 75 N. C. 42; Hamlet Grocery Co. v. Southern R. Co., 170 N. C. 241, 244, 87 S. E. 57; State v. Godfrey, 97 N. C. 507, 1 S. E. 779.

Rule Explained.—The rule that a penal Statute must be strictly construed, means no more than that the court, in ascertaining the meaning of such a Statute, cannot go beyond the plain meaning of the words and phraseology employed in search of an intention not certainly implied by them, and when there is a reasonable doubt as to the meaning of the words used in the Statute, the Court will not give them such an interpretation as to impose the penalty, nor will the purpose of the Statute be extended by implication, so as to embrace cases not clearly within its meaning. Hines v. Wilmington, etc., Railroad, 95 N. C. 434.

This rule is, however never to be applied so strictly as to defeat the clear intention of the Legislature, and if the intention to impose the penalty clearly appears, that is sufficient, and it must prevail. Hines v. Wilmington, etc., Railroad, 95 N. C. 434.

Supplying Omission and Strained Constructions.—In State v. Massey, 103 N. C. 356, 9 S. E. 632, it was announced that as a policy it is more dangerous for the Supreme Court to usurp the powers of the legislative department by supplying omissions in, or putting strained constructions upon, criminal statutes, than that some criminals should go unpunished.

V. CONSTRUCTION IN ACCORD WITH CONSTITUTION.

A. Construction.

General Rule.—Whenever an act of the Legislature can be so construed and applied as to avoid conflict with the Constitution, and give it the force of law, such construction will be adopted by the Court. State v. Pool, 74 N. C. 402.

Valid and Invalid Portions of Same Act.—Where there are distinct and valid provisions of a statute, with unconstitutional provisions the two portions of the law being separate and it appearing from a perusal of the statute that the Legislafure intended the valid portion to be effective and independently of the invalid part the valid provisions may be enforced. Archer v. Joyner, 173 N. C. 75, 91 S. E. 699.

In Black on Constitutional Law the rule is said to be: "That if the invalid portions can be separated from the rest, and if, after their excision, there remains a complete, intelligible, and valid statute capable of being executed, and conforming to the general purpose and intent of the Legislature as shown in the act, the same will not be adjudged unconstitutional in toto, but sustained to that extent." Quoted in Keith v. Lackhart, 171 N. C. 451, 458, 88 S. E. 640.

The position, however, is not allowed to prevail when the parts of the statute are so connected and dependent the one upon the other that to eliminate one will work substantial change to the portion which remains. Thus, in Black's work, the author says, page 63: "And if the unconstitutional clause cannot be rejected without causing the statute to enact what the Legislature did not intend, the whole statute must fall." Employers' Liability Cases, 207 U. S. pp. 463-501; Illinois Cen. R. Co. v. McKendree, 203 U. S. 514, 27 S. Ct. 153; Greene v. Owen, 125 N. C. 212, 34 S. E. 424; Riggsbee v. Durham, 94 N. C. 800; Keith v. Lockhart, 171 N. C. 451, 458, 88 S. E. 640; Lewis Sutherland Statutory Construction (2 Ed.), sec. 306. Or if constitutional and unconstitutional parts are all interdependent. State v. Godwin, 123 N. C. 697, 700, 31 S. E. 221.

Resort to Implication.—Courts may resort to an implication to sustain an act, but not to destroy it. Lowery v. School Trustees, 140 N. C. 33, 52 S. E. 267.

Presumption in Favor of Validity.—Every presumption is in favor of the validity of an act of the Legislature and all doubts are resolved in support of the act. Lowery v. School Trustees, 140 N. C. 33, 52 S. E. 267.

It is never to be presumed that the Legislature intends an infringement of the Constitution, even when the infringement is palpable; but it is to be set down to inadvertence or mistake, or unconscious bias from pressing circumstances. Jacobs v. Smallwood, 63 N. C. 112, 113.

When Object Is Valid and Effect Invalid.—A statute, while its object may be legitimate and altogether praiseworthy, is, nevertheless, invalid if its effect is unconstitutional. Jacobs v. Smallwood, 63 N. C. 112, 117.

B. Effect.

Liability of Public Officer under Unconstitutional Act. — An individual officeholder is not required to be wiser than the whole people represented in their General Assembly; therefore, he is not indictable for obeying an unconstitutional legislative act (unless it required the commission of a crime, which is not for a moment to be supposed); nor is he indictable for refusing to perform certain duties under a former law repealed by a subsequent unconstitutional statute, until at least after a decision by competent authority. State v. Godwin, 123 N. C. 697, 31 S. E. 221.

When Court Reverses Itself Decision Not Retroative. — Where property rights are acquired in accordance with a decision of the Supreme Court, in the interpretation of a statute, which is subsequently overruled, the effect of the later decision will not be retroactive in effect. Fowle & Son v. Ham, 176 N. C. 12, 96 S. E. 639.

1. Singular and plural number, masculine gender, etc. Every word importing the singular number only shall extend and be applied to several persons or things, as well as to one person or thing; and every word importing the plural number only shall extend and be applied to one person or thing, as well as to several persons or things; and every word importing the masculine gender only shall extend and be applied to females as well as to males, unless the context clearly shows to the contrary. (Rev., s. 2831; R. C., c. 108, s. 2.)

Purpose.—The section was intended to avoid the very awkward expressions, "such person or persons," "he, she, or they," "himself or themselves," to be met with in some badly drawn statutes. Von Glahn v. Harris, 73 N. C. 323, 333.

"Person" Extends to "Persons."—The word "person" is construed to extend to "persons" under the authority of this section. State v. Dunn, 134 N. C. 663, 670, 46 S. E. 949; State v. Wilkerson, 98 N. C. 696, 701, 3 S. E. 683.

2. Authority, to three or more exercised by majority. All words purporting to give a joint authority to three or more public officers or other persons shall be construed as giving such authority to a majority of such officers or other persons, unless it shall be otherwise expressly declared in the law giving the authority.

3. "Month" and "year." The word "month shall be construed to mean a calendar month, unless otherwise expressed; and the word "year," a calendar year, unless otherwise expressed; and the word "year" alone shall be equivalent to the expression "year of our Lord."

The words "twelve months," in the absence of any legislative definition of the word month and the word "year," will be interpreted to mean twelve calendar, not lunar months. Muse v. London Assur. Corp., 108 N. C. 240, 13 S. E. 94.

Month.—The lunar month, when spoken of in statutes, consists of twenty-eight days; a calendar month contains the number of days ascribed to it in the calendar, varying from twenty-eight to thirty-one. S. v. Upchurch, 72 N. C. 146. In this respect our statute has adopted the computation of the civil instead of the common law. Satterwhite v. Burwell, 51 N. C. 92; Adcock v. Fuquay Springs, 194 N. C. 423, 425, 140 S. E. 24.

"Thirty days," as used in Art. IV of the Constitution, is not synonymous with "one month"; it may be more or less. State v. Upchurch, 72 N. C. 146.

In Action of Slander.—The words of limitation to an action of slander are to be taken as lunar and not as calendar months. Rives v. Guthrie, 46 N. C. 84.

4. Leap-year, how counted. In every leap-year the increasing day and the day before, in all legal proceedings, shall be counted as one day. (R. C., c. 31, s. 108; R. S., c. 31, s. 113; 21 Hen. III.)

5. "Oath" and "sworn," The word "oath" shall be construed to include "affirmation," in all cases where by law an affirmation may be substituted for an oath, and in like cases the word "sworn" shall be construed to include the word "affirmed,"

6. "Person" and "property." The word "person" shall extend and be applied to bodies politic and corporate, as well as to individuals, unless the context clearly shows to the contrary. The words "personal property" be coextensive with lands, tenements and hereditaments. The words "personal property" shall include moneys, goods, chattels, choses in action and evidences of debt, including all things capable of ownership, not descendible to the heirs at law. The word "property" shall include all property, both real and personal.

Does Not Affect Constitution.—This provision could not affect the meaning of the terms employed in the Constitution; indeed, it purports to apply only to statutes, and to them, when the meaning is manifestly otherwise than as therein provided and defined. Redmond v. Commissioners, 106 N. C. 122, 144, 10 S. E. 845.

"Property" Used in Limited Sense. — While the terms "property," in its broadest and most general signification, embraces all kinds of property, including choses in action, rights and credits, and the like things, it is very often and conveniently used in its limited sense, and this is so notwithstanding the statutory provision. Redmond v. Commissioners, 106 N. C. 122, 144, 10 S. E. 845.

A chose in action is property, and embraced in the terms of this subsection. Winfree v. Bagley, 102 N. C. 515, 9 S. E. 198.

A promissory note or due bill being an "evidence of debt" is embraced in the term "personal property." State v. Sneed, 121 N. C. 614, 28 S. E. 365.

Money.—While the word "property" in its legal sense ordinarily includes money, yet where it can be seen from other parts of a will in which it is used that it was not intended, that interpretation will be given it by the courts with which the testator had evidently employed it. Patterson v. Wilson, 101 N. C. 584, 8 S. E. 229.

The word "estate" has a broader meaning than the word "property." The latter word could not include choses in action, unless there be something in the context which would require it to receive this interpretaton, except by force of the definition contained in this section. Vaughan v. Murfreesboro, 96 N. C. 317, 2 S. E. 676.

7. "Preceding" and "following."—The words "preceding" and "following," when used by way of reference to any section of a statute, shall be construed to mean the section next preceding or next following that in which such reference is made; unless when some other section is expressly designated in such reference.

8. "Seal."— In all cases in which the seal of any court or public office shall be required by law to be affixed to any paper issuing from such court or office, the word "seal" shall be construed to include an impression of such official seal, made upon the paper alone, as well as an impression made by means of a wafer or of wax affixed thereto.

9. "Will."—The term "will" shall be construed to include codicils as well as wills.

10. "Written" and "in writing."— The words "written" and "in writing" may be construed to include printing, engraving, lithographing, and any other mode of representing words and letters: Provided, that in all cases where a written signature is required by law, the same shall be in a proper handwriting, or in a proper mark.

11. "State" and "United States."—The word "state," when applied to the different parts of the United States, shall be construed to extend to and include the District of Columbia and the several territories, so called; and the words "United States" shall be construed to include the said district and territories and all dependencies.

12. "Imprisonment for one month," how construed, The words "imprisonment for one month," wherever used in any of the statutes, shall be construed to mean "imprisonment for thirty days." (Rev., s. 2831; Code, s. 3765; R. C., c. 108.)

13. "Governor," "senator," "solicitor," "elector," "executor," "administrator," "collector," "juror," and "auditor."—The words "governor," "senator," "solicitor," "elector," "executor," "administrator," "collector," "juror," "auditor," and any other words of like character shall when applied to the holder of such office, or occupant of such position, be words of common gender, and they shall be a sufficient designation of the person holding such office or position, whether the holder be a man or woman. (1921, c. 30.)

§ 3950. Construction of amended statute. — Where a part of a statute is amended it is not to be considered as having been repealed and reenacted in the amended form; but the portions which are not altered are to be considered as having been the law since their enactment, and the new provisions as having been enacted at the time of the amendment. (Rev., s. 2832; Code, s. 3766; 1868-9, c. 270, s. 22; 1870-1, c. 111.)

See 12 N. C. Law Rev., 262.

Amending Act Presumed Not to Repeal.—Where a statute only undertakes to amend one already on the statute-books, it will be presumed that it did not intend to repeal it, unless there is an express repealing clause. State v. Massey, 97 N. C. 465, 2 S. E. 445. State v. Broadway, 157 N. C. 598, 601, 72 S. E. 987.

Time of Enactment of New Proviso.—By this section when a part of the statute is amended, the new proviso is considered as having been enacted at the time of the amendment, and the act of 1885, amendatory of the Code of 1883 is subject to this rule of construction. Leak v. Gay, 107 N. C. 468, 12 S. E. 312.

Amendment of a statute operates from its enactment, leaving in force the portions which are not altered. Nichols v. Board, 125 N. C. 13, 34 S. E. 71.

Re-enacted Contemporaneous with Repeal.—The re-enactment by the Legislature of a law in the terms of a former law at the time it repeals the former law, is not, in contemplation of law, a repeal, but is a reaffirmance of the former law whose provisions are thus continued without any intermission. State v. Bellamy, 120 N. C. 212, 27 S. E. 113.

It was held in State v. Williams, 117 N C. 753, 23 S. E. 250, that: "The re-enactment by the Legislature of a law in the terms of a former law at the same time it repeals the former law, is not, in contemplation of law, a repeal, but it is a re-affirmance of the former law, whose, provisions are thus continued without any intermission." Bishop, Stat. Crimes, sec. 181; State v. Sutton, 100 N. C. 474, 6 S. E. 687; State v. Gumber, 37 Wis., 298; State v. Southern R. Co., 125 N. C. 666, 673, 34 S. E. 527.

Bill of Indictment.—If a statute creating an offense is amended in any important particular, a bill of indictment for an offense committed before the act was amended, but which was found after the passage of the amending act, should charge the offense under the old act, and contain an averment that the offense was committed before the amendment was passed. State v. Massey, 97 N. C. 465, 2 S. E. 445.

Misdemeanor Made Punishable by Fine or Imprisonment.—A public-local law making an act a misdemeanor is not repealed by a statute, making the same offense for the first time punishable by "a fine or imprisonment in the discretion of the court," and a felony for the second offense; the later statute expressly stating in the heading of the chapter that it was amendatory, and for the better enforcement, of the former statute, and that it was to take effect from and after its ratification; and where the prohibited offense has been committed prior to the enactment of the latter act, it is punishable under the prior law. State v. Mull, 178 N. C. 748, 101 S. E. 89.

STRAYS

§ 3951. Notice to owner of stray, or to register of deeds.—Any person who shall take up any stray horse, mare, colt, mule, ass or jennet, neat cattle, hog or sheep, shall within ten days after taking up such stray inform the owner, if to him known, if not, he shall inform the register of deeds of the supposed age, marks, brands and color of the stray, and that the same was taken up at his plantation or place of abode; whereupon the register of deeds shall record such information in a book kept by him for that purpose, for which service the taker-up of the stray shall pay a fee of twenty-five cents, except for hogs and sheep, for which the fee shall be ten cents. The register of deeds shall at once publish a notice of the taking up of such stray, by posting the same at the courthouse door, and if the cost does not exceed two dollars, then in some newspaper published in the county. Such notice shall be published for thirty days, and shall contain a full and complete description of the stray and of all marks or brands on the same, and when and where the same was taken up. The fees for publishing such notices shall be paid by the party taking up the stray. (Rev., s. 2833; Code, s. 3768; 1874-5, c. 258, s. 2.)

§ 3952. Owner may reclaim.—When any stray has been taken up, the owner may at any time before a sale reclaim such stray by proving his ownership and paying to the party capturing the same the actual costs paid the register of deeds as provided in the preceding section, together with the actual costs of keeping such stray, as fixed by the county commissioners. The board of commissioners of the several counties shall fix a scale of costs for keeping strays. (Rev., s. 2834.)

§ 3953. When and how strays sold. — If the owner of any stray shall fail to claim the same within thirty days after the publication of the notice required by law, the person taking up the stray shall cause the stray to be appraised by the nearest magistrate and two freeholders, none of whom shall receive any fees for such services. Such appraisement shall give a full and accurate description of such stray and shall by the magistrate be returned to the register of deeds, and by him recorded in his book for strays; and the register of deeds shall issue an order to the sheriff directing him to sell such stray, and the sheriff shall sell such stray at public auction after ten days public advertisement as for sales of personal property under execution; and out of the proceeds he shall pay the cost of publishing the notices as to strays, the costs of keeping and the cost of sale, and shall pay the surplus to the county treasurer for the benefit of the public school fund of the county. The county board of education shall, at any time within twelve months after such funds have been paid to the county treasurer, upon due proof of ownership, issue an order commanding the county treasurer to pay to the owner of the stray the net amount paid the county treasurer as the proceeds of the sale of the stray. (Rev., s. 2385.)

§ 3954. Failure to comply with stray law misdemeanor.—If any person shall fail to comply with any of the requirements of law as to strays, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction be fined not exceeding fifty dollars or imprisoned not exceeding thirty days. (Rev., s. 3306.)

As to fences and stock law, see section 1827, et seq.

SUNDAY AND HOLIDAYS

§ 3955. Work in ordinary calling on Sunday forbidden.—On the Lord's day, commonly called Sunday, no tradesman, artificer, planter, laborer, or other person shall, upon land or water, do or exercise any labor, business or work, of his ordinary calling, works of necessity and charity alone excepted, nor employ himself in hunting, fishing or fowling, nor use any game, sport or play, upon pain that every person so offending, being of the age of fourteen years and upwards, shall forfeit and pay one dollar. (Rev., s. 2836; Code, s. 3782; R. C. c. 115; 1741, c. 30, s. 2.)

Editor's Note.—The theory is often advanced that Christianity is a part of the law of the land, and, hence, independent of any statute, contracts made on Sunday are illegal, and that the statute forbidding labor on Sunday was enacted solely for religious reasons. However, to show the fallacy in this argument, it need only be stated. Under our constitution, both State and Federal, no act can be required or forbidden by statute because such act may be in accordance with or opposed to the religious views of anyone. If, therefore, the cessation of labor or the prohibition or performance of any act were provided by statute for religious reasons, the statute could not be maintained.

Some economic or political ground must be found upon which to sustain the Sunday laws, because religious grounds will avail us nothing. Apparently the only ground upon which the "Sunday laws" can be sustained is that, in pursuance of the police power, the State can and ought to require a cessation of labor upon specified days, to protect the masses from being worn out by incessant and unremitting toil. If such days as the Legislature may care to designate happen to be those upon which the larger part of the people observe a cessation of toil for religious reasons, it is not an objection but a convenience. For a complete review of the Sunday laws, see Rodman v. Robinson, 134 N. C. 503, 47 S. E. 19.

Acts Which May Be Lawfully Done on Sunday.—It is said in State v. Ricketts, 74 N. C. 187, 192: "In this State every act may lawfully be done on Sunday which may lawfully be done on any other day, unless there is some statute forbidding it to be done on that day." Rodman v. Robinson, 134 N. C. 503, 507, 47 S. E. 19.

Keeping "Open Shop" on Sunday.—This section does not make keeping open shop and selling goods on Sunday an indictable offense, and an ordinance of a town, passed in pursuance of this section, for the better government of the town, prohibiting keeping open stores and other places of business on Sunday for the purpose of buying and selling, excepting ice, drugs and medicines, and permitting drug stores to sell soft drinks, etc., within certain hours, is not objectionable on the ground that the offense is covered by this section for the ordinance is passed under the police powers of the town, its violation is indictable, and in furtherance of local government, which the statute contemplates. State v. Medlin, 170 N. C. 682, 86 S. E. 597.

It is against the public policy of this State that one should pursue his ordinary business calling on Sunday, and such may not only be regulated by town ordinances, but altogether prohibited on that day; and an ordinance of this kind is not rendered invalid, as unduly discriminative, by reason of an exception in favor of drug stores or on account of this section. State v. Burbage, 172 N. C. 876, 89 S. E. 795.

Same—Powers of Towns.—Commissioners of a town may, by valid ordinance, prohibit the opening of places of business in the town on Sunday, excepting drug stores. State v. Medlin, 170 N. C. 682, 86 S. E. 597.

Power to Prohibit Labor—Public and Private.—The Legislature has power to prohibit labor of this kind on Sunday, on the ground of public decency. But when it goes further and prohibits labor which is done in private, the power is exceeded and the statute is void. Rodman v. Robinson, 134 N. C. 503, 507, 47 S. E. 19.

Sunday Contracts.—In Melvin v. Easley, 52 N. C. 356, it was conceded by the whole court that a contract made on Sunday was illegal, and could not support an action. Covington v. Threadgill, 88 N. C. 186, 189.

"In the language of Caldwell, J., in Swann v. Swann, 21 Fed., at p. 305, 'It would be downright hypocrisy for a court to affect to believe that the moral sense of the community would be shocked by compelling a man to pay a note given for an honest debt because it was executed on the Lord's Day.' And the same is true of the enforcement of any contract which is not forbidden by statute to be made on Sunday." Rodman v. Robinson, 134 N. C. 503, 513, 47 S. E. 19.

Same—Check.—Where a mechanic has repaired an automobile for its owner during the week, and delivered possession to him on Sunday on receipt of his check to cover his charges, the fact that the check was dated on Sunday does not render it invalid under this section, or permit the owner to stop its payment and retain the car in his possession, so as to release it from the lien thereon for the amount of the repairs. Maxton Auto Co. v. Rudd, 176 N. C. 497, 97 S. E. 477.

Same—Sale with Warranties.—The sale, privately, of a horse on Sunday by a horse-dealer to one knowing of the calling of the seller, was held not to be such a violation by the buyer of the section as to prevent him from recovering in an action for a deceit and false warranty against the seller. Melvin v. Easley, 52 N. C. 356.

§ 3956. Hunting or going armed on Sunday.—If any person shall, except in defense of his own property, hunt on Sunday with a dog, or shall be found off his premises on Sunday, having with him a shotgun, rifle or pistol, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and pay a fine not exceeding fifty dollars, or be imprisoned not exceeding thirty days. (Rev., s. 3842; Code, s. 3783; 1868-9, c. 18, ss. 1, 2.)

Cross Reference.—For act making exceptions as to Perquimans county in permitting use of twenty-two calibre firearm for artificial and inanimate target purposes, see Public Laws of 1935, chapter 145.

Creates Two Offenses.—The section creates two offenses: 1st, Hunting on the Sabbath with a dog. 2d, Being found off one's premises having a shot-gun, rifle or pistol. State v. Howard, 67 N. C. 24.

Sufficiency of Indictment.—An indictment charging that the defendant was a common Sabbath-breaker and prophaner of the Lord's day, commonly called Sunday was held to be insufficient. State v. Brown, 7 N. C. 224.

A conviction is sustainable under an indictment charging the defendant with beng "found off his premises on the Sabbath day, having with him a shot-gun, contrary to the form of the statute," etc. State v. Howard, 67 N. C. 24.

Same—"Sabbath."—It is immaterial that the indictment used the expression "the Sabbath" instead of "Sunday." State v. Drake, 64 N. C. 589.

Same—Must State Act Committed on Sunday.—An indictment for an act which is criminal when committed upon Sunday, must state that the act in question was committed upon Sunday; but if it do so, no exception can be taken to it for reference to the same day by a wrong day of the month. State v. Drake, 64 N. C. 589.

§ 3957. Local: Sale of articles on Sunday in Forsyth and Johnson.—No person, firm or corporation in Forsyth county or Johnson county shall expose for sale, sell or offer for sale on Sunday any goods, wares or merchandise within one mile of the corporate limits of any incorporated town or city; and no store, shop, or other place of business in which goods, wares or merchandise of any kind are kept for sale shall keep open doors from twelve o'clock Saturday night until twelve o'clock Sunday night: Provided, that this section shall not be construed to apply to hotels or boarding-houses, or to restaurants or cafes furnishing meals to actual guests, where the same are not otherwise prohibited by law from keeping open on Sunday: Provided futher, that drug stores, with licensed pharmacists, may be kept open for the sale of goods to be used for medical or surgical purposes, and for the sale of cigars and tobacco; and cigars stands and news stands may sell cigars, tobacco and newspapers: Provided futher, that ice dealers and dairies may remain open for the sale and delivery of ice and dairy products. Nothing in this section shall be construed to prohibit livery stables or garages from operating on Sunday or to prohibit publication and sale of newspapers. Any person, firm or corporation violating the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined or imprisoned in the discretion of the court. (P. L. 1917, c. 597; 1925, c. 185.)

Editor's Note.—This section was amended by Laws 1925, c. 185, by inserting the words "or Johnston county" after the words "Forsyth county" and before the word "shall."

Constitutionality.—A statute which prohibits as a criminal offense the exposing of goods, merchandise, etc., for sale, and keeping open of a store on Sunday, except for the sale of drugs, etc., is constitutional and valid. State v. Pulliam, 184 N. C. 681, 114 S. E. 394.

Sale of Food in Store.—An act which makes it a crime to expose for sale or selling, or offering for sale, on Sunday, any goods, etc., within four miles of an incorporated city, etc., and in the same sentence, divided by a semicolon, prohibits the keeping open of any store, etc., on Sunday, does not permit the keeping open of the store for the sole purpose of running a restaurant therein on Sunday, for the sale of food, etc., though the latter may not be of itself unlawful, when conducted in a separate place of business. State v. Pulliam, 184 N. C. 681, 114 S. E. 394.

Restaurants or Cafes. — Under this section prohibiting shops, stores, etc., from being kept open on Sunday for the sale of any goods, wares or merchandise within four miles of any incorporated city or town within the county, providing that the act shall not apply to hotels or boarding houses, or restaurants or cafes furnishing meals to actual guests, when not otherwise prohibited by law from being kept open on Sunday, it was held, that the words "restaurants or cafes' are substantially synonymous, and a place where tools and counters only were used for the service to customers of lunches, "weiners" and egg sandwiches, comes within the definition of the exception; and the sale of these not being unlawful, the fact that the place was called a "weiner joint" does not render it so. State v. Shoaf, 179 N. C. 744, 102 S. E. 705.

§ 3958. What process executed on Sunday.—It shall not be lawful for any sheriff, constable, or other officer to execute any summons, capias, or other process on Sunday, unless the same be issued for treason, felony or misdemeanor. (Rev., s. 2837; Code, s. 928; R. C., c. 31, s. 54; 1777, c. 118, s. 6.)

Execution of Writ or Other Process.—It is unlawful for an officer to execute any writ or other process on Sunday. Devries & Co. v. Summit, 86 N. C. 126.

A levy of an execution on Sunday is void. Bland v. Whitfield, 46 N. C. 122.

Distress for Penalty under Revenue Act.—The sheriff may proceed on Sunday by distress to enforce the penalty authorized by a revenue Act of the Legislature for peddling without license. Cowles v. Brittain, 9 N. C. 204.

Sunday is not a juridical day, hence an adjournment of the court from Saturday night to Monday morning during the progress of a trial for murder is not violative of the act requiring the adjournment to be "from day to day." State v. Howard, 82 N. C. 623.

When Court May Sit on Sunday.—There have been some instances in the judicial proceedings in this State where the courts have held their sessions on Sunday, but the cases are rare, and whenever it has been done, exception has generally been taken to the course of the court, upon the ground that it could not legally sit on that day. But the Supreme Court has held that in special cases ex necessitate the Court might sit on Sunday. State v. Ricketts, 74 N. C. 187; State v. McGimsey, 80 N. C. 377; State v. Howard, 82 N. C. 623, 626.

Term of Court Embraces Sunday.—When a term of court is set by statute to begin on a certain Monday, and to last for "one week," (or two or three weeks, as the case may be), it embraces the Sunday of each week (unless sooner adjourned), and the term expires by limitation at midnight of that day. Taylor v. Ervin, 119 N. C. 274, 25 S. E. 875.

Verdict of Jury.—The rendition by the jury of a verdict on Sunday is not invalid for that cause. Tuttle v. Tuttle, 146 N. C. 484, 59 S. E. 1008.

There being no inhibition of a verdict rendered on Sunday, either at common law or by statute, a judgment entered on that day (by virtue of the statute, that it shall be entered up at once on the verdict) is valid. Taylor v. Ervin, 119 N. C. 274, 25 S. E. 875.

A verdict entered on Sunday of a week set for the duration of a court, in the absence of an earlier adjournment, is legally entered. Taylor v. Ervin, 119 N. C. 274, 26 S. E. 875.

A notice to take a deposition on Sunday is not good, and a deposition taken on such notice must be rejected. Sloan v. Williford, 25 N. C. 307.

§ 3959. Dates of public holidays. — The first day of January, the nineteenth day of January, the twenty-second day of February, Easter Monday, the twelfth day of April, the tenth day of May, the twentieth day of May, the thirtieth day of May, the fourth day of July, the first Monday in September, the eleventh day of November, Tuesday after the first Monday in November when a general election is held, the day appointed by the governor as a Thanksgiving Day, and the twenty-fifth day of December of each and every year, are declared to be public holidays; and whenever any such holiday shall fall upon Sunday, the Monday following shall be a public holiday. (Rev., s. 2838; Code, s. 3784; 1891, c. 58, 1899, c. 410; 1901, c. 25; 1881, c. 294; 1907, c. 996; 1909, c. 888; 1919, c. 287; 1935, c. 212.)

Editor's Note.—Public Laws 1935, chapter 212, which inserted "Easter Monday" and "the thirtieth day of May" in this section, provided that "this act shall apply to all State and National Banks only."

Effect of Legal Holiday Generally.—The statute declaring certain days public holidays, does not prohibit the pursuit of the usual avocations of citizens, nor public officers, or the courts from exercising their respective functions on those days. While it might be the attendance of jurors, witnesses and suitors will not be enforced, and the courts will not sue out or enforce process on such days, yet the courts may lawfully proceed with the business before them. State v. Moore, 104 N. C. 743, 10 S. E. 183.

The section simply declares that certain days therein specified, in each year, shall be public holidays, and the following section prescribes when papers coming due on such days, or on Sunday, shall be payable. It does not purport, in terms or effect, to prohibit persons from pursuing their usual avocations on such days, nor is there any inhibition upon public officers to exercise their offices, respectively; nor, particularly for the present purpose, is there any inhibition upon the courts to sit on such days and exercise their functions and authority. There is no such statutory inhibition; nor, indeed, is there any, except such as may arise in the application of general principles of law. It has never been understood to be the law in this State that a public holiday is dies non juridicus, except perhaps to a limited extent; it is very certainly not wholly so. The courts, particularly the Superior Courts, very frequently sit on such days and hear and try causes and dispatch the business that ordinarily comes before them, especially when there is no objection. State v. Moore, 104 N. C. 743, 747, 10 S. E. 183.

Deposition Opened on Holiday.—A legal holiday has not the same status in respect to legal proceedings as Sunday; and while depositions opened on the latter day are void, they are not so when they are opened on a legal holiday. Latta v. Catawba Elect. Co., 146 N. C. 285, 59 S. E. 1028.

§ 3960. Acts to be done on Sunday or holidays. —Where the day or the last day for doing an act required or permitted by law to be done falls on Sunday or on a holiday the act may be done on the next succeeding secular or business day. (Rev., s. 2839; Code, ss. 3784, 3785, 3786; 1899, c. 733, s. 194.)

Cross References.—As to arrest on Sunday in civil actions, see section 768; as to the part played by Sunday in the computation of time, see section 922; as to Sunday fishing, see section 1970; as to hunting on Sunday, see section 2122; as to negotiable instrument when day of maturity falls upon Sunday or a holiday, see section 3066; as to operation of trains on Sunday a misdemeanor, see section 3480.

SURETYSHIP

§ 3961. Surety and principal distinguished in judgment and execution.—In the trial of actions upon contracts either of the defendants may show in evidence that he is surety, and if it be satisfactorily shown, the jury in their verdict, or the justice of the peace in his judgment, shall distinguish the principal and surety, which shall be indorsed on the execution by the clerk or justice of the peace issuing it. (Rev., s. 2840; Code, s. 2100; R. C., c. 31, s. 124; 1826, c. 31, s. 1.)

In General.—A surety is bound with his principal as an original promissor. Baylies' Sureties and Guarantors, 4. Coleman v. Fuller, 105 N. C. 328, 329, 11 S. E. 175.

The surety's promise is to pay a debt, which becomes his own debt when the principal fails to pay it. 2 Parsons' Notes and Bills, 117-118. Coleman v. Fuller, 105 N. C. 328, 330, 11 S. E. 175.

Construed Strictly.—The liability of a surety cannot be enlarged by construction. Shoe Co. v. Peacock, 150 N. C. 545, 64 S. E. 437.

Order of Liability.—The order in which parties to a security are liable at law, is the order in which, independently of contract, they will be held bound in equity. Smith v. Smith, 16 N. C. 173.

Where it appeared that a negotiable instrument was signed by three persons other than the principal obligor, and it also appeared from a writing executed some time thereafter by one to indemnify the other two that they (the other two) "signed as co-sureties" of the third, it was held, that the character of suretyship in which all three signed was sufficiently established. Southerland v. Fremont, 107 N. C. 565, 12 S. E. 237.

Same—Parol Evidence to Show Coprincipals.—In Williams v. Glenn, 92 N. C. 253, the note (under seal) was made with W. "as principal" and B. and G. "as sureties," yet as between the obligors the court held that parol evidence was admissible to show that Boyden and Glenn were coprincipals, and that the rule of contribution obtained among them. Smith v. Carr, 128 N. C. 150, 153, 38 S. E. 732.

While all of the makers may appear as principals upon the face of the paper, or some principals and some sureties, yet it may be shown that while appearing as principals they were in fact sureties, or some principals and others sureties; and upon the establishment of the fact of cosuretyship, the right of contribution follows. Smith v. Carr, 128 N. C. 150, 153, 38 S. E. 732.

Same—Issue Submitted.—In an action against the maker and indorsers of a note, an issue should be submitted as to whether or not the endorsers were cosureties, or whether one was a supplemental surety to the other. Parish v. Graham, 129 N. C. 230, 39 S. E. 825.

May Allege and Prove Suretyship.—When sued, either of the defendants may allege that he is surety, and, if the allegation be proven, the jury in their verdict and the court in the judgment shall distinguish the principal and surety, and it shall be so indorsed on the execution issued for the collection of the judgment. Bank v. McArthur, 261 Fed. 97, 101.

In Gatewood v. Leak, 99 N. C. 357, 6 S. E. 635, 637, it was said: "If the appellee was surety, as he alleges, he might, as allowed by the statute, (this section) have shown, by proper evidence on the trial in the actions in which the judgments were obtained by the appellant, that he was such surety, and the jury in their verdict, or the justice of the peace in his judgment, would have distinguished him as surety, and the executions would have been issued with a proper indorsement to that effect; and in that case the sheriff would have levied the sum required to be collected, first, out of the property of the principal if he had sufficient for that purpose."

Same—Practice of Courts.—It is not the practice of the courts to see that evidence of suretyship is produced and such fact inserted in the judgment in the absence of the defendants and without any averment or request on their part. Morehead Banking Co. v. Duke, 121 N. C. 110, 28 S. E. 191.

Effect of Not Alleging Suretyship.—In Bank v. McArthur, 261 Fed. 97, 103, it was said that "It would not seem that, by failing to set up his suretyship in the action brought by the American National Bank on the note, McArthur lost any equitable rights against McBryde to which he was entitled as surety. It is true, as held in Gatewood v. Leak, 99 N. C. 357, 6 S. E. 635, that the surety, who has failed to set up the fact and have it found as provided by the statute, cannot enjoin the plaintiff in the judgment from proceeding to sell his land for its satisfaction. Neither McArthur nor plaintiffs may enjoin the bank from enforcing its judgment against himself until it has exhausted McBryde's property."

The magistrate is not bound to discriminate except upon the application of, and due proof by, the surety. Stewart v. Ray, 26 N. C. 269.

Effect of Finding of Jury.—Where a suit is brought at law against two persons, a finding of the jury, that one of the defendants is principal, and the other surety, if binding at all between the parties, does not in equity establish the relation of suretyship. Lowder v. Noding, 43 N. C. 208.

When Execution Does Not Distinguish.—Where an execution against two does not distinguish which is principal and which surety, the sheriff has a right to collect it from either; and the sheriff may collect it from the surety, though the plaintiff in the execution directed him to collect it from the other. Shuford v. Cline, 35 N. C. 463.

Right of Surety to Subrogation.—See notes to § 3963.

Right of Surety to Assign Judgment.—It was stated by the Supreme Court of this state in Barringer v. Boyden. 52 N. C. 187: "The right of a surety to keep alive a judgment, which he has paid, by having an assignment made to a stranger for his benefit, is unquestionable. When he advances the money, he has a clear equity (if he desires it) to be subrogated to the rights of the creditor, and to use the creditor's judgment for the purpose of coercing payment against the principal. Whether money advanced in such a way be an extinguishment or a purchase seems to be a question of intention. If it be paid, and nothing be said or done to show a contrary intendment, an extinguishment will be presumed; but if an assignment be made to one not a party, so as to show a purpose to keep it alive, it is sufficient. That a party defendant furnishes the money, and that the assignment is made on a day subsequent to the advancement of the money, can make no difference, provided it was intended, at the time it was advanced, as a purchase and not as a payment." Bank v. McArthur, 261 Fed. 97, 103.

Signing on Faith of Creditors Representations.—Persons signing a note as surety upon faith in the creditor's representation that another will sign as co-surety, leaving the note with the creditor for that purpose, are not bound thereon to such creditor upon the failure of the fulfillment of the representation. Bank v. Hunt, 124 N. C. 171, 32 S. E. 546, cited and distinguished. Bank v. Jones, 147 N. C. 491, 61 S. E. 193.

Bond Joint and Several on Face.—Although the bond is joint and several on its face it can be shown by parol that a party thereto is a surety. Brandt on Surety, secs. 29 and 30. Coffey v. Reinhardt, 114 N. C. 509, 510, 19 S. E. 370.

Statute of Limitations.—If the purchaser of a note before maturity, for value and without notice, subsequently receives notice that a party thereto is a surety and delays action for three years after maturity the surety will be protected by the three years' statute of limitations. Coffey v. Reinhardt, 114 N. C. 509, 19 S. E. 370.

§ 3962. Principal liable on execution before surety.—When an execution, indorsed as aforesaid, shall come to the hands of any officer for collection, he shall levy on all the property of the principal, or so much thereof as shall be necessary to satisfy the execution, and, for want of sufficient property of the principal, also on the property of the surety, and make sale of all the property of the principal levied on before that of the surety. (Rev., s. 2841; Code, s. 2101; R. C., c. 31, s. 125; 1826, c. 31, s. 2.)

Surety's Interest in Collateral. — The principle is stated by Ruffin, C. J., in these words: "The surety is entitled to the benefit of every additional or collateral security which the creditor gets into his hands for the debt for which the surety is bound, as soon as such a security is created, and by whatever means the surety's interest in it arises; and the creditor cannot himself, nor by any collusion with the debtor, do any act to impair the security or destroy the surety's interest." Nelson v. Williams, 2 Dev. & B. Eq. 118. See also Smith v. McLeod, 3 Ired. Eq. 390; Cooper v. Wilcox, 2 Dev. & B. Eq. 90; Bank v. Homesley, 99 N. C. 531, 6 S. E. 797.

§ 3963. Summary remedy of surety against principal.—Any person who may have paid money for and on account of those for whom he became surety, upon producing to the superior court, or any justice of the peace having jurisdiction of the same, a receipt, and showing that an execution has issued, and he has satisfied the same, and making it appear by sufficient testimony that he has laid out and expended any sum of money as the surety of such person, may move the court or justice of the peace, as the case may be, for judgment against his principal for the amount which he has actually paid; a situation having previously issued against the principal to show cause why execution should not be awarded; and should the principal not show sufficient cause, the court or justice shall award execution against the estate of the principal. (Rev., s. 2842; Code, s. 2093; R. C., c. 110, s. 1; 1797, c. 487, s. 1.)

I. General Considerations.
II. Subrogation.
III. Assignments.

I. GENERAL CONSIDERATIONS.

See 13 N. C. Law Rev., 116.

The words "Superior Court" used in this section mean the clerk of the Superior Court. Bank v. Hotel Co., 147 N. C. 594, 61 S. E. 570.

Cannot Sue in Tort.—A surety who has paid money for his principal cannot sue him in an action of tort. Ledbetter v. Torney, 33 N. C. 294.

Citation Issued to Principal.—The section providing that a surety who shows that he has paid out money upon a judgment against his principal and himself may have a citation issued to the principal by the clerk to show cause why execution should not be awarded him therefor, is constitutional. Bank v. Hotel Co., 147 N. C. 594, 61 S. E. 570.

Notice to Corporation to Show Cause.—A notice issued by a court of competent jurisdiction, served upon the secretary and treasurer of a corporation, to show cause why an execution should not be awarded in favor of a surety who has paid a judgment against the corporation and himself, which sets out the date and amount of the judgment, the relation of the parties, that the surety has actually expended money in payment of said judgment, and that the principal has not reimbursed him, is a compliance with the section. Bank v. Hotel Co., 147 N. C. 594, 61 S. E. 570.

Validity of Order.—While, under the section the court may not revive a dormant judgment against the principal and the surety, an order otherwise valid is not rendered void by the addition of the words "that the judgment heretofore rendered is hereby revived, to the end that execution may be issued." The last sentence will be regarded as surplusage. Bank v. Hotel Co., 147 N. C. 594, 61 S. E. 570.

When Surety Entitled to Action for Money Paid.—A judgment against a surety will not entitle him to maintain an action for money paid to the use of the defendant, until it has been satisfied. Hodges v. Armstrong, 14 N. C. 253.

To enable a surety to recover for money paid to the use of his principal, he must prove an actual payment in satisfaction of the debt. Hodges v. Armstrong, 14 N. C. 253.

Right of Surety When Funds Misapplied.—Where a surety prays a judgment against his principal he may recover my funds wrongfully converted or misapplied by the principal. Fidelity Co., v. Jordan, 134 N. C. 236, 46 S. E. 496.

Surety Cannot Trace Property.—A surety who has to pay the debt, has no equity to follow the specific property which the principal debtor purchased with the borrowed money. Carlton v. Simonton, 94 N. C. 401.

Same—Bank Deposits.—Where the principal debtor borrowed a sum of money, which he deposited in a bank which soon afterwards became insolvent, and the surety had to pay the debt, the surety has no equity to enjoin the principal debtor from collecting the dividends from the insolvent bank, until he can recover a judgment. Carlton v. Simonton, 94 N. C. 401.

Right against Partnership.—Where a writ is issued against two copartners for partnership debt, and one of them is arrested and gives bail, such bail, upon being afterwards compelled by due course of law to pay the debt, has no remedy except against the individual for whom he became bail. He has no claim upon the other partner. The case of Osborne v. Cunningham, 4 Dev. & Bat., 423, cited and approved. Foley v. Robards, 25 N. C. 177.

Where one endorsed a note at the request of a member of a firm for the purpose of obtaining money or the use of the firm, and the proceeds were so used, the endorser, upon payment of the note, can recover therefor against the firm, though no member of such firm signed the note. Springs v. McCoy, 122 N. C. 628, 29 S. E. 903.

When Surety's Liability Barred by Limitations.—Property mortgaged by an administrator to a surety to secure him against loss may be subjected to payment of estate debts, though the personal liability of the surety is barred. Hooker v. Yellowley, 128 N. C. 297, 38 S. E. 889.

The obligation of a bond for the forthcoming of property is only that the property shall be delivered to the officer at the time designated, and not that the execution shall be delivered to the officer at the time designated and not that the execution shall be satisfied; and therefore, if a surety to the forthcoming bond before it is forfeited discharges the execution without the request of his principal, such surety cannot maintain an action against his principal for money expended for the latter's use, although by the payment of the money in satisfaction of the execution the bond was discharged. Gray v. Bowls, 18 N. C. 437.

When Mortgage Inures to Benefit of Creditors.—A mortgage given by an administrator to a surety on his bond to secure the latter against loss inures to the benefit of the creditors of the estate. Hooker v. Yellowley, 128 N. C. 297, 38 S. E. 889.

Bond of Guardian in Suit on Behalf of Ward.—Where a guardian, having given a bond for the prosecution of a suit by him on behalf of his ward and signed the same individually, was compelled to pay the costs of the suit out of his individual estate, he cannot recover the same under the provisions of this section, which gives a summary method for reimbursement of a surety who has paid money for another. Green v. Burgess, 117 N. C. 495, 23 S. E. 439.

II. SUBROGATION.

Subrogation Explained. — Subrogation is the substitution of another person in the place of a creditor, so that the former can succeed to the rights of the latter in relation to the debt, and to entitle one to such equitable relief, he must have paid the money upon request or as surety or under some compulsion made necessary by the adequate protection of his own rights. Liles v. Rogers, 113 N. C. 197, 18 S. E. 104.

Legal subrogation is based upon payment and exists where one who has an interest to protect or is secondarily liable makes payment, while conventional subrogation, so named from the convention or agreement of the civil law, is founded upon the agreement of the parties, which really amounts to an equitable assignment. Liles v. Rogers, 113 N. C. 197, 18 S. E. 104; Bank v. Bank, 158 N. C. 250, 73 S. E. 157; Pub. Co. v. Barber, 165 N. C. 478, 488, 81 S. E. 694; Joyner v. Reflector Co., 176 N. C. 274, 278, 97 S. E. 44.

The doctrine of equity, upon which subsequent cases have been ruled, was announced in Deering v. Earl of Winchelsea (1787) White & Tudor's L. C. Eq. 784, and Pomeroy, Eq. (3d Ed.) 1419, in which it is said: "By the fact of payment the surety becomes an equitable assignee of all such securities, and is entitled to have them assigned and delivered up to him by the creditor, in order that he may enforce them for his own reimbursement and exoneration. If, therefore, the creditor refuses to surrender up such securities, the surety may maintain an equitable suit to compel their assignment and surrender. Bank v. McArthur, 261 Fed. 97, 103.

It is held that an indorser on a note may pay it and demand its delivery, and if the contract has been merged into a judgment, his right is to an assignment of the judgment and enforce it for his own benefit. Eno v. Crook, 10 N. Y. 66; Freeman on Judgments, 471; Lennox v. Prout, 3 Wheat. 521, 4 L. Ed. 449. The principle is clearly stated by Prof. Langdell: "If payment of a debt be secured by a pledge of the debtor's property, and also by the obligation of a personal surety, and the surety pay the debt, equity will compel the creditor to deliver the pledge to him and not to the debtor, though the latter has a clear legal right to receive it, the debt being paid and extinguished; i. e., equity destroys the legal right of the debtor, and converts the creditor into a trustee for surety. This is done upon the theory that the debt is not paid by the surety, but is purchased by him, and that he is therefore entitled to the pledge as an incident of the debt. This, however, is only a fiction—a fiction, moreover, which is contrary to law, for the payment by the surety extinguishes the debt. Equity does this under the name of subrogation, and perhaps her best justification is that she borrowed both the name and the thing from the civil law." Bank v. McArthur, 261 Fed. 97, 103.

A surety paying the debt of his principal is entitled to be subrogated to all the rights of the creditors, against a co-surety as well as against the principal, and this includes the right to have a judgment which he has paid assigned to a trustee for his benefit, so as to compel his co-surety to pay his pro rata part. Peebles v. Gay, 115 N. C. 38, 20 S. E. 173.

In Brandt on Suretyship, sec. 347, quoted in Tripp v. Harris, 154 N. C. 296, 299, 70 S. E. 470, it is said: "A surety who pays the debt of his principal is entitled to subrogation to a mortgage given by the principal to the creditor for the security of the debt, and he may, with or without a formal assignment thereof, have the same foreclosed in his own name, for his benefit."

Where a surety, as such, paid the whole of a debt, then the section gives him a right of action against co-sureties at law, and also such priority as the creditor would have had as a claimant against his principal's estate. Holden v. Strickland, 116 N. C. 185, 195, 21 S. E. 684.

Rights Acquired.—The party for whose benefit the doctrine of subrogation is invoked and exercised can acquire no greater rights than those of the party for whom he is substituted, and if the latter had not a right of recovery the former can acquire none. Sheldon on Subrogation, sec. 6; Clark v. Williams, 70 N. C. 679; Liles v. Rogers, 113 N. C. 197, 201, 18 S. E. 104.

An endorser or surety who pays the indebtedness is subrogated to the rights of the creditor as against the property of the debtor. Ex parte Pittinger, 142 N. C. 85, 54 S. E. 845.

A surety to an administration bond who paid one-half of a debt recovered against the insolvent administrator is not subrogated to the rights of the creditor whose debt he paid, but to the right of the administrator for whom he paid it. Clark v. Williams, 70 N. C. 679.

Same—Liens and Securities.—A surety who pays the debt, is subrogated to all the specific liens and securities which the creditor has against the principal debtor. Carlton v. Simonton, 94 N. C. 401.

When Doctrine Cannot Be Invoked.—If a surety pays a judgment and has it entered "satisfied," without having it assigned to a trustee for his benefit, the remedy of subrogation is lost. Peebles v. Gay, 115 N. C. 38, 20 S. E. 173.

Where several or successive obligations of suretyship be not in substance and nature for the same thing, and have no relation to or operation upon each other, the doctrine of subrogation can not be invoked. Liles v. Rogers, 113 N. C. 197, 18 S. E. 104.

Same—Corporation Note.—The endorsers on a note of a corporation secured by mortgage on its property are not entitled to subrogation, either legal or conventional, when it is ascertained that the note was paid by the corporation, and not the endorsers, and where there is evidence that the latter had paid it, the question should be submitted to the jury. Joyner v. Reflector Co., 176 N. C. 274, 97 S. E. 44.

Rights of Surety against Party Receiving Money with Full Knowledge.—A surety company which has been called upon to pay a devastavit committed by its principal, an administrator, is entitled to be subrogated to the rights of the creditor against a party who received the money with knowledge of its wrongful appropriation, and his rights are exactly those of the creditor. Caviness v. Fidelity Co., 140 N. C. 58, 52 S. E. 265.

A surety, omitted in the deed in trust to secure the sureties is entitled to be subrogated to the rights of his co-sureties pro tanto, if he has paid the debts, and the payees in the notes have a superior equitable right of subrogation to the benefit of any security given by the principal debtor to his sureties. James v. Gaither, 93 N. C. 358, 362; Sherrod v. Dixon, 120 N. C. 60, 63, 26 S. E. 770; Harrison v. Styres, 74 N. C. 290; Wisewall v. Potts, 58 N. C. 184, 189. And this is true whether they knew of it or not. Matthews v. Joyce, 85 N. C. 258, 266; Brandt on Suretyship, sec. 282; Blanton & Co. v. Bostic, 126 N. C. 418, 420, 35 S. E. 1035.

III. ASSIGNMENTS.

Preservation of Lien by Assignment.—A surety may preserve the lien of judgment against the principal and himself by paying the judgment creditor and having the judgment assigned to a third person for his own benefit; and this also applies to a judgment against his co-sureties and himself in enforcing an equality of obligation between them. Fowle v. McLean, 168 N. C. 537, 84 S. E. 852.

A surety who pays the amount recovered against him and his principal, or co-sureties, may have the judgment assigned to another in trust for his use, and it will continue in force for his benefit; and he may, upon motion in the cause, have satisfaction of the judgment entered. even against the consent of the assignee. State v. Hearn, 109 N. C. 150, 13 S. E. 895.

Assignment of Right by Surety.—Where one of two defendants has paid a joint judgment upon a note against them both, and has the judgment assigned to another for his use, who brings action to recover against the other judgment debtor, he may, as between themselves, show that the defendant in the second action was the principal payee, and that he, the plaintiff, was an indorser, though not pleaded in the original action, and recover the full amount of the judgment he has paid, the action being, in substance, one by the surety on the note to recover against the principal thereon. Haywood v. Russell, 182 N. C. 711, 110 S. E. 81.

When One-half of Judgment Paid and Other Assigned.—

Where a surety who paid and had satisfaction entered as to one-half of a judgment against himself, his principal and a co-surety, and procured the judgment as to the other half to be assigned to a trustee for his benefit, it was in effect the same as if he had procured the whole judgment to be so assigned. Peebles v. Gay, 115 N. C. 38, 20 S. E. 173.

When Assignment of Security Taken.—If an assignment of the security is taken, the surety may have his redress upon it immediately in the name of the creditor but while it is not in force, the surety can not maintain an action for the money paid for the assignment. Hodges v. Armstrong, 14 N. C. 253.

When Person Charged with Notice of Assignment. — Where a judgment against a principal and the sureties on a note is paid by the sureties, and an assignment thereof is made to a trustee for the benefit of the sureties, but by a mistake payment is entered on the judgment record, which is afterwards corrected by the entry thereon of the assignment, a person taking a mortgage on the property of the judgment debtor, after the assignment is entered on the record, takes with notice of the assignment. Patton v. Cooper, 132 N. C. 791, 44 S. E. 676.

§ 3964. Subrogation of surety paying debt of deceased principal. — Whenever a surety, or his representative, shall pay the debt of his deceased principal, the claim thus accruing shall have such priority in the administration of the assets of the principal as had the debt before its payment. (Rev., s. 2843; Code, s. 2096; R. C., c. 110, s. 4; 1829, c. 23.)

Scope. — This section which confers on the claim of a surety, paying the debt for which he is surety, the dignity, in the administration of the assets of the principal, which the debt, if unpaid would have had, applies to a judgment whether the payment be made before or after the death of the principal. Drake v. Coltrane, 44 N. C. 300.

When Co-surety Deemed Bond Creditor. — A co-surety, who pays the bond debt for which the other surety is equally bound, shall be deemed a bond creditor in the administration of the estate of the deceased co-surety, under the act of 1828 as construed in Drake v. Coltrane, 44 N. C. 300; Howell v. Reams, 73 N. C. 391.

When a plaintiff, a co-surety, discharged the bond debt, for the payment of which the defendant's intestate was equally bound, he becomes a bond creditor as to the assets of the intestate; and when, pending an action for contribution, the administrator paid off the bonds voluntarily, of equal dignity with said surety debt, having previously paid an open account, he committed a devastavit to the extent of the plaintiff's claim for contribution, such claim being for a sum smaller than the bonds so preferred and the open account. Howell v. Reams, 73 N. C. 391.

Applied, in subrogating widow to rights of mortgagee where policy in which she is named beneficiary is assigned to and paid to mortgagee, in Russel v. Owen, 203 N. C. 262, 165 S. E. 687.

§ 3965. Contribution among sureties. — Where there are two or more sureties for the performance of a contract, and one or more of them may have been compelled to perform and satisfy the same, or any part thereof, and the principal shall be insolvent, or out of the state, such surety may have and maintain an action against every other surety for a just and ratable proportion of the sum which may have been paid as aforesaid, whether of principal, interest or cost. (Rev., s. 2844; Code, s. 2094; R. C., c. 110, s. 2; 1807, c. 722.)

I. The Right to Contribution Generally.
II. When Surety Obtains Advantage over Co-sureties.
III. Contribution Enforced.
  A. In General.
  B. Actions and Incidents Thereto.

I. THE RIGHT TO CONTRIBUTION GENERALLY.

Editor's Note.—Atwater v. Farthing, 118 N. C. 388, 24 S. E. 736, was a case where A endorsed a note for the maker, and subsequently, but before it was discounted, F endorsed it. The principal became insolvent and left the state. A paid the note. The court held that F was a co-surety, and that the doctrine of contribution was applicable for A's benefit. Mr. Justice Furches, who delivered the opinion of the Court, said that the decision was governed by Daniel v. McRae, 9 N. C. 590; and Dawson v. Pettway, 20 N. C. 551. There are a number of other cases to the same effect, but these two seem to be the leading ones. The learned Justice concluded the opinion by saying: "It was admitted by the learned counsel who argued for the defendant that Daniel v McRae, supra, was against him. But he contended that this opinion was not supported by principle and was in conflict with the adjudged cases of nearly every State of the Union, and that it had been severely criticised by this Court. But whether it was put on sound business principles or not (and we do not say that it was not), and whether it has been criticised or not (and we must admit that it has been), it has stood for itself since 1823; and although it was criticised by Gaston, J., delivering the opinion of the Court in Dawson v. Pettway, supra, in 1839, he then said it has been too long the recognized law of the State to be reversed, even admitting that the reasoning upon which it was founded was not sound. And if it had been the recognized law in 1839 for too great length of time to be changed, how much greater is that reason now, after a period of more than fifty years since that opinion was rendered? According to this opinion, the defendants were co-sureties and subject to the doctrine of contribution. We can add nothing to the argument contained in these cases, and we do not propose to re-occupy this field of discussion, exhausted by Judge Henderson and Judge Gaston more than fifty years ago."

Rule of Contribution.—The rule of contribution is founded upon the maxim that "equality is equity," and not upon contract. It is a rule of common justice whereby parties who undertake to account for the default or miscarriage of another, should equally bear the burden imposed by a failure of their principal. As between them, there is no agreement implied, but an equitable presumption raised by the fact of the payment by one, that the others will equalize the burden thus borne by him, by paying to him such sum as will make the loss equal upon each, which can be rebutted by showing that there was an agreement, whether verbal or written, to the contrary. 1 Brand Suretyship and Guaranty, Sec. 261. Smith v. Carr, 128 N. C. 150, 153, 38 S. E. 732; Allen v. Wood, 38 N. C. 386.

This maxim can only be applied to those whose situations are equal; otherwise equality is not equity, and hence if one surety stipulate for a separate indemnity, the equality of situation between him and his co-surety ceases, and the maxim does not apply. Moore v. Moore, 11 N. C. 358.

It is broadly stated in 2 Brandt Suretyship 309, that "A surety who pays his principal's debt is entitled to be subrogated to all the rights and remedies of the creditor against his co-surety in the same manner as against the principal." This is found in reason and justice, and up to the adoption of our present Constitution was enforced in the courts of equity. Art. IV, sec. 1, of the Constitution abolished the distinction between actions at law and suits in equity, leaving such rights and remedies to be enforced in the one court, which theretofore had administered simply legal rights. Peebles v. Gay, 115 N. C. 38, 41, 20 S. E. 173.

The liability of sureties among themselves is controlled by the equitable principle of equality arising out of a common risk, and in case of insolvency or nonresidence these rights are adjusted by reference to the number of sureties who are solvent or who have property available to process within the jurisdiction of the court. Fowle v. McLean, 168 N. C. 537, 84 S. E. 852.

Same—Primary and Conditional Liability. — The equitable doctrine of contribution is enforced upon the principle that those engaged in a common hazard in the same degree or relation should bear the loss equally, but where one is surety and the others indorsers, the liability of the former is primary and of the latter a conditional one, and not being in the same situation with regard to the hazard, the surety is not entitled to contribution from the indorsers. Edwards v. Jefferson Standard Life Ins. Co., 173 N. C. 614, 92 S. E. 695.

Presumption of Equity.—Co-principals and co-sureties are presumed to assume equal liability, but this presumption may be rebutted by parol evidence. Smith v. Carr, 128 N. C. 150, 38 S. E. 732.

Surety for Other Sureties.—It is entirely competent for one person to become surety for other sureties, or to limit the extent of his liability with respect to other sureties. The test of liability is the intent of the parties as indicated by their agreement. Citizens Nat. Bank v. Burch, 145 N. C. 316, 317, 318, 59 S. E. 71.

Sureties on Successive Guardianship Bonds.—The sureties to the successive bonds of a guardian stand in the relation of co-sureties, one bond to the other or others, and are liable, in case of insolvency of the guardian, to contribution in proportion to the amount of the several penalties of the bonds. The risk they take is a joint risk, and there is an implied engagement or obligation, each set of sureties with the other, to bear any loss which may fall on them proportionally, as above stated; or, if it is borne by one class, to contribute by way of reimbursement. Bell v. Jasper, 37 N. C. 597; Jones v. Hays, 38 N. C. 502; Bright v. Lennon, 83 N. C. 184, 187.

Where a guardian gives several successive bonds for the faithful discharge of his trust, the sureties on each bond stand in the relation of co-sureties to the sureties on every other bond; the only qualification to the rule being, that the sureties are bound to contribution only according to the amount of the penalty of the bond in which each class is bound. Jones v. Hays, 38 N. C. 502.

All the bonds given by a guardian are but securities for the same thing, and the sureties on each are bound to contribution, but their liabilities are in proportion to the amount of their respective bonds. Jones v. Blanton, 41 N. C. 115.

When Surety Should Answer for Default and Stop Costs.—As a general rule, upon the default and insolvency of a principal, a surety should answer for the default, and not unnecessarily let cost be run up where the liability and amount thereof is clear. But where, as in the instant case, the guardian claimed to have settled with and paid the wards, it was prudent in plaintiff in regard to his own interests and as an act of justice to his co-sureties on other bonds, to incur costs to the point of developing how the fact of alleged settlement was, and to this effect are the authorities. Brandt Suretyship, sec. 248; McKinson v. George, 2 Rich. (S. C.) Eq., 15; Fletcher v. Jackson, 23 Vt. 593; Bright v. Lennon, 83 N. C. 184, 188.

The costs incurred by one surety, or one set of sureties, are not always to be regarded as a loss borne to which in equity contribution may be had, but it would seem to depend on the prudence and bona fides of the defense by which they were incurred. Bright v. Lennon, 83 N. C. 184, 188.

Assets Given Up by Mistake of Law.—Where A and B were co-sureties on an administration bond, and being sued upon the same by one of the next of kin, and while the suit was pending compromised the same under the advice of counsel and from an honest belief that both were liable to a larger sum on account of the devastavit and insolvency of their principal, and it is afterwards discovered that B, who had administered on the estate of the principal, had, by a misapprehension of law, but acting under legal counsel, and in good faith, erroneously given up assets of their principal to another claim, which, if they had been held by him, would have saved them both from loss by this suretyship, yet it was held that A could not sustain a bill to throw the whole loss on B, there being no evidence that B had concealed from A the fact of having thus parted with the assets and not making any allegation of fraud or imposition on the part of B. Brandon v. Medley, 54 N. C. 313.

Release of Principal.—A surety who seeks to recover from a cosurety a ratable part of money paid must take care to do no act which will prevent the cosurety from having recourse against the principal. If, therefore, he release the principal, it is a discharge of the cosurety. Draughan v. Bunting, 31 N. C. 10.

Sureties on Sheriff's Tax Bond.—The right of contribution does not exist between sureties of the different bonds of a sheriff as tax collector. McGuire v. Williams, 123 N. C. 349, 357, 31 S. E. 627.

When One Surety in Fact Surety for Cosurety.—Where A. and B. signed a negotiable note apparently as joint principals, when, in fact, the latter was surety for the former and the appellant signed the note by writing his name across the back, with the word "surety" underneath, it was held that in the absence of any evidence that appellant knew of the relation between the makers, he was surety for the two, and that surety B. could not compel contribution. Citizens Nat. Bank v. Burch, 145 N. C. 316, 317, 59 S. E. 71.

Released by Securing Part of Debt.—If there be several sureties for the same principal, and one of them be fixed with the payment of the whole debt, or of more than his rateable part thereof, the others, who are solvent, shall be compelled to contribute, in order to equalize the loss. But if by any agreement between the sureties, one of them is released by the creditor, upon his securing the payment of a certain part of the debt, he shall not afterwards be called upon to contribute to one or more of the remaining sureties, for a loss arising from the deficiency of another to them. Moore v. Isley, 22 N. C. 372.

Agreement between Sureties.—There can be no doubt that after two persons have become sureties for a common principal they may, by agreement between themselves, renounce their right to take benefit from any securities they may respectively obtain, and each look out for himself exclusively for an indemnity from the principal or for contribution from another co-surety. Long v. Barnett, 38 N. C. 631; Commissioners v. Nichols, 131 N. C. 501, 505, 42 S. E. 938.

Where the land of one of two sureties of a third person was sold under execution for the debt, and the other surety and a third person bid it off, it was held that an agreement by the surety who owned the land to take the whole debt upon himself and satisfy the execution in return for an assignment of the bid to him, was a promise to pay his own debt and not affected by the statute of frauds; and in such case the surety who paid could not obtain contribution from his co-surety. Hockaday v. Parker, 53 N. C. 16.

II. WHEN SURETY OBTAINS ADVANTAGE OVER CO-SURETIES.

Property Advanced by Principal to One of Sureties.—Where money is advanced by the principal to one of the sureties, to discharge the debt, before the debt is actually discharged, the co-surety may file his bill in equity for an account and for relief but if the money is paid by the principal after the debt has been discharged by the sureties, to one of two sureties, to reimburse both, then the co-surety has his remedy against the surety receiving the money, by an action at law for money had and received, and, therefore, can not support a suit in equity. Allen v. Wood, 38 N. C. 386.

An indemnity obtained from a principal by one of two co-sureties, after the risk is incurred, inures equally to the benefit of both. Pool v. Williams, 30 N. C. 286.

Where the principal placed property in the hands of a surety sufficient to satisfy the debt, and then left the State, it was held, that a third person, also bound for the debt as surety, having been compelled to pay it, might recover its amount from the person who had received the property without making a previous demand. Parham v. Green, 64 N. C. 436, citing with approval Draughn v. Bunting, 31 N. C. 10, 12; Hall v. Robinson, 30 N. C. 56, 58; Sherrod v. Woodward, 15 N. C. 360; Norfleet v. Cromwell, 64 N. C. 1.

When two persons engage in a common risk as sureties for a third and one of them subsequently takes an indemnity from the principal debtor it inures to the benefit of both. Fagan v. Jacocks, 15 N. C. 263; Gregory v. Murrell, 37 N. C. 233, 236; Hall v. Robinson, 30 N. C. 56.

Separate Indemnity.—In Long v. Barnett, 38 N. C. 631, Ruffin, C. J., speaking for the court said: "As one, when he is about to become a surety with others, may stipulate for a separate indemnity from the principal to him, and the co-sureties would be only entitled to a surplus after his reimbursement." Moore v. Moore, 11 N. C. 358; 15 Am. Dec., 523; Commissioners v. Nichols, 131 N. C. 501, 505, 42 S. E. 938.

When Indemnity May Be Reached.—The indemnity taken by one surety can be reached by the other only in two cases, either when it was taken in fraud, or for the benefit of the other. Moore v. Moore, 11 N. C. 358.

Before and after Severance of Relationship.—While the relation of joint sureties exists, funds received by one of them (except under special circumstances) for the discharge of, or, as an indemnity against, his liability, are to be applied for the common benefit of the sureties. But after that connection has been severed by an agreement among the sureties, each of them has his distinct and several claim to prosecute, because of what he has paid for his principal, or for an insolvent joint surety; and the others have no right to demand participation in what his diligence may enable him to procure, while thus prosecuting his several claims. Moore v. Isley, 22 N. C. 372.

When Advantage Lost by Laches. — Where the surety merely had a deed of trust for certain property, as an indemnity, executed by the principal, and neglected to have it registered, so that the property was sold by other creditors, the co-surety is not entitled, on account of this laches, to make him responsible for the value of the property. Pool v. Williams, 30 N. C. 286.

Supplementary Surety.—Where one of two sureties claims to be a supplemental surety by agreement, the burden is upon him to show the agreement. Carr v. Smith, 129 N. C. 232, 39 S. E. 831.

Parties.—One of three joint solvent sureties cannot sustain a bill against either of his co-sureties for contribution out of a fund alleged to have been received by that surety for his indemnity from the estate of an insolvent co-surety, without making the other a party. Moore v. Isley, 22 N. C. 372.

III. CONTRIBUTION ENFORCED.

A. In General.

Accommodation Maker and Endorser.—An accommodation maker who pays a note may recover contribution for an accommodation endorser of the note where they intended to become co-sureties. Gilliam v. Walker, 189 N. C. 189, 126 S. E. 424.

Co-surety Paying Bond Debt Deemed Bond Creditor. — In Howell v. Reams, 73 N. C. 391 it was held that a cosurety who pays the bond debt, for which the other surety is equally bound, shall be deemed a bond creditor in the administration of the estate of the deceased co-surety. Peebles v. Gay, 115 N. C. 38, 41, 20 S. E. 173.

Liable for Ratable Part of Debt Only.—The section provides that where one or more sureties have been compelled to satisfy the contract of their principal, they may sue their co-sureties for their ratable part of the debt paid for the principal. Peebles v. Gay, 115 N. C. 38, 41, 20 S. E. 173.

There was a judgment against the principal and two sureties, and an execution levied on the property of one of the sureties. A bought this property from this surety, pending the levy, and, afterwards, obtained an assignment of the judgment, to enable him to have the whole amount satisfied out of the property of the co-surety, and issued an execution for that purpose. It was held, that he was restrained from collecting out of the co-surety more than the fair proportion which the latter owed, whether A had actual notice of the lien of the execution or not. Dobson v. Prather, 41 N. C. 31, citing with approval the cases of Gilkey v. Dickerson, 2 Hawks, 341; Brassfield v. Whitaker, 4 Hawks, 309; Bell v. Hill, 1 Hay. 72; Ricks v. Blount, 4 Dev., 128; and Jones v. Judkins, 4 Dev. & Bat., 454.

Rights of Surety Paying Entire Debt.—Under the act of 1807, now this section, one surety may recover at law from another his ratable proportion of the debt of the principal, but the rights of the surety who pays the debt are not enlarged nor is the co-surety deprived of any just grounds of defense which would before have been available to him in equity. Hall v. Robinson, 30 N. C. 56.

In Case of Absent Co-surety.—A co-surety must make contribution, without regard to the share of contribution, which the absent co-surety would have had to pay, had he been within the reach of the process of our courts. Jones v. Blanton, 41 N. C. 115.

Accommodation Endorser Not Liable as Co-surety. — Where A, as surety, signed the note of B, payable to C, and it was endorsed by C, at the request and for the accommodation of B, there being no contract between A and C whereby they agree to become co-sureties of B, it was held that A had no right to contribution from C. Smith v. Smith, 16 N. C. 173.

Liability Need Not Be Fixed by Judgment.—It is not necessary, to entitle a surety to maintain an action for contribution, that the amount of his liability which was paid by him should be fixed by a judgment. Bright v. Lennon, 83 N. C. 184.

Statute of Limitations.—In the case of a surety's payment and action for contribution against the co-surety, the statute of limitations runs only from the payment. Sherrod v. Woodward, 15 N. C. 360; Craven v. Freeman, 82 N. C. 361, 363.

A surety who pays money for his principal, may maintain an action against his co-surety for his ratable part, without first making a demand, and the statute of limitations therefore begins to run from the time of the payment of the money. Sherrod v. Woodward, 15 N. C. 360.

Same—Failure to Plead Limitations When Sued. — A surety when sued is not bound to plead the statute of limitations, but may or may not according to his discretion. Jones v. Blanton, 41 N. C. 115; Street v. Comrs., 70 N. C. 644; Craven v. Freeman, 82 N. C. 361. And if so, the withdrawal of such a plea or a waiver of it ought not to affect and does not affect the right to contribution. The design of that plea is to protect against a false and unjust claim or one of whose discharge the evidence is lost, but it is not obligatory in morals or law to use it to defeat a just debt. Bright v. Lennon, 83 N. C. 184, 189.

A surety to a guardian bond, when sued by the wards, is not bound to avail himself of the statute of limitations and a failure to do so does not release co-sureties. Jones v. Blanton, 41 N. C. 115.

B. Actions and Incidents Thereto.

Action at Law for Aliquot Parts.—An action at law by a surety for contribution lies only against the co-sureties, severally, for the aliquot part due from each. Adams v. Hayes, 120 N. C. 383, 27 S. E. 47.

Where two sureties on a note to a bank agreed, after the insolvency of their principal, to employ a broker to buy notes of the bank to an amount sufficient to pay the debt, and one of them paid the broker for notes purchased by him, and discharged the debt, it was held, that he could maintain an action on the case against his co-surety for contribution. DeRossett v. Bradley, 63 N. C. 17.

Surety Should Allege Principal's Insolvency.—When one surety brings a bill for contribution against a co-surety, he should at least allege that the principal is insolvent, so that he can have no redress against him. For the equity of a plaintiff, seeking contribution from a co-surety, lies in the insolvency of the principal. Allen v. Wood, 38 N. C. 386.

A surety has no right to call upon his co-surety in equity for contribution, without showing that he could not obtain satisfaction for the amount he has paid from their common principal. Rainey v. Yarborough, 37 N. C. 249.

When Insolvency Not Alleged and Improper Relief Asked. —Where a complaint in an action by a surety for contribution, joined the principals as parties, and alleged the contract of suretyship, payment by the plaintiff and demand of the co-sureties "for their contributive shares," and asked judgment against all, but did not allege insolvency of the principal except by the averment that plaintiff was compelled to pay the debt, it was held, that though the proper relief was not asked, and the insolvency of the principals was imperfectly alleged, the cause of action will be construed, on demurrer, as equitable rather than legal, in order to confer jurisdiction below. Adams v. Hayes, 120 N. C. 383, 27 S. E. 47.

Costs Paid by Plaintiff.—In an action by a surety of an insolvent guardian for contribution against other sureties, it is proper to include in the sum adjudged to be raised by contribution costs which were paid by plaintiff in an action against him as a condition for leave to plead the statute of limitations. Bright v. Lennon, 83 N. C. 184.

When Surety Must Show Actual Money Payment. — Where a surety brings an action of assumpsit, for money paid for the use and at the request of the defendant, against his co-surety, to obtain contribution, it is not sufficient for him to show that he has given his note for the debt due by the principal, and that the same has been accepted by the creditor as a payment and discharge of the debt. To entitle him to recover in this action, he must prove an actual payment in money, or in money's worth, such as bank notes, the note of a third person, or a horse or the like, which is valuable in itself to the surety who parts with it. Brisendine v. Martin, 23 N. C. 286.

Notice.—In an action for contribution by a surety against four different guardian bonds, with different penalties and different sureties, some solvent and some otherwise, it is not necessary that notice should be given before the action is brought. Bright v. Lennon, 83 N. C. 184.

Right to Demand Waived.—Where the plaintiff brings suit for contribution against a co-surety on a note, alleging his liability as such, and that he had failed or refused reimbursement to the extent of his liability to the plaintiff, who had paid the same, and the defendant answers, denying liability, and there is no averment that demand had been previously made on the defendant, the right to a demand is waived by the answer, and the statement of the cause of action being only defective, is cured. Shuford v. Cook, 164 N. C. 46, 80 S. E. 61.

What Co-sureties Must Be Made Parties.—A surety, who has been compelled to pay the debt of his principal, must make all his co-sureties parties to a bill for contribution, if they are in this State and solvent. But where one is out of the jurisdiction of the court, and others are within it, the plaintiff, by stating the fact in his bill, is at liberty to proceed against the latter alone. Jones v. Blanton, 41 N. C. 115.

Principal or Executor Party Defendant.—To a bill brought by one surety against his co-surety for contribution, their common principal, or, if he be dead, his executor or administrator should be made a party defendant. Rainey v. Yarborough, 37 N. C. 249.

Bankruptcy of Principal.—Where it appears that the principal on a note has secured his discharge in bankruptcy from his obligations, including a note paid at maturity by one of two sureties thereon, and that a few months thereafter the surety who paid the note brought his action for contribution against his co-surety, who has paid nothing, the right of action given by Revisal, sec. 2844, now this section, will not, without more, be denied upon the ground that it requires the insolvency of the principal, in such cases, to be shown at the institution of the action. Shuford v. Cook, 164 N. C. 46, 80 S. E. 61.

Interest on Collaterals.—In an action against an alleged co-surety to recover money paid in settlement of their joint liability, the amount received by the plaintiff as interest on collaterals deposited, should be deducted from the amount paid by plaintiff. Carr v. Smith, 129 N. C. 232, 39 S. E. 831.

Discharge of Levy by Co-surety.—A, having a judgment against B, as principal and C, as surety, C, without the consent of A, has an execution issued and levied upon B.'s property, A, has a right to withdraw the execution and discharge the levy, without making herself liable to C. Forbes v. Smith, 40 N. C. 369.

Principal's Reputation to Show Insolvency.—In an action for contribution by a surety against his co-surety, the plaintiff may offer evidence of their principal's insolvency by showing his general reputation, and this even after direct evidence of the said principal's insolvency. Leak v. Covington, 99 N. C. 559, 6 S. E. 241.

Record of Judgment in Evidence.—A surety seeking contribution from a co-surety can offer in evidence the record of a judgment against the surety as such, which, in the absence of any suggestion of fraud or collusion in procuring the same, is prima facie proof of the damages suffered by the said surety. Leak v. Covington, 99 N. C. 559, 6 S. E. 241.

Operation of Parol Evidence Rule. — The rule that parol evidence cannot be admitted to contradict a written contract, applies to actions on the contract itself, but not to such as arise collaterally out of it. So, where it appeared on the face of a note that certain parties thereto were sureties, in an action for contribution parol evidence is admissible to show that they were really principals. Williams v. Glenn, 92 N. C. 253.

§ 3966. Dissenting surety not liable to surety on stay of execution.—Whenever any judgment shall be obtained before a justice against a principal and his surety, and the principal debtor shall desire to stay the execution thereon, but the surety is unwilling that such stay shall be had, the surety may cause his dissent thereto to be entered by the justice, which shall absolve him from all liability to the surety who may stay the same. And the constable or other officer, who may have the collection of the debt, shall make the money out of the property of the principal debtor, and that of the surety for the stay of execution, if he can, before he shall sell the property of the surety before judgment. (Rev., s. 2845; Code, s. 2095; R. C., c. 110, s. 3; 1829, c. 6, ss. 1, 2.)

§ 3967. Surety may notify creditor to sue.—In all cases where any surety or indorser on any note, bill, bond, or other written obligation shall consider himself in danger of loss in consequence of his contingent liability, either from the insolvency or misconduct of the principal, in the note, bill, bond, or other written obligation, or from the negligence of the payee or holder of any such instrument, it shall be lawful for such surety or indorser, at any time after such note, bill, bond, or other written obligation becomes due and payable, to cause written notice to be given to the payee or holder of any such paper or obligation, requiring him to bring suit on such obligation, and to use all reasonable diligence to save harmless such surety or indorser: Provided, nothing herein contained shall apply to official bonds, or bonds given by any person acting in a fiduciary capacity. (Rev., s. 2846; Code, s. 2097; 1868-9, c. 232, s. 1.)

As to the statute of limitations, see subdivision 6, section 441.

Reasonable Compliance.—The requirements of this section are reasonably complied with when the holder of a negotiable note, after receiving notice in accordance with this section within thirty days causes the maker to be a party defendant, and it is made to appear that he is a non-resident. Taylor v. Bridger, 185 N. C. 85, 116 S. E. 94.

Protection Secured.—In Moore v. Goodwin, 109 N. C. 218, 13 S. E. 772, which was a case holding that payment made by a principal upon a bond, before the cause of action thereon is barred against the sureties, arrests the operation of the statute of limitations, Mr. Justice Davis, who delivered the opinion of the court, said in reference to this section: "Counsel says that if several co-obligors owe a debt of $1,000 under this ruling, if a note or bond shall be credited with the pitiful sum of ten cents within every three years, the debt may be kept in force against the sureties for a century. The hardship and injustice, so eloquently portrayed by counsel are without force, in view of the facts that the payment must be honestly made, and the credit not falsely or fraudulently given, and the surety or indorser, if he shall consider himself in danger of being held liable for a century, or for a longer time than he may wish, he can easily and safely protect himself against such hardship by giving the notice prescribed in section 2097 of the Code (now this section)."

This section affords relief to securities in cases not provided for in the pre-existing law, by requiring the creditor, at the instance of the surety who considers himself in danger of loss from his contingent liability, to bring suit, and use reasonable diligence in making his money from the principal, and saving harmless the surety, at the hazard of losing his claim upon the latter, if negligent in doing so. But official bonds or securities held as collateral are excepted from the operation of the act; nor does it reach the present case, since the requirement of the sureties was verbal only, if in other aspects applicable to the present case. There is no error, and the judgment is affirmed. Bank v. Homesley, 99 N. C. 531, 6 S. E. 797, 798.

Where an action was brought upon a negotiable instrument the defendants on its face being joint makers, a mere fact that the plaintiff had told one of the defendants, without the knowledge of the other, "that he would take up and carry the note until fall," was held to constitute an extension of payment for a "fixed and definite" period, which would operate as a release to such other from liability but his remedy is by quia timet notice under this section. Roberson-Ruffin Co. v. Spain, 173 N. C. 23, 91 S. E. 361.

Same—Endorser in Blank of Non-Negotiable Paper.—The rights of an endorser in blank upon a non-negotiable note are sufficiently protected under the section which provides that a surety or endorser on any note, bill, bond or written obligation, except those held in trust or as collateral, may notify, in writing, the payee or holder, requiring him to bring suit and use all diligence to collect, and if the payee or holder refuses to bring action within thirty days, the surety or holder giving notice is discharged. Johnson v. Lassiter, 155 N. C. 47, 71 S. E. 23.

Surety Released after Thirty Days.—The surety can give the holder written notice quia timet to bring suit under this section, and if the holder does not do so within thirty days the surety will be released. Cole v. Fox, 83 N. C. 463; Coffey v. Reinhardt, 144 N. C. 509, 512, 19 S. E. 370.

Legal Duty of Principal.—Except when required by written notice under the section it is not the legal duty of the principal to institute a suit against the debtor, or to pursue such a suit with diligence and to call to his aid all of the remedies provided by the law. Bell v. Howerton, 111 N. C. 69, 70, 15 S. E. 891.

When Inapplicable.—Where there is an agreement in a negotiable note that the endorsers will continue to be bound notwithstanding an extension of time granted to the maker, the endorsers cannot avail themselves of the provisions of this section, when the maker is a nonresident, demand for payment after dishonor has been made upon the resident endorsers, defendants in the action, and they have delayed to give the statutory notice until after action commenced. Taylor v. Bridger, 185 N. C. 85, 116 S. E. 94.

§ 3968. How notice served.—Such notice shall be served by the sheriff or his deputy, who shall return it to the party for whose benefit the notice was issued, which shall be evidence of the fact in all courts. (Rev., s. 2848; Code, s. 2099; 1868-9, c. 232, s. 3.)

To have the benefit of the next preceding section and that there may be no controversy as to whether the demand is sufficient to have this effect, it must be a notice in writing given to the creditor; and its benefits are secured to such only as give the notice if there be more than one surety. Bank v. Homesley, 99 N. C. 531, 6 S. E. 797, 798.

§ 3969. Failure of creditor to sue discharges surety; exceptions.—Should the payee or holder of any such note, bond, bill, or other written obligation refuse or fail, within thirty days from the service of such notice, to bring suit in the appropriate court in an effort to save harmless such surety or indorser, such refusal or failure to sue shall operate as a discharge of such surety or indorser, from all liability whatever, on any such note, bond, bill, or other written obligation: Provided, that this notice shall not have the effect to discharge from liability any cosurety who does not join in such notice, or who has not given a separate notice: Provided further, that this and the preceding section shall not apply to holders of such note, bond, bill, or obligation, who hold the same as collateral security or in trust. (Rev., s. 2847; Code, s. 2098; 1868-9, c. 232, s. 2.)

Extension of Time.—Where a creditor enters into a binding contract with his principal debtor for an extension of time, without consent of sureties, ipso facto discharges them, and also any security given for the debt. Flemming v. Borden, 127 N. C. 214; 53 L. R. A. 316, 37 S. E. 219; Jenkins v. Daniel, 125 N. C. 161, 74 Am. St. 632, 34 S. E. 239; Smith v. Building & Loan Asso'n, 119 N. C. 257, 26 S. E. 40; Hinton v. Greenleaf, 113 N. C. 6, 18 S. E. 56. Receipt of interest in advance is prima facie evidence of a binding contract of forbearance. Scott v. Fisher, 110 N. C. 311; 28 Am. St. 688, 14 S. E. 799; Hollingsworth v. Tomlinson, 108 N. C 245, 12 S. E. 989; Smith v. Parker, 131 N. C. 470, 42 S. E. 910.

Where a plaintiff creditor made a parol contract with principal to extend the time of payment of bond beyond the date of the commencement of a suit thereon, without the knowledge of consent of the surety, it was held, that such contract has the effect of suspending the plaintiff's right of action and of exonerating the surety from liability. Carrier v. Duncan, 84 N. C. 676.

Reservation of Right against Surety.—An agreement with a principal on a sufficient consideration to forbear to sue for a fixed period, without reserving the right to proceed against the surety and made without his assent, will exonerate him from liability. Forbes v. Sheppard, 98 N. C. 111, 3 S. E. 817.

The exoneration grows out of the agreement to forbear and is not affected by the creditor's breach of it. Forbes v. Sheppard, 98 N. C. 11, 3 S. E. 817.

§ 3970. Cancellation of contract of suretyship in case of common carrier and employee.—Whenever an employee of a common carrier authorized to do business in this state is required to give a bond or undertaking of any nature whatever with a bonding company or companies, as surety thereon, any such employee who shall have given such bond or undertaking shall, upon the breach of any of the conditions thereof by the other party or parties thereto, have the power to cancel the same by giving the surety or sureties thereon, for the benefit of whom same shall have been made, at least ten days notice in writing, setting out in full the reason for canceling the same. Any such notice to a company, corporation or association may be served by leaving the same with any person upon whom service of legal process upon such company, corporation or association may be had. Any surety on any such bond or undertaking shall, upon the breach of any of the conditions thereof by the common carrier employee for whom same shall have been made, have power to cancel the same by giving such employee at least ten days notice in writing, and, upon demand, set out in full the reasons for canceling same, the notice to be signed by an agent or manager of such surety. Nothing herein shall affect any right of action accruing to any person upon the breach of a contract; nor shall any bonding company furnishing the information which causes it to withdraw from the bond be liable in any action at the instance of the party aggrieved for damages, nor be required to disclose to the party aggrieved the sources of information that caused it to withdraw from the bond. But any bonding company may be required to give evidence in any action brought by the party aggrieved against the party or person furnishing the information causing the company to withdraw as surety.

Any person, officer or manager, company, corporation, association or firm who shall violate any of the provisions of this section shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and punished by a fine of not less than five hundred dollars nor more than one thousand dollars. (1913, c. 17.)

As to sureties on bonds of executors, administrators and collectors, see sections 33 to 44 inclusive; as to evidence against principal admissible against sureties, see section 358.

§ 3970(a). Cancellation of judgment as to surety.—Whenever a judgment shall be rendered in any court in accordance with the provisions of section thirty-nine hundred and sixty-one (3961) and the surety, endorser or other person shown in said judgment to be secondarily liable thereon and having the rights as by this chapter prescribed against the person or persons primarily liable, and the surety, endorser or other person so shown in the judgment to be secondarily liable, shall pay the said judgment or shall be compelled to pay an execution issued thereon and such fact shall appear to the satisfaction of the clerk of the Superior Court of the county in which the said judgment is rendered and docketed, such judgment shall be canceled as to said surety, endorser or other person secondarily liable and shall cease to be a lien upon his real estate and other property, but such cancellation shall not have the force and effect nor operate as a cancellation and discharge of the judgment as to any other person against whom the said judgment shall be rendered and the person so paying the said judgment shall have all the rights given to a surety who has been compelled to pay a judgment against the principal debtor and cosureties which are given in this chapter, notwithstanding the cancellation of the said judgment as herein provided for. (1925, c. 38.)

CHAPTER 77

TRADEMARKS, BRANDS AND MARKS

Art. 1. Trademarks

§ 3971. Adoption and filing for registry. — It shall be lawful for any person to adopt for his protection and file for registry, as in this chapter provided, any label, trademark, term or design that has been used or is intended to be used for the purpose of designating, making known or distinguishing any goods, wares, merchandise or products of labor that have been or may be wholly or partly made, manufactured, produced, prepared, packed or put on sale by any such person, or to or upon which any work or labor has been applied or expended by any such person, or by any member of any corporation that has adopted and filed for registry any such label, trademark, term or design as aforesaid, or announcing or indicating that the same have been made in whole or in part by any such person or corporation, or by any member thereof. (Rev., s. 3012; 1903, c. 271.)

Editor's Note.—It is deemed expedient at this point to quote at length from the opinion of the court delivered by Mr. Justice Bynum in Blackwell v. Wright, 73 N. C. 310, 312. The learned Justice lays down the theory upon which is based the law dealing with trademarks, brands, etc. His theory is, in part, as follows: "Every manufacturer has the unquestionable right to distinguish the goods that he manufactures and sells by a peculiar mark or device, so that they may be known as his in the market, and he may thus secure the profits which their superior reputation as his may be the means of gaining. If, therefore, the inventor or manufacturer adopts a label, symbol or trademark to distinguish the article he thus manufactures and sells, no other person has the right to adopt his label or trademark, or one so like his as to induce the public to suppose the article to which it is affixed is the manufacture of the inventor. This rule is grounded upon a two-fold reason: 1st, that the public may be protected from being imposed upon by a spurious or inferior article, as an imitation or counterfeit almost always is; and 2nd, that the inventor may have the exclusive benefit of the reputation which his skill has given to the article made by him. When one, therefore, adopts a symbol or device, and affixes it to the goods he thus manufactures and puts upon the market, the law will throw its protection around the trade-mark thus affixed, as his property and a thing of value. And it would seem to be immaterial whether an infringing trade-mark is adopted by fraud or mistake, for the injury is the same. When an article, not of his manufacture, is sold with the mark or device affixed, which he has adopted to distinguish his own goods, a damage results to him. His label indicates to his customers that the article is made or sold by him, or by his authority, and he will be protected against any who attempt to pirate upon the good will of his friends or customers by using such sign without his authority." American Trade-Mark Cases, 142, 72, 87.

Name of Town or Locality.—It seems, that the name of a town or locality cannot be exclusively appropriated as a trade-mark. Tob. Co. v. McElwee, 94 N. C. 425.

Use of Surname.—As a rule, a trade mark cannot be taken in a surname, and any one named Bingham could start a school called the "Bingham School," in the absence of proof of intent to injure, or fraudulently attract the benefit of the good name and reputation acquired by a previously existing "Bingham School." Brown Chemical Co. v. Meyer, 139 U. S. 540, 11 S. Ct. 625; 2 Beach Inj., sec. 762. And certainly there could be no confusion between a Bingham School at Asheville and a school even of the identically same name at Mebane, N. C. Investor Pub. Co. v. Robinson, 82 Fed. 56; Bingham School v. Gray, 122 N. C. 699, 707, 30 S. E. 304.

It is beyond the scope of the powers of the State Legislature to establish a monopoly in a family name or to confer a patent right in its use. Bingham School v. Gray, 122 N. C. 709.

But one may, by contract, conclude himself from the use of his own name in a given business, and the agreement will be enforced by the courts. Zagier v. Zagier, 167 N. C. 616, 83 S. E. 913.

§ 3972. Property rights protected by filing for registry.—Whenever any person shall adopt and file for registry any label, trademark, term or design pursuant to the provisions of this chapter, the property, privileges, rights, remedies and interests in and to any such label, trademark, term or design, and in and to the use of same, provided or given by this chapter to, or otherwise conferred upon or enjoyed by, the person filing the same for the registry, shall be fully and completely secured, preserved and protected as the property of those entitled to the same before any such label, trademark, term or design has been actually applied to any goods, wares, merchandise, or product of labor, and put upon the market for sale or otherwise, and before any use or appropriation of any such label, trademark, term or design has been made in connection with any such goods, wares, merchandise or product of labor, as well as after the same has been used or applied to designate, make known or distinguish any such goods, wares, merchandise, or product of labor and they have been put upon the market. (Rev., s. 3013; 1903, c. 271, s. 2.)

§ 3973. Filing to be with secretary of state; contents of affidavits; fees.—Any person who has heretofore adopted and used, or shall hereafter adopt and use any label, trademark, term or design, as in this chapter provided, may file the same for registry in the office of the secretary of state, by leaving two copies, facsimiles or counterparts thereof, with the said secretary, and filing therewith a statement in the form of an affidavit, subscribed and sworn to by any such person, or by any officer, agent or attorney, if a corporation, specifying the person by whom any such label, trademark, term or design is filed, and the class or character of the goods, wares, merchandise or products of labor to which the same has been or is intended to be appropriated or applied, and that the person so filing the same has the right to the use of the said label, trademark, term or design, and that no other person, firm or corporation has the right to such use, either in the identical form or in any such near resemblance thereto as may be calculated to deceive, without the permission or authority of the person filing the same, and that the copies, facsimiles or counterparts filed therewith are true and correct copies, facsimiles or counterparts of the genuine label, trademark, term or design of the person filing the same; and there shall be paid for such registry a fee of five dollars to the secretary of state for the use of the state, and the same recording fees required by law for recording certificate of organization of corporations. (Rev., s. 3014; 1903, c. 271, s. 3; 1935, c. 60.)

Editor's Note.—The amendment of 1935 increased the registry fee from one to five dollars.

§ 3974. Registration; certified copies evidence; fees.—The secretary of state, upon the filing of any such label, trademark, term or design that is not in conflict with section 3976, shall register the same, and shall deliver to the person filing the same as many certified copies thereof, with his certificate of such registry, as any such person may request, and for every such copy and certificate there shall be paid to the secretary of state, for the use of the state, a fee of one dollar; and any such certified copy and certificate shall be admissible in evidence and competent and sufficient proof of the adoption, filing and registry of any such label, trademark, term or design, by any such person in any action or judicial proceeding in any of the courts of this state, and of due compliance with the provisions of this chapter. (Rev., s. 3015; 1903, c. 271, s. 4.)

§ 3975. Transfer of trademarks.—The right to use any registered label, trademark, term or design shall be granted only by an instrument in writing, duly filed in the office of the secretary of state. The fees for recording or filing such transfer and issuing copies thereof shall be the same as for filing such label, trademark, term or design. (Rev., s. 3016.)

§ 3976. Similar trademarks refused registration.—It shall not be lawful for the secretary of state to register for any person any label, trademark, term or design that is in the identical form of any other label, trademark, term or design theretofore filed by any other person, or that bears any such near resemblance thereto as may be calculated to deceive, or that would be liable to be mistaken therefor. (Rev., s. 3017; 1903, c. 271, s. 5.)

§ 3977. Fraudulent registration; penalty.—Any person who shall file or procure the filing and registry of any label, trademark, term or design in the office of the secretary of state under the provisions of this chapter, by making any false or fraudulent representations or declarations, with fraudulent intent, shall be liable to pay any damages sustained in consequence of any such registry, to be recoverd by or in behalf of the party injured thereby. (Rev., s. 3018; 1903, c. 271, s. 5.)

§ 3978. Use of counterfeit trademarks unlawful.—Whenever any person has adopted and filed for registry any label, trademark, term or design, as provided by law, and the same shall have been registered pursuant to law, it shall be unlawful for any other person to manufacture, use, sell, offer for sale, or in any way utter or circulate any counterfeit or imitation of any such label, trademark, term or design, or have in possession, with intent that the same shall be sold or disposed of, any goods, wares, merchandise, or product of labor to which or on which any counterfeit or imitation of any such label, trademark, term or design is attached, affixed, printed, stamped, impressed or displayed, or to sell or dispose of, or offer to sell or dispose of, or have in possession with intent that the same shall be sold or disposed of, any goods, wares, merchandise, or product of labor contained in any box, case, can or package to which or on which any such counterfeit or imitation is attached, affixed, printed, stamped, impressed or displayed. (Rev., s. 3019; 1903, c. 271, s. 6.)

If it appear that the trade-mark alleged to be imitated, though resembling the complainant's in some respect, would not probably deceive the ordinary mass of purchasers, an injunction will not be granted. An imitation is colorable, and will be enjoined, which requires a careful inspection to distinguish its mark and appearance from that of the manufacture imitated. Blackwell v. Wright, 73 N. C. 310, 313.

§ 3979. Unauthorized use unlawful; use under license.—Whenever any person has adopted and registered any label, trademark, term or design, as provided by law, it shall be unlawful for any other person to make any use, sale, offer for sale or display of the genuine label, trademark, term or design of any such person filing the same, or to have any such genuine label, trademark, term or design in possession with intent that the same shall be used, sold, offered for sale, or displayed, or that the same shall be applied, attached or displayed in any manner whatever to or on any goods, wares or merchandise, or to sell, offer to sell, or dispose of, or have in possession with intent that the same shall be sold or disposed of, any goods, wares or merchandise in any box, case, can or package to or on which any such genuine label, trademark, term or design of any such person is attached, affixed, or displayed, or to make any use whatever of any such genuine label, trademark, term or design, without first obtaining in every such case the license of the person adopting, filing and registering the same; and any such license may be revoked and terminated at any time upon notice, and thereafter any use thereof shall be unlawful. (Rev., s. 3020; 1903, c. 271, s. 7.)

Before the owner of a trade-mark can call upon the courts for relief, he must show not only that he has a clear legal right to the trade-mark, but that there has been a plain violation of it; and where a violation is alleged, the true inquiry is, whether the mark of the defendant is so assimilated to that of the plaintiff as to deceive purchasers. And it will make no difference whether the party designed to mislead the public or whether the symbol adopted was calculated to deceive. Blackwell v. Wright, 73 N. C. 310, 313.

§ 3980. Remedies; damages; profits; destruction of counterfeits.—Any person who has registered any label, trademark, term or design under the provisions of this chapter shall have a right of action against any person for the unauthorized use of such label, trademark, term or design, and the courts shall by appropriate remedies prevent the unauthorized or unlawful use, manufacture or display of any label, trademark, term or design, or the imitation or counterfeit thereof, or the sale, disposal or display of any articles of property on which any counterfeit or imitation of any registered label, trademark, term or design, or on which any genuine label, trademark, term or design may be used or displayed without proper authority; and shall further secure and protect all persons in all rights of property and interest which they may have in any label trademark, term or design registered under this chapter; and the court shall award to the plaintiff any and all damages resulting from any such wrongful use of any such label, trademark, term or design; and any counterfeit or imitation of any labels, trademarks, terms or designs, and any die, engraving, mould or mechanical device or the manufacture of the same in the possession or under the control of the defendant, shall be delivered up to an officer of the court, to be destroyed, and any such genuine labels, trademarks, terms or designs in the possession or under the control of any such defendant shall be delivered to the plaintiff. (Rev., s. 3021; 1903, c. 271, s. 8.)

§ 3981. Concurrent action for penalty.—In addition to any other rights, remedies or penalties provided by this chapter, and as concurrent therewith, any person who shall violate any of the provisions of this chapter shall be liable to a penalty of two hundred dollars, to be recovered by any person who has filed any such label, trademark, term or design. (Rev., s. 3022; 1903, c. 271, s. 9.)

§ 3982. Use of private marks or labels to defraud, misdemeanor.—If any person shall knowingly and willfully forge or counterfeit, or cause or procure to be forged or counterfeited, the private marks, tokens, stamps or labels of any mechanic, manufacturer or other person, being a resident of the United States, with intent to deceive and defraud the purchasers, mechanics, or manufacturers of any goods, wares or merchandise whatsoever, upon conviction thereof he shall be punished by a fine of not less than fifty dollars and not exceeding one thousand dollars, or by imprisonment of not less than thirty days or more than five years, or both fine and imprisonment, at the discretion of the court. (Rev., s. 3852; Code, s. 1038; 1870-1, c. 253, s. 1.)

§ 3983. Selling goods with forged marks or labels, misdemeanor.—If any person shall vend any goods, wares or merchandise having thereon any forged or counterfeit marks, tokens, stamps or labels purporting to be the marks, tokens, stamps or labels of any person being a resident of the United States, knowing the same at the time of the purchase thereof by him to be forged or counterfeited, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and punished by imprisonment in the county jail not exceeding six months, or by a fine not exceeding one hundred dollars, or by both fine and imprisonment, at the discretion of the court (Rev., s. 3850; Code, s. 1039; 1870-1, c. 253, s. 2.)

§ 3984. Misbranding sacks to defraud, misdemeanor.—If any person shall knowingly use the mark or brand of any other person on any sack, or shall knowingly impress on any sack the mark or brand of another person, with intent to defraud or for the purpose of enhancing the value of his own property, the person so offending shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and punished as if convicted of larceny. (Rev., s. 3851; Code, s. 1040; 1874-5, c. 225.)

Art. 2. Timber Marks

§ 3985. Timber dealers may adopt.—Any person dealing in timber in any form shall be known as a timber dealer and as such may adopt a trademark, in the manner and with the effect in this article provided. (Rev., s. 3023; 1903, c. 261, s. 1.)

§ 3986. How adopted, registered and published. — Every such dealer desiring to adopt a trademark may do so by the execution of a writing in form and effect as follows:

Notice is hereby given that I (or we, etc., as the case may be) have adopted the following trademark, to be used in my (or our, etc.), business as timber dealer (or dealers), to wit: (Here insert the words, letters, figures, etc., constituting the trademark, or if it be any device other than words, letters or figures, insert a facsimile thereof).

Dated this .....day of ....., 19.....

A..... B.....

Such writing shall be acknowledged or proved for record in the same manner as deeds are acknowledged or proved, and shall be registered in the office of the register of deeds of the county in which the principal office or place of business of such timber dealer may be, in a book to be kept for that purpose marked Registry of Timber Marks, also in office of secretary of state, and a copy thereof shall be published at least once in each week for four successive weeks in some newspaper printed in such county, or if there be no such newspaper printed therein, then in some newspaper of general circulation in such county. (Rev., s. 3024; 1889, c. 142; 1903, c. 261, s. 2.)

§ 3987. Property in and use of trademarks.—Every trademark so adopted shall, from the date thereof, be the exclusive property of the person adopting the same. The proprietor of such trademark shall, in using the same, cause it to be plainly stamped, branded or otherwise impressed upon each piece of timber upon which the same is placed. (Rev., s. 3025; 1889, c. 142; 1903, c. 261, ss. 3, 4.)

§ 3988. Effect of branding timber purchased.—When timber is purchased by the proprietor of any such trademark, and the said trademark is placed thereon as hereinbefore provided, such timber shall thenceforth be deemed the property of such purchaser, without any other or further delivery thereof, and such timber shall thereafter be at the risk of the purchaser, unless otherwise provided by contract in writing between the parties. (Rev., s. 3026; 1889, c. 142; 1903, c. 261, s. 6.)

§ 3989. Trademark on timber evidence of ownership.—In any action, suit or contest in which the title to any timber, upon which any trademark has been placed as aforesaid, shall come in question, it shall be presumed that such timber was the property of the proprietor of such trademark, in the absence of satisfactory proof to the contrary. (Rev., s. 3027; 1903, c. 261, s. 7.)

§ 3990. Fraudulent use of timber trademark, misdemeanor. — If any person shall use or attempt to use any timber trademark without the written consent of the proprietor thereof, or falsely and fraudulently place any trademark on timber not the property of the owner of such trademark without his written consent, or intentionally and without lawful authority remove, deface or destroy any timber trademark or the imprint thereof on any timber or intentionally put any such timber in such a position or place so remote from the stream from which it was taken or on which it was afloat as to render it inconvenient or unnecessarily expensive to replace the same in such stream, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. (Rev., s. 3854; 1903, c. 261, ss. 3-5.)

§ 3991. Larceny of branded timber. — If any person shall knowingly and unlawfully buy, sell, take and carry away, secrete, destroy or convert to his own use, any timber upon which a trademark is stamped, branded or otherwise empressed, or shall knowingly and unlawfully buy, sell, take and carry away, secrete, destroy or convert to his own use, any timber upon which a trademark has been intentionally and without lawful authority removed, defaced or destroyed, he shall be deemed guilty of larceny thereof and punished as in other cases of larceny. (Rev., s. 3853; 1903, c. 261, s. 5.)

§ 3992. Altering timber trademark larceny.—If any person shall willfully change, alter, erase or destroy any registered timber mark or brand put or cut upon any logs, timber, lumber or boards, except by the consent of the owner thereof, with intent to steal the said logs or timber, he shall be guilty of a mindemeanor, and punished by a fine of not more than fifty dollars or imprisoned not more than thirty days, or both; if the same shall have been done with a felonious intent, such person shall be guilty of larceny and punished as for that offense. (Rev., s. 3855; 1889, c. 142, s. 3; 1903, c. 41.)

§ 3993. Possession of branded logs without consent, misdemeanor. — If any person shall knowingly and willfully take up or have in his possession any logs, timber, lumber or board upon which a registered timber mark or brand has been put or cut, except by the consent of the owner thereof, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and punished by a fine of not more than fifty dollars or imprisoned not more than thirty days, or both. (Rev., s. 3856; 1889, c. 142, s. 4; 1903, c. 42.)

Art. 3. Mineral Waters and Beverages

§ 3994. Description of name, labels, or marks filed and published.—Any person, partnership or corporation engaged in manufacturing, bottling, selling or dealing in mineral, soda or aerated waters, beers, large-beer, milk or other beverages, in kegs, boxes, trays, crates, bottles, syphons, barrels, casks, or other vessels, with his name or other marks or devices printed, impressed, or otherwise produced thereon, or upon labels pasted thereon, shall file with the clerk of the superior court of the county in which his principal office or place of business (or in case of a foreign corporation, its principal office or place of business or agency) is located, a description of the names, marks, or devices so used by him, and cause such description to be printed twice a week for two successive weeks in some daily newspaper published in said county, if there be a daily newspaper published therein, and if not, then in some newspaper published in said county once a week for two successive weeks. The description of the names, marks or devices, before being filed as aforesaid, shall be signed by the person filing the same, or in case of a partnership, by a partner, or in case of a corporation, by one of its officers or managers, and shall be acknowledged by the person signing the same as his act, or as the act of said partnership or corporation, before an officer competent to take acknowledgment of deeds. The publication hereby required need only be a brief description, sufficient for identification, of such names or marks, and need not contain a certified copy of the acknowledgment. The provisions of this article shall apply to all vessels enumerated above upon which said names or marks shall appear as aforesaid, whether or not any of the same shall be in existence at the time of said filing and publication. (1907, c. 901, s. 1.)

§ 3995. Clerk to record description. — The several clerks of the superior courts mentioned in the preceding section shall record in some book of record in their custody all such descriptions filed with them, and also copies of the said advertisement in the newspaper, certified to by the publishers thereof, and shall furnish copies thereof, duly certified by them in the usual manner, to any person who may apply therefor, and shall receive for the recording of such copies a fee of fifty cents. Such certified copies shall be evidence that the provisions of the preceding section have been complied with, and shall be prima facie evidence of the title of the person, named therein, to the vessels upon which his name, marks, labels or devices appear as described in said description. (1907, c. 901, s. 2.)

§ 3996. Refilling vessels and defacing marks forbidden; punishment.—After any person has filed and published his description of such names, marks or devices, in accordance with the preceding provisions of this article, it shall be unlawful for any person to fill in any way the vessels upon which such names or other marks are printed, impressed or otherwise produced, with any water or beverage enumerated in this article, or to deface, remove or conceal such names or other marks, thereon, with intent to convert the same to his use or to have on sale, offer for sale, traffic in, handle in the course of business, transport, or to take or collect from ash or garbage receptacles or from public or private premises, or to keep in stock, store or dispose of or deal or traffic in same, or any parts thereof, without the written consent of the person whose name or other marks are upon such vessels, or to willfully break, destroy or otherwise injure any of the articles mentioned in this section. Any person who shall do any of the acts declared to be unlawful by this section shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be punished for the first offense by imprisonment of not less than ten days or more than one year, or by a fine of three dollars for each of such kegs, casks or barrels, and one dollar for each of such boxes, trays, crates, bottles, syphons, or any other vessels so unlawfully used; and for the second and subsequent offense by imprisonment for not less than twenty days or more than one year, or by a fine of not less than two dollars or more than five dollars for each vessel unlawfully used, or by both such fine and imprisonment, at the discretion of the court before whom such offense is tried: Provided, this section shall not apply to such vessels as the bottler charges his customers for at the time of sale of the goods. (1907, c. 901, s. 3.)

§ 3997. Disposal of fine. — In the event of a fine being imposed by any court for any offenses under this article, one-half thereof shall go to the state and one-half to the informer, to be collected as other fines are collected. (1907, c. 901, s. 3.)

§ 3998. Possession of vessels as evidence of offense.—If any person shall be found to be in possession of any of the vessels mentioned above in this article, or any parts thereof, and the persons whose names, marks or devices have been placed thereon, as above provided, have complied with the provisions of this article, and the persons so found in possession thereof shall be charged with any of the offenses mentioned in the preceding section, then such possession shall be prima facie evidence that such person is guilty of the offenses so charged: Provided, this section shall not apply to bottlers who receive such vessels in the course of business and mixed and exchanged in shipment, when such bottler within a reasonable time notifies the owners thereof of the location thereof. (1907, c. 901, s. 4.)

§ 3999. Search warrants.—If the owner of any vessel mentioned in section 3994 of this article who has complied with the provisions thereof, or the officer, agent or employee of such owner, shall make an affidavit before a justice of the peace asserting that he has reason to believe and does believe that any person is in actual or constructive possession of, or is making use of, any article above mentioned or any part thereof, or in any way declared to be unlawful by section 3996 of this article, the justice may issue his search warrant to any sheriff, constable or other officer of the law to whom such warrant may be directed, and cause the premises designated in the warrant to be searched; and if article above mentioned or any part thereof shall be found upon the premises so designated, the officer executing such search warrant shall thereupon report the same, under his oath, to the justice, who shall thereupon, upon said report and upon the oath of any person or persons charging any violations of section 3996 of this article, issue his warrant for the arrest of the person against whom the charge is made, and cause him, together with such articles, to be brought before him for trial. (1907, c. 901, s. 5.)

§ 4000. Concurrent jurisdiction of justices.—The justices of the peace in the counties of this state shall have concurrent jurisdiction with the superior courts of their respective counties in the case of persons arrested for violation of the above provisions of this article, and such justices of the peace shall proceed to hear and determine such cases when the parties arrested are brought before them, in all cases where the punishment fixed in this article is such as to give the justices jurisdiction under the constitution and laws of this state. And if such person shall be found to be guilty of the violation of any of the provisions of this article, the court trying such person and imposing the punishment herein prescribed shall also award possession to the owner of all the property involved in such violation. (1907, c. 901, s. 6.)

§ 4001. Accepting deposit not deemed sale.—The requiring, taking or accepting of any deposit for any purpose upon any vessel above enumerated shall not be deemed to constitute a sale of such property, either optional, conditional or otherwise, in any proceedings under this article. (1907, c. 901, s. 7.)

§ 4002. When refiling description not required.—Any person, partnership, or corporation that has heretofore filed and published a description of his name, marks or devices for the purposes mentioned in section one of this article, in accordance with the law existing at the time of such filing and publication, shall not be required to again file such description, but shall be entitled to all the benefits of this article as fully as if he had complied with all the provisions thereof. (1907, c. 901, s. 8.)

§ 4003. Application of the article.—The provisions of this article do not apply to any person using the vessels enumerated above for the beverages placed therein by the owners, or who after consumption of the contents is in possession of the same, while awaiting the return to the owners, nor shall the provisions of this article apply to any garbage man collecting the same in the regular course of his business: Provided, this article shall not apply to beer and mineral water bottles shipped into this state from other states. (1907, c. 901, s. 9.)

Art. 4. Farm Names

§ 4004. Registration of farm names authorized.—Any owner of a farm in the state of North Carolina may have the name of his farm, together with a description of his lands to which said name applies, recorded in a register kept for that purpose in the office of the register of deeds of the county in which the farm is located, and the register of deeds shall furnish to such landowner a proper certificate setting forth the name and description of the lands. (1915, c. 108, s. 1.)

§ 4005. After registry, similar name not registered.—When any name has been recorded as the name of any farm in such county, the name, or one so nearly like it as to produce confusion, shall not be recorded as the name of any other farm in the same county. (1915, c. 108, s. 1.)

§ 4006. Distinctive name required.—No name shall be registered as the name of a farm where such proposed name or one so nearly like it as to produce confusion has been so used in connection with another farm in the same county as to become generally known prior to March 5, 1915, unless the name used has also prior to March 5, 1915, become well known as the name of the farm proposed to be registered; and in this event two or more farms in the same county may be registered with the same name with some prefix or suffix added to distinguish them. (1915, c. 108, s. 2.)

§ 4007. Application for registry; publication and hearing.—Before a name shall be registered the clerk shall have publication made at least once a week for four weeks in some secular newspaper published in the county, if one is so published, and if one is not so published, then one having a general circulation in the county, giving the name of the applicant, the proposed name of registration and a sufficient description to identify the farm and the time of the return; and if the owner or clerk knows of another farm in the county of the same or very similar name, a summons shall be served on the owner thereof at least ten days before the return day. On the return day any person, firm or corporation may file claim to the name, and the clerk may pass upon the claim and award the name to any party, with the right to appeal by the aggrieved party to the superior court within ten days, as in other cases, and on such appeal the judge shall decide the matters unless a jury be demanded by some party. (1915, c. 108, s. 2.)

§ 4008. Fees for registration.—Any person having the name of his farm recorded as provided in this article shall first pay to the register of deeds a fee of one dollar, which fee shall be paid to the county treasurer as other fees are to be paid to the county treasurer by such register of deeds: Provided, that in counties where the fee system obtains, the fees herein mentioned shall go to the register of deeds of such counties. (1915, c. 108, s. 3.)

§ 4009. When transfer of farm carries name.—When any owner of a farm, the name of which has been recorded as provided in this article, transfers by deed or otherwise the whole of such farm, such transfer may include the registered name thereof; but if the owner shall transfer only a portion of such farm, then, in that event, the registered name thereof shall not be transferred to the purchaser unless so stated in the deed or conveyance. (1915, c. 108, s. 4.)

§ 4010. Cancellation of registry; fee.—When any owner of a registered farm desires to cancel the registered name thereof, he shall state on the margin of the record of the register of such name the following: "This name is canceled and I hereby release all rights thereunder," which shall be signed by the person cancelling such name, and attested by the register of deeds. For such latter service the register of deeds shall charge a fee of twenty-five cents, which shall be paid to the county treasurer as other fees are paid to the county treasurer by him. (1915, c. 108, s. 5.)

§ 4011. Article not applicable to certain counties.—This article shall not apply to the counties of Surry, Stokes, and Sampson. (1915, c. 108, s. 6.)

Art. 5. Stamping of Gold and Silver Articles

§ 4012. Marking gold articles regulated.—It shall be unlawful to make for sale, or sell, or offer to sell or dispose of, or have in possession with intent to sell or dispose of, any article of merchandise made in whole or in part of gold or any alloy of gold, and having stamped, branded, engraved or imprinted thereon, or upon any tag, card or label attached thereto, or upon any box, package, cover or wrapper in which the article is enclosed, any mark indicating or designed to indicate that the gold, or alloy or gold, therein is of a greater degree of fineness than its actual fineness, unless the actual fineness, in the case of flat-ware and watch-cases, is not less by more than three one-thousandths parts, and in the case of all other articles is not less by more than one-half karat than the fineness indicated, according to the standards and subject to the qualifications hereinafter set forth.

In any test for ascertaining the fineness of gold or alloy in the articles, according to the required standards, the part of the gold or alloy taken for the test, analysis or assay shall be a part not containing or having attached thereto any solder or alloy of inferior fineness used for brazing or uniting the parts of the articles. In addition to the foregoing tests and standards, the actual fineness of the entire quantity of gold and of its alloys contained in any article mentioned in this section (except watch-cases), including all solder or alloy of inferior metal used for brazing or uniting the parts (all such gold, alloys, and solder being assayed as one piece), shall not be less by more than one karat than the fineness indicated by the mark used as above indicated. Violation of this section is a misdemeanor, punishable as provided in this article. (1907, c. 331, s. 1.)

§ 4013. Marking silver articles regulated.—It shall be unlawful to make for sale or sell or offer to sell or dispose of or have in possession with intent to sell or dispose of—

1. Any article of merchandise made in whole or in part of silver or any alloy of silver, and having marked, stamped, branded or engraved or imprinted thereon, or upon any tag, card or label attached thereto, or upon any box, package, cover or wrapper in which the article is enclosed, the words "sterling silver" or "sterling" or any colorable imitation thereof, unless nine hundred and twenty-five one-thousandths of the component parts of the metal appearing or purporting to be silver, of which the article is manufactured, are pure silver, subject to the qualifications hereinafter set forth: Provided, that in the case of all such articles there shall be allowed a divergence in fineness of four one-thousandths parts from the foregoing standard.

2. Any article of merchandise made in whole or in part of silver or of any alloy of silver, and having marked, stamped, branded, engraved or imprinted thereon, or upon any card, tag or label attached thereto, or upon any box, package, cover or wrapper in which the article is enclosed, the words "coin" or "coin silver," or any colorable imitation thereof, unless nine hundred one-thousandths of the component parts of the metal appearing or purporting to be silver, of which the article is manufactured, are pure silver, subject to the qualifications hereinafter set forth: Provided, that in the case of all such articles there shall be allowed a divergence in fineness of four one-thousandths parts from the foregoing standards.

3. Any article of merchandise made in whole or in part of silver or of any alloy of silver, and having stamped, branded, engraved or imprinted thereon, or upon any tag, card or label attached thereto, or upon any box, package, cover or wrapper in which the article is enclosed, any mark or word (other than the word "sterling" or the word "coin") indicating, or designed to indicate, that the silver or alloy of silver in the article is of a greater degree of fineness than its actual fineness, unless the actual fineness is not less by more than four one-thousandths parts than the actual fineness indicated by the use of such mark or word, subject to the qualifications hereinafter set forth.

In any test for ascertaining the fineness of the articles mentioned in this section, according to the foregoing standards, the part taken for test, analysis or assay shall be a part not containing or having attached thereto any solder or alloy of inferior metal used for brazing or uniting the parts of such article. In addition to the foregoing test and standards, the actual fineness of the entire quantity of metal purporting to be silver contained in any article mentioned in this section, including all solder or alloy of inferior fineness used for brazing or uniting the parts (all such silver, alloy or solder being assayed as one piece), shall not be less by more than ten one-thousandths parts than the fineness indicated according to the foregoing standards, by the mark employed as above indicated. Violation of this section is a misdemeanor, punishable as provided in this article. (1907, c. 331, s. 2.)

§ 4014. Marking articles of gold plate regulated.—It shall be unlawful to make for sale, or sell, or offer to sell or dispose of, or have in possession with intent to sell or dispose of, any article of merchandise made in whole or in part of inferior metal, having deposited or plated thereon or brazed or otherwise affixed thereto a plate, plating, covering or sheet of gold, or of any alloy of gold, which article is known in the market as "rolled gold plate," "gold plate," "gold-filled," or "gold electroplate," or by similar designation, and having stamped, branded, engraved or imprinted thereon, or upon any tag, card or label attached thereto, or upon any box, package, cover or wrapper in which the article is enclosed, any word or mark usually employed to indicate the fineness of gold, unless such word be accompanied by other words plainly indicating that such article or some part thereof is made of rolled gold plate, or gold plate, or gold electroplate, or is gold-filled, as the case may be. Violation of this section is a misdemeanor, punishable as provided in this article. (1907, c. 331, s. 3.)

§ 4015. Marking articles of silver plate regulated.—It shall be unlawful to make for sale, or sell, or offer to sell or dispose of, or have in possession with intent to sell or dispose of, any article of merchandise made in whole or in part of inferior metal, having deposited or plated thereon or brazed or otherwise affixed thereto, a plate, plating, covering or sheet of silver or of any alloy of silver, which article is known in the market as "silver plate" or "silver electroplate," or by any similar designation, and having stamped, branded, engraved or imprinted thereon, or upon any tag, card or label attached thereto, or upon any box, package, cover or wrapper in which the article is enclosed, the word "sterling" or the word "coin," either alone or in conjunction with any other words or marks. Violation of this section is a misdemeanor, punishable as provided in this article. (1907, c. 331, s. 4.)

§ 4016. Violation of article misdemeanor.—Every person, firm, corporation or association guilty of a violation of any one of the preceding sections of this article, and every officer, manager, director or managing agent of any such person, firm, corporation or association directly participating in such violation or consenting thereto, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and punished by fine or imprisonment, or both, at the discretion of the court: Provided, that if the person charged with violation of this article shall prove that the article concerning which the charge was made was manufactured prior to the thirteenth day of June, one thousand nine hundred and seven, then the charge shall be dismissed. (1907, c. 331, s. 5.)

Art. 6. Cattle Brands

§ 4017. Owners of stock to register brand or marks.—Every person who has any horses, cattle, hogs or sheep may have an earmark or brand different from the earmark or brand of all other persons, which he shall record with the clerk of the board of commissioners of the county where his horses, cattle, hogs or sheep are; and he may brand all horses eighteen months old and upwards with the said brand, and earmark all his hogs and sheep six months old and upwards with the said earmark; and earmark or brand all his cattle twelve months old and upwards; and if any dispute shall arise about any earmark or brand, the same shall be decided by the record thereof. (Rev., s. 3028; Code, s. 2317; R. C., c. 17, s. 1.)

§ 4017(1). "Stock growers" and "live stock" defined.—Every person, firm, association or corporation, who owns, raises, buys or sells cattle in this State, is deemed a stock grower, and all cattle are deemed live stock, within the meaning of this law. (1935, c. 233, s. 1.)

§ 4017(2). Stock growers limited to single mark or brand; registration not required; law compulsory upon registration.—Every stock grower in this State must use one, and only one, mark or brand for said stock grower's cattle, which mark or brand shall be placed in some conspicuous place on said cattle, which place must be designated in the application for the recording of said mark or brand hereinafter provided for in this law: Provided, however, nothing in this section nor in any subsequent section of this law shall be construed to be compulsory upon any stock grower in this State to apply for or register his mark or brand of cattle; but when a stock grower does so, then this law and all provisions thereof shall be binding and compulsory upon said stock grower. (1935, c. 232, s. 2.)

§ 4017(3). Commissioner of agriculture named recorder.—The commissioner of agriculture of the State of North Carolina is hereby declared to be the state recorder of marks and brands of cattle growers in this State. (1935, c. 232, s. 3.)

§ 4017(4). Recording with commissioner.—All brands or marks shall be recorded with the state recorder. (1935, c. 232, s. 4.)

§ 4017(5). Application; effect of recording; fee; no duplication allowed.—Any stock grower in the State of North Carolina, who desires to avail himself of the provisions of this law, shall make and sign an application, furnished by the state recorder, setting forth a facsimile and description of the brand or mark which said stock grower desires to use, and shall file the same with the state recorder, who shall record the same in a book kept by him for that purpose, and from and after the filing of the same, the stock grower filing the same shall have exclusive right to use said brand or mark within the State; and shall pay the state recorder a fee of one dollar; Provided, that the state recorder shall not file or record such mark or brand if the same has been heretofore recorded by him in favor of some other grower. (1935, c. 232, s. 5.)

§ 4017(6). Certified copy of mark or brand; registration; fees and disposition thereof.—Upon the recording of any such brand or mark with the state recorder, as herein provided, the owner thereof may procure from the state recorder a certified copy thereof, paying therefor the sum of fifty cents, and may cause the same to be recorded in the office of the register of deeds in the county where said stock grower resides, and shall pay said register of deeds a fee of fifty cents for recording same. It shall be unlawful for any register of deeds to record any such mark or brand, unless the same is certified to him by the state recorder. Application blanks and a book for recording said marks and brands shall be furnished each register of deeds of the county applying for same, and shall be paid for by the state recorder, if he has sufficient funds derived from the recording fees, and if not, then by the county so applying for same. All fees received by the state recorder shall be used in the administration of this law, and any surplus paid into the general fund of the agriculture department. In order to put the provisions of this law in force the commissioner of agriculture is hereby authorized to use any fund in his department not otherwise appropriated. (1935, c. 232, s. 6.)

§ 4017(7). Certified copy prima facie evidence of ownership.—In all civil or criminal suits in any court in this State a duly certified copy, under the seal of the department of agriculture, of any brand or mark, duly recorded under the provisions of this law, shall be prima facie evidence of the ownership of the animal of said cattle grower. (1935, c. 232, s. 7.)

§ 4017(8). Records to be kept by those engaged in slaughtering.—Any person, firm or corporation engaged in the business of slaughtering cattle shall keep at its place of business a book in which must be kept the name or names of the persons from whom any marked or branded cattle are purchased and the date of purchase and his address, and the mark or brand of such cattle. Said book must be kept ready at all times for the inspection of any person who desires to examine the same. (1935, c. 232, s. 8.)

§ 4017(9). Purchaser of branded cattle to keep record of purchases.—Any person purchasing any marked or branded cattle, the mark or brand of which has been duly recorded under the provisions of this law, shall keep the name and address of the person from whom said cattle are purchased, a description of the mark or brand and the date of the purchase, and exhibit same to any person desiring to examine same. (1935, c. 232, s. 9.)

§ 4017(10). Defacing marks or brands made misdemeanor.—No stock grower or other person in this State must change, conceal, deface, disfigure or obliterate any brand or mark previously branded, impressed or marked on any head of cattle, or put his or any other brand or mark upon or over any part of any brand or mark previously branded or marked upon any head of cattle, and no person shall make or use any counterfeit of any mark or brand of any other person. Any person violating any of the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. (1935, c. 232, s. 10.)

§ 4017(11). Violation of law made misdemeanor.—Any person violating any of the provisions of this law shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be fined or imprisoned in the discretion of the court. (1935, c. 232, s. 11.)

TRUSTEES

Art. 1. Investment and Deposit of Trust Funds

§ 4018. Certain investments deemed cash.—Guardians, executors, administrators, and others acting in a fiduciary capacity, having surplus funds of their wards, estates and cestuis que trustent to loan, may invest in United States bonds, or any securities for which the United States are responsible, farm loan bonds issued by Federal land banks, or in bonds of the state of North Carolina issued since the year one thousand eight hundred and seventy-two; or in drainage bonds duly issued under the provisions of article 8 of chapter entitled Drainage; and in settlements by guardians, executors, administrators, trustees, and others acting in a fiduciary capacity, such bonds or other securities of the United States, and such bonds of the state of North Carolina, and such drainage bonds, and state road bonds, issued under sections 3600 to 3607 of chapter Roads and Highways, shall be deemed cash to the amount actually paid for same, including the premium, if any, paid for such bonds or other securities, and may be paid as such by the transfer thereof to the persons entitled. (Rev., s. 1792; Code, s. 1594; 1870-1, c. 197; 1885, c. 389; 1917, c. 6, s. 9; 1917, c. 67, s. 1; 1917, c. 152, s. 7; 1917, c. 191, s. 1; 1917, c. 269, s. 5.)

As to investment in bonds guaranteed by United States, see section 220(a) 1. As to loans on mortgages, etc., issued under federal housing act, see section 220(a) 2.

§ 4018(a). Investment of trust funds in county bonds.—Guardians, executors, administrators, trustees, and others acting in a fiduciary capacity, are authorized to invest funds in their hands as such fiduciaries in bonds issued by any county, city, town or school district of the state of North Carolina subsequent to January first, one thousand nine hundred and fifteen, provided that the net debt of such county, city, town or school district does not exceed ten (10%) per cent of the assessed valuation of the property therein subject to taxation for the payment of such bonds, in the same manner, to the same extent and with the same legal consequence as fiduciaries are now authorized to invest such funds in bonds of the state of North Carolina under the provisions of section four thousand and eighteen. (Ex. Sess. 1921, c. 63; 1931, c. 257.)

Editor's Note.—The Act of 1931 made this section applicable to city, town and school district bonds.

§ 4018(b). Investment in building and loan associations.—Guardians, executors, administrators, clerks of the superior court and others acting in a fiduciary capacity may invest funds in their hands as such fiduciaries in stock of any building and loan association organized and licensed under the laws of this state: Provided, that no such funds may be so invested unless and until authorized by the insurance commissioner. (1933, c. 549, s. 1.)

§ 4018(c). Investment in registered securities.—Any guardian having in hand surplus funds belonging to a minor ward may, if he so elects, invest the same in registered securities within the classes designated by sections 4018 and 4018(a), the registration of said securities as to principal only to be in the name of said minor ward.

Upon delivery of such registered securities to the clerk of the superior court of the county in which the estate of said minor ward is being administered, said clerk of the superior court shall give said guardian a receipt for the same and said clerk of the superior court shall thereafter hold said scurities for said ward, subject only to final disposition thereof to be approved by the resident judge or presiding judge of the suprior court, Provided, however, all income accruing therefrom shall be paid to said guardian in the same manner and for the same purposes as any other income of said estate derived from other sources.

Whenever any guardian shall have delivered to the clerk of the superior court registered securities as hereinbefore provided, he shall be entitled to credit in his account as guardian for the amount actually expended for such securities, and his bond as such guardian shall thereupon be reduced in an amount equal to twice the amount of the funds actually invested in said securities. Provided this section does not repeal any local or private acts affecting Craven county. (1935, c. 449.)

§ 4019. Trust funds deposited at trustee's risk.— No provision in any charter or certificate of organization of any corporation permitting deposits therein by any guardian, executor or other trustee or fiduciary, or by any county, bonded or other officer, shall operate or be construed to relieve or discharge them, or either of them, from official responsibility, or to relieve them, or either of them, or their sureties, from liability on their official bonds. (Rev., s. 1793; 1889, c. 470.)

Art. 2. Removal of Trust Funds from State

§ 4020. Proceeding to remove trust funds of nonresidents.—When any personal estate in this state is vested in a trustee resident therein, and those having the beneficial interest in the said estate are nonresidents of this state, the clerk of the superior court of the county in which the said trustee resides may, on a petition filed for that purpose, order him or his personal representative to pay, transfer, and deliver the said estate, or any part of it, to a nonresident trustee appointed by some court of record in the state in which the said beneficiary or beneficiaries reside. No such order of any clerk shall be valid and in force until approved by the resident judge of said judicial district, or the judge holding court in such district. (1911, c. 161, s. 1.)

Cited in Fidelity Trust Co. v. Walton, 198 N. C. 790, 793, 153 S. E. 401.

§ 4021. Removal ordered on notice; bond of nonresident trustee. — No such order shall be made, in the case of a petition, until notice of the application shall have been given to all persons interested in such trust estate, as now required by law in other special proceedings, nor until the court shall be satisfied by authentic documentary evidence that the nonresident trustee, appointed as aforesaid, has given bond, with sufficient surety, for the faithful execution of the trust, nor until it is satisfied that the payment and removal of such estate out of the state will not prejudice the right of any person interested or to become interested therein. (1911, c. 161, s. 2.)

§ 4022. Order of removal discharges resident trustee. — When any guardian or committee trustee or other person in this state, shall pay over, transfer, or deliver any estate in his hands or vested in him, under any order or decree made in pursuance of this article, he shall be discharged from all responsibility therefor. (1911, c. 161, s. 3.)

Art. 3. Resignation of Trustee

§ 4023. Clerk's power to accept resignations.— The clerks of the superior courts of this state have power and jurisdiction to accept the resignation of executors, administrators, guardians, trustees, and other fiduciaries and to appoint their successors in the manner provided by this article. (1911, c. 39, s. 1.)

Appointment by Clerk.—Where a charitable trust is created by a written instrument the court may appoint a trustee, in the exercise of its equitable jurisdiction, to execute the trust when the instrument fails to designate one, or the one designated fails or refuses to act, or one may be appinted under the provisions of this section. Ladies Benevolent Society v. Orrell, 195 N. C. 405, 142 S. E. 493.

Section Not Extended to Give Jurisdiction. — The equitable jurisdiction of the Superior Courts does not extend to the clerks of court unless expressly given by statute, and this and following sections giving clerks of court a limited power to appoint trustees in certain instances will not be extended to give them jurisdiction of any proceeding unless clearly within the provisions of the statutes. In re Smith, 200 N. C. 272, 156 S. E. 494.

§ 4024. Petition; contents and vertification.— When any executor, administrator, guardian, trustee, or other fiduciary desires to resign his trust, he shall file his petition in the office of the clerk of the superior court of the county in which he qualified or in which the instrument under which he claims is registered. The petition shall set forth all the facts in connection with the appointment and qualification of the applicant as such fiduciary, with a copy of the instrument under which he acts; shall state the names, ages, and residences of all the cestuis que trustent and other parties interested in the trust estate; shall contain a full and complete statement of all debts or liabilities due by the estate, and a full and complete statement of all assets belonging to said estate, and a full and complete statement of all moneys, securities, or assets in the hands of the fiduciary and due the estate, together with a full statement of the reasons why the applicant should be permitted to resign his trust. The petition shall be verified by the oath of the applicant. (1911, c. 39, s. 2.)

§ 4025. Parties; hearing; successor appointed. —Upon the filing of the petition, the clerk shall docket the cause as a special proceeding, with the fiduciary as plaintiff and the cestuis que trustent as defendants, and shall issue summons for the defendants, and the procedure shall be the same as in other special proceedings. If any of the defendants be nonresidents, summons may be served by publication; and if any be infants, a guardian ad litem must be appointed by the court to represent their interests in the manner now provided by law. The cestuis que trustent, creditors, or any other person interested in the trust estate, have the right to answer said petition or traverse the same and to offer evidence why the prayer of the petition should not be granted. The clerk shall then proceed to hear and determine the matter, and if it appears to the court that the best interests of the creditors and the cestuis que trustent demand that the resignation of the fiduciary be accepted, or if it appears to the court that sufficient reasons exist for allowing the resignation, and that the resignation can be allowed without prejudice to the rights of creditors or the cestuis que trustent, the clerk may, in the exercise of his discretion, allow the applicant to resign; and in such case the clerk shall proceed to appoint the successor of the petitioner in the manner provided in this article. (1911, c. 39, s. 3.)

§ 4026. Resignation allowed; costs; judge's approval.—In making an order allowing the fiduciary to resign the clerk shall make such order concerning the costs of the proceedings and commissions to the fiduciary as may be just. If there is no appeal from the decision and order of the clerk within the time prescribed by law, the proceedings shall be submitted to the judge of the superior court and approved by him before the same become effective. (1911, c. 39, s. 3.)

§ 4027. Appeal; stay effected by appeal. — Any party interested may appeal from the decision of the clerk to the judge at chambers, and in such event the procedure shall be the same as in other special proceedings as now provided by law. If the clerk allows the resignation, and an appeal is taken from his decision, such appeal shall have the effect to stay the judgment and order of the clerk until the cause is heard and determined by the judge upon the appeal taken. (1911, c. 39, s. 4.)

§ 4028. On appeal judge determines facts.—Upon an appeal taken from the clerk to the judge, the judge shall have the power to review the findings of fact made by the clerk and to find the facts or to take other evidence, but the facts found by the judge shall be final and conclusive upon any appeal to the supreme court. (1911, c. 39, s. 5.)

§ 4029. Final accounting before resignation.—No executor, administrator, guardian, trustee, or other fiduciary shall be allowed or permitted to resign his trust until he shall first file with the court his final account of the trust estate, and until the court shall be satisfied that the said account is true and correct. (1911, c. 39, s. 6.)

§ 4030. Resignation effective on settlement with successor.—In case the resignation of the fiduciary is accepted by the court, the same shall not go into effect, or release or discharge the fiduciary from liability, until he shall have accounted to his successor in full for all moneys, securities, property or other assets or things of value in his possession or under his control or which should be in his possession or under his control belonging to the trust estate. (1911, c. 39, s. 6.)

§ 4031. Court to appoint successor; bond required. — If the court shall allow any executor, administrator, guardian, trustee, or other fiduciary to resign his trust upon compliance with the provisions of this article, it shall be the duty of the court to proceed to appoint some fit and suitable person as the successor of such executor, administrator, guardian, trustee or other fiduciary; and the court shall require the person so appointed to give bond with sufficient surety, approved by the court, in a sum double the value of the property to come into his hands, conditioned upon the faithful performance of his duties as such fiduciary and for the payment to the person entitled to receive the same of all moneys, assets, or other things of value which may come into his hands. All bonds executed under the provisions of this article shall be filed with the clerk, and shall be recorded in his office in a book kept for that purpose. (1911, c. 39, s. 7.)

§ 4032. Rights and duties devolve on successor.—Upon the acceptance by the court of the resignation of any executor, administrator, guardian, trustee, or other fiduciary, and upon the appointment by court of his successor in the manner provided by this article, the substituted trustee shall succeed to all the rights, powers, and privileges, and shall be subject to all the duties, liabilities, and responsibilities that were imposed upon the original trustee. (1911, c. 39, s. 8.)

Art. 4. Charitable Trusts

§ 4033. Trustees to file accounts.—When real or personal property has been granted by deed, will, or otherwise, for such charitable purposes as are allowed by law, it shall be the duty of those to whom are confided the management of the property and the execution of the trust, to deliver in writing a full and particular account thereof to the clerk of the superior court of the county where the charity is to take effect, on the first Monday in February in each year, to be filed among the records of the court, and spread upon the record of accounts. (Rev., s. 3922; Code, s. 2342; R. C., c. 18, s. 1; 1832, c. 14, s. 1; 43 Eliz., c. 4.)

References.—For a full treatment of the general nature and validity of charitable trusts, see 3 N. C. Enc. Dig. 8; 13 N. C. Enc. Dig. 369.

Trust Estate Is Not Forfeited.—The trustees of a charitable trust who violate the provisions of the trust are subject to the procedure prescribed by this section, and where the trust is created by will the trust estate is not forfeited in favor of a residuary legatee solely upon the ground that the moneys derived have been diverted to other uses than the testator intended. Humphrey v. Board of Trustees, 203 N. C. 201, 165 S. E. 547.

§ 4034. Action for account; court to enforce trust.—If the preceding section be not complied with, or there is reason to believe that the property has been mismanaged through negligence or fraud, it shall be the duty of the clerk of the superior court to give notice thereof to the attorney-general or solicitor who represents the state in the superior court for that county; and it shall be his duty to bring an action in the name of the state against the grantees, executors, or trustees of the charitable fund, calling on them to render a full and minute account of their proceedings in relation to the administration of the fund and the execution of the trust. The attorney-general or solicitor may also, at the suggestion of two reputable citizens, commence an action as aforesaid; and, in either case, the court may make such order and decree as shall seem best calculated to enforce the performance of the trust. (Rev., s. 3923; Code, ss. 2343, 2344; R. C., c. 18, ss. 2, 3; 1832, c. 14, ss. 2, 3.)

§ 4035. Fees allowed solicitor. — The court may allow fees to the attorney-general or solicitor for his services, to be paid by the trustees, the estate, or the county, as shall be ordered by the court. (Rev., s. 3924; Code, s. 2345; R. C., c. 18, s. 4; 1832, c. 14, s. 4.)

§ 4035(a). Indefiniteness; title in trustee; vacancies.—No gift, grant, bequest or devise, whether in trust or otherwise, to religious, educational, charitable or benevolent uses or for the purpose of providing for the care or maintenance of any part of any cemetery, public or private, shall be invalid by reason of any indefiniteness or uncertainty of the object or beneficiaries of such trust, or because said instrument confers upon the trustee or trustees discretionary powers in the selection and designation of the objects or beneficiaries of such trust or in carrying out the purpose thereof, or by reason of the same in contravening any statute or rule against perpetuities. If a trustee or trustees are named in the instrument creating such a gift, grant, bequest or devise, the legal title to the property given, granted, bequeathed or devised for such purpose shall vest in such trustee or trustees and its or their successor or successors duly appointed in accordance with the terms of such instrument. If no trustee or trustees be named in said instrument, or if a vacancy or vacancies shall occur in the trusteeship, and no method is provided in such instrument for filling such vacancy or vacancies, then the Superior Court of the proper county shall appoint a trustee or trustees, pursuant to section four thousand and twenty-three, of the Consolidated Statutes of North Carolina, to execute said trust in accordance with the true intent and meaning of the instrument creating the same. Such trustee or trustees when so appointed shall be vested with all the power and authority, discretionary or otherwise, conferred by such instrument. (1925, c. 264, s. 1.)

Trusts Held Valid.—A devise to "the authorities in control of the Deaf, Dumb and Blind Asylum of the State of North Carolina for the use and benefit of the indigent children therein, born blind, of the Caucasian race," constitutes a valid charitable trust. Hass v. Hass, 195 N. C. 734, 143 S. E. 541.

A devise of all the income and profits of lands in trust for a charitable organization of a certain church "to be used by the stewards of the church in defraying the expenses of the institution" is a sufficient designation of the stewards of that church as trustees for the execution of the trust contemplated by the instrument, and to vest in them the title and right of possession for its purposes. Ladies Benevolent Society v. Orrel, 195 N. C. 405, 142 S. E. 493.

Details of Administration May Be Left to Trustee.—A charity in its legal sense is a gift to be applied consistently with existing laws for the benefit of an indefinite number of persons, and it is the policy of this State, as indicated by our statutes, not to declare such gift void because created for the benefit of an indefinite class, and if the founder describes the general nature of the charitable trust he may leave details of its administration to duly appointed trustees. Whitsett v. Clapp, 200 N. C. 647, 158 S. E. 183.

§ 4035(b). Trusts created in other states valid.—Every such religious, educational or charitable trust created by any person domiciled in another state, which shall be valid under the laws of the state of the domicile of such creator or donor, shall be deemed and held in all respects valid under the laws of this State, even though one or more of the trustees named in the instrument creating said trust shall be domiciled in another state or one or more of the beneficiaries named in said trust shall reside or be located in a foreign state. (1925, c. 264, s. 2.)

§ 4035(c). Application of section 4035(b).—Section 4035(b) shall apply to all trusts heretofore or hereafter created in which one or more of the beneficiaries or objects of such trust shall reside or be located in this State. (1925, c. 264, s. 3.)

CHAPTER 79

WAREHOUSE RECEIPTS

Art. 1. General Provisions

§ 4036. Name of act.—This act may be cited as the Uniform Warehouse Receipts act.

§ 4037. Terms defined.—In this act, unless the context or subject-matter otherwise requires—

"Action" includes counterclaim, set-off, and suit in equity.

"Delivery" means voluntary transfer of possession from one person to another.

"Fungible goods" means goods of which any unit is, from its nature or by mercantile custom, treated as the equivalent of any other unit.

"Goods" means chattels or merchandise in storage, or which has been or is about to be stored.

"Holder" of a receipt means a person who has both actual possession of such receipt and a right of property therein.

"Order" means an order by indorsement on the receipt.

"Owner" does not include mortgagee or pledgee.

"Person" includes a corporation or partnership of two or more persons having a joint or common interest.

To "purchase" includes to take as mortgagee or as pledgee.

"Receipt" means a warehouse receipt.

"Value" is any consideration sufficient to support a simple contract. An antecedent or pre-existing obligation, whether for money or not, constitutes value where a receipt is taken either in satisfaction thereof or as security therefor.

"Warehouseman" means a person lawfully engaged in the business of storing goods for profit.

A thing is done "in good faith" within the meaning of this act, when it is in fact done honestly, whether it be done negligently or not. (1917, c. 37, s. 58.)

What Constitutes Warehousemen. — It matters not if a concern is a person or partnership. If the concern is engaged in the business and goods are stored for profit, this section applies. It matters not if the concern stores its own and also the goods of others. The receipt issued by the concern under consideration terms itself "warehouse receipt" and shows on the face that the goods are stored for profit; it gives the "storage rates." Webb & Co. v. Friedberg, 189 N. C. 166, 126 S. E. 508.

§ 4038. Uniform construction. — This act shall be so interpreted and construed as to effectuate its general purpose to make uniform the law of those states which enact it. (1917, c. 37, s. 57.)

§ 4039. General law applied.—In any case not provided for in this act, the rules of law and equity, including the law merchant, and in particular the rules relating to the law of principal and agent and to the effect of fraud, misrepresentation, duress or coercion, mistake, bankruptcy, or other invalidating cause, shall govern. (1917, c. 37, s. 56.)

§ 4040. Prior receipts not affected. — The provisions of this act do not apply to receipts made and delivered prior to the taking effect of this act, March 1, 1917. (1917, c. 37, s. 59.)

Art. 2. Issue of Warehouse Receipts

§ 4041. Who may issue receipts. — Warehouse receipts may be issued by any warehouseman. (1917, c. 37, s. 1.)

§ 4042. What receipt must contain. — Warehouse receipts need not be in any particular form, but every such receipt must embody within its written or printed terms—

1. The location of the warehouse where the goods are stored.
2. The date of issue of the receipt.
3. The consecutive number of the receipt.
4. A statement whether the goods received will be delivered to the bearer, to a specified person, or to a specified person or his order.
5. The rate of storage charges.
6. A description of the goods or of the package containing them.
7. The signature of the warehouseman, which may be made by his authorized agent.
8. If the receipt is issued for goods of which the warehouseman is owner, either solely or jointly or in common with others, the fact of such ownership; and
9. A statement of the amount of advances made and of liabilities incurred for which the warehouseman claims a lien. If the precise amount of such advances made or of such liabilities incurred is at the time of the issue of the receipt unknown to the warehouseman or to his agent who issues it, a statement of the fact that advances have been made or liabilities incurred, and the purpose thereof, is sufficient. A warehouseman shall be liable to any person injured thereby, for all damages caused by the omission from a negotiable receipt of any of the terms herein required. (Rev., s. 3032; 1917, c. 37, s. 2.)

§ 4043. Other terms inserted; exceptions. — A warehouseman may insert in a receipt issued by him any other terms and conditions, provided that such terms and conditions shall not—

1. Be contrary to the provisions of this act.
2. In anywise impair his obligation to exercise that degree of care in the safekeeping of the goods entrusted to him which a reasonably careful man would exercise in regard to similar goods of his own. (1917, c. 37, s. 3.)

§ 4044. Nonnegotiable receipts.—A receipt in which it is stated that the goods received will be delivered to the depositor, or to any other specified person, is a nonnegotiable receipt. (1917, c. 37, s. 4.)

§ 4045. Nonnegotiable receipts marked. — A nonnegotiable receipt shall have plainly placed upon its face by the warehouseman issuing it "nonnegotiable," or "not negotiable." In case of the warehouseman's failure so to do, a holder of the receipt who purchased it for value supposing it to be negotiable may, at his option, treat such receipt as imposing upon the warehouseman the same liabilities he would have incurred had the receipt been negotiable. This section shall not apply, however, to letters, memoranda, or written acknowledgments of an informal character. (Rev., s. 3032; 1917, c. 37, s. 7.)

§ 4046. Negotiable receipts. — A receipt in which it is stated that the goods received will be delivered to the bearer, or to the order of any person named in such receipt, is a negotiable receipt. No provisions shall be inserted in a negotiable receipt that it is nonnegotiable. Such provision, if inserted, shall be void. (Rev., s. 3032; 1917, c. 37, s. 5.)

§ 4047. Duplicate negotiable receipts.—When more than one negotiable receipt is issued for the same goods, the word "duplicate" shall be plainly placed upon the face of every such receipt, except the one first issued. A warehouseman shall be liable for all damage caused by his failure so to do to any one who purchased the subsequent receipt for value supposing it to be an original, even though the purchase be after the delivery of the goods by the warehouseman to the holder of the original receipt. (1917, c. 37, s. 6.)

Art. 3. Obligations and Rights of Warehousemen on Receipts

§ 4048. Delivery of goods on proper demand.— A warehouseman, in the absence of some lawful excuse provided by this act, is bound to deliver the goods upon a demand made either by the holder of a receipt for the goods or by the depositor, if such demand is accompanied with—

1. An offer to satisfy the warehouseman's lien;
2. An offer to surrender the receipt if negotiable, with such indorsement as would be necessary for the negotiation of the receipt; and
3. A readiness and willingness to sign, when the goods are delivered, an acknowledgment that they have been delivered, if such signature is requested by the warehouseman. In case the warehouseman refuses or fails to deliver the goods in compliance with a demand by the holder or depositor so accompanied, the burden shall be upon the warehouseman to establish the existence of a lawful excuse for such refusal. (1917, c. 37, s. 8.)

§ 4049. To whom goods may be delivered.—A warehouseman is justified in delivering the goods, subject to the provisions of the three following sections, to one who is—

1. The person lawfully entitled to the possession of the goods, or his agent;
2. A person who is either himself entitled to delivery by the terms of a non-negotiable receipt issued for the goods or who has written authority from the person so entitled, either indorsed upon the receipt or written upon another paper; or
3. A person in possession of a negotiable receipt by the terms of which the goods are deliverable to him or order or to bearer, or which has been indorsed to him or in blank by the person to whom delivery was promised by the terms of the receipt or by his mediate or immediate indorsee. (1917, c. 37, s. 9.)

§ 4050. Liability for wrong delivery.—Where a warehouseman delivers the goods to one who is not in fact lawfully entitled to the possession of them, the warehouseman shall be liable as for conversion to all having a right of property or possession in the goods if he delivered the goods otherwise than as authorized by subdivisions (2) and (3) of the preceding section, and though he delivered the goods as authorized by said subdivisions, he shall be so liable if prior to such delivery he had either—

1. Been requested, by or one behalf of the person lawfully entitled to a right of property or possession in the goods, not to make such delivery, or

2. Had information that the delivery about to be made was to one not lawfully entitled to the possession of the goods. (1917, c. 37, s. 10.)

§ 4051. Liability on receipt not taken up on delivery.—Except as hereafter provided in this article, when the goods may have been sold to satisfy warehouseman's charges or because of their perishable or hazardous nature, where a warehouseman delivers goods for which he had issued a negotiable receipt, the negotiation of which would transfer the right to the possession of the goods, and fails to take up and cancel the receipt, he shall be liable, to any one who purchases for value and in good faith such receipt, for failure to deliver the goods to him, whether such purchaser acquired title to the receipt before or after the delivery of the goods by the warehouseman. (1917, c. 37, s. 11.)

§ 4052. Liability on receipt for partial delivery.—Except when goods may have been sold to satisfy warehouseman's lien or because of their perishable or hazardous nature, as hereafter provided in this article, where a warehouseman delivers a part of the goods for which he had issued a negotiable receipt and fails either to take up and cancel the receipt or to place plainly upon it a statement of what goods or packages have been delivered, he shall be liable, to any one who purchases for value in good faith such receipt, for failure to deliver all the goods specified in the receipt, whether such purchaser acquired title to the receipt before or after the delivery of any portion of the goods by the warehouseman. (1917, c. 37, s. 12.)

§ 4053. Effect of alteration of receipt.—The alteration of a receipt shall not excuse the warehouseman who issued it from any liability if such alteration was—

1. Immaterial,

2. Authorized, or

3. Made without fraudulent intent.

If the alteration was authorized, the warehouseman shall be liable according to the terms of the receipt as altered. If the alteration was unauthorized, but made without fraudulent intent, the warehouseman shall be liable according to the terms of the receipt as altered. If the alteration was unauthorized, but made alteration of a receipt shall not excuse the warehouseman who issued it from liability to deliver, according to the terms of the receipt as originally issued, the goods for which it was issued, but shall excuse him from any other liability to the person who made the alteration and to any person who took with notice of the alteration. Any purchaser of the receipt for value without notice of the alteration shall acquire the same rights against the warehouseman which such purchaser would have acquired if the receipt had not been altered at the time of the purchase. (1917, c. 37, s. 13.)

§ 4054. Delivery in case of lost receipt.—Where a negotiable receipt has been lost or destroyed, a court of competent jurisdiction may order the delivery of the goods upon satisfactory proof of such loss or destruction and upon the giving of a bond with sufficient sureties, to be approved by the court, to protect the warehouseman from any liability or expense which he or any person injured by such delivery may incur by reason of the original receipt remaining outstanding. The court may also, in its discretion, order the payment of the warehouseman's reasonable costs. The delivery of the goods under an order of the court as provided in this section shall not relieve the warehouseman from liability to a person to whom the negotiable receipt has been or shall be negotiated for value without notice of the proceedings or of the delivery of the goods. (1917, c. 37, s. 14.)

§ 4055. Effect of issuing duplicate receipt.—A receipt upon the face of which the word "duplicate" is plainly placed is a representation and warranty by the warehouseman that such receipt is an accurate copy of an original receipt properly issued and uncanceled at the date of the issue of the duplicate, but shall impose upon him no other liability. (1917, c. 37, s. 15.)

§ 4056. Claim of title no defense for nondelivery; exceptions.—No title or right to the possession of the goods, on the part of the warehouseman, unless such title or right is derived directly or indirectly from a transfer made by the depositor at the time of or subsequent to the deposit for storage, or from the warehouseman's lien, shall excuse the warehouseman from liability for refusing to deliver the goods according to the terms of the receipt. (1917, c. 37, s. 16.)

§ 4057. Interpleader in conflicting claims.—If more than one person claims the title or possession of the goods, the warehouseman may, either as a defense to an action brought against him for nondelivery of the goods or as an original suit, whichever is appropriate, require all known claimants to interplead. (1917, c. 37, s. 17.)

§ 4058. Reasonable time to investigate conflicting claims.—If some one other than the depositor or person claiming under him has a claim to the title or possession of the goods, and the warehouseman has information of such claim, the warehouseman shall be excused from liability for refusing to deliver the goods, either to the depositor or person claiming under him or to the adverse claimant, until the warehouseman has had a reasonable time to ascertain the validity of the adverse claim or to bring legal proceedings to compel all claimants to interplead. (1917, c. 37, s. 18.)

§ 4059. Title in third person no defense; exceptions.—Except as provided in the two preceding sections and except when the goods may have been delivered to the person authorized to have such delivery, as heretofore provided in this article, or when the goods may have been sold to satisfy the warehouseman's lien or because of their perishable or hazardous nature, as hereafter provided in this article, no right or title of a third person shall be a defense to an action brought by the depositor or person claiming under him against the warehouseman for failure to deliver the goods according to the terms of the receipt. (1917, c. 37, s. 19.)

§ 4060. Failure to deliver goods as described.—A warehouseman shall be liable to the holder of a receipt issued by him or on his behalf by an agent or employee the scope of whose actual or apparent authority includes the issuing of warehouse receipts, for damages caused by the nonexistence of the goods or by the failure of the goods to correspond with the description thereof in the receipt at the time of its issue. If, however, the goods are described in a receipt merely by a statement of marks or labels upon them or upon packages containing them, or by a statement that the goods are said to be goods of a certain kind, or that the packages containing the goods are said to contain goods of a certain kind, or by words of like purport, such statements, if true, shall not make liable the warehouseman issuing the receipt, although the goods are not of the kind which the marks or labels upon them indicate, or of the kind they were said to be by the depositor. (1917, c. 37, s. 20; 1931, c. 358, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—The Act of 1931, inapplicable to pending litigation, added the words "issued by him or on his behalf by an agent or employee the scope of whose actual or apparent authority includes the issuing of warehouse receipts," beginning in the third line of this section.

§ 4061. Liability for negligence.—A warehouseman shall be liable for any loss or injury to the goods caused by his failure to exercise such care in regard to them as a reasonably careful owner of similar goods would exercise; but he shall not be liable, in the absence of an agreement to the contrary, for any loss or injury to the goods which could not have been avoided by the exercise of such care. (1917, c. 37, s. 21.)

§ 4062. Goods kept separate.—Except as provided in the following section, a warehouseman shall keep the goods so far separate from goods of other depositors, and from other goods of the same depositor for which a separate receipt has been issued, as to permit at all times the identification and redelivery of the goods deposited. (1917, c. 37, s. 22.)

§ 4063. Effect of confusion of goods.—If authorized by agreement or by custom, a warehouseman may mingle fungible goods with other goods of the same kind and grade. In such case the various depositors of the mingled goods shall own the entire mass in common and each depositor shall be entitled to such portion thereof as the amount deposited by him bears to the whole. (Rev., s. 3034; 1917, c. 37, s. 23.)

§ 4064. Liability of warehouseman for confusion of goods.—The warehouseman shall be severally liable to each depositor for the care and redelivery of his share of such mass to the same extent and under the same circumstances as if the goods had been separate. (1917, c. 37, s. 24.)

§ 4065. Goods not subject to attachment or execution.—If goods are delivered to a warehouseman by the owner or by a person whose act in conveying the title to them to a purchaser in good faith for value would bind the owner, and a negotiable receipt is issued for them, they cannot thereafter, while in the possession of the warehouseman, be attached by garnishment or otherwise, or be levied upon under an execution, unless the receipt be first surrendered to the warehouseman or its negotiation enjoined. The warehouseman shall in no case be compelled to deliver up the actual possession of the goods until the receipt is surrendered to him or impounded by the court. (1917, c. 37, s. 25.)

Order Constituting Injunction.—In view of § 848, an order of the judge operating to prevent the holder of warehouse certificates from disposing of them except under order of the court, is a sufficient compliance with this section constituting it an injunction. Standard Bonded Warehouse Co. v. Cooper, 30 Fed. (2d) 842, 845.

§ 4066. Creditor's remedy against receipt.—A creditor whose debtor is the owner of a negotiable receipt shall be entitled to such aid from courts of appropriate jurisdiction, by injunction and otherwise, in attaching such receipt or in satisfying the claim by means thereof as is allowed at law or in equity in regard to property which cannot readily be attached or levied upon by ordinary legal process. (1917, c. 37, s. 26.)

§ 4067. Warehouseman's lien.—Subject to the subsequent provisions of this article specifying what liens may be enforced against a negotiable receipt, a warehouseman shall have a lien on goods deposited or on the proceeds thereof in his hands, for all lawful charges for storage and preservation of the goods; also for all lawful claims for money advanced, interest, insurance, transportation, labor, weighing, coopering, and other charges and expenses in relation to such goods; also for all reasonable charges and expenses for notice and advertisements of sale, and for sale of the goods where default has been made in satisfying the warehouseman's lien. (1917, c. 37, s. 27.)

Cited in Champion Shoe Machinery Co. v. Sellers, 197 N. C. 30, 32, 147 S. E. 674; Standard Bonded Warehouse Co. v. Cooper, 30 Fed. (2d) 842.

§ 4068. Against what goods lien enforced.—Subject to the subsequent provisions of this article specifying what liens may be enforced against a negotiable receipt, a warehouseman's lien may be enforced—

1. Against all goods, whenever deposited, belonging to the person who is liable as debtor for the claims in regard to which the lien is asserted; and

2. Against all goods belonging to others which have been deposited at any time by the person who is liable as debtor for the claims in regard to which the lien is asserted, if such person has been so entrusted with the possession of the goods that a pledge of the same by him at the time of the deposit to one who took the goods in good faith for value would have been valid. (1917, c. 37, s. 28.)

§ 4069. Loss of lien.—A warehouseman loses his lien upon goods—

1. By surrendering possession thereof, or

2. By refusing to deliver the goods when a demand is made with which he is bound to comply under the provisions of this act. (1917, c. 37, s. 29.)

§ 4070. What liens enforced against negotiable receipts. — If a negotiable receipt is issued for goods, the warehouseman shall have no lien thereon, except for charges for storage of those goods subsequent to the date of the receipt, unless the receipt expressly enumerate other charges for which a lien is claimed. In such case there shall be a lien for the charges enumerated so far as they are within the terms for a warehouseman's lien as heretofore provided in this article, although the amount of the charges so enumerated is not stated in the receipt. (1917, c. 37, s. 30.)

§ 4071. Right to retain until liens satisfied.—A warehouseman having a lien valid against the person demanding the goods may refuse to deliver the goods to him until the lien is satisfied. (1917, c. 37, s. 31.)

§ 4072. Other legal remedies for warehouseman.—Whether a warehouseman has or has not a lien upon the goods, he is entitled to all remedies allowed by law to a creditor against his debtor for the collection from the depositor of all charges and advances which the depositor has expressly or impliedly contracted with the warehouseman to pay. (1917, c. 37, s. 32.)

§ 4073. Enforcement of liens.—A warehouseman's lien for a claim which has become due may be satisfied as follows:

1. Notice given. The warehouseman shall give a written notice to the person on whose account the goods are held, and to any other person known by the warehouseman to claim an interest in the goods. Such notice shall be given by delivery in person or by registered letter addressed to the last known place of business or abode of the person to be notified. The notice shall contain—

a. An itemized statement of the warehouseman's claim, showing the sum due at the time of the notice and the date or dates when it became due;

b. A brief description of the goods against which the lien exists;

c. A demand that the amount of the claim as stated in the notice, and of such further claim as shall accrue, shall be paid on or before a day mentioned, not less than ten days from the delivery of the notice if it is personally delivered or from the time when the notice should reach its destination according to the due course of post if the notice is sent by mail; and

d. A statement that unless the claims are paid within the time specified the goods will be advertised for sale and sold by auction at a specified time and place.

2. Sale of goods. In accordance with the terms of a notice so given, a sale of the goods by auction may be had to satisfy any valid claim of the warehouseman for which he has a lien on the goods. The sale shall be had in the place where the lien was acquired, or, if such place is manifestly unsuitable for the purpose, at the nearest suitable place. After the time for the payment of the claim specified in the notice to the depositor has elapsed, an advertisement of the sale, describing the goods to be sold, and stating the name of the owner or person on whose account the goods are held, and the time and place of the sale, shall be published once a week for two consecutive weeks in a newspaper published in the place where such sale is to be held. The sale shall not be held less than fifteen days from the time of the first publication. If there is no newspaper published in such place, the advertisement shall be posted at least ten days before such sale in not less than six conspicuous places therein. From the proceeds of such sale the warehouseman shall satisfy his lien, including the reasonable charges of notice, advertisement, and sale. The balance, if any, of such proceeds shall be held by the warehouseman, and delivered on demand to the person to whom he would have been bound to deliver or justified in delivering the goods.

3. Right of claimant to pay charges. At any time before the goods are so sold any person claiming a right of property or possession therein may pay the warehouseman the amount necessary to satisfy his lien and to pay the reasonable expenses and liabilities incurred in serving notices and advertising and preparing for the sale up to the time of such payment. The warehouseman shall deliver the goods to the person making such payment if he is a person entitled, under the provisions of this act, to the possession of the goods on payment of charges thereon. Otherwise, the warehouseman shall retain possession of the goods according to the terms of the original contract of deposit. (Rev., ss. 3036, 3037, 3038; 1917, c. 37, s. 33.)

§ 4074. Sale of perishable goods.—If goods are of a perishable nature, or by keeping will deteriorate greatly in value, or by their odor, leakage, inflammability, or explosive nature will be liable to injure other property, the warehouseman may give such notice to the owner, or to the person in whose name the goods are stored, as is reasonable and possible under the circumstances, to satisfy the lien upon such goods and to remove them from the warehouse; and in the event of the failure of such person to satisfy the lien and to remove the goods within the time so specified, the warehouseman may sell the goods at public or private sale without advertising. If the warehouseman after a reasonable effort is unable to sell such goods, he may dispose of them in any lawful manner, and shall incur no liability by reason thereof. The proceeds of any sale made under the terms of this section shall be disposed of in the same way as the proceeds of sales made under the terms of the preceding section. (Rev., ss. 3039, 3040; 1917, c. 37, s. 34.)

§ 4075. Other remedies not excluded. — The remedy for enforcing a lien herein provided does not preclude any other remedies allowed by law for the enforcement of a lien against personal property nor bar the right to recover so much of the warehouseman's claim as shall not be paid by the proceeds of the sale of the property. (Rev., s. 3041; 117, c. 37, s. 35.)

Cited in Standard Bonded Warehouse Co. v. Cooper, 30 Fed. (2d) 842.

§ 4076. Liability discharged by sale for liens.—After goods have been lawfully sold to satisfy a warehouseman's lien, or have been lawfully sold or disposed of because of their perishable or hazardous nature, the warehouseman shall not thereafter be liable for failure to deliver the goods to the depositor or owner of the goods, or to a holder of the receipt for the goods when they were deposited, even if such receipt be negotiable. (1917, c. 37, s. 36.)

Art. 4. Negotiation and Transfer of Receipts

§ 4077. Negotiation by delivery.—A negotiable receipt may be negotiated by delivery—

1. Where by the terms of the receipt the warehouseman undertakes to deliver the goods to the bearer; or

2. Where by the terms of the receipt the warehouseman undertakes to deliver the goods to the order of a specified person, and such person or a subsequent indorsee of the receipt has indorsed it in blank or to bearer.

Where by the terms of a negotiable receipt the goods are deliverable to bearer, or where a negotiable receipt has been indorsed in blank or to bearer, any holder may indorse the same to himself or to any other specified person, and in such case the receipt shall thereafter be negotiated only by the indorsement of such indorsee. (1917, c. 37, s. 37.)

Cited in Standard Bonded Warehouse Co. v. Cooper, 30 Fed. (2d) 842.

§ 4078. Negotiation by indorsement.—A negotiable receipt may be negotiated by the indorsement of the person to whose order the goods are by the terms of the receipt deliverable. Such indorsement may be in blank, to bearer, or to a specified person. If indorsed to a specified person, it may be again negotiated by the indorsement of such person in blank, to bearer, or to another specified person. Subsequent negotiation may be made in like manner. (1917, c. 37, s. 38.)

§ 4079. Transfer of nonnegotiable receipts.—A receipt which is not in such form that it can be negotiated by delivery may be transferred by the holder by delivery to a purchaser or donee.

A nonnegotiable receipt cannot be negotiated, and the indorsement of such a receipt gives the transferee no additional right. (1917, c. 37, s. 39.)

§ 4080. Who may negotiate a receipt.—A negotiable receipt may be negotiated by any person in possession of the same however such possession may have been acquired, if, by the terms of the receipt, the warehouseman undertakes to deliver the goods to the order of such person or if at the time of negotiation the receipt is in such form that it may be negotiated by delivery. (1917, c. 37, s. 40; 1931, c. 358, s. 2.)

Editor's Note.—The Act of 1931, inapplicable to pending litigation, struck out the former section and inserted the above in lieu thereof. This new law gives the warehouse receipt full negotiability, thus placing it on the same level with bills of lading under § 312. 9 N. C. Law Rev. 404.

§ 4081. Rights acquired by negotiation. — A person to whom a negotiable receipt has been duly negotiated acquired thereby—

1. Such title to the goods as the person negotiating the receipt to him had or had ability to convey to a purchaser in good faith for value, and also such title to the goods as the depositor or person to whose order the goods were to be delivered by the terms of the receipt had or had ability to convey to a purchaser in good faith for value; and

2. The direct obligation of the warehouseman to hold possession of the goods for him according to the terms of the receipt as fully as if the warehouseman had contracted directly with him. (1917, c. 37, s. 41.)

§ 4082. Rights acquired by transfer.—A person to whom a receipt has been transferred but not negotiated acquires thereby, as against the transferrer, the title of the goods, subject to the terms of any agreement with the transferrer. If the receipt is nonnegotiable, such person also acquires the right to notify the warehouseman of the transfer to him of such receipt, and thereby to acquire the direct obligation of the warehouseman to hold possession of the goods for him according to the terms of the receipt. Prior to the notification of the warehouseman by the transferrer or transferee of a nonnegotiable receipt, the title of the transferee to the goods and the right to acquire the obligation of the warehouseman may be defeated by the levy of an attachment or execution upon the goods by a creditor of the transferrer, or by a notification to the warehouseman by the transferrer or a subsequent purchaser from the transferrer of a subsequent sale of the goods by the transferrer. (1917, c. 37, s. 42.)

§ 4083. Right to compel indorsement.—Where a negotiable receipt is transferred for value by delivery, and the indorsement of the transferrer is essential for negotiation, the transferee acquires a right against the transferrer to compel him to indorse the receipt, unless a contrary intention appears. The negotiation shall take effect as of the time when the indorsement is actually made. (1917, c. 37, s. 43.)

§ 4084. Warranties in negotation and transfer.—A person who for value negotiates or transfers a receipt by indorsement or delivery, including one who assigns for value a claim secured by a receipt, unless a contrary intention appears, warrants—

1. That the receipt is genuine;

2. That he has a legal right to negotiate or transfer it;

3. That he has knowledge of no fact which would impair the validity or worth of the receipt; and

4. That he has a right to transfer the title to the goods and that the goods are merchantable or fit for a particular purpose, whenever such warranties would have been implied if the contract of the parties had been to transfer without a receipt the goods represented thereby. (1917, c. 37, s. 44.)

§ 4085. Indorser not liable for failure of prior parties.—The indorsement of a receipt shall not make the indorser liable for any failure on the part of the warehouseman or previous indorsers of the receipt to fulfill their respective obligations. (1917, c. 37, s. 45.)

§ 4086. No warranty by collection of debt secured by receipt. — A mortgagee, pledgee, or holder for security of a receipt who in good faith demands or receives payment of the debt for which such receipt is security, whether from a party to a draft drawn for such debt or from any other person, shall not by so doing be deemed to represent or to warrant the genuineness of such receipt or the quantity or quality of the goods therein described. (1917, c. 37, s. 46.)

§ 4087. Rights of bona fide holder not affected by fraud.—The validity of the negotiation of a receipt is not impaired by the fact that such negotiation was a breach of duty on the part of the person making the negotiation, or by the fact that the owner of the receipt was deprived of the possession of the same by loss, theft, fraud, accident, mistake, duress, or conversion, if the person to whom the receipt was negotiated, or a person to whom the receipt was subsequently negotiated, paid value therefor, in good faith, without notice of the breach of duty, or loss, theft, fraud, accident, mistake, or duress or conversion. (1917, c. 37, s. 47; 1931, c. 358, s. 3.)

Editor's Note.—The Act of 1931, inapplicable to pending litigation, amended this section to conform to amended § 4080. See 9 N. C. Law Rev. 404.

Fraudulent Negotiation by Superintendent. — Warehouse receipts issued under § 4925(e), and upon being returned endorsed, negotiated by the superintendent of the warehouse as collateral for a loan to himself, in breach of his duty to cancel them, are directly within the force of this section. Lacy v. Globe Indemnity Co., 189 N. C. 24, 126 S. E. 316.

§ 4088. Subsequent purchasers protected. — Where a person having sold, mortgaged, or pledged goods which are in a warehouse and for which a negotiable receipt has been issued, or having sold, mortgaged, or pledged the negotiable receipt representing such goods, continues in possession of the negotiable receipt, the subsequent negotiation thereof by that person under any sale or other disposition thereof to any person receiving the same in good faith, for value and without notice of the previous sale, mortgage, or pledge, shall have the same effect as if the first purchaser of the goods or receipt had expressly authorized the subsequent negotiation. (1917, c. 37, s. 48.)

§ 4089. Right of purchaser superior to seller's lien.—Where a negotiable receipt has been issued for goods, no seller's lien or right of stoppage in transitu shall defeat the rights of any purchaser for value in good faith to whom such receipt has been negotiated, whether such negotiation be prior or subsequent to the notification to the warehouseman who issued such receipt of the seller's claim to a lien or right of stoppage in transitu. Nor shall the warehouseman be obliged to deliver or justified in delivering the goods to an unpaid seller unless the receipt is first surrendered for cancellation. (1917, c. 37, s. 49.)

Art. 5. Criminal Offenses

§ 4090. Issuing receipt for goods not stored.—A warehouseman, or any officer, agent, or servant of a warehouseman, who issues or aids in issuing a receipt knowing that the goods for which such receipt is issued have not been actually received by such warehouseman, or are not under his actual control at the time of issuing such receipt, shall be guilty of a crime, and upon conviction shall be punished for each offense by imprisonment not exceeding five years or by a fine not exceeding five thousand dollars, or by both. (1917, c. 37, s. 50.)

§ 4091. Issuing receipt with false statement.—A warehouseman, or any officer, agent, or servant of a warehouseman, who fraudulently issues or aids in fraudulently issuing a receipt for goods knowing that it contains any false statement, shall be guilty of a crime, and upon conviction shall be punished for each offense by imprisonment not exceeding one year or by a fine not exceeding one thousand dollars, or by both. (1917, c. 37, s. 51.)

§ 4092. Issuing fraudulent duplicates.—A warehouseman, or any officer, agent, or servant of a warehouseman, who issues or aids in issuing a duplicate or additional negotiable receipt for goods, knowing that a former negotiable receipt for the same goods or any part of them is outstanding and uncanceled, without plainly placing upon the face thereof the word "duplicate," except in the case of a lost or destroyed receipt after proceedings for delivery as heretofore provided in this chapter, shall be guilty of a crime, and upon conviction shall be punished for each offense by imprisonment not exceeding five years or by a fine not exceeding five thousand dollars, or by both. (1917, c. 37, s. 52.)

§ 4093. Failure to state in receipt the interest of warehouseman.—Where there are deposited with or held by a warehouseman goods of which he is owner, either solely or jointly or in common with others, such warehouseman, or any of his officers, agents, or servants who, knowing this ownership, issues or aids in issuing a negotiable receipt for such goods which does not state such ownership, shall be guilty of a crime, and upon conviction shall be punished for each offense by imprisonment not exceeding one year or by a fine not exceeding one thousand dollars, or by both. (1917, c. 37, s. 53.)

§ 4094. Delivering goods without obtaining receipt. — A warehouseman, or any officer, agent, or servant of a warehouseman, who delivers goods out of the possession of such warehouseman, knowing that a negotiable receipt the negotiation of which would transfer the right to the possession of such goods is outstanding and uncanceled, without obtaining the possession of such receipt at or before the time of such delivery, except in the cases heretofore provided for in this chapter for the delivery of goods upon a lost receipt and for the sale of goods to satisfy the warehouseman's lien or because of their perishable or hazardous nature, shall be guilty of a crime, and upon conviction shall be punished for each offense by imprisonment not exceeding one year or by fine not exceeding one thousand dollars, or by both. (1917, c. 37, s. 54.)

§ 4095. Fraudulent deposit and negotiation. — Any person who deposits goods to which he has not title, or upon which there is a lien or mortgage, and who takes for such goods a negotiable receipt which he afterwards negotiates for value with intent to deceive and without disclosing his want of title or the existence of the lien or mortgage, shall be guilty of a crime, and upon conviction shall be punished for each offense by imprisonment not exceeding one year or by a fine not exceeding one thousand dollars, or by both. (1917, c. 37, s. 55.)

CHAPTER 80
WIDOWS

Art. 1. Dissent from Will

§ 4096. Time and manner of dissent. — Every widow may dissent from her husband's will before the clerk of the superior court of the county in which such will is proved, at any time within six months after the probate. The dissent may be in person, or by attorney authorized in writing, executed by the widow and attested by at least one witness and duly proved. The dissent, whether in person or by attorney, shall be filed as a record of court. If the widow be an infant or insane, she may dissent by her guardian. (Rev., s. 3080; Code, s. 2108; 1868-9, c. 93, s. 37.)

Cross References.—For full treatment of widow's rights in her husband's property including many illustrative cases wherein she entered her dissent to his will, see "Dower," 4 N. C. Enc. Dig. 884 et seq.; 13 N. C. Enc. Dig. 780 et seq. See also 12 N. C. Enc. Dig. 674 et seq.; 15 N. C. Enc. Dig. 821. And see the note to § 4100. For effect of the widow's dissent, see section 4097 and note thereto.

See 11 N. C. Law Rev., 274, for suggested revision of this and subsequent sections.

Section a "Statute of Limitations."—This section is not a statute conferring a right of dower, but a statute of limitation upon that right, as it existed at common law. In other words its effect is to prescribe a limitation in respect to the time in which the widow may claim or reject the provisions of the will. Hinton v. Hinton, 61 N. C. 410, 412.

Purpose of Six Months' Period.—The object of giving the widow six months within which to make an election to take under the will or against it, under the law, is to enable the widow to fully learn the condition of the estate and the advantages to be derived under the provisions made for her, as compared with those occurring as in case of an intestacy, and thus to intelligently exercise her right to dissent. Yorkly v. Stinson, 97 N. C. 236, 240, 1 S. E. 452; Richardson v. Justice, 125 N. C. 409, 410, 412, 34 S. E. 441. And if the widow is acquainted with the condition of the estate and what is included therein, then her election once made is binding. Horton v. Lee, 99 N. C. 227, 5 S. E. 404.

Other Rights Not Impaired.—The right of the widow to dissent from her husband's will cannot be attended with the deprivation or impairment of other rights because of an unsuccessful opposition to the will. Under this principle the wife may, if the validity of the will is established, claim and accept any benefit given her by the will. Yorkly v. Stinson, 97 N. C. 236, 1 S. E. 452.

Failure to Dissent within Time Allowed.—Where a widow fails to dissent to a will and brings an action after six months from the probate thereof for a year's allowance given her by section 4108, such action is not maintainable. Perkins v. Brinkley, 133 N. C. 86, 45 S. E. 465.

Same—Where the Estate Is Insolvent.—The failure of a widow to dissent from her husband's will within six months does not prevent her from claiming dower, or its equivalent in lands devised, when it appears that the estate is insolvent. Trust Co. v. Stone, 176 N. C. 270, 97 S. E. 8.

Dissent by Next Friend Where Widow an Infant.—Where the widow is a minor without a guardian, she may be represented by her next friend duly appointed, when dissenting from her deceased husband's will. Hollomon v. Hollomon, 125 N. C. 29, 34 S. E. 99.

When Dissent Made in Person.—Where a widow, being a minor and having no guardian, dissented in person and in open court from her husband's will, her dissent is made erroneously; however if she is assigned her dower by a court of competent jurisdiction her right to it cannot be impeached in an action of ejectment. Cheshire v. McCoy, 52 N. C. 376.

Acts Constituting Election.—The widow will not be precluded from the exercise of the legal right herein provided for by an agreement, even under seal, which she may be induced by the executor to sign, in ignorance of the condition of the estate. Richardson v. Justice, 125 N. C. 409, 410, 34 S. E. 441.

The institution of proceedings by the widow to have her dower allotted in order to protect her estate from creditors was held not to amount to a renunciation of the will. Lee v. Giles, 161 N. C. 541, 77 S. E. 852.

Where the widow entered a caveat to a will and contested its validity, it was held that she was not prevented from accepting any benefit given her by the will, nor was she prevented from entering her dissent thereto within the proper time. Yorkly v. Stinson, 97 N. C. 236, 1 S. E. 452. For other cases of acts amounting to an election thus preventing the widow from entering her dissent, see 12 N. C. Enc. Dig. 677 et seq.

Persons against Whom Election May Be Enforced.—See 12 N. C. Enc. Dig. 676.

Revocation of Election.—See 12 N. C. Enc. Dig. 679.

Where a widow is appointed executrix and proves the will and qualifies, she cannot afterwards renounce and dissent, but must carry out the will in all its provisions. Yorkly v. Stinson, 97 N. C. 236, 1 S. E. 452.

Entry of Dissent.—The entry of a dissent to her husband's will by the widow, is an incident to the jurisdiction of the probate, and as this jurisdiction has been conferred upon the clerk of the superior court, the widow's dissent is to be made and entered in his office. Ramsour v. Ramsour, 63 N. C. 231.

Applicability of Doctrine of Estoppel.—Where a widow agrees to adhere to the provisions of a will, and in consequence thereof the executor proceeds to pay legacies and assume obligations which would cause loss to him if the widow were to dissent, she will be estopped by her agreement, and will not be allowed to dissent; but where in such case she offers to put the estate in statu quo, and the executor has not acted under her agreement so as to cause him any loss whatever, she is not estopped. Yorkly v. Stinson, 97 N. C. 236, 1 S. E. 452.

Dissent as Bar to Property in Foreign State. — If the widow does not enter her dissent in one state and takes under the will in that state, she cannot then go to a foreign state and enter her dissent and claim her dower. In other words she will not be allowed to take under the will in one state and against it in another. Jones v. Gerock, 59 N. C. 190, 195, citing Mendenhall v. Mendenhall, 53 N. C. 287.

§ 4097. Effect of dissent.—Upon such dissent, the widow shall have the same rights and estates in the real and personal property of her husband as if he had died intestate. (Rev., s. 3081; Code, s. 2109; R. C., c. 118, s. 12; 1868-9, c. 93, s. 38.)

Generally.—The "estate" referred to is dower; the "rights" referred to are the year's support and child's support as a distributee, both of which are legal rights, enforcible at law, and not cognizable in a court of equity except when equity may be invoked to enforce her legal rights. Drewry v. Bank, etc., Co., 173 N. C. 664, 92 S. E. 593.

The words "as if he had died intestate" are not limited to the ordinary meaning of the husband dying without making a will, but include the case of his death without effectually disposing of his property. Corporation Commission v. Dunn, 174 N. C. 679, 685, 94 S. E. 481.

Method of Determining Widow's Share.—In ascertaining the distributive share of a widow who dissents from her husband's will, all his personal estate, whether consisting of advancements heretofore made to children, or legacies to grandchildren or to strangers, is to be brought together, and her share is to be taken out of it pursuant to the statute of distributions. Arrington v. Dorten, 77 N. C. 367.

Dissent Accelerates the Vesting of the Property.—Where property is devised to the widow during her life and then to a university and she dissents thereto, such property vests immediately in the university if the property is not given to the widow in her dower. Trustees v. Borden, 132 N. C. 476, 44 S. E. 47, 1007.

Right Subject to Inheritance Tax.—The dower right in lands of the husband taken by the dissenting widow is subject to the inheritance tax. Corporation Commission v. Dunn, 174 N. C. 679, 685, 94 S. E. 481.

Widow as Donee of Power.—Where the widow is the donee of a discretionary power, by dissenting from the will she renounces all gifts whether of estates or powers under it, at least of such powers as imply personal trust and confidence. Hinton v. Hinton, 68 N. C. 100, 104.

§ 4098. Widow's interest not liable for husband's debts.—The dower or right of dower of a widow, and such lands as may be devised to her by his will, if such lands do not exceed the quantity she would be entitled to by right of dower, although she has not dissented from such will, shall not be subject to the payment of debts due from the estate of her husband, during the term of her life. (Rev., s. 3082; Code, ss. 2104, 2105; R. C., c. 118, s. 8; 1868-9, c. 93, s. 34; 1791, c. 351, s. 4.)

Generally.—This section secures a provision out of the husband's land to the widow in two cases: (1) Where dower has been actually assigned, as in cases of intestacy, and dissent from the husband's will, and (2) where the husband devises lands to the wife, which are presumed to be in lieu of dower. Simonton v. Houston, 78 N. C. 408.

Exempt from Debts and Legacies.—Dower assigned to a widow who dissents from her husband's will is subject to neither debts nor legacies, Bray v. Lamb, 17 N. C. 372, 374, and where the personalty is insufficient to pay the debts the lands of the husband are sold subject to this right of dower. Curry v. Curry, 183 N. C. 83, 110 S. E. 579.

Lands Devised to Wife.—When, for the payment of a deceased husband's debts, it becomes necessary to resort to the lands devised by him to his wife, she is remitted to her right of dower, which, as in other cases, is not subject to those debts during her life. Ex parte Avery, 64 N. C. 113. But her right of dower is not protected against the debt due the vendor for the purchase money of the land. Kirby v. Dalton, 16 N. C. 195.

Where wife joins in mortgage of husband to exclude claim for inchoate dower therein, her relation to the transaction is that of surety, and should she survive him and the land is sold to satisfy the debt she becomes a creditor of the estate in the amount equal to her dower. American Blower Co. v. Mackenzie, 197 N. C. 152, 147 S. E. 829.

Stated in Boyd v. Redd, 118 N. C. 680, 686, 24 S. E. 429; Shackelford v. Miller, 91 N C. 181, 187.

Art. 2. Dower

§ 4099. Who entitled to dower.—Widows shall be endowed as at common law as in this chapter defined: Provided, if any married woman shall commit adultery, and shall not be living with her husband at his death, or shall be convicted of the felonious slaying of her husband, or being accessory before the fact to the felonious slaying of her husband, she shall thereby lose all right to dower in the lands and tenements of her husband; and any such adultery or conviction may be pleaded in bar of any action or proceeding for the recovery of dower. (Rev., s. 3083; Code, s. 2102; 1889, c. 499; 1868-9, c. 93, s. 32; 1871-2, c. 193, s. 44.)

Cross References.—See generally the subject bar, release or forfeiture, 4 N. C. Enc. Dig. 895; 13 N. C. Enc. Dig. 781. As to barment of the right to a year's support, see section 4108 and note thereto.

Definition.—Dower is the provision which the law makes for a widow out of the lands or tenements of her husband, for her support and the nurture of her children. Bouvier's Law Dict., Vol. 1, p. 611.

Reconciliation May Prevent Forfeiture.—The forfeiture, by this section, takes effect, not when the wife shall commit adultery, but when she does so and "shall not be living with her husband at his death." In other words, the door stands open until the death of the husband for a reconciliation and return of the wife. Leonard v. Leonard, 107 N. C. 171, 172, 12 S. E. 60.

Single Act of Adultery Sufficient.—If the wife leaves her husband and once commits adultery with the adulter, even though she does not continually remain in adultery, it is a "continuing" within the meaning of the act. Walters v. Jordan, 35 N. C. 361.

This decision was reached when the section read "if she willingly leave her husband and go away and continue with her adulterer," a requirement no longer found within the provision of this section. While the precise point in this case does not appear to have recently come before the courts, the present wording of the section would seem to furnish all the more reason for the justification of the ruling that a single act of adultery, without a reconciliation with the husband, is sufficient to constitute a bar to the wife's claim for dower.—Ed. Note.

Wrongdoing of Husband No Defense.—The violation of the marriage vows by the husband will not justify the wife in violating her vows, and since the dower right is given for the benefit of the guiltless and not those standing in pari delicto, her adultery will bar the widow's right to dower. Phillips v. Wiseman, 131 N. C. 402, 42 S. E. 861.

Stated in Lee v. Thornton, 176 N. C. 208, 97 S. E. 23; Higdon v. Higdon, 206 N. C. 62, 64, 173 S. E. 273.

§ 4100. In what property widow entitled to dower.—Subject to the provision in the preceding section, every married woman, upon the death of her husband intestate, or in case she shall dissent from his will, shall be entitled to an estate for her life in one-third in value of all the lands, tenements and hereditaments whereof her husband was seized and possessed at any time during the coverture, in which third part shall be included the dwelling-house in which her husband usually resided, together with offices, outhouses, buildings and improvements thereunto belonging or appretaining; she shall in like manner be entitled to such an estate in all legal rights of redemption and equities of redemption or other equitable estates in lands, tenements and hereditaments whereof her husband was seized in fee at any time during the coverture, subject to all valid encumbances existing before the coverture or made during it with her free consent lawfully appearing thereto. The jury summoned for the purpose of assigning dower to a widow shall not be restricted to assign the same in every separate and distinct tract of land, but may allot her dower in one or more tracts, having a due regard to the interest of the heirs as well as to the right of the widow. This section shall not be construed so as to compel the jury selected to allot dower to allot the dwelling-house in which the husband usually resided, when the widow shall request that the same be allotted in other property. (Rev., s. 3084; Code, s. 2103; R. C., c. 118, s. 3; R. S., c. 121, s. 3; 1827, c. 46; 1869-70, c. 176; 1883, c. 175; 1908, c 132.)

I. GENERAL CONSIDERATION OF DOWER

Editor's Note.—It is practically impossible in a work of this nature to give a full treatment and discussion of the whole law of this important subject, for any one of the innumerable issues which arise in litigation on this topic could be the basis of a lengthy article. As will be seen from the frontal analysis, the editor has deemed it advisable, from the viewpoint of the practitioner, to place hereunder cases which contain construction of this specific section and likewise to deal with those topics which appear to have given the most trouble in the decided cases. A full discussion of the subject-matter of this note may be found at the places in the digests above referred to.

Positive Law Is Basis of Dower.—The contract of marriage does not vest in the wife her right of dower. This right is not regarded as springing from contract, although the contract of marriage is a prerequisite to its existence, but from the positive terms of the common law or statute law. Corporation Commission v. Dunn, 174 N. C. 679, 681 94 S. E. 481; Rose v. Rose, 63 N. C. 391.

Right of Dower Is a Legal Right.—The right of a widow is a legal right and is prior to that of the heir. Campbell v. Murphy, 55 N. C. 357. It does not arise from the estate of the heir but is a continuation of that of her husband Everett v. Newton, 118 N. C. 919, 922, 23 S. E. 961; William v. Bennett, 26 N. C. 122.

As to exemption from debts and legacies, see note o Curry v. Curry, 183 N. C. 83, 110 S. E. 579, under section 4098; as to assignability of interest on conveyance or re lease, see 4 N. C. Enc. Dig. 903.

Law of Lex Situs Governs.—The existence and incidents of the right of dower are determined by the law of the state in which the real estate lies and not by that of the place of the marriage or the domicile of the parties. Corporation Commission v. Dunn, 174 N. C. 679, 681, 94 S. E. 481. The law existing when the estate becomes consumate by the husband's death is the governing law. Id.

Attaches to Proceeds of Sale by Receiver.—Where the husband's lands are sold by a receiver appointed by the court, and the husband and wife join in the receiver's deed to the purchaser, who assumes prior mortgage indebtedness thereon, and the parties agree that the wife's inchoate dower shall attach to the proceeds of the sale, the sale is not a foreclosure of the prior mortgages and the wife's rights of inchoate dower attaches to the proceeds of the sale, and the cash value of the inchoate right is computable and the wife is entitled thereto as against other creditors of the husband. American Blower Co. v. Mackenzie, 197 N. C. 152, 147 S. E. 829, laying down rule for computing present value of right of dower.

Where Dissent of Wife Not Necessary.—It will be noticed that the widow's right to claim dower is subject to the two contingencies, (1) that her husband die intestate, or (2) that she dissent from his will. In other words, this and the foregoing section give the widow the right to elect whether she will take under the provisions of the will or whether she will dissent therefrom and take under the law. There seems to be at least one case wherein the widow is not put to this election. It appears to be this: Where the husband takes a defeasible title to lands and the limitation is defeated at his death because of the non-performance of the condition thereof, then he has no legal title or estate in the lands which he could dispose of by will. Now when the husband dies leaving a will disposing of his other real and personal property, is the widow required to dissent from this will in order to lay claim to dower in the defeasible fee of which the husband was seized and possessed during coverture, but which limitation was terminated at his death? As stated above, it is held that she need not dissent. The reasons given are these: The dissent authorized by this section has reference to property which may be the subject of a devise. The husband in this case has no right to devise the defeasible fee, and his widow therefore is not claiming dower in opposition to the will. See Alexander v. Fleming, 190 N. C. 815, 819, 130 S. E. 867.—Ed. Note.

Not Consummate Until Death of Husband. — A married woman has an inchoate right or estate in one-third in value of all the lands of which her husband is seized and possessed during coverture, but its enjoyment is postponed by law until his death, and is contingent upon her surviving him. Gatewood v. Tomlinson, 113 N. C. 312, 313, 18 S. E. 318. And the wife cannot in the lifetime of her husband have her dower allotted even though his lands are sold under execution. Gatewood v. Tomlinson, 113 N. C. 312, 313, 18 S. E. 318.

The widow has no right under this section, to select the lands to constitute her dower, the provision providing that the commissioners need not select the dwelling-house if the widow requests otherwise, being merely to afford relief from the otherwise mandatory duty of the commissioners to select the dwelling-house, and not conferring the right of selection on the widow, and the commissioners being further required to equally protect the interests of the heirs and widow. Vannoy v. Green, 206 N. C. 77, 173 S. E. 277.

Nature of the Inchoate Dower.—The sections of the code pertaining to dower seem to recognize the right during the husband's life as a valuable interest that may pass by a conveyance. When she encumbers it by joining in a mortgage to secure his debt she becomes his surety. Gore v. Townsend, 105 N. C. 228, 232, 11 S. E. 160. In Bullard v. Briggs, 7 Pick. (Mass.) 533, cited and approved in Gore v. Townsend, supra, it is said: "It is a right and interest of which she cannot be divested but by her consent or crime, or by her dying before her husband."

An examination of the cases will show that no little difficulty has been encountered in fixing a precise and accurate definition of this inchoate right of dower possessed by the wife during the lifetime of her husband. But whatever contrariety may be found in the various statements made in reference to this right, all the courts adhere to the same established rules in the decision of the cases bearing on the subject, and substantiate the foregoing principles.

In summarizing the nature of this right, it is said in 2 Scriber on Dower 8: "It cannot properly be denominated an estate in lands nor indeed, a vested right therein, however it is a substantial right, possessing in contemplation of law, the attributes of property, and is to be estimated and valued as such." And in Dollin v. Coin, 14 Wall 472, 479, 20 L. Ed. 830, it is said: "A wife having only an inchoate right of dower has no present title to the land, either legal or equitable."—Ed. Note.

Although inchoate dower has a present value, the enjoyment of the estate is expressly postponed by statute until after the husband's death, and is contingent upon the wife surviving her husband. Higdon v. Higdon, 206 N. C. 62, 173 S. E. 273.

II. PROPERTY SUBJECT TO DOWER.

A. In General.

For general treatment of subject, see 4 N. C. Enc. Dig. 886 et seq.

Editor's Note.—The courts have followed the clear and unambiguous terms of this section in the determination of just what property is subject to the dower right of the widow. The cases given below will illustrate that the provisions herein contained constitute the formula which he property claimed by the wife must satisfy. A full collection of the decided cases may be found in 4 N. C. Enc. Dig. 886. The chief issue around which litigation has arisen is in regard to the nature of the seizin which the husband must have and whether or not he has such seizin in the property in question. This topic is thought to be of so great importance as to justify treatment under a separate analysis line.

Last Usual Residence Must Be Included.—In the allotment of the widow's dower, the provision pertaining to last usual residence of the husband has been given a literal interpretation, and it is held that this residence must be embraced therein and if the value thereof is as much as one-third of the realty of which the husband dies seized, then the widow has no interest in the balance of the estate. Howell v. Parker, 136 N. C. 373, 375, 48 S. E. 762. The widow cannot waive the right to the residence. Id. But note the effect of the last sentence of this section.—Ed. Note.

Same—Where Dwelling House Constitutes Entire Estate.—If the deceased had no other property but his dwelling house, then only a third can be set aside as dower. Caudle v. Caudle, 176 N. C. 537, 97 S. E. 472.

Valuation of Property.—A widow is not entitled to have dower of the improved value of her husband's estate, but she must take it according to the value as it was in his lifetime. Campbell v. Murphy, 55 N. C. 357. For a comprehensive treatment of the valuation and selection of property, see 4 N. C. Enc. Dig. 913.

Same—Right to Interest.—The widow's claim of dower becomes a vested right upon allotment, continuing from the death of her husband, and from that time she is entitled to damages, measured by the rental value, for the time she has been kept out of possession. In re Gorham, 177 N. C. 271, 98 S. E. 717.

Same—Same—Where Lands Sold to Pay Debts of Deceased.—In case of a sale of the lands to make assets to pay the debts of the deceased, the widow is entitled to interest on her proportionate part from the sale until payment, charging her interest in return, for such sums as she may be indebted to the estate. In re Gorham, 177 N. C. 271, 98 S. E. 717.

Partnership Property.—Real estate belonging to a partnership is subject to dower in favor of a widow of one of the partners only so far as a surplus may be left after paying the partnership debts. Stroud v. Stroud, 61 N. C. 525.

This holding is based upon the reasoning stated in Summey v. Patton, 60 N. C. 601, which is to the effect that where the partnership realty is sold to pay partnership debts, the surplus retains its character as real estate and descends to the heir, so that the heir takes subject to the widow's right of dower.—Ed. Note.

Mortgaged Property.—Under this section where an entire transaction was in effect an indirect mortgage on the property of a father and his children received no consideration and acquired no beneficial interest in the lands, the sole beneficial interest in the lands was in the father, and upon his death his widow is entitled to her dower rights in the lands. Stack v. Stack, 202 N. C. 461, 163 S. E. 589.

Right to Possession.—See 4 N. C. Enc. Dig. 903.

B. Estates and Interests.

1. Nature of Seisin Required.

For comprehensive treatment of the subject, see 4 N. C. Enc. Dig. 886 et seq.; 13 N. C. Enc. Dig. 780 et seq.

Seisin of Estate of Inheritance Necessary.—The seisin to render the estate dowable must be of an estate of inheritance, with the freehold vested in the deceased husband. Barnes v. Roper, 90 N. C. 189, 190.

The widow's right to dower rests upon the theory that during coverture her deceased husband died intestate, seized of an estate which any child she may have borne him might have taken by descent. Alexander v. Fleming, 190 N. C. 815, 130 S. E. 867.

Same—Seizin in Law or in Deed.—A widow is entitled to dower only in an estate of inheritance of which her husband had a seisin in law or in deed at any time during the coverture, Houston v. Smith, 88 N. C. 312; the latter being the actual possession of a freehold estate and the former the right to the immediate possession or enjoyment of a freehold estate. Redding v. Vogt, 140 N. C. 562, 53 S. E. 337.

Possession Alone Will Not Suffice. — Possession cannot supply the seisin of an inheritable estate necessary to support the right of dower. Barnes v. Roper, 90 N. C. 189, 191; Efland v. Efland, 96 N. C. 488, 1 S. E. 858.

The original Act of 1784 read "seisin or possession." The section now reads "seisin and possession," the substitution of the word "and" for the word "or" having been made by the Act of 1836. This substitution, however, does not affect the substantive meaning and intent of the section, and is said in Weir v. Tate, 39 N. C. 264, 278, to be only a clerical error. This being true the section as it now reads is to be given the same construction as it received prior to the exchange of these words. Under this construction it would seem that the word "possession" is surplusage, and at least one court has said that no member of the profession has ever understood why it was placed in the section. Weir v. Tate, supra. This view seems to be rested on the fact that if the requisite of seisin is satisfied, the possession, so far as is necessary, is likewise satisfied.—Ed. Note.

When Husband Deemed to Be Seized.—The husband is generally deemed to be seized of any land, "when he may have had any right, title or interest in the inheritance." Boyd v. Redd, 118 N. C. 680, 685, 24 S. E. 429.

2. Application.

Editor's Note. — The determination of the question as to whether or not the husband has been seized of the land, within the meaning of the judicial construction placed on the word as used in this section, probably has been the most fruitful source of litigation of the whole subject of dower. The contests which have been waged around this particular requisite have arisen in various forms, and have involved all kinds of estates and interests. However, the conclusions reached by the courts are believed to be placed on reasons which in turn, have as their foundation the basic principles hereinbefore set out. A few of what are believed to be the leading cases are given in the following passages, for it is believed that the constructions of the section on this particular point, handed down by the courts in these cases, are well established in the State of North Carolina. A full collection of cases bearing on the subject of seisin will be found in 4 N. C. Enc. Dig. 886 et seq.

Seisin of Estate in Remainder.—The widow of a remainderman is not entitled to dower where the life tenant survives the remainderman, because the husband in such case is never seized of such an estate of inheritance in the land as is required. Royster v. Royster, 61 N. C. 226, 229.

Seisin of Purchaser at Judicial Sale.—Where a purchaser at a judicial sale gave his bond for the purchase money and died before the sale was reported to or confirmed by the court, it was held that he was seized of such an equitable estate as would entitle the widow to dower in such lands. Klutts v. Klutts, 58 N. C. 80.

Devise by Will—Rule in Shelley's Case.—Where under his will a testator gave all his lands to his son for life, "and after his death to his lawful heirs, born of his wife," it was held that the son did not take a fee simple, under the rule in Shelley's case, so as to give his widow dower therein. Thompson v. Crump, 138 N. C. 32, 50 S. E. 457.

A testator devised land in trust for the sole benefit of his son and the son's family, specifying that the whole of the property, with all its increase, on the death of the son, was to go on to his lawful heirs, share and share alike; it was held that the son did not take the fee under the rule in Shelley's Case but only a life estate, and therefore his widow was not entitled to dower therein. Gilmore v. Sellars, 145 N. C. 283, 59 S. E. 73.

The general doctrine of the rule in Shelley's Case may well be mentioned at this point. If the rule of this case is applicable to the controversy in question, then the husband takes a fee simple to the lands out of which dower may be had, because the husband will have been seized during coverture of an estate of inheritance within the meaning of the word as used in this section. But if the rule in Shelley's Case is inapplicable, then the husband takes only a life estate out of which dower cannot be had, and this because the husband will not have been "seized" within the meaning of this section for, as we have already seen, seisin as here used means an estate of inheritance. See note of Barnes v. Roper, ante, this note, analysis line II, B, 1. The reason which prevented this doctrine from operating in the Thompson case, just noted, was the fact that the words "born of his wife" were held to qualify and explain "his lawful heirs," thus confining the remainder to the children of his will. For a discussion of the rule in Shelley's Case, see the note to section 1734.—Ed. Note.

Seisin under Unrecorded Deed.—Where title to land is claimed under a deed it is essential that such deed be registered for otherwise the widow is not entitled to dower out of the premises covered by the unrecorded deed. Thomas v. Thomas, 32 N. C. 123. But see Tyson v. Harrington, 41 N. C. 329 where it is held that the widow of a man, to whom a deed for land had been delivered, but from whom it had been abstracted before registration, has a right to her dower in such land, the husband having an incomplete legal title. The case of Thomas v. Thomas, supra, was cited without disapproval.

Estate in Expectancy.—See 4 N. C. Enc. Dig. 890.

Rent.—In a U. S. Supt. Ct. case Herbert v. Wren, 7 Cranch 370, 3 L. Ed. 374, it was held that if a wife join her husband in a lease for years, she is still entitled to dower in the rent.

Mortgaged Property.—See 4 N. C. Enc. Dig. 889.

Estate at Will.—At common law a wife had no right of dower in an estate at will. See Duncan v. Navassa Phosphate Co., 137 U. S. 647, 34 L. Ed. 826.

Land Held in Trust by Husband.—See 4 N. C. Enc. Dig. 887.

III. PLEADING AND PRACTICE.

For treatment of pleading generally, see 4 N. C. Enc. Dig. 911 et seq. See also § 4104 et seq.

Only One Proceeding Necessary.—This section gives the widow dower in all the lands of which the husband was seized during coverture, and this provision contemplates that the dower was intended to be sought, and must be sought, in but one special proceeding for the purpose. Askew v. Bynum, 81 N. C. 350, 355. Proceedings for the assignment of dower instituted and determined in the county of the deceased husband's last residence are a bar to subsequent proceedings for the same purpose in another county to affect lands therein located. Id.

Where Petition Filed.—Petition for dower should be filed in the county of the husband's last usual residence, but the jury of allotment may assign the same in one or more tracts situated in one or more counties. Askew v. Bynum, 81 N. C. 350.

See section 4105 and note thereto.

There is no statute of limitations in regard to the writ of dower; and if her case is not affected by the statute of presumptions the widow is not bound to account for a delay. Campbell v. Murphy, 55 N. C. 357.

Parties.—As to who are necessary parties, see section 4105 and note thereto. See also 4 N. C. Enc. Dig. 909 et seq.; 13 N. C. 781.

§ 4101. Dower not affected by conveyance of husband; exception.—No alienation of the husband alone, with or without covenant of warranty, shall have any other or further effect than to pass his interest in such estate, subject to the dower right of his wife: Provided, that a mortgage or trust deed by the husband to secure the purchase money, or any part thereof, of land bought by him, shall, without the wife executing the deed, be effectual to pass the whole interest according to the provisions of the said deed. Rev., s. 3085; Code, s. 2106; 1868-9, c. 93, s. 35.)

As to private examination of wife, see section 997 and note thereto.

Editor's Note.—Under this section as it formerly stood no joinder of the wife in a conveyance by the husband was necessary, because as section 4100 stood under the old law, the wife was given dower only in those lands of which the husband died seized. That section no longer requires seisin at the death of the husband, but only a seisin of inheritance at any time "during coverture." Hence under the prior law the husband had full power to defeat the dower right of the wife by making a conveyance of his lands, for in so doing he would destroy a prerequisite for the attachment of the right of dower. However, this power of the husband was taken away by the change of the wording of the section (4100), and the wife's right, although, in a sense, a qualified one, attaches to all lands seized by the husband during coverture, assuming of course, the existence of the other essential elements. It necessarily follows, then, that all purchasers, etc., take the property conveyed by the husband, subject to the dower right of the wife, and this section (4101) is merely a statutory protection thereof. For comprehensive treatment as to the state of the law prior to 1868, see 4 N. C. Enc. Dig. 898 et seq.

This section is modified by section 4103(a) to the extent that the husband of an insane or lunatic wife may alienate his property without her joinder provided the terms of that section are complied with.

Generally.—It is an established principle that every citizen has the right to enjoy the fruits of his own labor, and when his earnings are invested in land, the rule is that he acquires with the title the incidental right of absolute and unrestrained alienation. However there are a few instances where the law has trammeled this right to reach some beneficent end; the provision that the wife must join in a conveyance by her husband constitutes one of these restrictions. But this and the other restrictions must be construed as to carry out the kindly purpose for which they were created, with no more restraint on the power of alienation than is necessary to make them effectual. Hughes v. Hodges, 102 N. C. 236, 9 S. E. 437.

Non Joinder of Wife—Dowable Property Retained.—Where the husband has sold and conveyed portions of his land for valuable consideration without the joinder of the wife, but retained lands, which descend to his heirs, of a kind and quantity which permit that dower be assigned out of the lands descended and according to the provisions of this section, the purchasers have a right to require that dower be allotted out of lands descended, and the lands which they have purchased and paid for be relieved of the widow's claim. Harrington v. Harrington, 142 N. C. 517, 55 S. E. 409.

Cited in Boyd v. Brooks, 197 N. C. 644, 645, 150 S. E. 178; Taft v. Covington, 199 N. C. 51, 55, 153 S. E. 597.

§ 4102. Dower conveyed by wife's joinder in deed.—The right to dower under this chapter shall pass and be effectual against any widow or person claiming under her upon the wife joining with her husband in the deed of conveyance and being privately examined as to her consent thereto in the manner prescribed by law. (Rev., s. 3086; Code, s. 2107; 1868-9, c. 93, s. 36.)

See annotations to § 4103.

As to private examination of the wife, see section 997 and note thereto.

Inchoate Right of Dower as Collateral Security.—The wife by joining in her husband's mortgage given on his lands may convey, as additional security to his debt, her inchoate right of dower. Griffin v. Griffin, 191 N. C. 227, 131 S. E. 585.

Same—Foreclosure.—A deed of trust given by the husband and joined in by the wife unreservedly of her inchoate right of dower, may be enforced under its terms and conditions to pay off the debt it secures, and completely bars the inchoate right of dower. Griffin v. Griffin, 191 N. C. 227, 131 S. E. 585.

Same—Equity Will Not Intervene.—Equity will not interfere in behalf of the wife who has unreservedly joined in a mortgage on her husband's lands, to restrain the sale according to the terms of the instrument, by first ordering a foreclosure sale of the lands outside of the wife's inchoate interest, and if not sufficient, subject her interest to sale for the payment of her husband's debt. Griffin v. Griffin, 191 N. C. 227, 131 S. E. 585.

Joinder Makes Wife a Surety.—When the wife encumbers her inchoate right of dower by joining in a mortgage of his land to secure his debt she becomes his surety, Gore v. Townsend, 105 N. C. 228, 11 S. E. 160, and is entitled to call upon her husband to exonerate her estate from the debt. Id.

Dower Need Not Be Sold When Estate Is Solvent.—The widow may subject her dower to the payment of the debts of her husband's estate by joining in his mortgage deed or conveyance in conformity to the requirements of this section, yet if his estate is solvent the dower need not be sold, and in the event that it is insolvent the estate must be administered according to the established rules. Holt v. Lynch, 201 N. C. 404, 160 S. E. 469.

Cited in Higdon v. Higdon, 206 N. C. 62, 65, 173 S. E. 273.

§ 4103. Conveyance of home site without wife's signature.—No deed or other conveyance, except to secure purchase money, made by the owner of a home site, which shall include the residence and other buildings together with the particular lot or tract of land upon which the resident is situated, whether actually occupied by said owner or not, shall be valid to pass possession or title during the lifetime of the wife without the voluntary signature and assent of his wife, signified on her private examination according to law: Provided, the wife does not commit adultery, or has not and does not abandon the husband and live separate and apart from him. (1919, c. 123.)

Editor's Note. — Section 4103(a) passed by the Public Laws of 1923, is undoubtedly intended to modify the section in that it allows the husband in certain specified cases to alienate the property concerned without the joinder of his wife.

In General.—In Southern State Bank v. Summer, 188 N. C. 687, 688, 125 S. E. 489, the court said: "The value of the 'home site' is not fixed by the statute. It is not certain as to whether it is intended to be in addition to, or included within, the homestead right. Nothing is said as to whether it is superior to the rights of heirs or the claims of creditors. It has been suggested that the statute may apply, and probably was intended to apply only as against those claiming under a deed from the husband without his wife's proper joinder. We leave its interpretation for future consideration."

Validity of Section.—This section is valid, and does not fall within the principle that a statute too vaguely worded to express a definite meaning, and which is not susceptible of interpretation by the courts, will be declared void. Boyd v. Brooks, 197 N. C. 644, 150 S. E. 178.

It Is Mandatory.—In regard to the "home site" so far as the rights of the wife are concerned, this section is mandatory. Coker v. Virginia-Carolina Joint-Stock Land Bank, 208 N. C. 41, 44, 178 S. E. 863.

Distinguished from § 2577.—See note to § 2577.

Property Constituting a "Home Site."—Where a mortgagor of lands at the time of the execution of the mortgage is in possession of a certain part thereof on which, with the usual outbuildings, he lives with his family as a home, such land is a "home site" within the meaning of this section and held in this case that a 54.75 acres of farm land is not excessive for the purpose. Boyd v. Brooks, 197 N. C. 644, 150 S. E. 178.

Deed to "Home Site" without Wife's Joinder Not Void.—This section limits the effect of the conveyance of a "home site" by a husband's deed or mortgage made without the privy examination of the wife, but does not make the conveyance void, and the effect of the statute is to postpone the title and the right of possession of the "home site" under such deed until the death of the husband, when it then passes to the grantee subject only to the dower right of the wife if she survives him. Boyd v. Brooks, 197 N. C. 644, 150 S. E. 178.

Rights of Parties under Foreclosure of Mortgage on "Home Site" in Which the Wife Did Not Join.—Where the wife does not join in a mortgage made by her husband on the statutory "home site" in his lands, or have her privy examination taken as required by statute, the mortgagee takes subject to the provisions of this section and the purchaser at the foreclosure of such mortgage sale does not acquire under his deed the right to immediate title or possession to the land. Boyd v. Brooks, 197 N. C. 644, 150 S. E. 178.

A minor wife's joinder in the execution of a mortgage on the home site of her husband may be disaffirmed by her within three years after her majority, her husband living, and the execution of the instrument never having been ratified by her, and upon such disaffirmance the mortgage is void, under this section, and §§ 997, 4102, 4103 (a) (b), being separate and distinct statutes, are held to have no application to this action. Coker v. Virginia-Carolina Joint-Stock Land Bank, 208 N. C. 41, 178 S. E. 863.

Homestead Distinguished. — Homestead exemption should not be confused with the wife's interest under this section. The wife's interest in the husband's "home site" exists by this section and a different principle applies as to a conveyance without her valid execution. Johnson v. Leavitt, 188 N. C. 682, 125 S. E. 490.

§ 4103(a). Conveyance without joinder of wife; certificate of lunacy.—Every man whose wife is a lunatic or insane may bargain, sell, lease, mortgage, transfer and convey any of his real estate by deed, mortgage deed, deed of trust, or lease, without the signature or private examination of his wife: Provided, that the clerk of the superior court of the county in which the wife was adjudged a lunatic or declared insane, or the superintendent of an insane institution of the state, or any other state, shall certify under his hand and seal that she has been adjudged a lunatic or declared insane, and that her sanity has not been declared restored as is provided by law, and this certificate must be attached to the husband's deed, mortgage deed, deed of trust, or lease. Such deed, mortgage deed, deed of trust or lease executed, probated and registered in accordance with law shall convey all the estate and interest as therein intended of the grantor in the land conveyed, free and exempt from the dower rights and all other interests of his wife: Provided, this section shall not apply to the homestead of the husband which has been actually alloted. (1923, c. 65, s. 1.)

See annotations to § 4103.

Editor's Note.—Attention is called to the fact that section two of the act of 1923, which enacted this section, provided that all sections conflicting with this section are repealed to the extent of this conflict and section 4103 was specifically mentioned. As to the extent of the repeal of sections 4101 and 4103, see the editor's note under those sections.

§ 4103(b). Renouncement of dower.—All married persons under the age of twenty-one years shall have the same privilege to renounce their dower rights and rights of curtesy and to give their written assent to conveyances of real property as are now conferred upon married persons twenty-one years old and over. (1923, c. 67, c. 2; 1935, c. 18.)

See annotations to § 4103.

Editor's Note.—It was stated in 1 N. C. Law Rev. 271, that while this section does not refer to any section, it should be considered as an amendment to sections 997 and 4102.

The amendment of 1935 made this section applicable to the renunciation of curtesy and assent to conveyances of real property.

Art. 3. Allotment of Dower

§ 4104. By agreement between widow and heir.—If the personal property of a decedent be sufficient to pay his debts and charge of administration, the heir or devisee with the widow may, by deed, agree to an assignment of her dower. (Rev., s. 3087; Code, s. 2110; 1868-9, c. 93, s. 39.)

There is nothing in this or the following section to indicate that the widow may select her dower or "endow herself." Vannoy v. Green, 206 N. C. 77, 79, 173 S. E. 277.

§ 4105. Petition filed in superior court.—If no such agreement be made, the widow may apply for assignment of dower by petition in the superior court, and, if she fail to make such application within three months after the death of her husband, any heir or devisee may file a petition reciting the facts that the widow is entitled to dower on certain lands and has not applied for it, and demand that her dower be assigned to her. In all cases the widow and all heirs and devisees and persons in possession of, or claiming estate in, the lands shall be made parties, and the court shall hear and pass upon the petition in like manner as in other cases of special proceedings. (Rev., s. 3088; Code, ss. 2111, 2112; 1891, c. 133; 1868-9, c. 93, ss. 40, 41.)

Cross Reference.—For full treatment of the subject, see 4 N. C. Enc. Dig. 905 et seq.; 13 N. C. 781; as to nature and form of action, see 4 N. C. Enc. Dig. 906, see also section 4100, analysis line "Pleading and Practice."

See § 3226 and notes thereto.

In General.—The remedy by petition, as prescribed by this section, is a substitute for the action of dower at common law. McMillan v. Turner, 52 N. C. 436, 437.

Special Proceeding.—A proceeding for dower is a special proceeding. Tate v. Powe, 64 N. C. 644.

Where Equitable Element Involved.—While the assignment of dower is a special proceeding of which the clerk has jurisdiction, yet if any equitable element is involved, which under the former practice would have been cognizable in a court of equity, the superior court in term has jurisdiction, and the application for dower becomes a civil action. Efland v. Efland, 96 N. C. 488, 1 S. E. 858.

Where Question of Title Raised.—In a petition for a partition of land, in a court of law, where the defendant denies the tenancy in common by a plea of sole seizin in himself, the proper course is for the court to try the question of title thus raised, and not to force the plaintiff to resort to an action of ejectment for that purpose. Purvis v. Wilson, 50 N. C. 22.

Summons Returnable to Clerk.—A summons in a proceeding for the allotment of dower is returnable before the clerk of the superior court and not to the court in term. Gatewood v. Tomlinson, 113 N. C. 312, 18 S. E. 318.

Legal Right Personal to Widow.—The right to apply for allotment of dower by special proceeding under this section is a legal right, personal to the widow, and cannot be transferred by assignment. Parton v. Allison, 109 N. C. 674, 14 S. E. 107.

Dissent Essential to Jurisdiction.—The entry of a dissent by the widow is an incident to the jurisdiction of probate, and as this jurisdiction has been conferred upon the clerk of the superior court, the widow's dissent is to be made and entered in his office. Ramsour v. Ramsour, 63 N. C. 231.

Assignment before Allotment. — Where the right to a dower has been assigned before allotment, the assignee's remedy to enforce it is by civil action in term; the clerk of the superior court has no jurisdiction. Parton v. Allis n, 109 N. C. 674, 14 S. E. 107.

Rights of assignee, see 4 N. C. Enc. Dig. 903 et seq.

Allotment by Heirs.—In McMillan v. Turner, 52 N. C. 436, 437, there is strong intimation that the heirs could assign the widow her dower, and also that twenty years continuous possession by the widow of a certain tract of land claimed as dower, is sufficient to raise a presumption that such assignment had been made. But as to the first point mentioned, i. e., allotment by heirs, see Freeman's Heirs v. Ramsey, 189 N. C. 790, 128 S. E. 404, where it is held that the statutory method of allotment of dower is exclusive.

Administrator as a Party.—If there is no prayer against the administrator he is not a necessary party to a bill for the assignment of dower. Campbell v. Murphy, 55 N. C. 357.

Creditors as Parties.—Creditors are not necessary parties to the proceedings. Ramsour v. Ramsour, 63 N. C. 231; but the court may permit a creditor of a person, who died seized and possessed of lands to be made a party to the proceeding and contest the claim of the widow. Welfare v. Welfare, 108 N. C. 272, 12 S. E. 1025.

Creditors Must Make Exceptions within Allowed Time.—While creditors of an estate may be permitted to contest the widow's allotment of dower in proper instances upon the ground that the allotment is excessive, they must pursue their remedy in apt time by excepting to the report of the jury, and their motion to be made parties in order to contest the allotment of dower, made almost three months after approval by the court of the clerk's confirmation of the jury's report, is too late. Poindexter v. Call, 208 N. C. 62, 179 S. E. 335.

Judgment Conclusive upon All Claimants.—The judgment in a special proceeding for the allotment of dower to a widow is intended by this section to be and is conclusive upon the heirs, devisees or other claimants who may be parties as to the title of the husband and the rights of the widow. Boyd v. Redd, 118 N. C. 680, 685, 24 S. E. 429.

Same—Where Lessee Not Made Party. — The lessee of lands for a term, during the continuance of the lease after the death of the deceased owner, is a proper and necessary party to proceedings to lay off the widow's dower wherein the locus in quo had been included, and where he has not been made a party he is not bound by the judgment in his action of ejectment and to recover damages against the widow, administrator and heirs at law. Ingram v. Corbit, 177 N. C. 318, 99 S. E. 18.

§ 4106. Dower assigned by jurors summoned by sheriff. — If dower be adjudged, it shall be assigned by a jury of three persons qualified to act as jurors, unless one of the parties demand a greater number, not exceeding twelve, who shall be summoned by the sheriff to meet on the premises or some part thereof, and being duly sworn by the sheriff or other person authorized to administer oaths, shall proceed to allot and set apart to the widow her dower in said premises according to law and make report of their proceedings under their hands within five days to the clerk of the superior court.

When the husband dies seized and possessed of lands in any other county than that in which dower is to be assigned, the clerk of the superior court of the county in which the dower is to be assigned shall, upon application of the widow entitled to dower, issue a commission to the sheriff of such other county requiring him to summons three or more persons, as may be asked in said application, qualified to act as jurors, to go upon the lands of said husband in the county of said sheriff and assess the value of the same after being duly sworn by the sheriff for that purpose, and report their assessment under their hands and seals through the sheriff, who shall countersign the same as their report to the clerk issuing said commission; and said report in the hands of the jury summoned to assign the dower shall be considered by them a true valuation of the lands mentioned in the report, and said last-mentioned jury shall be deemed to have met on the lands thus assessed and shall assign the dower accordingly.

If either party to the proceeding shall demand it, the clerk shall appoint three persons qualified to act as jurors, unless one of the parties demands a greater number, and then not exceeding twelve, who shall meet on the premises or some part thereof, and after being duly sworn by the clerk or someone authorized to administer oaths, shall proceed to allot and set apart to the widow her dower in said premises according to law and make report of their proceedings under their hands, or the hands of a majority of them, within five days to the clerk of the Superior Court; and when the jurors are so appointed the sheriff will not countersign the report nor take any part in the proceedings, except that the clerk may cause notice to be served on the jurors so appointed, if he deems or finds it necessary. (Rev., s. 3089; Code, s. 2113; 1893, c. 314; 1868-9, c. 93, s. 42; 1931, c. 393.)

Cross Reference. — For general treatment, see 4 N. C. Enc. Dig. 915 et seq.; as to property subject to dower, see section 4100, analysis line, II; as to valuation of property of deceased husband, see note of Campbell v. Murphy, 55 N. C. 357, 364, under section 4100, analysis line, II A; as to conclusiveness of judgment in proceeding, see note of Boyd v. Redd, 118 N. C. 680, 24 S. E. 429, under section 4105.

Editor's Note.—The Act of 1931, which added the last paragraph to this section, provided: "This shall apply to proceedings pending where the order to the sheriff has not been made and also when a new jury is ordered in any proceeding now pending."

Signature of Sheriff Unnecessary.—It is not required that the sheriff attest the report of the jury by signing the same. Brickhouse v. Sutton, 99 N. C. 103, 5 S. E. 380.

Where Secondary Evidence of Report Admissible.—Where it appeared that the report of the jury fully described the dower of the widow, but had been lost, and the ommission of a certain line in the report was made in copying it up in the record, it was held that the report is a part of the record and secondary evidence of its contents is admissible. Wells v. Harrell, 152 N. C. 218, 67 S. E. 584.

Manner of Allotment of Mortgaged Lands.—In a petition for dower, where the lands consisted principally of different parcels mortgaged in several deeds by husband and wife, the allotment should not be in part of the lands as if unencumbered or subject to the same encumberance, but in each parcel separately, and then the widow can work out her relief by asserting her equity against each creditor, as he seeks to enforce his security. Askew v. Askew, 103 N. C. 285, 290, 9 S. E. 646.

The remedy against an excessive assignment of dower is by exceptions to the report of the jury, upon the hearing of which it is competent for the court to hear affidavits, with a view to ascertain the facts. Welfare v. Welfare, 108 N. C. 272, 12 S. E. 1025.

Power of Court.—Ordinarily, the court, before which exceptions to the report of the jury in the allotment of dower is heard, is the sole judge whether a reassignment or successive reassignments shall be made. Poindexter v. Call, 208 N. C. 62, 179 S. E. 335.

Setting Aside the Allotment.—Where the report of the jury alloting dower is returned, and exceptions are taken by one thereby aggrieved, the court will set aside the allotment, and order a new allotment, if sufficient cause be shown. Stiner v. Cawthorn, 20 N. C. 640. But if the report is confirmed, a petition to set aside the allotment will not be heard at a subsequent term. Bowers v. Bowers, 30 N. C. 247.

Order Directing Reallotment of Dower. — The Supreme Court will not disturb an order directing a reallotment of dower, made after hearing the case on argument on both sides and all the papers, including conflicting affidavits concerning value, since the trial court, in the exercise of sound discretion, is the judge of how often, for just cause, it will direct a reallotment. Wilson v. Featherstone, 118 N. C. 840, 24 S. E. 714.

§ 4107. Notice to parties of meeting of jury.— The parties to such proceeding, or their attorneys, if within the county, shall be notified of the time and place of meeting of the jury appointed to assign dower, at least five days before the meeting. (Rev., s. 3090; Code, s. 2114; 1868-9, c. 93, s. 43.)

Art. 4. Year's Allowance

Part 1. Nature of Allowance

§ 4108. Who entitled to allowance. — Every widow of an intestate, or of a testator from whose will she has dissented, shall be entitled, besides her distributive share in her husband's personal estate, to an allowance therefrom, for the support of herself and her family for one year after his decease, and such allowance shall be exempt from any lien, by judgment or execution, acquired against the property of her husband: Provided, if any married woman shall commit adultery, and shall not be living with her husband at his death, or shall be convicted of the murder of her husband, or of being accessory before the fact to the murder of her husband, she shall thereby lose all right to a year's provision, and to a distributive share from the personal property of her husband, and such adultery or conviction may be pleaded in bar of any action or proceeding for the recovery of such rights and estates. (Rev., s. 3091; Code, s. 2116; 1889, c. 499, s. 2; 1868-9, c. 93, s. 81; 1871-2, c. 193, s. 44; 1880, c. 42.)

Cross Reference.—For full treatment of the subject, see 6 N. C. Enc. Dig. 109 et seq, 14 N. C. Enc. Dig. 174 et seq; as to amount allowed, see section 4109; as to who are members of the family, see section 4110 and note thereto; as to property subject to allowance, see section 4112 and note thereto; as to bar, waiver or relinquishment, see 6 N. C. Enc. Dig.; as to time of making application, see note of Ex parte Rogers, under section 4115.

Purely a Statutory Right.—The right of a widow to a year's support is purely statutory. Broadnax v. Broadnax, 160 N. C. 432, 76 S. E. 216.

Priority Over Creditors—Rule Stated.—The widow is given her right to her years support against all general creditors, but no better title to the property assigned her than her husband had. Hence, the rule to be deduced would seem to be this: She is entitled to her years allowance in preference to all general creditors, and also in perference to the special lien acquired by an execution bearing tests prior to the husband's death. In regard to other liens and equities, she takes the property in the same manner and plight in which her husband held it. Williams v. Jones, 95 N. C. 504. Her priority extends over the funeral expenses and costs of administration. Denton v. Tyson, 118 N. C. 542, 24 S. E. 116.

Same—Mortgage Registered after Husband's Death. — Where a husband mortgaged a horse, but the mortgage was not registered until after his death, and prior to its registration the horse was assigned to the widow as a part of her year's support, it was held that the widow took the property subject to the mortgage lien. Williams v. Jones, 95 N. C. 504.

Where husband predeceased by wife, see note of In re Stewart, 140 N. C. 28, 30, 52 S. E. 255, under section 4111.

When Husband Died a Citizen of Foreign State. — The widow of a man who dies a citizen of another state is not entitled to a year's support out of the assets of the decedent in this State, and the fact that she became a citizen of this State after her husband's death is immaterial, since her relations to the estate and her right to share in it are fixed at the intestate's death, and by the laws of his domicil. Simpson v. Cureton, 97 N. C. 113, 2 S. E. 668; Medley v. Dunlap, 90 N. C. 527.

The decision in these cases appears to have been changed in the case of Jones v. Layne, 144 N. C. 600, 57 S. E. 372, in which it is held that a widow, whose husband died domiciled in another state, is entitled to her year's support in this State in which there is a fund due her husband, if the widow is a bona fide resident in the State. The reason given for this ruling is that the fiction of personal property being considered as belonging to the domicil of the owner applies only to the distribution of the assets of the one deceased, and has no application to payment of debts, legacies, costs of administration, etc. See Moye v. May, 43 N. C. 131, also Story Confl. Laws, 354. When it is recalled that the year's support given to the widow is superior to all these claims, then this, coupled with the fact that it seems well settled that the fiction that personal property follows the owner is limited in its operation to the case of distributing the assets of one deceased, would be ample reason for the ruling in the Jones case. Further support may also be found in the very purpose and object of the enactment of the Legislature giving to the widow her year's support. See In re Hayes, 112, 76, 77, 16 S. E. 904; Kimball v. Deming, 27 N. C. 418.—Ed. Note.

Adultery Prior to Enactment of Section, Not a Bar. — A widow is not barred of her right to a year's support under this section by reason of adultery committed prior to the passage of the act. Cook v. Sexton, 79 N. C. 305.

Antenuptial Contract as a Bar.—A widow is barred from recovering a year's support by an antenuptial contract relinquishing all claim to any property of her husband. Perkins v. Brinkley, 133 N. C. 86, 45 S. E. 465.

Award under Will as Estoppel.—Where the widow and the executor by mutual consent selected three men to lay off the widow her year's support, provided for her in the husband's will, which was done, and both parties assented to the report in writing, it was held that the widow in the absence of fraud and undue influence was estopped by the award and cannot maintain a proceeding under this section. Flippin v. Flippin, 117 N. C. 376, 23 S. E. 321.

§ 4109. Amount allowed. — Except in cases in which a large allowance is hereinafter provided for, the value of a year's allowance shall be three hundred dollars, and one hundred dollars in addition thereto for every member of the family besides the widow. (Rev., s. 3092; Code, s. 2118; 1868-9, c. 93, s. 10.)

§ 4110. Family defined.—The family of the deceased, for the purposes of this chapter, shall be deemed to be, besides the widow, any child with which she may be pregnant at the death of her husband, every child, either of the deceased or of the widow, and every other person to whom the deceased or widow stood in place of a parent, who was residing with the deceased at his death, and whose age did not then exceed fifteen years. (Rev., s. 3093; Code, s. 2119; 1868-9, c. 93, s. 11; 1909, c. 93.)

In General.—The object of the clause, "who were residing with the deceased at his death," is to exclude from the bounty children who might come in after the death of the husband and make themselves "members of the family," and was not meant to embrace those for whom the testator in his will appointed a guardian, directing him to take them to live with him and educate them out of the profits of the estate, and such children do not constitute a part of the "family" after his death. Hollomon v. Hollomon, 125 N. C. 29, 34 S. E. 99.

Death of Child before Filing of Application.—Where two children under fifteen years of age resided with the widow at the death of her husband, and one died before the application for the year's provision was filed, it was held that the widow was entitled to an allowance for two children. In re Hayes, 112 N. C. 76, 77, 16 S. E. 904.

This decision was rested on the ground that the chief object of this and the foregoing sections is to provide for the dependent family of the deceased residing with the widow at the death of the husband, and not at the date of her application. As was said in the early case of Kimball v. Deming, 27 N. C. 418, cited and approved in In re Hayes, supra, the purpose "was to make provision for the pressing wants of the widow personally, and to enable her at that mournful juncture to keep her family about her for a short season, and prevent the necessity of scattering her children abroad, until time was allowed for selecting suitable situations for them.—Ed. Note.

Entire Allowance to Widow.—It is proper to make the entire allowance to the widow and none to the minor children, but the existence of such children may be considered, the widow being charged with their care and support. Drewry v. Bank, etc., Co., 173 N. C. 664, 92 S. E. 593.

§ 4111. When children entitled to allowance.—If a man die intestate leaving no widow surviving him, or if his widow die before her year's allowance is assigned her, then there shall be assigned to every other member of the family, as in this chapter defined, the sum of one hundred dollars each, which shall be turned over immediately to the guardian and used by him in the care and education of the members of the family, respectively; and if there be no guardian, it shall be received and disbursed by the clerk of the superior court for their benefit. (Rev., s. 3094; 1889, c. 496.)

Where Husband Predeceased by Wife.—Formerly it was held that where the wife dies before her husband no allowance could be set aside for the members of the family, Kimball v. Deming, 27 N. C. 418; this holding was placed on the ground that the allowance was personal to the widow. However, it is now held that in such case an allotment may still be had for the benefit of the members of the family surviving under the age of fifteen years. In re Stewart, 140 N. C. 28, 30, 52 S. E. 255.

§ 4112. From what property assigned.—Such allowance shall be assigned from the crop, stock and provisions or any personal property of the deceased in his possession at the time of his death, if there be a sufficiency thereof in value, and if there be a deficiency, it shall be made up by the personal representative from the personal estate of the deceased. (Rev., s. 3095; Code, s. 2117; 1868-9, c. 93, s. 9; 1925, c. 92.)

See the treatment of the subject in 6 N. C. Enc. Dig. 111 et seq.

Editor's Note.—The words "or any personal property" after the word "provisions" are new with the Public Laws of 1925. The insertion of these words takes away all doubt as to whether or not the enumerated classes of property herein contained were meant to exclude all other property. But it is submitted that the addition of these words to this section was not intended to make all the personal property of the deceased subject to the widow's allowance in the first instance. The general words "or any personal property," following the enumeration of specific classes, (crop, stock, and provisions) must, under the maxim ejusdem generis, be restricted to things of the same kind as those specifically mentioned and enumerated. This seems to be the only possible construction to give to the new words since the section in all its other respects is left without any change whatever, and note must be taken of the clause that "if there be a deficiency it shall be made up by the personal representative from the personal estate of the deceased." Unless the newly inserted words are given the limited meaning above referred to, then this last provision would not only be surplusage but would be meaningless. In other words, the door to the personal estate of the deceased has been opened wider but has not been opened to its fullest extent. For example, since the words used in this section seem to contemplate only personal property of a tangible nature, the intangible property would still be outside the scope of the property from which the widow's allowance may be taken, unless it is necessary to make up a deficiency.

"Stock."—In an early case, Van Norden v. Prim, 3 N. C. 149, the word "stock" contained in this section was construed to mean live stock.

Time of Valuation.—The widow's allowance must be made on the basis of the property's value at the time of the allowance, and not at the time of the testator's death. Hunter v. Husted, 45 N. C. 97.

Damages for Wrongful Death.—The right of action for wrongful death is conferred by statute at death, and any recovery therefor never belonged to the deceased and is not assets of the estate, therefore the widow is not entitled to have her year's support assigned to her therefrom. Broadnax v. Broadnax, 160 N. C. 432, 76 S. E. 216.

Failure to Pay Deficiency.—An administrator is personally liable if he has assets to pay a deficiency and he fails to pay it. Irvin v. Hughes, 82 N. C. 210.

Sale of Land—Retention of Character as Realty.—In case of the sale of lands for assets to pay debts of a decedent, the surplus, after paying the debts and costs, remains real estate and cannot be applied to the payment of a judgment against the administrator in favor of the widow for the balance of her year's allowance. Denton v. Tyson, 118 N. C. 542, 24 S. E. 116.

Part 2. Assigned by Justice of the Peace

§ 4113. Duty of personal representative.—It shall be the duty of every administrator, collector, or executor of a will, from which the widow of a testator has dissented, on application in writing, signed by the widow of such intestate or testator, at any time within one year after the decease of the husband, to assign to her a year's allowance in the manner prescribed in this chapter, to the value herein prescribed, deducting therefrom the value of any articles consumed by the widow and her family since the death of her husband to the time of the assignment. If there be no widow, or if she should die before the year's provision is assigned, the personal representative shall assign one hundred dollars to every other member of the family as defined in this chapter; but if there be no personal representative it shall be assigned by a justice of the peace, upon the application of the guardian or next friend of the children entitled. (Rev., s. 3096; Code, s. 2120; 1889, c. 496; 1868-9, c. 93, s. 12.)

As to who are members of the family, see section 4110.

§ 4114. Value of property ascertained.—The value of stock, crop and provisions assigned to the widow, as well as that of the articles consumed, shall be ascertained by a justice of the peace and two persons qualified to act as jurors of the county in which administration was granted or the will proved. (Rev., s. 3097; Code, s. 2121; 1868-9, c. 93, s. 13.)

§ 4115. Procedure for assignment.—Upon the application of the widow, the personal representative of the deceased shall apply to a justice of the peace of the township in which the deceased resided, or some adjoining township, to summon two persons qualified to act as jurors, who, having been sworn by the justice to act impartially, shall, with him, ascertain the number of the family of the deceased according to the definition given in this chapter, and examine his stock, crop and provisions on hand, and assign to the widow so much thereof as will not exceed the value limited in this chapter, subject to the deduction prescribed in this chapter: Provided, that in case there shall be no administration upon such estate, or in the event that the personal representative shall fail or refuse to apply to a justice of the peace as aforesaid for the space of ten days after the widow shall have filed with him the application as aforesaid, or if the widow shall be the personal representative, she may make the application, and it shall be the duty of the justice to proceed in the same manner as though the application had been made by the personal representative: Provided further, that in all cases, if there be no crop, stock or provisions on hand, or not a sufficient amount, the commissioners may allot to the widow any articles of personal property of the deceased, and also any debt or debts known to be due him, and such allotment shall vest in the widow such property, and the right to collect the debts thus allotted: Provided further, that where the widow and personal effects of the deceased husband shall have been removed from the township or county where deceased husband resided before his death, the widow may apply to any justice of the peace of any township or county where such personal property is located, and it shall be the duty of such justice to allot and assign the year's allowance as if the husband had resided and died in that township. (Rev., s. 3098; Code, s. 2122; 1891, c. 13; 1899, c. 531; 1870-1, c. 263.)

Cross Reference.—For treatment of subject generally, see 6 N. C. Enc. Dig. 113 et seq. As to parties entitled to claim assignment, see section 4108 and note thereto; as to property subject to allowance, see section 4112 and note placed thereunder. As to right of a bona fide resident to claim assignment under section, see note of Jones v. Layne, 144 N. C. 600, 57 S. E. 372, under section 4108; as to antenuptial contract as bar to recovery, see note of Perkins v. Brinkley, 144 N. C. 600, 57 S. E. 372, under section 4108.

Next Friend as Representative of Minor Widow.—In dissenting from her husband's will and applying for a year s allowance, the widow, being a minor without guardian, may be represented by a next friend, duly appointed. Hollomon v. Hollomon, 125 N. C. 29, 34 S. E. 99.

Assignment under Section Not Exclusive.—The assignment of a year's provision under this section does not serve to preclude her right to an increase thereof under section 4120 et seq. Mann v. Mann, 173 N. C. 20, 91 S. E. 355.

The reasons for this construction are two-fold. (1) The year's provision of $300. is intended for the immediate and pressing needs of the widow and is not given her as a substitute for any or all that she may rightfully claim, (2) the words "further allowance," as used in section 4120 contemplate the possibility of the right of the widow to lay claim to an additional sum, depending on the existence or non-existence of the circumstances mentioned in that section.—Ed. Note.

Effect of Delay in Administration of Estate.—It is not the lapse of time since the death of the husband, but such lapse since the taking of administration, that effects the right of the widow to a year's provision, that where the administration was delayed for eight years after the death of the husband, the widow is entitled to recover under a petition filed at that term, Ex parte Rogers, 63 N. C. 110, but the failure to file petition for two years after administration is granted will defeat the widow's recovery, Gillespie v. Hyman, 15 N. C. 119, and also where the widow fails to dissent to a will and brings an action after six months from the probate thereof for a year's allowance, such action is not maintainable. Perkins v. Brinkley, 133 N. C. 86, 45 S. 465.

§ 4116. Report of commissioners.—The commissioners shall make and sign three lists of the articles assigned to the widow, stating the quantity and value of each, the number in the family, and the deficiency to be paid by the personal representative. One of these lists shall be delivered to the widow, one to the personal representative, and one returned by the justice, within twenty days after the assignment, to the superior court of the county, and the clerk shall file and record the same and enter judgment against the personal representative, to be paid when assets shall come into his hands, for any residue found in favor of the widow. (Rev., s. 3099; Code, s. 2123; 1868-9, c. 93, s. 15.)

As to recovery of deficiency, see section 4112 and note thereto; as to personal liability of administrator for failure to pay deficiency, see note of Irvin v. Hughes, 82 N. C. 210, under section 4112.

Filing of List of Articles Mandatory. — The filing and recording of the list of articles alloted to the widow, as her year's support, as required by this section, is essential to its validity, and to the vesting in her of the property or debt alloted to the widow. Kiff v. Kiff, 95 N. C. 72.

Reasonable Certainty Required. — The allotment to the widow must be made with such reasonable certainty, in regard to the thing alloted, as to indicate what property was intended by the commissioners, otherwise the allotment will be void. Kiff v. Kiff, 95 N. C. 72. Under this principle the item, "labor for 3½ years, $173," was held void. Id.

§ 4117. Right of appeal.—The personal representative, or the widow, or infant by his guardian or next friend, or any creditor, legatee or distributee of the deceased, may appeal from the finding of the commissioners to the superior court of the county, and, within ten days after the assignment, cite the adverse party to appear before such court on a certain day, not less than five nor exceeding ten days after the service of the citation. (Rev., s. 3100; Code, s. 2124; 1897, c. 442; 1868-9, c. 93, s. 16.)

Evidence to Support Findings as Bar to Appeal. — The findings of the judge in the special proceedings for the allotment of the year's support will not be reviewed on appeal where there is evidence to support such findings. Drewry v. Bank, etc., Co., 173 N. C. 664, 92 S. E. 593.

§ 4118. Hearing on appeal.—At or before the day named, the appellant shall file with the clerk a copy of the assignment and a statement of his exceptions thereto, and the issues thereby raised shall be decided as other issues are directed to be. When the issues shall have been decided, judgment shall be entered accordingly, if it may be without injustice, without remitting the proceedings to the commissioners. (Rev., s. 3101; Code, s. 2125; 1868-9, c. 93, s. 17.)

§ 4119. Personal representative entitled to credit.—Upon the settlement of the accounts of the personal representative, he shall be credited with the articles assigned, and the value of the deficiency assessed as aforesaid, if the same shall have been paid, unless the allowance be impeached for fraud or gross negligence in him. (Rev., s. 3102; Code, s. 2126; 1868-9, c. 93, s. 18.)

§ 4120. When above allowance is in full.—If the estate of a deceased be insolvent, or if his personal estate does not exceed two thousand dollars, the allowance for the year's support of his widow and her family shall not, in any case, exceed the value prescribed above; and the allowance made to her as above prescribed shall preclude her from any further allowance. (Rev., s. 3103; Code, s. 2127; 1868-9, c. 93, s. 19.)

Allowance under section 4115 does not preclude operation of this section, see note of Mann v. Mann, 173 N. C. 20, 91 S. E. 355, under section 4115.

Part 3. Assigned in Superior Court

§ 4121. Widow may apply to superior court.—It shall not, however, be obligatory on a widow to have her support assigned as above prescribed. Without applying to the personal representative of her deceased husband, she may, at any time within one year after the death of her husband, apply to the superior court of the county in which the will was proved, or administration granted, to have a year's support for herself and her family assigned to her. (Rev., s. 3104; Code, s. 2128; 1868-9, c. 93, s. 20.)

§ 4122. Nature of proceeding; parties.—The application shall be by summons, as is prescribed for special proceedings, in which the personal representative of the deceased, if there be one other than the plaintiff, the largest known creditor, or legatee, or some distributee of the deceased, living in the county, shall be made defendant, and the proceedings shall be as prescribed for special proceedings between parties. (Rev., s. 3105; Code, s. 2129; 1868-9, c. 93, s. 21.)

§ 4123. What complaint must show.—In her complaint the widow shall set forth, besides the facts entitling her to a year's support and the value thereof, as claimed by her, the further facts that the estate of the deceased is not insolvent, and that the personal estate of which he died possessed exceeded two thousand dollars, and also whether or not she had an allowance made her, and the nature and value thereof; and if no allowance has been made, the quantities and values of the articles consumed by her and her family since the death of her husband. (Rev., s. 3106; Code, s. 2130; 1868-9, c. 93, s. 22.)

§ 4124. Judgment, and order for commissioners.—If the material allegations of the complaint be found true, the judgment shall be that she is entitled to the relief sought; and the court shall thereupon issue an order to the sheriff or other proper officer of the county, commanding him to summon a justice of the peace and two indifferent persons qualified to act as jurors of the county, to assign to the plaintiff from the crop, stock and provisions of the deceased a sufficiency for the support of herself and her family for one year from the death of her husband; and if there be a deficiency thereof, to assess such deficiency, to be paid by the personal representative from the personal assets of the deceased, deducting, nevertheless, in all cases from such allowance the articles, or the value thereof, consumed by the widow and her family before such assignment, and also any sum previously assigned her. (Rev., s. 3107; Code, s. 2131; 1868-9, c. 93, s. 23.)

§ 4125. Duty of commissioners; amount of allowance.—The said commissioners shall be sworn by the justice and shall proceed as prescribed in this chapter, except that they may assign to the widow a value sufficient for the support of herself and her family according to the estate and condition of her husband and without regard to the limitation aforesaid in this chapter; but the value allowed shall not in any case exceed the one-half of the annual net income of the deceased for three years next preceding his death. This report shall be returned by the justice to the court. (Rev., s. 3108; Code, s. 2132; 1868-9, c. 93, s. 24.)

§ 4126. Exceptions to the report.—The personal representative, or any creditor, distributee or legatee of the deceased, within twenty days after the return of the report, may file exceptions thereto. The plaintiff shall be notified thereof and cited to appear before the court on a certain day, within twenty and not less than ten days after service of the notice, and answer the same; the case shall thereafter be proceeded in, heard and decided as provided in special proceedings between parties. (Rev., s. 3109; Code, s. 2133; 1868-9, c. 93, s. 25.)

§ 4127. Confirmation of report; execution.—If the report shall be confirmed, the court shall so declare, and execution shall issue to enforce the judgment as in like cases. (Rev., s. 3110; Code, s. 2134; 1868-9, c. 93, s. 26.)

CHAPTER 81

WILLS

Art. 1. Execution of Will

§ 4128. Infants incapable.—No person shall be capable of disposing of real or personal estate by will until he shall have attained the age of twenty-one years. (Rev., s. 3111; Code, s. 2137; R. C., c. 119, s. 2; 1811, c. 280.)

Under the prior law, see Williams v. Her Heirs at Law and Next of Kin, Williams Legatees v. Heirs at Law, 44 N. C. 271, where it was held that an infant between twenty-one and eighteen could dispose of personal estate by will.

A will executed by a minor's father is not sufficient grounds for a court of equity to refuse the petition of the minor's guardian to be authorized and directed to enter proceedings to attack a consent judgment on grounds of irregularity and that it was not binding on the minor, it appearing that the purported will executed by the minor's father seeking to divest the minor's interest in trust estates was void under this section, the minors' father at the time of executing the instrument being under twenty-one years of age. In re Reynolds, 206 N. C. 276, 173 S. E. 789.

§ 4129. Married woman capable.—A married woman owning real or personal property may dispose of the same by will. (Rev., s. 3112; Code, s. 2138; R. C., c. 119, s. 3; 1844, c. 88, s. 8.)

Curtesy of Husband Defeated.—Since the Constitution of 1868 a married woman may by will deprive her husband of curtesy in her separate estate. Hallyburton v. Slagle, 132 N. C. 947, 44 S. E. 655; Watts v. Griffin, 137 N. C. 572, 50 S. E. 218.

§ 4130. Local: Wills of married women in Gaston.—All devises and bequests heretofore or hereafter made by any married woman to her husband shall be void, if such married woman has thereafter or shall hereafter become insane, and if a decree of divorce a vinculo matrimonii or a mensa et thoro has been obtained or shall hereafter be obtained by either party to such marriage: Provided, that this section shall apply only to Gaston county. (1908, c. 138.)

§ 4131. Formal execution.—No last will or testament shall be good or sufficient, in law, to convey or give any estate, real or personal, unless such last will shall have been written in the testator's life time, and signed by him, or by some other person in his presence and by his direction, and subscribed in his presence by two witnesses at least, no one of whom shall be interested in the devise or bequest of the estate, except as hereinafter provided; or, unless such last will and testament be found among the valuable papers and effects of any deceased person, or shall have been lodged in the hands of any person for safe-keeping, and the same shall be in the handwriting of such deceased person, with his name subscribed thereto or inserted in some part of such will; and if such handwriting shall be proved by three credible witnesses, who verily believe such will and every part thereof is in the handwriting of the person whose will it appears to be, then such will shall be sufficient to give and convey real and personal estate. (Rev., s. 3113; Code, s. 2136; R. C., c. 119, s. 1; 1784, c. 204, s. 11; 1784, c. 225, s. 5; 1840, c. 62; 1846, c. 54.)

I. IN GENERAL.

Editor's Note.—The Statute of Frauds in England, in relation to wills, and this section upon the same subject, have in view the same object, namely, the protection of the heirs-at-law, and next of kin of a decedent, from the effect of a forged or false paper as a will. For that purpose, many forms and ceremonies are required to be observed in the execution of such instruments. With regard to attested wills, the requisites of the English statute, and this section, except as to the number of witnesses, are substantially the same. The courts, in both countries, have demanded a strict compliance with these provisions of the law. The same policy must govern the courts of this State, when they come to decide, whether the requisitions of this section have been complied with in the execution of a paper writing, propounded as a holograph will. See Little v. Lockman, 49 N. C. 495, 496.

Natural Right to Dispose of Property by Will.—The right to dispose of property by will is not a natural right, but one conferred and regulated by statute. Peace v. Edwards, 170 N. C. 64, 86 S. E. 807.

Necessity of Animus Testandi.—The distinguishing feature of all genuine testamentary instruments, whatever their form, is that the paper-writing must appear to be written animus testandi. It is essential that it should appear from the character of the instrument, and the circumstances under which it is made, that the testator intended it should operate as his will, or as a codicil to it. In re Perry, 193 N. C. 397, 398, 137 S. E. 145.

For a memorandum written and signed by the testator to take effect as his will, it must, among other requisites, show that it was made animus testandi, and where the other formalities have been observed, a "pack" of letters containing a note in his favor, with the indorsement written thereon, and signed by him, a long time prior to his death, "I want S. W. have this pack." will not operate either as a valid holograph will or codicil. Id.

Where the animus testandi appears as doubtful or ambiguous, the question is one for the jury. In re Will of Harrison, 183 N. C. 457, 111 S. E. 867.

Where propounders introduce ample evidence that the paper-writing was in the handwriting of deceased and there is no evidence to the contrary, and the paper-writing is dispositive on its face and unequivocally shows the intention of deceased that it should operate as his will, the animus testandi is conclusively presumed, and it is error for the court to submit the question of such intention to the jury over the objection of propounders. In re Rowland's Will, 206 N. C. 456, 174 S. E. 284.

Nuncupative Wills Not Precluded.—The language of this section does not preclude the validity of nuncupative wills in this State; for section 4144 par. 3 expressly provides for their probate. The different sections of the code must be construed together. Kennedy v. Douglas, 151 N. C. 336, 66 S. E. 216.

Will Drafted from Dictations after Testator's Death.—A paper writing drafted by an attorney from a stenographer's notes taken from dictation of deceased as to the disposition of her property after death, unsigned and unwitnessed, is not admissible as a last will and testament. Kennedy v. Douglas, 151 N. C. 336, 66 S. E. 216.

Letter as Will.—A letter written by the deceased to his brother, signed by him "Brother Alex," just before the deceased had gone to a hospital for treatment, saying "Brother Richard, take good care of yourself and stay with William at the store. I am going to the hospital on account of not feeling well. I hope God nothing happens, but if it does, everything is yours. Got some money in the bank, but don't know how much we owe on house . . . . . I hope in a few days I will come back," etc., indicates the writer's present intention to dispose of his property, and is provable as his holograph will. Wise v. Short, 181 N. C. 320, 107 S. E. 124.

Reference on Certain Questions.—For an article on the following questions, see 2 N. C. Law Rev. 107 et seq., (1) what is sufficient subscription; (2) what are valuable papers; wherein is considered the relaxation of the doctrine of Little v. Lockman, 49 N. C. 493; (3) what is meant by "Depositing with Someone for Safe Keeping"; (4) animus testandi.

Same—Devisability of Possibility of Reverter before Condition Broken.—See Church v. Young, 130 N. C. 8, 40 S. E. 691, under the preceding section.

Cited in In re Will of Lowrance, 199 N. C. 782, 784, 155 S. E. 876; Grantham v. Grantham, 205 N. C. 363, 366, 171 S. E. 331.

II. SIGNING ATTESTATION AND DATE.

In General.—In order to a valid written will with witnesses, the same should be signed or his signature identified by the testator, or signed by some other person in his presence and by his direction, and subscribed in his presence by at least two witnesses. Watson v. Hinson, 162 N. C. 72, 77 S. E. 1089.

What Constitutes Signing and Subscribing.—The authorities make a distincton between statutes requiring instruments to be signed and those requiring them to be subscribed, holding with practical unanimity, in reference to the first class, that it is not necessary for the name to appear on any particular part of the instrument, if written with the intent to become bound; and, as to the second class, that the name must be at the end of the instrument. Peace v. Edwards, 170 N. C. 64, 66, 86 S. E. 807.

Name in Body of Will Sufficient Signature.—It is well settled that if the name of the testator appears in his handwriting in the body of the will this is a signing within the meaning of the statute. Hall v. Misenheimer, 137 N. C. 185; Richards v. Lumber Co., 158 N. C. 56; Boger v. Lumber Co., 165 N. C. 559; Burriss v. Starr, 165 N. C. 660; Peace v. Edwards, 170 N. C. 64, 66, 86 S. E. 807.

Under this section a paper-writing in the testator's handwriting, dispositive on its face, with the name of the testator inserted therein in his own handwriting followed by the words "this being my will" is sufficient in form to constitute a holographic will. In re Rowland, 202 N. C. 373, 162 S. E. 897.

Same—For Example.—"I, John Jones, do make and publish this my last will and testament" is good if John Jones wrote the above even though he did nothing further in the way of signing or attesting the instrument concerned. 2 N. C. Law Rev. 107.

Signing in Presence of Witnesses Not Necessary.—This section does not require the testator to manually sign his will in the presence of the subscribing witnesses, and the validity of the written instrument in this respect will be upheld if the testator produces the will itself, and acknowledges and identifies it and his signature thereto, at the time the witnesses subscribe their names as such. Watson v. Hinson, 162 N. C. 72, 77 S. E. 1089; In re Fuller's Will, 189 N. C. 509, 127 S. E. 549, 550.

Witnesses Need Not Sign in Presence of Each Other.—It is not required that the subscribing witnesses sign the will in the presence of each other. Watson v. Hinson, 162 N. C. 72, 77 S. E. 1089; In re Will of Johnson, 182 N. C. 522, 109 N. C. 373.

Signature Made for Testatrix in Her Presence.—An instruction that it was not required that the will should be manually signed by the alleged testatrix if her name was signed thereto by some one in her presence, by her direction, or if such a signature was acknowledged by her as her signature to the instrument presented as her last will was held correct. In re Will of Johnson, 182 N. C. 522, 109 S. E. 373.

Signing Attestation by Both Witnesses in Presence of Testator Essential.—When a witness who had properly signed as such, no other witness signing, had the will copied upon different paper in the absence of the testator, signed the copy, left it at the home of the testator with the original, who afterwards procured the due attestation and signature of the other witness on the copy, both of which were found among the papers of the testator after his death, but the original was destroyed, the copy is not valid as a will, and evidence that the first draft was identical with the copy is incompetent, the first witness having signed before the testator, and not in his presence, there being no physical connection between the original and copy, and not upon the same paper as that of the signature of the testator. In re Baldwin, 146 N. C. 25, 59 S. E. 163.

Attestation and Signing—Relation in Point of Time.—Some authorities hold that everything required to be done by the testator in the execution of a will shall precede in point of time the subscription by the attesting witness, and that, if the signature of the latter precede the signing by the testator, the will is void. Gardner on Wills, 263. Until the testator has signed, there is no will and nothing to attest. There are eminent authorities, however, which hold that where the signing of the testator and of the witnesses took place at the same time and constituted one transaction, it is immaterial who signed first. Gardner, supra. In re Baldwin, 146 N. C. 25, 29, 59 S. E. 163.

Attestation and Subscription on the Same Sheet.—The attestation or subscription by witnesses must be on the same sheet of paper as that which contains the testator's signature, or else upon some paper physically connected with that sheet. In re Baldwin, 146 N. C. 25, 30, 59 S. E. 163.

Attestation Does Not Invalidate a Holographic Will.—The fact of there being a signature of one subscribing witness to a will of land does not prevent it from being proved as holograph will; and it is no objection to the probate of a script as a holograph will that it has one subscribing witness, and was intended by the decedent to be proved by subscribing witnesses, which intent was frustrated by the fact that the second attesting witness was incompetent. Hill v. Bell, 61 N. C. 122, 124.

Necessity of Date—Signature Required.—The testator's signature to the will is required though it is not required that the paper-writing be subscribed or dated. Therefore an undated will, when the name of the testator, in his own handwriting, appears in the body thereof, has the same legal effect as those bearing dates and subscribed by the testator. Peace v. Edwards, 170 N. C. 64, 86 S. E. 807.

A paper-writing in the handwriting of testatrix, duly proven by three credible witnesses, signed by testatrix and found among her valuable papers after her death, which paper-writing contains dispositive words sufficient to dispose of the estate, is valid as a holograph will under this section and § 4144(2), and it is not necessary that the writing be dated or show the place of execution. In re Parson's Will, 207 N. C. 584, 178 S. E. 78.

Same—Inconsistent Wills, Effect Intestacy.—Where the decedent has left several paper-writings purporting to be his last will, containing the opening declaration, as to each, that the testator made the same as his "last will and testament," but only one of them bears date and his name subscribed thereto, and each of them making a disposition of his property different from the other, the undated and unsubscribed wills have the same legal effect as the one dated and subscribed, though the testator had indorsed under his signature, thereon, the words "last will"; and in the absence of proof as to which of the wills was the last one, the legal effect is intestacy. Peace v. Edwards. 170 N. C. 64, 86 S. E. 807.

Question for Jury.—It is for the jury to determine whether the testatrix impliedly requested the attesting witnesses to attest the will, an implied request being sufficient to submit the question to the jury. In re Kelly's Will, 206 N. C. 551, 174 S. E. 453.

III. HOLOGRAPH WILLS—DEPOSIT WITH VALUABLE PAPERS.

Cross References.—See 12 N. C. Enc. Dig. 415; 15 N. C. Enc. Dig. 764.

Construction of Statute—Illustration.—The requirements of this section that a paper-writing sufficient to pass as a holograph will must be found after the death of the testator among his valuable papers and effects must be liberally construed, and where it is found among the deceased's papers and effects evidently regarded by him as his most valuable papers, and are in fact valuable, under circumstances showing his intention that that will should take effect as being so found, it is sufficient, and under the facts of this case the paper-writing was adjudged to be effective as his will when found after his death in the pockets of the clothes he was wearing, with large sums of money and other papers of value. In re Will of Groce, 196 N. C. 373, 145 S. E. 689.

When all the words appearing on a paper in the handwriting of the deceased person are sufficient to constitute a last will and testament, the mere fact that other words appear thereon, not in such handwriting, but not essential to the meaning of the words in such handwriting, cannot be held to defeat the intention of the deceased, otherwise clearly expressed, that such paper-writing is and shall be her last will and testament. In re Parson's Will, 207 N. C. 584, 587, 178 S. E. 78.

What Constitutes Proper Depositing under This Section—Example.—A script purporting to be a holograph will was found in a drawer inside of a desk, between a bag of gold coins and a bag of silver coins; and immediately above the drawer, in pigeon-holes, were found notes, bonds and other valuable papers, arranged in files; the drawer and pigeonholes were secured by the same door and lock: It was held, that the script was properly deposited, under this section defining the requisites of holograph wills. Hughes v. Smith, 64 N. C. 493.

Deposit in Drawer of Bookcase with Deeds, etc.—Where the proof showed that the script propounded, as a holograph will, was found in a small drawer of a bookcase, in the room which the alleged testator occupied at his death, with his deeds and other papers, held to be such a finding "among the valuable papers of the decedent" as will, in connection with the other evidence required by the statute in respect to handwriting authorizing its probate. Cornelius v. Brawley, 109 N. C. 542, 14 S. E. 78.

Deposit in a Trunk Left with Friend for Safe-keeping.—The placing of a holograph in a trunk, left for safe-keeping with a friend, and having it in the larger part of the valuable papers and money of the deceased, will satisfy the requirements of the statute upon the point of deposit. Hill v. Bell, 61 N. C 122.

Need Not Be Found among Most Valuable Papers.—The phrase, "among the valuable papers and effects of," etc., used in this section does not necessarily and without exception mean among the most valuable papers, etc. Winstead v. Bowman, 68 N. C. 170. So the fact that decedent kept valuable papers in a tin box in a bank which were intrinsically more valuable than papers kept in a trunk where the will was found would not prevent the latter from being a depository within the meaning of the section. Id.

Deposit among Useless Papers and Rubbish.—In the case of Little v. Lockman, 49 N. C. 495, the script propounded was found in the drawer of a bureau, among some useless papers and rubbish, and there were valuable papers and effects kept in another drawer of the same bureau. Under such circumstances the court properly held that the script was not found in such a place of deposit as was contemplated by the statute. Hughes v. Smith, 64 N. C. 493, 495.

It is proper to notice that this section does not say "among valuable papers or effects," or "among any valuable papers or effects," but uses the definite article, the saying "among the valuable papers and effects." Id. This case is criticized by some of the later cases holding that the will need not be deposited among the most valuable papers. But it seems that the holding can be distinguished, without disparaging its authority, by the fact that the will here was deposited with useless papers and rubbish which had little or no comparative value with other papers of the testator deposited elsewhere—Ed. Note.

Jury to Determine Intention in Depositing with Valuables.—It was entirely proper in the judge to leave it to the jury to determine whether, from all the circumstances, they believed that the paper-writing was deposited by the deceased among his valuable papers with the intention that it should be his will. Simms v. Simms, 27 N. C. 684; Hill v. Bell, 61 N. C. 122, 125.

Evidence of Finding among Valuables.—That a holograph script was seen among the valuable papers and effects of the decedent eight months before his death, is no evidence that it was found there at or after his death. Adams v. Clark, 53 N. C. 56.

Sufficiency of Evidence.—Evidence that the will and testament of the deceased, wholly written and signed by her, was found among her valuable papers after her death, in a desk where she kept her business papers, and those she desired to keep for their sentimental value to herself, and transferred after her death to her trunk where they were found, is held sufficient, under the circumstances of this case. In re Will of Westfeldt, 188 N. C. 702, 125 S. E. 531.

Found among the Valuable Papers "or" Effects.—The word "and" appearing in the phrase "among the valuable papers and effects" should be taken in its alternative rather than in its conjunctive sense. The change of the conjunction "or" which originally appeared in place of "and" did not affect the construction of the section. This for the reason that if the word "and" is taken in its strict conjunctive sense, the statute would be virtually repealed or its benefits greatly diminished, as only few persons who manage their business with order and system keep their valuable papers and effects mixed up together. Hughes v. Smith, 64 N. C. 493, 495.

What Constitutes Valuable Papers.—Valuable papers consist of such as are regarded by a decedent as worthy of preservation, and therefore in his estimation, of some value; depending much upon the condition and business and habits of the decedent in respect to keeping his valuable papers. Winstead v. Bowman, 68 N. C. 170.

Note Held to Be Codicil.—A note payable to the deceased, found with his holographic will in a box with his other valuable papers after his death, and endorsed thereon in the handwriting of the deceased and over his signature to his wife to take effect after his death, when proved as § 4144 requires, is to be construed as a codicil to his will, and it is not necessary to such construction that it be physically attached to the holographic will. In re Will of Thompson, 196 N. C. 271, 145 S. E. 393.

What Constitutes Depositing with Someone for Safe Keeping.—In the case of Alston v. Davis, 118 N. C. 202, 24 S. E. 15, a brother in Texas wrote to his sister in North Carolina that if he got sick or died in Texas he wanted her to have his farm. He simply mailed her the letter. Subsequently he died in Texas and his sister undertook to probate the letter as a holographic will in this State. The question arose whether it had been deposited "with someone for safekeeping"; the court held that this constituted depositing with someone for safekeeping and that the will should be probated. In view of that fact that a testamentary disposition must be accompanied with animus testandi, the decision seems to be clearly unsound, inasmuch as the letter in question discloses no such intention. This conclusion is supported by later decisions of the court which in express terms refuses to follow the doctrine of Alston v. Davis, see Spencer v. Spencer, 163 N. C. 83, 79 S. E. 291. It is believed that if the writer of the letter indicates clearly that by mailing it to the addressee he intends to deposit it as a will, the letter would be admitted to probate as such. See the case of In re Ledford's Will, 176 N. C. 610, 97 S. E. 482; 12 N. C. Law Rev. 199.

§ 4132. Execution of power of appointment by will.—No appointment, made by will in exercise of any power, shall be valid unless the same be executed in the manner by law required for the execution of wills; and every will, executed in such manner, shall, so far as respects the execution and attestation thereof, be a valid execution of a power of appointment by will, notwithstanding it shall have been expressly required that a will made in exercise of such power should be executed with some additional or other form of execution or solemnity. (Rev., s. 3114; Code, s. 2139; R. C., c. 119, s. 4; 1844, c. 88, s. 9.)

Art. 2. Revocation of Will

§ 4133. Revocation by writing or by cancellation or destruction.—No will or testament in writing, or any clause thereof, shall be revocable otherwise than by some other will or codicil in writing, or other writing declaring the same, or by burning, canceling, tearing, or obliterating the same, by the testator himself, or in his presence and by his direction and consent; but all wills or testaments shall remain and continue in force until the same be burnt, canceled, torn, or obliterated by the testator, or in his presence and by his consent and direction; or unless the same be altered or revoked by some other will or codicil in writing, or other writing of the testator, signed by him, or some other person in his presence and by his direction, and subscribed in his presence by two witnesses at least; or unless the same be altered or revoked by some other will or codicil in writing, or other writing of the testator, all of which shall be in the handwriting of the testator, and his name subscribed thereto or inserted therein, and lodged by him with some person for safe-keeping, or left by him in some secure place, or among his valuable papers and effects, every part of which will or codicil or other writing shall be proved to be in the handwriting of the testator, by three witnesses at least. (Rev., s. 3115; Code, s. 2176; R. C., c. 119, s. 22; 1784, c. 204, s. 14; 1819, c. 1004, ss. 1, 2; 1840, c. 62.)

Cross Reference.—For full treatment of revocation of wills, see 12 N. C. Enc. Dig. 425 et seq; 15 N. C. Enc. Dig. 769.

Material Alteration Necessary.—In order to a revocation of a will, in whole or in part, under the provisions of this section there must not only exist the intent of the testator to cancel, but it must be accompanied by the physical act of cancellation; and while it is not required that the words should be entirely effaced where the cancellation is in part, so as to make the same illegible, the portion erased must be of such significances as to effect a material alteration in the meaning of the will or the clause of the will that is challenged on the issue. In re Love's Will, 186 N. C. 714, 120 S. E. 479.

Same—Primary Controlling Clause Unaltered, Effect. — Where the primary or controlling clause of a will remains unaltered by the obliteration by the testator of words therein and the unobliterated words remaining are sufficient to carry the designated property to the devisee, it will not amount to a revocation within the intent and meaning of this section; nor will the obliteration of the name of another beneficiary be sufficient as to him, when it appears that the intent of the revocation by the testator was dependent upon the successful revocation of a principal devise wherein the erasures were insufficient to effectuate a legal cancellation. In re Love's Will, 186 N. C. 714, 120 S. E. 479.

Presumption as to Second Will.—A will may be revoked by a subsequent instrument executed solely for that purpose, or by a subsequent will containing a revoking clause or provisions inconsistent with those of the previous will, or by any of the other methods prescribed by law; but the mere fact that a second will was made, although it purports to be the last, does not create a presumption that it revokes or is inconsistent with one of a prior date. In re Wolfe's Will, 185 N. C. 563, 565, 117 S. E. 804. In this case it was held that where a testator devised a certain part of his lands to L., and by a later will gave his effects to his brothers and sisters, the two wills were not inconsistent and the latter did not revoke the former—Ed. Note.

Presumption of Revocation Where Will Cannot Be Found. —It being shown that a will was once in existence and last heard of in possession of the testator, but it could not be found after his death, a presumption arises that it was destroyed by his consent with intent to cancel it. Scoggin v. Turner, 98 N. C. 135, 3 S. E. 719.

Such presumption is not conclusive, but it imposes upon the person asserting the will, the burden of proving that it was not so destroyed, or that the testator was not of sound mind at the time of such presumed destruction. Scoggins v. Turner, 98 N. C. 135, 3 S. E. 719.

Revocation of Holographic Will.—It seems clear that a holographic will may be revoked just as an attested will may, i. e. (1) by burning, tearing, canceling or obliterating or (2) by another will, which may be holographic or attested, provided only that the statutory requirements in each case are complied with. No witnesses are necessary on the holographic revocation. See 14 L. R. A. N. S. 968 and 112 Am. St. Rep. 822, 2 N. C. Law Rev. 110.

Revocatory Paper Must Be a Testamentary Paper. — Where the writing offered as operating a revocation of the will of the testator, contains none of the elements of a testamentary paper, it cannot be helped by evidence aliunde, and hence has no revocatory effect. Davis v. King, 89 N. C. 441.

Effect of Disposal of Articles Already Bequeathed.—A bequest of personal property in a trunk which contained the holograph will and other valuable papers of the deceased, after removing certain articles specifically bequeathed to others, is not a revocation of her will by the testatrix. In re Foy, 193 N. C. 494, 137 S. E. 427.

Revocation by Parol Prior to Section.—See, early case of Giles v. Giles, 1 N. C. 377, prior to the enactment of this section, where it is held that a will of real estate in writing may be revoked by parol if the words of revocation denote a present intention to revoke.

Revival by Parol Declaration.—A revocation of a will of real estate carried completely into effect cannot be revived by any subsequent declaration by parol. Giles v. Giles, 1 N. C. 377.

§ 4134. Revocation by marriage; exception.— All wills shall be revoked by subsequent marriage of the maker except a will made in exercise of a power of appointment, when the real or personal estate thereby appointed would not, in default of such appointment, pass to his heirs, executor or administrator or the person entitled as his next of kin, under the statute of distributions. (Rev., s. 3116; Code, s. 2177; R. C., c. 119, s. 23; 1844, c. 88, s. 10.)

Republication by Parol Not Effective.—Under this section the will of a married woman is revoked by another marriage contracted after the will was made, and her verbal declaration, during the last coverture, that said paperwriting was her last will and testament without any further execution thereof, in accordance with the statute, does not constitute a reexecution and republication of it. Means v. Ury, 141 N. C. 248, 53 S. E. 850.

Same—How Republished.—A holograph will revoked by the marriage of the testator, can only be revived and republished by a written instrument setting forth his intention, and duly attested by two witnesses, or by a writing by the testator himself, found among his valuable papers, or handed to one for safekeeping. Sawyer v. Sawyer, 52 N. C. 133.

Evidence of Undue Influence.—This section revokes any will made before marriage, and evidence that a will had been made prior thereto is not evidence of undue influence in the procurement of a subsequent will made in favor of the wife of the deceased. In re Will of Bradford, 183 N. C. 4, 110 S. E. 586.

§ 4135. No revocation by altered circumstances.—No will shall be revoked by any presumption of an intention on the ground of an alteration in circumstances. (Rev., s. 3117; Code, s. 2178; R. C., c. 119, s. 24; 1844, c. 88, s. 11.)

Subsequent Birth or Adoption of Child.—The subsequent birth of a child or the adoption of one under our statute, does not revoke the will of the father, under this section as in case of subsequent marriage under section 4134. Sorrell v. Sorrell, 193 N. C. 439, 137 S. E. 306.

Right of After-born Child Does Not Effect Revocation.— While after-born children not provided for in the will of their deceased parent my claim by inheritance their part of the estate, under section 4169, it does not amount to revocation of the entire will. Fawcett v. Fawcett, 191 N. C. 679, 132 S. E. 796.

§ 4136. No revocation by subsequent conveyance.—No conveyance or other act made or done subsequently to the execution of a will of, or relating to, any real or personal estate therein comprised, except an act by which such will shall be duly revoked, shall prevent the operation of the will with respect to any estate or interest in such real or personal estate as the testator shall have power to dispose of by will at the time of his death. (Rev., s. 3118; Code, s. 2179; R. C., c. 119, s. 25; 1844, c. 88, s. 2.)

Parol Evidence to Fasten Constructive Trust.—Since the enactment of this section parol evidence is incompetent to fasten upon a devise of land a constructive or implied trust in favor of another. Chappell v. White, 146 N. C. 571, 60 S. E. 635.

This statute was enacted in view of the decision of this court, in 1843, in Cook v. Redman, 37 N. C. 623, in which a trust of this kind was upheld. Chappell v. White. 146 N. C. 571, 573, 60 S. E. 635.

Conveyance, etc., Not to Affect Provisions of Will.—No conveyance or act done after the execution of a will, unless it amounts to a revocation, will affect its provisions. Wood v. Cherry, 73 N. C. 110.

Where Construed, Approved and Cited.—This statute was construed in 1875 by an exceptionally able court, and the opinion delivered by Chief Justice Pearson in a notable case, which has been since repeatedly cited and approved. Wood v. Cherry, 73 N. C. 110, cited and approved in Avery v. Stewart, 136 N. C. 426, 48 S. E. 775; Sykes v. Boone, 132 N. C. 199, 43 S. E. 645; Cobb v. Edwards, 117 N. C. 244, 245, 23 S. E. 241; Herring v. Sutton, 129 N. C. 107, 39 S. E. 772; Pittman v. Pittman, 107 N. C. 159, 12 S. E. 61, and many other adjudications of this court. Chappell v. White, 146 N. C. 571, 573, 60 S. E. 635.

Art. 3. Witnesses to Will

§ 4137. Executor competent witness.—No person, on account of being an executor of a will, shall be incompetent to be admitted a witness to prove the execution of such will, or to prove the validity thereof. (Rev., s. 3119; Code, s. 2146; R. C., c. 119, s. 9.)

Purpose of Section.—This section was intended to give the benefit of an executor's testimony to every person who should be interested, either in the establishment, or defeat of a paper writing propounded as a will. Pannell v. Scoggin, 53 N. C. 408, 410.

Executor or Administrator C. T. A. Competent.—An executor or administrator cum testamento annexo, who is also a subscribing witness to a will, is competent to testify to the execution thereof; and the same rule applies to one who was competent at the time of the making of the will, but subsequently acquired an interest therein. Vester v. Collins, 101 N. C. 114, 7 S. E. 687.

Same—Rule Prior to Section.—An executor, before the enactment of this section, could not be a witness in favor of the will, even by renouncing and releasing his interest, and he is still incompetent as to any will that was made before January, 1856. Gunter v. Gunter, 48 N. C. 441.

May Be Examined for Both Parties.—Under this section one named as executor in a receipt, propounded as a will, though named as plaintiff in an issue devisavit vel non, may be examined as a witness for the caveator as well as for the propounder. Pannell v. Scoggin, 53 N. C. 408.

§ 4138. Beneficiary competent; interest rendered void.—If any person shall attest the execution of any will, to whom or to whose wife or husband any beneficial devise, estate, interest, legacy, or appointment of or affecting any real or personal estate shall be thereby given or made, such devise, estate, interest, legacy, or appointment shall, so far only as concerns such person attesting the execution of such will or the wife or husband of such person, or any person claiming under such person, or wife or husband, be void; and such person so attesting shall be admitted as a witness to prove the execution of such will, or the validity or invalidity thereof. (Rev., s. 3120; Code, s. 2147; R. C., c. 119, s. 10.)

In General.—This section unlike that in force under the Revised Statutes, which invalidates the will unless it was attested by at least "two witnesses no one of whom shall be interested in the devise of the lands" as a means of transmitting the title therein to the devisees, in such case, applying to wills of both real and personal estate, avoids only the devise or bequest to such attesting witness and to his and her wife and husband and privies, and leaves the other dispositions made of the testator's property in unimpaired force and operation. Vester v. Collins, 101 N. C. 114, 116, 7 S. E. 687.

Interest of Witness to Holographic Will Not Avoided.—One who is beneficiary under a holograph will may testify to such competent, relevant and material facts as tend to establish it as a valid will without rendering void the benefits he is to receive thereunder. It is otherwise as to an attesting witness of a will that the statute requires to be attested by witness thereto. In re Will of Westfeldt, 188 N. C. 702, 125 S. E. 531.

This section applies only to wills that have attesting witnesses, and to the attesting witness. Hence a devisee under a holographic will is a competent witness to prove the will without losing his interest thereunder. His interest in the results affects only the credit to be given to his testimony. Hampton v. Hardin, 88 N. C. 592.

Interest of One Who Does Not Sign as Witness Not Avoided.—One who signs his name on a will in the place where subscribing witnesses usually sign, is not deprived of benefits conferred upon him by the will, if he, in fact, did not sign as a subscribing witness. Boone v. Lewis, 103 N. C. 40, 9 S. E. 644.

Competency of Witness—Question of Fact or Law.—If a witness to a will is interested as a legatee thereunder, he is a competent witness to prove the will, the effect being to deprive him of the legacy and it is error in the Judge to submit the competency of a witness as a question of fact for the jury. The competency of a witness is a question for the court, to be raised when he offers to testify, and to be determined by the court. McLean v. Elliott, 72 N. C. 70.

Object in Avoiding Witnesses' Interest.—It was to remove all improper influences and secure impartiality, in such as are called to attest the execution of the will, that all gifts to them or to their husbands or wives are annulled, and all temptations to swerve from the truth are taken away. Hampton v. Hardin, 88 N. C. 592, 595.

Competency of Widow and Devisee.—The widow and devisee of the testator is a competent witness to prove the fact that the script propounded was found among the valuable papers of the deceased. Cornelius v. Brawley, 109 N. C. 542, 14 S. E. 78.

Application of Section 1795.—Section 1795 does not apply to wills, which are governed by this section. Cox v. Lumber Co., 124 N. C. 78, 82, 32 S. E. 381.

Art. 4. Probate of Will

§ 4139. Executor may apply for probate.—Any executor named in a will may, at any time after the death of the testator, apply to the clerk of the superior court, having jurisdiction, to have the same admitted to probate. Such will shall not be valid or effective to pass real estate or personal property as against innocent purchasers for value and without notice, unless it is probated or offered for probate within two years after the death of the testator or devisor. If such will is fraudulently suppressed, stolen or destroyed, or been lost, and an action or proceeding shall be commenced within two years from the death of the testator or devisor to obtain said will or establish the same as provided by law, then the limitation herein set out shall only begin to run from the termination of said action or proceeding, but not otherwise. If the clerk of the superior court having jurisdiction to probate any will be a subscribing witness thereto, or a devisee or legatee therein, or if said clerk shall have any pecuniary interest in the property disposed of by said will, then the clerk of the superior court of any adjoining county shall have jurisdiction to probate said will, and upon petition filed before him by any one interested in any way in said will, he shall proceed to have said will produced before him, and the said will shall thereupon be probated, recorded, and filed as provided by this chapter, and a duly certified copy of the said will, together with the probate of the same, and the said petition, under the hand and seal of the said clerk, shall be filed and recorded in the book of wills, in the office of the clerk of the superior court of the county whose clerk was a subscribing witness thereto, or a devisee or legatee therein, or who had a pecuniary interest in the property disposed of by said will and the clerk in said last mentioned county is hereby authorized to issue letters to personal representatives, who may qualify and administer the estate in said will as if originally probated in said county, and the title to all property, both real and personal, conveyed in said will, shall be as good and effectual as if the said will had been originally probated and recorded in said last mentioned county: Provided, that the preceding sentence shall not affect vested rights or litigation pending March 9, 1921. (Rev., s. 3122; Code, s. 2151; C. C. P., s. 439; 1919, c. 15; 1921, c. 99; 1923, c. 14.)

Editor's Note.—The provisions of this section, which concern the probating of wills where the clerk of the superior court having jurisdiction to probate it is a subscribing witness thereto, are added by the amendment of 1921, (Public Laws 1921, c. 99), and the similar provisions where such clerk is a devisee or legatee under the will or has a pecuniary interest in the property disposed by the will, are added by the amendment of 1923, (Public Laws 1923, c. 14).

"While the amending statutes expressly refer to this section . . . . . they more particularly affect §§ 1 and 2, of the code defining the jurisdiction of the clerk in administrations, and §§ 939, 940 and 941, as to disqualifications. By sec. 939, the clerk is disqualified to act, if he is a subscribing witness to a will, but this disqualification ceases when the will has been admitted to probate by another clerk; and the same result follows from the amending statute. That the wife of the clerk is a subscribing witness also disqualifies the clerk, but this is not affected by the amendment. This defect may be waived by the parties interested, but the clerk cannot very well take the probate, when he is one of the two subscribing witnesses. Section 940; Trenwith v. Smallwood (1892) 111 N. C. 132, 15 S. E. 1030. The procedure would then be under the amended statute, or by application to the judge, as provided in sec. 941; and in either case, the will, after probate, would be returned to the clerk of the original county to proceed with the administration of the estate. If the clerk has an interest in the estate under the will, he is disqualified by sec. 939; but this may be waived, and he may then proceed as if the defect did not exist. Section 940. If this defect is not waived, what procedure is required? The recent amendment says that the petition may be filed and probate taken before the clerk of any adjoining county and when a certified return is made to the clerk of the original county, he may proceed to appoint the personal representative. Section 941 provides that application may be made to the proper judge for an order to remove the proceedings to the clerk of an adjoining county in the same district; or the judge himself may make all necessary orders for the settlement of the estate. There appears to be a conflict between the two statutes in this respect, unless the recent amendment is limited to the mere fact of probate; but if that is all that is meant, the amendment is not necessary, since the same result may be readily obtained under the former statute. The appointment and qualification of the personal representative is as much a judicial act as any other order made in the settlement of the estate; and to allow the clerk who is interested to proceed in the matter without a waiver, would confer upon him the power to sit in judgment in his own cause, contrary to the general policy of the law. Land Co. v. Jennett (1901), 128 N. C. 3, 37 S. E. 954. The obvious purpose of the two amending statutes was to provide a simple and speedy method of obtaining the probate of a will, when the clerk was disqualified, and this has been done; but how far it was intended to change the former practice, if at all, in case of interest, is not clearly shown." 1 N. C. Law Rev. 314.

In General.—This section and § 4141, by implication at least, require the probate of a will. Wells v. Odum, 207 N. C. 226, 228, 176 S. E. 563.

No Limitation to Probate a Will—Exception.—In the absence of some statute to the contrary, there is no limit upon the time after a testator's death within which a will may be proven, and when duly proven it relates back to the death of the testator so as to vest title from that date as between the parties who claim under it. Steadman v. Steadman, 143 N. C. 345, 346, 55 S. E. 784. But this section sets a period of limitation after which a will may not be probated as to bona fide purchasers.—Ed. Note.

Title Descends to Heirs Subject to Be Divested.—The title of the land descends to the heirs of the testator, subject to be divested in favor of the devisee, when the will is duly admitted to probate. Floyd v. Herring, 64 N. C. 409, 411.

Limitation as to Lost Wills Prior to Statute.—See McCormick v. Jernigan, 110 N. C. 406, 14 S. E. 971, where it is held that no statute of limitation applies to the probate of a lost will. This case was decided prior to the amendment of 1919, which sets a limitation to the probate of lost wills where the right of bona fide purchasers are involved.

Citation to those in interest is not necessary to the probate of a will in common form, the proceeding being ex parte, and when probated the paper-writing is valid and operative as a will and may not be attacked collaterally. In re Rowland, 202 N. C. 373, 162 S. E. 897.

The probate of a will in common form without citation to those in interest "to see the proceedings," is an ex parte proceeding and not binding on caveators upon the issue of devisavit vel non raised in their direct attack upon the validity of the will, and the admission in evidence in the caveat proceedings of the order of probate constitutes reversible error. Wells v. Odum, 205 N. C. 110, 170 S. E. 145.

Appointment Is Reviewable.—The power, conferred by this section, to appoint administrators is reviewable to the judge of the Superior Court of the county. In re Estate of Wright and Wright v. Ball, 200 N. C. 620, 158 S. E. 192.

§ 4140. Executor failing, beneficiary may apply.—If no executor apply to have the will proved within sixty days after the death of the testator, any devisee or legatee named in the will, or any other person interested in the estate, may make such application, upon ten days notice thereof to the executor. (Rev., s. 3123; Code, s. 2152; C. C. P., s. 440.)

Notice to Executor in Probating a Codicil.—Before others interested in the probate of a will may apply for its probate ten days previous notice must be given the executor therein named, and where an executor has probated and qualified under the will, it is equally necessary to give the statutory notice before offering for probate a separate paper-writing as a codicil. Spencer v. Spencer, 163 N. C. 83, 79 S. E. 291.

§ 4140(a). Clerk to notify legatees and devisees of probate of wills. — The clerks of the superior court of the state are hereby required and directed to notify by mail, all legatees and devisees whose addresses are known, designated in wills filed for probate in their respective counties. All expense incident to such notification shall be deemed a proper charge in the administration of the respective estates. (1933, c. 133.)

While this requirement appears to be mandatory, it does not seem to be prerequisite to the probate of the will itself. Nor does it assume the status and importance of a citation to devisees and legatees as in the case of the probate of a will in solemn form. Apparently the purpose of the statute is to expedite the settlement of the estate of a person who has died testate. 11 N. C. Law Rev., 263.

§ 4141. Clerk may compel production of will.—Every clerk of the superior court having jurisdiction, on application by affidavit setting forth the facts, shall, by summons, compel any person in the state, having in possession the last will of any decedent, to exhibit the same in his court for probate; and whoever being duly summoned refuses, in contempt of the court, to produce such will, or (the same having been parted with by him) refuses to inform the court on oath where such will is, or in what manner he has disposed of it, shall, by order of the clerk of the superior court, be committed to the jail of the county, there to remain without bail till such will be produced or accounted for, and due submission made for the contempt. (Rev., s. 3124; Code, s. 2154; C. C. P., s. 442.)

See annotations to § 4139.

In General.—A petition before the clerk of the superior court alleging that the respondents were in possession of a later will than that probated in another county, and that the petitioner was withholding this will for fraudulent purposes, etc., is a proceeding under this section to compel the production of a will. Williams v. Bailey, 177 N. C. 37, 97 S. E. 721.

Failure of Petitioners to Pursue Proceedings—Discharge of Respondents.—Where the respondents in proceedings to compel the production of a will appear before the clerk at the time set for the hearing, and in writing under oath fully deny the charges made, and the petitioners neither file reply, offer evidence, nor request an examination, no issues are raised requiring the matter to be transferred to the trial docket, and the rule against the respondents should be discharged at the petitioner's cost. Williams v. Bailey, 177 N. C. 37, 97 S. E. 721.

Issue of Wrong Venue No Excuse.—Where the clerk of the court of G. county issued a notice to the respondent, who had the will of the deceased in his possession, to exhibit the same for probate, it was the duty of the respondent to obey the summons, and he could have raised in his answer the question of whether the will should be probated in G. or L. county. In re Scarborough Will, 139 N. C. 423, 51 S. E. 931.

Impossibility to Comply with Order as Excuse.—An order of the clerk of the court of G. county which adjudges the respondent guilty of contempt and that he be committed to jail, until such will was produced, was properly reversed on appeal where it appears that the respondent can not comply with the condition upon which he might be discharged, because the clerk of L. county now has custody of the will and has refused to surrender it to the respondent. In re Scarborough Will, 139 N. C. 423, 51 S. E. 931.

Allowance of Reasonable Expenses.—Where the law imposes a duty upon a person, or group of persons, with respect to probating and establishing the validity of a will, in the performance of such duty, in good faith, reasonable expenses thereby incurred should be allowed and paid out of the fund or property which is the subject of the litigation. Wells v. Odum, 207 N. C. 226, 228, 176 S. E. 563.

Attachment for Contempt—Scope of Proceedings.—In a proceeding to attach the respondent for contempt in not producing for probate a will, the question whether the will should be probated in G. or L. county is not presented and can not be passed upon. In re Scarborough Will, 139 N. C. 423, 51 S. E. 931.

Motion to Dismiss Proceedings under This Section.—Where a rule issued under the provisions of this section in proceedings to compel the production of a will, should be discharged, a motion by the respondents to dismiss the proceedings will be treated as a motion to discharge them. Williams v. Bailey, 177 N. C. 37, 97 S. E. 721.

§ 4142. What shown on application.—On application to the clerk of the superior court, he must ascertain by affidavit of the applicant—

1. That such applicant is the executor, devisee or legatee named in the will, or is some other person interested in the estate, and how so interested.

2. The value and nature of the testator's property, as near as can be ascertained.

3. The names and residences of all parties entitled to the testator's property, if known, or that the same on diligent inquiry cannot be discovered; which of the parties in interest are minors, and whether with or without guardians, and the names and residences of such guardians, if known. Such affidavit shall be recorded with the will and the certificate of probate thereof, if the same is admitted to probate. (Rev., s. 3125; Code, s. 2153; C. C. P., s. 441.)

§ 4143. Proof and examination in writing. — Every clerk of the superior court shall take in writing the proofs and examinations of the witnesses touching the execution of a will, and he shall embody the substance of such proofs and examinations, in case the will is admitted to probate, in his certificate of the probate thereof, which certificate must be recorded with the will. The proofs and examinations as taken must be filed in the office. (Rev., s. 3126; Code, s. 2149; C. C. P., s. 437.)

Former Practice.—Formerly the court of pleas and quarter sessions had jurisdiction of the probate of wills, and there was at that time no provision in the statute requring the taking of the proofs in writing or for recording the probate. The practice was to exhibit the will before the court and offer the proofs of execution, and for an entry to be made upon the minutes of the adjudication, and the clerk, acting upon the authority of the court, then recorded the will upon the will book. In most instances he also recorded a memorandum of the proceedings before the court, but this was not done in all cases. Poplin v. Hatley, 170 N. C. 163, 166, 8 S. E. 1028.

Presumption of Valid Recordation.—The requirements of this section did not obtain in the probate of a will in the old practice before the court of pleas and quarter sessions; and where the records show that a will sought to be set aside for improper probate, valid on its face, has been transcribed upon the records of that court, it is presumed to have been duly admitted to probate and properly transcribed upon the record, the burden being upon the caveator to show to the contrary. Poplin v. Hatley, 170 N. C. 163, 86 S. E. 1028.

Same—Vacating Probate in Collateral Proceedings.—Probate of a will by the clerk of the superior court is a judicial act, and his certificate is conclusive evidence of the validity of the will, until vacated on appeal, or declared void by a competent tribunal in a proceeding instituted for that purpose. It cannot be vacated in a collateral manner. Mayo v. Jones, 78 N. C. 402; McClure v. Spivey, 123 N. C. 678, 31 S. E. 857.

Foreign Records Conformant to This Section Sufficient.—Where a non-resident testator devises land in this State, and the record of the foreign court of probate, duly certified, contains the certificate of probate, which refers to the certified examinations of the witnesses, in accordance with the requirements of this section, the whole forming one transaction, the exemplification of which and of the will being duly recorded in the county where the land lies, the will is sufficiently proved and passes the property. Roscoe v. Roper Lumber Co., 124 N. C. 42, 32 S. E. 389.

§ 4144. Manner of probate.—Wills and testaments must be admitted to probate only in the following manner:

1. In case of a written will, with witnesses, on the oath of at least two of the subscribing witnesses, if living; but when any one or more of the subscribing witnesses to such will are dead, or resides out of the state, or cannot after due diligence be found within the state, or are insane or otherwise incompetent to testify, then such proof may be taken of the handwriting, both of the testator and of the witness or witnesses so dead, absent, insane or incompetent, and also of such other circumstances as will satisfy the clerk of the superior court of the genuineness and the due execution of such will. In all cases where the testator executed the will by making his mark, and where any one or more of the subscribing witnesses are dead or reside out of the state, or are insane or otherwise incompetent to testify, it shall not be necessary to prove the handwriting of the testator, but proof of the handwriting of the subscribing witness or witnesses so dead, absent, insane or incompetent shall be sufficient. The probate of all wills heretofore taken in compliance with the requirements of this section are hereby declared to be valid.

2. In case of a holograph will, on the oath of at least three credible witnesses, who state that they verily believe such will and every part thereof is in the handwriting of the person whose will it purports to be, and whose name must be subscribed thereto, or inserted in some part thereof. It must further appear on the oath of some one of the witnesses, or of some other credible person, that such will was found among the valuable papers and effects of the decedent, or was lodged in the hands of some person for safe-keeping.

3. In case of a nuncupative will, on the oath of at least two credible witnesses present at the making thereof, who state that they were specially required to bear witness thereto by the testator himself. It must also be proved that such nuncupative will was made in the testator's last sickness, in his own habitation, or where he had been previously resident for at least ten days, unless he died on a journey or from home. No nuncupative will shall be proved by the witnesses after six months from the making thereof, unless it was put in writing within ten days from such making; nor shall it be proved till a citation has been first issued or publication been made for six weeks in some newspaper published in the state, to call in the widow and next of kin to contest such will if they think proper. (Rev., s. 3127;

Code, s. 2148; 1893, c. 269; 1901, c. 276; C. C. P., s. 435.)

I. IN GENERAL—ATTESTED WILLS.

Evidence Must Show Subscribing in Presence of Testator.—Under sec. 4136 and this section regulating the manner in which wills shall be attested and admitted to probate, it is essential, not only that the document shall be subscribed in the presence of the testator by at least two witnesses, but that the evidence upon which the will is admitted to probate must show that fact. In re Thomas, 111 N. C. 409, 411, 16 S. E. 226.

Proof of Handwriting of Testator Where One Witness Alive.—Upon an issue of devisavit vel non, purporting to be signed by testator himself, it is necessary for the propounders to show, in the superior court, the handwriting of the testator and his signature to the will, where only one of the subscribing witnesses to the will is alive, the matter of probate being de novo, and the record of the clerk not being competent evidence in this respect. Watson v. Hinson, 162 N. C. 72, 77 S. E. 1089.

II. HOLOGRAPHIC WILLS.

The phrase, "among the valuable papers and effects of." etc., used in this section, does not necessarily and without exception mean among the most valuable papers, etc., Winstead v. Bowman, 68 N. C. 170.

Effect of Provisions of Section 1791.—Where the validity of a holograph will depends upon its having been left with the beneficiary for safe keeping, his testimony thereof, after the death of the testator, is a transaction or communication of which he may not testify under section 1791. McEwan v. Brown, 176 N. C. 249, 97 S. E. 20, overruling the case of Hampton v. Hardin, 88 N. C. 592.

III. NUNCUPATIVE WILL.

Similarity with English Statute of Frauds.—The statutory provision in relation to nuncupative wills have existed in this State since 1784, and they are substantially the same as those in the Statute of Frauds, 29 Car. II., ch. 3, secs. 19, 20; and these provisions have always been strictly construed and enforced by the courts, both in this State and in England. Smith v. Smith, 63 N. C. 637, 639.

Strict Compliance Necessary—Purpose of Requirements.—The requisites of this statutory provision must be strictly complied with and observed, in all material respects, in order to prevent opportunity for fraudulent practices on the part of such persons as would be disposed to obtain undue advantage of persons in their last sickness as to the final disposition of their property; and also to prevent mischiefs that might arise from the ignorance, misapprehension or dishonest purposes of persons called upon to be the witnesses of such wills. The purpose of such requisites is to prevent the fabrication of such wills; they are necessary, and it is essential to observe them strictly. Brown v. Brown, 6 N. C. 350; Rankin v. Rankin, 31 N. C. 156; Webster v. Webster, 50 N. C. 95; Haden v. Bradshaw, 60 N. C. 259; Smith v. Smith, 63 N. C. 637; Bundrick v. Haygood, 106 N. C. 468, 471, 11 S. E. 423; Long v. Foust, 109 N. C. 114, 118, 13 S. E. 889.

Witnesses Must Be Called in to Witness Transaction.—Where a woman in her last illness, without expressing any purpose to make a will, in terms, said she wanted to give to her sister certain articles of personal property, and called her to her bedside and gave them to her, in the presence of two other persons but did not call them, or either of them to witness the transaction: It was held that this did not constitute a nuncupative will. Bundrick v. Haygood, 106 N. C. 468, 11 S. E. 423.

It is necessary to the validity of a nuncupative will that the testator state her wishes in the presence of two witnesses and "specially require them to bear witness thereto." Kennedy v. Douglas, 151 N. C. 336, 66 S. E. 216.

Where a person, being in extremis, and conscious of it, sent for a friend with whom he had often talked on the subject of a will and told him what disposition he wanted to make of his property, and then such friend replied that if he wanted to do anything of that kind he had better have some other person in the room, and thereupon the speaker went out and brought in another person, and in the presence of the sick man repeated the proposed disposition of the property, to which the latter assented: It was held, to be a sufficient rogatio testium to satisfy the requirements of a nuncupative will. Smith v. Smith, 63 N. C. 637.

Same—Designation by Name Not Necessary.—It is sufficient that the testator saw the witnesses and charged them to bear witness to his will, and they did so, and it is not a good objection that he failed to designate them particularly by name. That he required them, each, all of them, to bear witness, was what the section requires. The purpose is that the testator shall require two witnesses at least to take notice and bear witness that he makes his will. He must require and direct a competent person, and that person must be able to testify that he was one of the persons—the witnesses—so required, and that he did take notice and bear witness. Long v. Foust, 109 N. C. 114, 119, 13 S. E. 889.

Same—Sufficiency of Showing.—Under this section, it is sufficient to show, on the question of the testator's requesting that the witness "bear witness" to the will, that believing himself to be in extremis, he told the witness during his last illness that he wanted to make a will, who, at his request, called in another and while they were at his bedside, testator gave specific directions for the disposition of his personal property; and though he had therefore expressed his wish to make a written will, and had failed in his effort to do so, the matters sought to be established as the nuncupative will were declared at a time he was apprehensive he would become unable to talk, and his death occurred about four days thereafter. In re Garland's Will, 160 N. C. 555, 76 S. E. 486.

No Probate Until Citation—Limitation of Six Months.—After the contents of the will are established within the time and in the manner prescribed by this section it cannot be admitted to probate until the citation or publication, and the probate based thereon shall be completed within six months from the making of the alleged will. The limitation of six months refers only to the proof and establishment of the contents, and that only where it is not reduced to writing within ten days of its making. In re Haygood's Will, 101 N. C. 574, 8 S. E. 222.

Same—May Be Proved before Citation.—It will be observed that it is not required that the will shall not be proved by the witnesses until the citation and notice provided for shall be made, but it shall not be proved—that is, proved in the sense of admitting it to probate at once—until citation shall be made, the purpose being to give the widow and next of kin opportunity to contest the will—the proof thereof by the witnesses thereof—if they shall see fit to do so. In re Haygood's Will, 101 N. C. 574, 577, 8 S. E. 222.

The purpose of the statute is not to prevent the examination of the witnesses of the will, after such lapse of six months, on the trial of the issue devisavit vel non in the course of a contest of it, but it is to require that they shall not be allowed to prove it in the first instance, when it is first presented for probate after that time, unless it shall have been put in writing within ten days next after the making thereof. In re Haygood's Will, 101 N. C. 574, 578, 8 S. E. 222.

If Reduced to Writing May Be Proved after Six Months.—A just interpretation of the provision relative to the proof of a nuncupative will is, that if such will shall be put in writing within ten days next after it was made, it may be proved by the witnesses thereof either before or after the lapse of six months next after the making thereof, because the will being in writing with the sanction of the witnesses, their recollection as to what it was is helped and strengthened thereby, and they could the better be trusted to testify as to the making of the same, and what it was in its detail, at any time within a reasonable period. In re Haygood's Will, 101 N. C. 574, 576, 8 S. E. 222.

Difference in Terminology of This and Section 4133.—The statute with reference to revocation by holographic will and that with reference to probate of a holographic will are worded somewhat differently. As to revocation it must be "lodged by him with some person for safe-keeping or left by him in some secure place, or among his valuable papers and effects." As to probate it is sufficient if it "was found among the valuable papers and effects of the decedent, or was lodged in the hands of some person for safe-keeping." 2 N. C. Law Rev. 110.

Writing Postponed Execution as Nuncupative Will.—A paper writing which the deceased had theretofore dictated but postponed executing from time to time and which he finally declared to be his will without reading it, at a time he was in his last sickness not expecting to recover and physically unable to execute it, is invalid as a nuncupative will: (1) his intent that it should be a written will is evidenced by his conduct; (2) the dictation was not in law "during his last sickness." Kennedy v. Douglas, 151 N. C. 336, 66 S. E. 216.

The declaration of a testator made in the presence of two witnesses that a paper writing contained the disposition he desired made of his property and that he desired its provisions carried out, without reading or having the paper read at the time, but relying upon the assertion of a person then present that it contained his wishes as dictated by him several months before, is invalid as a nuncupative will. (1) the dictation was made to one witness alone; (2) there was no sufficient declaration then and there of the testator's wishes in the presence of two witnesses from which they could reduce their recollection to writing within ten days. Kennedy v. Douglas, 151 N. C. 336, 66 S. E. 216.

§ 4145. Probate conclusive until vacated. — Such record and probate is conclusive in evidence of the validity of the will, until it is vacated on appeal or declared void by a competent tribunal, provided that whenever in a will so probated or recorded a bank or trust company shall be named executor and/or trustee and shall have at the time of such probate and recording become absorbed by or consolidated with another bank or trust company such latter bank or trust company shall be deemed substituted for and shall have all the rights and powers of the former bank or trust company. (Rev., s. 3128; Code, s. 2150; C. C. P., c. 438; 1929, c. 150.)

Cross Reference.—For full treatment of this subject, see 12 N. C. Enc. Dig. 461 et seq.; 15 N. C. Enc. Dig. 780, et seq. See note under § 217(p).

Editor's Note.—The Act of 1929 added the proviso to this section.

Conclusively Valid Until Declared Void.—A will probated in common form before the clerk of the superior court is conclusively valid until declared void by a competent tribunal, and may be offered in evidence in proceedings to caveat the will. Holt v. Ziglar, 163 N. C. 390, 79 S. E. 805.

Cannot Be Attacked Collaterally.—Where a will has been admitted to probate a party claiming property disposed of by it to another can not, in an action to recover the same, be permitted to attack the will on the ground of the lack of testamentary capacity of the testatrix, and evidence offered for that purpose is properly excluded, under this section. Varner v. Johnston, 112 N. C. 570, 17 S. E. 483.

A will probated in common form is not subject to collateral attack, but is binding or conclusive until set aside in a direct proceeding. Mills v. Mills, 195 N. C. 595, 143 S. E. 130; In re Will of Cooper, 196 N. C. 418, 145 S. E. 782.

Until so set aside it is conclusively presumed to be the will of the testator. In re Will of Cooper, 196 N. C. 418, 145 S. E. 782.

A will which has been duly probated in common form may not be collaterally attacked even for fraud. Crowell v. Bradsher, 203 N. C. 492, 166 S. E. 731.

Probate a Judicial Act—Conclusive Presumption of Validity.—Probate of a will by the clerk of the superior court is a judicial act, and his certificate is conclusive evidence of the validity of the will, until vacated on appeal, or declared void by a competent tribunal in a proceeding instituted for that purpose. It cannot be vacated in a collateral manner. Mayo v. Jones, 78 N. C. 402; McClure v. Spivey, 123 N. C. 678, 31 S. E. 857.

An order of the clerk adjudging a will to be fully proved in common form is not "conclusive in evidence of the validity of the will" under this section, on the issue of devisavit vel non, raised by a caveat filed thereto. Wells v. Odum, 205 N. C. 110, 111, 170 S. E. 145.

Effect of Revocation of Probate upon Administration.—The revocation of the probate in common form did not have the effect of annulling the administration properly granted. Floyd v. Herring, 64 N. C. 412.

§ 4146. Wills filed in clerk's office.—All original wills shall remain in the clerk's office, among the records of the court where the same shall be proved, and to such wills any person may have access, as to the other records. If said will contains a devise of real estate, outside said county where said will is probated, then a copy of the said will, together with the probate of the same, certified under the hand and seal of the clerk of the superior court of said county may be recorded in the book of wills and filed in the office of the clerk of the superior court of any county in the state in which said land is situated with the same effect as to passing the title to said real estate as if said will had originally been probated and filed in said county and the clerk of the superior court of said last mentioned county had had jurisdiction to probate the same. (Rev., s. 3129; Code, s. 2173; R. C., c. 119, s. 19; 1777, c. 115, s. 59; 1921, c. 108, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—All but the first sentence of this section was added by the amendment of 1921, Public Laws, ch. 108, § 1.

Will Taken from Record as Evidence of Testator's Handwriting.—An original will taken from the records of the court, is competent without further proof of its execution, as a basis of comparison in determining the genuineness of the handwriting of testator to the instrument in controversy. Croom v. Sugg, 110 N. C. 259, 14 S. E. 748.

§ 4146(a). Validation of wills heretofore certified and recorded.—All wills which have heretofore been certified and recorded in the office of the clerk of the superior court of any county, substantially following the provisions of section 4146 are hereby validated and approved as to the conveyance and transfer of any title to real estate as contained therein, to the same extent as if said wills had originally been probated and filed in said county, and the clerk of the superior court of said county had had jurisdiction to probate the same, provided the probates and witnesses to the said wills are sufficient and according to law. (1921, c. 108, s. 2.)

§ 4147. Certified copy of will proved in another state. — When a will, made by a citizen of this state, is proved and allowed in some other state or country, and the original will cannot be removed from its place of legal deposit in such other state or country, for probate in this state, the clerk of the superior court of the county where the testator had his last usual residence or has any property, upon a duly certified copy or exemplification of such will being exhibited to him for probate, shall take every order and proceeding for proving, allowing and recording such copy as by law might be taken upon the production of the original. (Rev., s. 3130; Code, s. 2157; C. C. P., s. 445; R. C., c. 44, s. 9; 1802, c. 623.)

Defective Certificate of Clerk.—The certificate of probate of a will executed in another state, disposing of real estate in this State, is defective which does not show affirmatively that the will was executed according to the laws of this State. Raleigh etc., Ry., Co. v. Mining & Mfg. Co., 113 N. C. 241, 18 S. E. 208.

§ 4148. Probate of will made out of the state.—Whenever it is suggested to the clerk of the superior court, by affidavit or otherwise, that a will has been made without the state, or that a will has been made in the state and the witnesses thereto have moved out of the state, disposing of or charging land or other property within the state, the clerk of the superior court of the county where the property is situated may issue a commission to such person as he may select, authorizing the commissioner to take the examination of such witnesses as may be produced, touching the execution thereof, and upon return of such commission, with the examination, he may adjudge the will to be duly proved or otherwise, as in cases on the oral examination of witnesses before him, and if duly proved, such will shall be recorded. (Rev., s. 3131; Code, s. 2155; 1899, c. 55; C. C. P., s. 443.)

Defective Certificate.—Where a will, proved in another state, bore the certificate of the clerk of the court wherein the probate was had, to the oath of the attesting witnesses, but had no other authentication, it was held inadmissible in evidence, as departing from the requirements of this section. Hunter v. Kelly, 92 N. C. 285.

§ 4149. Probate when witnesses are nonresident. — Where one or more of the subscribing witnesses to the will of a testator, resident in this state, reside in another state, or in another county in this state than the one in which the will is being probated, the examination of such witnesses may be had, taken and subscribed in the form of an affidavit, before a notary public residing in the county and state in which the witnesses reside; and the affidavits, so taken and subscribed, shall be transmitted by the notary public, under his hand and official seal, to the clerk of the court before whom the will has been filed for probate. If such affidavits are, upon examination by the clerk, found to establish the facts necessary to be established before the clerk to authorize the probate of the will if the witnesses had appeared before him personally, then it shall be the duty of the clerk to order the will to probate, and record the will with the same effect as if the subscribing witnesses had appeared before him in person and been examined under oath. (1917, c. 183; 1933, c. 114.)

Editor's Note.—Public Laws 1933, c. 114, inserted, near the beginning of this section, the words "or in another county in this state than the one in which the will is being probated."

The 1933 amendment will facilitate the probate of wills where difficulty is encountered in securing the personal appearance of witnesses who reside within the state but at a distance from the county of probate. 11 N. C. Law Rev., 262.

§ 4150. Probate when witnesses in another county.—When a will is offered for probate in one county of this state and the witnesses reside in another county, the clerk of the court before whom such will is offered shall have power and authority to issue a subpoena for the witnesses requiring them to appear before him and prove the will; and the clerk shall likewise have power and authority to issue a commission to take the deposition of such witnesses when they reside more than seventy-five miles from the place where the will is to be probated, such deposition and commission to be returned and the clerk to adjudge the will to be duly proven. Also, when it shall be found as a fact upon affidavit or other proof, by the clerk of any county where a will is to be probated, that any witness to the will resides outside of the county, or inside of the county, and seventy-five miles or less from the place where the will is to be probated, and that the witness is so infirm of body as to be unable to appear in person before the clerk to prove the will, then the clerk shall have power and authority to issue a commission to take the deposition of the witness, the commission and deposition of the witness to be returned, and the clerk to adjudge the will to be duly proved thereon as if the witness had appeared in person before him. (Rev., s. 3132; 1899, c. 55; 1911, c. 13; 1923, c. 59.)

Editor's Note.—Public Laws of 1923, chapter 59 amended this section by adding after the words "resides out of the county" the words "or inside of the county," so that in case of physical disability of the witness, either within or out side of the county, the clerk may order the deposition to be taken. See 1 N. C. Law Rev. 315.

Depositions. — Depositions were taken in proceedings to caveat a will, referring to a paper-writing which was not attached, and it was held competent for the commissioner to identify the paper-writing as a part of the deposition. In re Clodfelter's Will, 171 N. C. 528, 88 S. E. 625.

§ 4151. Probate of wills of soldiers and sailors. —In addition to the methods already provided in existing statutes therefor, the will of a soldier or sailor, executed while in the actual service of the United States, shall be admitted to probate (whether there were subscribing witnesses thereto or not, if they, or either of them, is out of the state the time said will is offered for probate) upon the oath of at least three credible witnesses that the signature to said will is in the handwriting of the person whose will it purports to be. Such will so proven shall be effective to devise real property as well as to bequeath personal estate of all kinds. This section shall not apply to cases pending in courts and at issue on the tenth day of March, one thousand nine hundred and nineteen.

The provisions of this section shall expire by limitation on April sixth, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-two. (1919, c. 216; Ex. Sess. 1921, c. 39.)

§ 4152. Certified copy of will of nonresident recorded.—Whenever any will made by a citizen or subject of any other state or country is duly proven and allowed in such state or country according to the laws thereof, a copy or exemplification of such will, duly certified and authenticated by the clerk of the court in which such will has been proved and allowed, if within the United States, or by any ambassador, minister, consul or commercial agent of the United States under his official seal when produced or exhibited before the clerk of the superior court of any county wherein any property of the testator may be, shall be allowed, filed and recorded in the same manner as if the original and not the copy had been produced, proved and allowed before such clerk. But when any will contains any devise or disposition of real estate in this state, such devise or disposition shall not have any validity or operation unless the will is executed according to the laws of this state; and that fact must appear affirmatively in the certified probate or exemplification of the will; and if it does not so appear, the clerk before whom the copy is exhibited shall have power to issue a commission for taking proofs, touching the execution of the will, as prescribed in the preceding section; and the same may be adjudged duly proved, and shall be recorded as herein provided. (Rev., s. 3133; Code, s. 2156; 1885, c. 393; C. C. P., s. 444; 1883, c. 144.)

Editor's Note.—Note that the statement in the first syllabus of Whitton v. Peace, 188 N. C. 298, 124 S. E. 571, stating: "semble, a will properly attested and otherwise sufficient under the laws of another state would operate to pass title to lands situated here" is erroneous, unless it is qualified by saying: provided it also conforms to the requirements of the law of this State. The statute in plain and express terms declares such wills invalid as to realty devised in the State, unless the will is executed according to the laws of this State.

Orderly Arrangement of Pages of Exemplification.—Where the will has been admitted to probate in the court having jurisdiction to admit wills and testaments to probate, even though the pages of the manuscript exemplified copy are not orderly arranged, the will will be admitted to probate and record in this State, under the provisions of this section. Roscoe v. Lumber Co., 124 N. C. 42, 32 S. E. 389; Roper Lumber Co. v. Hudson, 153 N. C. 96, 99, 68 S. E. 1065.

Authentication by Clerk of Court and Not Register of Deeds.—It is necessary to the registration of a copy of a will in this State that the copy or exemplification of the will be duly certified and authenticated by the clerk of the court in which it had been proved or allowed, and if it has been allowed to be registered here under the certificate and seal of the register of deeds in another state it is ineffectual as evidence in a claimant's chain of title. Riley v. Carter, 158 N. C. 484, 74 S. E. 463.

Appearance and Examination of Attesting Witness Not Necessary.—Under the provisions of this section, it is not required that a will executed and admitted to probate in another state be also probated in this State by the appearance and examination of the attesting witnesses in order to pass title to property here when a copy or exemplification thereof duly certified and authenticated by the clerk of the court in which it had been proven and allowed shall be allowed, filed and recorded in the proper county in this State. The doctrine of Hunter v. Kelly, 92 N. C. 285, is no more the law. Vaught v. Williams, 177 N. C. 77, 97 S. E. 737.

Due Record and Certificate of Foreign Probate—Effect.—Where a nonresident testator devises land in this State, and the record of the foreign court of probate, duly certified, contains the certificate of probate, which refers to the certified examinations of the witnesses, in accordance with the requirements of section 4143, the whole forming one transaction, the exemplification of which and of the will being duly recorded in the county where the land lies, the will is sufficiently proved and passes the property. Roscoe v. Roper Lumber Co., 124 N. C. 42, 32 S. E. 389.

Subscription by Two Witnesses Must Appear from Certificate.—Where a certified copy from another state has been recorded, the fact of subscribing by at least two witnesses must appear affirmatively "in the certificate probate or exemplification of the will." The mere recitation in the attestation clause is not affirmative evidence. Raleigh, etc., Ry. Co. v. Mining & Mfg. Co., 113 N. C. 241, 244, 18 S. E. 208.

§ 4153. Probates validated where proof taken by commission or another clerk.—In all cases of the probate of any will heretofore made in common form before any clerk of the superior courts of this state, where the testimony of the subscribing witnesses has been taken in the state or out of it by any commissioner appointed by said clerk or taken by any other clerk of the superior court in any other county of this state, and the will admitted to probate upon such testimony, the proceedings are validated. (Rev., s. 3134; 1899, c. 680.)

§ 4154. Probates by deputy clerk validated in certain counties.—All probates of wills heretofore made before a deputy clerk of the superior court, wherein no contest or suit is pending for the purpose of annulling the probate, shall be deemed to have been probated before the clerk of the superior court, and the acts of the deputy clerk in probating the same shall be deemed as effectual and valid in law as if done by the clerk in person. This section shall apply only to Burke and Scotland counties. (1907, c. 669.)

§ 4155. Probates in another state before 1860 validated. — In all cases where any will devises land in this state, and the original will was duly admitted to probate in some other state prior to the year one thousand eight hundred and sixty, and a certified copy of such will and the probate thereof has been admitted to probate and record in any county in this state, and it in any way appears from such recorded copy that there were two subscribing witnesses to such will, and its execution was proved by the examination of such witnesses when the original was admitted to probate, such will shall be held and considered, and is hereby declared to be, good and valid for the purpose of passing title to the lands devised thereby, situated in this state, as fully and completely as if the original will had been duly executed and admitted to probate and recorded in this state in accordance with the laws of this state: Provided, that this section shall in no way affect actions or suits pending on March 8, 1913, or any vested rights. (1913, c. 93, s. 1.)

§ 4156. Local: Validating probate of certain old wills.—In all cases where wills and testaments were executed prior to the first day of January, one thousand nine hundred and fifteen, and which appears to have two or more subscribing witnesses thereto, and such wills and testaments were admitted to probate in jurisdictions outside of North Carolina upon the proof of one witness, and such wills, or exemplified copies thereof, were presented to the clerk of the superior court in any county in this state where the makers thereof owned property, and by such clerk recorded in the records of wills for his county, said wills and testaments, or exemplified copies thereof, so recorded, if otherwise sufficient, shall have the effect to pass the title to the real and personal property therein devised and bequeathed, to the same extent and as completely as if the execution of such wills had been proven by two subscribing witnesses thereto in the manner provided by the laws of this state. And where such wills and testaments were duly admitted to probate in jurisdictions outside of North Carolina, upon proof of one witness, and in cases where parties interested desire to have them recorded in this state, where they have not already been so recorded, the clerk of the superior court of any county in North Carolina, when such wills or exemplified copies thereof are duly authenticated and presented to him by parties interested, shall receive and record the same, and if the same are otherwise sufficient such wills shall have the effect to pass the title to all real and personal property therein devised and bequeathed, to the same extent and as completely as if the execution of such wills had been proven by two subscribing witnesses thereto in the manner provided by the laws of this state. This section shall not have the effect to invalidate the title of any person owning any land embraced in the provisions of any such will which was valid prior to the tenth day of March, one thousand nine hundred and nineteen. This section shall not apply to suits pending on the tenth day of March, one thousand nine hundred and nineteen, and nothing herein shall be construed to prevent such wills from being impeached for fraud. This section shall only apply to Henderson, Transylvania, Halifax, Wake, Cleveland and Lee counties. (1919, c. 250; Ex. Sess. 1920, c. 63; 1924, c. 10; 1929, c. 313.)

Editor's Note.—The Act of 1929 inserted "1915" in lieu of "1889" in lines 4 and 5, of this section, and made it applicable to Lee County. By express provision the Act did not affect pending litigation or vested rights.

Cleveland and Halifax counties were added by the amendments of 1920 and 1924, respectively.

§ 4157. Wills in Haywood.—All wills recorded by the clerk of the superior court of Haywood county, under and by virtue of chapter eight of the laws of one thousand eight hundred and eighty-five, shall be deemed and held to have been duly probated and recorded, subject to the right of any person interested to show by competent proof that said will has never been proved and recorded. (Rev., s. 1614; 1885, c. 8.)

§ 4157(a). Validation of wills recorded without probate by subscribing witnesses; death of witnesses; loss of original wills.—In all cases where wills and testaments were executed prior to the first day of January, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-five (1875), and which appear as recorded in the record of last wills and testaments to have had two (2) or more witnesses thereto, and such last wills and testaments were admitted to probate and recorded in the record of wills in the proper county in this state prior to the first day of January, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-eight (1888), without having been duly proven as provided by law, and such wills were presented to the clerk of the superior court in any county in this state where the makers of said wills owned property, and where the makers of such wills lived and died, and where by such clerks recorded in the record of wills for his county, said wills and testaments or exemplified copies thereof, so recorded, if otherwise sufficient, shall have the effect to pass the title to real or personal property, or both, therein devised and bequeathed, to the same extent and as completely as if the execution thereof had been duly proven by the two (2) subscribing witnesses thereto in the manner provided by law of this state. This section shall not apply to suits pending February 26, 1921, and nothing herein shall be construed to prevent such wills from being impeached for fraud, and this section shall not affect vested rights. (1921, c. 66.)

§ 4157(b). Validating wills admitted on oath of one subscribing witness.—In all cases where last wills and testaments which appear as recorded in the record of last wills and testaments to have had two witnesses thereto and such last wills and testaments were admitted to probate and recorded in the record of wills in the proper county in this state prior to the first day of January, one thousand eight hundred and ninety (1890) upon the oath and examination of one of the witnesses, such proof being taken in writing and recorded, and the certificate of probate of the Clerk of the Court states that such a will is proven by one of the subscribing witnesses thereto and the handwriting of the other subscribing witness being a non-resident is proven under oath, and such a will and certificate has been recorded in the record of wills of the proper county, such probate is hereby validated as fully as if the proof of the handwriting of the non-resident witness had been taken in regular form in writing and recorded. This section shall not effect any litigation commenced at any time prior to its ratification. (1929, c. 41, ss. 1, 2.)

Art. 5. Caveat to Will

§ 4158. When and by whom caveat filed.—At the time of application for probate of any will, and the probate thereof in common form or at any time within seven years thereafter, any person entitled under such will, or interested in the estate, may appear in person or by attorney before the clerk of the superior court and enter a caveat to the probate of such will: Provided, that if any person entitled to file a caveat be within the age of twenty-one years, or insane, or imprisoned, then such person may file a caveat within three years after the removal of such disability. (Rev., s. 3135; Code, s. 2158; C. C. P., s. 446; 1907, c. 862; 1925, c. 81.)

Editor's Note.—Prior to the amendment of 1907 there was no express provision as to period of limitation upon the right to file a caveat. And by judicial construction the period of limitation was fixed at a reasonable time. See In re Hedgepeth, 150 N. C. 245, 63 S. E. 1025. In that case it was further held that the seven years' limitation intended by the amendment would apply to a caveat filed after the amendment to a will probated before the amendment. See also, In re Will Beauchamp, 146 N. C. 254, 59 S. E. 687; Etheridge v. Corprew's Executors, 48 N. C. 14; Gray v. Maer, 20 N. C. 41; In re Dupree, 163 N. C. 256, 259, 79 S. E. 611.

Until the amendment of 1926 married women were extended an additional period of three years after the removal of the disability of coverture. But the amendment of 1926 struck out this provision with the effect that married women were put upon the same place as other persons. But the amendatory act did not apply to caveats filed prior to the first day of January, 1926. See In re Witherington's Will, 186 N. C. 152, 119 S. E. 11, 12.

In General.—By this section, the legislature recognized that it is against the sound public policy to allow probate of wills and settlements of property rights thereunder to be left open to such uncertainties for an indefinite length of time. In re Will of Johnson, 182 N. C. 522, 109 S. E. 373.

The Limitation at Common Law.—While at common law there was no definiteness or uniformity in the adoption of a period of time wherein the right would be presumed to have been forfeited either by acquiescence or unreasonable delay, the period of twenty years was that more generally prevalent, and though this presumption might be rebutted by proper and sufficient evidence, when the facts are admitted, or had been properly established, it becomes a question for the court to determine whether on such facts the presumption prevails. In re Dupree, 163 N. C. 256, 79 S. E. 611.

Common Law Limitation Applied After Amendment.—As the caveat in the case of In re Dupree's Will, 163 N. C. 256, 79 S. E. 611 was filed in 1911, the will being admitted to probate in 1887, from 1907 to 1911 the statutory period of seven years had not expired, but from 1887 to 1911 the common law limitation had expired, the court applied to the common law limitation and held that the right to caveat the will was barred.

Forty Years of Laches.—An action to probate a will in solemn form will be dismissed when the petitioner had knowledge of the probate of the will in common form and the qualification of the executors for forty years of their removal from the State many years thereafter, of the appointment of an administrator c. t. a., and of his proceedings for final account and settlement, to which she was a party. In re Beauchamp, 146 N. C. 254, 59 S. E. 687.

Twenty-Three Years of Laches.—The devisee, and those who claim under him, having been in possession of the lands devised for twenty-three years, exercising absolute ownership, with the knowledge of the adversary party seeking to caveat the will, and who had for that period of time lived only a short distance from the property; it is held, as a matter of law, that the right to caveat the will had, under the circumstances, been forfeited. In re Dupree, 163 N. C. 256, 79 S. E. 611.

No Exception as to Married Woman.—If the proviso of this section, that, if any person entitled to file a caveat of a married woman, such person may file a caveat within three years after the removal of disability, was meant as a restoration of married women to disability in this particular it was possibly, and indeed probably, an inadvertence; but if so it was soon again corrected by the Martin Act in 1911, now C. S. sec. 454, and chapter 13, Laws 1913, which gave her the fullest and most untrammeled power to bring actions, even against her husband, and in all cases whatever. This was upheld by this court in Crowell v. Crowell, 180 N. C. 516, 105 S. E. 206, and in other cases since. In re Witherington's Will, 186 N. C. 152, 119 S. E. 11, 12.

Who May Caveat the Will.—The right to interfere in a question of probate belongs to a party in interest, which must mean some person whose rights will be affected by the probate of the instrument to the prejudice of the party. In re Thompson, 178 N. C. 540, 542, 101 S. E. 107; Armstrong v. Baker, 31 N. C. 109, 114.

Persons Having Pecuniary Interest May Caveat. — This section, in authorizing a person "who is otherwise interested in sustaining or defeating the will" to appear and, at his election, to support or oppose its probate, means only a person who has a pecuniary interest to protect, either as an individual or in a representative capacity. An interest resting on sentiment or sympathy, or on any basis other than the gain or loss of money or its equivalent, is not sufficient, but any one who would be deprived of property in the broad sense of the word, or who would become entitled to property by the probate of a will, is authorized to appear and be heard upon the subject. In re Will of Davis, 182 N. C. 472; In re Thompson, 178 N. C. 540, 542, 101 S. E. 107.

Person Interested May Caveat—Laches.—A person interested is entitled under this section to file a caveat to a will probated in common form and require the propounder to prove the will in solemn form, if the right has not been lost by acquiescence or unreasonable delay; as to whether laches can be imputed without notice of probate in common form, Quaere. In re Hedgepeth, 150 N. C. 245, 63 S. E. 1025.

Creditor of the Heir May Caveat.—It is also held, in Bloor v. Platt, 78 Ohio St., 49, and in 33 Mass. 265, that a creditor of the heir, who has acquired a lien, may caveat the will, the court saying in the Ohio case: "Any person who has such a direct, immediate, and legally ascertained pecuniary interest in the devolution of the testator's estate as would be impaired or defeated by the probate of the will, or be benefited by setting aside the will, is 'a person interested.'" In re Thompson, 178 N. C. 540, 543, 101 S. E. 107.

Purchasers from Heirs May File Caveat.—The purchasers of land from the heirs of the deceased owner "are interested in the estate" within the intent and meaning of this section, and thereunder, and under the rule of justice, reason, and authority, are entitled to caveat a will brought forward many years thereafter, and admitted to probate in common form. In re Thompson, 178 N. C. 540, 101 S. E. 107.

Heirs Not Cited under § 4159.—The heirs at law of a deceased testator whose will is duly probated and who have no knowledge of proceedings to caveat the will, and who were not cited under the provisions of § 4159, are not estopped to fill a second caveat to the paper-writing, nor bound by the former judgment therein sustaining the validity of the paper-writing propounded. Mills v. Mills, 195 N. C. 595, 143 S. E. 130.

Proceedings Transferred to Civil Issue Docket.—Where a caveat to a will is duly filed, with the required bond, etc., at the same time the paper-writing is offered for probate, it is required of the clerk to transfer the proceedings to the civil-issue docket for the trial of the issue of devisavit vel non, and all further steps are stayed in the matter until its final adjudication, except such as may be necessary for the preservation of the estate. In re Little's Will, 187 N. C. 177, 121 S. E. 453.

Nature of Proceedings.—The proceedings in the matter of the probate of a will is summary and in rem, and at first it is ordinarily ex parte, and the contest of it is begun by a caveat under this section. In re Haygood's Will, 101 N. C. 574, 578, 8 S. E. 222.

Caveat a Proceeding in Rem—Nonsuit.—Proceedings to caveat a will are in rem involving the rights of the beneficiaries as named in the will, and those of the opposing heirs at law or next of kin depending upon the answer to the issues of devisavit vel non, and there being no parties, strictly speaking, upon whom a judgment as of nonsuit may be taken, the issue should be tried in the due course and practice of the court, and a motion of nonsuit should be denied. In re Will of Westfeldt, 188 N. C. 702, 125 S. E. 531.

Suspension of Limitation—Application to Caveat Barred.—Chapter 78, Laws 1898, suspending the running of the statute of limitations, has no application to a caveat to a will theretofore barred and for which there was no such statute prior to 1907. In re Beauchamp, 146 N. C. 254, 59 S. E. 687.

Amendments Not Retroactive. — While amendment of 1907, fixes seven years after probate of a will in common form as a limitation, and permits seven years after its ratification as to wills theretofore proven, it will not apply to revive a cause of action theretofore barred. In re Beauchamp, 146 N. C. 254, 59 S. E. 687.

What Must Propounder Prove upon Caveat Being Filed.—Upon the filing of a caveat to a will probated in common form the propounder must prove the will per testes in solemn form, and the burden is upon him to show (1) the formal execution as prescribed by statute; (2) the contents, if the original was not produced; (3) the loss of the original will or that it had not been destroyed by the testator or with his consent or procurement. In re Hedgepeth, 150 N. C. 245, 63 S. E. 1025.

When an issue of devisavit vel non is raised by caveat, it is tried in the Superior Court in term by a jury. Upon such trial the propounder carries the burden of proof to establish the formal execution of the will. This he must do by proving the will per testes in solemn form. In re Rowland, 202 N. C. 373, 375, 162 S. E. 897.

Application to Clerk within the Time No Excuse, When.—Where parties seeking to caveat a will have forfeited their right to do so by unreasonable delay and acquiescence, the mere fact that they had applied to the clerk several times when their rights would have been allowed, and the clerk declined and refused to entertain the application because the parties failed to give a proper bond as required by law, does not affect the result, for no caveat is properly constituted until the statutory requirements are met; and if it had been so constituted, the absence of notice issued in reasonable time works a discontinuance. In re Dupree, 163 N. C. 256, 79 S. E. 611.

Probate in Common Form Valid Until Set Aside.—The probate of a will in common form is valid until set aside, and the right to require probate in solemn form may be forfeited, either by acquiescence or unreasonable delay, now seven years, under this section. In re Beauchamp, 146 N. C. 254, 59 S. E. 687.

Effect of Infancy, Absence from the State.—Where the common law presumption of forfeiture of the right to caveat a will from unreasonable delay or acquiescence prevails, the matters of infancy, (coverture,) and absence from the State are not necessarily controlling, but they are considered as relevant facts bearing on the question as to whether the presumption will prevail, and more especially is this true in its application to the absence from the State of a party claiming under the will, when he had first remained in possession of the property for more than a year and the cause is one where jurisdiction could be acquired by publication. Summerlin v. Cowles, 101 N. C. 473, cited and distinguished, where the courts of equity adopt ten years as a legal bar in analogy to the statutory period prevailing in an action at common law. In re Dupree, 163 N. C. 256, 79 S. E. 611.

Caveat in Spite of Outstanding Life Estate.—One who is authorized by law to caveat a will is not requried to await the falling-in of an outstanding life estate, and such time is not excluded from the computation of period limited in which a caveat to a will may be filed. In re Will of Withers ington, 186 N. C. 152, 119 S. E. 11.

§ 4159. Bond given and cause transferred to trial docket.—Upon a caveator giving bond, with sufficient surety to be approved by the clerk, in the sum of two hundred dollars, payable to the propounder of the will, conditioned to pay all costs which may be adjudged against such caveator in the superior court by reason of his failure to prosecute his suit with effect, or deposit the money or give a mortgage in lieu of such bond, or shall file affidavits and satisfy the clerk of his inability to give such bonds or secure such costs, the clerk shall transfer the cause to the superior court for trial; and he shall also forthwith issue a citation to all devisees, legatees or other parties in interest within the state, and cause publication to be made, for four weeks, in some newspaper printed in the state, for nonresidents to appear at the term of the superior court, to which the proceeding is transferred and to make themselves proper parties to the proceeding, if they choose. At the term of court to which such proceeding is transferred, or as soon thereafter as motion to that effect shall be made by the propounder, and before trial, the judge shall require any of the persons so cited, either those who make themselves parties with the caveators or whose interests appear to him antagonistic to that of the propounders of the will, and who shall appear to him to be able so to do, to file such bond within such time as he shall direct and before trial; and on failure to file such bond the judge shall dismiss the proceeding. (Rev., s. 3136; Code, s.

Cited in Mills v. Mills, 195 N. C. 595, 598, 143 S. E. 130.

§ 4160. Affidavit of deceased witness as evidence.—Whenever the subscribing witness to any will shall die, or be absent beyond the state, it shall be competent upon any issue of devisavit vel non to give in evidence the affidavits and proofs taken by the clerk upon admitting the will to probate in common form, and such affidavit and proceedings before the clerk shall be prima facie evidence of the due and legal execution of said will. (Rev., s. 3121; 1899, c. 680, s. 2.)

§ 4161. Caveat suspends proceedings under will.—Where a caveat is entered and bond given, the clerk of the superior court shall forthwith issue an order to any personal representative, having the estate in charge, to suspend all further proceedings in relation to the estate, except the preservation of the property and the collection of debts and payment of all taxes and debts that are a lien upon the property of the decedent, as may be allowed by order of the clerk of the superior court, until a decision of the issue is had. (Rev., s. 3137; Code, s. 2160; C. C. P., s. 448; 1927, c. 119.)

Editor's Note.—By the amendment of 1927 (Pub. Laws, c. 119), the representative can not be made to stop, upon a caveat filed, the payment of all taxes and debts that are a lien upon the property of the decedent, as may be allowed by order of the clerk of the superior court.

Purpose of Section.—This section is manifestly intended in cases to which it is applicable, to dispense with the necessity of appointing an administrator pendente lite, and confers very similar forms upon the executor, and more especially when he has entered upon the duties of his office before the caveat is entered. Syme v. Broughton, 86 N. C. 153. The prosecution of the action in order to the collection of the debts, is evidently sanctioned by the statute and in furtherance of the purpose of its enactment. Hughes v. Hodges, 94 N. C. 57, 59.

Effect of Caveat upon Rights and Duties of Representative.—The executor is not divested of all his representative powers; nor is the first probate vacated absolutely when the issue touching the will is made up to be tried; nor is there a necessity meanwhile for the appointment of an administrator pendente lite. The function of the executor is suspended only until the controversy is ended, and he is still required to take care of the estate in his hands and may proceed in the collection of debts due the deceased. Randolph v. Hughes, 89 N. C. 428; In re Palmer, 117 N. C. 133, 134, 138, 23 S. E. 104.

In the observance of the mandate to preserve the property the executor may operate and manage the property in the exercise of that degree of care, diligence and honesty which he would exercise in the management of his own property, or he may institute a civil action in which all persons having an interest are made parties and request the court in its equity jurisdiction to authorize such operation, or he may apply to the clerk in his probate jurisdiction for such authorization. Hardy & Co. v. Turnage, 204 N. C. 538, 168 S. E. 823.

Office of Representative Continued.—The proper construction of this section is that after probate granted in common form and there is an executor who acts or an administrator with the will annexed appointed, his office is intended to be continued during a controversy about the will, and he has all the power and is subjected to all the liabilities of an administrator or an executor, except that his right to dispose of the estate according to the provisions of the will is suspended until the final determination of the suit. In re Palmer, 117 N. C. 133, 134, 137, 23 S. E. 104.

Effect of Absence of Order to Suspend Proceeding.—In the absence of an order to suspend further proceedings upon the filing of a caveat, as provided by this section, the acts of the executor in filing a petition or proceeding with the sale of the land were not void nor were the rights of purchasers affected. Carraway v. Lassiter, 139 N. C. 145, 51 S. E. 968.

May Be Sued, Sell Land, But May Not Pay Legacies.—An executor, or administrator c. t. a., after the will is proved in common form, may be sued, and by leave of court may sell property to pay debts, but cannot pay legacies or exercise other special powers given in the will, where issues upon a caveat are pending; the right to execute the will is suspended until the determination of the suit. Syme v. Broughton, 86 N. C. 153.

§ 4161(a). Superior court clerks to enter notice of caveat on will book; final judgment also to be entered.—Wherever a caveat is filed with the clerk of the superior court of any county in the state to any last will and testament which has been admitted to probate in said office, it shall be the duty of such clerk, and he is hereby directed to give notice of the filing of such caveat by making an entry upon the page of the will book where such last will and testament is recorded, evidencing that such caveat has been filed and giving the date of such filing. When such caveat and proceedings resulting therefrom shall have resulted in final judgment with respect to such will, the clerk of the court shall make a further entry upon the page of the will book where such last will and testament is recorded to the effect that final judgment has been entered, either sustaining or setting aside such will. (1929, c. 81, s. 1.)

Art. 6. Construction of Will

§ 4162. Devise presumed to be in fee.—When real estate shall be devised to any person, the same shall be held and construed to be a devise in fee simple, unless such devise shall, in plain and express words, show, or it shall be plainly intended by the will, or some part thereof, that the testator intended to convey an estate of less dignity. (Rev., s. 3138; Code, s. 2180; R. C., c. 119, s. 26; 1784, c. 204, s. 12.)

Editor's Note.—The trend of judicial decisions for years has been toward relaxing the rigor of the common-law rule, that without words of inheritance no estate of greater dignity than for life could be created by deed. While devises were held, after the statute of wills, to be but a species of alienation, the courts construed them more liberally than deeds; and where, without the use of the word "heirs," as by inserting the word "forever," the testator indicated an intent to pass an estate in fee, it was held, on the ground that testators were generally inops consilii, that the instrument should be so interpreted as to effectuate his purpose. Then followed the liberal principle inculcated by this section to the effect that a devise of real estate to any person should be held to be a devise in fee, unless it plainly appears from some part of the will that the testator intended to convey an estate of less dignity.

The liberal tendency of the age in reference to deeds culminated in the enactment of section 991, providing the same rule of construction for deeds as for devises. Vickers v. Leigh, 104 N. C. 248, 257, 10 S. E. 308.

The common-law rule that a devise without words of perpetuity or limitation conveyed a life estate only unless there is a manifest intention to convey the fee has been changed by this section. Henderson v. Western Carolina Power Co., 200 N. C. 443, 157 S. E. 425.

No technical words of conveyance are required in wills. Alston v. Davis, 118 N. C. 202, 24 S. E. 15; Keith v. Scales, 124 N. C. 497, 505, 514, 32 S. E. 809.

Intent of Testator Controls Interpretation.—The intent of the testator as gathered from the entire will controls its interpretation; and this rule applies to the construction of this section when it appears that the testator devised certain lands without the words of inheritance, and that his intent, gathered from a separate item of the will, was to create a defeasible estate in the first taker, contingent upon his dying at any time, whether before or after the death of the testator, leaving issue surviving him. Rees v. Williams, 165 N. C. 201, 81 S. E. 286.

The presumption established by this section that a devise of land shall be construed in fee, etc., gives way to the intent of the testator as gathered from the proper construction of the instrument as a related whole. Roberts v. Saunders, 192 N. C. 191, 134 S. E. 451.

Thus under a devise to the testator's wife of all of his "estate real and personal," and by a later paragraph all of the rest of the testator's property "as above stated" during her widowhood, and should she remarry her dower "according to law:" It was held only a life estate, according to the testator's intent, is given to his widow, and her conveyance of a fee-simple title is ineffectual, the statutory presumption of a fee-simple title being inoperative. Roberts v. Saunders, 192 N. C. 191, 134 S. E. 451.

Unrestricted Devise Passes Fee.—The uniform holdings, since the passage of this section has been that an unrestricted devise of real estate passes the fee. Barbee v. Thompson, 194 N. C. 411, 412, 139 S. E. 838.

A testator devised to his daughters, B. and M., all of his real estate after the death of his widow, and also to his daughter T. an equal life interest therein with B. and M., "or so long as the said T. may remain a widow." Upon the death of the testator's widow, B. and M. took in remainder a fee-simple estate, with the intent to provide for T., who remained unmarried and is now deceased, during her widowhood. Barbee v. Thompson, 194 N. C. 411, 139 S. E. 838.

A devise of lands to the wife of the testator for life, and at her death or remarriage to their two children, by name, for their natural lives for the heirs of their bodies: Held, after the death of the widow, the devise is not a trust created in the children as trustees for the "heirs of their bodies," and the devise not falling within the rule in Shelly's case, and there being no expression in the will to show an intent of the testator to create an estate of less degree than fee, it constitutes an estate tail, converted by our statute into a fee simple. Washburn v. Biggerstaff, 195 N. C. 624, 143 S. E. 210.

A devise of real estate to the testator's son for his own use and benefit with the expressed intent that it should vest in him absolutely with full right to dispose of it, with limitation over should he die without children surviving, if not disposed of by him during his life, under the provisions of this section, the devise being without clause limiting the estate to one of less dignity, the devisee took a fee-simple title thereto, and could convey a good title to the purchaser. Lineberger v. Phillips, 198 N. C. 661, 153 S. E. 118.

A devise will be construed to be in fee simple unless an intention to convey an estate of less dignity is apparent from the will, and regard will be had to the natural objects of the testator's bounty, and the testator's intention as gathered from the whole instrument will be given effect unless it is contrary to some rule of law or public policy. Jolley v. Humphries, 204 N. C. 672, 169 S. E. 417.

Under this section the fee generally passes upon a devise of the proceeds of land when an intention to separate the income from the principal is not expressed, or where the devise is general and the devisee is given the power of disposition, or a limitation over is made of such part as may not be disposed of by the first taker. Hambright v. Carroll, 204 N. C. 496, 168 S. E. 817.

In construing wills the courts will endeavor to ascertain the intent of the testator as expressed in the words used, and in cases of doubt resort may be had to the usual canons of interpretation, and a devise will be construed to be in fee unless it appears from the will that the testator intended to convey an estate of less dignity. Bell v. Gillam, 200 N. C. 411, 157 S. E. 60.

Devise for "Use and Benefit without Let or Hinderance."—Where testator left property in trust with power in his wife to demand that trustee turn over property to her "for her own use and benefit without let or hinderance," upon such demand and compliance therewith, the wife takes and can convey a fee simple, notwithstanding a further provision in the will that a third person should take a life estate in property remaining in the hands of trustees at the wife's death. O'Quinn v. Crane, 189 N. C. 97, 126 S. E. 174.

Devise with Power of Full Management and Control, etc.—A devise to the wife of all of the testator's property, real, personal or mixed, with full management and control thereof during her natural life; that she shall enjoy the full benefit thereof with power to sell and dispose of it at her discretion, and that it was the testator's will and desire that she shall devise whatever property she has not thus disposed of during her natural life, or the proceeds thereof, to the person who has been the "kindest to us in aiding and comforting us in our old age," it was held, that under the provisions of this section the wife acquired a fee-simple title. Weaver v. Kirby, 186 N. C. 387, 119 S. E. 564.

Devise with Full Power of Disposal.—A devise to a husband with full power of its disposal, but on certain conditions any part undisposed of by him to go to a nephew, vests a fee simple in the husband. Roane v. Robinson, 189 N. C. 628, 127 S. E. 626.

Devise Absolutely as Testator Held Himself.—A devise and bequest to the testator's wife of all of his estate, real or personal, wherever located or however held, including that held at the time of his death, absolutely as he held it himself, declaring that she should not be considered as holding it in trust "technically so called, to be enforced by the judge or decree of any court other than her own conscience, judgment, and affection shall prompt her to so regard it:" It was held the devise and bequest to the widow, under the clear terms of the will, was in fee absolute. Fellowes v. Durfey, 163 N. C. 305, 79 S. E. 621.

Fee Simple Defeasible upon a Condition. — An estate "loaned" to testator's daughter R. during her natural life and at her death "I lend all of the" designated land "to the lawful heirs of her body, and to the lawful begotten heirs of their bodies if any," standing alone, would convey the fee simple title, but with the further expression, "in case she should die leaving no lawful issue of her body then I give all the above described land to my son J., and his lawful heirs," the estate is defeasible in the event of the death of R. "leaving no lawful issue of her body." Jarman v. Day, 179 N. C. 318, 102 S. E. 402.

Where a testator devises realty to a grandson, and in the event of death of the latter without children, then the land to descend to other grandchildren, such devises vest a fee simple estate in the first devisee, defeasible only on condition that he dies without leaving heirs of his body. Whitfield v. Garris, 131 N. C. 148, 42 S. E. 568; Whitfield v. Garris, 134 N. C. 24, 45 S. E. 904.

Fee Simple with Power of Appointment.—A devise to A, and to such persons as he shall appoint, vests the absolute property in A, without an appointment. But if it be to him for life and after his death to such person as he shall appoint, he must make an appointment in order to entitle that person to anything. The express life estate to him repels the implication of a fee simple for himself. Levy v. Griffis, 65 N. C. 236, 239.

Same—Trust in Favor of Married Women.—A devise to a trustee in trust for the sole and separate use of a married woman with a power given to her of appointing the estate in fee by deed or will, will vest the trust in her in fee under this section. Levy v. Griffis, 65 N. C. 236.

Vested Remainder to Be Divested upon Condition.—A devise of lands to K. "his lifetime, then to go to" G. and M., "and if they should die without leaving bodily heirs, then to go to the Flow Heirs;" It was held, after the falling in of the life estate, G. and M. take the fee in the remainder defeasible upon their dying without leaving "bodily heirs," in which event it would go to the ultimate devisees, upon the principles of a shifting use operating by way of an executory devise. Kirkman v. Smith, 174 N. C. 603, 94 S. E. 423.

Trust in Devised Lands—Precatory Words.—For precatory words used in a will to be regarded as mandatory to create a trust in lands devised, the intention of the testator to that effect must clearly appear by interpretation of the instrument, for otherwise these words must be given the ordinary significance of those of that character, both under our modern decisions and this section providing that a devise of land shall be construed to be in fee, unless the terms of the will clearly shows the testator's intent to pass an estate of less dignity. Springs v. Springs, 182 N. C. 484, 109 S. E. 839.

Conflicting Expressions—Which Controls.—Where a testator devises all of his estate to his wife, clearly and unmistakably in fee, a different intent may not be inferred from subsequent expressions used in the will. Fellows v. Durfey, 163 N. C. 305, 79 S. E. 621.

Conflicting Interest—General Interest Prevails.—The provisions of this section, while laying down a rule of construction, still leave the question of the intention of the testator open for construction, and where there is a particular, and a general paramount interest apparent in the same will, and they clash, the general interest must prevail. Leeper v. Neagle, 94 N. C. 338.

Cited in West v. Murphy, 197 N. C. 488, 149 S. E. 731; Brown v. Lewis, 197 N. C. 704, 150 S. E. 328.

§ 4163. Probate necessary to pass title; rights of innocent purchasers.—No will shall be effectual to pass real or personal estate unless it shall have been duly proved and allowed in the probate court of the proper county, and a duly certified copy thereof shall be recorded in the office of the superior court clerk of the county wherein the land is situate, and the probate of a will devising real estate shall be conclusive as to the execution thereof, against the heirs and devisees of the testator, whenever the probate thereof, under the like circumstances, would be conclusive against the next of kin and legatees of the testator: Provided, that the probate and registration of any will shall not affect the rights of innocent purchasers for value from the heirs at law of the testator when such purchase is made more than two years after the death of such testator, unless the will has been fraudulently withheld from probate. (Rev., s. 3139; Code, s. 2174; R. C., c. 119, s. 20; 1784, c. 225, s. 6; 1915, c. 219.)

Probate an Indispensable Prerequisite.—The probate of a will in the proper court is an indispensable prerequisite to its validity as a conveyance of real or personal estate. Osborne v. Leak, 89 N. C. 433.

No Statute of Limitation to Probate Will.—There is no statute of limitations as to when a will may be admitted to probate, section 3309 not being applicable to registration of wills; and the probate, when proved, allowed and recorded, as the statute requires, becomes effective and relates back to the death of the devisor, passing the title from that date, avoiding all disposition or conveyances of the property by the heirs contrary to the provisions of the will, unless the claimants are protected by the statute of limitations or some recognized equitable principle. Cooley v. Lee, 170 N. C. 18, 86 S. E. 720.

Section Not Retroactive as to Recordation.—This section requiring copies of wills to be recorded in the county where the devised lands are situate, is prospective and refers only to the wills proved after November, 1, 1883—the time when the Code went into effect. Curles v. Smith, 91 N. C. 172.

Statute of Limitations Where Right of Purchasers Involved.—Under this section prior to the amendment by Laws of 1915, there was no limitation as to the time when a will could be probated and recorded, the ordinary registration acts having no application to wills, and they becoming effective from the death of the testator, ordinarily passing the title to devisees from that date against all dispositions or conveyances from the heirs to the contrary. Barnhardt v. Morrison, 178 N. C. 563, 101 S. E. 218.

Same—Amendment Not Retroactive.—The amendment of this section by the laws of 1915 is prospective in effect, and the right of the devisees, under the section prior to the amendment, to have unlimited time to probate the will will not be affected except from the effective date of the amendment. Barnhardt v. Morrison, 178 N. C. 563, 101 S. E. 218. That is the devisees will have two years after the effective date of the amendment to have their will probated.—Ed. Note.

§ 4164. What property passes by will.—Any testator, by his will duly executed, may devise, bequeath, or dispose of all real and personal estate which he shall be entitled to at the time of his death, and which, if not so devised, bequeathed, or disposed of, would descend or devolve upon his heirs at law, or upon his executor or administrator; and the power hereby given shall extend to all contingent, executory, or other future interest in any real or personal estate, whether the testator may or may not be the person or one of the persons in whom the same may become vested, or whether he may be entitled thereto under the instrument by which the same was created, or under any disposition thereof by deed or will; and also to all rights of entry for conditions broken, and other rights of entry; and also to such of the same estates, interests, and rights respectively, and other real and personal estate, as the testator may be entitled to at the time of his death, notwithstanding that he may become entitled to the same subsequently to the execution of his will. (Rev., s. 3140; Code, s. 2140; R. C., c. 119, s. 5; 1844, c. 88, s. 1.)

After-Acquired Lands—Devisability under English Statute.—As the statutes of devises, 32 and 34 Henry VIII., declares that "a man having lands may devise them," lands acquired subsequent to the devise do not pass by it, although the devisor expressly refers to all the lands he might have at his death; for at the time of the devise he had not the lands. Jiggitts v. Maney, 5 N. C. 258. But under this section the contrary rule is established.—Ed. Note.

A conveyance of "all the property I possess," where there is no apparent motive for making an exception, conveys all property the party owned. Hollowell v. Manly, 179 N. C. 262, 265, 102 S. E. 386.

Right of Entry for Condition Broken.—"And also to all rights of entry for conditions broken;" etc., evidently means rights of entry for conditions broken in the lifetime of the testator, and where he had the right of entry while living. Church v. Young, 130 N. C. 8, 12, 40 S. E. 691.

Same—Condition Broken during Lifetime of Testator.—Where a church receives an absolute fee in land, subject to be defeated only by the breach of a condition, and this condition is not broken until after the death of the grantor and a daughter, neither the grantor nor the daughter have any estate in the land (before the breach of the condition, the testator having a mere possibility of reverter) at the time of their death which can be willed or inherited, and upon breach of the condition the estate goes to the heirs at law of the grantor. Church v. Young, 130 N. C. 8, 40 S. E. 691.

Possibility of Reverter Not Devisable.—A mere possibility of reverter cannot be subject of a devise. Church v. Young, 130 N. C. 8, 9, 40 S. E. 691; Hollowell v. Manly, 179 N. C. 262, 265, 102 S. E. 386.

Where a will is susceptible to two reasonable constructions, one disposing of all of the testator's property, and the other leaving part of the property undisposed of, the former construction will be adopted and the latter rejected, there being a presumption against partial intestacy. Holmes v. York, 203 N. C. 709, 166 S. E. 889.

§ 4165. Will relates to death of testator.—Every will shall be construed, with reference to the real and personal estate comprised therein, to speak and take effect as if it had been executed immediately before the death of the testator, unless a contrary intention shall appear by the will. (Rev., s. 3141; Code, s. 2141; R. C., c. 119, s. 16; 1844, c. 88, s. 3.)

The General Rule Expounded.—This general rule seems to be established, that where a testator uses general terms, as "all of my estate" or "all of my lands or real estate," then the devise will speak at the date of the death; but, where he refers to a specific subject of gift, with sufficient particularity in the description of the specific subject of it, showing that an object in existence at the date of his will was intended, referring to the existing state of things at the date of the will and not at his death, then the operation of the general rule is excluded. The death is a prospective event, but the date of the will refers to actual conditions. Hines v. Mercer, 125 N. C. 71, 74, 34 S. E. 106.

Section Relates to Subject Matter, and Not the Objects of the Will.—This section, making the will speak from the death, relates to the subject matter of disposition only, and does not in any manner interfere with the construction in regard to the objects of the gift. The reason for this is that the objects of the testator's bounty were not found within the mischiefs which were intended to be prevented by the statute. Robbins v. Windley, 56 N. C. 286; Hines v. Mercer, 125 N. C. 71, 74, 34 S. E. 106.

This section has no retroactive effect, and does not apply to wills made prior to its enactment, though the testator dies subsequent to its enactment. Such will, with reference to the property they devise, speak as of the date of their execution, and not as of the date of testator's death under the rule of construction promulgated by this section. Williamson v. Williamson, 58 N. C. 142.

Devise of "the Whole of My Lands" Passes After-Acquired Property.—A devise of "the whole of my lands" to devisees, includes land acquired by the testator after the publication of his will when no intention to the contrary appears. A subsequent clause in the will, directing "my other property of every kind not before mentioned to be sold," refers to other personal property. Edwards v. Warren, 90 N. C. 604.

Effect of Will Speaking as of Time of Testator's Death.—Inasmuch as a will speaks as of the time of testator's death, a devise by O. of her "undivided interest and property in the estate of the late G. C." passes no such part of the distributive share in such estate as has been collected and received by O., for, immediately upon its payment to O., it became her property and ceased to be a part of the estate of G. C. Aydlett v. Small, 115 N. C. 1, 20 S. E. 163.

Designation of Quantity of Land Does Not Prevent Operation of Rule.—Where a testator devised his lands south of a certain line, "containing by estimation two hundred acres," and subsequently he purchased other lands south of the line, the reference to the number of acres did not prevent the latter lands being included in the devise. Brown v. Hamilton, 135 N. C. 10, 47 S. E. 128.

Land under Contract of Purchase after Execution of Will.—In re Champion, 45 N. C. 246, the devise was to testator's wife: Item 1: "All my real estate, consisting of several lots in Shelby," etc., and in item 2: "All of my personal estate of whatever nature." After the date of the will he contracted to purchase another tract, but had not paid for it at his death: it was held that his rights in the unpaid for land passed to his wife, and it was put on the ground that looking at the whole instrument, the intention to give the whole estate to his wife was manifest. Hines v. Mercer, 125 N. C. 71, 75, 34 S. E. 106.

§ 4166. Lapsed and void devises pass under residuary clause.—Unless a contrary intention shall appear by the will, such real estate or interest therein as shall be comprised or intended to be comprised in any devise in such will contained which shall fail or be void by reason of the death of the devisee in the lifetime of the testator, or by reason of such devise being contrary to law or otherwise incapable of taking effect, shall be included in the residuary devise (if any) contained in such will: Provided, there shall be no lapse of the devise or legacy by reason of the death of the devisee or legatee during the life of the testator, if such devisee or legatee would have been an heir at law or distributee of such testator had he died intestate, and if such devisee or legatee shall leave issue surviving him; and if there is issue surviving, then the said issue shall have the devise or bequest named in the will. (Rev., s. 3142; Code, s. 2142; R. C., c. 119, s. 7; 1844, c. 88, s. 4; 1919, c. 28.)

Cross References.—For full treatment, see 12 N. C. Enc. Dig. 700, et seq.; 15 N. C. Enc. Dig. 822.

In the Absence of Statute Heirs Prevail over Residuary Devise.—In the absence of statute, upon general principles, the heir at law is favored as much as possible, even to the detriment of a residuary devisee; and, accordingly, a specific devise lapsing by the death of a devisee, devolves upon the "heir" and not the residuary legatee, in fact, whether a devise lapsed or was void ab initio, the residuary devise does not absorb it. Holton v. Jones, 133 N. C. 399, 403, 45 S. E. 765.

Rights of Collateral Heirs.—Where the owner of real and personal property executed a will devising and bequeathing all his property, both real and personal, to his wife, the collateral heirs at law of the testator are entitled to the real property, the devise to the wife having lapsed by reason of her prior death, and the provisions of this section, not applying to prevent such lapse of the devise, since the wife would not have been an heir at law of testator had she survived him, but the children of the wife by a prior marriage are entitled to the personalty, since the wife would have been a distributee of the personal estate of her husband had she survived him, and this section providing that in such case the legacy should not lapse, but should go to the surviving issue of the legatee, the statute clearly recognizing the distinction between real and personal property for the purposes of devolution. Farnell v. Dongan, 207 N. C. 611, 178 S. E. 77.

Section a Prototype of English Statute.—This section enacted in 1844, is a copy of the English statute upon the same subject. It will be observed that it provides for such devises as shall fail or be void: (1) by reason of the death of the devisee during the lifetime of the testator; (2) by reason of such devise being contrary to law; (3) or otherwise incapable of taking effect. Holton v. Jones, 133 N. C. 399, 402, 45 S. E. 765.

Construction of Residuary Clause in General.—In a specific gift, you must look to see whether that particular item is included. The question is whether it is included or not; but in a residuary gift large enough in its language to comprehend residue, the question is, not what is included, but what is excluded; and you must find words sufficiently large, sufficiently definite, sufficiently distinct, to enable you to say that some item is excluded, so that, to use the language of one of the authorities, what hitherto has purported to be the residuary gift is reduced to the level of a specific gift, and ceases to be a residuary gift. Faison v. Middleton, 171 N. C. 170, 173, 88 S. E. 141.

Construction of Residuary Clause to Prevent Intestacy.—A residuary clause in a will should be construed so as to prevent an intestacy as to any part of the testator's estate, unless there is an apparent intent to the contrary, plainly and unequivocally expressed in the writing. Faison v. Middleton, 171 N. C. 170, 88 S. E. 141.

Intestacy Not Favored.—No one supposes that he has failed in his intention to dispose of all of his property by his will, and the courts should endeavor to make out such an intention and to uphold the testamentary plan, so that the testator may not, as to some of his estate, have died intestate. Faison v. Middleton, 171 N. C. 170, 174, 88 S. E. 141.

Whether a clause is a residuary clause is not dependent upon any particular form of expression but upon the intention of the testator, and where a will provides that after the termination of a life estate that the whole estate should be reduced to cash and, after payment of certain specific bequests, distributed among a specific class, where the legacy of one of the class lapses by the death of the legatee prior to the testator's death, the amount of such legacy is thrown into the fund for distribution among the class named, and it does not go to the next of kin of the legatee. Stevenson v. Wachovia Bank, etc., Co., 202 N. C. 92, 161 S. E. 728.

"All of the Residue" Embraces Personalty and Realty.—General words in a residuary clause of a will, "all of the residue," etc., embrace every species of property, whether real or personal, owned by the testator at his death, unless restricted by the context. Faison v. Middleton, 171 N. C. 170, 88 S. E. 141.

Effect of Failure to Name Devisee.—A devise of land "to my . . . . . ." without naming the devisee, followed by a residuary clause of the will, "that all of the residue of my estate be sold, and if there should be any surplus over the payment of debts and expenses, that such surplus be equally divided and paid over" to certain named persons: it was held the failure to name the devisee brings the devise within the terms of the statute as to void devisee, or those incapable of taking effect, and the property devised will go to the residuary legatees, and not to the heirs at law. Faison v. Middleton, 171 N. C. 170, 88 S. E. 141.

Lapsed Devise for Misdescription.—A general residuary bequest carries lapsed and void legacies, and property which is the subject of a devise which fails by reason of a misdescription. 40 Cyc., 1563 to 1570; Gardner on Wills, 418; Faison v. Middleton, 171 N. C. 170, 172, 88 S. E. 141.

Subject-Matter of Void Legacy Is Included in Residuary Legacy.—Under the provisions of this section, the property which is the subject-matter of a void legacy, is included within the residuary legacy provided by the will, and should be delivered by the executor to the residuary legatees. Wilmington Sav., etc., Co. v. Cowan, 208 N. C. 236, 238, 180 S. E. 87.

Devise to Brother Lapses by His Early Death.—A devise to a brother who dies before the testator does not come within the provision of section 4168, and lapses, by reason of his prior death to that of the testator, under this section. Howell v. Mehegan, 174 N. C. 64, 93 S. E. 438.

Lapse of Shares of Some of the Residuary Legatees.—Where the testator has named several beneficiaries in a residuary clause, and it appears upon the face of the will that several of these names have been run through with a pen, and the intention of the testator to revoke has been established, the beneficiaries whose names have been thus erased taking nothing, and the whole estate, under the residuary clause, goes to the others therein named together with such legacies as may have lapsed. Barfield v. Carr, 169 N. C. 574, 86 S. E. 498.

Rule Applied in Absence of Contrary Intention Only.—A lapsed devise of lands will not fall within the residuary clause of a will, under this section, where a contrary intent appears from the construction of a will itself; and where the testator has specifically devised his lands, making ample provision for his widow, and gives her, in the residuary clause, "all other property not herein specified," and the use of the word "property," with the expression "not herein specified," shows the testator's intent that a lapsed devise of the realty should not fall within the residuary clause, but will go to the testator's intent that a lapsed devise of the realty should not fall within the residuary clause, but will go to the testator's next of kin instead of those of the widow of her devises under her will. Howell v. Mehegan, 174 N. C. 64, 93 S. E. 438.

tioned in the will, or otherwise described in a general manner, shall be construed to include any real estate, or any real estate to which such description shall extend, as the case may be, which he may have power to appoint in any manner he may think proper; and shall operate as an execution of such power, unless a contrary intention shall appear by the will; and in like manner a bequest of the personal estate of the testator, or any bequest of personal property, described in a general manner, shall be construed to include any personal estate, or any personal estate to which such description shall extend, as the case may be, which he may have power to appoint in any manner he may think proper, and shall operate as an execution of such power, unless a contrary intention shall appear by the will. (Rev., s. 3143; Code, s. 2143; R. C., c. 119, s. 8; 1844, c. 88, s. 5.)

Power Not Exercised in Express Terms—Construction of Entire Will.—Where the execution by will of a power is not exercised in express terms by reference to the power or the subject, a construction must be given by looking to the whole instrument and giving effect to the intent therein manifested. Johnston v. Knight, 117 N. C. 122, 23 S. E. 92.

Residuary Devise Executes Power, Unless Contrary Intention Shown.—Unless there is something to show a contrary intention on the part of a testator, a general residuary devise will operate as an execution of a power to dispose of property by will. Id.

Where the donee of a power to dispose of property by will to certain persons devises the property to such persons by a residuary clause, without referring to the power, the devise will be considered an intentional and not an accidental exercise of the power. Id.

§ 4168. Gifts to children dying before testator pass to their issue.—When any person, being a child or other issue of the testator, to whom any real or personal estate shall be devised or bequeathed for any estate or interest not determinable at or before the death of such person, shall die in the lifetime of the testator, leaving issue, and any such issue of such person shall be living at the death of the testator, such devise or bequest shall not lapse, but shall take effect and vest a title to such estate in the issue surviving, if there be any, in the same manner, proportions and estates as if the death of such person had happened immediately after the death of the testator, unless a contrary intention shall appear by the will. (Rev., s. 3144; Code, s. 2144; 1868-9, c. 113, s. 61.)

Former Law.—Prior to the year 1816, the law was such that if a devise or bequest were made by a testator to his child, and such child died in his lifetime, leaving issue, the devise or legacy would lapse and fall into the residuum, if there were any residuary clause in the will; or, if there were none, would be intestate property, and descend to the heirs-at-law, or be distributed among the next of kin of the testator, according to the nature of the property. Smith v. Smith, 58 N. C. 305, 307.

Section Not Intended for Benefit of Deceased Creditor's.—This section giving the legacy intended for a deceased child, to his or her children, where the parent died in the life time of the testator, was held not to be intended for the benefit of the creditors of such deceased parent. Smith v. Smith, 58 N. C. 305.

Where Motive of Devise was Dependent upon Devisee's Surviving Testator.—Where it appeared that the sole motive with a testator, for leaving the greater part of his estate to a son, was, that the latter should live with him and help him pay his debts, and also treat his parents with "humanity and kindness," and such son died in the lifetime of the testator, it was held, that the devise lapsed and that the son's interest in the condition was not "real or personal estate" within the meaning of this section, which gives such estate to the issue of a son dying under such circumstances. Lefler v. Rowland, 62 N. C. 143.

Legatee Not in Existence at Time of Bequest—Section Not Applicable.—This section was intended to apply to a lapsed, and not a void, legacy, and where the legacy is void by reason of the fact that the legatee was not in existence at the time the will was made, his (legatee's) children do not take anything under the will. Scales v. Scales, 59 N. C. 163, 166.

Devise to Brother—Right of Brother's Child.—A devise to a brother who dies before the testator does not come within the provisions of this section as to "a child or other issue of the testator" and lapses by reason of his prior death to that of the testator. Howell v. Mehegan, 174 N. C. 64, 93 S. E. 438. To the same effect see Gordon v. Pendleton, 84 N. C. 98. It is believed that this holding would not be true under the amendment of section 4166 by the laws of 1919, c. 28, if at the time of the testator's death his brother, had he not died, would have been an heir or distributee at law of the testator. In such event the devisee to the brother would not lapse, but would go to the brother's issue if such issue survived his parent and the testator.—Ed. Note.

§ 4169. After-born children share in testator's estate.—Children born after the making of the parent's will, and whose parent shall die without making any provision for them, shall be entitled to such share and proportion of the parent's estate as if he or she had died intestate, and the rights of any such after-born child shall be a lien on every part of the parent's estate, until his several share thereof is set apart in the manner prescribed in this chapter. (Rev., s. 3145; Code, s. 2145; 1868-9, c. 113, s. 62.)

See 12 N. C. Law Rev., 402, for note on "Inheritance by Child Adopted after Execution of Adopting Parent's Will."

Common Law and Civil Law Rules.—At common law, the subsequent birth of a child did not work a revocation of the parent's will; but the civil law adopted and applied a different rule, which apparently was based upon the presumed oversight or inadvertence of the parent in providing for an existing or a contingent situation. It has been suggested that the object of the law is to secure the moral influence of having before the mind of the testator a contingent event so momentous as the birth of a child. Ellis v. Darden, 11 L. R. A. (Ga.), 51; Christian v. Carter, 193 N. C. 537, 137 S. E. 596.

Section Not Intended to Direct a Parent to Make Provision for Child.—This section is construed as not intending to control a parent as to the provision he should make for his child, but to apply when by inadvertence or mistake the after-born child has not been provided for. Unless the omission was intentional, or provision is made for the child, either under the will or some settlement or provision ultra, the after-born child takes his share, and the statute applies whether there was one or more children. Flanner v. Flanner, 160 N. C. 126, 75 S. E. 936.

"Without Making Any Provision" Construed.—The true meaning of the section has been held in Meares v. Meares, 26 N. C. 192, and King v. Davis, 91 N. C. at pp. 142, 147, to be that "without making any provision" is not intended to be construed to mean that there must be a gift of certain property or thing for the children, for that would be merely adopting the popular misconception of "cutting one off with a shilling," but that "without making any provision" means any arrangement or circumstances tending to show that the testator had these children in mind when the will was made and without any indication that it was his purpose to disinherit them. Thomason v. Julian, 133 N. C. 309, 310, 45 S. E. 636.

Express Exclusion of Children Tantamount to Making Provision.—A will expressly excluding the children of the testator born after the execution thereof "makes a provision for them" within the meaning of this section and such children do not share in the estate as though the testator had died intestate. Thomason v. Julian, 133 N. C. 309, 45 S. E. 636.

Inadequacy of Provision Immaterial.—If any provision is made for an after-born child, the court cannot say that it is inadequate. The statute only applies when no provision at all has been made. King v. Davis, 91 N. C. 142.

Knowledge of Testator as to Child En Ventre Sa Mere Immaterial.—The beneficent provisions of this section are not affected by the presumptive knowledge of the father, from the condition of his wife, that at the time he made the will he must have anticipated the birth, but upon the fact that the child was born thereafter. Christian v. Carter, 193 N. C. 537, 137 S. E. 596.

It is the subsequent birth, not the father's knowledge, which effects the partial revocation. Id.

Under Section 1654 and This Section Child Will Inherit

Land Subjected to Dower.—A child for whom no provision was made, will, under the rule of descent, section 1654, and under this section, inherit the real estate of which his father dies seized, subjected to the dower of the widow, his mother. Nicholson v. Nicholson, 190 N. C. 122, 129 S. E. 148.

Under this section where there is a devise to a wife "to do with as she thinks best for herself and the children," and a child is born two months after the testator's death, such child is not entitled to a share in the estate but is provided for as one of "the children" under the will in view of rule 7, § 1654. Rowls v. Durham Realty, etc., Co., 189 N. C. 368, 127 S. E. 254.

Not Applicable to Adopted Children—Illegitimate Children.—This section applies only to natural born children of the testator, and does not apply to adopted children. Sorrell v. Sorrell, 193 N. C. 439, 137 S. E. 306. Illegitimate children subsequently adopted, however, fall within the class of natural children. King v. Davis, 91 N. C. 142.

Entire Will is Not Revoked.—While afterborn children not provided for in the will of their deceased parent may claim by inheritance their part of the estate, under this section, it does not amount to revocation of the entire will. Fawcett v. Fawcett, 191 N. C. 679, 132 S. E. 796.

Cited in Trust Co. v. Lenz, 196 N. C. 398, 145 S. E. 776.

§ 4170. Administrator c. t. a. must observe will.—In all cases where letters of administration with the will annexed are granted, the will of the testator must be observed and performed by the administrator with the will annexed, both in respect to real and personal property, and an administrator with the will annexed has all the rights and powers, and is subject to the same duties, as if he had been named executor in the will. (Rev., s. 3146; Code, s. 2168; C. C. P., s. 455.)

Administration, d. b. n., c. t. a., Not on Same Footing with Executor in All Respects.—The administrator de bonis non, cum testamento annexo, although clothed with the power, and required to execute the will, according to its legal effect as if he were executor, does not stand upon the same footing in all respects with an executor. He derives his authority, not from the will simply, but from the statute (this section) and he would not be treated as an executor in another state, nor would he have the power to sue there as administrator, because his authority is conferred by the law, and not by the will. Grant v. Reese, 94 N. C. 720, 730.

Duties and Liability of Administrator, c. t. a.—Ancillary Administration.—Where a testator died domiciled in this State, leaving debts due by parties in Virginia, the administrator de bonis non, cum testamento annexo, and the sureties on the bond, are not liable for a failure to return such notes on the inventory in this State and collect the same, when there is administration on the estate in Virginia. Grant v. Reese, 94 N. C. 720.

Personal Powers in Executor Extinct upon His Death.—Where the powers conferred upon the executor by the will are personal to and discretionary with the executor, and become extinct at his death they can not be judicially prolonged and vested either in the administrator c. t. a., nor in a substituted trustee. Young v. Young, 97 N. C. 132, 2 S. E. 78; Lewin on Trusts, 435; Creech v. Grainger, 106 N. C. 213, 219, 10 S. E. 1032.

Under a will directing the executor therein named to continue testator's business as long as the executor should think it profitable, and such of the profits as the executor might think actually necessary for the support of testator's wife and children to be paid to the wife; also, to invest six thousand dollars, bequeathed by testator to his children, and apply the interest, annually, to the education of the children; also, to have entire control of testator's business, to continue or discontinue in all, or any department of it, at any time he might find it not yielding a reasonable profit, and out of the profits pay to testator's wife, from time to time, such amounts as he might consider actually necessary for her support and the support of the children. It was held that upon the death of the executor and the appointment of an administrator d. b. n. c. t. a. the trust in respect to the investment of six thousand dollars, for the education of testator's children, passed to the administrator; the other trusts were personal to and discretionary with the executor, and became extinct at his death. Creech v. Grainger, 106 N. C. 213, 10 S. E. 1032.

Administrator c. t. a. as Trustee.—An administrator, with the will annexed, becomes a trustee for any trusts declared in the will which could pass and be transferred to any one, as much as if he had been named executor. Creech v. Grainger, 106 N. C. 213, 10 S. E. 1032.

Same—Recovery of Lands Held in Trust.—An administrator cum testamento annexo has all the rights and powers and is subject to the same duties as if he had been named as executor; therefore, where an executor was charged with the management of land, which implied the right of possession until the trust should be fully carried out, upon his death and the appointment of an administrator de bonis non, cum testamento annexo, the latter became entitled to the possession of the land, and can recover the same from those withholding it. Smathers v. Moody, 112 N. C. 791, 17 S. E. 532.

CHAPTER 82

CRIMES AND PUNISHMENTS

SUBCHAPTER 1. GENERAL PROVISIONS

Art. 1. Felonies and Misdemeanors

§ 4171. Felonies and misdemeanors defined.—A felony is a crime which is or may be punishable by either death or imprisonment in the state's prison. Any other crime is a misdemeanor. (Rev., s. 3291; 1891, c. 205, s. 1.)

Common Law Provisions.—Up to the time this section was passed the somewhat arbitrary common-law rule was followed as to what crimes were felonies, and what were misdemeanors and under that, conspiracy, and even such grave crimes as perjury and forgery, were misdemeanors. State v. Mallett, 125 N. C. 718, 723, 34 S. E. 651; State v. Holder, 153 N. C. 606, 608, 69 S. E. 66. See State v. Hill, 91 N. C. 561.

Purpose of Section.—This section was for the purpose of settling the line between felonies and misdemeanors; but this did not prevent misdemeanors from including cases where the offense was infamous, for section 4173, specially provides for imprisonment in the county jail or State's Prison on conviction of misdemeanor "if the offense be infamous." Jones v. Brinkley, 174 N. C. 23, 24, 93 S. E. 372. See Editor's Note to section 4173.

Section Constitutional.—This section is held to be constitutional in State v. Lytle, 138 N. C. 738, 744, 51 S. E. 66

Punishment Determines Classification of Offenses.—By this section, North Carolina adopted the rule, now almost universally prevalent, by which the nature of the punishment determines the classification of offenses, those which may be punished capitally or by imprisonment in the penitentiary are felonies (as to which there is no statute of limitations), and all others are misdemeanors, as to which prosecutions in this State are barred by two years. State v. Mallett, 125 N. C. 718, 723, 34 S. E. 651; as to statute of limitations for misdemeanors, see section 4512.

The measure of punishment is the test of the nature of a crime, whether felony or misdemeanor. State v. Hyman, 164 N. C. 411, 414, 79 S. E. 284; Jones v. Brinkley, 174 N. C. 23, 24, 93 S. E. 372.

It should be noted that there are exceptions to this general rule. The legislature has the power to style any offence a misdemeanor, notwithstanding it is punishable in the state's prison. Examples of this appear in sections 2456, 4417, 4419 and 6545 where the offenses are specifically declared to be misdemeanors although they are punishable in the State's Prison. See State v. Holder, 153 N. C. 606, 608, 609, 69 S. E. 66. See also Editor's Note under section 4173.—Ed. Note.

Offence Need Not Be Specified.—It is not necessary to prescribe that an act is a misdemeanor or felony, as the punishment affixed determines that. State v. Lewis, 142 N. C. 626, 630, 55 S. E. 600.

Indictment Must Use Word "Feloniously."—Since all criminal offenses punishable with death or imprisonment in a State prison were by this section declared felonies, indictments wherein there has been a failure to use the word "feloniously," as characterizing the charge in the latter class of cases, have been declared fatally defective. State v. Wilson, 116 N. C. 979, 21 S. E. 692; State v. Skidmore, 109 N. C. 795, 14 S. E. 63; State v. Shaw, 117 N. C. 764, 23 S. E. 246; State v. Bryan, 112 N. C. 848, 16 S. E. 909; State v. Caldwell, 112 N. C. 854, 16 S. E. 1010; State v. Holder, 153 N. C. 606, 608, 69 S. E. 66. But this principle does not hold good where the Legislature otherwise expressly provides.

In section 4615 the legislative has prescribed a form of indictment for perjury (which is by section 4364 a felony) and left out the word "feloniously." And in State v. Harris, 145 N. C. 456, 59 S. E. 115 the court held that in the case of perjury it was unnecessary that the word appear. See State v. Holder, supra, at page 609.—Ed. Note.

Same—New Bill Obtained.—But the bill should not be quashed, the defendant should be held until a new bill is obtained. State v. Skidmore, 109 N. C. 795, 14 S. E. 63.

Penitentiary Unknown to Common Law.—The penitentiary, being a modern device, unknown to the common law, punishment in the penitentiary could not be imposed by the common law. State v. McNeill, 75 N. C. 15, 16.

The use of the word "penitentiary," in prescribing the punishment for one convicted under a criminal statute, has the same legal significance as the words "State's Prison," both meaning the place of punishment in which convicts sentenced to imprisonment and hard labor are confined by the authority of law. State v. Burnett, 184 N. C. 783, 115 S. E. 57.

Concurrence of General and Local Laws. — Our general prohibition statutes, prohibiting the manufacture or sale of intoxicating liquors, expressly provide that they shall not have the effect of repealing local or special statutes upon the subject, but they shall continue in full force and in concurrence with the general law except where otherwise provided by law; and where the local law applicable makes the offense a misdemeanor, punishable by imprisonment, in the county jail or penitentiary not exceeding two years, etc., the person convicted thereunder is guilty of a felony, by this section, and the two-year statute of limitations is not a bar to the prosecution. State v. Burnett, 184 N. C. 783, 115 S. E. 57.

Thus in the case of a public local law the fact that the offense is declared a misdemeanor does not govern where the punishment prescribed is confinement in the state prison. In such cases by this section the offense is a felony. See above catchline "Punishment Determines Classification of Offense."—Ed. Note.

§ 4172. Punishment of felonies.—Every person who shall be convicted of any felony for which no specific punishment is prescribed by statute shall be imprisoned in the county jail or state prison not exceeding two years, or be fined, in the discretion of the court, or if the offense be infamous, the person offending shall be imprisoned in the county jail or state prison not less than four months nor more than ten years, or be fined. (Rev., s. 3292; Code, s. 1096; R. C., c. 34, s. 27.)

In General.—It is only felonies where no specific punishment is prescribed, and offenses that are infamous, or done in secrecy and malice, or with deceit and intent to defraud, that may be punished with imprisonment in the penitentiary. State v. Powell, 94 N. C. 920, 921, 924. See Editor's Note under next section.

Where Section Applies.—This section applies only where an act is prohibited or is made unlawful, without specifying the nature of punishment. State v. Rippy, 127 N. C. 516, 517, 37 S. E. 148.

The felony defined in section 4209 is not one "for which no specific punishment is prescribed," within this section. The punishment is expressly left to the discretion of the court, which takes the case out of this section. State v. Swindell, 189 N. C. 151, 126 S. E. 417. See further under next section, catchline "Meaning of Specific Punishment."

Cited in State v. Ritter, 199 N. C. 116, 119, 154 S. E. 62.

§ 4173. Punishment of misdemeanors.—All misdemeanors, where a specific punishment is not prescribed shall be punished as misdemeanors at common law; but if the offense be infamous, or done in secrecy and malice, or with deceit and intent to defraud, the offender shall be punished by imprisonment in the county jail or state prison for not less than four months nor more than ten years, or shall be fined. (Rev., s. 3293; Code. s. 1097; R. C., c. 34, s. 120; 1927, c. 1.)

As to statute of limitations for misdemeanors, see section 4512.

See § 4283 as to uttering a worthless check.

Editor's Note.—The Act of 1927 amended this section by inserting the words "or state prison." The effect of this amendment is to make misdemeanors, where no specific punishment is prescribed and which are "infamous or done in secrecy and malice or with deceit and intent to defraud," punishable in the state prison.

"Interpreting, then, this addition to § 4173, in connection with § 4171, it makes the particular offense in the instant case, having been done in secrecy and malice, distinctly a felony. That section is not defining offences, but providing punishment for them and it, therefore, sets aside, as the necessary effect of the amendment, the offenses in the latter clause as felonies, to be punished by imprisonment in the State's prison. Consequently, properly interpreted, this amendment of 1927 creates a conspiracy formed in secrecy and in malice, a felony, which, using the words in § 4171, may be punishable by imprisonment in State's prison." State v. Ritter, 199 N. C. 116, 120, 164 S. E. 62.

The grade or class of a crime is determined by the punishment prescribed therefor and not the nomenclature of the statute, a felony being a crime punishable by death or imprisonment in the State prison, and while all misdemeanors for which no punishment is prescribed are punishable as misdemeanors at common law, where the offense is infamous, or done in secrecy or malice, or with deceit and intent to defraud, it is punishable by imprisonment in the county jail or State prison, under this section, and is a felony. State v. Harwood, 206 N. C. 87, 173 S. E. 24.

When Section Applies.—This section applies only where an act is prohibited or is made unlawful, without specifying the nature of the punishment. State v. Rippy, 127 N. C. 516, 517, 37 S. E. 148.

If a statute prohibits a matter of public grievance, or commands a matter of public convenience, all acts or omissions contrary to the prohibition or command of the statute are misdemeanors at common law, and punishable by indictment, if the statute specifies no other mode of proceeding. State v. Bloodworth, 94 N. C. 918, 920.

Meaning of Specific Punishment.—It can not be said that all the crimes in the Code fall within the scope of this and the preceding sections, because "no specific punishment" is prescribed. The punishment is specific (i. e., specified as fine, or imprisonment in jail or in State's Prison), though the extent of the specified punishment is left in the discretion of the court, or in its discretion not exceeding a limit stated. State v. Rippy, 127 N. C. 516, 517, 37 S. E. 148.

Same—Assault Not Punishable under Section.—Under the ruling in State v. Rippy, 127 N. C. 516, 37 S. E. 148, section 4215, bearing directly on the case of assaults, with or without intent to kill, making provision for punishment of such offenses, is to be regarded as specific, within the meaning of this section, and entirely withdraws the case of assault from the operation if this section. State v. Smith, 174 N. C. 804, 806, 93 S. E. 910.

Common Law Punishment.—Misdemeanors made punishable as at common law, or punishable by fine or imprisonment, or both, can be punished by fine, or imprisonment in the county jail, or both. State v. McNeill, 75 N. C. 15; State v. Powell, 94 N. C. 920, 923.

Fornication and Adultery.—Persons convicted of fornication and adultery may be imprisoned in the common jail for a period to be fixed in the discretion of the court. State v. Manly, 95 N. C. 661.

Conspiracy to Charge with Infanticide.—A conspiracy to charge one with infanticide, being only a common-law misdemeanor, is not punishable by imprisonment in the penitentiary. State v. Jackson, 82 N. C. 565.

Receiving Stolen Goods.—Although the offense of receiving stolen goods is declared to be a misdemeanor by section 4250, the same section authorizes the court to punish the offense in the same manner as larceny is punished; that is, confinement in the State's prison or county jail for not less than four months, nor more than ten years. State v. Brite, 73 N. C. 26.

What Amounts to Confession of Felony.—A plea of guilty to an indictment charging defendant with wilfully, feloniously, secretly, and maliciously giving aid and assistance to his codefendant by manufacturing evidence, altering and destroying original records in the office of the Commissioner of Revenue, is a confession of a felony under this section, although § 4255 designates such offense as a misdemeanor. State v. Harwood, 206 N. C. 87, 173 S. E. 24.

Discretion of Trial Judge.—Where the extent of the punishment is referred to the discretion of the trial judge, his sentence may not be interfered with by the appellate court, except in case of manifest and gross abuse. State v. Smith, 174 N. C. 804, 807, 93 S. E. 910; State v. Willer, 94 N. C. 904.

Excessive Punishment. — The word "or," in criminal statutes, cannot be interpreted to mean "and," when the effect is to aggravate the offense or increase the punishment. And so where a statute provides that a party guilty of the offense created by it shall be fined or imprisoned, the court has no power to both fine and imprison. State v. Walters, 97 N. C. 489, 2 S. E. 539.

Same—Example. — A sentence of imprisonment for five years in the county jail and a recognizance of $500 to keep the peace for five years after the expiration thereof upon a defendant convicted of assault and battery, is excessive and therefore unconstitutional. State v. Driver, 78 N. C. 423.

Same—Two Years Not Cruel or Unusual.—It is well settled that when no time is fixed by the statute, an imprisonment for two years will not be held cruel and unusual. State v. Driver, 78 N. C. 423; State v. Miller, 94 N. C. 904. State v. Farrington, 141 N. C. 844, 845, 53 S. E. 954.

Effect of Consent of Defendant.—No consent of the defendant can confer a jurisdiction which is denied to the court by the law, and any punishment imposed, other than that prescribed for the offense, is illegal. In re Schenck, 74 N. C. 607, 608.

Where Common Law Offense Altered by Statute.—Where the grade of a common law offense has been made higher by statute, the indictment must conclude against the statute, but when the punishment has been mitigated, it may conclude at common law. State v. Lawrence, 81 N. C. 522, 523.

Where Statute Repealed before Judgment. — Where a statute prescribing the punishment for a crime is expressly and unqualifiedly repealed after such crime has been committed, but before final judgment, though after conviction, no punishment can be imposed. State v. Perkins, 141 N. C. 797, 53 S. E. 735; State v. Cress, 49 N. C. 421; State v. Nutt, 61 N. C. 20; State v. Long, 78 N. C. 571; State v. Massey, 103 N. C. 356, 9 S. E. 632; State v. Biggers, 108 N. C. 760, 12 S. E. 1024.

§ 4174. Violation of town ordinance misdemeanor; punishment.—If any person shall violate an ordinance of a city or town, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be fined not exceeding fifty dollars, or imprisoned not exceeding thirty days. (Rev., s. 3702; Code, s. 3820; 1871-2, c. 195, s. 2.)

As to valid and invalid ordinances. see 2673.

In General.—While the town or city government has no right to make criminal law, the Legislature has made the violation of ordinances a criminal offense. State v. Higgs, 126 N. C. 1014, 35 S. E. 473; Board v. Henderson, 126 N. C. 689, 691, 36 S. E. 158.

Prior to Section Violation Not Punishable.—Prior to the passage of this section there was no way provided for the enforcement of obedience to town ordinances; a violation of such ordinances was not a misdemeanor. State v. Parker, 75 N. C. 249; School Directors v. Asheville, 137 N. C. 503, 509, 50 S. E. 279.

Jurisdiction.—The mayor, or other chief officer of towns or cities, has jurisdiction of offenses under this section. State v. Cainan, 94 N. C. 880; State v. Wood, 94 N. C. 855; State v. Smith, 103 N. C. 403, 405, 9 S. E. 435.

Same—Concurrent with Justice.—A justice of the peace has concurrent jurisdiction with the mayor of a city or town, of violation ordinances, which are made misdemeanors. State v. Cainan, 94 N. C. 880.

Same—Superior Court Excluded.—The superior court has no original jurisdiction to try indictments for violation of town ordinances. State v. White, 76 N. C. 15; State v. Threadgill, 76 N. C. 17.

Ordinance Must Conform to State Law. — It is uniformly held that a town ordinance in violation of a valid state statute appertaining to the question is void. Board v. Webb, 155 N. C. 379; State v. Beacham, 125 N. C. 652, 34 S. E. 447; Shaw v. Kennedy, 4 N. C. 591; State v. Austin, 114 N. C. 855, 858, 19 S. E. 919; State v. Prevo, 178 N. C. 740, 743, 101 S. E. 370.

Violation of Invalid Ordinance No Offense.—The violation of a valid ordinance is, under the provision of this section, a misdemeanor, but it is not a criminal offense to disregard one enacted without authority. State v. Hunter, 106 N. C. 796, 11 S. E. 366; State v. Webber, 107 N. C. 962, 967, 12 S. E. 598.

Failure to Prescribe Penalty.—The violation of a valid town ordinance is made a misdemeanor by this section, and the defense that the ordinance did not prescribe a penalty therefor, is untenable. State v. Razook, 179 N. C. 708, 103 S. E. 67.

Where Fine Provided It Must Be Certain.—An ordinance which imposes a fine is invalid if it is not certain as to the amount of the fine. State v. Irvin, 126 N. C. 989, 996, 35 S. E. 430.

Provision in Ordinance for Arrest Void.—When a municipal ordinance imposed a penalty for its violation, and provided that the offender should be "arrested and fined twenty-five dollars upon conviction thereof." It was Held, that so much of the ordiance as provided for the arrest was void, but the other provisions were valid. State v. Earhardt, 107 N. C. 789, 12 S. E. 426.

Personal Notice to Offender Sufficient.—The requirement of the charter of a city or town that its ordinances shall be printed and published, is to bring it to the attention of the public, and where personal notice has been given to an offender thereunder who afterwards commits the offense prohibited, the requirement of publication, etc., is not necessary for a conviction. State v. Razook, 179 N. C. 708, 103 S. E. 67.

State Must Show Violation of Valid Ordinance.—Upon the prosecution of a criminal action for the violation of a city ordinance, under this section the State must show that the ordinance in question was a valid one, as well as the violation as charged in the warrant. State v. Prevo, 178 N. C. 740, 101 S. E. 370; State v. Snipes, 161 N. C. 242, 76 S. E. 243; State v. Hunter, 106 N. C. 796, 11 S. E. 366.

And where the state fails to show that the original act of incorporation authorized the enactment of an ordinance, it fails to make out the case, for the legislature never intended to make the violation of a void ordinance an indictable misdemeanor. State v. Threadgill, 76 N. C. 17, 19.

Defects in Warrant May Be Waived.—Ordinarily defects in the form of a warrant for violating a city ordinance may be waived, and usually it is so considered when a plea of not guilty is entered by the defendants. State v. Prevo, 178 N. C. 740, 101 S. E. 370.

Form of Indictment.—It is not necessary, in indictments for violations of city ordinances, to set out the ordinance in the warrant. It is sufficient to refer to it by such indicia, as point it out with sufficient certainty. State v. Cainan, 94 N. C. 880; State v. Merritt, 83 N. C. 677, 679.

In an indictment under an ordinance for loud and boisterous swearing, it is not necessary to set out the words used by the defendant. State v. Cainan, 94 N. C. 880.

No Removal under Section 1498.—In a prosecution for violation of a town ordinance before a mayor, the defendant is not entitled to a removal, under section 1498. State v. Joyner, 127 N. C. 541, 37 S. E. 201.

Costs of Prosecutions under Section.—Whether the criminal offenses created by the violation of town ordinances under this section, are tried before the mayor, or before a Justice of the Peace, they are State prosecutions, in the name of the State, or for violation of the criminal law of the State, and at the expense of the State (State v. Higgs, 126 N. C. 1014, 35 S. E. 473), and the city can not be charged with the costs of such prosecutions. Board v. Henderson, 126 N. C. 689, 692, 36 S. E. 158.

Conviction for Fighting No Bar to Prosecution for Assault.—A conviction of violating a city ordinance punishing the disturbance of the good order and quiet of the town by fighting is not a bar to a prosecution by the State for an assault. State v. Taylor, 133 N. C. 755, 46 S. E. 5.

Art. 2. Principals and Accessories

§ 4175. Accessories before the fact; trial and punishment.—If any person shall counsel, procure or command any other person to commit any felony, whether the same be a felony at common law or by virtue of any statute, the person so counseling, procuring or commanding shall be guilty of a felony, and may be indicted and convicted either as an accessory before the fact to the principal felony, together with the principal felon, or after the conviction of the principal felon; or he may be indicted and convicted of a substantive felony, whether the principal felon shall or shall not have been previously convicted, or shall or shall not be amendable to justice, and may be punished in the same manner as any accessory before the fact to the same felony, if convicted as an accessory, may be punished. The offense of the person so counseling, procuring or commanding, howsoever indicted, may be inquired of, tried, determined and punished by any court which shall have jurisdiction to try the principal felon, in the same manner as if such offense had been committed at the same place as the principal felony or where the principal felony is triable, although such offense may have been committed at any place within or without the limits of the state. In case the principal felony shall have been committed within the body of any county, and the offense of counseling, procuring or commanding shall have been committed within the body of any other county, the last mentioned offense may be inquired of, tried, determined, and punished in either of such counties: Provided, that no person who shall be once duly tried for any such offense, whether as an accessory before the fact or as for a substantive felony, shall be liable to be again indicted or tried for the same offense. (Rev., s. 3287; Code, s. 977; R. C., c. 34, s. 53; 1797, c. 485, s. 1; 1852, c. 58.)

For further cases concerning accessories see under "Criminal Law" in 4 N. C. Enc. Dig. 36-38; 13 N. C. Enc. Dig. 582-583.

In General.—It is a well established principle, that where two agree to do an unlawful act, each is responsible for the act of the other, provided it be done in pursuance of the original understanding, or in furtherance of the common purpose. State v. Simmons, 51 N. C. 21, 24.

Common Law Provision.—At common law an accessory before the fact could only be convicted when tried at the same time with the principal, and after conviction of the principal, or unless the principal had been before tried, convicted and sentenced. State v. Duncan, 28 N. C. 98; State v. Jones, 101 N. C. 719, 721, 8 S. E. 147.

But the rule that an accessory could not be tried and convicted before the principal had no application as between two principals in first and second degrees. State v. Jarrell, 141 N. C. 722, 53 S. E. 137.

"Accessory before Fact" Is a Substantive Felony. — This section made the facts which formerly had been called "accessory before the fact" the substantive felony (whether in murder or any other felony). State v. Bryson, 173 N. C. 803, 807, 92 S. E. 698.

Prior Conviction of Principals Unnecessary.—Under the provisions of this section it is not required that the principals be first convicted of the charge of murder to convict the accessories thereto, either before or after the fact, upon sufficient evidence. State v. Walton, 186 N. C. 485, 119 S. E. 886; State v. Jones, 101 N. C. 719, 722, 8 S. E. 147.

One indicted as accessory before the fact can not complain that his cause was tried before that of the alleged principal, and before the alleged principal had even been called on to plead. State v. Reid, 178 N. C. 745, 101 S. E. 104.

Same—What Indictment Must Aver.—Where the principal felon is not amenable to the process of the law, it is necessary to aver that in the indictment. State v. Ives, 35 N. C. 338, 339; State v. Groff, 5 N. C. 270.

Who Are Principals.—All who are present, either actually or constructively, at the place of a crime, and are either aiding, abetting, assisting, or advising its commission, or are present for such purpose, are principals in the crime. State v. Gaston, 73 N. C. 93; State v. Jarrell, 141 N. C. 722, 53 S. E. 127.

Same—Second Degree.—Persons present assisting in doing a criminal act are principals in the second degree, not accessories. State v. Rowland Lumber Co., 153 N. C. 610, 69 S. E. 58; State v. Skeen, 182 N. C. 844, 109 S. E. 71.

In Misdemeanors All Are Principals.—In a misdemeanor all aiders, abettors, and accessories, whether before or after the fact, are principals. State v. Rowland Lumber Co., 153 N. C. 610, 69 S. E. 58; State v. Barden, 12 N. C. 518; State v. Cheek, 35 N. C. 114; State v. De Boy, 117 N. C. 702, 23 S. E. 167; State v. Grier, 184 N. C. 723, 114 S. E. 622. For an example of "first degree" and "second degree" in misdemeanors see section 4361.

Accessory Tried as Principal.—An accessory before the fact can be tried and convicted as principal, under this section. State v. Bryson, 173 N. C. 803, 806, 92 S. E. 698.

One Charged with Murder May Be Convicted as Accessory.—Under section 4640 the charge of the principal crime includes the crime of accessory before the fact and hence one charged with murder may be convicted as accessory before the fact. State v. Bryson, 173 N. C. 803, 92 S. E. 698, overruling on this point. State v. Dewer, 65 N. C 572. See also State v. Simons, 179 N. C. 700, 103 S. E. 5.

Principal in Assault Cannot Be Convicted as Accessory.—A defendant charged as principal in an indictment for an assault with intent to kill can not be convicted as accessory. State v. Green, 119 N. C. 899, 26 S. E. 112.

No Conviction of Accessory Where Principal Acquitted.—This section does not change the common law rule that an acquittal of the principal is an acquittal of the accessory. State v. Jones, 101 N. C. 719, 8 S. E. 147.

Effect of Acquittal of One of Several Principals.—Where there are three charged as principals with murder, the acquittal of one of them, the others having fled the jurisdiction of the court, does not of itself acquit the prisoners on trial as accessories before or after the fact, when the evidence of their guilt of the offense charged is sufficient both as to them as accessories and the principals directly charged with the murder. State v. Walton, 186 N. C. 485, 119 S. E. 886.

Accessory Tried by Special Veniremen.—Where two persons are indicted for murder, one as principal and the other as accessory before the fact, the latter may be tried by a jury selected from a special venire ordered in the case. State v. Register, 133 N. C. 746, 46 S. E. 21.

What Constitutes Counseling, Procuring and Commanding.—At a meeting of a board of commissioners of a town, at which the mayor presided, a report of the cemetery committee was adopted, recommending that, unless parties, who had taken lots in the town cemetery and had not paid for them, should pay the amount due within sixty days on notice, the bodies buried in such lots should be removed to the free part of such cemetery. And, in reply to a question of one of the commissioners as to the legal right to remove the bodies, the mayor said: "The way is open, go ahead and remove them." It was held, that the mayor was individually guilty of counseling, procuring and commanding an act within the meaning of this section, the committing of which afterwards was a felony. State v. McLean, 121 N. C. 589, 28 S. E. 140.

The meaning of the word "command," as applied to the case of principal and accessory, is, where a person, having a control over another, as a master over his servant, orders a thing to be done. State v. Mann, 2 N. C. 4.

One Present Not Bound to Interfere.—One who is present, and sees that a felony is about to be committed, and does in no manner interfere, does not thereby participate in the felony committed. State v. Hildreth, 31 N. C. 440.

Evidence Admissible.—The record of the conviction of a principal felon is admissible on the trial of the accessory, and is conclusive evidence of the conviction of the principal, and prima facie evidence of his guilt. State v. Chittem, 13 N. C. 49.

But the conviction of the principal is not admissible evidence until judgment has been rendered on the verdict. State v. Duncan, 28 N. C. 98.

Same—Sufficient for Conviction.—Testimony that the accused had asked the one convicted of the murder of her husband to kill him, and that he accomplished the act the morning afterwards, at the place she designated, is sufficient for a conviction of murder, as an accessory before the fact. State v. Jones, 176 N. C. 702, 97 S. E. 32.

Cited in State v. Ferrell, 205 N. C. 640, 172 S. E. 186; State v. Kluttz, 206 N. C. 726, 175 S. E. 81.

§ 4176. Punishment of accessories before the fact.—Any person who shall be convicted as an accessory before the fact in either of the crimes of murder, arson, burglary or rape shall be imprisoned for life in the state's prison. An accessory before the fact to the stealing of any horse, mare, gelding or mule, on being duly convicted thereof, shall be imprisoned in the state's prison for not less than five nor more than twenty years, in the discretion of the court. Every accessory before the fact in any other felony shall be punished be imprisonment in the state prison or county jail for not more than ten years, or may be fined in the discretion of the court. (Rev., s. 3290; Code, s. 980; 1868-9, c. 31, s. 2; 1874-5, c. 212.)

Life Sentence for Accessory to Murder Valid.—Upon conviction of murder in the second degree, and sentence to twenty years in the State's Prison, upon an indictment for murder, when it appears from the evidence that the accused was only an accessory, the case will not be remanded to the Superior Court for resentence, as the statute provides a sentence for life. State v. Bryson, 173 N. C. 803, 92 S. E. 698.

Sufficiency of Evidence to Go to Jury.—Evidence that defendant, for the purpose of freeing himself of competition in the illegal sale of intoxicating liquors, procured another to kill deceased by shooting him from ambush while lying in wait, is sufficient to be submitted to the jury in a prosecution as an accessory before the fact to the crime of murder under this section. State v. Mozingo, 207 N. C. 247, 176 S. E. 582.

§ 4177. Accessories after the fact; trial and punishment.—If any person shall become an accessory after the fact to any felony, whether the same be a felony at common law or by virtue of any statute made, or to be made, such person shall be guilty of a felony, and may be indicated and convicted together with the principal felon, or may be indicated and convicted for such felony whether the principal felon shall or shall not have been previously convicted, or shall or shall not be amendable to justice, and shall be punished by imprisonment in the state's prison or county jail for not less than four months nor more than ten years, and may also be fined in the discretion of the court. The offense of such person may be inquired of, tried, determined and punished by any court which shall have jurisdiction of the principal felon, in the same manner as if the act, by reason whereof such person shall have become an accessory, had been committed at the same place as the principal felony, although such act may have been committed without the limits of the state; and in case the principal felony shall have been committed within the body of any county, and the act by reason whereof any person shall have become accessory shall have been committed within the body of any other county, the offense of such person guilty of a felony as aforesaid may be inquired of, tried, determined, and punished in either of said counties: Provided, that no person who shall be once duly tried for such felony shall be again indicated or tried for the same offense. (Rev., s. 3289; Code, s. 978; R. C., c. 34, s. 54; 1797, c 485, s. 1; 1852, c. 58.)

See generally in connection with this section the annotations under section 4175, many of which apply equally to this section.

Receiver of Stolen Goods Not Accessory.—All felonious stealing being now reduced by section 4249 to the grade of petit larceny, a receiver of stolen goods is not an accessory after the fact. State v. Tyler, 85 N. C. 569.

Husband of Accessory Not Competent Witness.—The husband of one charged as an accessory is not a competent witness in favor of the one charged as the principal felon. State v. Ludwick, 61 N. C. 401.

SUBCHAPTER 2. OFFENSES AGAINST THE STATE

Art. 3. Rebellion

§ 4178. Rebellion against the state.—If any person shall incite, set on foot, assist or engage in a rebellion or insurrection against the authority of the state of North Carolina or the laws thereof, or shall give aid or comfort thereto, every person so offending in any of the ways aforesaid shall be guilty of a felony, and, shall be punished by imprisonment in the state's prison for not more than fifteen years and by a fine of not more than ten thousand dollars. (Rev., s. 3437; Code, s. 1106; 1868, c. 60, s. 2; 1861, c. 18; 1866, c. 64; Const., Art. IV, s. 5.)

§ 4179. Conspiring to rebel against the state.—If two or more persons shall conspire together to overthrow or put down, or to destroy by force, the government of North Carolina, or to levy war against the government of the state, or to oppose by force the authority of such government, or by force or threats to intimidate, or to prevent, hinder or delay the execution of any law of the state, or by force or fraud to seize or take possession of any firearms or other property of the state, against the will or contrary to the authority of such state, every person so offending in any of the ways aforesaid shall be guilty of a felony and shall be imprisoned not more than ten years in the state's prison and be fined not exceeding five thousand dollars. (Rev., s. 3438; Code, s. 1107; 1868, c. 60, s. 1.)

In General.—"It is a rule well established that all who engage in a conspiracy, as well those who participate after it is formed as those with whom it originates, are equally liable, and the acts and declarations of each in furtherance of the common illegal design are admissible against all. State v. Dean, 35 N. C. 63; State v. Earwood, 75 N. C. 210." State v. Jackson, 82 N. C. 565, 567.

§ 4180. Secret political and military organizations forbidden.—If any person, for the purpose of compassing or furthering any political object, or aiding the success of any political party or organization, or resisting the laws, shall join or in any way connect or unite himself with any oath-bound secret political or military organization, society or association of whatsoever name or character; or shall form or organize or combine and agree with any person or persons to form or organize any such organization; or as a member of any secret political or military party or organization shall use, or agree to use, any certain signs or grips or passwords, or any disguise of the person or voice, or any disguise whatsoever for the advancement of its object, and shall take or administer any extra-judicial oath or secret solemn pledge, or any like secret means; or if any two or more persons, for the purpose of compassing or furthering any political object, or aiding the success of any political party or organization, or circumventing the laws, shall secretly assemble, combine or agree together, and the more effectually to accomplish such purposes, or any of them, shall use any certain signs, or grips, or passwords, or any disguise of the person or voice, or other disguise whatsoever, or shall take or administer any extra-judicial oath or other secret, solemn pledge; or if any persons shall band together and assemble to muster, drill or practice any military evolutions except by virtue of the authority of an officer recognized by law, or of an instructor in institutions or schools in which such evolutions form a part of the course of instruction; or if any person shall knowingly permit any of the acts and things herein forbidden to be had, done or performed on his premises, or on any premises under his control; or if any person being a member of any such secret political or military organization shall not at once abandon the same and separate himself entirely therefrom, every person so offending shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be fined not less than ten nor more than two hundred dollars, or be imprisoned, or both, at the discretion of the court. (Rev., s. 3439; Code, s. 1095; 1870-1, c. 133; 1868-9, c. 267; 1871-2, c. 143.)

Art. 4. Counterfeiting and Issuing Monetary Substitutes

§ 4181. Counterfeiting coin and uttering coin that is counterfeit.—If any person shall falsely make, forge or counterfeit, or cause or procure to be falsely made, forged or counterfeited, or willingly aid or assist in falsely making, forging or counterfeiting the resemblance or similitude or likeness of a Spanish milled dollar, or any coin of gold or silver which is in common use and received in the discharge of contracts by the citizens of the state; or shall pass, utter, publish or sell, or attempt to pass, utter, publish or sell, or bring into the state from any other place with intent to pass, utter, publish or sell as true, any such false, forged or counterfeited coin, knowing the same to be false, forged or counterfeited with intent to defraud any person whatsoever, every person so offending shall be guilty of a felony, and shall be punished by imprisonment in the state's prison or county jail for not less than four months nor more than ten years. (Rev., s. 3422; Code, s. 1035; R. C., c. 34, s. 64; 1811, c. 814, s. 3.)

§ 4182. Possessing tools for counterfeiting.—If any person shall have in his possession any instrument for the purpose of making any counterfeit similitude or likeness of a Spanish milled dollar, or other coin made of gold or silver which is in common use and received in discharge of contracts by the citizens of the state, and shall be duly convicted thereof, the person so offending shall be imprisoned in the state's prison or county jail not less than four months nor more than ten years, or be fined not more than five hundred dollars. (Rev., s. 3423; Code, s. 1036; R. C., c. 34, s. 65; 1811, c. 814, s. 4.)

As to forgery in general, see sections 4293 et seq. and notes.

Indictment Sufficient.—An indictment charging defendant with having in his possession "one pair of dies, upon which were made the likeness, similitude, figure and resemblance of the sides of a lawful Spanish milled silver dollar, etc., for the purpose of making and counterfeiting money in the likeness and similitude of Spanish milled silver dollars," was held to charge, with sufficient certainty, the offence designated in this section. State v. Collins, 10 N. C. 191.

§ 4183. Issuing substitutes for money without authority.—If any person or corporation, unless the same be expressly allowed by law, shall issue any bill, due bill, order, ticket, certificate or deposit, promissory note or obligation, or any other kind of security, whatever may be its form or name, with the intent that the same shall circulate or pass as the representative of, or as a substitute for, money, he shall forfeit and pay for each offense the sum of fifty dollars; and if the offender be a corporation, it shall in addition forfeit its charter. Every person or corporation offending against this section, or aiding or assisting therein, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. (Rev., s. 3711; Code, s. 2493; 1895, c. 127; R. C., c. 36, s. 5.)

Editor's Note.—In State v. Humphreys, 19 N. C. 555, the act of 1816, ch. 900, which was very similar to this section is discussed. It is there held that the act is constitutional and that the intent in so issuing the notes, etc., is an essential ingredient of the offense.

For act permitting the issuance of script in Currituck county, see Public Laws 1933, c. 328. For act authorizing issuance of script in Cumberland county, see Acts of 1933, c. 33.

§ 4184. Receiving or passing unauthorized substitutes for money.—If any person or corporation shall pass or receive, as the representative of, or as the substitute for, money, any bill, check, certificate, promissory note, or other security of the kind mentioned in the preceding section, whether the same be issued within or without the state, such person or corporation, and the officers and agents of such corporation aiding therein, who shall offend against this section shall for every such offense forfeit and pay five dollars, and shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. (Rev., s. 3712; Code, s. 2494; 1895, c. 127; R. C., c. 36, s. 6.)

Editor's Note.—In State v. Bank, 48 N. C. 450, it was held that this section making it an offense to "pass and receive" banknotes, did not apply to a bank but that the bank should be penalized under another section which made it unlawful to make and issue notes of a less denomination than three dollars.

SUBCHAPTER 3. OFFENSES AGAINST THE ELECTIVE FRANCHISE

Art. 5. Corrupt Practices at Elections

§ 4185. Certain acts declared misdemeanors.—Any person who shall in connection with any primary, special, general or other election in this state do any of the acts and things declared in this section to be unlawful shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and, upon conviction, shall be fined or imprisoned, or both, in the discretion of the court. It shall be unlawful—

1. To Fail as Election Officer to Perform Duties.—For any person to fail as an officer or as a judge or registrar of election, or as a member of any election or canvassing board, to prepare the books, tickets and return blanks which it is his duty under the law to prepare, or to distribute the same as required by law, or to make the returns, or to perform any other duty within the time and in the manner required by law. (Rev., s. 3396; 1901, c. 89, s. 46; 1913, c. 164, s. 1.)

2. To Act as Election Officer aft r Removal.—For any person to continue, or attempt, to act as a judge or registrar of election, or as a member of any election board, after having been legally removed from such position, and after having been given notice of such removal. (Rev., s. 3399; 1901, c. 89, s. 10; 1919, c. 164, s. 1.)

3. To Interfere with Elections and Duties of Election Officers.—For any person to break up, or by force or violence to stay or interfere with, the holding of any election, to interfere with the possession of any ballot box, election book, ticket or return sheet by those entitled to the possession of the same under the law, or interfere in any manner with the performance of any duty imposed by law upon any election officer or member of any election or canvassing board. (Rev., s. 3385; 1901, c. 89, s. 51; 1913, c. 164, s. 1.)

4. To Disturb Election Officers in the Performance of Their Duties.—For any person to be guilty of boisterous conduct so as to disturb any member of any election or canvassing board, or any judge or registrar of elections, in the performance of his duties as imposed by law. (Rev., s. 3385; 1901, c. 89, s. 51; 1913, c. 164, s. 1.)

5. To Bet on Elections.—For any person to bet or wager any money or other thing of value on any election. (Rev., s. 3384; 1901, c. 89, s. 55; 1913, c. 164, s. 1.)

In General.—Prior to the passage of this section it was held that a bond, given for money lost upon a wager in the result of a public election, though neither of the parties be a voter, is based upon an illegal consideration, being against public policy, and is therefore void. Bettis v. Reynolds, 34 N. C. 344.

6. To Intimidate or Oppress Voters.—For any person to directly or indirectly discharge or threaten to discharge from employment or otherwise intimidate or oppress any legally qualified voter on account of any vote such voter may cast or consider casting, or intend to cast or not to cast, or which he may have failed to cast. (Rev., s. 3387; 1901, c. 89, s. 53; 1913, c. 164, s. 1.)

Strict Construction.—This section being penal, must be construed strictly, not by implication or otherwise than by its strict words and plain signification. State v. Rogers, 128 N. C. 576, 38 S. E. 34.

Expulsion from Church Not Included.—Under this section the expulsion of a person from a church because he voted a certain ticket is not punishable. State v. Rogers, 128 N. C. 576, 38 S. E. 34.

7. To Make Contributions Toward Campaigns Without Properly Reporting Same.—For any person to spend or contribute directly or indirectly any money or other thing of value to aid in the campaign or election of any candidate for any office in a primary or in a general election, unless the same be reported immediately to such candidate, to the end that it may be included by him in the reports required of him by law, or unless such contribution be reported to the campaign committee of such candidate within the meaning of "campaign committee" as herein defined. The term "campaign committee," as used in this subsection, shall embrace only such committees as are designated by candidates for office before primary elections and reported to the secretary of state at least thirty days before any such primary election by those who are candidates for any office embracing a greater territory than a county, and reported to the clerk of the superior court in any county of the candidate at least thirty days prior to the primary election by those who are candidates for any office to be voted for only by the electors in a particular county or subdivision thereof. It shall be the duty of each candidate to receive from such campaign committee, and of each campaign committee of each candidate to give to the candidate appointing such committee, all the information they may have, and for such campaign committee and candidate to embrace such information in the reports required of them by law, and it shall be unlawful for the candidate and the members of his campaign committee to fail to do so. (1913, c. 164, s. 1.)

8. To Fail Before Primary Elections to Report Campaign Receipts and Disbursements.—For any person who is a candidate or member of the campaign committee to fail to report under oath within the time required by law for the report from such candidate, the amount of money received in connection with or in aid of his campaign, the sources thereof, and for what purposes it has been applied. The report to be made by the campaign committee of any candidate before the primary shall be made in duplicate, one copy thereof to be filed with the candidate and one copy to be filed with the officer to whom such candidate is required to report, and shall be made within the time required for a report from such candidate. (1913, c. 164, s. 1.)

9. To Expend More Than a Certain Sum for Campaign Purposes before Primary Elections.—For any person who is a candidate for any political office before a primary to expend or knowingly assent to or permit the expenditure of more than fifty per cent of what the annual salary of such person will be if elected to the office for which he is a candidate, except that a candidate for governor and a candidate for the United States senate may spend or allow others to spend a total amount, which shall not be greater than the annual salary would be if the candidate were elected to such office, and such candidate may lawfully pay in addition his transportation expenses and board and lodging bills while campaigning for such office. (1913, c. 164, s. 1.)

10. To Fail before General Elections to Report Campaign Receipts and Disbursements.—For any person who is a member of any executive, managing or other committee of any political party for any county or subdivision of any county in the state, to fail to report to the clerk of the court of such county, not more than fifteen nor less than ten days before any general election, the amount of money received by such committee for campaign purposes, and within twenty days after the election to make a similar report of money received and from whom, and the purposes for which it was used, such report to be made under oath by the secretary or chairman of the committee who has full knowledge of all the details of the committee's affairs; or for any chairman or secretary of such committee of a political party having a territory embracing more than one county to fail to make, within the time required by law, similar reports to the secretary of state. (1913, c. 164, s. 1.)

11. To Publish Unsigned Derogatory Changes Concerning Candidates.—For any person to publish in any newspaper or pamphlet, or otherwise, any change derogatory to any candidate, or calculated to affect the candidate's chances of election to office, unless such publication be signed by the party giving publicity to and being responsible for such charge. (1913, c. 164, s. 1.)
